After suffering from FEVER FOUR TIMES, in each attack with very great severity—in fact, three of them could not have been more dangerous or critical—from a very extensive and careful observation, extending over a period of forty years, I am perfectly satisfied the "true cause" of fever is a disordered condition of the liver. The office of the liver is to cleanse the blood as a scavenger might sweep the streets. When the liver is not working properly a quantity of effete matter is left floating in the blood. Under these circumstances, should the poison germ of fever be absorbed then the disease results; on the contrary, anyone whose liver and other organs are in a normal condition may be subjected to precisely the same conditions as to the contagious influences and yet escape the fever. This, I consider, explains satisfactorily the seeming mystery that some persons who are placed in circumstance peculiarly favourable for the development of fever, who, in fact, live in the very midst of it, escape unscathed. This being the case, the importance of keeping the liver in order cannot be over-estimated; and I have pleasure in directing attention to my FRUIT SALT, which, in the form of a pleasant beverage, will correct the action of the liver, and thus prevent the many disastrous consequences; not only as an efficient means of warding off fevers and malarious diseases, but as a remedy for, and preventive of, bilious or sick headaches, constipation, vomiting, thirst, errors of eating and drinking, skin eruptions, giddiness, heartburn, &c. If its great value in keeping the body in health was universally known, no family would be without a supply. In many forms of fever, or at the commencement of any fever, ENO'S FRUIT SALT acts as a specific. No one can have a simpler or more efficient remedy; by its use the poison is thrown off and the blood restored to its healthy condition. I used my FRUIT SALT freely in my last attack of fever, and I have every reason to say it saved my life.
J. C. ENO, Hatcham Fruit Salt Works, S.E.

CYPRUS.

TO EUROPEANS who propose RESIDING in or VISITING HOT CLIMATES, I consider the FRUIT SALT to be an indispensable necessary; for by its use the system is relieved of poisonous matter, the result of eating to nearly the same extent, and of too rich food, as they do in a colder country, while so much heat-making food is not required in the warmer climate. By keeping the system clear, the FRUIT SALT will take away the ground work of malarious diseases and all liver complaints, and neutralises poisonous matter. Out of a large number of Testimonials, we select the following:—

ENO'S FRUIT SALT.
IMPORTANT TO ALL TRAVELLERS.
"Please send me half a dozen bottles of ENO'S FRUIT SALT. I and on the Continent for almost every complaint, fever included, with the most satisfactory results. I can strongly recommend it to all travellers; in fact, I am never without it.—Yours, faithfully, AN ENGLISHMAN, F.R.G.S., M.R.A.S., &c., Executive Engineer, P.W.D., Government of India, June 26, 1878."

ENO'S FRUIT SALT.
A Gentleman writes:—"I feel quite certain, if your FRUIT SALT was only known in INDIA and the COLONIES that the sale would not be limited to thousands of bottles per annum, but many millions. India alone would use more than all England."

ENO'S FRUIT SALT.
A.M.D. (Edinb.) and M.R.C.S., L.A.C., London, writes:—"I am much pleased with your FRUIT SALT, having tried it on myself. Your theory and remarks are most reasonable. Having nearly died of Typhoid, when studying at College, being the only one out of sixteen who recovered, I mean to go in well for purifying the blood. Though I am sixty-three, I have not the least doubt it will be very serviceable to me."

ENO'S FRUIT SALT.
A Gentleman states:—"In cases of bilious headaches, followed by severe attacks of fever, ENO'S FRUIT SALT has effected by severe attacks of fever, ENO'S FRUIT SALT has acted like a charm, when all other treatment failed. The day is not far distant when the neglect of its use in all fevers and diseases resulting from poisoned blood will be considered criminal." See "Stomach and its Trials," tenth edition, post-free 14 stamps.

ENO'S FRUIT SALT.
"I have used your FRUIT SALT for many years, and have verified the statement that it is not only refreshing and invigorating, but also invaluable, as giving speedy relief in cases of heartburn, sourness of the stomach, and constipation, and its great evils. The thanks of the public are due to you for your unceasing efforts to relieve suffering humanity. Long may you live to be a blessing to the world."—R. Hunter, Ph.D., Vicar of Colleby, St. Thomas Vicarage, Annfield Plain, Lintz Green, Co. Durham, March, 1878.

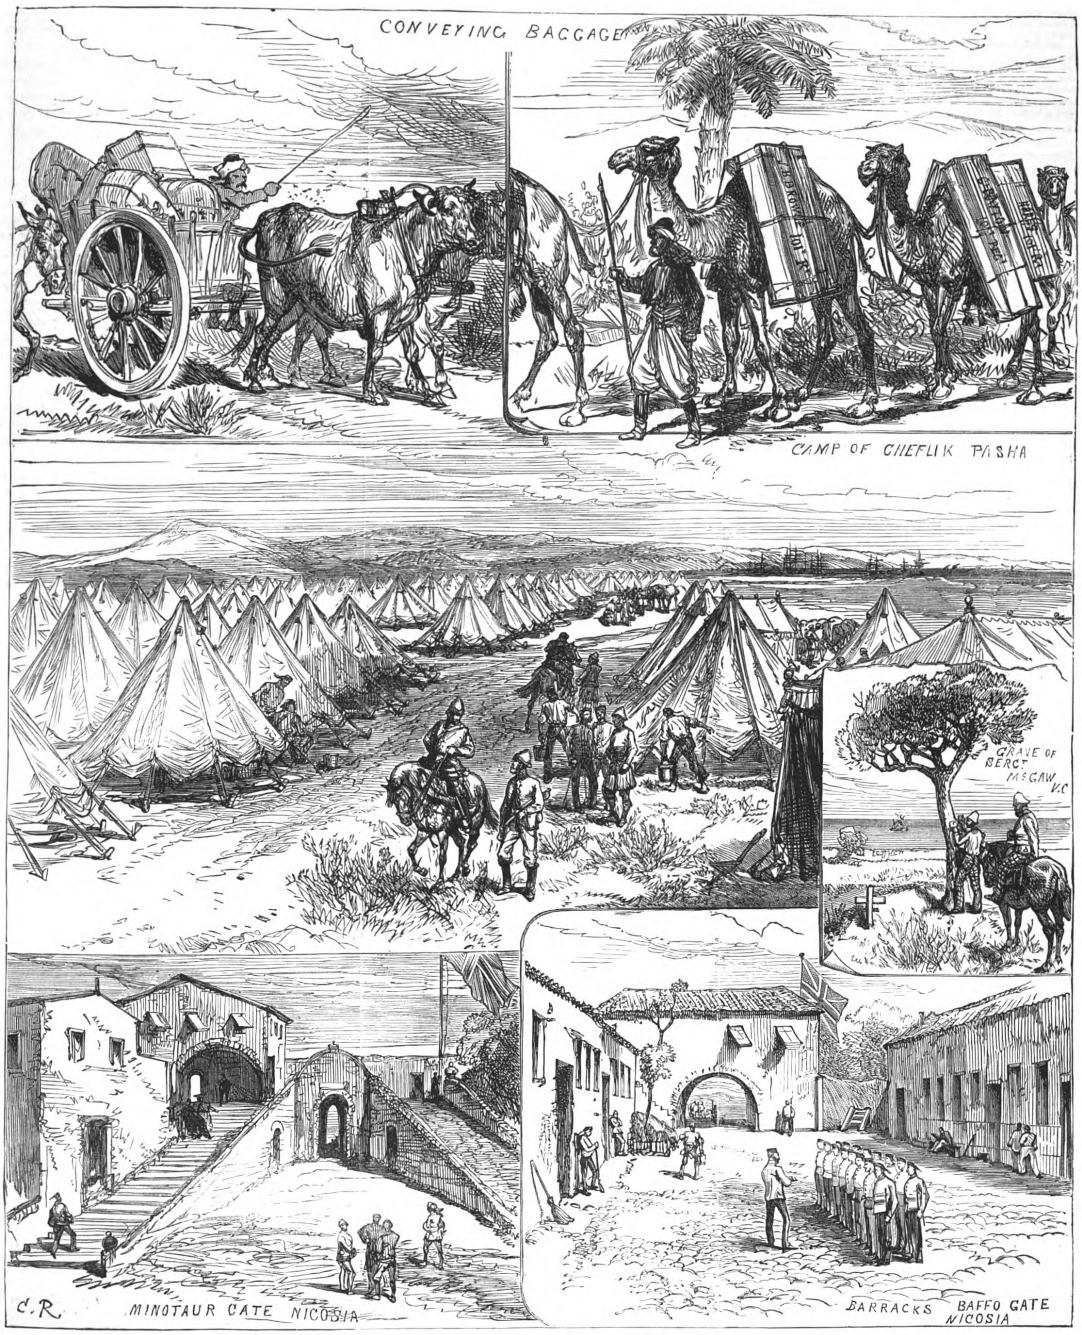
ENO'S FRUIT SALT.
"Rosina Cottage, Ventnor, Isle of Wight, Jan. 29, 1877.
"Mr. Eno,—Dear Sir,—The effects in my case are astonishing, as I am constitutionally bilious, and am now fifty-two years of age. My mother and youngest sister were never cured of sickness (biliousness seems hereditary), and I quite expect to share like them for the rest of my life. I am now taking my fourth bottle, and was joined in the others by some members of my family, so that I have taken scarcely three bottles. I feel I ought to make some acknowledgment, so trust you will excuse this.—Yours sincerely, ELIZA PELLING."

ENO'S FRUIT SALT.
A Lady writes:—"Everything, medicine or food, ceased to act properly for at least three months before I commenced taking it. The little food I could take generally punished me severely, and I was reduced to a mere shadow, so that I must or returned. My life was one of great suffering, so that I have succumbed before long. To me and our family it has been a great earthly blessing."

ENO'S FRUIT SALT.
It is essential to the healthy action of the animal economy. You cannot overstate its value. On that account no bed-room or travelling-trunk ought to be without it, in readiness for any emergency.

ENO'S FRUIT SALT.
HOW TO AVOID THE INJURIOUS EFFECTS OF STIMULANTS.—The present system of living—partaking of too rich foods, as pastry, saccharine and fatty substances, alcoholic drinks, and an insufficient amount of exercise—frequently develops a disordered state of the blood, which, in many cases, ranges the liver. I would advise all bilious people, who are careful to keep the liver acting freely, to exercise great care in the use of alcoholic drinks, avoid sugar, and always dilute largely with water. Experience shows that porter, mild ale, port wine, dark sherries, sweet champagne, liqueurs, and brandy are all very apt to disagree: while light white wines, when not objectionable, whisky largely diluted, will be found the least objectionable. ENO'S FRUIT SALT is peculiarly adapted for any constitutional weakness of the liver; it possesses the power of reparation when digestion has been disturbed or lost, and places the invalid on the right track to health. A world of woes is avoided by those who keep and use ENO'S FRUIT SALT; therefore no family should ever be without it.

ENO'S FRUIT SALT.
FOR BILIOUSNESS OR SICK HEADACHE, GIDDINESS, DEPRESSION OF SPIRITS, SLUGGISH LIVER, VOMITING, SOURNESS OF THE STOMACH, CONSTIPATION AND ITS SOUR FEELS, IMPURE BLOOD, SKIN ERUPTIONS AND DISEASES, &c., ENO'S FRUIT SALT is the simplest and best remedy yet introduced. It removes, by a natural means, effete matter or poison from the blood, thereby preventing and curing Fevers, Scarlet, Skin, and counteracts any errors of EATING and DRINKING, or any sudden affliction or mental stress, and prevents DIARRHŒA. It is a pleasant beverage, which supplies the want of ripe fruit, may be taken as an invigorating and cooling draught under any circumstances, from infancy to old age, and may be continued for any length of time, and looked upon as being a simple product of fruit. By its use many diseases recently may be entirely prevented. IN THE NURSERY IT IS BEYOND PRAISE.



CAUTION.—Examine each Bottle and see the Capsule is marked "ENO'S FRUIT SALT." Without it you have been imposed on by a worthless imitation. SOLD BY ALL CHEMISTS. Price 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d.
Fruit Salt Works, Hatcham, S.E.

LONDON: Printed and Published at the Office, 198, Strand, in the Parish of St. Clement Danes, in the County of Middlesex, by GEORGE C. LEIGHTON, 198, Strand, aforesaid.—SATURDAY, AUGUST 10, 1878.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS

REGISTERED AT THE GENERAL POST-OFFICE FOR TRANSMISSION ABROAD.

No. 2042.—VOL. LXXIII. SATURDAY, AUGUST 17, 1878. WITH SUPPLEMENT AND COLOURED PICTURE } SIXPENCE. By Post, 6½d.

SKETCHES OF THE BRITISH OCCUPATION OF CYPRUS.

BIRTHS.

On the 7th inst., at Tandridge Court, the Countess of Cottenham, of a daughter.

On the 3rd inst., at The Gerwyn, near Wrexham, the Lady Georgiana Peel, of a daughter.

On the 9th inst., at Mote Park, Roscommon, the Hon. Mrs. Dillon, of a daughter.

On the 11th inst., at Montretout, Cowes, Isle of Wight, the Countess of Gosford, of a daughter.

On the 26th ult., at Rothesay, New Brunswick, the wife Thomas Slead, Esq., of a son.

On the 10th inst., at 3, Beaufort-gardens, S.W., the wife of Colonel Sir Francis Festing, of a son.

MARRIAGES.

On the 13th inst., in the Chapel Royal, Savoy, by the Right Rev. the Lord Bishop of Nebraska, U.S.A., assisted by the Rev. Henry White, M.A., Chaplain of the Savoy and Chaplain-in-Ordinary to the Queen, Frederick Wesson, Esq., of Brooklyn, New York, to Jeannie L. Mills, eldest daughter of the Right Rev. the Lord Bishop of Long Island, U.S.A.

On the 30th ult., in Aughrim Church, Frederick Netterville La Poer Trench, barrister, of 7, Hatch-street, Dublin, only surviving son of the late Rear-Admiral the Hon. William Le Poer Trench, of Ballinasloe, to Sarah Frances, second daughter of the Rev. John F. T. Cramptoa, Rector of Aughrim, Rural Dean and Prebendary of Kilteskill.

On the 13th inst., at Holy Trinity Church, Richmond, Arthur Edward Hight, F.W.D., India, to Violet Amy Cottrell, elder daughter of the late Count Cottrell, Chamberlain to the Duke of Lucca.

On the 8th inst., at Aldershott, the Rev. A. West, M.A., to Hilda, youngest daughter of the late Sir J. R. Crewe, C.B., H.B.M.'s Consul-General for Norway.

On the 10th inst., at St. Mary's Church, Cadogan-terrace, Le Comte de Lasteyrie, only son of Le Marquis de Lasteyrie, to Olivia Elizabeth, youngest daughter of the late Thomas Mills Goodlake, Esq., of Wadley, Berks.

DEATHS.

On the 4th inst., at New Brighton, Sir Stapleton Thomas Mainwaring, Bart., of Peover Hall, Knutsford, aged 41.

On the 8th inst., at Merrion-square East, Dublin, Sir J. Ennis, Bart., aged 79. R.I.P.

On the 23rd ult., suddenly, at Cacouna, near Quebec, E. S. Freer, Esq., barrister, of the Inner Temple, and for some time Postmaster of Montreal, Canada, eldest son of the late Captain N. Freer, Military Secretary to Sir G. Prevost, K.C.B., and late Manager of the Quebec Bank, aged 74.

On the 27th ult., at Rangoon, Burmah (while in command of the I. G. S. Irrawaddy), of cholera, after a few hours' illness, the Hon. Captain E. M. D. Browne, R.N., son of the late and brother to the present Lord Kilmaine, in his 34th year.

On the 15th inst., of dropsy, Martha, wife of B. H. Hickey, of 397, Fulham-road, S.W., aged 63 years.

 The charge for the insertion of Births, Marriages, or Deaths is Five Shillings for each insertion.

CALENDAR FOR THE WEEK ENDING AUGUST 24.

SUNDAY, Aug. 18.

Ninth Sunday after Trinity.
Emperor of Austria, born, 1830.
Morning Lessons: 1 Kings x. to 25; Rom. xv. 8. Evening Lessons: 1 Kings xi. to 15 or xi. 26; Matt. xxvi. to 31.
St. Paul's Cathedral, 10.30 a.m., Bishop Anderson; 3.15 p.m., the Bishop of Pittsburgh; 7 p.m. Rev. C. G. Williamson, Curate of All Souls', Marylebone.
Westminster Abbey, 10 a.m., Bishop of Barbadoes, and 3 p.m., Canon Farrar, D.D.
St. James's, noon, Rev. Francis Garden, Sub-Dean of the Chapels Royal.
Whitehall, 11 a.m. and 3 p.m., Rev. W. Hulton.
Savoy, 11.30 a.m., the Bishop of Pittsburg, Dr. Kerfoot; 7 p.m., Rev. T. Teignmouth Shore, Incumbent of Berkeley Chapel, Mayfair.
British Association at Dublin: Special Services at the Cathedrals, the Chapel Royal, and other churches.

MONDAY, Aug. 19.

British Archæological Association: Congress at Wisbech (till the 27th); Address by the President, the Earl of Hardwicke, at the Council Chamber, 2 p.m.; dinner in the Public Hall, 7 p.m.
Yachting: Hammersmith Sailing Club; Royal Albert Yacht Club Regatta, Southsea (3 days); Curlingford Lough Regatta (3 days).
British Association, Dublin: Breakfast at Zoological Society's Gardens; Meeting of Sections, 11 a.m.; General Committee to Elect Officers, &c., 3 p.m.; Discourse by Professor James Dewar on Dissociation in Modern Ideas of Chemical Action, 8.30 p.m.
Rowing: Berwick, Queenstown, Brighton Regattas.

TUESDAY, Aug. 20.

Blackcock shooting begins.
Horticultural Society, fruit and floral committees, 11 a.m.; scientific, 1 p.m.; general meeting, 3 p.m.
Humane Society, committee, 4 p.m.
Yachting: Royal Channel Islands Yacht Club Regatta, Guernsey.
British Association, Dublin, meeting of sections, 11 a.m.; soirée by the Royal Irish Academy, at the Mansion House, 8 p.m.
British Archæological Association at Wisbech: Excursion to Ely Cathedral, &c., starting 9.27 a.m.

WEDNESDAY, Aug. 21.

Moon's last quarter, 4.8 a.m.
British Archæological Association at Wisbech: Excursion to Walsoken, Walton, Walpole, &c.; paper read by Sir Lewis Jarvis, at Middleton Towers, &c., 8 a.m.; evening meeting, at the Council Chamber, 8.30 p.m.
British Association, Dublin, concluding general meeting, 2.20 p.m.
Durham County Society's Show, South Shields (two days).
Yachting: Lowestoft Marine Regatta (two days).
Rowing: London Rowing Club (two days).

THURSDAY, Aug. 22.

British Association, Dublin.
British Archæological Association at Wisbech: Visit to King's Lynn and Sandringham, 9.30 a.m.; evening meeting at the Council Chamber, 8.30 p.m.
French Association for the Advancement of Science: Opening meeting at Paris, M. Frémy, president.
Penistone Agricultural, Horticultural, and Floral Society Show.
Oxford Races.

FRIDAY, Aug. 23.

British Archæological Association at Wisbech: Visit to Thorney, Crowland, Spalding, &c., 9.10 a.m.
Quekett Microscopical Club, 8 p.m.

SATURDAY, Aug. 24.

St. Bartholomew, the apostle and martyr.
British Archæological Association at Wisbech: Visit to Peterborough and Castor.
Holme Valley Hunt Horse Show Huddersfield.
Yachting: Torbay Royal Regatta (three days).
Athletic Sports: Stamford-bridge.

THE WEATHER.

RESULTS OF METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS AT THE KEW OBSERVATORY OF THE ROYAL SOCIETY.
Lat. 51° 28′ 6″ N.; Long. 0° 18′ 47″ W.; Height above Sea, 34 feet.

August	Day	Barometer Corrected.	Temperature of the Air.	Dew Point.	Relative Humidity.	Amount of Cloud.	Thermom. Max. 4 p.m.	Thermom. read at 10 p.m.	General Direction.	Movement in Miles from 10 a.m. to next morning.	Rain in 24 hours, 10 a.m. to next morning
		Inches.	°	°		0-10	°	°		Miles.	In.
	7	29·822	64·7	56·4	·75	5	73·1	58·7	SSW. SW.	284	0·000
	8	30·063	64·8	54·3	·70	5	74·4	57·9	SW. W.	190	0·000
	9	30·025	65·1	54·0	·69	6	76·0	54·4	WSW. S. SSE.	110	0·035
	10	29·641	63·6	61·3	·92	9	71·2	61·2	SE. SSW. WNW.	182	0·015
	11	29·169	61·9	51·9	·71	—	70·3	55·7	WNW. W. SW.	223	0·500
	12	29·56	61·0	57·5	·89	8	69·0	56·5	S. SW.	328	0·320
	13	29·622	62·0	52·9	·74	10	67·3	54·9	SW. SSW.	339	0·310

The following are the readings of the meteorological instruments for the above days, in order, at ten o'clock a.m.:—

Barometer (in inches) corrected	..	29·792	30·031	30·100	29·667	29·850	29·925	29·664
Temperature of Air	..	66·9°	67·8°	69·2°	66·2°	64·9°	64·3°	63·9°
Temperature of Evaporation	..	61·9°	61·5°	63·8°	63·8°	58·4°	61·8°	61·2°
Direction of Wind	..	SSW.	W.	S.	SE.	W.	SW.	SW.

TIMES OF HIGH WATER AT LONDON BRIDGE
FOR THE WEEK ENDING AUGUST 24.

Sunday.		Monday.		Tuesday.		Wednesday.		Thursday.		Friday.		Saturday.
M	A	M	A	M	A	M	A	M	A	M	A	M	A
h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m
4 21	5 6	5 17	5 32	6 4	6 16	6 25	6 46	7 13	7 42	8 17	9 0	9 57	10 55

THE ILLUSTRATED PARIS UNIVERSAL EXHIBITION.

An English Edition of

L'EXPOSITION UNIVERSELLE DE 1878 ILLUSTRÉE,

in continuation of the Illustrated Journal issued in 1867 under the authority of the Imperial Commission, is issued every Tuesday,

PRICE THREEPENCE.

PUBLISHED AT THE OFFICE OF

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS,

198, STRAND, LONDON.

All Country Orders to be supplied through the London Agents.

NOW READY.

VOL. LXXII. (JAN. 5 TO JUNE 29, 1878)

OF

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

Elegantly Bound in Cloth, Gilt Edges ... ... 20s. 0d.
Or in Paper Covers ... ... 15s. 0d.
Cases for binding the above ... ... 2s. 6d.
Reading-Case for Single Number ... ... 2s. 0d.
Portfolios for holding Six Months' Numbers ... ... 4s. 0d.
Office: 198, Strand.

DORÉ'S GREAT WORK, "THE BRAZEN SERPENT," "CHRIST LEAVING THE PRÆTORIUM," and "CHRIST ENTERING THE TEMPLE," each 33 ft. by 22 ft.; with "Dream of Pilate's Wife," "Soldiers of the Cross," &c., at the DORÉ GALLERY, 35, New Bond-street, W. Daily, 10 to 6. 1s.

ELIJAH WALTON.—EXHIBITION of ISLE OF WIGHT and other WATER-COLOUR DRAWINGS, chiefly Alpine and Eastern, NOW OPEN at BURLINGTON GALLERY, 191, Piccadilly. Ten till Six. Admission, including Catalogue, 1s.

CRYSTAL PALACE PICTURE-GALLERY. The GALLERY is now REOPENED for the Season with a NEW COLLECTION of BRITISH and FOREIGN PICTURES for SALE.—For Particulars, apply to Mr C. W. Wass, Crystal Palace.

ST. JAMES'S HALL, PICCADILLY. ALL THE YEAR ROUND EVERY NIGHT AT EIGHT. MONDAYS, WEDNESDAYS, SATURDAYS AT THREE AND EIGHT.

THE MOORE and BURGESS MINSTRELS. Fauteuils, 5s.; Sofa Stalls, 3s.; Area, Raised and Cushioned Seats, 2s.; Balcony, 1s. No fees. No charge for Programmes. Ladies can retain their bonnets in all parts of the Hall.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

LONDON: SATURDAY, AUGUST 17, 1878.

The Parliamentary Session of 1878 may now take its place in History along with its predecessors. It has been protracted beyond modern precedent. It has been laborious, yet comparatively unproductive of legislation. It will be judged of in coming times by other rules than those which have been customary—not by the number, the importance, or the fitness of the laws which it has passed, but by the modified influences upon the relation of the Crown to Parliament which, in reference to Imperial Policy, it has decidedly sanctioned. There is no sufficient reason for affirming that it has not accurately represented the opinion, or, perhaps, we may say the mood, of the country at large. How far that mood is likely to be transient, or how far permanent, it would be presumption to say. The Session, however, has been one of surprises, born of necessity it is contended, and we do not mean to challenge the assertion. The arduous and responsible task imposed upon her Majesty's Ministers by the delicate and even dangerous condition of European affairs was shrouded in secrecy. What they had to do had to be done, for the most part, we are told, in the dark. Confidently to uphold them was deemed to be the pressing duty of patriotism. The Session, consequently, will be hereafter criticised chiefly in accordance with the success or the failure which may follow upon the policy of the Government in their management of the Eastern Question, and upon the constitutional principles which in the pursuit of this policy their conduct has evolved. They are now, we need hardly say, in a triumphant position. The propriety, as well as wisdom, of what they have done has been steadily upheld by a majority of unprecedented strength. So far, therefore, as they are concerned, the close of the Session can hardly fail to have exceeded their most sanguine hopes. A stronger Government (for the time being) has never, perhaps, existed since the time of Pitt.

One almost wonders, considering the readiness with which both Lords and Commons assented to the movements of the Cabinet as they successively became known, and to the claims upon the Legislature which such movements enforced, that so little was done during the long Session in affairs of a domestic nature. We have, however, to bear in mind that where the chief interest of the nation is absorbed by one train of ideas, speculations, and hopes, it is almost impossible to throw into the treatment of other questions such an amount of energy as may suffice to dispose of them. It may be that, under the circumstances of the case, the leadership of the House of Commons was wanting in that virility required to enforce attention to unattractive business. Or it may be that such a Session as that just passed demanded a clearer conception of the lines of action to be taken in order to compress within a limited space as much progress as possible. Be the reason for it, however, what it may, the work done hardly corresponds with the labour which it cost. To be sure, there have been two sets of financial arrangements to go through, and, although the items of those arrangements were not always scrupulously discussed, more time than usual was necessarily given to votes of "supply" and of "ways and means." Even in ordinary times legislative business of this kind is both tedious and tardy, and there has been enough of it this Session to satisfy the most covetous capacity of financial members. But, after all, an immense amount of time seems to have been lost in a mistaken effort to drive on half a dozen measures abreast instead of in single file. And hence, towards the close of the allotted legislative period, many bills which had almost been nurtured into maturity had to be thrown over for want of opportunity to complete them. Clearly this is injudicious management, and we can only account for it by a suspicion that the competition of departments to push forward their respective measures threw embarrassment in the way of the leader of the House. In Parliament it is quite a mistake to put by unfinished measures, however advanced the stage they may have reached, for the sake of giving others a fair chance; and very much of the tact requisite for a successful dispatch of business is needed to determine which bills shall have precedence, when they shall be insisted upon, and in what order and at what risks they shall be submitted for debate. Nothing wastes so much time as well-intentioned muddle, and nothing is more discouraging to those members who conscientiously seek to satisfy their sense of responsibility than that confusion of arrangement which prevents them from knowing precisely where they are and what they have to do.

History, however, as we have intimated, will assign its character to the Parliamentary Session of 1878, not on account of the laws which it has placed upon the statute-book, but chiefly on account of the Foreign policy it has approved. The debates upon that policy have not been very many, nor, perhaps, can it be said, with the exception of the last, have they exhibited either originality of view or brilliancy of expression. How could they? The materials were wanting. Most of the information available was "hearsay" only. The actual situation was usually shifted so unexpectedly and rapidly that whilst one condition of affairs was being discussed by Parliament another might have been entered upon and concluded by the Government. Even that which was known usually pointed to a future which was unknown, but which would give to it all its significance. There never seemed to be a staple platform for earnest debate until after the conclusion of the Berlin Congress. It would be unreasonable to expect clear guidance from even the most perspicacious statesman whilst everything was thus shifting from week to week. It is not certain, however, that the constituencies objected to this somewhat perplexing mode of procedure. It will be seen at the next General Election, but not before then, to what extent they have adopted the new phase of Foreign policy which tends to develop the Empire into proportions that may speedily overshadow the Kingdom. We need not venture upon any prediction with regard to this. We confess ourselves unqualified to pronounce any definite opinion upon it. It may be that we are just entering upon a new and a much larger sphere of enterprise, responsibility, and obligation; it may be that large sacrifices will be called for by events which in their course will prove to be irresistible; and it may be that the stored-up powers and enormous wealth of this country can best be utilised by concentrated Imperial authority. That, however, is a question not yet to be taken for granted. There are dangers along that path which cannot be avoided, and there may be at the end of it disastrous results which none would approach with their eyes open. At all events, the present mood of England seems to be to occupy a higher and more influential position in regard to nations of the East, and that mood has been rather vividly expressed by the House of Commons. Whether for weal or woe, the majority of its members have pronounced judgment—not irrevocable, it is true, but deliberate and unmistakable. Public opinion is liable to change, and public opinion will, we may be confident, conform in the main to ascertained facts. But one thing appears to us to be incontestable. The Session of 1878 will have that place awarded to it in History which will be determined for it by the eventual success, or the failure, of the arrangements on the Eastern Question to which it has so unequivocally pledged its credit.

Lieutenant-General Prince Edward of Saxe-Weimar, C.B., has been appointed to succeed General Sir John Garvock, K.C.B., in the command of the Southern District at Portsmouth.

The King of Siam is about to be invested with the Grand Cross of the Order of St. Michael and St. George; and the insignia has been dispatched from England, with directions to Sir William Robinson, Governor of the Straits Settlements, to visit Bangkok and make the investiture.

The Gazette announces the appointment of Mr. George Hugh Wyndham, C.B., now Secretary to her Majesty's Legation at Athens, to be Secretary to her Majesty's Legation at Madrid; of Mr. Augustus Henry Mounsey, now Secretary to her Majesty's Legation at Yeddo, to be Secretary to her Majesty's Legation at Athens; of Mr. John Gordon Kennedy to be Secretary to her Majesty's Legation at Yeddo; and of Mr. Dudley Edward Saurin, now a Second Secretary in her Majesty's Diplomatic Service, to be Secretary to her Majesty's Legation at Lisbon.

Tuesday's Gazette contains the official announcement of the appointment of Sir Henry Drummond Wolff to be her Majesty's Commissioner on the European Commission for the organisation of Eastern Roumelia, under the 18th article of the Treaty of Berlin. The Earl of Donoughmore has been appointed Assistant British Commissioner for the organisation of Eastern Roumelia. Sir H. Drummond Wolff, M.P., has been appointed a Knight Grand Cross of the Order of St. Michael and St. George. Captain A. B. Haig, R.E., has been appointed a Companion of the same order.

THE COURT.

The Queen and Princess Beatrice drove through Newport and Cowes yesterday week. The Princess of Wales, with Princes Albert Victor and George, and Princesses Louise, Victoria, and Maud of Wales, visited her Majesty at Osborne, and remained to luncheon. Prince Leopold went out in the Alberta.

Viscount Barrington, Vice-Chamberlain, arrived at Osborne on Saturday last, and presented an address to her Majesty from the House of Commons. The Rev. J. and Lady Florence Blunt also arrived. The Queen's dinner party included Princess Beatrice, Prince Leopold, Lady Abercromby, the Rev. J. and Lady Florence Blunt, General the Right Hon. Sir Thomas and the Hon. Lady Biddulph, and Viscount Barrington.

Her Majesty, Princess Beatrice, and Prince Leopold attended Divine service on Sunday, performed at Osborne by the Rev. J. St. John Blunt.

The Queen's dinner party on Monday included Princess Beatrice, Prince Leopold, Lady Abercromby, the Earl and Countess of Wilton, Lord and Lady Colville of Culross, Rear-Admiral the Hon. F. Foley, and Lieutenant-General Ponsonby.

Her Majesty reviewed the Fleet assembled at Spithead on Tuesday. The Queen, accompanied by the Prince and Princess of Wales, Princess Beatrice, the Duke of Connaught, Princes Albert Victor and George, and Princesses Louise, Victoria, and Maud of Wales, embarked on board the Royal yacht Victoria and Albert, Captain Thomson, in Osborne Bay; Prince Leopold embarked on board her Majesty's yacht Alberta. The Right Hon. W. H. Smith, M.P., First Lord of the Admiralty; Admiral Wellesley, C.B., First Naval Lord of the Admiralty; the Hon. A. F. Egerton, M.P., Secretary to the Admiralty; with Captain W. Codrington, Private Secretary to the First Lord, went on board the Royal yacht after her Majesty had embarked. Admiral of the Fleet the Hon. Sir Henry Keppel, First and Principal Naval Aide-de-Camp to the Queen, and Captain Hardinge, C.B., Naval Aide-de-Camp to her Majesty, were in attendance on board the Royal yacht, together with the ladies and gentlemen in waiting upon the Queen and the members of the Royal family. The Royal yacht proceeded towards the Fleet, followed by the Alberta, Elfin, Osborne, and Enchantress, and the ships, which were dressed in flags with yards manned, saluted her Majesty as she approached Spithead. The Queen reached the Fleet soon after four o'clock, and passed slowly through to the eastward, the crew of each ship cheering her Majesty. After passing through the Fleet the Royal yacht turned and again steamed slowly through between the ships, which were anchored in two lines, and the Fleet again saluted. Upon the return of the Victoria and Albert to Osborne Bay the Prince and Princess of Wales, with their family, left and embarked on board the Osborne, after which the Royal yacht steamed down the Solent towards Yarmouth. Her Majesty landed at Osborne at half-past seven o'clock. We intend to give some illustrations of the Naval Review next week, when we shall enter more into detail.

The Queen held a Council on Wednesday, at which were present the Duke of Richmond and Gordon, Prince Leopold, the Lord Chancellor, and the Duke of Northumberland. Mr. John A. Roebuck, M.P., was introduced and sworn in a member of the Privy Council. The Duke of Richmond and Gordon, the Lord Chancellor, and the Right Hon. J. A. Roebuck had audiences of her Majesty. Mr. Bunch, Minister to Venezuela, kissed hands on his appointment. Sir H. Drummond Wolff was introduced to an audience and kissed hands on his appointment as her Majesty's Commissioner on the European Commission for organising Eastern Roumelia; and Mr. James Oldknow (Mayor of Nottingham) was knighted.

Her Majesty, with Princess Beatrice, has take her usual daily out-of-door exercise; and the Princess has visited the Prince and Princess of Wales on board the Osborne.

Maria Marchioness of Ailesbury, General the Right Hon. Sir Thomas and Lady Biddulph, and Captain D'Arcy, H.M.S. Euryalus (guard-ship at Cowes), have dined with the Queen.

The Hon. Caroline Cavendish has succeeded the Hon. Amy Lambart as Maid of Honour in Waiting. Lieutenant-General Ponsonby has arrived, and Lord Frederick Kerr has left Osborne; and Major-General Gardiner has succeeded Colonel Du Plat as Equerry in Waiting to the Queen.

THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES.

The Prince and Princess, who have been passing the last fortnight on board the Royal yacht Osborne, off Cowes, visited Southampton on Monday, accompanied by their sons Princes Albert Victor and George, for the purpose of laying the dedication-stone of the parish church of St. Mary, Southampton, which the late Bishop of Winchester projected, his son, Canon Wilberforce, being the Rector. Their Royal Highnesses were received upon landing by the Mayor and Corporation, and were presented with an address, to which the Prince replied, expressing the pleasure it gave him to assist in raising a memorial, as this church was intended to be, to his lamented and valued friend the Bishop of Winchester. Upon arriving at the church the Royal visitors were received by the Bishop of Winchester, who assisted in the ceremonial. The Prince having laid the dedication-stone, various ladies and children passed before the Princess and laid purses on the stone The town was en fête, and the Hampshire Yeomanry Cavalry formed an escort to the Royal cortége on the route. The Prince and Princess were entertained at tea by Canon and Mrs. Wilberforce, after which they returned in the Prince's yacht to Cowes.

The Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh, with their children, have arrived at Coburg.

The Duke of Connaught went to the Folly Theatre on Monday evening. His Royal Highness will be present at the marriage of Prince Henry of the Netherlands with Princess Mary, eldest daughter of Prince Frederic Charles of Prussia at Potsdam, on the 24th inst.

The Duke of Cambridge arrived at Homburg on Saturday.

The Duke and Duchess of Teck left town on Saturday last for Cologne.

FASHIONABLE MARRIAGES.

The marriage of Mr. F. Weddon, of New York, to Mrs. Lillias Jennie Mills (widow of the late Mr. Mills, of Brooklyn, and daughter of the Bishop of Long Island, New York) was solemnised at the Chapel Royal, Savoy, on Tuesday. The service was choral. The Bishop of Nebraska, N.S., officiated, assisted by the Rev. H. White, Chaplain to her Majesty. The bride was given away by her father, Bishop Littlejohn.

Marriages are arranged between Sir Francis Stapleton, Bart., of Guy's Court, Oxfordshire, and Miss May Gladstone, youngest daughter of the late Mr. Adam Steuart Gladstone; and between Mr. William Wedderburn, of her Majesty's Indian Civil Service, younger son of the late Sir John Wedderburn, Bart., and Mary Blanche, only daughter of Mr. H. W. Hoskyns, of North Perrott Manor, Somerset.

Mr. John Arthur Roebuck, M.P., has been sworn a member of her Majesty's most Honourable Privy Council.

NATIONAL SPORTS.

Our readers will learn with deep regret that the veteran sportsman Mr. George Payne had a paralytic attack on Saturday last, and is lying at his house in London in a very critical state. The Prince of Wales, Prince Christian, and many of the leading members of the aristocracy have been unremitting in their sympathetic inquiries. At the time of writing there is no change in Mr. Payne's condition.

When the third day of Brighton Races was under the management of the club, the racing was seldom of a very interesting character; but this year, for the first time, it was in the same hands as on the Tuesday and Wednesday, and a great improvement was visible. Kineton, who has long been expected to do a good thing, gave Thunderstone a very hollow beating in the Stewards' Cup; indeed, the result would hardly have been altered had they met at level weights instead of the big chestnut attempting to concede 12 lb. A still greater surprise was in store in the Rous Stakes, in which the French colt Faisan, beautifully ridden by Fordham, cut down Dalham and Placida at weight for age. Dalham has always shown a marked dislike to this course, and the Oaks winner is not the mare she was last season: still Faisan's performance was a very meritorious one. A capital meeting was brought to a close with the Brighton Two-Year-Old Stakes, in which Alice Lorraine continued her winning career.

The next day a move was made to Lewes, where a fair, but not very important, programme was run through on the Friday The Astley Stakes, one of the most valuable races of the season for two-year-olds, brought out exactly a dozen competitors, of whom Radiancy and Ismael were made favourites, and backers were pretty right in their estimate, as the pair made a dead-heat for second place, finishing only a neck behind Marshal Scott, a son of Ethus and Persuasion, who ran in the colours of Mr. Ellam, his breeder. Muley Edris was also a good deal fancied, but could not concede the required weight to the leaders. Saturday's card was a great improvement on that of the previous day, and ended the Sussex fortnight with great éclat. Once more Trappist and Ecossais were pitted against each other, Preciosa also joining issue with them, in the County Cup. Trappist had to give 8 lb. to his old opponent, and, contrary to his usual tactics when riding Captain Prime's horse, Archer waited on Ecossais until approaching the distance, and then, leaving him without an effort, won by four lengths. Julius Cæsar (8 st. 12 lb.) and Rylstone (8 st. 2 lb.) were in equal favour for the Lewes Handicap, in which the former lay off for the greater part of the journey, and could never get on terms with Lord Hartington's filly, who repeated her victory of last year with ease, The Reeve (7 st. 1 lb.) being the only one that made anything of a fight with her. In the Priory Stakes Rayon d'Or conclusively turned the tables on White Poppy, but he failed to give 16 lb. to the filly by Victorious—Modena; and with this unhappy termination "plungers" took leave of the Sussex racecourses, which, pleasant enough in other respects, have certainly not helped them to retrieve their fallen fortunes.

A pleasant little fixture at Egham was wiped off the list of races to come on Tuesday and Wednesday; but when we have noted that St. Augustine seems to have recovered his form, and won the King John Stakes from a solitary opponent in something like his old style, we have written all that is needful.

The heavy rain that has recently fallen in different parts of the country has wrought a great change in cricketing affairs, long scores are at a premium, and the ball is at last having its full share of success. The Australians, for whom Gregory (70) and Boyle (58) batted splendidly, have beaten an Eighteen of the Stanley Club, Liverpool, in a single innings with 71 runs in hand, Spofforth and Garrett taking wicket after wicket in rare style. The Colonists could not have their match against Eighteen of Dudley, in which Boyle got rid of twelve men for 19 runs, had the weather been fine enough to play it out. Yorkshire v. Lancashire, in which the main feature was the fine batting of Ulyett (not out, 91), also ended in a draw, as did Surrey v. Middlesex, in which Messrs. J. Shuter (98), W. W. Read (80), and W. Lindsay (40), scored so freely for the former county, that it was hard to be deprived of an almost certain victory. There was no very heavy scoring in the contest between Gloucestershire and Notts, Mr. W. O. Moberley (52) heading the poll; but Mr. W. G. Grace's bowling was irresistible—he took eleven wickets for only 64 runs—and his county won by 109. In the match between Yorkshire and Sussex, the latter made a very melancholy show, being got rid off for 35 in the first, and 24 in the second innings; Emmett took ten wickets for 20 runs, and Bates, nine for 34. The only noteworthy performance with the bat was that of Hall (not out, 31 and 51), who seems likely to do good service for Yorkshire; Sussex was eventually beaten by 226 runs.

The weather was, on the whole, unfavourable on the Twelfth. The reports from the grouse moors seem, however, on the whole, satisfactory.

Deer-stalking in Braemar has begun, and the first stag of the season has fallen in Mar Forest. It was a splendid animal, and was killed by the Hon. G. Skene Duff.

At the annual meeting on Monday of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club, at the Club-house, Ryde (Sir R. Sutton, Bart., Vice-Commodore, in the chair), a letter was read from the Marquis of Exeter, resigning his office as Commodore of the club. This communication was received with regret by the whole body of the club, and a resolution was unanimously passed expressing a hope that his Lordship would reconsider his determination.—The regatta of the club was begun on Wednesday at Ryde with a race for the Town Cup, which was won by the Ada yacht, belonging to Mr. H. F. Barclay. This was a match for yachts of any rig belonging to a Royal Yacht Club; prize, the Ryde Town Cup, value £100. Starters:—Corisande, 153 tons, J. Richardson; Ada, 147, H. F. Barclay; Florinda, 138, W. Jessop; Miranda, 135, G. C. Lampson; Jullanar, 127, A. D. M'Leay; Vol-au-Vent, 104, Colonel Markham. Course, from off Ryde, round a mark-boat off Cowes, thence round a mark-boat near the Spit Fort, round the Nab Lightship, and back to Ryde, twice round. There was a strong westerly breeze blowing all day, and the race was, in consequence, a quickly sailed one. At ten o'clock the yachts started, all with single-reefed mainsails and housed topmasts. Florinda crossed the line first, but Vol-au-Vent and Ada were well up to windward of her, Jullanar being last. To the first mark-boat, on Old Castle Point, it was a close haul, and Ada, taking the lead, was first round, Vol-au-Vent being second. To the flag-boat off Spithead it was a run, small spinnakers being set at lower mast-heads. No change took place until after passing this mark, when Corisande got ahead of Vol-au-Vent, fouling her in doing so. At the Nab all had to gybe, and whilst Vol-au-Vent did so three men got overboard, but were all washed on board again. To the Noman it was a reach, and then a tack had to be made to weather the flag-boat off Ryde, Ada still leading, with Jullanar, which had passed Florinda and Vol-au-Vent, third boat. On the second round no change took place, Vol-au-Vent, which had been passed by the yawls, giving up, and a very quickly sailed race finished thus:—Ada, 3h. 10m. 12s.; Corisande, 3h. 13m. 12s.; Jullanar, 3h. 14m. 45s.; Florinda, 3h. 19m. 8s.; Miranda, 3h. 25m. 10s. Ada thus won from Jullanar by nearly a minute after allowing time for tonnage.—On Thursday the Corinne won the first prize for schooners, the Miranda taking the second; the Corinne winning by only 23 sec. For the Vice-Commodore's Prize, the Florinda takes the first and the Jullanar the second prize.

At the Royal Yacht Squadron Regatta yesterday week the race was for a prize of £100, for schooners of not less than thirty tons. The Corinne came in first, but the Miranda won by time allowance. Among the yachts racing was the Hildegarde, with the Prince of Wales on board.

The Cowes Regatta also took place yesterday week. For the £10 Cup Maggie, Mosquito, and Dolly Varden started, Maggie being the winner. Several rowing matches followed, besides various other aquatic amusements during the afternoon. The Princess of Wales and the Royal children honoured the festivities with their presence on the steam-launch of the Alberta, and were enthusiastically received both ashore and afloat. The Prince of Wales sailed on board his own yacht.

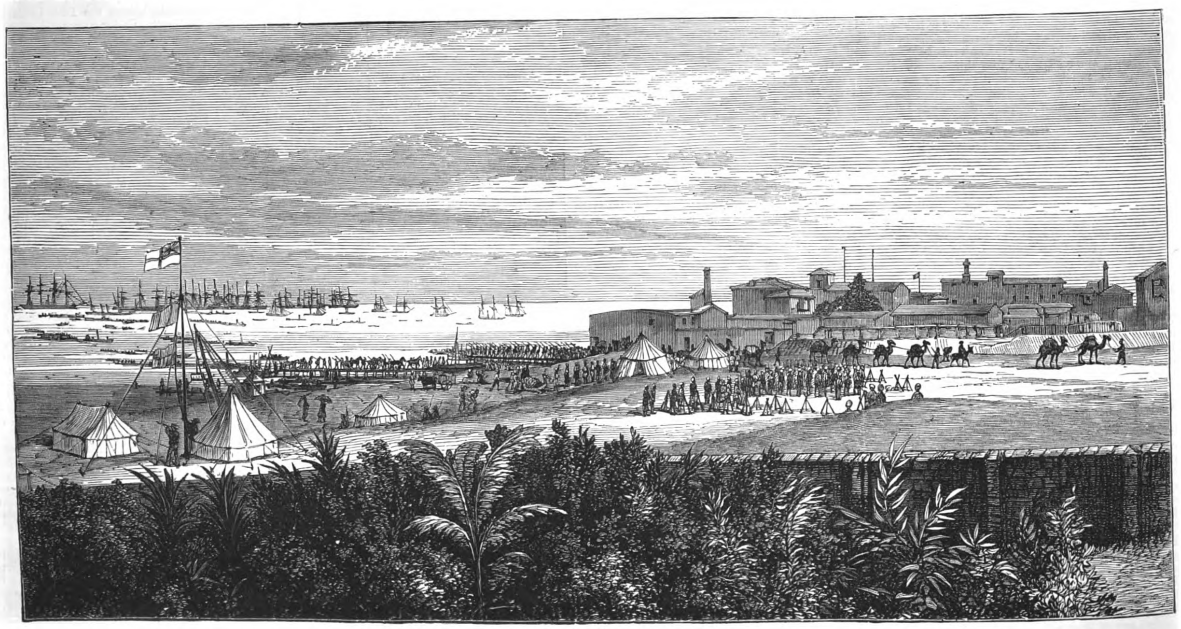
The Royal Southampton Yacht Club sailed two matches yesterday week, the result of which was that the Vol-au-Vent carried off an £80 prize, and the Neptune a £50 one. Saturday was the concluding day of this club. There were four matches—two for yawls and two for cutters. In the race for yawls under 30 tons only the Lizzie, 20 tons, R. Piffard, entered, so she was allowed to sail over the course and take the first prize, value £20. Two yachts contended for the £30 and £10 offered by the club for yawls under 41 tons—namely, Ellida, 41, J. D. Stainton, and Vega, 41, Captain N. D. Garrett. The course was twice round the Brambles, and Lepe Buoy; and, after a capital race in a nice topsail breeze, they finished as under:—Vega (winner of £30), 7h. 27 min. 30 sec.; Ellida (winner of £10), 7h. 29 min. 5 sec. There was also a race for ten-tonners: first prize (presented by T. Chamberlyne, Esq.), £10; second, £5. This brought out all the cracks—viz., Florence, Preciosa, Merle, Chip, Volga, Lily, and Mildred. The finish between Preciosa and Florence was most exciting, the latter only winning by a few seconds. The race terminated as under:—Florence, winner of £10, 3h. 14 min. 20 sec.; Preciosa, winner of £5, 3h. 14 min. 55 sec.; Merle, 3h. 19 min. 40 sec.; Chip, 3h. 21 min. 15 sec.; Volga, 3h. 22 min. 20 sec.; Lily, 3h. 32 min. 5 sec.; Mildred, 3h. 35 min. 55 sec. Florence flew nineteen racing flags when she brought up in the afternoon,

On Wednesday the Reading Regatta passed off successfully, prizes to the value of £132 being offered for competition.

On Saturday last the swimming championship of England at one mile was decided in the lake at the Crystal Palace, where a distance of 220 yards had to be traversed eight times. As was the case in the recent long race in the Thames, the contest really lay between H. Davenport, who has been champion ever since 1874, and G. Fearn, and, after a magnificent struggle all the way, the holder won by seven yards, in 31 min. 15 sec., the fastest time yet made in still water, and in swimming costume.

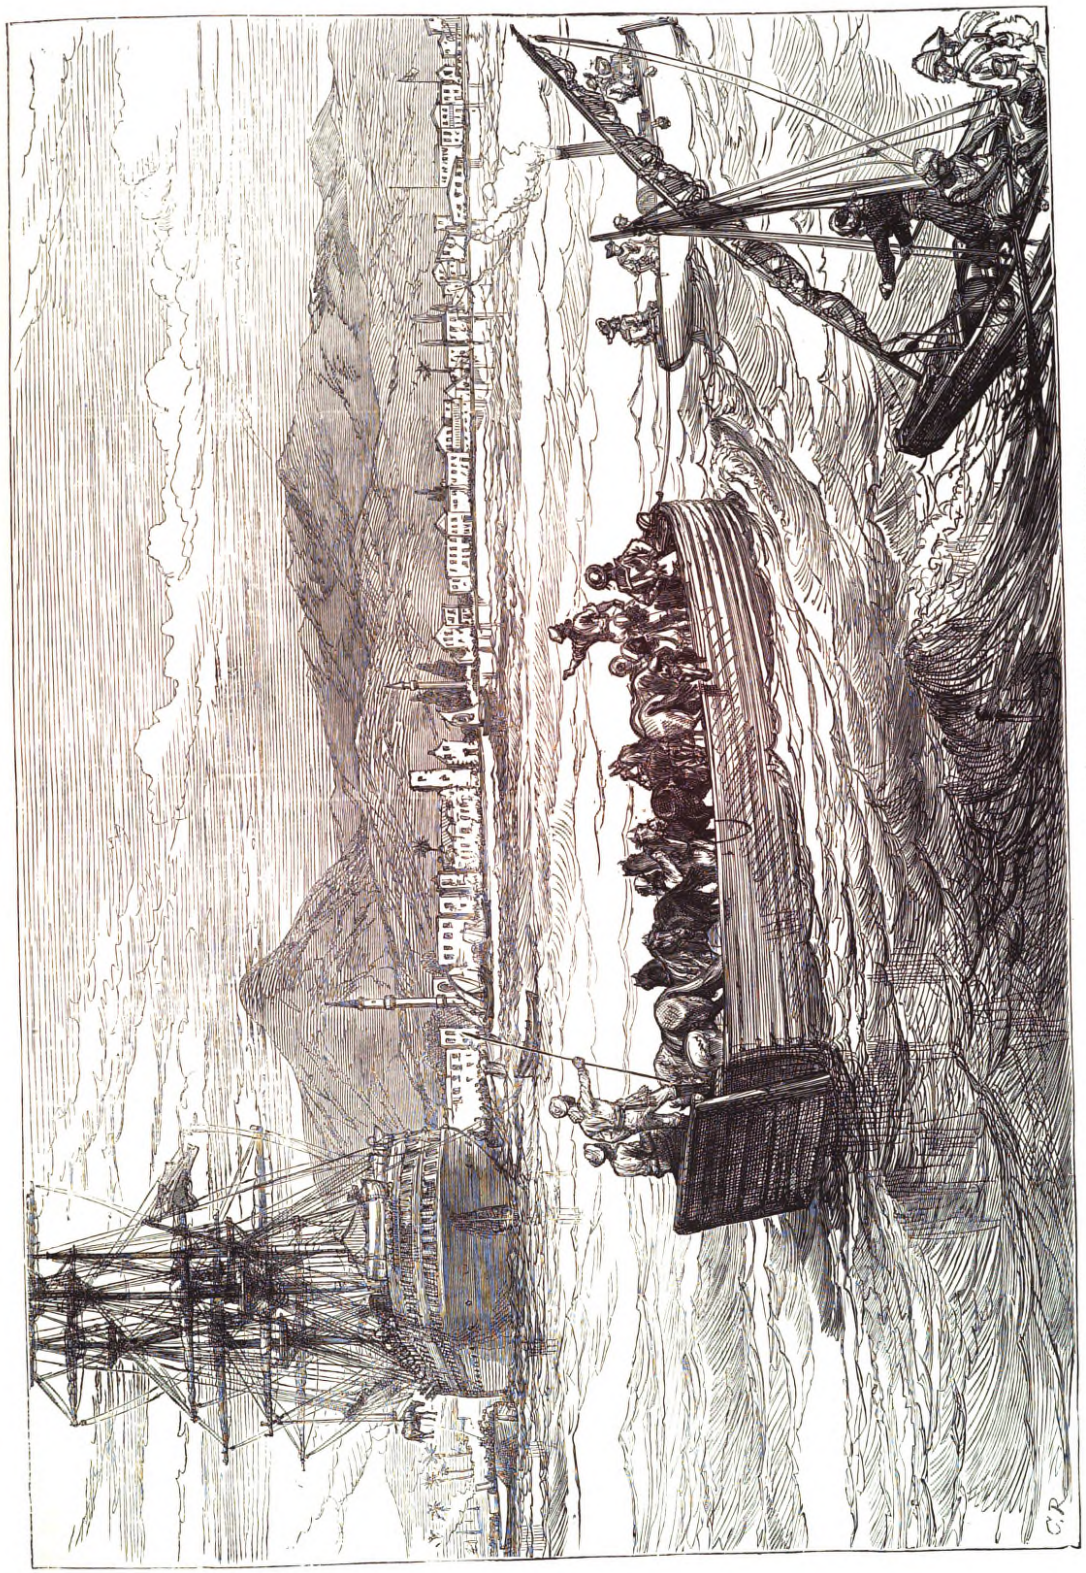
The banquet to John Higgins, champion sculler of England, was brought off last week with great success at the Alexandra Palace. Mr. Charles Bush was in the chair; and during the evening the project of a testimonial to Mr. John Ireland was mooted and warmly received by the company. For upwards of twenty years Mr. Ireland has acted as umpire at almost every important sculling-match, and has gained the complete confidence and respect of Northerners and Southerners alike.

THE AUSTRIAN ARMY IN BOSNIA.



The Portrait of General Baron Philippovich, Commander-in-Chief of the Austrian army of occupation in Bosnia and Herzegovina, appears in this Number of our Journal. It will be followed by Illustrations of the "military promenade," already threatening to be a serious campaign, in which the Imperial forces are now engaged in those provinces, so recently taken, by an arrangement of the Berlin Congress, from the government of the Sultan. Our Special Artist, Mr. J. Bell, who went through the first part of the campaign in Armenia last year, and was afterwards in Bulgaria with one of the Turkish armies there, has joined the Austrian head-quarters on the frontier of Bosnia; he has begun to furnish a series of Sketches, the first of which we shall prepare for our next publication. It was on the 1st inst. that the 18th Division of the Austrian army, from Dalmatia, under command of Field-Marshal Jovanovich, entered the territory of Herzegovina, and on the 5th it took possession of Mostar, the capital of that province; the advanced guard had met with some brief resistance on the day before at Citluk, from a band of Mussulman insurgents. The 13th Army Corps, under Baron Philippovich, had already crossed the Save at Brod, there entering into Bosnia, and was at Derbent on the 30th ult., when the Turkish officials and chief inhabitants of the place declared their submission to the authority of the Austrian Empire. But, on arriving at Maglai, in the valley of the river Boana, though offers of submission were readily made, an ambush was laid for the Austrian troops in a narrow defile between that town and Ziepce; they were assailed with a volley of musketry, and seventy were killed, mostly belonging to an advanced squadron of Hussars. The conflict lasted half an hour, and the enemy were driven off, but General Philippovich did not think fit to pursue them into the defile. His head-quarters are now at Zenica, where the main column of his forces arrived on Sunday last. On the previous day the Seventh Division occupied Travnik unopposed, where the two forces effected a junction. They have completely routed the enemy at Vranduk this week. The Twentieth Division last week had sharp conflicts to sustain at Tuzla, the insurgents in considerable numbers attacking them with guns. Though this part of the Austrian forces were successfully fighting their way forward, their commander, General Szapary, seeing their exhausted state and the difficulties attending the transport of supplies, and the hosts of insurgents opposed to him, thought good to retreat to Gracanica, which he reached on Monday. The late Turkish Governor, Hafiz Pasha, having gone from Serajevo to Busova, addressed a request to the Austrian Commander-in-Chief for a conference and safe conduct. The latter having been granted him, the interview may have already been held. Some Turkish troops to the number of 6000, which were stationed at Metrovich under the command of Ali Pasha, are reported to have embarked in ships of the Austrian Navy and the Lloyd's Company for an Albanian port.

Public opinion at Vienna now demands an increase of the Austrian military forces, in order that they may master as soon as possible the insurrection in Bosnia. The Archduke John Salvator has entered Banjaluka, the inhabitants having previously resolved to submit to the Austrian occupation. It is stated that there will presently be seven army divisions, with a total strength of 130,000 men, employed in Bosnia and Herzegovina.



There was a partial eclipse of the moon on Monday night, and it was visible until near the close.

GENERAL BARON PHILIPPOVICH, COMMANDER OF THE AUSTRIAN ARMY IN BOSNIA.

THE BRITISH OCCUPATION OF CYPRUS: LANDING-PLACE AND PIERS AT LARNACA, FROM THE HOUSE OF THE DUKE OF EDINBURGH.

THE BRITISH OCCUPATION OF CYPRUS: DISEMBARKING HORSES IN THE ROADSTEAD AT LARNACA.
A SKETCH BY OUR SPECIAL ARTIST.

FOREIGN AND COLONIAL NEWS.

FRANCE.

Marshal MacMahon returned to Paris yesterday week. He presided at a Council of Ministers on Saturday, and left again on Sunday for Trouville. The Marshal has paid a flying visit to Paris this week also.

Prince Hohenlohe, the German Ambassador, arrived at Paris on Sunday evening; the Grand Duke Constantine Nicolaivitch on Monday morning; and the two Princes of Coburg arrived on Tuesday.

General Fairchild has replaced General Torbert in the post of United States Consul in Paris.

The Minister of Public Instruction has decided, in principle, on the reconstruction of the Collége Louis-le-Grand, the buildings of which, in spite of some partial reparations, are literally falling to ruins.

The Archbishop of York and his family attended Christ Church, Neuilly, on Sunday. His Grace officiated at the holy communion, and after the service expressed to Miss Leigh his deep sympathy with her benevolent efforts and his satisfaction at the progress of the church and the heartiness of the service. The church was well filled. It is charmingly situated at a corner of the Boulevards Bineau and Eugène, where five avenues branch off to Neuilly, Courbevoie, Asnieres, Levallois-Perret, and Paris.

Mr. Philip Cunliffe Owen, C.B., was entertained to dinner at the Continental Hotel on Monday by the New South Wales Commission. The health of the guest was drunk with enthusiasm. In giving that of the Prince of Wales the chairman bore testimony to the distinguished services rendered by his Royal Highness. He had shown not only pluck and decision, but an earnest purpose by working as one of themselves, and had infused into all the Commissioners the same spirit that animated himself. The toast was received with demonstrations of the heartiest approval. In responding to that of his own health Mr. Cunliffe Owen made an eloquent speech, in which he did honour to the part taken by the Prince of Wales in the active work of the Exhibition, and to the excellent staff by whom he was surrounded.

The prizes of the International Exhibition will be distributed in the Palais de l'Industrie on Sept. 18, a few days after the grand military review at Vincennes.

M. Léon Say, the Minister of Finance, has been elected president of the International Monetary Conference, the first meeting of which was held on Saturday in one of the salons of the Foreign Office, Paris.

A proposed project of convention was read and adopted at the second meeting of the Franco-American Conference for the getting up of a commercial treaty between France and the United States.

The judgment of the Tribunal of Commerce which in the suit of M. Dreyfus condemned the Governor of the Crédit Foncier to distribute the dividend of 11f. voted at the meeting of shareholders, has been amended by a decision of the Court of Appeal on the ground of the incompetency of the Tribunal of Commerce. M. Dreyfus is ordered to pay the costs.

The strike of the Paris cabdrivers is at an end.

Further commutations or reductions of sentences passed on Communist prisoners, to the number of twenty-five, are officially announced.

ITALY.

Cardinal Nina, who is sixty-six years of age, and was only made a member of the Sacred College last year, has been appointed Pontifical State Secretary. He has addressed a circular to the Papal nuncios abroad announcing that he will follow the policy of his predecessor, Cardinal Franchi, and recommending the nuncios to act with prudence, in order not to create unnecessary embarrassments for the Holy See. According to a Berlin telegram, Cardinal Nina has addressed a letter to Prince Bismarck expressing a wish to continue the negotiations opened by his predecessor.

GERMANY.

By command of the Emperor the Federal Council assembled in Berlin on Wednesday. A bill for preventing the spread of Socialism has been submitted to the Council by the Prussian Government. There are twenty-four clauses, and penalties are specified for every infraction of the law.

An Imperial decree was published on Monday convoking the German Parliament for Sept. 9.

The second ballots in Breslau have resulted in the return in the eastern district of Herr Reinders (Socialist), and in the western district of Herr Buergers, who obtained 10,215 votes against 8818 recorded in favour of the Socialist candidate.

DENMARK.

The Queen, accompanied by Princess Thyra, left Copenhagen on Tuesday for England, on a visit to the Prince and Princess of Wales.

Prince Louis Napoleon arrived at Copenhagen on Sunday. Reports have been current—but they are denied—that the Prince is to be married to Princess Thyra. A telegram from Copenhagen says that the French Minister there has asked the Danish Minister for Foreign Affairs what is the meaning of the reports so persistently current of the intended marriage of Prince Napoleon with Princess Thyra, and the French Minister was assured that the story is absolutely without foundation.

RUSSIA.

The Emperor Alexander has named Prince Orloff to represent him at the silver wedding of their Belgian Majesties.

The expedition in Central Asia would appear to aim at the occupation of the six minor khanates between the southern course of the Amu Darya and Hindoo Koosh—viz., Kara Ziu, Shugnal, Darvas, Sarikol, and Vakhan. Of these khanates, the first three are independent; Sarikol belongs to Kashgar; while the Vakhan Emir is a feudatory of the Khan of Afghanistan.

Prince Gortschakoff left St. Petersburg last Saturday for Wildbad. During the Chancellor's absence the administration of the Department of Foreign Affairs will be intrusted to Privy Councillor de Giers.

The Berlin Post hears from St. Petersburg that the Russian Government have decreed the dissolution of the Slavonic Charitable Committee at Moscow, which has for some time past been the head-quarters of the Panslavonic movement, and has been actively disseminating revolutionary doctrines. The Government have also ordered M. Aksakoff, the agitator, to be expelled from Moscow.

Riots, attended with loss of life, are reported from Odessa and also from the Caucasus. In Odessa the people, exasperated by the sentence passed by a court-martial on several Nihilists, stormed the court and fired upon the soldiers guarding it, fourteen of whom were killed.

AUSTRIA-HUNGARY.

M. Tisza, the President of the Hungarian Ministry, who had previously been returned for Sepsi-Gyoergy, was enthusiastically elected on Monday as member for Schemnitz. He has also been chosen for Fiume.

The elections in Hungary are now virtually at an end. Out of 394 seats 232 have been obtained by the Liberal or Government party, seventy by the United Opposition, sixty-six by the Extreme Left, and fifteen by Independents not pledged to any party. In fourteen constituencies second ballots are necessary.

The occupation of Bosnia and Herzegovina has been attended with severe fighting. Some particulars of the struggle are given in another column.

SERVIA.

Mr. Gould, the newly-appointed English Consul-General in Servia, arrived at Belgrade last Saturday, but left again the same day to meet and converse with Mr. White, his predecessor, now Diplomatic Agent at Bucharest.

Last Sunday a procession, with military trophies from the war and cannon captured at Nisch, including four Krupp 100-pounders and a number of bronze and steel guns, entered Belgrade. The cortége consisted of 1000 decorated draught horses led by hand by a regiment of infantry.

Wednesday being the birthday of the young Prince of Servia, a parade was held, and there was a special service at the cathedral. The town was decorated with flags, and universal illuminations took place in the evening.

The festivities in honour of Servian independence, which are to begin on the 22nd inst., will last three days. Deputations from all the towns and communities will be present, and the military review will be attended by sixty men from each of the 180 battalions constituting the Servian army, militia, and reserves, and also a detachment from each of the fifty batteries of artillery.

TURKEY.

Safvet Pasha has received the Grand Cross of the Star of India.

Sir A. H. Layard visited General Todleben last Saturday at San Stefano.

Forty thousand men, including the Russian Imperial Guard, will, it is stated, begin embarking for Russia to-day (Saturday), and on their departure the remainder of the army will retire upon the lines of Eastern Roumelia, where 50,000 men will remain. Adrianople will be evacuated in six weeks. The Russians (a Constantinople telegram says) will shortly occupy Batoum and evacuate Erzeroum and Bayazid simultaneously with the withdrawal of the British Fleet. The Emperor of Russia has sent a telegram to the Sultan begging him to order the evacuation of Batoum, and this message, in conjunction with the advice tendered by Count von Radolinski, the German Chargé d'Affaires, has led the Porte to decide upon taking that step. It is stated, however, that Sir A. H. Layard has been informed by the British Consul at Trebizond that the Lazis persist in declaring that they consider themselves under the protection of England, and that, on the advance of the Russians, they will hoist the English flag. Private intelligence received at Constantinople from Batoum also represents the state of affairs there to be very critical, and fighting between the Russians and the population is reported to have already taken place. A Daily News' telegram says that the inhabitants of the Batoum district are resolved to resist the Russian occupation to the last, but would be willing to hand over the port to any other European Power.

The Pera correspondent of the Daily Telegraph states that the attention of the Turkish Ministers is being given to several demands for Imperial concessions in favour of various schemes of improvement; that for the construction of a railway from Scutari to Bagdad through the Valley of the Euphrates being the most important. A firman has been granted to a company, composed principally of Englishmen, for the construction of a line of railway from Jaffa to Jerusalem.

The Porte is stated to have resolved on making large concessions to Crete of a nature to bring about the pacification of the island; but has decided to refuse the demands of Greece, on the ground that they are unjustifiable.

At the meeting of the Council of Ministers held on Tuesday it was decided, in order to avoid further depreciation of the Caimés, to raise the import duties on salt, tobacco, and spirits to the extent permitted by the treaties of commerce.

GREECE.

The session of the Greek Chamber was opened on Monday. There was no Speech from the Throne, and the transaction of public business will, it is stated, probably be deferred for a few weeks.

EGYPT.

It is stated in a telegram from Alexandria that Nubar Pasha, who has embarked from Brindisi for Egypt, is the bearer of important reforms for that country which have received the sanction of the English and French Governments. The telegram adds:—"The formal mortgage of all the Daira estates to the holders of the Daira debts, hitherto delayed by various obstacles, and chiefly by the unsettled claims of the non-converting creditors, has at last been duly executed, and all claims but one are now settled.

It is officially announced that the committee of inquiry into Egyptian revenue has suspended its labours until Oct. 28.

AMERICA.

General Butler has made a speech at Massachusetts, declaring that he has left the Republican party because it has deserted the labouring man for the capitalist.

The Columbia crew arrived at New York last Saturday, and had a most enthusiastic reception. They speak very favourably of the courtesy and fairness which they met with in England.

General Howard considers the Indian war as now practically ended.

While more stringent orders have been sent to General Ord to protect the Rio Grande frontier and pursue parties making raids on American territory, he has been advised to avoid coming into collision with the Mexican troops.

A despatch from New York states that the professional single sculling-race was rowed on Monday. Hanlon won by six lengths; Ross was second, and Plaisted third.

A tornado burst over a part of Wallingford, Connecticut, on Friday evening, the 9th inst., demolishing the church, schoolhouse, and forty dwellings, killing twenty-one persons and injuring fifty. Four of the latter were taken from the ruins in a dying state, and six others are not expected to recover. The whirlwind was accompanied by floods of rain and terrific thunder and lightning.

CANADA.

The elections to the Dominion Parliament will be held on Sept. 19.

The appointment of the Marquis of Lorne as Governor-General has given great satisfaction in the Dominion. The Canadian and American papers received contain numerous congratulatory references to the appointment.

The Legislative Assembly of Vancouver Island has passed a bill imposing a tax of 40 dols. upon every Chinaman in the province.

Disturbances took place at Ottawa on Monday night after an Orange procession. The telegram states that the Union men scoured the streets and insulted the Orangemen, who attacked them with pistols, and at midnight marched through the principal throughfares firing in all directions. The priests' houses were attacked, and an hotel destroyed. The rioters were ultimately dispersed by the police, many of them being wounded. Trouble continues to be experienced with the rioters. A telegram from Ottawa on Wednesday states that three thousand Union men had occupied Sussex-street, and they paraded the lower part of the city all the previous night, threatening to burn the Orangemen's houses. The Mayor ordered out the Foot Guards and succeeded in preventing any serious violence. Energetic measures have been taken against a renewal of the disorder.

THE CAPE COLONIES.

News from Cape Town to July 24 has been received by way of Madeira. A Times telegram says:—Zulu affairs are still ominous, and war preparations are being made on the Cape frontier. The Kaffirs are not surrendering as much as was expected after the amnesty, owing to the Government not recognising the chiefs. The Premier says it will be necessary to keep up a colonial force for some time, but has intimated to the Governor that all Imperial forces may now be withdrawn from operations in the field. Several rebels tried for sedition at the Circuit Courts were found guilty and sentenced to death. On the northern border hostilities still continue. Inspector Nesbitt, F.A.M.P., reports the capture of 113 armed rebels and a large number of cattle near the Hart River, Griqualand West. The natives under Gasibone's sons attacked the place of Mr. Francis Thompson, of Barkly, who was carried off as a prisoner and brutally murdered, and his son mortally wounded.

A severe gale has occurred in Table Bay, by which four vessels were driven ashore and totally wrecked. The captain and three men of one of the vessels were drowned.

INDIA.

The news received on Monday from the Times' correspondent at Calcutta was not of a very satisfactory character. Heavy rain has caused extensive floods in various districts, especially in Rungpore, Bograh, Patna, and Coosh Behar. From Upper Scinde it is announced that the Kashmor and Begair Bund had breached at the seventh mile, and the Scinde Canal had also breached near its mouth, submerging a large district and destroying the crops. Near Lakhi one zemindar had 14,000 beegahs of cultivation destroyed.

Terrible distress is prevalent in Cashmere. The Maharajah is taking energetic measures to alleviate the sufferings of the people by purchasing large quantities of grain for distribution, and offering bounties for its importation. Famine accounts in British India continue, on the whole, satisfactory, and prospects are improving in Madras.

The Government is about to convert the present 5½ per cent loan into a new transfer loan, the notes of which will consist of two forms: the first similar to those of the recent 4½ per cent loans; the second, which will only be offered to holders of old 5½ per cent paper, will consist of notes on every hundred rupees, on which interest will be repaid in rupees sufficient from time to time to produce 7s. sterling in London at the rate of exchange fixed for the time being between the India Office and the Treasury.

Necessity demanding strenuous economy, the Government has been induced to appoint a committee to report upon the best mode of revising certain secretarial and other Government establishments, "in promotion of the general cause of economy and good management."

A special mission, under Lieutenant Neville Chamberlain, will proceed to Cabul, probably in September. The Indian Government has received information from Cabul announcing that a Russian mission, consisting of three officers, arrived there on July 22, and were received by the Ameer of Afghanistan at a durbar, when the chief of the mission delivered to the Ameer a letter from the Emperor of Russia, and the Governor of the Russian province of Samarcund delivered one from the Governor-General of Turkestan. On Aug. 2 a grand review was held in honour of the Russians.

It is announced that Lieutenant-General Warre, C.B., has been appointed to succeed Sir C. Staveley as commander-in-chief of the Bombay forces. Major General R. O. Bright is to succeed Lieutenant-General A. Hardinge in a Bengal divisional command.

AUSTRALIA.

By a telegram from Melbourne, dated Aug. 3, we learn that the debate on the second reading of the Ministerial bill for a modification of the Constitution of Victoria, curtailing the powers of the Legislative Council, was going on in the Legislative Assembly, and that the interest in the discussion increased nightly. The Government majority in favour of the second reading was expected to be unusually large.

NEW ZEALAND.

A telegram from Wellington, dated Aug. 9, states that Mr. Ballances, the Colonial Treasurer, has made his financial statement in the Legislative Assembly. The revenue for the past year, which was estimated at £3,150,000, including £890,000 territorial revenue, actually yielded £3,900,000, including £1,500,000 territorial revenue. The total year's receipts, including the balance at the beginning of the year and the revenue collected for local bodies and other items, are £4,445,000, being an increase on revenue items over the previous year of £1,080,000. The railway receipts are £546,000, yielding a profit of £145,000. The surplus revenue for the year over expenditure is £120,000. The Government propose to place £100,000 from the surplus to the credit of the public works account. The indebtedness of the colony is £20,000,000; the amount available for appropriation for public works is £2,250,000. The estimated total expenditure for the current year is £4,190,000, and the estimated revenue £4,280,000, including £710,000 from railways. The exports for 1877 reached £6,300,000, against £5,600,000 in the previous year. Concerning the tariff, it is proposed to make the principal ad valorem duties specific, to abolish duties yielding £20,000, and to reduce the duties on tea, sugar, and Australian wines to the extent of £97,000. It is proposed further to establish a land tax estimated to yield £100,000, a tax on joint-stock companies producing £10,000, and a tax on colonial beer to yield £30,000; customs duties are remitted to the extent of £117,000. The new taxes imposed are estimated to amount to £141,000. The telegram reports that the Budget has been favourably received.

Instructions have been forwarded to Sir Julius Vogel, the agent-general of the colony in London, to dispatch 1000 emigrants this year, chiefly to the Canterbury district.

The annual fête of the Swiss Alpine Club will be held this year at Interlaken, beginning on Sept. 1.

A telegram dated Sydney, the 8th inst., says that the French troops have promptly avenged the massacre by natives of white settlers in New Caledonia.

The Shah of Persia reached Teheran on the 9th inst., and, on receiving his Ministers and high functionaries, expressed his satisfaction at the friendly reception everywhere accorded him on his tour.

The Hesperus, 1777 tons, Captain T. R. Harry, chartered by Sir Arthur Blyth, K.C.M.G., Agent-General for South Australia, left Plymouth on the 9th inst. for Port Adelaide with 593 emigrants, including 120 single female domestic servants.

THE CHURCH.

PREFERMENTS AND APPOINTMENTS.

Aldridge, William Wheeler, to be Vicar of Woollavington and Puriton.
Birkmyre, Nevile Young; Curate of St. John Maendu, Monmouthshire.
Bond, Richard Spooner; Rector of Thorn Coffin.
Buckley, J. R., Senior Curate of Neath; Vicar of Llandaff.
Carter, John; Perpetual Curate of Whitchurch.
Christie, James J.; Vicar of Pontefract and Surrogate.
Cooke, George Frederick; Curate of East and West Cranmore.
Crondall, W. D.; Vicar of St. Peter's, Bishop Auckland.
Du Sautoy, William; Curate of Wilton.
Ferris, Thomas Boys Barraclough; Perpetual Curate of St. Thomas's, York.
Foord, James; Vicar of Kirk Ella.
Ford, Gerard John; Curate of Chilton Cantelo-cum-Aslington.
French, R. V.; Rector of Llanmartin with Wecrick, Monmouthshire.
Green, H. Hilton; Honorary Canon of Bristol.
Hessey, Francis; Rural Dean of Kensington.
Holme, H. A.; Perpetual Curate of St. James's, Sutton-in-Holderness.
Jones, Kenneth L.; Incumbent of St. Bride's, Stretford, Manchester.
Kempe, Edward Wood; one of her Majesty's Priests in Ordinary.
Little, George; Curate-in-Charge of Castle Eden Colliery.
Lowe, Thomas; Prebendary of Gates, Chichester Cathedral.
Macfarlane, W. A. C., Vicar of Criffins, Salop; Rector of Elmswell, Suffolk.
Mackintosh, William Teesdale; Curate of Bath Abbey.
May, Edmund Alexander; Curate of Weston-in-Gordano.
Medcalf, William; Rector of Leven.
Mellise, James King; Vicar of Llanarth, Monmouthshire.
Myers, T., Vicar of Westgate; Rector of Turnstead.
Pollick, William James; Curate of St. Paul's, Newport, Monmouthshire.
Rhydderch, William; Curate of Ystradyfodwg, Glamorganshire.
Robinson, Richard Hayes; Curate of St. Michael's, Bath.
Seaman, J. B.; Curate-in-Charge of Writtle, Chelmsford.
Style, Frederic; Vicar of Leigh, near Reigate.
Sutley, Edward Chorley; Curate of Yarlington.
Thomas, D., Vicar of Capel Curig; Rector of Llangadwaladr.
Wilkinson, C. E.; Curate in Sole Charge of Bickenhill, Birmingham.

[The notice of the appointment of the Rev. T. W. Bray, of St. Paul's, Aberdeen, to St. James's, Barrow-in-Furness, was premature. The living is not yet vacant.]—Guardian.

The Archbishop of Canterbury, accompanied by Mrs. and the Misses Tait, left town on Monday for the Continent.

The Rev. Dr. Perowne, Canon of Llandaff, has been appointed Dean of Peterborough, in the room of Dr. Saunders.

The Bishop of Winchester has consecrated a new chancel for the church of Long Cross.

As arranged by the Foreign Office, Dr. Sandford, Bishop of Gibraltar, has the superintendence of any congregations, churches, and clergy of the Church of England in Cyprus.

The Bishop of Llandaff on Tuesday opened a new iron church, dedicated to St. Stephen, at Cardiff. The preacher was Dr. Perowne.

The Bishop of London last Saturday afternoon, in the chapel of Fulham Palace, admitted several gentlemen of different ranks of life to the office of lay readers.

The Bishop of Long Island held a confirmation on Saturday afternoon in the Chapel Royal, Savoy, where the marriage of his daughter took place last Tuesday.

The Archbishop of Canterbury has appointed the Bishop of Chichester curator of Lambeth Palace Library, in succession to the late Bishop of Lich field.

The Vicar of St. John's, Taunton, the Rev. F. J. Smith, has proposed to build a church in Rowbarton district as a memorial of the attainment of peace by the Berlin Congress, and promises £3000 if £2000 be subscribed by the end of the year.

Disturbances were renewed last Sunday at the Church of St. James's, Hatcham. Protest was made by the parishioners, warden, and other gentlemen belonging to the parish against the use of incense.

There have just been erected in the parish church of Bicester three handsome Munich stained-glass windows, executed by Messrs. Mayer—two in memory of the late Sir Henry Page Turner, Bart., of Battlesden Park; and the other in memory of the late Mr. Samuel Burrows.

The Rev. Dr. Maclear, Head Master of the King's College School, has been appointed by the trustees under the will of the Hon. Robert Boyle, on the recommendation of the Bishop of London, to preach the Boyle Lectures, in succession to the Rev. Canon Barry.

The Bishop of Lincoln, in answer to a memorial from a number of clergyman in his diocese, has expressed an opinion that a clergyman of the Church of England in his diocese would find it impossible to perform the religious service at a marriage between a Christian and a Jew or Jewess.

The Bishop of Truro has consecrated a new church at Mount Hawke, built under exceptional difficulties, where his Lordship said that we must not separate ourselves from the true and useful ritual of God's Church, but must beware of making it everything.

The Bishop of Oxford has consecrated a cemetery at Middle Claydon, Bucks, the ground for which was given by Sir Harry Verney; the Bishop of Norwich has consecrated a cemetery at Sohom; and the Bishop of St. Albans an addition to the churchyard of Dovercourt, where he took occasion to condemn strongly the practice of cremation.

A number of gentlemen interested in the proposed restoration of the roof of the nave of St. Alban's met in that city last Saturday, the Bishop presiding. After considerable discussion a resolution was adopted to the effect that a new roof should be built, and an amendment intimating that the old roof could be rendered perfectly serviceable found few supporters.

The Cheltenham Examiner says:—The Rev. J. E. Walker, son of the late Rector of Cheltenham, has offered to the council the amount of the presentation made to Dr. Walker by his parishioners—about £2500—for the founding of a memorial charity, unsectarian and non-political in its character, in memory of his father.

The annual meeting of the Poor Clergy Relief Corporation was held on Tuesday at the offices of the corporation, Southampton-street, Strand—the Rev. Canon Farrar, D.D., presiding. Dr. Pigott, D.C.L., read the report, which announced a large increase in the funds during the past financial year. The grants during the year to the poorer clergy, their widows, and orphans, amounted to £6565, in sums ranging from £5 to £25.

The Bishop and Dean of Maritzburg have left for South Africa. The Bishop has appointed Canon Butler, of Wantage, his commissary; and at a meeting last week of the friends of the Maritzburg Mission, Lord Forbes, Mr. Beresford-Hope, M.P., Mr. J. G. Talbot, M.P., and others spoke to resolutions in favour of raising a sustentation fund of £10,000, and further sums for training and supporting missionaries.

Yesterday week the Earl of Lichfield unveiled a memorial bust of Izaak Walton, recently placed in St. Mary's Church, Stafford, by public subscription. The author of the "Compleat Angler" was born in Stafford, in 1593, and during the whole of his life showed great partiality for his native town. It is chiefly upon Walton's literary productions that his fame outside Stafford depends, but in that town his name will long be remembered and cherished for the bountiful charities and benefactions which he left to the poor of Stafford, and which are administered at the present day. The bust was executed by Mr. R. Bell. The Dean of Lichfield preached.

The sentence of suspension for three years ab officio et beneficio, passed by Lord Penzance against Mr. Mackonochie, has been stayed in the Queen's Bench Division. The opinion of Mr. Justice Lush, that a prohibition should not be issued, was grounded partly on the fact that the Privy Council, on appeal, had affirmed the authority of the Court of Arches to pass such a sentence as that in question upon a similar proceeding for contumacy. But Mr. Justice Mellor observed that the Privy Council, having simply an appellate authority, had no original jurisdiction in subjects of this description; and the Lord Chief Justice, in a long and elaborate judgment, maintained that suspension, being deprivation pro tempore, was a punishment which could only be inflicted when all the formalities incident to a plenary suit had been observed, whereas the procedure in the case of Mr. Mackonochie had been of a summary character.

THE BRITISH ASSOCIATION.

The forty-eighth annual Congress of the British Association for the Advancement of Science was opened at Dublin on Wednesday evening by the delivery of the presidential address in the grand concert-room of the Exhibition building. The large and spacious hall was crowded by members of the Association and their friends, including more than the average attendance of ladies. The eloquent address of Mr. W. Spottiswoode, the President for this year, was listened to with marked attention. He was introduced by Professor Allen Thompson, the President of last year.

The President began his address by a reference to the former meetings of the Association, both at Dublin and elsewhere, and to some administrative matters. Dealing with the question of endowment of research and the grants made for that purpose by the Association, he observed that it was not difficult to offer strong arguments in favour of permanent national scientific institutions, or to picture to the mind an ideal future when Science and Art should walk hand in hand together, led by a willing Minister into the green pastures of the endowment of research. But while allowing this to be not an impossible future, we must still admit that there are other and less promising possibilities, which, under existing circumstances, cannot be altogether left out of our calculations. He was therefore, on the whole, inclined to think that, while not losing sight of larger schemes, the wisest policy, for the present at all events, and pending the experiment of the Government fund, will be to confine our efforts to a careful selection of definite persons to carry out definite pieces of work, leaving to them the honour (or the onus, if they so think it) of justifying from time to time a continuation of the confidence which the Government or other supporting body may have once placed in them.

Mr. Spottiswoode then came to the special matter of his address. On this he remarked that the branch of science which he represents is one whose lines of advance, viewed from a mathematician's own point of view, offer so few points of contact with the ordinary experiences of life or modes of thought, that any account of its actual progress which he might have attempted must have failed in the first requisite of an address—namely, that of being intelligible. Now, if this esoteric view had been the only aspect of the subject which he could present to his hearers, he might well have given up the attempt in despair. But the appearance of isolation, so conspicuous in mathematics, appertains in a greater or less degree to all other sciences, and perhaps also to all pursuits in life. In its highest flight each soars to a distance from its fellows. Each is pursued alone for its own sake, and without reference to its connection with, or its application to, any other subject. The pioneer and the advanced guard are of necessity separated from the main body, and in this respect mathematics does not materially differ from its neighbours.

Therefore, it might not be altogether unprofitable to dwell for a short time upon the other side of the question, and to inquire whether there be not points of contact in method or in subject-matter between mathematics and the outer world which have been frequently overlooked; whether its lines do not in some cases run parallel to those of other occupations and purposes of life; and, lastly, whether we may not hope for some change in the attitude too often assumed towards it by the representatives of other branches of knowledge and of mental activity.

Mr. Spottiswoode then pointed out the historical importance of mathematics in connection with the arts, and alluded to recent inventions dealing with mathematical problems or involving them. He spoke of objections which had been made to modern mathematical methods. It is objected, he said, that, abandoning the more cautious methods of ancient mathematicians, we have admitted into our formulæ quantities which, by our own showing, and even in our own nomenclature, are imaginary or impossible; nay, more, that out of them we have formed a variety of new algebras to which there is no counterpart whatever in reality, but from which we claim to arrive at possible and certain results. He, however, defended this and similar proceedings on the part of mathematicians, partly by parallels from literature and art and partly by pointing out the valuable results obtained and the facilities afforded by such descriptions and methods.

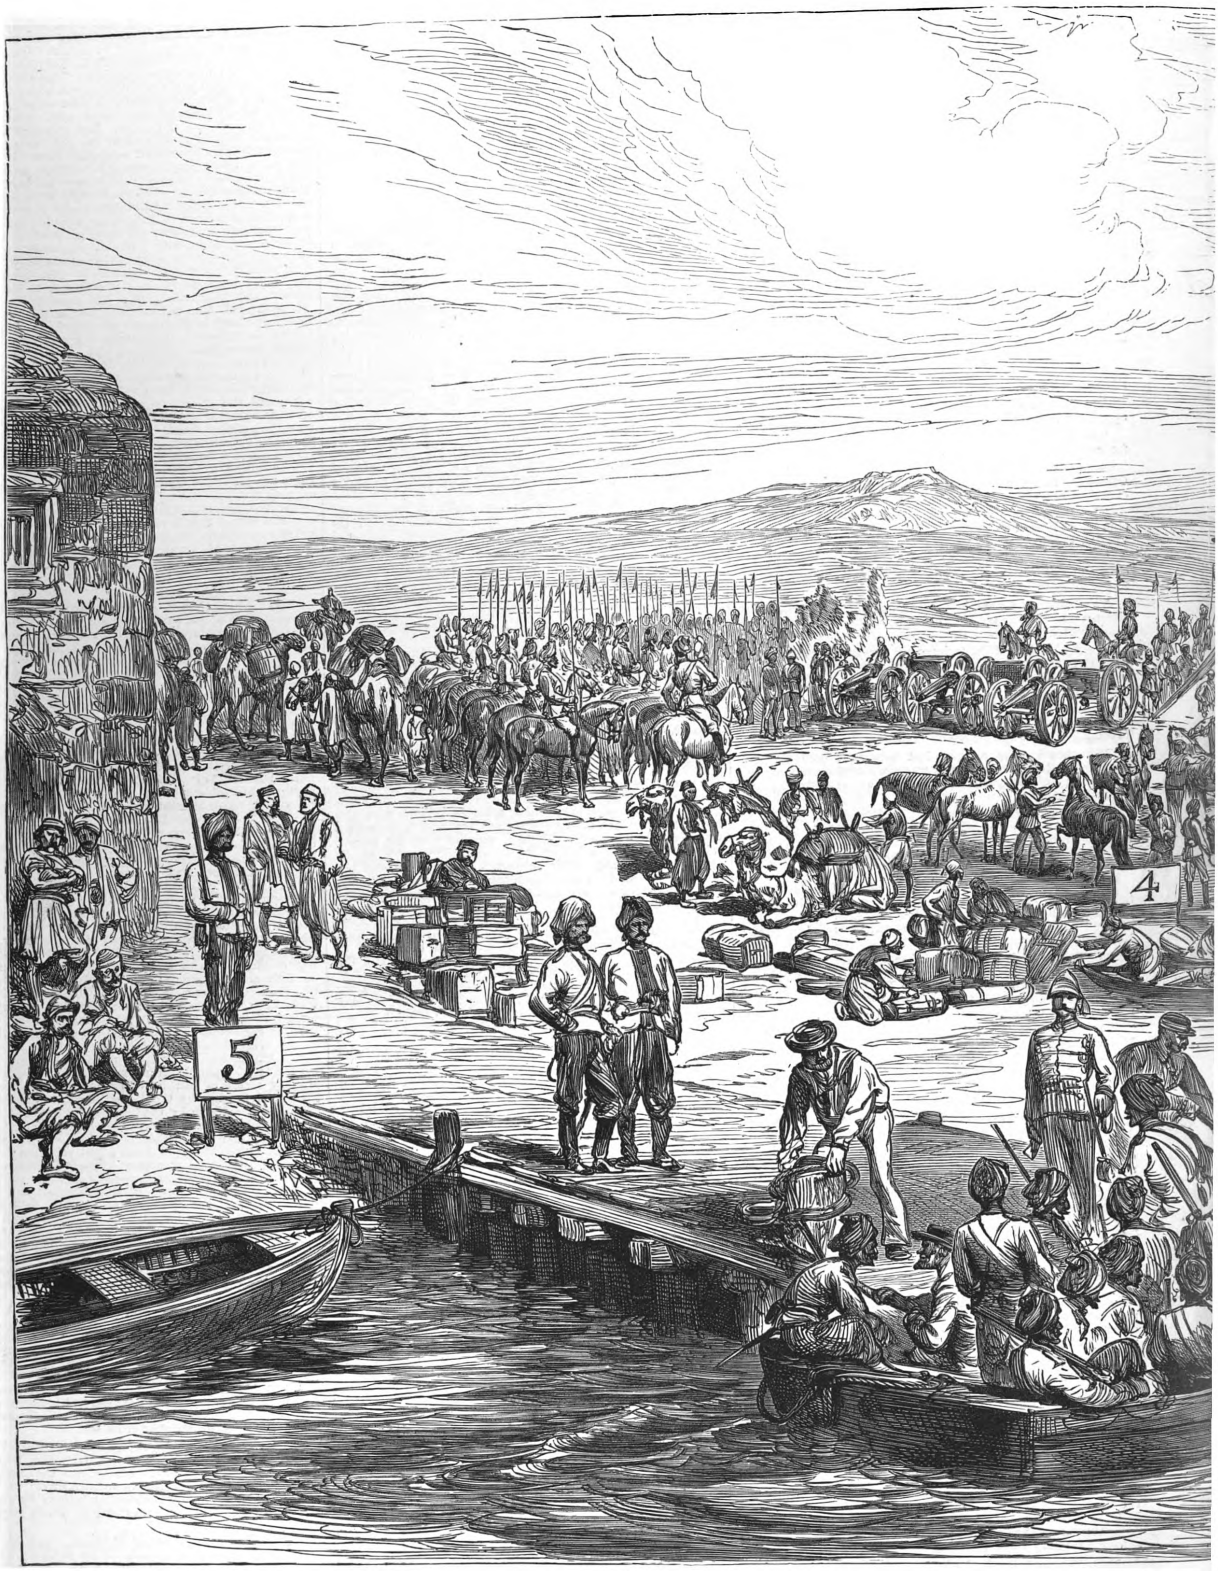
After a lengthened review of the relations of mathematics to other arts and sciences, and deprecating the rigid aversion which both literature and art are too often inclined to maintain towards science, Mr. Spottiswoode thus proceeded:—Coterminous with space and coeval with time is the kingdom of mathematics; within this range her kingdom is supreme; otherwise than according to her order nothing can exist; in contradiction to her order nothing takes place. On her mysterious scroll is to be found written, for those who can read it, that which has been, that which is, and that which is to come. Everything material which is the subject of knowledge has number, order, or position; and these are her first outlines for a sketch of the universe. If our more feeble hands cannot follow out the details, still her part has been drawn with an unerring pen, and her work cannot be gainsaid. So wide is the range of mathematical science, so indefinitely may it extend beyond our actual powers of manipulation, that at some moments we are inclined to fall down with even more than reverence before her majestic presence. But so strictly limited are her promises and powers, upon so much that we might wish to know does she offer no information whatever, that at other moments we are fain to call her results but a vain thing, and to reject them as a stone when we had asked for bread. If one aspect of the subject encourages our hopes, so does the other tend to chasten our desires; and he is, perhaps, the wisest, and in the long run the happiest among his fellows, who has learnt not only this science, but also the larger lesson which it indirectly teaches—namely, to temper our aspirations to that which is possible, to moderate our desires to that which is attainable, to restrict our hopes to that of which the accomplishment, if not immediately practicable, is at least distinctly within the range of conception. That which is at present beyond our ken may, at some period and in some manner as yet unknown to us, fall within our grasp; but our science teaches us, while ever yearning with Goethe for "Light, more light," to concentrate our attention upon that of which our powers are capable, and contentedly to leave for future experience the solution of problems to which we can at present say neither yea nor nay.

It is within the region thus indicated that knowledge in the true sense of the word is to be sought. Other modes of influence there are in society and in individual life, other forms of energy beside that of intellect. There is the potential energy of sympathy, the actual energy of work; there are the vicissitudes of life, the diversity of circumstance, health, and disease, and all the perplexing issues, whether for good or for evil, of impulse and of passion. But although the book of life cannot at present be read by the light of science alone, nor the wayfarers be satisfied by the few leaves of knowledge now in our hands; yet it would be difficult to overstate the almost miraculous increase which may be produced by a liberal distribution of what we already have, and by a restriction of our cravings within the limits of possibility. In proportion as method is better than impulse, deliberate purpose than erratic action, the clear glow of sunshine than irregular reflection, and definite utterances than an uncertain sound—in proportion as knowledge is better than surmise, proof than opinion—in that proportion will the mathematician value a discrimination between the certain and uncertain, and a just estimate of the issues which depend upon one motive power or the other. While on the one hand he accords to his neighbours full liberty to regard the unknown in whatever way they are led by the noblest powers that they possess, so, on the other, he claims an equal right to draw a clear line of demarcation between that which is a matter of knowledge and that which is, at all events, something else, and to treat the one category as fairly claiming our assent, the other as open to further evidence. And yet when he sees around him those whose aspirations are so fair, whose impulses so strong, whose receptive faculties so sensitive, as to give objective reality to what is often but a reflex from themselves or a projected image of their own experience, he will be willing to admit that there are influences which he cannot as yet either fathom or measure, but whose operation he must recognise among the facts of our existence.

At the conclusion of the President's address, the Lord Mayor moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Spottiswoode. On behalf of the citizens of Dublin, he welcomed the Association and paid a high tribute to the President. The vote of thanks was seconded by the Provost of Trinity College, and was carried by acclamation.

The head-quarters of the Association are in Trinity College, where there is ample accommodation for the sections, and for committee, refreshment, and other rooms required for the British Association. The Royal Irish Academy, the Royal Dublin Society, the Colleges of Physicians and Surgeons, and other learned bodies connected with the city, are heartily co-operating to make the meeting successful and agreeable, and the city will not be wanting in hospitality to visitors. The issue of tickets amounted to 2263, including 1137 associates, up to Wednesday afternoon.

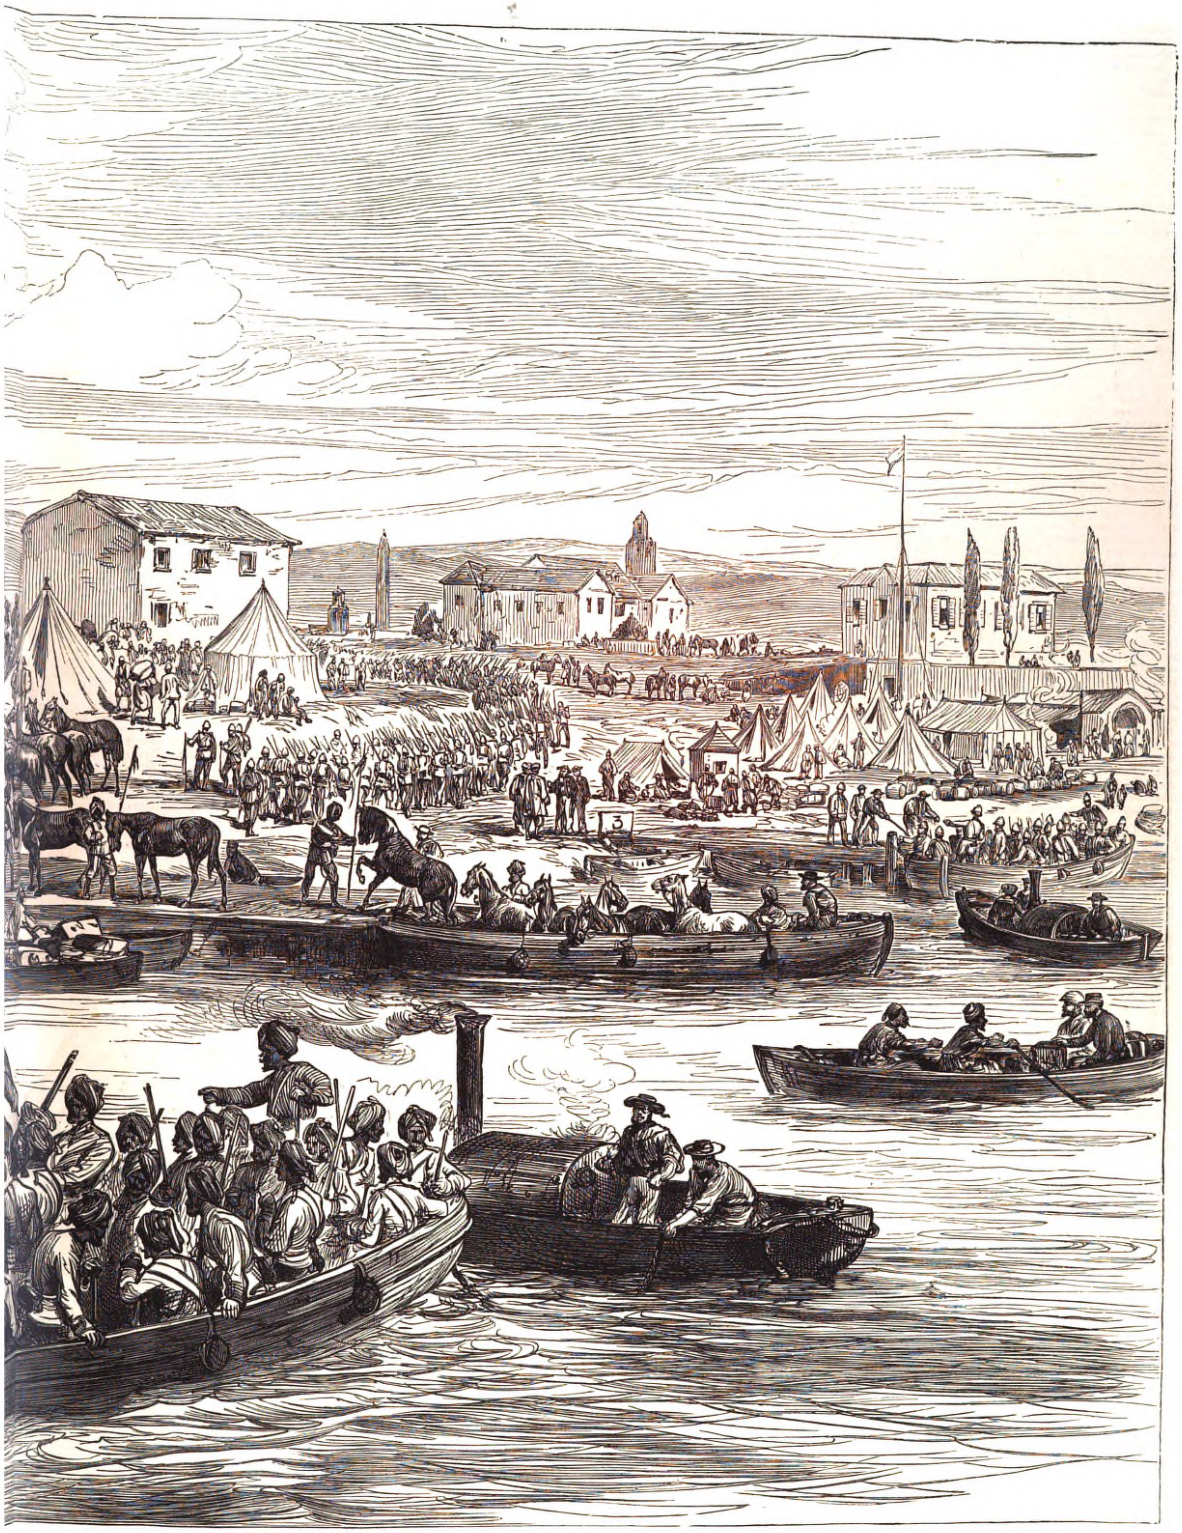
The Sections met on Thursday at eleven o'clock in different apartments of Trinity College; they are classified as follows:—Section A.—Mathematical and Physical Science, the Rev. Professor Salmon, D.D., F.R.S., nominated as President of this Section, but absent from illness. Section B.—Chemical Science, Professor Maxwell Simpson, M.D., F.R.S. Section C.—Geology, John Evans, D.C.L., F.R.S. Section D.—Biology, Professor W. H. Flower, F.R.S. This section includes a department of zoology and botany, presided over by Professor Flower; one for anthropology, presided over by Professor Huxley; and one of anatomy and physiology, presided over by Dr. Robert M'Donnell, F.R.S. Section E.—Geography, Professor Wyville Thomson, LL.D. Section F.—Economic Science and Statistics, Professor J. K. Ingram, LL.D. Section G.—Mechanical Science, Mr. Edward Easton, C.E. The evening arrangements are, for Thursday, a conversazione at the Royal Dublin Society; on the following evening, a lecture by Mr. G. J. Romanes, F.L.S., on Animal Intelligence; on Monday evening, a lecture by Professor Dewar, F.R.S., on Dissociation in Modern Ideas of Chemical Action; on Tuesday evening, a conversazione held in the Royal Irish Academy, on which occasion the Round Room of the Mansion House will be added to the accommodation at the disposal of the Academy, by permission of the Lord Mayor and Corporation. These are not the only hospitable arrangements in the programme. On Monday members will be entertained at breakfast in the Zoological Gardens by the Royal Zoological Society; in the afternoon at a dinner by the College of Physicians, and in the evening at a conversazione by the College of Surgeons. Their Graces the Duke and Duchess of Marlborough will also hold a reception in the Viceregal Lodge, and entertain a number of distinguished visitors at dinner. Ample provision has been made for the enjoyment of scenic and scientific excursions, as described in another page of this Journal; and the Commander-in-Chief has arranged for a grand field-day at the Curragh, which may be taken in connection with a visit to the ancient Cathedral of Kildare, which is nearly restored. Nor will the religious wants of the visitors be neglected. Special services will be held in Christ Church Cathedral and St. Patrick's, and seats reserved for them; the Bishop of Derry presiding in the former and the Archdeacon of Meath in the latter Cathedral.



The sittings of the Foresters' High Court at Newcastle-on-Tyne were concluded yesterday week.

At Chamounix a monument to Jacques Balmat, the man who first ascended Mont Blanc, was unveiled on Sunday.

A Times' correspondent states that Prince Bismarck caused himself to be weighed a few days ago at Kissingen, when the balance marked 243 lb. 100 grammes. In 1874 the Prince, who is getting very stout, weighed 401b. less.



The War Office has approved a scheme submitted to it for the complete reorganisation of the Ordnance Department. The department will in future consist, like the Commissariat, of two branches—administrative and executive; the appointments in the latter being reserved exclusively for meritorious non-commissioned officers, who will be drawn largely from the Royal Artillery.

The British Pharmaceutical Conference met on Tuesday in Dublin, under the presidency of Mr. Schacht, of Clifton. Among those present were Dr. Tichbourne, president of the Pharmaceutical Society of Ireland, and representatives from America, and from English towns. Mr. Ward, F.C.S., bore an invitation to the conference to meet in Sheffield next year. In his address Mr. Schacht said he felt sure that the Dublin meeting would promote scientific pharmacy and the cultivation of mutual respect and cordiality among those who practise it. He dwelt on the exactitude and care, and the dexterity and neatness, essential to a model pharmacist.

THE BRITISH OCCUPATION OF CYPRUS: GENERAL VIEW OF T

A SKETCH BY OU

E LANDING-PLACE AT LARNACA, FROM THE ANCHORAGE.

SPECIAL ARTIST.

PARLIAMENT.

LORDS.

The knell of the Session was tolled by the departure of Lord Beaconsfield for Hughenden on Monday, and the coming "break-up" was festively hailed by the members of the Government who attended the Fish Dinner on Wednesday, when the Ministerial banquet, however, was deprived of its greatest zest by the absence of the Prime Minister from "Ye annuale whytebaite dinner of Hyr Majestye's Ministers," as it was phrased in the quaintly-framed menu of "Ye Shippe, at Greenwiche." Summarily have the last ceremonial rites of the Session been performed. Yesterday week the saving amendments of the Commons in the Contagious Diseases of Animals Bill were approved, amid a chorus of self-gratulatory remarks from Earls Fortescue, Spencer, and the Duke of Richmond. The bringing of the Eurydice nearer shore was then the subject of an explanatory speech from Lord Elphinstone in a reply to Lord Sidmouth; and there was also casual allusion to the munificent disposal of ratepayers' moneys by the London School Board, which, not satisfied by erecting an abundance of red-brick schools all over town, is paying Government some £17,000 for a school-ship for the Thames.

The Lord Chancellor, whose appetite for business seems to grow on what it feeds on, on Monday brought in a bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to municipal Corporations in England; and his Lordship explained that his object was to give the country an opportunity of considering the measure during the recess. With accustomed gracefulness, Lord Bury explained to Lord Truro how he came to refer with some severity to the conduct of Captain Coope, Adjutant of a Hampshire Volunteer Corps, and qualified his animadversions. The widespread dissatisfaction existing among the Metropolitan police at the smallness of their pay and the number of hours they have to remain on duty served as a text for Lord Truro, who elicited from the Duke of Richmond that the Government would give their best attention to the present organisation of the force, to the question of superannuation, lodging, and to the assaults on the police. His Grace also reminded the noble Lord that a Committee had been appointed to inquire into the whole subject.

On Tuesday the Duke of Richmond, the Lord Chancellor, and the Duke of Northumberland acted as Royal Commissioners, and signified that the Royal Assent had been given to various bills. Among other measures advanced a stage was the bill for closing public-houses in Ireland on Sundays. This was read the second time, on the motion of Lord O'Hagan, who received the support of the Duke of Richmond and the Bishop of London.

For the further expedition of business a few of their Lordships met on Wednesday—the Earl of Redesdale presiding—and the Consolidated Fund (Appropriation) Bill was read the first time, and the Irish Sunday Closing Bill passed through Committee, among other measures.

The Lord Chancellor (his digestion undisturbed, presumably, by "ye omelette of crabbe inne ye style as servyd to ye Guardes of ye Blue Seale" of "ye annuale whytebaite dinner") took his seat on the woolsack an hour and a quarter earlier than usual on Thursday, in order to pass the Appropriation Bill through its remaining stages and to push forward the Irish Sunday Closing Bill, with a few other measures. Heedless as to whether he might be deemed a veteran lagging superfluously on the stage, Lord Strathnairn rose to advocate the keeping of an authoritative public record of the services of officers; but Lord Bury had the noble and gallant Lord on the hip by pointing to the fact that his Lordship's own brilliant services were well known to a grateful country.

COMMONS.

From the point of view of prompt dispatch of business, the Government may not improbably be of opinion that nothing has become hon. members so much as their rapidity in ending the work of the Session. There was a stout fight in Committee on the Bishoprics Bill yesterday week; but the new Bishops, whoever they may be, will possibly not be dissatisfied that the minimum salary of £3500 a year will not be reduced to £1500, as proposed by Sir George Campbell; nor that the conventional privileges of the new bishoprics will be curtailed in the slightest. The measure was, in fact, passed through Committee without amendment, after repeated divisions. Without dwelling on each of the multifarious matters that next came before the House, we may briefly state that the Irish Sunday Closing Bill was read the third time, amid cheers, at a special sitting on Saturday; that on Monday the Expiring Laws Continuance Bill was read the second time, and the Irish Intermediate Education Bill the third time, after some debate and one or two divisions. Mr. Lowther expressing regret that the state of Mr. Butt's health would not allow him to serve as one of the Commissioners, and adding that the Commissioners would be Lord Chancellor Ball, the Earl of Belmore, Professor Molloy, The O'Connor Don, Lord Chief Baron Palles, and Professors Porter and Salmon.

The naval review by her Majesty at Spithead on Tuesday prevented many hon. members from hearing the clearly-delivered speech in which Mr. E. Stanhope introduced the Indian Budget. Bearing in mind the large deficit occasioned by the famine, Mr. Stanhope's statement was remarkably hopeful. Had it not been for this deplorable visitation, he argued, there would have been a surplus of a million. The expenditure for the ensuing year was estimated at £61,039,000, the revenue at £63,195,000. The chief new taxes would be a land tax and a new impost on trade licenses; and the salt tax would be increased in some districts and reduced in others. This increase of taxation in India was earnestly deplored by Mr. Fawcett in moving the following amendment:—

That the House regarded with apprehension the present position of Indian finance, and, in view of the power claimed by the Crown to employ any number of Indian troops in all parts of her Majesty's dominions except the United Kingdom, was of opinion that there was no sufficient security against the military expenditure being unduly increased.

The slack attendance of Conservative members, Mr. Fawcett pointedly said, showed the genuineness of their assumed interest in Indian affairs. The hon. member trenchantly attacked the Government for bringing the Indian troops to Malta; and warmly protested against the extravagant administration of the finances of our Indian Empire. Mr. Dillwyn seconded the amendment; and among those who joined in the debate were Mr. Hubbard, Mr. Muntz, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr. Jacob Bright, and Sir George Campbell. In the end, Mr. Fawcett's amendment was negatived by 59 to 20 votes; and, in Committee, the Indian Budget was agreed to. There ensued a short debate on the reported Russian and English advances on Afghanistan. Sir Charles Dilke initiated it, apropos of an English General and a body of cavalry having been sent to Cabul, and the rumour that the Russians were advancing south of the Oxus. Mr. Bourke had received no information of the reported march of the Russians. The Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs stated, however, that a Russian Minister had reached Cabul; and added that it was true an English mission to Cabul from India was projected. British interests in Afghanistan being great. Sir William Harcourt was of opinion that the Government were troubling themselves unnecessarily as to Russian advances in Asia. Not so the Chancellor of the Exchequer, who insisted that it was the duty of the Government to closely watch what was going on in that part of the world. As to the dispute between Turkey and Greece (to which the hon. Baronet had also alluded), Sir Stafford Northcote declared it to be the wish of the Government that the arrangements come to at the Berlin Congress should be carried into effect.

On Wednesday, preparatory to discussing "ye flounders curyously cooked, and salmonne servyd inne lyke mannere," and the other succulent dishes of the Greenwich Banquet, Ministers had a busy afternoon of it. Colonel Stanley was able to assure Mr. Monk that reassuring reports as to the health of the troops at Cyprus had come from Sir Garnet Wolseley. Several other questions were answered. The Expiring Laws Continuance Bill was read the third time. But the greater part of the sitting was occupied with a sympathetic debate on the assassination of Mr. C. C. Ogle, whilst acting as a Special Correspondent of the Times during the late rising in Thessaly. In an earnest speech, Mr. H. Samuelson referred to the sad event, and moved—

That, in the opinion of this House, Mr. Consul-General Fawcett's report upon Mr. C. C. Ogle's death is inconclusive, and that a fresh Commission of Inquiry ought to be instituted, composed of Englishmen only, who should be specially empowered to assure the witnesses of the protection of her Majesty's Government.

Rather late in the day, Mr. Bourke awoke to a sense of the necessity of giving expression to some feeling at the painful death which Mr. Ogle met with and at the barbarous mutilations to which his body had been subjected. Mr. Samuelson was duly complimented by Mr. Bourke for the ability of his address; but the Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs said that the Government could not assent to a fresh Committee of Inquiry unless it could be clearly shown that the evidence brought before Mr. Fawcett was untrue. Further pressure on the Government having been put by Mr. Forster in a few rugged sentences, the Chancellor of the Exchequer joined in the expression of regret at the death of Mr. Ogle, and, whilst defending Mr. Fawcett's conduct of the inquiry, promised that the matter should be reconsidered, and hoped that the hon. member would therefore withdraw his motion. This Mr. Samuelson agreed to do, on the understanding that the Government would as soon as possible institute a fresh inquiry. A fruitless conversation followed on the retrocession of Bessarabia to Russia, Sir George Campbell, Mr. E. Jenkins, and Mr. M. Lloyd commenting on the action of Russia, and likewise on the appointment of "so strong a Turkish partisan" as Sir H. Drummond Wolff as a member of the Commission for administrating Eastern Roumelia. The Appropriation Bill was thereafter read the third time and passed; and the Bishoprics Bill was read the third time by 62 to 20 votes, Mr. E. Jenkins calling for the division.

Thursday being the eve of the close of this protracted Session, hon. members did not attend in large numbers. The East still claimed foremost attention. Of the Session it may, indeed, be said that e'en in its ashes lived its wonted fires. Mr. E. Jenkins was constant to the last to his task of interrogating Ministers; and from Mr. Bourke he learnt that the Porte had collected the taxes at Cyprus up to the time of England's taking possession of the island, but that there was no reason to believe that they had also collected for a year in advance. Colonel Stanley, answering Sir Charles Dilke, somewhat modified his previous statement as to the salubrity of Cyprus, and acknowledged that there had been three deaths since the troops had landed. The Chancellor of the Exchequer then explained to Mr. Fawcett and Sir Henry Havelock that the British mission to Afghanistan was not invited by the Ameer, but originated with the Government. The red-tapiness of Mr. Bourke was then illustrated afresh. Questioned by Mr. Hayter, he said that negotiations were going on for the surrender of Batoum; but added that Sir Austen Layard had telegraphed that the Consul at Trebizond had received a petition from the Lazes declaring that if the Russians attacked them they would unfurl the British flag, and that they considered themselves under British protection. Sir William Harcourt and Mr. Forster both thought that the publication of such a statement, without any Ministerial comment, might lead to its being supposed that the Government had undertaken the protection of the Lazes; but Mr. Bourke replied that her Majesty's Government would hold the Scales of Justice fairly as between the Russians and the Lazes. He would not say whether an answer had been sent to Sir Austen Layard. With regard to Crete, the right hon. gentleman read the article of the Berlin Treaty in reference thereto for the enlightenment of Mr. Monk. Mr. Bourke having made a further explanation as to the European Commission, a new writ for Newcastle-under-Lyme was moved, owing to the resignation by Sir E. Buckley of his seat. A few measures were then advanced a stage. In a brief speech regarding the raising of H.M.S. Eurydice, Lord Charles Beresford delivered himself of the opinion that it would have been better to have blown up the ship—a course which Mr. W. H. Smith protested, amid cheers, he could not have taken upon himself to recommend, seeing the destruction of the bodies of sailors that would have ensued.

The Duke of Connaught has consented to become a patron of the Railway Officers' and Servants' Association, and has forwarded twenty guineas to its funds.

The Duke and Duchess Max, parents of the Empress of Austria, will celebrate their golden wedding at Tefernsee on Sept. 9. The Austrian and Saxon Royal families will be present.

At a special meeting of the Manchester City Council on Wednesday it was decided by a vote of forty-two to two to further promote the scheme for bringing water to supply Manchester and the district from Thirlmere lake.

An aquarium was opened in Edinburgh on Wednesday, in presence of a large number of spectators. It is situated at the west end of Waverley Market, Prince's-street, and contains a seal-house, twelve large tanks, and several smaller ones.

It is reported that the Marquis of Bute has given £5000 towards a fund for the erection of a Roman Catholic cathedral in Dundee, to commemorate the re-establishment of the bishopric of Dunkeld, which ceased about 292 years ago.

Admiral A. P. Ryder distributed the prizes on Thursday to the cadets on board the Worcester training-ship off Greenhithe. The gold medal presented by her Majesty to the lad who, in the opinion of his messmates, was likely to make the finest sailor, was awarded to Mr. Spruille Braden, an American, and Miss Oliver, the daughter of Admiral Oliver, pinned it on his breast. Mr. Lapthorne took the first prize for proficiency in navigation, and also in the use of the sextant; Mr. Baker for proficiency in the use of the sextant; Mr. Styles for seamanship; Mr. Errington the silver medal for general good conduct; Mr. Gilmore the prize for swimming; Mr Darby for French; Mr. Braden for knowledge of steam; Mr. Whitley for meteorology; Mr. Mason for magnetism; Mr. Watkins for drawing; Mr. Askin for gunnery; Mr. Whitley for general good conduct; and Mr. Waymouth for signals.

The Extra Supplement.

"LOVE'S YOUNG DREAM"

This title is borrowed from Tom Moore's song, the preceding line of which recalls to memory a droll picture we saw long ago, either in Tom Hood's Comic Annual or in George Cruikshank's Omnibus or Pocket Book. Outside a grocer's shop stood an empty hogshead, the inside of which, beyond doubt, would be sticky with the moist remnant of West Indian molasses. Several boys, "as free as nature first made man, ere wild in streets the noble savage ran," hung in a cluster, like enormous flies, busy and buzzing, round the verge of this enticing vessel. More than one of them had dived in headlong, and showed only a dirty pair of heels projecting above its margin. All fingers and thumbs, and every tongue and pair of lips in the company, were actively employed with a delightful frankness and a hearty sense of opportunity, in scooping up and scraping up, licking and sucking, altogether devouring, consuming, and absorbing the luscious saccharine syrup. Meanwhile the lyric poet of the tender passion, Anacreon Moore, was involuntarily bidden to give utterance to their silent ecstasy, which was expressed by this apt quotation, "Oh, there's nothing half so sweet in life!" And we certainly believed in those days, which were the days of Hood and Cruikshank at their best, that the assertion was far more justifiable when applied to a tub of treacle than to any of your sentimental romance in the way of "Love's Young Dream." For Byron and Moore, and the minor geniuses of amatory inspiration, had not yet begun to affect our juvenile fancy, being still on the childish side of that period which is denoted by "the teens." Now, Mr. Pelham's picture, reproduced by the colour-printing process for this week's Extra Supplement, has a different tale to tell; one of that sort which, says another poet, "must be told by the moonlight alone." But it seems like a bit of moonshine, after all, having arrived where we now are, to pretend that such a black-eyed and black-haired young gipsy, with a guitar, sitting on a sandstone rock in an attitude of rapt meditation, could really produce any appreciable effect on the heart of a middle-aged citizen with unpaid bills in his pocket. He has the consciousness of being hardened by many years' wear of life on the farther side of his teens; he can safely defy this pretty creature, with all her musical airs and graces of Southern or Oriental languishment to quicken the regulated pace of his temperate and sober pulse. Though she dream an hour longer, and then awaken the strains of a Sappho to sing the spirit of her dream, she will get but a sixpence for her tuneful pains, unless she betake herself to a youthful customer, not too youthful, but one who is addicted to the melting mood, and still credulous of its satisfactory result in cases like the present. To be sure, if the fair Spanish lass were English, her reply would at once be ready, "Nobody axed you, Sir, she said!" and with that we should part friends. As for this female minstrel from the land of the cypress and myrtle, we just now ventured to put her case to Alderman Blocksmith, and what was his answer? "She may go to Cyprus—or she may go to Hong-Kong for me!" We appeal to the gentle reader.

MUSIC.

Were it not for the Covent-Garden Promenade Concerts there would be an almost total vacuum in London music. Those performances are being carried on with great spirit, the programmes offering a constant succession of new features. Last Saturday's concert included the first appearance here of Madame Montigny-Rémaury, whose admirable pianoforte-playing has before been commented on in reference to her performances at the matinées of Mr. John Ella's "Musical Union." On Saturday the lady was heard in Mendelssohn's Capriccio in B minor (with orchestral accompaniments), and in an unaccompanied "Gavotte" by Silas, and "Tarentella" by Wehli, in the execution of each of which her special merits of style and mechanism were very successfully displayed. Mdlle. Anna Verdini continues to be an attraction here, other vocalists who appeared at the concert now referred to having been Miss Anna Williams and Mr. Maybrick. On the previous evening the first ballad concert of the season was given, and on Monday the scheme of the performance—in regular order—of all Beethoven's symphonies, except the ninth and last, was continued by giving No. 2, in D major. Mr. Arthur Sullivan continues to exercise the office of conductor with efficient skill, and is ably assisted by Mr. Alfred Cellier. On Wednesday the second classical night was given, another ballad night having been announced for yesterday (Friday) evening. Mr. Santley and Mr. Charles Hallé are to appear early in September.

A meeting was recently held at Marlborough House, under the presidency of the Prince of Wales, with the view of advancing the science and art of music and of founding a Royal and National College of Music. At present the Royal Academy of Music and the National Training School for Music have no connection. It is proposed, with the assent of the managers of both these institutions, to consider the best methods of bringing them into connection, so that they may co-operate in promoting higher education in the art of music and form the basis of a new college on a more extended and permanent footing than any existing institution. An executive committee, under the presidency of Prince Christian, has been appointed, and will confer with representatives of both these institutions. It is hoped that the present scholarships given by public bodies throughout the country will be continued to the new college, and that the great city and municipal corporations, as well as individuals interested in music, will aid in founding new scholarships. In the autumn the Prince of Wales proposes to invite to a conference representatives of the corporations interested in founding the new college.

The Duke of Westminster, Lord Penrhyn, Mr. Goschen, M.P., Mr. Morley, M.P., and several members of Welsh constituencies were present yesterday week at the first anniversary of the opening of the Clio Industrial Training-Ship, which is moored off the Menai Straits, off Bangor. There are 210 boys on board. The Duchess of Westminster presented the prizes to those boys who had been deemed deserving.

The seventy-first conference of the New Jerusalem Church (Swedenborgians) has been held this week at Salford. The actual work of the gathering began on Tuesday, when nineteen ministers and sixty-seven representatives signed the conference roll. The Rev. William Boyce, of London, was elected president; the Rev. R. Sterry, of Heywood, vice-president; and the Rev. Eli Whitehead, of Huddersfield, secretary. The Revs. Chauncey Giles, W. Benade, and C. Dunham were received as delegates from the United States. Reports showed that sixty-three societies, possessing 4842 members, are connected with the denomination. It was decided that the conference shall be held next year at Kensington, the Rev. Dr. Bayley to be president. On Wednesday evening there was a soirée in the Townhall, which was well attended.

ECHOES OF THE WEEK.

Paris, Aug. 15.

I have quitted (with sincere regret) the Hôtel Bien Secret; and the Boulevard Cache-Cache knows me no more. I imprudently confided the secret of my hiding-place to one or two friends in England. They have imparted the tidings to others; and people have begun to find me out. Yesterday there arrived a young British gentleman from the Midland Counties with a letter of introduction. "Never been in Paris" before. "Well-known courtesy to strangers." "Valuable experience." Would I show him everything worth seeing, especially those departments of the Exhibition from which technical instruction bearing on the progress of electro-metallurgy in France could be systematically acquired? Beshrew the young gentleman from the Midland Counties! I am afraid, too, that the parlour-maid at home has been tampered with, or has yielded to the passionate instances of an infuriated publisher; for the post is beginning to bring me proofs of magazine articles. "Please correct at once and return to Messrs. Type and Roller, Black Boy-court, Fleet-street, E.C." I dare say! They may post proofs; but, short of sending relays of printers' devils across the Channel, they cannot force me to revise the abhorred printed matter. I have put my foot down. The crushed worm has turned. Everybody is out of town. Grouse-shooting has begun. Hayling Island is full of pleasure-seekers. My Prime Minister, my Editor, my tailor, my dearest friend and my most intimate foe are all holiday-making; and nobody shall get any work out of me until September (the "Echoes" always excepted: they are recreation, not labour) if I can help it. My name, for the nonce, is Nothing-to-Do, and I will do it. Meanwhile, to make things quite snug and safe, I have moved. Enquire for me at the Luxor Obelisk in the Place de la Concorde. Write to me at the Buttes Montmartre, "to be left till called for." I live "There"—as the Mulligan told Mr. M. A. Titmarsh, pointing westward, in the early morn, after Mrs. Perkins's ball.

M. Ferdinand Duval, the popular President of the Department of the Seine, has evidently not forgotten his hospitable reception at Guildhall during the mayoralty of Mr. Alderman Stone. It is true that shortly after the magnificent banquet offered by the City of London to the representatives of British and foreign municipalities Lord Mayor Stone went in state to Paris, and was duly introduced to all the lions of the French capital; but the ostensible purpose of the municipal visit was to be present at the opening of the new Grand Opera. In this present year of grace M. Ferdinand Duval and the Paris Municipal Council have resolved that the occurrence of the Exhibition shall be further signalised by a series of fêtes to be held in honour of the Corporations of the great cities of France and of the chief European capitals. Nor, it strikes me, should America be left out, since, unless I am mistaken, the Mayors of Quebec and Montreal, and of more than one city of the United States, were present at the memorable symposium at Guildhall. The programme of the Paris rejoicings comprises a grand banquet and a ball at the Luxembourg. Lord Mayors and Lord Provosts, Sindaci, Gonfalonieri, and Alcaldes will, it is expected, be present in great profusion; but I have not heard whether it is intended to forward a card of invitation to the Burgomaster of Berlin.

Mr. Henry Irving, like other hard-working servants of the public, may be under the impression that he has amply earned and has a right to the enjoyment of a holiday; but the good people of Birmingham think otherwise, and, finding that the accomplished actor was in the Midlands, they laid hands upon him and made him lay the first stone of a new Library, Scientific and Educational Institute, which is to be erected for the intellectual benefit of Harborne and Edgbaston, those important suburbs of Birmingham. Still Mr. Irving had his reward for being compelled to work in the middle of August. From labour the friends of the Institute adjourned to refreshment—the president at the luncheon being, I am glad to see, my old friend Mr. Sam Timmins, J.P., one of the ripest Shakspearean scholars and one of the most appreciative lovers of old books in England. Mr. Irving made a sensible and eloquent speech, and his friends presented him with an illuminated address and the elegant silver trowel with which he had laid the stone; so that everybody was satisfied.

Henry Irving is essentially a master of gesture, by-play, and (if the diplomatists will permit me to use the word) innuendo; and I fancy that were he to come to Paris the Parisians, slender as is their average stock of English, would understand his Hamlet perfectly well, and appreciate it enthusiastically. They understood Edmund Kean; but Macready—who in Hamlet was rhetorical and nothing more—puzzled them hopelessly. I fancy that Mr. Irving would be as popular in Paris as Salvini was in London. The English tragedian would have (as the Italian one had) all the ladies on his side, to begin with; and that is more than three parts of the battle. It was not by arms alone that Theseus subdued the Amazons. He was a good-looking Greek, with a touch of melancholy in his baritone voice; and Hyppolita and the Amazons "caved in" at once, as the "'coon" did to Colonel Crockett.

There was a passage in the Birmingham speech which struck me as equally sensible and felicitous. Quoth Mr. Irving:—"With people who maintained that there was something radically vicious in the whole principle, theory, and practice of the stage, they (the actors) must live as comfortably as they could." There is a great deal of true philosophy in this brief observation. I do not think that there is anybody who could persuade me that the dramatic art is a sinful one, or that it is wicked to go to a theatre; but, on the other hand, I know that I might argue until my hair grew through my hat and my toe-nails grew through my boots, before I succeeded in convincing Mr. Prynne, Counsellor, of Lincoln's Inn, and author of "Histriomastix," that a playhouse is not a sink of iniquity, and that actors and actresses are not the most depraved of humanity. This being the case, let us all live as "comfortably" together as we can. Good old Queen Charlotte delighted to have Mrs. Siddons to tea, and the Baroness Burdett-Coutts never misses a first night's performance of Mr. Henry Irving; but, on the other hand, the Archbishop of Paris refused to give Christian burial to the remains of Mademoiselle Raucourt; our "Junius" (Stat nominis umbra) addressed David Garrick as "Vagabond!" and, at the present day, the exemplary M. Louis Veuillot, in the Univers, continues to call Molière a polisson and Corneille a voyou. If people would only try to live comfortably with each other?

Assuredly there is nothing new under the sun. Everybody knows the story of the contemptuous criticism of the English farmer on George Morland's famous picture of the "Three Pigs." "He paint pigs!" said the bucolic Ruskin, "who ever see'd three pigs a' feedin' together without one of 'em havin' his hoof in the trough?" I read in a recently published biography of David, the great historical painter of the Revolution and the First Empire, an anecdote precisely analogous to the "pig" one. David had publicly exhibited a picture of large dimensions, one of the principal personages in which was an unbridled horse; and, with the pardonable vanity of an artist, he purposely mingled with the crowd gathered before the painting. With one exception, the spectators expressed unbounded admiration. The exception was a hackney-coachman, who exclaimed, disdainfully, "A precious painter this David, to pretend to paint horses! Why he's got one with his jaws all over foam and ne'er a bit between his teeth."

Mem. and moral to the above. It may look aristocratic, but it is scarcely necessary, that a horse should "champ the bit" and foam. The Mexican bridle-bit—a screw one—is so abominably cruel that the rider never uses it save for purposes of parade, when he wishes to make his steed curvet and prance. On ordinary occasions the animal is made bridle-wise by means of two bits of string, with a little knot on each, lightly pressing on the horse's cheek, to teach him which way he is to turn. And there are no more docile horses than those of Mexico.

Touching David, above mentioned, the French Government is, it is understood, in negotiation with that of Belgium to effect the translation of the ashes of the great French painter from Brussels, where he died, to Paris. You remember Béranger's song, "Le convoi de David," and its touching burden. "Non, non, vous ne passerez pas." The painter of "Napoleon Crossing the Alps" was, although a Baron of the First Empire, a furious Red Republican. He was accused of having had his easel set up at the foot of the scaffold in the Place de la Concorde during the Reign of Terror, and of having delighted in the delineation of the last agonies of aristocratic victims, while he was the most intimate and the most devoted friend of Maximilian Robespierre. The Bourbons held David in personal hatred; and after the second Restoration he was expelled from Paris, and died in exile at Brussels in 1825. Shortly before his death, however, it began to be felt that the continued banishment of so illustrious a Frenchman from his native land was a scandal to the French Government, so an exalted functionary of the Ecole des Beaux-Arts was dispatch to Brussels with the mission of making terms with the exile. It was proposed that to testify his reconciliation with the reigning dynasty he should paint the portrait of his Most Christian Majesty Louis XVIII. "Willingly," replied the ferocious but humorous Red Republican Baron: "Send me his head."

Mem: The Bourbons were not alone in their horror of David. That mildest, most benignant, and most charitable of mankind, the illustrious sculptor, John Flaxman, when he visited Paris after the Peace of Amiens, obstinately refused to meet "David, the Sans-Culotte." He could not, he said, "press that blood-stained hand." His compeer in sculpturesque mastery, Antonio Canova, manifested no such political prejudices when he came to London in the train of the Allied Sovereigns. Somebody asked him what he thought of the Prince Regent. "I did not," answered the great Venetian, "come hither to see the Prince Regent. I came to see 'il nobil' uomo,' Giovanni Flaxman, before he died."

Poor Charles Allston Collins (the brother of Wilkie, the son-in-law of Charles Dickens, and a most promising artist and graphic essayist) had a horror amounting almost to "melanophobia" of evening dress. The "claw-hammer" or "steel-pen" coat, as the Americans phrase the garb which gentlemen and waiters are constrained to wear at dinner-time, was to Charles Collins as a red rag is to a bull, or a portrait of St. Ignatius Loyola to Mr. Whalley, or as the scent of a rose was to Henry III. of France. According to the Berlin Borsen Courrier, a similar aversion to the black tail coat and white "choker" is shared by Signor Cairoli, the Prime Minister of the Kingdom of Italy. Some years since, on his marriage with an Italian Countess, justifiably proud of her twenty-three quarters of nobility, M. Cairoli appeared at the Hymeneal altar (it is the Continental custom to be married in evening dress) in a long brown frock coat and a black silk neckcloth. On his appointment to the presidency of the Council of Ministers he made it a condition that he should be allowed to appear "en redingote" in the Royal presence; and only a few days since the inflexible Premier made his appearance in a dark frock coat and a coffee-coloured cravat at the Royal dinner-table at Milan.

Such sumptuary trifles may be worth recording at the time. Only a few days since a little newspaper controversy sprung up as to the costume worn by Lord Castlereagh at the Congress of Vienna. It seems that the hackneyed anecdote of the effect produced by the unadorned simplicity of the British Plenipotentiary's "plain blue frock" among his embroidered, be-starred, and be-ribboned colleagues is a myth; and that Lord Castlereagh wore, as Talleyrand, Metternich, Pozzo di Borgo, and the others did, the garb of his rank and the insignia of his orders. I hope that the chroniclers of the next century will not forget the great Sir Robert Peel's buff waistcoat, the silver buckle which unfixed at the back, the Hero of Waterloo's white cravat, the eyeglass and shirt-collar of Colonel Sibthorp, Sir Francis Burdett's white hat and top-boots, the "curly-brimmed" hat of Thomas Slingsby Duncombe, the shepherd's-plaid trousers of Henry Lord Brougham, the embroidered waistcoats of Benjamin Disraeli, and the lavender kid gloves of the Earl of Beaconsfield, K.G.

I am reminded (by a French, not an English paper) that among the ladies who have been created Knights of the Order of the Legion of Honour must be recorded Lady Pigot, "femme de Sir Robert Pigot, grand propriétaire dans le Cambridgeshire," who received the cross as a recognition of the heroic devotion exhibited by her Ladyship in the service of the French ambulances during the war of 1870-1. Is this so? I hope it is.

The wedding trousseau of the Princess Marie, daughter of Prince Frederic Charles, has, according to custom, been publicly exhibited at Berlin. What dear old Mrs. Delany calls in her Autobiography "the marriage clothes" seem to be, in the case of the Prussian Princess, of the most superb description. What do you think, ladies, of a dress of cloth of silver (German manufacture), a Court mantle of the same precious metal, with a train six yards long, and a veil of point d'Alençon, powdered with roses and myrtles in silver? The wedding crown has been woven by the Princess Louise, sister of the bride. The pocket-handkerchief and the fan are in point de gaze; and the gloves (a present from the bridegroom) were specially embroidered in Luxembourg, the future residence of the Royal couple. Enough of the Gazette des Modes; but only fancy a gown with a tail six yards long! Let me see. What was the length of Alexander the Great's last Court suit (dust-colour, powdered with ashes)? About six feet, I guess.

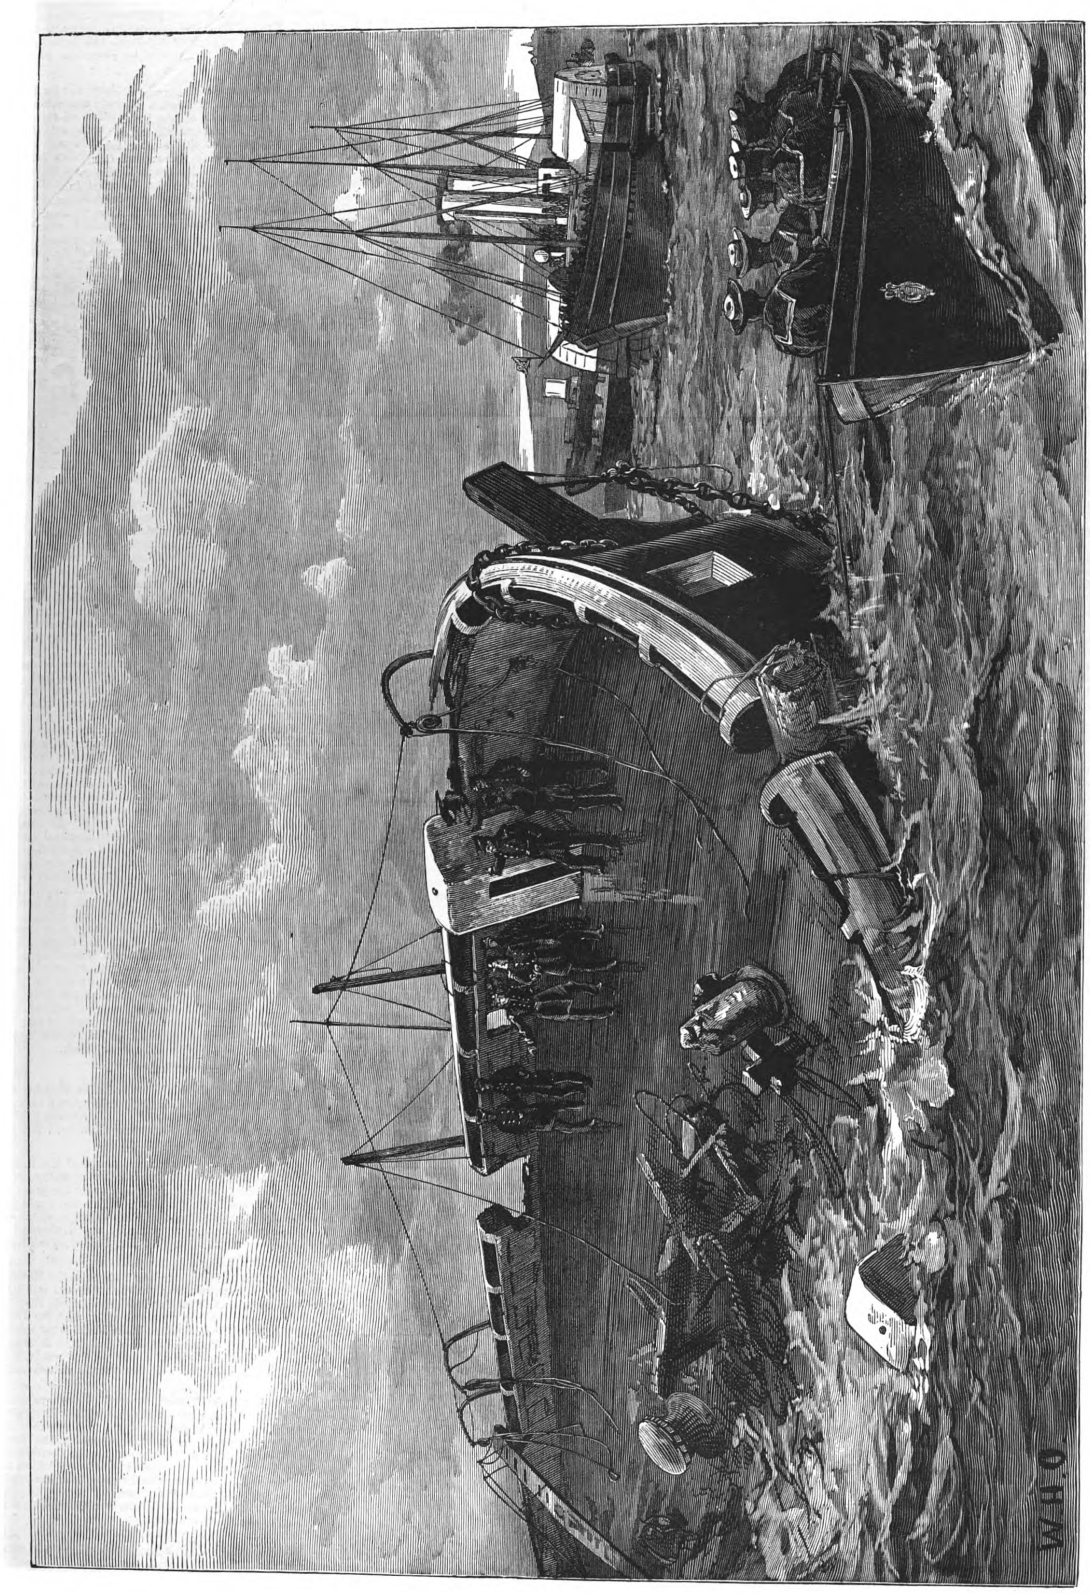
The anniversary of the horrible massacre of the brave and faithful Swiss Guards of Louis XVI. at the palace of the Tuileries on the tenth of August, 1792, was celebrated on Saturday last by a Radical banquet at the Salle Gagny, Rue de la Gaité—de la Gaité!—Paris. The cards of invitation were of a lively crimson hue; and the bill of fare comprised "potage jardinière," "saumon, sauce verte," "noix de veau financière," "légumes panachés," salad, and dessert. But surely there must have been some mistake in the menu. It should have been composed of gunpowder soup, bœuf enragé à la Petrole, tripes de Suisse à la diable, cerveau de victime frit, black pudding, red cabbage, pickled beetroot, curried carrots, and red mullet: the whole washed down by copious potations of red hermitage and Red Heart Rum. The Government, it appears, has taken umbrage at some of the toasts given at this banquet of sanguinolent retrospect, and intends to prosecute some of the speakers.

If my memory serves me correctly there will be held early in September next at Northampton a grand concert and fancy bazaar in aid of the funds of the institution of the Sisters of Nazareth House, Hammersmith, who have established in Northampton a branch of this most admirable and beneficent charity. The work which these good Christian ladies do in London is not half so well known as it deserves to be. They take in, and permanently succour, deserted infants, helpless cripples, diseased and paralytic old people—hopeless incurables, homeless waifs and strays of every kind. They go about begging from door to door for food for their infirm charges, and sometimes they are kindly and generously treated (the fish salesmen down at Billingsgate are very good to them) and sometimes doors are slammed in their faces. They live, themselves, on mouldy crusts and cheeseparings, the refuse of the victuals which charitable folk bestow upon them. If you think that I am exaggerating, hie you to Nazareth House, S.W., ring the bell, and see things for yourself. I am most anxious to do all that I can for this good work—the success of which concerns us all (Catholics, Protestants, Jews and Turks, alike), and if anyone reading this has any drawings, autographs, needlework, or fancy bazaar wares in general to spare, such articles may be sent to the care of Miss Mary Boshell, St. Edmund's, Billing-road, Northampton. Remember, the bazaar is held at the beginning of September.

G. A. S.

THE WRECK OF H.M.S. EURYDICE.

The operations in Sandown Bay, Isle of Wight, upon the wreck of this unfortunate ship, which was lately raised from the place where she sank and brought into shallower water, have been stopped since Monday morning in consequence of the preparations for the Naval Review at Spithead. It is now ascertained that her bottom, on the starboard side, is stayed in, so that pumping can do nothing to get the water out of her. She lies at present off St. Helen's Point, in 14 ft. depth of water at low tide, with her stern buried 3 ft. in a reddish clay bottom; and, as she lies with her heels over towards the sea, the upper deck has been much shattered by the waves beating upon it. The Royal Family have visited the wreck of the Eurydice since it was placed within easy reach of her Majesty's residence in the Isle of Wight. On Friday, the 2nd inst., at half-past six in the evening, the Queen, accompanied by Princess Beatrice, Prince Albert Victor of Wales, and Prince George of Wales, and attended by an equerry, arrived at Sandown Beach from Osborne House and viewed the wreck, making several inquiries of the coastguard officer as to the condition of the ship and the means which are being adopted to recover it. The Royal party then drove back through Yaverland and Brading. Again, on Monday week, the Royal yacht Osborne steamed into Sandown Bay and brought up near the Eurydice. On board were the Prince and Princess of Wales, Prince Albert Victor and Prince George, in the uniform of naval cadets, and the three little Princesses, with ladies and gentlemen in attendance. One of the Osborne's boats was lowered, and the Prince of Wales, in naval uniform, the Captain commanding the Osborne, and other officers and gentlemen, were rowed to the Eurydice. The officers in charge of her at the time were Staff Captain Dathan, Staff Captain Batt, Commander Moss, and Lieutenant Wonham. His Royal Highness clambered up the side of the wreck, and remained some time in conversation with these officers, taking much interest in their description of what had been accomplished and of their plan for future operations. The Captain of her Majesty's ship Valorous, which has been attending on the other ships in Sandown Bay, was also on the wreck during the Prince's visit. The Royal yacht then steamed out of the bay on her return to Osborne House. As soon as the Eurydice is again lifted from her recumbent position she will be towed within Bembridge Ledge, or, should the tide and the purchases act as well as could be desired, it is intended to tow her into harbour at once and moor her in Porchester Creek.

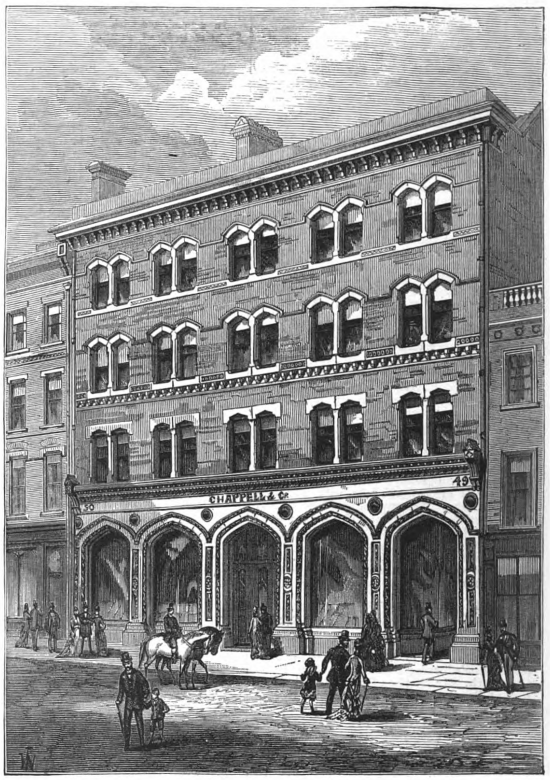


The forty-fifth annual exhibition of the Whitby Agricultural Society was held on Tuesday, and proved to be the most successful the society has ever held. About £500 was offered in prizes for the various classes of horses. The agricultural and hunting varieties were the best.

A burglary was perpetrated at the residence of Mr. B. Levy, Victoria Park, Leicester, early on Sunday morning, in the absence of the family at the seaside. The house was completely ransacked, and large quantities of jewellery and plate were stolen.—Jewellery and plate to the value of about £500 were also stolen on Saturday morning by a well-planned and determined robbery at the shop of Mr. Bishop, jeweller, in Duke-street, Brighton.

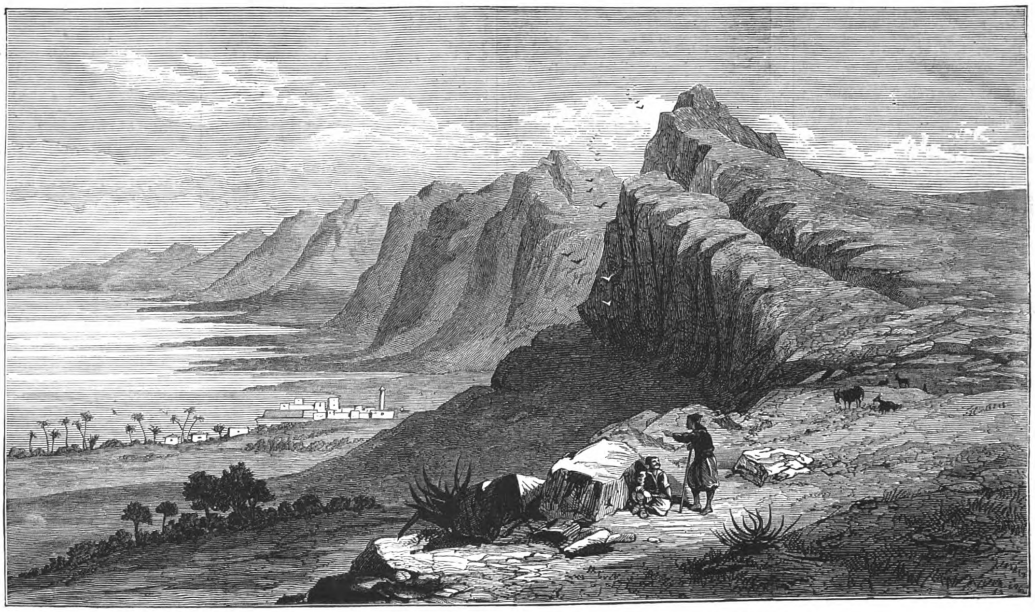
Mr. Henry Irving laid the foundation-stone of the Harborne and Edgbaston Institute on Monday afternoon, and was afterwards entertained at luncheon in the Masonic Hall, Birmingham, when he gave an address upon education and the drama. Speaking in defence of the drama, he said that what sensible men had to do was not to make futile attempts to destroy an institution which was bound up with some of the best instincts of human nature, but to strive to remove its abuses and to elevate its tone.

The Middlesborough Town Council have presented Lieutenant-Colonel Saddler with a silver cradle. The gallant Colonel, after having been elected Mayor in November last, vacated the chair in order to contest a seat in the representation of the borough in Parliament in the Conservative interest. During his term of office his wife presented him with a son, and the Council determined to give him the cradle. The present Mayor made the presentation on Tuesday, together with an illuminated address of thanks for Colonel Sadler's services during his term of office.



The anniversary of the relief of Derry in 1688 was celebrated on Monday in the city of Londonderry by an outdoor Orange demonstration, including a procession with banners and music.—At a late hour on Sunday night a disturbance arose between some Roman Catholics and Protestants travelling in a railway train from Newry, and one of the party, a Protestant named Gough, was shot dead. The train was detained by the police on its arrival at Portadown, and the passengers were searched, two, who had revolvers, being arrested.

VISIT OF THE PRINCE OF WALES TO THE WRECK OF H.M.S. EURYDICE IN SANDOWN BAY.



MADAME ETELKA GERSTER.

MESSRS. CHAPPELL AND CO.'S PREMISES, NEW BOND-STREET.

We are enabled to present, with the accompanying portrait, a short biographical sketch of Madame Etelka Gerster's career. This lady was born on June 16, 1857, at Kaschau, in Hungary. At a very early age she evinced musical abilities of no ordinary kind. Her clear and silver-toned voice drew the attention of everybody acquainted with her family. By the advice of the Director of the Conservatoire at Vienna, who chanced to hear her sing at the head of one of the Catholic processions in her native town, she was placed under the tuition of the far-famed Madame Marchesi, with whom she studied most diligently for three years—1873 to 1876. In the mean time rumours of her wonderful voice had got abroad, and offers were made her from several German towns. Etelka, however, declined these, as she was determined to commence her career in the Italian school, and in January, 1876, she made her début at Venice, under the management of Signor Gardini, in the character of Gilda in Verdi's "Rigoletto," and with wonderful success. Almost at once followed the parts of Ophelia, Lucia, Amina in "La Sonnambula," and Marguerite, which last character she at first sang, as it was originally written, in French. Her next triumph was at Berlin, where it may be justly said she turned everybody's head and created a furore such as had hitherto never been known in the German capital, and her benefit night seemed the climax of her many well-earned triumphs. The demand for places was so great that the administration of the theatre was compelled to ask the public to apply by writing, and it is said that more than 21,000 applications were refused. She then made a short sojourn at Buda-Pesth, where she appeared in the operas of "La Sonnambula" and "Hamlet."

NORTH COAST VIEW, FROM ST. HILARION, ON THE MOUNTAIN CHAIN OF KYRENIA, CYPRUS.

The "Hungarian Nightingale," as she has been called, next went to St. Petersburg and Moscow, where she carried everything before her, and was, at the Emperor's express desire, appointed Kammer-sängerin. For her co-operation in the Court concerts, his Majesty presented her with four thousand marks and a handsome bracelet, while the Empress gave her a magnificent chain ornamented with pearls and diamonds. After singing at Pesth and Breslau Mr. Mapleson had the good fortune to secure her, and she came to London. Here she first sang before an English audience on June 23 last year, in "La Sonnambula." How she took the English public by storm is a matter of history, since her success as a singer and actress has become established. Her performances at Her Majesty's Theatre during the past season were indeed a continued series of triumphs. Her benefit on the last night was the most brilliant; she was called before the curtain not less than twenty times, and bouquets were literally showered upon her during the evening. Madame Etelka Gerster is about to undertake a tour in the United States, but will appear in some of the provincial towns and cities of our own country during the autumn.

MESSRS. CHAPPELL AND CO.'S PREMISES.

These premises, 50, New Bond-street, have recently been rebuilt from the designs and under the supervision of Mr. F. S. Brereton, architect, for Messrs. Chappell and Co., the eminent music-publishers and dealers in musical instruments. The shop front is of Portland stone richly carved; the superstructure is of malm bricks with Portland stone dressing. The style of architecture is a modification of Gothic. The centre door leads to the music department and to the organ and pianoforte galleries, the south entrance to the wholesale department. The interior is commodious, and well adapted for the requirements of so large a business.

POLITICAL.

The annual Ministerial whitebait dinner, which marks the close of the Session, took place on Wednesday night at the Ship Hotel, Greenwich. Mr. Stephen Cave presided. The Earl of Beaconsfield and the Duke of Northumberland were unable to be present. A curious feature of the occasion was that the bill of fare was composed and printed in old English.

Lord Beaconsfield went to Hughenden last Monday evening. On his arrival at High Wycombe railway station three cheers were called for and heartily given by a number of persons who had assembled on the platform. Near Hughenden Manor a few of his Lordship's tenants, with the Vicar of Hughenden, the Rev. H. Blagden, assembled and welcomed him with cheers.

The Corporation of Rochester have resolved to place in their Guildhall a full-length portrait of the late member for the city, Mr. Wykeham Martin, who died suddenly in the House of Commons.

Mr. Egerton Hubbard, M.P., and Mr. Percy Barrington presented on Monday to Lord Beaconsfield and Lord Salisbury a congratulatory address from the Conservative Association of Buckingham on the foreign policy of the Government.

There was a Liberal gathering at Bath on Monday—Mr. E. T. D. Foxcroft presiding. Among the speakers were Mr. Grant Duff and Colonel Hayter, both of whom adversely criticised the home and foreign policy of the Government.

Mr. T. Garfit (Conservative) was returned for Boston last Saturday, in the room of Mr. J. W. Malcolm, resigned. The return of Mr. Garfit does not affect the general position of parties, Mr. Malcolm, the late member, being a Conservative. Mr. Garfit, who is a magistrate and Deputy-Lieutenant for Lincolnshire, and a banker at Boston and Louth, enters Parliament for the first time.

Mr. Gladstone, acknowledging the receipt of a pamphlet on the "Highland Crofters of Scotland," writes:—"I am favourable to the principles on which you write—to the abolition of restrictions and limitations on land, and to having holdings of all sizes, with abundance of small holdings. On my son's property and my own we have this abundance; they form the vast majority, and we would on no account disturb them."

Mr. Forster has declined to submit to a rule of the Bradford Liberal Electoral Association that any person proposed to the association as a Liberal candidate for the borough should give an assurance that he would abide by the decision of a committee of the association. Mr. Forster considers that he ought not to be treated as a new comer, and says he will allow no man, or any set of men, to stand between him and the constituency. At a meeting of the association held to consider Mr. Forster's message a resolution was passed confirming the rule in question, and also a further rule which pledges the members to support the candidates selected by the representative committee.

Mr. P. J. Smyth, M.P., has informed his constituents in Westmeath that it is not his intention to seek re-election. In a letter announcing this resolve, Mr. Smyth says:—"In the present state of Irish opinion, if opinion it may be called, I prefer not to be classed among the parliamentary representatives of my country."

METROPOLITAN NEWS.

The Lady Mayoress's fortnightly receptions at the Mansion House have been discontinued.

In accordance with an order issued by the Duke of Bedford, Sunday trading is prohibited at Covent-garden Market.

Mr. Francis Henry Bacon, son of Vice-Chancellor Bacon, has again been appointed to act as Revising Barrister for the city of London at the ensuing registrations.

The Court of Common Council has resolved to expend £205 in supplying the members of the Court with medallions of Temple Bar, formed from the lead of the roof of the structure.

The Bank of England directors on Monday raised the rate of discount from 4 per cent, at which it was fixed on the 1st inst., to 5 per cent.

The premises of Messrs. Lepard and Smith, paper manufacturers, of King-street, Covent-garden, were destroyed by fire yesterday week, and some adjoining premises were injured.

The Drapers' Company has voted twenty guineas towards the support of the National Hospital for Consumption on the Separate Principle at Ventnor, Isle of Wight.

The Secretary of State for the Home Department has appointed a Committee, consisting of Sir Matthew White Ridley, M.P., and Mr. John Blossett Maule, Q.C., to inquire into the pay and organisation of the Metropolitan Police Force.

A claim for £20,000 made by Lord Beaumont against the Metropolitan District Railway, for an acre and one eighth of land at North-end, Fulham, was on Monday tried in the Sheriffs' Court. The jury gave a verdict for £7250.

Last Saturday the Long Vacation began. It will end on Oct. 24. New regulations have been made by the Chancery Division for the transaction of vacation business. Mr. Justice Manisty and Mr. Justice Hawkins are the Vacation Judges.

A new Polish chapel, in Back-hill, Hatton-garden, was opened on Sunday by Cardinal Manning. It has been erected in consequence of the Polish chapel in Gower-street being inadequate to the increasing wants of the Polish Roman Catholics in London.

Last Saturday General Henry Hyde, R.E., of the India Office, and associate in council of the Institution of Civil Engineers, distributed the certificates awarded by the examiners for the summer term in the Crystal Palace Company's School of Practical Engineering.

On Thursday Baroness Burdett-Coutts entertained to tea, at Highgate, the whole of her tenants in Columbia-square, Hackney-road, about a thousand in number. The Baroness was out of town; but tea was provided in the grounds, and the guests were allowed to go over the mansion.

The Clothworkers' Company have given a donation of £105 to the China Famine Relief Fund. The total amount contributed to this fund in Great Britain up to the present time is £29,600. This total does not include a further sum of £10,000 which has been sent direct to China for the relief of the sufferers through four missionary societies in England.

Ninety-two inspectors and sergeants of police, who have been studying as pupils in the classes of the Ambulance Department of the Order of St. John, under Surgeon Major Shepherd, received on Monday afternoon, at Scotland-yard, their certificates of proficiency in the first treatment of the injured. Captain Harris presided.

The Queen has appointed the Duke of Northumberland, the Rev. R. Gregory, Canon of St. Paul's, the Rev. W. Rogers, Prebendary of St. Paul's, Mr. Farrer Herschell, Q.C., Mr. George Cubitt, Mr. Albert Pell, and Mr. Henry H. Gibbs to be her Majesty's Commissioners to inquire into the parochial charities of the city of London. Mr. W. H. Birley, barrister-at-law, is Secretary to the Commission.

The Daily News is informed that Mr. E. A. Bond, the Keeper of the Manuscripts and Egerton Librarian at the British Museum, will probably succeed to the Post of Principal Librarian and Secretary, vacant by the resignation of Mr. J. Winter Jones. The trustees offered the post to Mr. C. T. Newton, C.B., Keeper of the Greek Antiquities, who had acted for Mr. Winter Jones during his absence last winter.

An influential deputation, headed by Mr. J. S. Forbes, the chairman of the Metropolitan District Railway, waited upon the Metropolitan Board of Works yesterday week to ask that body to transfer to a new scheme for the completion of the Inner Circle Railway the support and subsidy which they have accorded to the scheme already sanctioned by Parliament. The subject was referred to a committee.

The third annual fête in connection with the London Cabdrivers' Association was held on the 8th inst. at Rosherville Gardens. About 1000 of the members and their families proceeded by boat to Rosherville, where a variety of entertainments, including a "march past" by the boys of the Exmouth training-ship, and the ascent of a torpedo-balloon, was provided for the visitors. Addresses were given by Mr. Charles Palmer, M.P., and other gentlemen.

The weekly return of metropolitan pauperism shows that the total number of paupers at the end of the first week in August was 75,927, of whom 38,038 were in workhouses, and 37,889 received outdoor relief. Compared with the corresponding weeks in 1877, 1876, and 1875 respectively, these figures show a decrease of 935, 816, and 6923. The number of vagrants relieved on the last day of the week was 629, of whom 386 were men, 189 women, and 54 children under sixteen.

Mr. William Colmer, the secretary of the Indigent Blind Visiting Society, writes:—"During the last few years many instances of deaths have been recorded of centenarians, but none, I venture to think, more striking than the following—Thomas Budgen, a resident in Spitalfields (who was blind), died on the 4th inst., at the age of 104. He was born on Jan. 27, 1774, married at the age of twenty-nine, and lived with his wife in the same room for sixty-one years. His wife, who was three years younger than himself, died thirteen years since, at the age of eighty-eight.

The Coffee Public-House Association, 40, Charing-cross, offer a prize of £200 for an essay on the providing, on an adequate scale, of halls or other places of resort and recreation for the working classes, the arrangements to include the sale of refreshments but not of intoxicating drinks, so as to supply the requirements of the people in that respect, and to realise a profit to meet at least current expenses. The object of the donor of the prize is, not only to draw general attention to this subject, but also to elicit suggestions as to the agency by which an undertaking of such magnitude may be most effectively carried out. The date fixed for sending in manuscripts is March 1, 1879.

The new Act has been printed "for conferring powers upon the Board of Works with respect to the obelisk known as Cleopatra's Needle and other monuments." It recites that it would be of advantage that facilities should be afforded for the maintenance of the obelisk upon the Victoria Embankment, and that other powers should be conferred with respect to the preservation of monuments, statues, &c., on the embankments and lands of the metropolis. The Act provides that the board is to preserve and maintain the obelisk for the benefit of the public, and may erect in connection with it any appropriate works of art. Penalties not exceeding £5 are to be enforced against any persons injuring the obelisk or other monuments by cutting names, words, or representations of any object.

There were 2241 births and 1694 deaths registered in London last week. Allowing for increase of population, the births were 112 below, whereas the deaths exceeded by 65, the average numbers in the corresponding week of the last ten years. The deaths from smallpox, which had been 11 and 18 in the two previous weeks, were 14 last week. Five of these cases were certified as unvaccinated, and two of adults as vaccinated; in the seven other cases the medical certificates gave no information as to vaccination. The metropolitan asylum hospitals contained 236 smallpox patients on Saturday last, and only 21 new cases were admitted during the week, against 62 and 48 in the two previous weeks. The deaths referred to diarrhœa and simple cholera, which in the seven preceding weeks had increased from 23 to 494, declined again last week to 343, of which 269 were of infants under one year of age, and 60 of children aged between one and five years. Twelve deaths (including 8 of infants) were referred to choleraic diarrhœa and simple cholera, against 23 and 24 in the two previous weeks. There were 14 deaths from measles, 26 from scarlet fever, 11 from diphtheria, 77 from whooping-cough, and 32 from different forms of fever. In Greater London 2818 births and 2084 deaths were registered. The mean temperature was 65·9 deg., and 3·9 deg. above the average. The duration of registered sunshine in the week was 54·5 hours, the sun being above the horizon 105·2 hours.

Lord John Hervey presided at a meeting of the Suffolk and Essex Archæological Societies held at Clare on the 8th inst.

The Queen has conferred the honour of knighthood on Mr. James Salmon, M.D., Inspector-General of Hospitals and Fleets and Honorary Physician to the Queen; also on Mr. James Oldknow, Mayor of Nottingham, and chairman of the committee for establishing in that town the first provincial museum of science and art in connection with South Kensington.

A mass meeting was held in Greenock last Saturday to protest against the foreign bounty system. Mr. James Stewart, M.P., who presided, said he could not believe that a great nation like France would be guilty of carrying on the present selfish system, which was only beneficial to the sugar refiners of France, and not to the people. Resolutions against the continuance of the bounty system, and in favour of the imposition of a temporary countervailing duty, to be abolished when the bounty system was done away with, were adopted.

A thunderstorm was severely felt at Lowestoft and the district last Tuesday evening. There was an immense fall of rain and hail, and many houses were flooded. At Oulton Hall a tree was shattered by lightning, and of eight calves taking shelter under it seven were killed.—Cheltenham, Hereford, and Sedgley were visited by severe thunderstorms last Saturday. A carter named Hoskins, in the employ of Mr. Ball, of Coombe-hill, near Cheltenham, when driving a waggon and team of horses, was struck by lightning and killed.—Last week's storms did some damage to the crops in parts of Cheshire, Staffordshire, Shropshire, and Derbyshire.

NEW BOOKS AND PUBLICATIONS.

EMBROIDERY (NEW), BY E. M. C.—2s. 6d.

THE LADY'S CREWEL BOOK.
Book of Directions, and Twelve Floral Designs for Tracing,
Mantelpiece (Arctotis), Tea-Cosey (Cherry).
Chair-Back (Daffodil), Apron (Clatur).
Chair (Clematis), Cushion (Morning Glory),
Banner (Dahlia), Chair-Back (Cornflower),
Tea-Cloth (Peach), Curtain (Rose).
Blotting-Book (Nemophila).
To be followed by a Second Series in the Autumn.

Also, by the Same Author,
13 Vols., with Illustrations, 1s. and 1s. 6d. each.

KNITTING. 4 Series. | WORK. 2 Series.
CROCHET. 4 Series. | NETTING. 1 Series.
KNITTING, NEEDLEWORK, } For National Schools, 6d. each.
Over 110,000 copies of the above have been sold.

HATCHARDS, 187, Piccadilly, London.

THREE BIRTHDAY BOOKS.
1. From the Bible. 2. From Shakespeare. 3. From the Poets.
1. THE SOUL'S INQUIRIES ANSWERED. By G. WASHINGTON; MOON. 27th Thousand.
2. THE SHAKESPEARE BIRTHDAY BOOK. By MARY F. P. DUNBAR. Forty-fifth Thousand.
3. THE POETICAL BIRTHDAY BOOK. By the Countess of PORTSMOUTH. Fifth Thousand.

DRAWING-ROOM EDITIONS.
13 Copyright Photographs, after Millais, Reynolds, &c.
Crown 8vo, cloth, each 10s. 6d.; leather, 15s. 6d. to 42s.

POCKET EDITIONS.
32mo, cloth, 2s.; gilt, 2s. 6d.; leather, 3s. to 21s.

THE BIRTHDAY BOX of POCKET EDITIONS.
3 vols., cloth gilt, in handsome box, 10s. 6d.
HATCHARDS, 187, Piccadilly, London.

POPULAR NOVELS AT ALL LIBRARIES.
STRANGE WATERS. By R. E. FRANCILLON, Author of "Olympia," &c. 3 vols.
SALVIA RICHMOND. 3 vols.
FREDA. By the Author of "Miss Jerningham's Journal." 3 vols.
SECOND EDITION of FLORENCE MONTGOMERY'S SEAFORTH. 3 vols.
RICHARD BENTLEY and SON, New Burlington-street.

Now ready, price 6d.,
THE NOVELETTE for AUGUST.
Containing
FLORENCE MARRYATT'S NEW NOVEL,
With PHOTOGRAPH and AUTOGRAPH of the AUTHOR.

CONTENTS OF
THE NOVELETTE for AUGUST.
FLORENCE MARRYATT'S NEW NOVEL, with PHOTOGRAPH.
PARTHENIA'S PERFUME. By the Author of "Lost Footsteps," &c.
TAKES AT HER WORD. By the Author of "Sweethearts," &c.

Price 6d.; post-free, 7d.,
THE NOVELETTE.—Vide Opinions of the Press at all Booksellers and Railway Stations.
London: R. S. CARTWRIGHT, 8, Johnson's-court, Fleet-street.

POTTERY-PAINTING: a Handbook to the Practice. By JOHN C. L. SPARKES, Director of the Lambeth School of Art, &c. Second Edition. Post-free, 1s. 1d.—London: LECHERTIER, BARBE, and Co., 60, Regent-street, W. (Agents in England for LACROIX'S Ceramic Colours).

VITREMANIE SUPERSEDING DIAPHANIE.—An easy and inexpensive Method of Decorating Windows in Churches, Public Buildings, and Private Dwellings, by which may be produced the Rich Colouring and Beautiful Designs of Real Stained Glass. Handbook of Designs and Instructions, 1s. 1d. Particulars post-free. Sole Inventors, J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-street, London, W.

FOR THE HOLIDAYS.
The Best of all Railway Companions. Sixpence each.
At all Book-stalls.
BEMROSE'S PANORAMIC RAILWAY GUIDES.—A diagram of the railway occupies the centre of each page; the direction of the trains is indicated by engraved engines and carriages; stations, junctions, &c., are shown, and distances given; rivers, canals, roads, churches, chapels, institutions, and works are pointed out, and whatever locally pertains to history, biography, and science is stated in plain language and in readable type. The following Guides are ready:—
The Midland. | Brighton and South Coast.
London and South-Western. | Great Western.
London and North-Western. | Chatham and Dover.
Great Eastern. | North British.
South-Eastern. | Glasgow and South-Western.
London: BEMROSE and SONS, 10, Paternoster-buildings.

CANCER AND TUMOURS, A Successful Mode of Treating Certain Forms of. By ALEX. MARSDEN, M.D., Senior Surgeon to the Cancer Hospital, London. Price 8s. 6d.—J. and A. CHURCHILL, New Burlington-street.

Third Edition, Sixth Thousand, gratis and post-free,
CANCER AND EXTERNAL TUMOURS; their Successful Dispersion by the Method and other Processes without the knife. By H. ROBINSON, B.A., L.R.C.S.I., Senior Surgeon to S. Saviour's Cancer Hospital, North-end, Fulham, S.W.
London: J. B. LANCASTER, 2, Osnaburgh-street, S.W.

NOW READY,
THE ILLUSTRATED
PENNY ALMANACK FOR 1879, containing Twenty-four Engravings from the ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS of our Ironclads, the Cleopatra, Ostrich Farming, and other Foreign and Domestic Subjects; Tables of Stamps, Taxes, and Licenses; Eclipses, Remarkable Events, Post-Office Regulations, and a great variety of Useful and Interesting Information. The Trade supplied by G. VICKERS, Angel-court (173), Strand; and H. WILLIAMS, Warwick-lane, Paternoster-row, London.

NEW MUSIC.
THE BERLIN CONGRESS POLKA, with beautifully engraved Portraits of the Plenipotentiaries. Price, by post, 24 stamps.
NEUMEYER and Co., 114, Queen Victoria-street, London, E.C. and all Musicsellers.

FOR ARMS and CREST, send Name and County to T. MORING, Inns of Court Heraldic Office, 44, High Holborn, W.C. Plain Sketch, 3s. 6d.; Coloured, 7s. 6d. Seals, Dies, and Diplomas. Illustrated Price-Lists post-free.

BIRKET FOSTER'S CHROMOS.—GREAT BARGAINS.—Eight beautiful 10s. 6d. Chromos for 21s. There is only a limited number of sets. Also, a large quantity of very fine Engravings in stock, at exceedingly low prices. All Framing done at trade price; also Regilding.
GEO. REES, 41, 42, 43, Russell-street, Covent-garden.

WEDDING and BIRTHDAY PRESENTS at HENRY RODRIGUES', 42, Piccadilly, London.
Sets for the Boudoir and Writing Table, 21s. to £10.
Envelope Cases .. 10s. to £5 | Dressing Cases .. 21s. to £50
Inkstands .. 5s. to £5 | Jewel Cases .. 21s. to £5
Despatch Boxes .. 21s. to £6 | Work-Boxes .. 10s. 6d. to £2
Writing Cases .. 10s. to £5 | Card Trays .. 21s. to £5
Travelling Bags, Candlesticks, Candelabra, Flower Vases, Jardinières, and a large and choice Assortment of English, Viennese, and Parisian Useful and Elegant Novelties, from 5s. to £5.

PORTRAIT ALBUMS at RODRIGUES', with Patent Leather Guards, 4s. 6d. to £5. Easel Albums, Scrap Albums, Presentation and Regimental Albums. Albums of every description made to order.—42, Piccadilly.

MONOGRAMS.—RODRIGUES' Novelties in Monograms, Crests, and Addresses. Steel Dies engraved as gems. Note Paper and Envelopes illuminated in gold, silver, bronze, and colours. Coloured stamping, 1s. per 100. All the New and Fashionable Note Papers.—42, Piccadilly.

VISITING CARDS at H. RODRIGUES'. A Card-Plate elegantly engraved and 100 superfine Cards printed for 4s. 6d. Ball Programmes, Bills of Fare, Guest Cards, and Invitations, in every variety.—42, Piccadilly.

THE ACADEMY of MUSIC in DRESDEN.
Under the Patronage of KING ALBERT of SAXONY, and Subsidised by the State.
The new Academical Year commences Sept. 1. The instruction comprises:—1st. Instrumental Music (piano, organ, stringed and wind instruments); 2nd, Harmony; 3rd, Singing; 4th, Preparation for Opera and Drama; 5th, a school for the Instruction of such as intend to become Teachers of Music.
The Prospectus of the Academy and all further particulars, as well as the yearly report, will be forwarded on applying to the "Expedition des Conservatoriums," including six penny stamps.
The Masters are—Herr Blassmann, Professor Döring, J. Jacobsen, Schmole, &c. (Piano); Prof. Rappoldi (Violin); Herr Grützmacher (Violoncello); Herr Merkel (Organ); Herr Reichbicter and Prof. Dr. Wollner (Harmony); Prof. Dr. Naumann (History of Music); Herren Scharfe, de Grandi, and Fräulein von Meichsner (Singing); Herr Bürde and Frau Niemann-Seebach (Declamation), &c.
The Yearly Terms are—for Instrumental Music, Harmony, and the Dramatic School, 300 mark (£15 each); Singing, 400 mark (£20); Operatic singing, 500 mark (£25). Further information can be obtained from the Managing Director.
Prof. Dr. Wullner, Artistic Director.
F. Puchs, Managing Director.

A LADY, the Widowed Mother of Ten Children, earnestly implores orders for most exquisite ETCHINGS of ANIMALS. A beautiful Specimen Etching sent, with particulars and references if desired, on receipt of 36 stamps. Address—Box 23, Penzance.

PARIS EXHIBITION.
Special Arrangements for Visitors to the Exhibition have been made by the RAILWAY PASSENGERS' ASSURANCE COMPANY,
for providing against
ACCIDENT BY RAILWAY OR STEAM-BOAT
during the journey to PARIS and back.
A Premium of One Shilling Insures £1000 if Killed, or £6 per week if laid up by Injury during the Double Journey.
POLICIES AGAINST ACCIDENTS OF ALL KINDS may also be effected for One, Three, or Twelve Months, on moderate terms.
Apply at the Booking-Offices of the Southern Railways, or at the Head Office, 64, Cornhill, London.
William J. Vian, Secretary.

ORDER EVERYTHING YOU REQUIRE THROUGH COCKBURN'S UNITED SERVICE AGENCY SOCIETY, 41, Haymarket, London, S.W., and save from 5 to 50 per cent and much time and trouble by so doing.

GEOLOGY.—In the Preface to the Student's "Elements of Geology" by Sir Charles Lyell, price 9s., he says:—"As it is impossible to enable the dealer to recognise rocks and minerals at sight by the aid of verbal descriptions or figures, he will do well to obtain a well-arranged collection of specimens, such as may be procured from Mr. TENNANT, 149, St and, Teacher of Mineralogy and Geology." These collections are supplied on the following terms, in plain mahogany cabinets:—

100 specimens, in cabinet, with three trays	£2 2 0
200 specimens, in cabinet, with five trays ..	5 5 0
300 specimens, in cabinet, with nine drawers ..	10 10 0
400 specimens, in cabinet, with thirteen drawers	21 0 0

More extensive collections, at 50 to 5000 guineas each.

E. DENT and CO., 61, Strand; and 34 and 35 (within), Royal Exchange, London, Manufacturers of Watches, Chronometers, &c., to her Majesty. Makers of the great Westminster clock (Big Ben) and of the Standard clock (the primary standard timekeeper of the United Kingdom) of the Royal Observatory, Greenwich. Catalogues on application.

OROIDE GOLD WATCHES, 21s., 25s., 30s.; free by registered post 6d. extra. Facsimile of costly gold watches; exact time-keepers. Catalogues post-free.
C. C. ROWE, 88, Brompton-road, London, S.W.

£10. BENNETT'S WATCHES.
In return for a £10 Note, free and safe per post, one of BENNETT'S LADY'S GOLD WATCHES, perfect for time, beauty, and workmanship, with keyless action, air-tight, dust-tight, and dust-tight.—65, Cheapside, London. Gold Chains at manufacturers' prices. P.O.O. to John Bennett.
BENNETT, 65 and 64, Cheapside.

WALKER'S CRYSTAL CASE WATCHES are superseding all others. Prize Medals—London, 1862, Paris, 1867. Silver Watches, from £4 4s.; Gold, from £6 6s. Price Lists sent free.—68, Cornhill; 220, Regent-street; and 76, Strand.

JOSEPH GILLOTT'S
STEEL PENS.
Sold by all Stationers throughout the World.

"THE WORLD has been endowed with with one of the greatest blessings in the manufacture of Macniven and Cameron's excellent pens."—Reading Herald.
"They come as a boon and a blessing to men."
The Pickwick, the Owl, and the Waverley Pen."
"They are a treasure."—Standard.
Just out, the HINDOO PENS, Nos. 1, 2, 3.
Patentees: MACNIVEN and CAMERON, 23 to 33, Blair-street, Edinburgh (established 1770), Penmakers to her Majesty's Government Offices.
Sample Box, assorted of all the kinds, 1s. 1d. by post.
Just out, No. 2 WAVERLEY PEN, Large Size.

LADIES ABOUT TO TRAVEL should see the "OSBORNE" DRESS-CASE, very light and handsome, with collapsible bonnet compartment. Price 16s. 6d.
HARRON, Manufacturer, 261, High Holborn (five doors west from Inns of Court Hotel). Illustrated List free.

CAUTION.—BOND'S CRYSTAL PALACE GOLD MEDAL MARKING INK.—Some Chemists and Stationers, for extra profit, deceive you. See "Prepared by the Daughter of the late John Bond."—Works, 5, Southgate-road, London. No heating required.

A FACT.—HAIR COLOUR WASH.—By damping the Hair with this Wash, in twelve hours it becomes its original colour (this is guaranteed). 10s. 6d. Sent for stamps.—ALEX. ROSS, 248, High Holborn, London.

GOLDEN HAIR.—ROBARE'S AUREOLINE produces the beautiful Golden Colour so much admired. Warranted perfectly harmless. Price 5s. 6d. and 10s. 6d., of all Perfumers. Wholesale, EVENDEN and SONS, 5, Great Marlborough-street, W.; and 93 and 95, City-road, E.C.; London; Strand and Meyer, 37, Boulevard de Strasbourg, Paris; 31, Graben, Vienna; 44, Rue des Longs Chariots, Brussels.

DOES YOUR HAIR TURN GREY? Then use HERRING'S PATENT MAGNETIC BRUSHES and COMBS. Brushes, 10s. and 18s. each. Dressing Combs, 5s., 5s. 6d., 10s., 15s., and 20s. each. Pamphlets upon application.—5, Great Marlborough-st., W.; 93 and 95, City-road; and of all Perfumers.

THE COURT HAIR DESTROYER.—This newly-discovered remedy completely removes superfluous hair. Quite harmless. 3s. 6d.; post 3s. 10d., of Inventor, J. Leon, 96 Portens-rd., London, W., or Chemists. Particulars, 1 stamp.

A NEVER-FAILING REMEDY for Bilious and Liver Complaints, Indigestion, Wind, Spasms, Giddiness, Dizziness of the Eyes, Habitual Costiveness, &c.—Dr. SCOTT'S BILIOUS and LIVER PILLS, without Mercury, are unequalled. Mild in their operation, they create appetite and tone the whole nervous system.—Sold by W. LAMBERT, 24, Ves-street, London, W., and all Druggists, in Boxes, 1s. 1½d. and 2s. 9d. The genuine are in a square green packet.

LAXORA MEDICATED FRUIT LOZENGES for CONSTIPATION, SLUGGISHNESS OF THE STOMACH, BILE, HEADACHE.
The "Lancet":—"It is a great improvement on the preparations in common use for the same purpose."
"Medical Press":—"Laxora Lozenges can be safely recommended."
C. R. C. Tichborne, Ph.D.:—"Laxora Lozenges are efficacious, and nicely made."
Sold, 1s. 1½d., by all Chemists and Druggists; Wholesale, 82, Southwark-street.

TOOTH-ACHE.
INSTANT CURE.
FORMS A STOPPING.
SAVES THE TOOTH.
J. Hounsell, Esq., Surgeon, Bridport, writes:—"I consider HUNTER'S NERVINE a specific for found instantaneous and permanent relief."
Of all Chemists, at 1s. 1½d. per Packet.

BLAIR'S GOUT PILLS,
The Great English Remedy for Gout and Rheumatism. Sure, safe, and effectual. No restraint of diet required during their use, and are certain to prevent the disease attacking any vital part. Sold by all Chemists at 1s. 1½d. and 2s. 9d. per Box.

MAPLE and CO., the largest and most convenient FURNISHING ESTABLISHMENT in the three days. Purchasers should inspect the Stock before deciding elsewhere. All goods marked in plain figures. Estab. 38 years.

MAPLE and CO. supply every requisite for HOUSE FURNISHING, including Linens, Ironmongery, Glass, Crockery ware, Clocks, Bronzes, and every description of Ornaments, either for dining or drawing room or for Christmas and Wedding Presents, in separate departments.

DINING-ROOM FURNITURE.

MAPLE and CO.—DINING-ROOM FURNITURE.—Sideboards in oak, mahogany, and other woods, from 6 guineas to 100 guineas. Fine oak and mediæval Dining-room Furniture; Tables from 3 guineas to 70 guineas. A large assortment of Clocks, Bronzes, and other Ornaments.

DINING-ROOM FURNITURE. — Forty very handsome Carved Oak Antique Sideboards, with Dining-Tables and Chairs to match. Thirty complete Dining-Room Suites in stock to select from, 14 guineas. Good strong Dining-room Chair, in mahogany or oak, stuffed all hair, and covered in leather, 24s. 6d.

MAPLE and CO.—DRAWING-ROOM FURNITURE. The Largest Assortment in London. An endless variety of Cabinets, from 2 to 60 guineas, many well as Black and Gold; 100 Easy-Chairs, from 1 to 10 guineas; as a very extensive Stock of Clocks, Bronzes, and Fancy Ornaments; 500 Chimney-Glasses, from 2 to 80 guineas; Console-Tables, as well as Girandoles, from 1 to 20 guineas.

MAPLE and CO., Importers.
TURKEY CARPETS,
INDIAN CARPETS,
PERSIAN CARPETS.

OVER 2000 DAGHESTAN and SOUMACK CARPETS, also 500 Turkey Carpets, of extra fine quality and of marvellously low prices, just received from Constantinople. These Goods have been bought by Agents especially dispatched by Messrs. MAPLE and CO. for cash, are of great rarity, some being very handsome and prayer rugs, which have been made over a hundred years. The prices are wonderfully low—in fact, one third of that usually asked for these curiosities.—145, 146, 147, Tottenham-court-road, London.

MAPLE and CO. — SILK DAMASKS. The largest and most varied assortment of Satin, Silks, Cotelines, Silk Reps, all in stock. To purchasers this is a great object, as not only do they get the silks at a lower price than if they were made, but they are not kept waiting.

MAPLE and CO.—CURTAINS, for Dining and Drawing Rooms. The largest and most varied stock of Curtain Materials in London. Good Wool Reps, double width, 2s. 6d. per yard. Satin Stripe Reps, in all colours, all wool, and double width, from 3s. 3d. per yard.

MAPLE and CO.—CRETONNE CHINTZ. The French Chintz, which requires no lining when used for loose covers. The widths is 32 inches, and the prices vary from 6½d. per yard to 3s. 11d. per yard. The largest assortment in England. Patterns sent.

POSTAL ORDER DEPARTMENT. Messrs. MAPLE and CO. beg respectfully to state that this Department is now so organised that they are fully prepared to execute and supply any Articles that can possibly be required in Furnishing at the same price, if not less, than any other house in England. Patterns sent and quotations given free of charge.

MAPLE and CO.—BED-ROOM SUITES in EARLY ENGLISH, carried out to design by the best artists of the day. Some new and most elegant suites, designed by gentlemen especially engaged by Messrs. Maple. These suites, being a specialty with this firm, should be seen. Machinery, &c., has been erected for us to produce this class of furniture at the lowest possible cost.
145, 146, 147, 148, 149, Tottenham-court-road, London.

GARDNERS' NEW DINNER and TABLE GLASS SERVICES are original in design, effective in appearance, and unequalled in price. Dinner Services from £5 3s. the Set for twelve persons, complete, with 15 per cent discount for cash on or before delivery. Table Glass Services from £3 5s. 6d. the Set for twelve persons complete.

DINNER SERVICES.
Coloured Lithographs post-free.

In Deep Blue.		In Blue and White.
The Lansdowne ..	£3 3 0	The Lansdowne ..	£3 3 0
The Laurel	3 13 6	The Indiana	4 4 0
		The Danish	5 5 0

Discount 15 per cent.

In Enamelled Patterns.		In their unequalled Crown Ware.
The One Thousand and Two (A)	5 5 0	In Ruby	£5 5 0
The Japanese Bamboo	6 6 0	In Pink	5 5 0
The Humming-Bird ..	7 7 0	In Black	5 5 0
The Sèvres	7 7 0

Discount 15 per cent.

TABLE GLASS SERVICES.

Plain light stem glass	£3 5 6	Light engraved glass ..	5 15 6
Richly cut glass ..	5 5 0	Richly engraved glass	5 19 6

Discount 15 per cent.
Illustrated Glass Catalogue, which must be returned, sent post-free on application.
Gardners', Lamp, Glass, and China Manufacturers, 453 and 454, West Strand, Charing-cross.

SILVER TEA and COFFEE SERVICES. GOLDSMITHS' ALLIANCE (Limited), Manufacturing Silversmiths, 11 and 12, Cornhill, London, request attention to their Extensive STOCK, which comprises every variety of the Newest and most Elegant Designs. The following are much admired:—

The Portland Pattern.		The Indian Pattern.
Beautifully Engraved.		Richly Chased.
Silver Teapot	£14 2 0	Silver Teapot	£14 10 0
Silver Sugar Basin ..	8 2 0	Silver Sugar Basin ..	7 14 0
Silver Cream Ewer ..	3 16 0	Silver Cream Ewer ..	3 5 0
Silver Coffeepot.. ..	16 16 0	Silver Coffeepot.. ..	17 12 0
	£44 18 0		£45 1 0

Silver Table and Presentation Plate, including Kettles, Tea-Trays, Waiters, Inkstands, Prize Cups, Epergnes, and Flower-Stands. Drawings and Estimates of which will be forwarded on application.

MORTLOCK'S CHINA.—GREAT SALE. THE ANNUAL CLEARANCE SALE WILL TERMINATE AUG. 31.
Further reductions in every department, to effect a clearance.
202, 203, and 204, Oxford-street; and 30, 31, and 32, Orchard-street, Portman-square, London W.

ICE SAFES or REFRIGERATORS Fitted with Water Tanks, Filters, and every modern improvement. The Only Double-Wall Ice Water Pitchers, Ice Butter-Dishes, Champagne Frappe Pails, Seltzogenes, Freezing Powders, &c. Lists free.—WENHAM LAKE ICE COMPANY, 125, Strand.

CHUBBS' FIRE and THIEF RESISTING SAFES, steel-plated, and with their Patent Diagonal Bolts are the most secure. Chubbs' Patent Latches and Locks for all purposes. Cash and Deed Boxes. Price-Lists sent free.
CHUBB and SON, 128, Queen Victoria-street, St. Paul's, E.C.; and 68, St. James's-street, S.W.

PEARS' TRANSPARENT SOAP. For the Toilet, the Nursery, and for Shaving. Refined, free from excess of alkali and from artificial colouring, delicately and wholesomely perfumed. It is Soap in its purest form, and hence the most healthful in use: its great durability makes it also the most economical. For Ladies, Children, or anyone with delicate and sensitive skin it is invaluable, as it may be safely used where no other Soap is admissible. It has stood the test of eighty years' trial, received six prize medals, and the highest recommendations of many eminent medical practitioners. Sold by all Chemists, and by Pears, 91, Great Russell-street, London.

THE ONLY SOAP FOR THE COMPLEXION, Making the skin clear, smooth, and lustrous.
WRIGHT'S COAL-TAR SOAP (SAPO CARBONIS DETERGENS).
Highly and extensively recommended for the toilet and in all cases of cutaneous disease by Mr. Jas. Startin, M.R.C.S., Surgeon to St. John's Hospital for Diseases of the Skin, the late Mr. James Startin, M.D., F.R.C.S., of Savile-row, Mr. McCall Anderson, M.D., F.F.P.S., of Woodside-crescent, Glasgow, and the other leading members of the profession. In Tablets, 6d. and 1s., in elegant Toilet-Boxes, of all Chemists. Beware of spurious imitations.—Inventors and Sole Proprietors, W. V. WRIGHT and CO., London.

PETER ROBINSON, OXFORD-STREET.
GREAT SALE OF FRENCH SILKS AND ANNUAL SUMMER SALE.
TEN THOUSAND PIECES OF COLOURED, BLACK, AND FANCY
SILKS AT GREAT REDUCTIONS, including
20,000 mètres of rich Stripe and Check Silks, at 1s. 11½d. per yard; 400 pieces of rich Coloured Gros Grain Silks, every new shade, at 3s. 2½d. per yard;
1000 pieces of Black Silk of special pureness, in four prices—viz., 2s. 6d., 3s. 6d., 3s. 11½., and 4s. 6d. per yard.

BROCADED SILKS,
of extreme richness, usual prices 8s. 6d. to 21s., will be sold at 4s. 6d. to 6s. 6d. per yard.
Damassés of the newest designs, usual price 3s. 6d., at 1s. 11½d. per yard.
1000 pieces of Silk Pongees, in lengths of 20 yards, with Rich Embroidered Scarves for trimming (now so much worn in Paris), 38s. 6d. complete.
600 pieces Rich Silk Embroidered Cashmere, at 3s. 9d. per yard; usual price, 6s. 6d.
500 pieces Indian Pongee Washing Silks, 16s. 9d. the piece of 20 yards.
Patterns post-free.
58 Coloured Silk Costumes at 58s. 6d., reduced from 5½ guineas.
98 Silk Costumes in Black and all Colours, 42 guineas, very cheap.
PETER ROBINSON, OXFORD-STREET.

ANNUAL SUMMER SALE.
DRESSES AT GREAT REDUCTIONS.
700 pieces Summer Cashmere Merinoes, new Colours, 1s. 11d. per yard.
250 pieces Twilled Angola Mous ège, all Wool, in useful Shades of Grey, Drab, Brown, Steel, &c., at 1s. 6d. per yard.
400 pieces Striped Llama Poplins, all pure Wool, 2½d. per yard.
The entire Stock of French Percales, Cambrics, Brilliants, and Moss Crêtonnes, all new Patterns, will be sold at 6d. per yard.
300 boxes Fast Black Velvet Velveteens, formerly 3s. 9d., at 2s. 3d. per yard.
Patterns post-free.
Made Costumes, in all the New Fabrics and Latest Style of Fashion, 2½, 3½, 4½, to 6½ gs., including—210 Costumes in Angola Moss Cloth, formerly 3 guineas, at 35s.
180 Trimmed and Braided Cashmere Morning Robes, formerly 42s., at 21s.
150 Paris Model Costumes, formerly 6 to 10 guineas, at 4 to 5 guineas.
PETER ROBINSON, OXFORD-STREET.

SPECIAL SALE OF
BLACK GRENADINE COSTUMES.
A Producer's Stock of several hundred, from 1s. 6d. to 1 guinea.
These goods are much less than half price.
PETER ROBINSON, 103 to 108, OXFORD-STREET, W.

TRAVELLING and SEASIDE DRESSES.
Witney Serges and fine Cashmeres,
in New Shades,
Rich Granite Cloths, Damask Lawns, New Angolas, Specialities in Moss Cloths, Fancy Casimires, &c., from 12s. 6d. to 3½s. 6d. the Dress. Patterns free from PETER ROBINSON, OXFORD-STREET, LONDON, W.

BAKER and CRISP'S COSTUMES.
Engravings and Patterns free.
198, Regent-street.

BAKER and CRISP'S BLACK FABRICS.
Every description,
from 6d. yard.
Patterns free.—198, Regent-street.

BAKER and CRISP'S EARLY AUTUMN SERGES and FABRICS, from 10½d. yard.
Patterns free.—198, Regent-street.

BAKER and CRISP'S BLACK, COLOURED, and DAMASSÉ SILKS, from 1s. 6½d. yard.
Patterns free.—198, Regent-street.

BAKER and CRISP'S NEW ULSTERS, 10s. 6d., 15s. 6d., 25s. 6d.
Patterns free.—198, Regent-street.

PATTERNS FREE.
BLACK SILKS,
manufactured by Messrs. Bonnet, of Lyons.
Messrs. JAY beg to inform their Patrons and the Public generally that they are now selling these well-known pure light-dyed Silks at a reduction from 5s. to 6s. per cent off prices that were charged previously to the depression in Lyons Silk Market.

Present price.		former price.
4s.	11d.;	5s.	6d.
"	5s.	6d.	"	8s. 9d.
"	5s.	11d.	"	9s. 6d.
"	6s.	9d.	"	10s. 6d.

Messrs. JAY are also selling Jaubert's good-wearing Black Silks at the following reduced rates:—

Present price.		former price.
3s.	9d.;	5s.	6d.
"	4s.	6d.	"	6s. 9d.
"	5s.	3d.	"	7s. 6d.
"	5s.	9d.	"	8s. 3d.

As the present low prices are not at all likely to continue, and as Silks wear much better if not used fresh from the loom, Messrs. Jay strongly advise their Customers to take advantage of this occasion, to make purchases of that always fashionable and useful article—a good Black Silk.
Bonnet's Black Satins, all pure Silk, 22 inches wide, from 5s. 3d. per yard.
JAYS,
THE LONDON GENERAL MOURNING WAREHOUSE, Regent-street, W.

HENRY GLAVE'S
GREAT SUMMER SALE of CHEAP GOODS still continues, with large daily additions of useful things at marvellous prices—everything legibly marked in plain figures, and sold for cash only.
Patterns, Samples, and all information post-free.
534, 535, 536, and 537, New Oxford-street, London.

HENRY GLAVE'S
SILK AND VELVET DEPARTMENT.
Black Silks, special prices for this season.
Black Silks, at 1s. 6d., 1s. 11½d., 2s. 6d., and 2s. 11½d. yard.
Black Silks, Lyons Gros Grains, by Messrs. Gourd, Croizat, and Cie., special prices, 3s. 11½d. a yard.
Blue-Black Velveteens, 1s. 6½d. a yard, 25 in. wide.
Fancy yards Rich Coloured Velveteens, 50 different shades, 27 in. wide, 1s. 6½d. yard; former price, 2s. 11½d.
7000 yards Rich Coloured Velveteens, 50 different shades, 27 in. wide, 2s. 6½d. a yard; former price, 3s. 11½d.
The new "Louis" Velveteen. These Velveteens, dyed the new shade of blue-black by a special process, are guaranteed to retain their colour and brilliancy, and cannot be distinguished from Lyons Silk Velvets at four or five times the price.
Special Parcels of 27 in. Silk Costume Velvets, 6s. 11d. the yard; former price, 10s.
Black Satins, 1s. 6½d., 1s. 6½d., 1s. 11½d., 2s. 6½d., and 2s. 11½d.
Black Satins, 3s. 6½d., 3s. 11½d., 4s. 11d., and 5s. 11d. a yard.
Coloured Satins, in 100 shades, 2s. 6½d. and 3s. 6½d.
Patterns of all kinds post-free.
534, 535, 536, and 537, New Oxford-street, London.

D. NICHOLSON and CO. send post-free Patterns of
NEW SILKS,
DRESS FABRICS,
MANTLES, and COSTUMES.
D. NICHOLSON and COMPANY, 50 to 53, ST. PAUL'S CHURCHYARD, LONDON.

WEDDING TROUSSEAUX, £20, £50, and £100.
Indian Outfit, £25. Lists free.
Mrs. ADDLEY BOURNE, 37, Piccadilly.

BABY LINEN.
LAYETTES, £5, £10, and £20.
List post-free.
Mrs. ADDLEY BOURNE, 37, Piccadilly.

SWANBILL CORSET (Registered), especially for ladies inclined to embonpoint. The Swanbill is most effective in reducing the figure, and keeping the form flat. Price 14s. 6d.; with Jean d'Arc Belt, 21s.
Send size of waist, with Post-office order.
Mrs. ADDLEY BOURNE,
37, Piccadilly; and 76, Rue St. Lazare, Paris.

SHIRTS.—FORD'S EUREKA.—"The most perfect fitting made."—Observer. Gentlemen desirous of purchasing shirts of the best quality should try Ford's Eureka. 30s., 40s., 45s. half-dozen. Illustrations and self-measure post-free.—41, Poultry, London.

VALUABLE DISCOVERY for the HAIR.
A very nicely-perfumed Hairdressing, called the MEXICAN HAIR RENEWER, now being sold by most Chemists and Perfumers throughout the country at 3s. 6d. per bottle, is fast superseding all the old restorers and dyes for the purpose of changing grey or white hair to its natural, original colour, for it will positively restore the hair in every case of greyness to its original colour, without dyeing it or leaving that disagreeable and offensive smell which most of the hair preparations of the day do. This preparation has never been known to fail in restoring the hair to its natural colour and gloss in from eight to twelve days. It promotes growth and gloss in from eight falling out, eradicating dandruff, and leaving the scalp in a clean, healthy condition. It imparts peculiar vitality to the roots of the hair, restoring it to its youthful freshness and vigour. Daily applications of this preparation for a week or two will surely restore faded, grey, or white hair to its natural colour and richness. It is not a dye, nor does it contain any colouring matter or offensive substance whatever. Hence it does not soil the hands, the scalp, or even white linen, but produces the colour within the substance of the hair. Read the following from Mr. Nathan Bergy, chemist, Walkden:—"One of my customers told me the other day he had had grey hair for thirty-five years, and, after using one bottle of the MEXICAN HAIR RENEWER I sold him, it was restored to and kept in its natural colour." It may be had of any respectable Chemist, Perfumer, or Dealer in Toilet Articles in the Kingdom, at 3s. 6d. per bottle. In case the dealer has not the MEXICAN HAIR RENEWER in stock, and will not procure it for you, it will be sent direct by rail, carriage paid, on receipt of 54 in stamps, to any part of England.—Prepared by HENRY C. GALLUP, No. 493, Oxford-street, London.

AN IMPORTANT QUESTION FOR LADIES.

Would you have luxuriant hair,
Beautiful, and rich, and rare
Would you have it soft and bright,
And attractive to the sight?
This you really can produce,
If you c...m constant use
THE MEXICAN HAIR RENEWER.

The hair it strengthens and preserves,
And thus a double purpose serves;
It beautifies—improves it, too,
And gives it a most charming hue,
And thus in each essential way,
It public favour gains each day—
THE MEXICAN HAIR RENEWER.

If a single thread of hair
Of a greyish tint is there,
This "Renewer" will restore
All its colour as before,
And thus it is that vast renown
Does daily now its virtues crown—
THE MEXICAN HAIR RENEWER.

No matter whether faded grey,
Or falling like the leaves away,
It will renew the human hair,
And make it like itself appear:
It will revive it, beautify,
And every ardent wish supply—
THE MEXICAN HAIR RENEWER.

THE MEXICAN HAIR RENEWER.
When the original colour has returned the MEXICAN HAIR RENEWER should be applied about once a week, which will be sufficient to sustain it. Ladies and gentlemen possessing grey, who have despaired of a restoration of the beauty of this wonderful natural ornament, will be surprised at the beneficial effect produced by a few applications of the MEXICAN HAIR RENEWER. The vital forces of the organs on which the hair depends will be re-established, and the growth present the luxuriance and colour of youth. When the hair begins to come out on combing, a few applications will arrest it. The MEXICAN HAIR RENEWER should always be used on the first appearance of dandruff, for it keeps the head clean and cool. The MEXICAN HAIR RENEWER is colourless, pleasantly perfumed, and renders the hair soft, pliant, and luxuriant. It gives the hair that peculiar richness and colour so essential to the toilet. The MEXICAN HAIR RENEWER may be procured of any first-class perfumer, chemist, or dealer in toilet articles throughout the country, at 3s. 6d. per Bottle. In case the dealer has not the preparation in stock, and recommends something else as being similar, do not be deceived. In case he will not procure it for you, it will be sent free of freight, upon receipt of 48 in stamps, to any part of England. The MEXICAN HAIR RENEWER is put up with directions in German, French, and Spanish. Retail everywhere in the Kingdom at 3s. 6d. Only one size. Prepared by H. C. GALLUP, No. 493, Oxford-street, London.

WHAT GIVES A GLOSS TO THE HAIR?

What gives the hair a charming gloss,
And makes it look as soft as floss?
What gives luxuriance to each tress?
Why, all the world will gladly confess
That nothing really can outvie
And rank so justly and so high
As THE MEXICAN HAIR RENEWER.

What gives the hair an impulse great
And brings it from each known retreat?
Why, Gallup's Famed Renewer stands,
And universal praise commands:
Whilst all acknowledge with delight
That nothing makes it half so bright
As THE MEXICAN HAIR RENEWER.

All other preparations made
It sinks into oblivion's shade;
It has the praise of thousands gained,
Celebrity likewise obtained;
And, what is of importance more,
It will be the Mexican Hair Restore,
THE MEXICAN HAIR RENEWER.

The natural colour, by its use,
Like magic does its power produce:
'Tis harmless, and of compounds rare,
Selected with especial care,
And thus it is it ranks so high,
Whilst one and all may now rely
On THE MEXICAN HAIR RENEWER.

THE MEXICAN HAIR RENEWER has gained for itself the highest reputation, and a decided preference over all other "hair dressings," as evinced from certificates and testimonials from the most respectable sources. Being compounded with the greatest care—combining, as it does, all the most desirable qualities of the best hair preparations of the day, without the objectionable ones—it may be relied on as the very best known to chemistry for restoring the natural colour to the hair, and causing new hair to grow on bald spots, unless the hair-glands are decayed; for if the glands are decayed and gone no stimulus can restore them; but if, as is often the case, the glands are only torpid, THE MEXICAN HAIR RENEWER will renew their vitality, and a new growth of hair will follow. Read the following Testimonial:—

From Messrs. Wm. Hayes and Co., Chemists, No. 12, Grafton-street, Dublin:—"We are recommending THE MEXICAN HAIR RENEWER to all our customers as the best of the kind, as we have been told by several of our friends who tried it that it has a wonderful effect in restoring and strengthening their hair." The MEXICAN HAIR RENEWER may be procured of any first-class Perfumer, Chemist, or Dealer in Toilet Articles throughout the kingdom, at 3s. 6d. per bottle.

WHAT WILL RESTORE THE HAIR?

What will restore the human hair,
And make it look as fresh and fair
As when it was before its hue
Was changed so sadly to the view?
The very best restorer is
In all essential points—why this—
THE MEXICAN HAIR RENEWER.

How beautiful the hair it makes,
And admiration, too, awakes:
It gives luxuriance, richness, grace,
And other points we proudly trace:
What strengthens it, but never fails?
What adds to beauty's dowry—charms?
THE MEXICAN HAIR RENEWER.

For either sex it will impart
Abundant hair by matchless art;
If baldness should, with stealthy power,
Arrest its growth in evil hour,
Why, what will that annoyance spare,
And crown the head with glossy hair?
THE MEXICAN HAIR RENEWER.

Thousands of proofs from every side
All guarantee its use with pride:
It never fails to please the mass
Of every rank and every class,
The very best restorer is,
In all essential points—why, this—
THE MEXICAN HAIR RENEWER.

THE MEXICAN HAIR RENEWER.
The constitution of the person and the condition of the scalp have much to do with the length of time it requires for new hair to grow; also thin or thick hair will depend much upon the vital force remaining in the hair-glands. New hairs are first seen to start around the margin of the bald spots near the permanent hair, and extending upwards until the spots are covered more or less thickly with fine short hair. Excessive brushing should be guarded against as soon as the small hairs make their appearance; but the scalp may be sponged with rain water to advantage occasionally. The scalp may be pressed and moved on the bone by the finger ends, which quickens the circulation and softens the spots which have remained long bald. On applying the hair-dressing it enlivens the scalp, and in cases where the hair begins to fall a few applications will arrest it, and the new growth presents the luxuriance and colour of youth. It may be relied on as the best hair-dressing known for restoring grey or faded hair to its original colour without dyeing it, producing the colour within the substance of the hair, imparting a peculiar vitality to the roots, preventing the hair from falling, keeping the head cool, clean, and free from dandruff, causing new hairs to grow, unless the hair-glands are entirely decayed. The MEXICAN HAIR RENEWER makes the hair soft, glossy, and luxuriant. Sold by Chemists and Perfumers, at 3s. 6d.; or sent to any address free on receipt of 48 in stamps.
HENRY C. GALLUP Proprietor 493, Oxford-street, London.

NEW MUSIC.

NEW DANCE MUSIC.

CHARLES D'ALBERT'S NOVELTIES.

CYPRUS POLKA .. .. 2s. 0d. net
CONGRESS LANCERS .. .. 2s. 0d. net
PAUL ET VIRGINIE WALTZ .. .. 2s. 0d. net
PAUL ET VIRGINIE QUADRILLE .. .. 2s. 0d. net
PAUL ET VIRGINIE GALOP .. .. 2s. 0d. net
THE ENGAGED WALTZ. Played at her Majesty's State Ball .. .. 2s. 0d. net
DISTANT SHORE WALTZ. On Sullivan's Song .. 2s. 0d. net
SWEETHEARTS LANCERS .. .. 2s. 0d. net
CLEOPATRA GALOP .. .. 2s. 0d. net
THE LOVE-LETTER POLKA .. .. 1s. 6d. net
THE FANFARE POLKA .. .. 2s. 0d. net
MOLLY DARLING QUADRILLE .. .. 2s. 0d. net
SWEETHEARTS WALTZ. On Arthur Sullivan's popular Song .. .. 2s. 0d. net

N.B.—A Complete List of M. D'Albert's Popular Dance Music will be sent on application.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

SIGNOR PINSUTI'S NEW SONGS.

DUSCHINKA; or, The Star of the North. Words by Fanny Lablache. 2s. net.
THE SOLDIER'S BETROTHED. Words by Maria X. Hayes. 2s. net.
NOT YET. 2s. net. AFTER LONG YEARS. 2s. net.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

SONGS AFTER HANS ANDERSEN'S POEMS, MUSIC BY MOLLOY.

THE LITTLE TIN SOLDIER. 2s. net.
TWO LITTLE LIVES. 2s. net.
THE LITTLE MATCH GIRL. 2s. net.
THE STORY OF THE NIGHTINGALE. 2s. net.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

REMINISCENCES OF ENGLAND.
REMINISCENCES OF IRELAND.
REMINISCENCES OF SCOTLAND.
REMINISCENCES OF WALES.
Arranged for the Pianoforte by FRED. GODFREY (B.M. Coldstream Guards). Played by all the Bands in her Majesty's Service. Price 2s. each net.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

SECONDHAND PIANOFORTES.
TERMINATION OF THE LONDON SEASON.
Now on view, an immense number of Pianofortes returned from Hire, to be sold, at greatly reduced prices, for cash.
Pianinos from 18 guineas.
Cottages from 20 guineas.
Grands from 50 guineas.
50, New Bond-street.

SECONDHAND PIANOFORTES at 50, New Bond-street, may be hired, with option of purchase, or on the "Three-Years' System," at greatly reduced prices.

SECONDHAND PIANOFORTES now on View by the following eminent Makers:—
BROADWOOD. | ERARD.
COLLARD. | CHAPPELL.
LIPP. | ROSENKRANZ.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

SECONDHAND HARMONIUMS, for CHURCH, SCHOOL, or DRAWING-ROOM. Upwards of a hundred varieties now on View. From 3 guineas to 100 guineas. At CHAPPELL and CO.'S, 50, New Bond-street.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S SPECIALITIES in ORGAN HARMONIUMS.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S NEW ORGAN HARMONIUMS.—Five octaves, two pedals, suitable for cottage or school. Price 7 gs.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S GOTHIC MODEL, dark oak, ten stops, &c. 28 guineas, or £2 2s. per quarter on the Three-Years' System.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S NEW ORGAN MODEL by ALEXANDRE, two rows of keys, five stops and sub-bass, Venetian swell, two knee pedals. 38 guineas, or £3 16s. per quarter on Three-Years' System.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S EXHIBITION CHURCH MODEL, fifteen stops, 4½ rows of vibrators, Venetian swell, 55 guineas, or £3 10s. per quarter for Three Years.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S SPECIAL CHURCH MODEL, 18 stops, five rows of vibrators, &c., 80 guineas; or £5 per quarter on the Three-Years' System.
Full Illustrated Lists free by post.
50, New Bond-street, W.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S SPECIALITIES in PIANOFORTES.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S STUDENT'S PIANOFORTE. Compass, five Octaves, 15 gs., or £1 10s. per quarter on the Three-Years' System.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S SCHOOL PIANINOS, Canadian Walnut, 20 gs., or 2 gs. per quarter on the Three-Years' System of Purchase.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S YACHT PIANINOS, 30 gs., or £3 per quarter on Three-Years' System of Purchase.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S BOUDOIR PIANINO, 35 gs., or £3 10s. per quarter on the Three-Years' System of Purchase.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S MODEL PIANETTE, 35 gs., or £3 10s. per quarter on the Three-Years' System of Purchase.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S ENGLISH MODEL, 40 gs., or £4 per quarter, on the Three-Years' System of Purchase.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S COLONIAL MODEL, 45 gs., or £4 10s. per quarter on the Three-Years' System of Purchase.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S FOREIGN MODEL, 50 gs., or £5 per quarter on the Three-Years' System of Purchase.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S ENGLISH OBLIQUE, 55 gs., or £5 10s. per quarter on the Three-Years' System of Purchase.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S OBLIQUE GRAND, 70 gs., or £7 per quarter on the Three-Years' System of Purchase.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S IRON-FRAMED OBLIQUE, 90 gs., or £9 per quarter on the Three-Years' System of Purchase.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S MIGNON IRON GRAND, 80 gs., or £8 per quarter on the Three-Years' System of Purchase.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S BOUDOIR IRON 110 gs., or £11 per quarter on the Three-Years' System of Purchase.
NEW BOND-STREET, W.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' GOLD-MEDAL PIANOS have been awarded First-Class Medals of Honour:—At London, 1862; Paris, 1867; Netherlands, 1868; Paris, 1870; Paris, 1874; Philadelphia, 1876; S. Africa, 1877, &c. Illustrated Lists free.—18, Wigmore-street, London.

NEW MUSIC.

Price 2s. 6d. each volume, paper; 4s., cloth, gilt edges,

THE ROYAL SONG-BOOKS.

RUBINSTEIN'S 50 SONGS.
RUBINSTEIN'S 15 VOCAL DUETS.
BEETHOVEN'S 75 SONGS.
MENDELSSOHN'S 60 SONGS.
SCHUMANN'S 72 SONGS.
THE SONGS OF GERMANY (100 Volksleider).
The above have all the Original English Words.
THE SONGS OF ENGLAND (100 Songs).
THE SONGS OF SCOTLAND (100 Songs).
THE SONGS OF IRELAND (100 Songs).
THE SONGS OF WALES (62 Songs).
The above form a complete Collection of National Songs.
THE SACRED SONGS—ANCIENT AND MODERN (100 Songs).
HUMOROUS SONGS (72 new and old Songs).
CHOICE DUETS FOR LADIES' VOICES (24 Duets).

BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

MUSIC FOR THE SEASIDE. Popular Numbers of BOOSEYS' MUSICAL CABINET. 1s. each.
214. BOOSEYS' MARCH ALBUM (36 Marches).
203. RUBINSTEIN'S FIRST PIANO ALBUM (11 pieces).
204. BRAHMS' PIANO ALBUM.
205. HAYDN'S PIANO ALBUM.
200. RAFF'S PIANO WALTZ ALBUM (6 sets).
206. LAMOTHE'S PIANO WALTZ ALBUM (6 sets).
201. WALDTEUFEL'S WALTZ ALBUM.
216. ROBERT FRANZ ALBUM (30 songs).
170. SANTLEY'S NEW COPYRIGHT SONG-BOOK.
168. ARTHUR SULLIVAN'S 19 SONGS.
169. VIRGINIA GABRIEL'S 18 SONGS.
163. A. S. GATTY'S 12 BALLADS.
1. LONGFINGER AND FOLI'S 22 STANDARD SONGS.
98. SANTLEY'S AND FOLI'S 22 STANDARD SONGS.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street, and all Musicsellers and Booksellers.

BOOSEYS' SHILLING INSTRUCTORS. New Additions to the Series.
BEST'S FIRST ORGAN BOOK.
ELLIOTT'S NEW HARMONIUM TUTOR.
EDWARD HOWELL'S VIOLONCELLO TUTOR.
HENNING'S FIRST BOOK FOR THE VIOLIN (including Progressive Exercises).
DR. SPARKS' HANDY-BOOK OF CHORAL SINGING (including 156 Exercises and Part-Songs).
DR. CALLCOTT'S GRAMMAR OF MUSIC. New Edition.
VACCAI'S SINGING METHOD.
BOOSEYS' SHILLING PIANOFORTE TUTOR, by MOUNT. (100th Thousand.)

BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

THE CAUSE OF ENGLAND'S GREATNESS. A sterling good Song, founded on anecdote. Composed by J. L. HATTON. Post-free for 18 stamps.
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co., New Burlington-street.

DEAR ENGLAND. Composed by L. DIEHL, and sung by Signor Foli. The sentiments of this song will, in these stirring times, find sympathy in every English home. Post-free for 24 stamps, as a part song, 2 stamps.
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

THE SEA IS ENGLAND'S GLORY. A most effective transcription for the Piano, by F. LEMOINE, of a grand melody, almost national in its character. Post-free for 24 stamps.—London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

WESTWARD HO! FOR ENGLAND. A bright and joyful Song of homeward-bound sailors. Composed by EDWARD HARRY BARRI. Post-free for 18 stamps.
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co., New Burlington-street.

STANDARD SCHOOL BOOKS (MUSIC).
Clarke's Catechism. 1s.; cloth, 1s. 6d.
Clarke's Elements of Harmony. 2s.
Sutton's Elements of the Theory of Music. 2s.
West's (G. F.) Questions on the Theory of Music. 1s.; in cloth, 1s. 6d.
Cocks and Co.'s Musical Cards.
West's (G. F.) The Pupil's Daily Exercises. 4s.
West's (G. F.) Teacher and Pupil. Three Piano duets, each 4s.
Hamilton's Modern Instructions. 1925th Edition. 4s.
Appendix to ditto. By G. F. West. 4s.
Rohner's Art of Singing. 4s.
Hamilton's Dictionary of 3500 Musical Terms. 1s.; in cloth, 1s. 6d.

London: ROBERT COCKS and Co., New Burlington-street.

ECHOES for the PIANOFORTE, post-free at half price.
ECHOES OF LUCERNE. Brinley Richards. 4s.
ECHOES OF KILLARNEY. Brinley Richards. 4s.
ECHOES OF ZURICH. 4s. Rondoletto. 4s.
THE CORONATION MARCH from the "Le Prophète" (Meyerbeer); Transcribed for the Pianoforte by FREDERIC LEMOINE. 4s.; post-free, 24 stamps.
London: Sole Publishers, ROBERT COCKS and Co.

CHARLES HALLÉ'S PRACTICAL PIANOFORTE SCHOOL.
Section I.—No. 1. Pianoforte Tutor.
FORSYTH BROTHERS, London and Manchester.

HELLER'S FOURTH SONATA. Op. 143. 8s.
FORSYTH BROTHERS, 272A, Regent-street, Oxford-street, London; and Cross-street, South King-street, Manchester.

BOOSEY & CO.'S PIANOFORTE-ROOMS. GRAND and UPRIGHT PIANOFORTES, by all the great makers, both English and Foreign, for SALE or HIRE, subject to the largest discount obtainable in London. Pianettes, from £21. Short Grands, from £50. Sole Address, 295, REGENT-STREET.

BOOSEY and CO.'S Short Iron Grand PIANOFORTES, 80, 70, 80, and 85 guineas each, subject to a liberal discount for cash, or on the Three-Years' System, from £5 10s. per quarter. Special Instruments for India. Illustrated Price-Lists free.
Sole Address, 295, Regent-street (adjoining the Polytechnic).

SECONDHAND PIANOS.—BOOSEY and CO. have a large Stock of Instruments by all the great Makers, which they offer, according to their custom on the close of the season, at greatly reduced prices. The majority of these Pianos have been Hired for Three Years only, and are as good as new.—295, Regent-street (adjoining the Polytechnic).

GEO. WOODS and CO.'S AMERICAN ORGANS.
BOOSEY and CO., 295, Regent-street,
Sole Agents for the United Kingdom.
Pipe, Reed, and Pedal Organs, from £17 to £200.
Illustrated Price-Lists post-free.

ERARDS' PIANOS.—Messrs. ERARD, of 18, Great Marlborough-street, London, and 13, Rue du Mail, Paris, Makers to her Majesty and the Prince and Princess of Wales, CAUTION the public that pianofortes are being sold bearing the names of "ERARD" which are not of their manufacture For information as to authenticity apply at 18, Great Marlborough-st., where new Pianos can be obtained from 50 guineas.

ERARDS' PIANOS.—COTTAGES, from 50 guineas.
OBLIQUES, from 85 guineas
GRANDS, from 125 guineas.

PIANO, £35 (Civil Service cash price). Trichord Drawing-Room Model, repetition action, grand, rich, full tone, in very handsome Italian walnut-wood case, with horizontally-strung fret work front, and carlole truss legs. The usual price charged for this Instrument is 50 guineas. Drawings of this beautiful Piano sent post-free on application. THOMAS OETZMANN and CO., 27, Baker-st., Portman-square.

BROADWOOD and COLLARD COTTAGE PIANOFORTES, fullest compass of Seven Octaves. Two beautiful instruments, of rich and full tone, in the choicest Italian walnut-wood, nearly new. To be SOLD at unusually low prices. May be seen at OETZMANN'S, 27, Baker-street.

TWENTY-POUND SCHOOL-ROOM PIANO (Co-operative price for cash). Seven octaves, strong, sound, and substantial. Adapted for hard practice. Packed free. Illustrated Book of Designs gratis and post-free.
THOMAS OETZMANN and CO., 27, Baker-street, W.

EBONY and GOLD PIANOS, 25 guineas, 35 guineas, and 45 guineas.—These charming and elegant Pianos, with ormolu embellishments, repetition action, and every recent improvement, may now be obtained at the above prices for cash, or on the Three-Years' System, at 1 guinea per month. The new Illustrated Catalogue gratis and post-free.
THOMAS OETZMANN and CO., 27, Baker-street, W.

PIANOFORTES for HIRE or for SALE, from 25 gs. upwards.—JOHN BROADWOOD and SONS, 33, Great Pulteney-street, Golden-square, W. Manufactory, 46, Horseferry-road, Westminster.

P. J. SMITH AND SONS'
IRON-STRUTTED PIANOS.
"The best and most substantial instrument produced."
9, CONDUIT-STREET, REGENT-STREET, W.

CYPRUS.—Officers and others proceeding to Cyprus will effect an immense saving by supplying themselves from Messrs. OETZMANN and CO.'S. Their experience in supplying Officers of the Military, Naval, and Civil service on Foreign Stations enables them to execute their orders with economy and dispatch. Packed in extra strong cases by experienced packers. Price-List of every requisite post-free. The "Daily News" says:—"Advices from Cyprus state that every thing is enormously dear there."—OETZMANN and CO.

FURNISH THROUGHOUT.
SUBSTANTIAL ARTISTIC FURNITURE.
OETZMANN & CO.,
HAMPSTEAD-ROAD,
NEAR TOTTENHAM-COURT-ROAD.

FURNISH THROUGHOUT.—OETZMANN and CO., 67, 69, 71, 73, 77 and 79, HAMPSTEAD-ROAD, near Tottenham-court-road. Bedding Factory, Eagle-place, London, N.W. Drummond-street; Bedding Factory, Eagle-place, London, N.W. CARPETS, Furniture, Bedding, Ironmongery, China, Glass, Paper Hangings, Pictures, Bronzes, Clocks, &c., and every other requisite for completely furnishing a house throughout.

THE IMMENSE RANGE of PREMISES formerly the EAGLE BREWERY having been REBUILT and ADDED to their SHOW-ROOMS, it is now one of the largest and quality respectfully solicited before deciding elsewhere. OETZMANN and CO. are enabled to offer SPECIAL ADVANTAGES to Country Customers in Delivery of Goods and Their own large PANTECHNICON VANS, and fixing in position by competent persons. Descriptive Catalogue, the best Furnishing Guide extant, post-free.—OETZMANN and CO.

READY MONEY versus CREDIT or BOOKING.—Messrs. OETZMANN and CO.'S business is conducted on the co-operative system of ready money transactions, with the extra advantages of centralised management and personal proprietary supervision, the public receiving all the benefit of the co-operative system without its inherent trouble and annoyances, and the prices will be found lower than those charged at co-operative stores. This system offers great advantage to those in a position to pay ready money.

SEASIDE LODGINGS.—EXTRA BED to accommodate Visitors.—A strong IRON FOLDING BEDSTEAD, 6 ft. long by 3 ft. 6 in. wide, with a wool mattress, bolster, and pillow complete, for 21s. Same items, 3 ft. wide, 25s., complete. Sent carefully packed. Forms a portable package. Also, to suit the above, two white calico sheets, one ditto bolster case, one pillow case, three white Witney blankets, and one counterpane, for 28s. 6d. the set. Iron Easy-Chair Bedstead, with cushions, forming the mattress. Price, complete, 21s.—Address order to OETZMANN and CO.

ARTISTIC BORDERED CARPETS, OETZMANN and CO., to meet the increasing taste for Artistic Furnishing, are introducing some very handsome ready-made Bordered Carpets in every class of design, adapted to every style of furnishing and decoration, at greatly reduced prices, ranging from 30s. 6d. to 18 guineas. Price-List and Sketch-Plans of Rooms, as guides for measurements, are sent post-free on application.—OETZMANN and CO.

EVERYONE SHOULD SEE the large, handsome AXMINSTER HEARTH RUGS that OETZMANN and CO. are now selling at 9s. 11d. each; usual price 15s. 6d. There is nothing sold that can be compared with these for quality and cheapness. An immense variety of Designs and Colours to suit every pattern in Carpets. A visit of inspection solicited.—OETZMANN and CO.

BOMBAY STRIPED CURTAINS.—The cheapest CURTAINS extant, effective style, 3 yards long by 46in. wide, 9s. 9d. per pair; 4 yards, 11s. 9d.; 5 yards, 13s. 9d. Patterns on application.—OETZMANN and CO.

NOTICE.—ROYAL WORCESTER CHINA, from the celebrated ROYAL PORCELAIN WORKS, can be obtained from OETZMANN and CO., Complete House Furnishers, 67 to 79, Hampstead-road, who are also the SOLE VENDORS of the CLEOPATRA TOILET SERVICES (ewer, basin, &c., complete), from 8s. 6d. per set.—Descriptive Price-Lists of the same can be had post-free on application.

POSTAL ORDER DEPARTMENT. OETZMANN and CO.—Orders sent per post, whether large or small, receive prompt and careful attention. Those residing at a distance, or any to whom a personal visit would be inconvenient, desirous of leaving the selection to the firm, may rely upon a faithful attention to their wishes and interest in the selection. This department is personally superintended by a member of the firm. For further particulars please see page 267 in Catalogue, sent post-free on application.

FURNISH THROUGHOUT.—OETZMANN and CO., COMPLETE HOUSE FURNISHERS, 67, 69, 71, 73, 77 and 79, Hampstead-road (three minutes' walk from Tottenham-court-road and lower-street Station, Metropolitan Railway). Lowest prices consistent with guaranteed quality. Close at Seven, and on Saturdays at Four. Descriptive Catalogue post-free.

DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE, post-free.
OETZMANN & CO.,
HAMPSTEAD-ROAD.

NOTICE.—SILVER and ELECTRO-PLATE.—ELKINGTON and CO., Manufacturing Silversmiths, Patentees of the Electro-Plate Process, Revised Illustrated Pattern-Book of New Designs in Table Plate, Tea and Coffee Sets, and new qualities in Spoons and Forks forwarded free by post on application. Testimonial Plate in Solid Silver, in great variety, always in stock. Committees provided with Designs and Photographs to suit all occasions.
Address—Elkington and Co., 22, Regent-street, London; or 42, Moorgate-street, City.

FIRST-CLASS QUALITY. SUPERIOR TASTE. LOWEST PRICES.
ALFRED B. PEARCE'S
DINNER, DESSERT, BREAKFAST, TEA, and TOILET SERVICES.
The Newest and Best Patterns always on View.
TABLE GLASS, CUT, ENGRAVED, and ETCHED.
ARTISTIC DESIGNS.
Stock conveniently arranged for parties furnishing to select from.
ORNAMENTAL GOODS.
Large Assortment, combining Utility with Beauty.
VASES, STATUETTES, GARNITURES, SEAUX, CANDELABRA.
Descriptive Catalogue post-free.
39, LUDGATE-HILL, E.C.
Established 1760.

OSLER'S GLASS CHANDELIERS, Wall Lights and Lustres for Gas and Candles.
Cheval Mirrors in Bronze and Ormolu.
DUPLEX LAMPS
fitted with Patent Extinguisher.
KEROSENE AND OTHER OILS OF THE FINEST QUALITY.
TABLE GLASS of ALL KINDS and NEWEST DESIGNS.
ORNAMENTAL GLASS, ENGLISH and FOREIGN.
Minton's and Worcester Porcelain and Stone China.
BIRMINGHAM: Manufactory and Show Rooms, Broad-street.
LONDON: Show-Rooms, 45, Oxford-street, W.

GASELIERS, in Crystal, Glass, Ormoulu, or Bronze, Mediæval Fittings, &c. A large assortment always on view. Every article marked with plain figures.
D. HULETT and CO., Manufacturers, 55 and 56, High Holborn.

BREAKFAST IN BED.—CARTER'S PATENT REVOLVING BED-TABLE, adjustable to any height or inclination, for reading and writing. Price from £2 5s. Drawings free.—J. CARTER, 6A, New Cavendish-street, Great Portland-street, W.

JEWEL ROBBERIES PREVENTED.—J. TANN'S RELIANCE SAFES have never failed to resist the attempts of the most determined burglars. Fire-Resisting Safes, £2 5s. Lists free.—11, Newgate-street, E.C.

EPPS'S COCOA.

THE "Naval and Military Gazette" says:—
"The nutritive qualities of cocoa over either those of tea or coffee are now so generally acknowledged that the steady increase shown by official statistics in its consumption during recent years ceases to be a matter of surprise. One of the first firms to popularise this now indispensable adjunct to our breakfast-table was Messrs. Epps and Co., whose name, since 1839, has been so continuously before the public, and whose Homœopathic Cocoa is as familiar in our homes as the proverbial 'household words.' Those whose business it has been to watch at Messrs. Epps's works the elaborate and complex processes, and to note the care and labour bestowed before the cocoa bean is considered ready for consumption, cannot but admit that the popularity Messrs. Epps's productions have secured is fully deserved. The vastness of these works may be imagined when it is stated that four millions of pounds of prepared cocoa alone are prepared there yearly. The reputation gained, now many years since, for Mr. James Epps's preparation, has ever been fully maintained. A constant increasing demand fully testifies to this—which must be as gratifying to Messrs. Epps as it is certainly flattering to the good faith they have kept with the public to secure so gratifying a result."

"All the Year Round" says:—
"Having now disposed of fancy chocolate, let us stroll to the Euston-road, hard by the Regent's Park, to Epps's cocoa manufactory, where may be studied the making of cocoa on a stupendous scale, giving a just idea of the value of these articles, not as luxuries, but as actual food."

THE "Court Journal" says:—
"In a climate so varying and trying as our own, to maintain sound and uniform health, our daily diet cannot be too carefully and attentively studied. Advancing science and recent discoveries have within the last few years been instrumental in adding several most valuable additions to our comparatively short list of dietetic foods. Foremost among these should be ranged cocoa, which, although known here several centuries previously, only came into general use within the last forty years. One of the first to popularise this now indispensable adjunct to our table was Mr. James Epps, whose 'Prepared Cocoa' has gained such just repute for its excellent and nutritious character. Prepared originally on homœopathic principles, in a soluble and convenient form, and easy of digestion, it met a public demand, speedily became popular, until now Messrs. Epps produce over four millions of pounds of their cocoa a year, and their manufactory is the largest of its kind in this country."

"Cassell's Household Guide" says:—
"We will now give an account of the process adopted by Messrs. James Epps and Co., manufacturers of dietetic articles, at their works in the Euston-road, London."

EPPS'S COCOA.

THE "Morning Advertiser" says:—
"In the middle of the seventeenth century an announcement appeared in one of the few journals of that period, to the effect that 'out of Bishopsgate-street, at a Frenchman's house, is an excellent West India drink, called chocolate, to be sold at reasonable rates.' This is the first record we have of the introduction of cocoa into England. For a time it flourished as a fashionable drink, and then, like all fashions, subsided. Nearly two centuries after, in 1832, the duties, which had been almost prohibitive, were greatly reduced, and one of the first to take advantage of re-establishing the popularity of cocoa was Messrs. James Epps and Co., the Homœopathic Chemists. Under the name of 'Prepared Cocoa' they introduced a soluble and convenient preparation, which required no boiling, and was palatable and highly nutritious. It met a public want, speedily became popular, and year by year has increased in demand, till the consumption now exceeds four millions of pounds yearly."

THE "Christian World" says:—
"'If I am to take cocoa,' said I, 'I must know what it is made of; I must examine the process; I must dive into the mystery of its manufacture; I must see and judge for myself what are the ingredients of which it is composed.' With this view I made my way to the manufactory of James Epps and Co., in the Euston-road.'"

"John Bull" says:—
"In no branches of industry are recent scientific and chemical discoveries more generally applied than in those upon which our food supply is so largely dependent. The luxuries of the last generation have in many cases become the daily necessaries of the present. A forcible illustration of this is to be found in the enormous increase in the consumption of cocoa year by year—in exact proportion to the increased facilities for its manufacture. An idea of the vast extent of this industry may be gained from the fact that one firm alone—that of Messrs. Epps and Co.—now sell over four millions of pounds annually. This 'Homœopathic Cocoa' of Messrs. Epps has, during the many years it has been before the public, gained great and just repute, which its excellent quality and careful preparation certainly entitle it to. A cocoa in soluble form, and combining what are technically known as 'flesh-forming' and 'heat-giving' properties, is clearly an invaluable addition to our scanty list of really nutritious and easily digested articles of diet for our delicate dietetic foods. Such Messrs. Epps claim for their prepared cocoas, and such analysis and—most valuable of all—experience has proved it to be."

THE "Church Review" says:—
"Although we cannot yet boast of a free breakfast-table, still the active legislation in furtherance of that object during the last half century leaves us much to be thankful for. A striking instance of the general good resulting from the removal of heavy imposts upon our food supply is afforded by the marvellous increase in the consumption of cocoa since 1832, up to which period an almost prohibitive duty was levied. In 1859 the total amount consumed in this country was less than half a million pounds yearly. At the present time one firm alone, that of Messrs. James Epps and Co., the Homœopathic Chemists, sell annually four million pounds."

EPPS'S COCOA.

THE "Civilian" says:—
"In the seventeenth century, before either tea or coffee had found their way into the English markets, chocolate was a favourite beverage with the luxurious classes at that period; it then fetched an almost fabulous price per pound. To-day, when modern science and enterprise have placed it within the reach of every class, cocoa is not only still regarded as a delicious and refreshing drink, but is valued for its nutritive and dietetic qualities. One of the first, we believe, who was credited with introducing cocoa in its present form is Mr. James Epps. Prepared on sound dietetic principles, Epps's Homœopathic cocoa contains all the nutritive properties of the native product in such a form that they are rendered thoroughly soluble, and, therefore, much more easy of digestion. The natural superabundance of fat present in raw cocoa is, moreover, not only counteracted, but made to serve one of the most essential functions of sound diet. Messrs. Epps's works are now, perhaps, the largest in the country, the cocoa produced there amounting to many million pounds a year."

"Land and Water" says:—
"Through the kindness of Messrs. Epps, I recently had an opportunity of seeing the many complicated and varied processes the cacao bean passes through ere it is sent out in public processes the cacao bean passes through ere it is sent out in public use, and being interested and highly pleased with what I saw there, and being interested and highly pleased with what I saw there, and being interested and highly pleased with what I saw there

THE BRITISH ASSOCIATION AT DUBLIN: PLACES ABOUT DUBLIN AND THE NEIGHBOURHOOD.

ILLUSTRATIONS OF DUBLIN.

We present, in a page of Engravings, several street views, and views of public buildings and monuments in Dublin, and of places in the country within reach of members of the British Association during their sojourn in the Irish capital. The port of Dublin in the river Liffey, with the stately Custom House on the quay, will surprise many English visitors. It is true that only small vessels can enter there, and the Liffey will not bear comparison with the Thames or the Clyde as an inlet of maritime trade. But the walled embankment of this river is a really great work, of which either Glasgow or London might have been proud; and the Custom House, which accommodates some other Government offices, is a finer building than our Somerset House It was built between 1781 and 1791, when there was a separate Irish Parliament sitting in the beautiful edifice that is now the Bank of Ireland, which Repealers and Home Rulers would like to reclaim for a national legislative assembly, but by which the real interests of that dear deluded country would be nowise consulted, any more than they were before the Union. Less talk and more work is what Ireland wants, and it is perhaps chiefly because Scotland asked for no Parliament that the prosperity of North Britain has made such marvellous progress since the Jacobite folly was put down. Looking once more at the Dublin Custom House, we see its dome surmounted by a colossal statue of Hope, with an anchor which is a sign of promise; while Neptune and Mercury, the patron gods of commerce and navigation, stand beside Plenty and Industry, atop of the pillared portico, as they might do, with equal propriety, at Belfast and Cork or Queenstown; and good luck to them, say we, in every Irish seaport town! Dublin has capacious docks, for a large amount of shipping. Below the engraved view of Custom House Quay are those of College Green, with its statue of Henry Grattan, the eloquent and patriotic Irish statesman (there are statues also of Burke and Goldsmith, by Foley); and the grand Parliament-square, the main quadrangle of Trinity College (the Dublin University), which contains the chapel, the lecture-theatre and examination-hall, and the refectory, handsome stone buildings, with a campanile, all much to be admired. In the right-hand upper corner of the page is a view of St. Patrick's Cathedral, which was munificently restored in 1865, by the late Sir Benjamin Guinness, M.P., at his private cost of £150,000, an example recently followed and surpassed by Mr. Roe, in the restoration of Christ Church Cathedral, at the cost of £260,000. So that Dublin is not only, as was once said, "the car-drivingest town in the realm," but likewise the cathedral-restoringest, in spite of the Disestablishment of the Irish Church. On the other side is a view of Phœnix Park, which extends along the north bank of the Liffey above Dublin, with the Wellington Memorial obelisk near its south-east gate. The Viceregal Lodge, inhabited by the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, is in Phœnix Park.

We now turn to the views of several places which may be visited by moderate railway journeys from Dublin. The romantic scenery of mountains and glens in Wicklow is very accessible; the Dargle, the Vale of Avoca, and Glendalough, with the ruins of the Seven Churches, are far-famed resorts of tourists in search of the picturesque. Powerscourt, one of the loveliest demesnes in the United Kingdom, has received the Queen and the Prince and Princess of Wales as guests of its noble owner. The waterfall, of which we give an Illustration, is but one of its natural beauties, not to be here described, thrown open to the enjoyment of members of the British Association of Science. On the road to Malahide, six miles from the city, along the north shore of Dublin Bay, is the curious old Church of St. Doulough, with an adjacent holy well, probably of the thirteenth century, an interesting example of ancient church building. The famous rock of Cashel, which is a hundred miles away in the county of Tipperary, presents a far grander and more renowned display of ecclesiastical architecture. A Cathedral, an Abbey, and a Castle, with a primitive chapel and round tower, stood here within a small inclosure, where their remains are still to be seen, overlooking the green meadows of the Suir. Cashel was a place of much note in the history of Ireland before the reign of Queen Elizabeth, when so much havoc was wrought in that country by merciless wars. Jerpoint Abbey, near Kilkenny, is the subject of another of our Illustrations. During the Congress of the British Association many excursions have been planned for the days on which the sections will not sit or be only partially occupied. These have been arranged with a view to suit the inclinations and tastes of different persons. On Saturday no fewer than nine excursions will be made to Malahide, Bray, Howth, Maynooth, Lucan, Glencree, and other places of note. On Thursday, the 22nd, there will be another choice of nine excursions to Glendalough and other parts of the county of Wicklow, the Boyne and Blackwater, Cashel, Lord Rosse's telescope at Parsonstown, the Curragh Camp, and Kilkenny Castle.

Mr. Stanley Boulter and Captain Maude have started a coach to run daily for the season between Margate and Canterbury, by way of Westgate and Birchington.

The British Medical Association, which held its sitting at Bath last week, after hearing an earnest plea from Mrs. Garratt Anderson for the admission of women practitioners to the association, on the 8th inst., passed a new by-law declaring that no female shall be eligible for election. The annual meeting was concluded on the 9th. Professor Maclagan, of Edinburgh University, gave an address on Forensic Medicine. The Mayor of Bath gave a garden party, and the Bristol practitioners entertained the members at a soirée in Colston Hall. The association will meet next year at Cork, and Dr. O'Connor is the president-elect.

Mr. Bouch, C.E., has been presented with the freedom of Dundee in recognition of the successful completion of his labours as engineer of the Tay Bridge. The presentation was made yesterday week by the Provost of the burgh. Mr. Bouch, in his reply, said he believed he was the first engineer that had received the freedom of a city. Referring to the bridge which it is proposed to construct across the Firth of Forth, on the plans of which he is now engaged, Mr. Bouch said it was matter of regret that the Tay Bridge had been made for a single line; but with the experience gained it had been decided to make the bridge across the Forth carry a double line.

A navvy, named Girvin, has been committed for trial, at Peel, Isle of Man, on the charges of having assaulted Mrs. Hill, the wife of the Bishop of Sodor and Man, and threatened to stab his Lordship. The Bishop and his wife were driving towards Bishop's Court last week in an open carriage, when Girvin threw a large stone at Mrs. Hill. It struck her on the head, inflicting a severe scalp wound. The Bishop got out to secure the man, who jumped over a fence and ran away. The Bishop followed; and Girvin, finding himself outstripped, said he had a knife in his pocket, and would "let him have it." He then ran away again, but was secured at Peel by two policemen. Mrs. Hill, though suffering a good deal from fright and excitement, was not seriously injured.

THE BRITISH OCCUPATION OF CYPRUS.

(From our Special Artist and Correspondent.)

Larnaca, Cyprus, July 28.

In my letter of Thursday I related the incidents of my voyage and journey from London, overland from Havre to Marseilles, thence by one of the Fraissinet line of steam-boats to Malta, and from Malta to Cyprus in the hired transport-vessel Trinacria, of the Anchor line, for my passage in which I was indebted to the kind offices of Admiral Luard at Malta. I find the Channel Squadron and the fleet of transports, which have brought General Sir Garnet Wolseley and the military forces to Cyprus, lying here at anchor. The fleet is arranged as follows:—In the outer line (that is, furthest from the shore of the long shallow bay forming the Larnaca roadstead) is the Channel Squadron, consisting of H.M.S. Black Prince, commanded by H.R.H. the Duke of Edinburgh; H.M.S. Minotaur (flagship of Admiral Lord John Hay); H.M.S. Raleigh, H.M.S. Invincible, and H.M.S. Monarch. In the second line are the Government troop-ships—namely, H.M.S. Tamar, which brought the 71st Highlanders; H.M.S. Orontes, which brought the 1st Bombay Lancers and the 9th Bombay Native Infantry; and H.M.S. Himalaya, on board of which are Sir Garnet Wolseley and his staff, with the 101st Fusiliers and the 42nd Highlanders. Next to these lies the despatch-boat H.M.S. Salamis; and H.M.S. Simoom, with the Royal Engineers, from Southampton, has a place here reserved for her. In the third line are ten hired transport steamers, which I mention by their numbers and names, with the regiments carried by each, and with their present destinations:—No. 5, the St. Osyth, with part of the 2nd Ghoorkas, for Larnaca; No. 6, Malda, with another battalion of the same regiment, for Larnaca; No. 7, Madura, with the 31st Punjaub Infantry, for Limasol; No. 8, Goa, with the 13th Bengal Native Infantry; No. 9, Macedonia, with the 1st Bombay Lancers; No. 12, Nankin, with the 25th Madras Native Infantry, and No. 15, Marina, with part of that regiment, both for Kyrenia; No. 16, Suez, is now gone to Beyrout for horses; No. 23, Bengal, is here with the 13th Bengal Native Infantry, for Baffo; and No. 27, Trinacria, with commissariat stores for Larnaca. The Canara has returned to Malta for troops, and H.M.S. Simoom is daily expected. In the fourth line, nearest the shore, are the seven hired sailing transports, viz.:—No. 2, the Hospodar; No. 3, Clydesdale; No. 11, Seaforth; No. 19, Citadel; No. 20, Aros Bay; No. 22, Kilkerran; and No. 24, Brambletye. Inside of these is a small steamer belonging to the Eastern Telegraph Company, which, with one or two small trading vessels, Turkish and Greek, makes up the shipping in the bay. My sketch, with this enumeration of the vessels here collected, will show that, altogether, the British force presents an imposing appearance in these waters.

The town of Larnaca, or rather the commercial portion of it, called the Marina, stretches along the water's edge, and presents the usual Oriental features of a Levantine seaport, except that it is more sleepy and quiet than most of those towns. The arrival of the expedition alone gives life to the place; and already one end of the town is assuming a business-like look; but the present hurry and bustle is all European; the phlegmatic Turks are as impassive and unconcerned as if it was no business of theirs. The vessels of the expedition, arranged as I have mentioned, are lying between a mile and a mile and a half from the low sandy shore on which the town is built. On one side of the town the coast stretches southward to Point Dades, a dismal dried-up salt-marsh covered with prickly pear (Opuntia vulgaris) and with a few sparsely scattered date-trees. In the other direction, the land trends to the north and east, for some miles away, to Capes Pila and Grego, backed by long, low, flat-topped terraced limestone hills. The mosques of the town are insignificant, and, except for the presence of half a dozen minarets, one would almost suppose the population of Larnaca to be Christian, as the Greek churches are more conspicuous with their bell turrets. Behind the town the land extends in a barren plain away into the interior. About five miles away on the plain to the south-west are the camps of the European regiments, at a place called Chevlik Pasha. Beyond rises a mountain of above two thousand feet elevation, on which is a small white structure, probably a chapel, as the mountain is named Oros Stavro, or Mountain of the Cross; and in the distance beyond rise the mountain ranges of Adelphi and Troodos, 6000 ft. high.

The Channel Squadron has not been idle since its arrival in preparing for the occupation of this place by the troops. The Duke of Edinburgh and a large number of sailors have formed a naval camp at the landing-place north of the town, and have erected five piers and landing-stages. His Royal Highness is still occupying the old quarantine lazaretto building, close by; while his sailors are in bell-tents and under sail-cloth awnings around his head-quarters, which are marked by his flagstaff and signal, a portable semaphore for telegraphing seaward. His Royal Highness deserves the greatest credit for the way in which all the arrangements for the disembarkation have been carried out by him. Civilians can have little or no idea of all the forethought and care required to land a force of ten thousand men on a sandy beach, where the facilities have hitherto only existed negatively. The Royal Prince, ever active and zealous, burnt as brown as a gipsy with exposure, but looking as hard as nails, personally superintends the landing and clearing of the boats and vessels, as they arrive at the beach. There are no working parties of soldiers here. All the regiments on their arrival march straight to their camping-grounds; and all the unloading is done by the blue-jackets, who seem to enjoy the business amazingly. From four a.m. till dark incessant work of various kinds is proceeding; in all directions are lighters and native craft, horse-boats towed by steam-launches, and pinnaces continually going and returning. A very short time suffices to unload them, and the busy scene at the landing-place can hardly be imagined. The Monarch has started a canteen marquee close by, which is a decidedly good arrangement. A constant throng of camels, mules, donkeys, Indian tats and native cavalry horses, ordnance and commissariat stores, Ghoorkas and Punjaubees, Greeks and Mussulmans, all combine to give a bewildering and constantly-changing kaleidoscopic effect of colour and form. Under the blaze of the noonday sun, during the Cyprus dog-days, with all the glare, dust, and heat, the fatigue endured by our sailors and their Captain, the Duke, is no slight work. Already a case or two of sunstroke has been reported, and more are we fear, yet to be expected. Hitherto the health of the force has been excellent; but, of course, there has not yet been time to judge of the effect of the heat and exposure on the European troops. It is possible that malarious fever may be apprehended should the soil be disturbed, as was the case at Hong-Kong at Kowloon. On our first occupying Kowloon the troops were quite healthy so long as they were in tents and in wooden huts, but when permanent barracks were built the unfortunate 77th Regiment, who first occupied the new buildings, were almost decimated by a severe epidemic remittent fever, and were obliged ultimately to be removed to the Cape.

The landing of the troops here and unlading of the stores by the bluejackets under the Naval officers were, as I have said, carried out with dispatch and energy. I am sorry to add that I cannot bestow such unqualified praise on the departmental business of the Army Commissariat. The commissariat stores were apparently pitchforked into the various transports at Malta without the slightest method or arrangement, and without tally; so that the commissariat officers, on their arrival here, do not seem to have known what stores were on board any particular vessel; and the consequences are just what might be imagined.

Sir Garnet Wolseley and staff leaves the Himalaya to-day (Sunday), shifting the head-quarters to the Salamis despatch-boat, in which his Excellency has already made trips to the other parts of the island. He will go to Nicosia, the capital of the island, on Tuesday. The troops have been detailed to proceed to different places, and some to stay at Larnaca. That very useful and workman-like body of men, the Bombay Sappers and Miners, are performing good service at Larnaca. Colonel Prendergast is already doing wonders, and the useful will speedily replace the picturesque in this Oriental locality. This invasion of the modern British anticrusaders in aid of the Turk will cause rapid changes in the features both of town and country. The supply of animals for transport service is almost, if not quite, equal to the demand. Camels, mules, donkeys, and small horses seem plentiful, although naturally the price has risen 70 per cent. Beef is more than double what it was in value before the occupation. We have snow-ice, at about 3d. per pound, from the Lebanon Mountains, viâ Beyrout, packed in wooden cases, with chopped straw as a non-conductor of heat. Meantime, the narrow streets and shaded bazaars are crowded with our Indian soldiery, and the red tunics brighten up the dark pokey shops in every direction. The cafés are booths, as usual, on rickety wooden platforms projecting over the water, similar to those at Smyrna, one of which was disastrously precipitated some years since with great loss of life. These cafés are crowded by riff-raff adventurers from the Piræus, Syra, Zante, and Anatolia. We recognise the faces of rascals we have often seen in Pera and Stamboul; while Port Said and Alexandria also contribute their quota of scoundrelism to this new field of depredations on English pockets. The price asked for a small garret, with a wretched bed or pallet, and without another single piece of furniture, is six shillings a night. An interpreter asked us ten shillings a day, with his keep; and other things are in proportion. The bullock-waggons (arabas) are rough but useful machines of transport, and the cattle yoked to them seem in good case and well treated. The donkeys are particularly handsome and sleek, though not of large size; they are highly prized, and exported to Egypt for breeding purposes. Their price, consequently, sounds exorbitant; but, like everything else, will soon find its level.

On Saturday evening the minarets were illuminated, which, with the lights in the town and the innumerable lights of the shipping, with their reflections in the glassy sea, rivalled only by those of the brilliant starlit sky above, formed a striking scene. The strains of music from the bands on board the men-of-war and of the regiments on the transports sounded so like England, that, were it not for the heat, we might have imagined ourselves at anchor in Plymouth Sound.

The Himalaya is ordered to return to Malta, and will leave this evening. There is now, it appears, some uncertainty about the stations to be occupied by the different regiments here, as some of the orders have been countermanded, owing to the backward commissariat arrangements. It should be understood that there are marines and bluejackets at Kyrenia, a port on the north coast, which is favourably spoken of by the sailor officers who have been there, and at Baffo to the west, as well as at Nicosia, at Limasol, and at Famagosta. This will be, of course, only a temporary measure, and the detachments of marines and seamen will be relieved at an early date. The three English regular battalions are now and will be stationed at the camp at Chevlik Pasha, though yesterday (July 27) a company of the 42nd was ordered to be in readiness to proceed to Limasol, where the 31st Punjaubees were also to be quartered. A battery of the 2nd Brigade of Royal Artillery, and a battery of the 1st Brigade, are to remain at Larnaca, but the latter has not yet arrived from Malta. The destination of the native Indian troops now seems to be uncertain.

S. P. O.

Our Illustrations published this week include three views of the landing-place and piers at Larnaca and the scene of disembarking troop-horses, from the sketches taken by our Special Artist, whose letter, above printed, sufficiently described their subject. We have received also Sketches of the fleet lying at anchor in the harbour or roadstead, and of the British military encampment at Chevlik Pasha, which may appear in our next. The miscellaneous sketches presented in our front-page Engraving are partly supplied by two officers, Lieutenant G. H. Lane, of the 101st Regiment, and Lieutenant W. J. Eastman, of the Royal Marine Artillery, to whom we have been indebted for similar help before. One shows the Baffo Gate of Nicosia, henceforth to be called the Minotaur Gate, which was first taken possession of by a detachment of Royal Marines from H.M.S. Minotaur, when Admiral Lord John Hay entered that town, on the 12th ult. The Turkish barracks, now occupied by part of the British force, are represented in the sketch beside that which has been mentioned. The British flag hoisted here is constantly guarded by a sentry, and is saluted both morning and evening. One of these sketches is that of the grave of Sergeant M'Gaw, a veteran of the 42nd Highlanders, who obtained the Victoria Cross for valour in the Ashantee War, and who died here of sunstroke.

At the Phœnix Park, Dublin, on Saturday last, the Duchess of Marlborough, in the presence of a large number of spectators, presented the second battalion of the 21st Royal Scots Fusiliers with new colours. Her Grace expressed pleasure in presenting colours to a regiment whose predecessors had served under the first Duke of Marlborough.

Britford Fair, which is one of the largest in England, and at which there are generally from 80,000 to 100,000 sheep penned, was held at Britford, near Salisbury, on Monday. The number on offer was quite up to the usual average, the condition and quality generally being very good in most classes on account of the abundant and excellent keep everywhere to be found. There was a large attendance of agriculturists and dealers.

At Aldershott camp the troops under the command of Sir Thomas Steele had a grand sham fight on Monday. They were divided into northern and southern forces, under the command of Major-General Anderson and Major-General Peyton respectively. General Peyton's troops represented a force marching from Guildford on Hartford Bridge. General Anderson's command represented a hostile force advancing from Bagshot and Frimley. The field operations were begun about 9.30, and extended over a large tract of country. Eventually the fight was brought to a conclusion in the vicinity of the Long Valley about 11.30, when the troops returned to quarters.

FINE ART.

NATIONAL ART COMPETITION.

The exhibition of the works entered for this competition is open to the public, in the Exhibition Galleries on the west side of Exhibition-road, South Kensington. The subjects of the competition are:—Figure drawing and modelling, painting in oil and water colours, and design especially as applied to manufactures. The prizes awarded are gold medals, silver medals, bronze medals, prizes of books, and the Princess of Wales's scholarships, which are awarded to the two female students who take the highest prizes of the year in the national competition. Besides these distinctions, which are awarded by the Science and Art Department, several valuable money prizes are given annually in connection with the national competition for specified subjects of design.

Both in numbers and in general features the present year's display presents a marked advance. 13,804 works of various kinds were sent this year from 142 competing schools. Of this enormous total 1500 were, after due examination, referred to national competition, as against 790 last year, and about 300 appear in the prize-list, the works now on view being in fact a selection by competent judges from the whole number of works contributed by the kingdom. The names of Edinburgh and Dublin, and of three London schools, appear in connection with the gold medals, while in the list of silver medals, besides the Scotch and Irish capitals and several metropolitan districts, are found Nottingham, Hanley, Birmingham, Dundee, Manchester, Lincoln, Rotherham, Leicester, and Sheffield.

The following are the awards of the nine gold medals:—Mary K. Benson, Bloomsbury, chalk drawing of figure from the antique; Dora Bradley, Dublin (Met. Sch.), chalk drawing of a head from life; John M. Carr, Nottingham, design for a lace curtain; George F. Catchpole, Westminster (Hyde-place), designs for glass vases; George Daniels, City and Spitalfields, design for a loving cup; Elizabeth Grace, Brighton, group in oil colours; Joseph T. Ross, Edinburgh (male), chalk drawing of figure from the antique; James A. Stamp, Nottingham, designs for a church; Annie Yeomans, Sheffield, designs for lace handkerchief borders. In addition to the gold medal, the Princess of Wales's scholarship of £25 has been awarded to Miss M. K. Benson, and her Royal Highness's scholarship of £11 to Miss E. Grace.

There are thirty-seven silver medals, in which England, Ireland, and Scotland are all represented. The number of bronze medals is 174, and that of book prizes 124.

Under the head "Honorary Awards," there are three more gold medals given nominally, not actually, to students in training as national scholars at South Kensington with a view of their ultimately adopting the calling of professional designers for manufactures. The names and subjects of these three gold medallists are—Daniel Bloor, the figure modelled from the life; George Morton, chalk drawing from the nude figure; R. H. A. Willis, drawing of an interior of a church from measurement.

Under the same heading, "Honorary Awards," there are eleven silver and forty-one bronze medals.

THE ART-UNION OF LONDON EXHIBITION OF PRIZES.

By invitation of the president, vice-president, and council of the Art-Union of London, a number of persons were admitted on Monday to a private view of the pictures selected by the winners of prizes in the Art-Union for 1878, and which will remain for exhibition for a short time at the Institute of Painters in Water Colours, 53, Pall-mall. There are 158 pictures in the exhibition altogether, 120 of them being in oil, and the remainder in water colours. They have been selected from the exhibitions by the Royal Academy, the Society of British Artists, the Society of Painters in Water Colours, the Institute of Painters in Water Colours, the General Exhibition of Water Colours, the Crystal Palace Picture Gallery, the Society of Lady Artists, and the Royal Scottish Academy; and the pictures chosen certainly do great credit to the taste of the selectors. Rather a large proportion—about one fourth of the whole—are from the Royal Academy, including the second prize, won by Dr. M. Moore, value £200, "Richard Savage Resting under the Piazza of Covent-Garden," painted by W. Holyoake.

Amongst the works of art exhibited is a proof line-engraving, by Mr. J. H. Robinson, of Vandyke's picture of Anne, wife of the Earl of Bedford, raised to the title of Duke in the reign of Charles II., and another of the celebrated Lord William Russell, who died on the scaffold. The original was in the gallery of Lord Egmont at Petworth, and there, the report of the council says, a room was fitted up for Mr. Robinson, who towards the latter part of his life devoted many months to this place. A small number of proofs were given away as prizes at the last distribution, and a number more, we were told, will be distributed next year.

Turning from the pictures to the business side of the exhibition, it appears from the report of the council that, though the great depression of trade led to the anticipation of a considerable decline in the amount of subscriptions for the year just closed, still they were able to report a total of £13,643, which is about £1900 less than in the year 1877. Of this sum £6312 have been distributed in prizes, and £727 set apart for special works.

In reference to the presentation work for the coming year, the council say that, finding there is a steady demand among the subscribers for books of illustrations, they think that the time has come for giving a work of that kind, and they have accordingly arranged for the production of a volume of illustrations of Lord Byron's poem of "Lara," by Mr. C. B. Birch.

TECHNICAL EDUCATION.

The General Purposes Committee of the Corporation of London have reported to the Court of Common Council upon the scheme of the Committee of Livery Companies for the best mode of applying the funds which the Corporation and the committees might be disposed to contribute towards the extension and improvement of technical education. The object sought to be attained by the proposals of the guilds is the improvement of the technical knowledge of those engaged in the manufactures of this country, and the direction proposed to be pursued is such as will afford a knowledge of the scientific or artistic principles on which any particular manufacture may depend, the persons intended to be benefited thereby embracing apprentices, workmen, managers, foremen, and principals.

The means by which this is to be accomplished are the establishment of local trade schools and a central institution, with a suitable staff of professors. To the former are to be admitted persons who, having received elementary instruction in the principles of science and art, desire to be taught their application to particular trades by teachers having a competent knowledge of the actual practice of those trades, as well as of the scientific and artistic principles to be applied to them. The latter institution is designed to give more advanced instruction, no person being received who is not shown upon examination to have acquired a sufficient knowledge of science and art to enable him to profit by the instruction there to be given, which it is proposed should embrace applied physics, chemistry, mechanics, and art, to be taught by competent professors, aided by suitable assistants and a sufficient staff.

The central institution thus constituted would undertake the instruction of regular students, the delivery of evening lectures relating to applied science and art, the holding of evening classes in connection therewith, the discussion of important discoveries in trade, and, generally, the promotion of the application of science and art to industry.

The scheme further contemplates the provision of exhibitions for meritorious students, tenable at the central institution, assisting technical classes already established, aiding efforts made at the seat of special manufactures in furtherance of technical education, and providing prizes, premiums, and apprentice fees.

The Board of Governors, estimated at 300 members, is to consist of Liverymen of London, and to include representatives of the Corporation and every contributing company, and the council is to be composed of eighty and the executive committee of forty members.

The General Purposes Committee of the Corporation having given these proposals their anxious and attentive consideration, have recommended that, whilst the Corporation should not commit itself to an approval of the details of the scheme, or of the amount and method of expenditure, it was desirable that it should express its approval of the general outlines and objects involved in it, and should identify itself with the Livery Companies in endeavouring to give effect to it. It may be added that the scheme is very largely and munificently supported, up to the present, by many of the leading Livery Committees, and bids fair to be carried out.

SCIENCE AND ART TEACHING.

The twenty-fifth report of the Science and Art Department of the Committee of Council on Education, issued on Wednesday, gives the following summary of the year's operations:—

The number of persons who have during the year 1877 attended the schools and classes of science and art in connection with the department are as follows—viz., 55,927 attending science schools and classes in 1877, as against 57,988 in 1876, and 610,620 receiving instruction in art, showing an increase upon the previous year of 80,208, or more than 15 per cent. At the Royal School of Mines there were 38 regular and 181 occasional students; at the Royal College of Chemistry, 282 students; at the Metallurgical Laboratory, 73. At the Royal College of Science for Ireland there were 21 associate or regular students and 45 occasional students. The lectures delivered in the lecture theatre of the South Kensington Museum were attended by 8481 persons. The evening lectures to working men at the Royal School of Mines were attended by 1227 persons; and 172 science teachers attended the special courses of lectures provided for their instruction in the new Science Schools at South Kensington. The various courses of lectures delivered in connection with the department in Dublin were attended by about 4300 persons. The total number of persons, therefore, who received direct instruction as students, or by means of lectures, in connection with the Science and Art Department in 1877, is 681,367, showing an increase, as compared with the number in the previous year, of 81,199, or more than 13½ per cent.

The attendance at the Art and Educational Libraries at South Kensington continues to increase; with that at the library of the Royal Dublin Society the number of readers in 1877 has been 74,333. The museums and collections under the superintendence of the Department in London, Dublin, and Edinburgh were last year visited by 2,548,766 persons, showing a decrease of 440,251 on the number in 1876. The returns received of the number of visitors at the Local Art and Industrial Exhibitions, to which objects were contributed from the South Kensington Museum, show an attendance of 1,031,506. The total number of persons who, during the year 1877, attended the different institutions and exhibitions in connection with the Department has been upwards of 4,261,639. This total, compared with that of the previous year, presents a decrease of 315,738.

The expenditure of the Department during the financial year, 1877-8, exclusive of the vote for the Geological Survey, amounted to £276,416 5s. 4d.

We learn from the Academy that the Department of Oriental Antiquities of the British Museum has obtained, by purchase, some cuneiform inscriptions in a series of small contract tablets, dated in the reign of Mithridates II., or Artabanus II., one of the Arsacian Kings of Babylon. These tablets are of great importance, on account of their being dated with the dual system of both the Seleucidæ and the Arsacian eras, thus fixing by indisputable authority the starting points of both these eras. Of the seven tablets obtained, there are three that bear the double calculation of dates—the earliest being "Month Sebat (11) 18th day in the 154th year—which equals the 218th year of Arsakâ—King of Kings." There are also in the series two in the 155th or 219th year of Arsakâ—and four which bear only the date of the years reckoned from the revolt of the Seleucidæ. The revolt of the Seleucidæ took place in B.C. 312, and by these tablets we find that eighty-four years after, or in B.C. 228, the revolt of Arsaces took place, and the Arsacian epoch commenced. The lesser date, therefore, 155th year, will give us the year B.C. 93, which falls in the reign of Artabanus II. or Mithridates II., the sixth of the Arsaces. These tablets, with the exception of one dated in the reign of Pecorus, which is in the museum at Zurich, are the latest examples cuneiform writing known. They are contract tables relating to loans of money, and their material is very coarse and the writing careless. It is also to be noticed that, with very few exceptions, the contracting parties are designated by Semitic names, indicating, apparently, that this mode of record was confined almost solely to the conservative Semitic merchants of Babylon.

The committee of St. Stephen's Club have been presented with the oil painting, by Mr. Jones Barker, of Lieutenant-General Fenwick Williams quitting Kars. The well-known picture is a gift from Mr. Raye Knowles, of Park-place (a member of the club), and is placed in the dining-room.

A statue of the late Right Hon. Sir Alexander Macdonnell was unveiled on Tuesday in front of the National Education Office, Dublin, in presence of a large company, which included the Duke of Leinster, Judge Longfield, and the president of the Belfast Queen's College. The statue was executed by Mr. Farrell, at a cost of £1200.

The City Press states that the court of the Clothworkers' Company have voted a special donation of £2000 in aid of a building fund for the Bradford (Yorkshire) Weaving and Design School, in connection with which they lately gave two scholarships of £25 per annum to enable students to complete their industrial education at the Textile Industries Department of the Yorkshire College, Leeds.

THEATRES.

It would appear that the new Adelphi drama of "Proof" has at length surmounted its final difficulty. The character of the hero, Pierre Lorance, should be one of considerable importance, seeing that its full development has taxed the capacity of three leading performers. Mr. Bandmann and his successor, Mr. Charles Kelly, have been superseded by Mr. Henry Neville, who, while Mdlle. Beatrice holds the stage of the Olympic, has undertaken to support the part. Mr. Neville has brought his best work to the task, and has distanced his predecessors by many degrees. In his hands the rôle has a beginning, a middle, and an end. He has first to show the hardy soldier's strong affection for his wife and child, notwithstanding the occasional prevalence of his jealousy—that evil root out of which his troubles grow into fatal significance. This situation gives place to the wonder with which he learns the murder of his wife, and that he himself is suspected of the crime: his emotion rises, indeed, to horror when he finds his infant child employed as witness against him. Then follows his appearance as a galley-slave, and his interview, many years after, with his daughter, to whom his identity is revealed; finally, his detection of the real murderer—an action which Mr. Neville illustrated with remarkable skill and power. The whole play is now adequately cast. Mr. Emery, in Chamboran, has been succeeded by Mr. Edward J. George, who thoroughly realises the part. Miss Pateman, as the adult Adrienne, is both pathetic and graceful; and Mrs. Bandmann, as Valentine, acts with great force in the scene with her supposed father. In this part, too, Mr. Arthur Stirling has made an elaborate study of Lazare, and succeeds in it admirably. The rest of the cast fulfils the promise of its earlier performance, and renders the general action in as complete a manner as possible. The new drama may now be recognised as having renewed its lease and prolonged its manifest hold on the interest and attention of Adelphi audiences.

A telegram announces the death of Mr. H. J. Montague at San Francisco on Sunday last. As an actor, Mr. Montague, whose real name was Mann, was chiefly known as taking the juvenile lead in the Robertsonian drama at the Prince of Wales's. Subsequently he became lessee of the Globe, which he conducted for three seasons. He was likewise associated for awhile with Messrs. James and Thorne as a lessee of the Vaudeville. He left England for New York about five years ago.

MUSICAL PUBLICATIONS.

Messrs. Robert Cocks and Co. have recently published two pleasing songs by Odoardo Barri, "Ere the roses cease to bloom" and "Westward-Ho for England." The melody of each is well marked, and lies within a moderate compass of voice. "A Mother's Love" and "Comfort and Peace" are two songs by W. T. Wrighton: the first is in the expressive ballad style, the other being a serious setting of words of a sacred character. "Hearts of Oak," by Brinley Richards, is an effective transcription, for the pianoforte, of the fine old nautical song of Dr. Boyce—a piece of a similar kind being an arrangement, by F. Lemoine, of Stephen Glover's song, "The Sea is England's Glory."

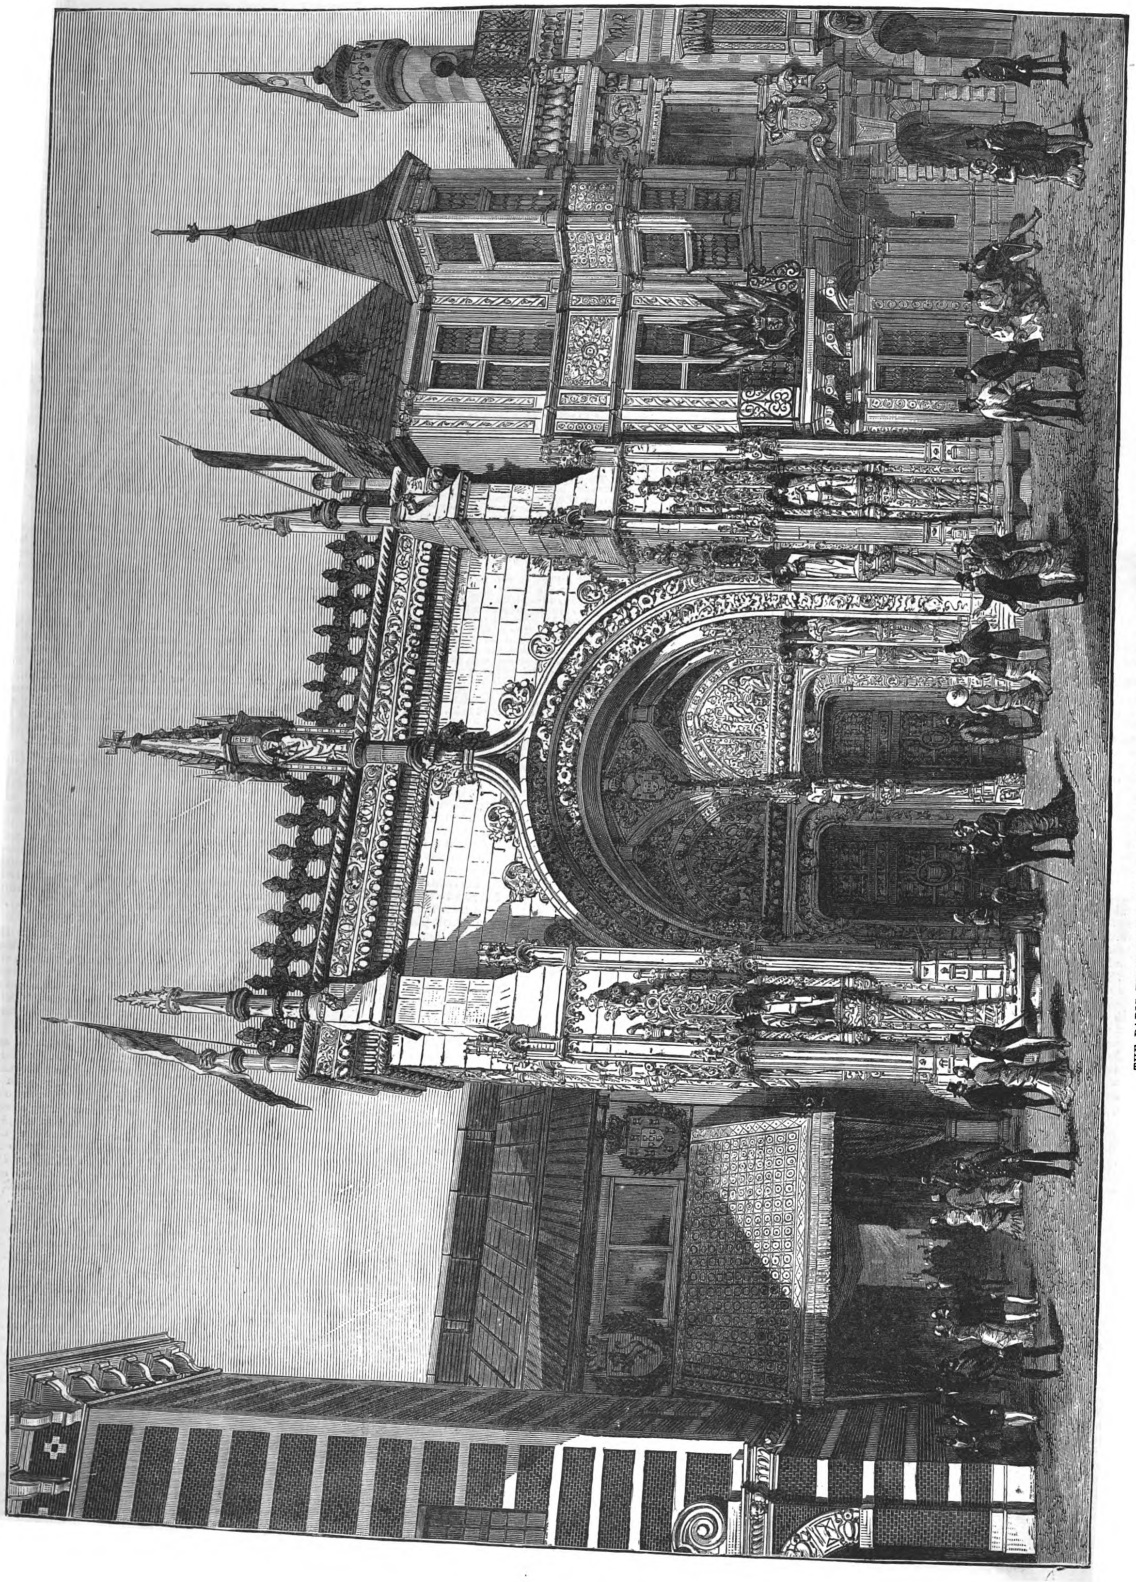
The third quarterly part of that excellent and comprehensive work, "A Dictionary of Music and Musicians," edited by George Grove (Macmillan and Co.), has been issued, and comprises articles from "Bolero" to "Concert-Pitch," inclusive. We have before drawn attention to the value of this dictionary as being the first of the kind published in this country—combining, as it does, technical, critical, and biographical information, supplied by a large number of contributors, including the editor, whose literary accomplishments and musical knowledge are well known. The next part, to appear on Oct. 1, will comprise subjects from "Concert-Spirituel" to "Ferrara."

"The Classic Companion," Vol. 1 (Augener and Co.), a beautiful volume, contains forty-six pieces of pianoforte music, most of them originally written for the instrument, some few being transcriptions, all edited by Mr. Ernst Pauer. The movements are all either easy or of very moderate difficulty, and are selected from the works of the most celebrated composers of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries. They are arranged in chronological order, and are carefully fingered by the editor. The work will be found not only interesting but also highly advantageous to young students of the instrument.

The number of "The Organist's Quarterly Journal" (Novello, Ewer, and Co.) for July is the thirty-ninth issue, and nearly completes the fifth volume. According to the established principle of the work, the pieces are all original, and composed expressly for it. Dr. Ferdinand Hiller contributes an introduction and andante; the first being a canon in the fourth, the other a canon in the third, both very ingeniously wrought. The other contents of the number are an effective "Pastorale" by Gustave Merkel, the finale of Mr. Charlton F. Speer's clever sonata (the preceding portions of which have already been noticed), a tuneful "Andante" by H. Cardini Cole, a smoothly written "Andante Pastorale" by A. E. Bishop, and a melodious "Andante" by W. Greenwood.

"Drawing-room series of characteristic pieces for the Pianoforte" (Messrs. Weekes and Co.) is a collection of short movements (with distinctive titles), some of which are in the expressive, others in the brilliant, style—all being pleasingly written, and within moderate means of execution. Of a similar kind are "Jugend-scenen, four progressive characteristic pieces for the Piano," by W. Wasserzug—issued by the same publishers.

The Canticles and Psalter, Festival and Ferial, pointed and adapted by James B. Gray, B.D., Oxford (W. R. Bowden), will be found of value where the Gregorian tunes are used in the Church service, the musical phrases being given at the head of the prayers and psalms in which they are to be used, the application of each note to the text being clearly indicated throughout. Explanations of the system adopted are given at the commencement of the work. The same publishers have issued "The Proper Psalms for certain days, with notes and a short explanation of the Gloria Patri," "The Magdalen Psalter, containing the Psalms, Canticles, and Athanasian Creed, pointed for chanting:" and "The Book of Single Chants (Ancient and Modern)" sorted by N. P. G. Brooke. All these will be found serviceable.



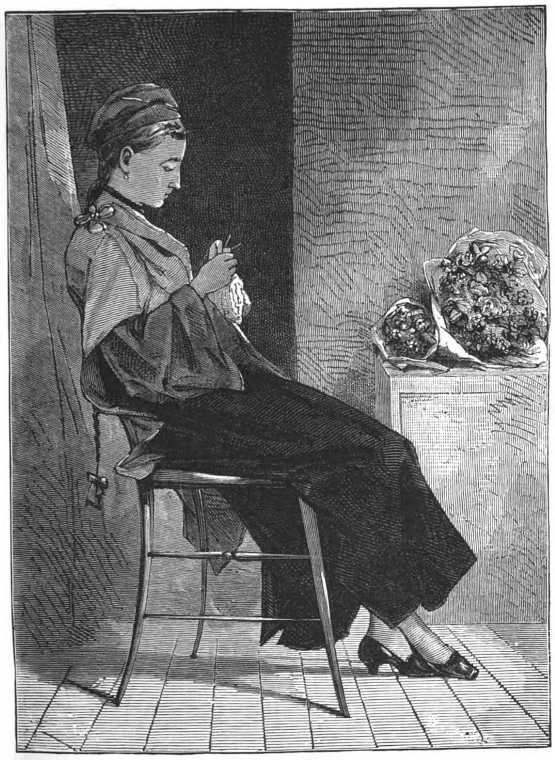
"Galop de Concert," "Invitation a la Polka," and "Polonia Mazurka," by M. Bergson; and "Les Belles de la Cour," by F. St. George (Messrs. Duff and Stewart), are bright and effective pianoforte pieces in the dance style.

Messrs. Cramer and Co. have recently issued several agreeable vocal compositions, "When the Crimson Sun was Low," song by Louisa Gray; "Red Jacket," a soldier's song by Fabio Campana; and "Vesper Bells," song by Ed. Reyloff, have each a pleasing melody suitable to most classes of voice and devoid of executive difficulty. "Queen Mab" Waltz for the pianoforte, by Herbert Baines, is a series of sprightly dance movements in the form implied by the title. This also is published by Messrs. Cramer.

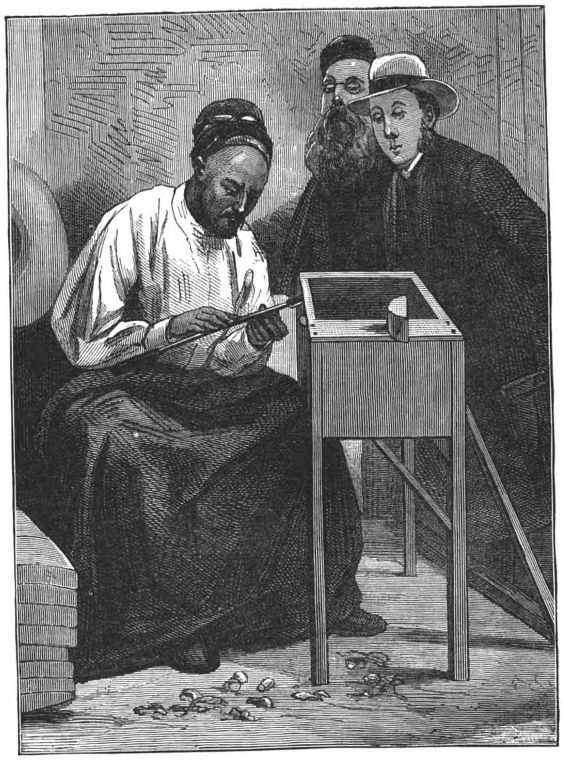
At a meeting of the Town Council held yesterday week in the Town Hall, Kirkwall, the Earl of Zetland was presented with the freedom of the burgh.

The business of the Wesleyan Conference at Bradford was concluded yesterday week. In the course of the morning's proceedings, Mr. Allen, of Sleaford, died suddenly, the cause of death being apoplexy. This is the second death which has taken place in this year's meeting of the Congress.

The Irish Court of Appeal has reversed the decision of Judge Ormsby in the Harenc estate case, and set aside the sale of the estate to Messrs. Lombard and Murphy, who were bidding for some of the tenants under the Bright clauses, accepting instead the proposal of Mr. Hussey to purchase the estate in bulk for £80,500.



THE PARIS EXHIBITION: FAÇADE OF THE PORTUGUESE SECTION, AVENUE OF NATIONS.



THE PARIS EXHIBITION.

ARTISTIC POTTERY OF MESSRS. DOULTON AND CO., LAMBETH.

BELGIAN FLOWER-GIRL.

ALGERINE CORK-CUTTER.

THE PARIS EXHIBITION.

In the Avenue des Nations, or Rue des Nations, which extends the length of the Exhibition, properly so termed, in the Champ de Mars, the entrance to each nation's allotted space, for the display of its manufactures and works of art, is marked by a special edifice, usually an example of its peculiar architectural style. The one of which we give an Illustration this week is that which constitutes the façade of the Portuguese Section, and which is a very interesting and beautiful structure. It is a reduced copy of the entrance porch of the ancient Abbey Church of Belem, near Lisbon, which presents a highly characteristic mixture of several historic styles, from the florid Gothic to the Renaissance, with the groined vault overhead, the pointed arches upheld by twisted pillars, the deep canopied niches with profuse sculptured decorations, and the projecting buttresses surmounted by arrowy pinnacles, resembling in form the minarets of a Moorish mosque. Between the two doorways, on the summit of an elegant column, is the statue of King Henry of Burgundy, founder of the old Portuguese monarchy; while the side niches are occupied, not by the figures of Saints, as in the Monastery of Belem, but those of illustrious Portuguese citizens: Vasco de Gama, discoverer of the Cape of Good Hope route to India; Albuquerque, the conqueror of an Indian dominion; Camoens, the poet of the Lusiad, and Pinto de Ribeiro, leader of the revolution in 1640, when Portugal was liberated from subjection to Spain. Each of these statues is placed on the top of a twisted column, which is a form of rare occurrence in the ecclesiastical architecture of Northern Europe, but there is a well-known example in Roslyn Chapel, near Edinburgh. The Portuguese Section of the Paris Exhibition contains a great variety of works of fine art and manufacturing industry, as well as natural products, which deserve the attentive inspection of visitors, and which promise well for the renewed and continued progress of that kingdom and nation in all that belongs to material welfare.

We have repeatedly spoken of the Algerines, and other Mussulman populations of North Africa, in their temporary habitations in the Trocadéro Park, to which the Parisians have naturally been led to devote a large share of attention. The person engaged in cork-cutting, by the aid of a kind of lathe, in which the revolving motion, however, is supplied by the action of his thumb and forefinger upon a rod spinning round with the piece of cork, while the cutting edge is stationary in the fixed part of the apparatus, seems to be a master of his peculiar craft; and his skilful performance is curiously watched by the bearded Greek Papa, and the clerical novice in his company, who beguile their sacred studies with a visit to the World's Fair. A very different figure is that of the fair-haired Flemish maiden, with store of bouquets of gaudy flowers to sell, who quietly sits waiting for her customers, and employs her vacant hours with the knitting-needles, or crochet, or some light feminine work of that description. She looks like a good and simple-hearted girl, whose thoughts are probably of her distant home, and who will return thither, in safety and innocence, when the Exposition de Paris has been closed.

Most persons who take an interest in English art-manufactures are acquainted with the decorated stoneware, and the painted and glazed faïence, produced by Messrs. Henry and James Doulton, at the Lambeth Pottery, with the aid of a staff of artists, young men and young women, trained by Mr. Sparkes, the Director of the Lambeth School of Art. A collection of some examples of these novel kinds of manufacture, shown in the Paris Exhibition, has been much admired in the British Section, where it is accompanied by the terra-cotta ware, including statuary and other sculpture, the ornamental tiles, and a variety of plain, strong articles of utility, also contributed by Messrs. Doulton. It may be as well here briefly to describe the processes, an account of which, by Mr. John Forbes-Robertson, was lately published at the Art-Pottery Gallery of Messrs. Howell and James, in Regent-street and Pall-mall. The Doulton ware, strictly so called, is a stoneware, differing from earthenware in the greater density and closeness of its texture, containing more flint, and being highly vitrified, semi-translucent when made thin, brittle, and proof against the action of acids. It is, unlike earthenware, fired and glazed in one operation; after being wrought into the intended form and pattern, with the decorative treatment done by hand, it is exposed to the fierce white heat of a furnace during several days; and salt is then cast in, which is decomposed by the heat, allowing the soda of the salt to combine with a portion of the silex in the clay, and to form an indestructibly hard transparent glazing. The ornamentation, which has been applied immediately after the article leaves the potter's wheel, may be done either by incrusting its surface with raised decorative lines and patterns, or by indenting them upon the surface, or engraving it with incised lines, in the "sgraffito" manner, or by painting it with various colours. The Doulton stoneware is said to be "an English revival, upon perfectly independent principles, of the famous gris de Flandres, of the fifteenth, sixteenth, and seventeenth centuries." There is also produced by Messrs. Doulton a kind of porcelain, called the Lambeth faïence, which is a species of revived Majolica, and in which the ware, in its biscuit or unglazed state, having extreme fineness of texture and smoothness of surface, is painted with any design, as freely as any painting can be done on a panel or canvas. Mr. Sparkes has devoted particular attention to this application of art; and some of his pupils have earned the applause of the highest authorities by the originality, grace, and vigour of their work, both in modelling and engraving figures and in painting on the clay. Among these are Mr. George Tinworth, the designer of the "Football-Scrimmage," and of the rockwork fountain, adorned with scenes and groups of Scripture history bearing reference to water; Miss Hannah Barlow, whose admirable lifelike figures of wild animals have become widely popular; Mr. Frank Butler, a deaf and dumb artist; and Mrs. Sparkes, whose talent as a painter in colours, on the Lambeth faïence and tiles, was shown especially in her large tile-picture of "The Pilgrim Fathers," sent to the Philadelphia Exhibition.

We give a few Illustrations of the Doulton stone-ware and painted faïence, the articles being distinguished by numbers in the Engraving, as follow:—No. 1, a Doulton-ware vase, 4 ft. high, with incised figures of a lion and four lionesses and three young lions, drawn by Miss Hannah Barlow, and with painted ornament by Miss F. E. Barlow; the ground is a buff, of lighter shade in the upper part of the vase, while the coloured ornamentation is chiefly blue. No. 2, a Doulton-ware vase about the same size, designed and ornamented by Mr. Frank Butler; the ground is very dark brown, the decorations pale and dark blue. Nos. 3, 4, and 5 are plaques of Lambeth faïence: the largest, No. 3, is 4 ft. in diameter, exceeding in size even that exhibited by the Japanese Government in 1871; the bird is very lifelike, and the plants, the rose, the yellow flag-flower, the bullrush, cow-parsnip, orchids, and wild chicory are represented with botanical accuracy. The two smaller plaques are very pretty: No. 4 is by Miss L. Watt and No. 5 by Miss F. Lewis. No. 6 is an example of applied or incrusted ornamentation; it has some resemblance to Chelsea ware. No. 7 is a specimen of tile for wall decoration. The remaining figures, 8, 9, 10, and 11, do not require particular comment; but No. 9, which is a pedestal for a conservatory flower-pot, displaying white ornamentation of winding wreaths on a blue and brown ground, has a very pleasing effect.

ORDER OF THE INDIAN EMPIRE.

We give an Illustration of the ornamental badge which is to be worn by gentlemen who are members of this new Order. The decoration to be worn by ladies upon whom her Majesty has conferred that privilege was represented in an Illustration published by us on April 13. The gentlemen wear a gold badge in form of a rose, enamelled red, charged with INDIA in gold letters (a letter on each leaf), having in the centre, within a circle enamelled purple, on which is inscribed in gold letters "Victoria Empress," a portrait of her Imperial Majesty, ensigned by the Imperial Crown in gold. This badge is worn pendent from an Imperial purple ribbon, attached by a gold brooch at the top. The badge is manufactured by Messrs. R. and S. Garrard and Co., goldsmiths to the Crown.

EISTEDDFOD AT MENAI-BRIDGE.

As announced in our preceding issue, a Welsh Eisteddfod was held last week at Menai-bridge. It was begun on Tuesday, the 6th inst., under the presidency of Mr. R. Davies, M.P.; Mr. Goschen, M.P., and Mr. Samuel Morley, M.P., being present. The chairman, in his opening address, strongly protested against opinions expressed by a section of English critics that the Eisteddfod was an exhibition of Welsh prejudice and vanity, and claimed that it was the means of discovering and developing talent and of raising the moral and social tone of the people. An address touching upon the origin and objects of the meeting was also given by Captain Verney, chairman of the Anglesey Quarter Sessions. During the proceedings, which were of a most enthusiastic character, literary honours were taken by Mr. R. Hughes for a Welsh essay on the part Anglesey played during the Civil War; by Miss S. Owen Jones, of Bangor, and Miss Letitia Jones, Holyhead, for pianoforte-playing; Mr. Rupert Stanley Hughes, Liverpool, for singing; and Mr. Owen, Bettwa-y-Coed, for drawing. Other minor honours were awarded to Mr. Lewis, Llangefni, and Mr. Jones, Bangor. Madame Edith Wynne and Mr. Maybrick were the chief vocalists.

The Eisteddfod was continued on the 8th inst., Mr. Morgan Lloyd, M.P., being president. The attendance, owing to unfavourable weather, was small. The chairman, in his opening address, touched upon the interest in Wales that was now manifested in high-class education, and complained that, while liberal grants were made to Ireland and Scotland, the Government refused any aid towards the Welsh University, which was established and supported chiefly by the working classes of Wales. Mr. Cubitt's piano for lady amateurs in Wales was won by Miss Ella Richards, Bangor, Mr. Elias Davies and Mr. Owen Jones winning the harp prizes.

Mr. Lewis Morris presided over the Eisteddfod on the 9th. The audience included Mr. Goschen, Sir George Campbell, Mr. Morley, Mr. Henry Richard, Mr. Morgan Lloyd, and other Welsh members. In his opening address the president advocated the establishment of a Welsh social science congress, and that the Eisteddfod should link itself more closely with the endeavour to improve the educational system of Wales. The chair prize, the great honour of the gathering, was won by Mr. Milton Aubrey for a Welsh poem, other literary honours being taken by the Rev. E. Jones.

The Eisteddfod closed its four days' session yesterday week.—the Bishop of Bangor presiding. Mr. Goschen, who has attended daily, was to have spoken, but was too hoarse; Mr. Morley and Mr. Henry Richard, both of whom spoke highly of the gathering, taking his place. The competitions were rather meagre. The Denbighshire Yeomanry Cavalry band were unopposed in their class; and literary honours fell to Mr. Thomas Jones, Bangor, Mr. Edwards, and others; and to Mr. Williams, Penmaenmawr, for architectural designs. The Eisteddfod closed with the performance of the "Creation" by the Bangor Choral Society, Madame Wynne, Miss Marian Williams, and Mr. Maybrick being principals.

The Skinners' Company have made another grant of ten guineas in aid of the Printers' Pension Corporation.

THE VOLUNTEERS.

A rifle contest which had been in progress since Saturday last, at the ranges in Rainham, Essex, for prizes presented by General Lord Napier of Magdala, G.C.B., G.C.S.I., the Worshipful Companies of Merchant Taylors, Saddlers, Drapers, Mercers, Fishmongers, Grocers, &c., was concluded on Tuesday; upwards of 200 of the best shots of the 3rd City of London Rifles being the competitors. Appended are the results of the principal competitions:—Battalion prizes: The first prize, the Worshipful Company of Grocers' challenge cup, value £10, a money prize of £10, and the regimental badge, was won by Private Sharpe. General Lord Napier of Magdala's challenge cup was contested by three members from each company; G (Captain Beaton's) company being first, and Sergeants Harvey and Wust and Private Briggs each receiving £2 and the Napier badge. The London Rifle Brigade rapid firing and volley competition showed some remarkable proficiency with the Snider. In the former contest the competitors fired at 200 yards at a skirmishing target, two minutes being the time allowed, "any position, rifles to be fairly loaded on the words 'Commence firing;' shots after the words 'Cease firing' will disqualify." For the first prize, 12 guineas, presented by Messrs. Silver and Co., Colour-Sergeant Fletcher made up an aggregate total of 72 points, consisting of 17 bull's-eyes and 2 outers. The last contest of the meeting was for the gold medal of the brigade and 15 guineas, open only to the twenty highest scorers in the aggregates, silver medal winners and winners of first prizes. Private Runtz was the winner.

The competition by the members of the London Rifle Brigade for the valuable series of prizes annually placed at their disposal by the City companies and friends of the regiment was brought to a close on Friday week at the Rainham range, by the contest between the highest scorers in the principal "aggregate" series shot on the previous Saturday and Monday and the winners of first prizes in other series during the week for the gold medal of the brigade and a prize of 15 guineas. After a very close contest, Private Runtz, of O Company, was declared the winner, beating Private Hood, of G Company, by one mark. By the rules of the brigade no one is allowed to take more than one prize, with the exception of the grand aggregate series, and therefore there is some shifting takes place in the order of merit; but the following is the correct list of the actual prize-takers: Martini-Henry Competition, at 800, 900, and 1000 yards—£10 10s., Private Rothon; £5 5s., Sergeant Kitchingman; £4 4s. each, Corporal A. N. Adams and Private G. Cross. Aggregate Series at 200, 500, and 600 Yards—£21, Colour-Sergeant Fletcher; £10 10s. each, Corporal Hall, Private M'Dougall, Sergeant Tayton, Private Hood, Corporal Mardell, Private Hamerton, Private H. Smith, and Private Siegert; £7 7s., Private Jenkinson; £5 5s. each, Private Cocks, Private Nash, Private W. S. Smith, and Private Shepherd; £4, Private W. Cross; £3, Corporal Elles and Sergeant Beeton; £3, Private Surgey; £2, Private Hayton. Broad-street Ward Skirmishing Prize—£21, Private Saw; £1 10s., Sergeant Matthams. Ironmongers' Company's Skirmishing Prize—£10 10s., Private Desmond; £1 15s., Corporal Haines. Cripplegate Ward Series, at 200, 500, and 600 Yards—Challenge Trophy and £10 10s., Private Russell; £7 10s., Sergeant Fraser; £3 15s., Private Robinson and Private Green. Range Prizes, 200 yards—Haberdashers' Company Challenge Cup and £5 5s., Private Falconar; £4 4s., Private Churchill and Quartermaster-Sergeant Stuckey. 500 yards (the Colonel's Cup)—£10 10s., Private Merritt; £5 5s., Private Wyatt (Gold Medal); £4 4s., Private Jenkinson and Sergeant Cornell. 600 yards (Grocers' Company Challenge Cup and £5 5s.)—Sergeant M'Alpin; £4 4s., Sergeant Green and Sergeant Child. The "Silver" Rapid-Firing Prizes, at 200 yards—£12 12s., Private Hancock; £5 5s., Private Merry; £2 8s., Colour-Sergeant Rogers. Volley-Firing Contest (400 yards, five rounds, teams of ten men from each company)—H, 164 marks; O, 151 marks. Grand Aggregate Prizes—£3 3s., Colour-Sergeant Fletcher; £2 2s., each, Private Hood and Corporal Hall.

The annual official inspection of the 1st London Engineer Volunteers took place last Saturday evening in Regent's Park, when, notwithstanding the unfavourable weather, there was an excellent muster of the corps, under the command of Lieutenant-Colonel Drew, whose field officers were Captain Harrison (Acting Major), and Captain and Adjutant Parker, R.E. The field state showed that 12 officers, 22 sergeants, 37 band and buglers, and 326 rank and file, or a total of 397 of all ranks, out of an enrolled strength of 523, were present. The inspecting officer was Colonel Gordon, the Commanding Royal Engineer of the Home District, who was accompanied by Captain Wood, R.E. At the close of the drill Colonel Gordon expressed himself pleased with what he had seen, both in the field and at the head-quarters of the regiment, where he had inspected the engineering works executed by the corps.

At the Shropshire County Rifle Meeting held last week the Challenge Cup and bronze medal of the National Rifle Association were won by Colour-Sergeant Owen, of the 6th Corps.

The first division of the Volunteer Artillery at Shoeburyness left the camp yesterday week, Colonel Ravenhill, R.A., the Camp Commandant, issuing an order in which he expressed great satisfaction both with the officers and the men.—The second division, consisting of eighty-three detachments, marched into camp last Saturday for their eight days' drill. The church parade on Sunday was attended by Colonel Hastings and the whole of the regular garrison. Afterwards Colonel Hastings inspected the camp. The work of the week began on Monday. At a parade last Tuesday Lieutenant-Colonel Ravenhill, R.A., the Commandant of the camp, commented on the lax state of discipline which he has found to prevail amongst the volunteers on duty there.

The Irish Eight who won the Elcho Shield at Wimbledon this year formally handed over the shield to the custody of the Corporation of Dublin on Monday. The Irish Eight carried the shield on their shoulders, and, having deposited it on a table in the centre of the council-chamber, they stood while Major Leech expressed their pride at once more, for the fourth time in six years and the second in succession, having won the distinction of being the champion shots of the three countries.

The Director-General of the Medical Department of the Navy, Sir Alexander Armstrong, K.C.B., made an official inspection of the Naval Hospital at Plymouth, in charge of Inspector-General Henry J. Domville, C.B., on the 9th inst., and of the other naval establishments at that port on the following day.

Last Saturday afternoon the new buildings attached to the Royal College of Surgeons, Stephen's-green, Dublin, were opened by the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland. The buildings consist mainly of a library and a museum, with other rooms attached; and the new block forms a continuation of the angle at York street. The Viceregal party, the Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress, and the visitors generally were conducted through the museum, and most of the objects of interest were pointed out to them.

OBITUARY.

LORD DYNEVOR.

The Right Honourable Francis William Rice, fifth Baron Dynevor, of Dynevor, in the county of Caermarthen, Vicar of Fairford, Gloucestershire, died on the 3rd inst., at 53, Brook-street. His Lordship was born May 10, 1804, the second son of the Hon. and Very Rev. Edward Rice, D.D., Dean of Gloucester, by Charlotte, his wife, second daughter of the late General Lascelles, and succeeded to the peerage at the death of his cousin, George Rice, fourth Lord Dynevor, Oct. 7, 1869. He was educated at Christ Church, Oxford, where he graduated in 1827; and held the vicarage of Fairford since 1828. Lord Dynevor married, first, 1830, Harriet Ives, daughter of Daniel Raymond Barker, Esq., and by her leaves a daughter, the Hon. Mrs. Joyce, and a son and successor, the Hon. Arthur de Cardonnel Rice, now Lord Dynevor. The late peer married, secondly, 1856, Eliza Amelia, eldest daughter of the late Rev. H. Carnegie Knox, Rector of Lechlade, and by her leaves one son and three daughters. William, first Earl Talbot, having no surviving male issue, was created Baron Dynevor in 1780, with limitation to his only daughter, Lady Cecil, the wife of George Rice, Esq., of Newton, M.P. for Carmarthenshire, and the barony devolved, at the Earl's death, in 1782, on this lady, who was grandmother of the nobleman whose death we record.

SIR JOHN ENNIS, BART.

Sir John Ennis, Bart., of Ballinahown Court, in the county of Westmeath, J.P. and D.L., who died on the 8th inst. at his residence, 9, Merrion-square, Dublin, was the only son of Andrew Ennis, of Roebuck, Dublin, who realised a large fortune in commercial pursuits and purchased a considerable landed property in Westmeath. Sir John was educated at Stonyhurst, and was formerly Governor of the Bank of Ireland and Chairman of the Midland Great Western Railway. He contested the county of Westmeath unsuccessfully in 1852, but was returned for Athlone in 1857 and 1859, and served as High Sheriff for the county of Westmeath in 1837, and for the county of Dublin in 1849. He was created a Baronet in 1866. Sir John married, in 1834, Anna Maria, eldest daughter of David Henry, Esq., of Dublin, and sister of the late Sir Thomas Henry, Chief Magistrate, London, and leaves an only son, now Sir John James Ennis, second Baronet, High Sheriff for the county of Westmeath in 1866, late M.P. for Athlone, born in 1842; and three daughters—viz., Mary, wife of O'Donoghue of the Glens, M.P.; Margaret Alicia Josephine, wife of Edmund Waterton, Esq., of Walton Hall, Yorkshire; and Elizabeth Antonia, wife of Joseph Edward Power, Esq., of Snow Hill, in the county of Waterford.

LADY DALLING AND BULWER.

The Right Hon. Georgiana Charlotte Mary, Baroness Dalling and Bulwer, whose death at Woodville Hall, Ewell, near Dover, is announced, was only daughter of Henry, first Lord Cowley, by Georgiana, his wife, daughter of James, first Marquis of Salisbury, and was consequently niece of Arthur, the great Duke of Wellington. She was married, Dec. 9, 1848, to the Right Hon. Sir Henry Lytton Bulwer, G.C.B., the distinguished diplomatist, brother of the first Lord Lytton, but had no issue. Her Ladyship became a widow May 3, 1872.

THE REV. G. GILFILLAN.

The Rev. George Gilfillan, Pastor of St. George's United Presbyterian Church, Dundee, died on Tuesday morning at the house of Mr. Valentine, banker, Brechin, after only half an hour's illness. Mr. Gilfillan left Dundee for Brechin the previous night, and was to have officiated at the marriage of a niece on Tuesday. He was in his usual health on Sunday, and preached on the subject of sudden death. Mr. Gilfillan, who was in his sixty-fifth year, was the author of a large number of works, among the best known of which was his "Gallery of Literary Portraits." He frequently lectured in England and Scotland on literary subjects, and was at one time a large contributor to periodical literature.

The deaths have also been announced of—

Charles Lechmere, Esq., late Deputy Keeper of the State Papers, on the 5th inst., at Deal, Kent, aged seventy-eight.

The Rev. John Cooper, one of the first missionaries to India from Scotland. He went out in 1822, and returned in 1834. Mr. Cooper was eighty-one years of age.

Captain Alexander Rodney Bligh Carter, R.N., son of the late Admiral Charles Carter, of Gosport, and grandson of the late Admiral Sir Richard Rodney Bligh, of Southampton, on the 3rd inst., at Shirley, Southampton.

Captain the Hon. J. S. Roe, R.N., F.R.G.S., J.P., on May 28, at Perth, Western Australia, aged eighty-one. He was youngest son of the late Rev. James Roe, Rector of Newbury, Berks, and Incumbent of Dorchester, Oxon, and was Surveyor-General of the colony about forty years.

Samuel Chadwick, Esq., on the 4th inst., aged seventy-two. He was for many years the head of a department in the Probate Office, and was the author of a valuable work entitled "The Probate Court Manual." He retired in 1871. He married Emma, daughter of the late Mr. George Daniel, the eminent Shakspearean collector, and author of "Merrie England in the Olden Time," and other well-known works.

Dr. George Conroy, Roman Catholic Bishop of Ardagh, at the age of forty-six. He was a native of Armagh, and was educated at the Propaganda College in Rome. On his return to Ireland he joined the staff of the Missionary College of All Hallows, near Dublin, where he taught divinity for several years. When Archbishop Cullen was made a Cardinal in 1866 he appointed Dr. Conroy to be his secretary; and four years later he was appointed Bishop of Ardagh.

Lieutenant-Colonel William George Ward, of the Madras Staff Corps, at Hastings, on the 10th inst., at the age of forty-eight. He received his first commission in 1851, served with the Madras Rifles during the suppression of the mutiny in Bengal from September, 1857, to November, 1859, and received the Mutiny medal with clasp for Central India. He was afterwards appointed Assistant-General Superintendent for the suppression of Thuggee and Dacoity at Hyderabad.

CHESS.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

All communications relating to this department of the Paper should be addressed to the Editor, and have the word "Chess" written on the envelope.

E L G (Blackwater).—Your solution of 1795 is correct; but it came to hand too late, we regret, for acknowledgment in the usual place.

N R (Frenchenham).—It was acknowledged last week.

MARIANA (Bruges).—Look at No. 1798 again. Your proposed solution will not answer.

E N F (Abbey-road).—The problem shall be published shortly. The game shall appear when the tourneys are disposed of.

W W (Regent's Park).—We are greatly obliged for the trouble you have taken.

E T (Bath).—The game is very acceptable, and it shall appear next week.

DARNHILL.—If you will examine No. 1795 with the published solution you will find that the juveniles are wide of the mark this time.

P W.—To receive any attention, such communications as yours must be accompanied by the name and address of the writer.

H B (Bournemouth).—The game in the American correspondence tourney shall have early attention.

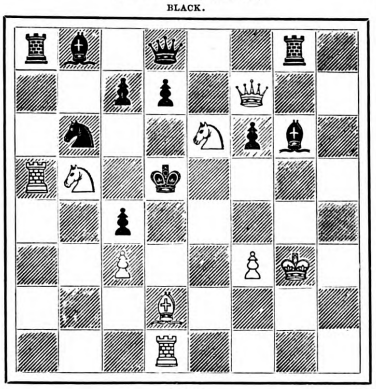
ERRATUM.—In the game published in our issue of the 3rd inst. the 20th move of Black should be B takes Kt, instead of P takes B. We are greatly indebted to F Wilkinson of Lincoln, C Darragh of Brighton, and East Marden for pointing out the error.

CORRECT SOLUTIONS OF PROBLEM No. 1796 received from Lulu and P S Shenele.

CORRECT SOLUTIONS OF PROBLEM No. 1797 received from Lulu, Franklin Institute, Alpha, Waldenburg, S Stripe, Emile Frau, Polichinelle, J K, Sabourow (by telegram from Athens), and W Rose.

CORRECT SOLUTIONS OF PROBLEM No. 1798 received from W F Pettit, W Lee, Liz, S Western, Lammas, Dorothy, Joseph B, S Threlfall, B R Stone, D Leslie, Simplex, Leonora and Leon, W Aldon, Americaine, G Foxbrooke, St J E, R Roughead, Trioch, T W H, I, Sharswood, R Schofield, C J G, W Powell, A R G, T Greenbank, Black Knight, N Brock, E Worsley, J S Wonfcone, J F Spiers, T Edgar, E Lewis, F W S, P Hampton, M Rawling, H Bargher, B Robson, Triton, B Parkinson, E Esmonde, W H B, East Marden, J de Honeleyn, Lulu, Painter of Shepherd's-bush, P S Shenele, N Rumbelow, L, of Truro, Polichinelle, E P Vuilliamy, Dr F St, W W J Proffit, W S B, S of Leeds, J K, Copiapino, P le Page, G H V, E H H V, R Selby, C S Coxe, W Franklin, M Thayer, T Greenbank, J W Cooper, H Brewster, M Meredith, J Beade, C Darragh, S Adams, O Johnson, W K H, and B Ingersoll.

SOLUTION OF PROBLEM No. 1797.



WHITE.	BLACK.
1. B to Q R 8th
2. Q or either Kt mates accordingly.	Any move

NOTE.—This problem cannot be solved by any other line of play than that given above. The reply to 1. Q to K 6th is 1. P to Q 6th; 1. Q to B 5th is met by 1. B to Q Kt sq; 1. K to B sq is met by 1. Kt takes B, and the answer to 1. Q to Q Kt 2nd, 1. Q to Q Kt sq, or 1. Q to Kt 4th is, in each case, 1. B to Q B 2nd. The foregoing analysis will answer the proposed solutions of a large number of correspondents.

PROBLEM No. 1800.

By D. M. TIMBAS (Alexandria).

BLACK.

WHITE.

White to play, and mate in three moves.

THE COUNTIES CHESS ASSOCIATION.

The following highly interesting Game was played in the first-class tourney of the above society between Mr. J. JENKIN, of Glasgow, and Professor WAYTE, of London.—(Ruy Lopez.)

WHITE (Mr. J.)	BLACK (Prof. W.)
1. P to K 4th	P to K 4th
2. Kt to K B 3rd	Kt to Q B 3rd
3. B to Kt 5th	P to Q R 3rd
4. B to R 4th	Kt to B 3rd
5. P to Q 3rd	B to B 4th

The authorities are unanimous in condemning this defence as inferior to 5. P to Q 3rd.

6. Kt to B 3rd

The usual continuation in reply to Black's last move is 6. P to Q B 3rd.

6.	P to Q Kt 4th
7. B to Kt 3rd	P to Q 3rd
8. P to K R 3rd	P to K R 3rd
9. Kt to K 2nd	Kt to K 2nd
10. Kt to Kt 3rd	Castles
11. Castles	Kt to Kt 3rd
12. B to K 3rd

We should have preferred 12. P to Q B 3rd. White doubtlessly thought that the doubled Pawn at K 3rd would be useful in preventing the hostile Kt being posted at K B 5th.

12.	B takes B
13. P takes B	P to B 4th
14. P to B 4th	P to Kt 5th
15. P to R 3rd	B to K 3rd
16. P takes P	P takes P
17. B to R 2nd	P to Kt 3rd
18. Q to Q 2nd	P to Kt 6th
19. B to Q sq	P to Q R 4th
20. Kt to R 2nd	Kt to Q 2nd
21. K to R sq	P to R 5th
22. R to R 3rd	R to R 2nd
23. Kt to Kt 4th	P to B 3rd
24. Kt to B 5th	Q to B 2nd
25. Q to R 2nd	Kt to B 4th
26. Kt to B 2nd	K to R 2nd
27. Q to R 5th	Kt takes Q P

Very finely conceived. In the three Pawns and the resulting position Black secures a full equivalent for this sacrifice.

28. Kt takes Kt	Q takes P
29. Q to K 2nd	Q takes P
30. Kt to Kt 3rd

WHITE (Mr. J.)	BLACK (Prof. W.)
If 30. Kt takes Q P, then follows 31. Q to Q 4th &c.
30.	Q to B 3rd
31. Q to Q 2nd	B to B 6th
32. B to B 3rd	P to Q 4th
33. P to K 4th	Q to Kt 4th
34. B to K 2nd	P takes P
35. Kt takes P (at K 4th)	R to Q sq
36. Q to K 3rd	B takes Kt
37. Q takes R	B takes B
38. R to K sq

If 38. Kt takes P (ch), Black plays his King to R sq, and there is no further attack in that direction.

38.	R to Q 2nd
39. Q to B 2nd	B to B 5th
40. Kt to B 3rd	Q to B 3rd
41. Q R takes P	Kt to B 5 h
42. R to K 3rd	Kt to Q 4th
43. R to K 4th

Mr. Jenkin has not played up to his usual force in this tourney. In a note to this move Professor Wayte points out that White should here have played 43. Kt takes Kt, to which Black's best reply appears to be 43. B takes Kt, after which the game is equal. Should Black play 43. Q takes R, then follows—

44. Q to B 5th (ch)	K to R sq

If 44. P to Kt 3rd, White takes off the Rook with Queen, and checks with Kt, &c.

45. Kt takes P, with a strong attack.
43.	B to Q 6th
44. Kt takes Kt	B takes R
45. Kt to B 3rd	B to B 7th
46. R to K Kt 4th	R to Q 6th

The winning move, threatening R takes R P (ch), as well as R takes Kt.

47. Q to B 5th (ch)	K to R sq
48. Q to R 5th	R takes Kt
49. K to R 2nd	Q to Q 2nd

To prevent Q to K B 7th; but 49. B to Q 8th, or 49. R to Q 4th, would also win.

50. R to Q Kt 4th	R to B sq, and White resigned.

CHESS INTELLIGENCE.

The handicap tourney of the Counties Chess Association resulted in the mechanical chessplayer, "Mephisto," winning the first prize, the second honours, whatever they may be worth in the circumstances, falling to Mr. Sydney Ensor. We do not care to interest ourselves in the prowess of the public chess-rooms, but we may say that everyone knows, indeed no one denies, that the movements of "Mephisto" are directed by a concealed player, whose name, quality, and force are unknown to the general public. The admission of such a competitor to the lists of a handicap tournament intended for amateur chessplayers exclusively must be regarded as a mistake on the part of the committee of the association; but, as the blunder is not likely to be repeated, we need not pursue the subject further.

On Friday last, the 9th instant, the American and the English chessplayers who have been engaged in the Paris tournament were entertained at the City of London Chess Club, Mouffiet's Hotel, Newgate-street. The guests of the occasion were Messrs. Mackenzie and Mason, of New York, and Messrs. Bird and Blackburne, of London; and there was a large assemblage of the leading chessplayers of the metropolis to grace their reception. After the banquet the health of the players was proposed by the president, Mr. Clarke, and received enthusiastically by the members. Other toasts followed, and the meeting did not break up until a late hour.

WILLS AND BEQUESTS.

The will (dated Jan. 3, 1878) of Mr. Edmund Pepys, late of No. 20, Portland-place, who died on June 13 last, was proved on the 17th ult. by Mrs. Louisa Jane Pepys, the widow, and Edmund Pepys, the son, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £350,000. The testator leaves to his wife absolutely £2100 New Three per Cent Stock, and all the cash in the house, and to the credit of his private account at the Bank of England, and for life his residence in Portland-place, with the furniture and effects, and the income of £60,000 Consols; to his sons John Alfred and Henry some specific gifts of freehold property and £30,000 Reduced Stock each; to his son Arthur £40,000 Reduced Stock; upon trust for his daughters, Caroline and Sarah Emma, £15,000 Government Stock each; and there are a few other bequests. The residue of all his property the testator gives to his son Edmund.

The will (dated June 3, 1878) of Mr. Eleazer Moses Merton, late of No. 7, Norfolk-crescent, Hyde Park, who died on the 11th ult., was proved on the 31st ult. by Mrs. Matilda Maria Moses Merton, the widow, Henry Samson, and Charles Lindo, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £160,000. The testator bequeaths to his executors £200 each, free of legacy duty; to his wife, £2500, and all his furniture, plate, jewellery, pictures, household effects, horses and carriages, in addition to the provision already secured to her by settlement; £150 to be distributed among the Jewish poor; to his son Alfred Moses Merton, £25,000; to his daughter Jeannette, £20,000; to his daughters Emily, Frances, and Rebecca, £14,000 each; and one or two other legacies. The remainder of his property is to be divided between his said five children.

The will (dated June 10, 1876) with a codicil (dated April 27, 1878) of Mr. Henry Percy Hamer, formerly of Demerara, British Guiana, but late of No. 12, Dover-street, Piccadilly, who died on June 16 last, was proved on the 16th ult. by the Rev. Thomas Brand, the nephew, and George Augustus Beaurain, the acting executors, the personal estate being sworn under £30,000. The testator bequeaths to Dr. Thomas Cahill, John Cahill, and his executor, Mr. Beaurain, £500 each; to the Rev. Thomas Brand his plate, jewellery, pictures, and papers, and £200; to Mrs. Emma Melhan £500 New Three per Cent Stock, and £50 per annum for life; to the Guiana Diocesan Church Society, Georgetown, Demerara, the Church of England Sunday School Institute, 34, Bridge-street, Blackfriars, and the Sunday School Union, Old Bailey, £1000 each; and the rest of his property to the Rev. Thomas Brand, Andre Charles Racine Brand, John Brand, Arthur Brand, Miss Maria Brand, Mrs. Matilda Harrison, Mrs. Mary Fanny Pagan, and Henry Percy Guy.

The will (dated June 6, 1871) with two codicils (dated June 13, 1874, and Feb. 27, 1877) of General Henry Sykes Stephens, late of No. 13, Wilton-place, Belgrave-square, who died on the 6th ult., was proved on the 27th ult. by Augustus Henry Stephens, the son, the acting executor, the personal estate being sworn under £16,000. Subject to bequests to his three other children, the testator gives all his real and personal estate to his said son, Augustus Henry Stephens.

The will (dated July 24, 1876) of Admiral Sir William Hutcheon Hall, K.C.B., late of No. 48, Phillimore-gardens, Kensington, who died on June 25 last, was proved on the 27th ult. by the Hon. Dame Hilare Caroline Hall, the widow, the acting executrix, the personal estate being sworn under £6000.

The will (dated Jan. 23, 1874) of Lord Montagu William Graham, late of Wherstead Park, Ipswich, who died on June 21 last, at No. 15, Wilton-street, Belgrave-square, was proved on the 26th ult., under a nominal sum, by Lady Harriet Anne Graham, the widow, and the Hon. Robert Charles Herbert, the executors. With the exception of a few specific legacies, the testator leaves all his real and personal estate to his wife.

The Duchess of Leeds has again been elected a member of the school board of Stapleford, Cambridgeshire. Her Grace was first elected a year ago, when the board was formed, and she has been very regular in attendance.

A recreation-ground was opened at Nechells, near Birmingham, last Saturday. The ground, which is about ten acres in extent, has been presented by the gas committee of the Birmingham Town Council for the benefit of the public of the locality. Mr. Chamberlain, M.P., was one of the speakers.

BOOKS RECEIVED.

Ocean and Her Rulers. By Alfred Elwes. Revised Edition. (Griffith and Co.)
Benjamin Du Plan, Deputy-General of the Reformed Churches of France from 1725 to 1763. By D. Bonnefon. (Hodder and Stoughton.)
Tales from Blackwood. No. 4. New series. (Blackwood and Sons)
Ten Short Sermons, preached at Grange-over-Sands. By H. R. Smith, M.A. (Ridgway, Piccadilly.)
Song and Sense, from "Uncle Sam." Collected by T. Nicholson. (Charing Cross Publishing Company.)
Hindustani Made Easy. By a Native Author. (F. Workman, Gloucester.)
Emanuel Swedenborg, the Spiritual Columbus. A Sketch, by M. S. E. Sewell. (Spiers, 36, Bloomsbury-street.)
Homer. By the Right Hon. W. E. Gladstone. (Literary Primer.) (Macmillan and Co.)
Carpentry and Joinery. By S. Aveling. Illustrated. (Warne and Co.)
Life of Sir Martin Frobisher, Knight. With Narrative of the Spanish Armada. By the Rev. F. Jones. (Longmans.)
The War in the Peninsula. By H. R. Clinton. (Warne and Co.)
Walton's Complete Angler. Illustrated Edition. With Notes by G. C. Davies. (Warne and Co.)
Cyprus: Our New Colony, and What We Know About It. By Fred H. Fisher. With Maps. (Routledge.)
Fragmentary Philanthropic Appeals. By Samuel Hill. (Vickers Wood.)
The Psalmist: Hymns, Tunes, Chants, and Anthems for Congregational Worship and for Family Use. Edited by Ebenezer Prout, B.A. Tunes with Hymns. (Haddon and Co., 3, Bouverie-street.)
A Summer in Normandy. By Mrs. C. Elis. (Routledge and Sons.)
Round About France. By E. C. Granville Murray. (Macmillan and Co.)
French Pictures in English Chalk. By the Member for Paris. Second series. (Smith, Elder, and Co.)
Three Years in Roumania. By J. W. Ozannee. (Chapman and Hall.)
Letters from Muskoka. By an Emigrant Lady. (Bentley and Son.)
Health and Life. By B. W. Richardson, M.D. (Daldy, Isbister, and Co.)
The Life of the World to Come, and other Subjects. By the Rev. Teignmouth Shore, M.A. (Cassell and Co.)
Records of Shelley, Byron, and the Author. By Edward John Trelawny. 2 vols. (B. M. Pickering.)
Character and Work: Hints for Younger Men and Women. By William R. Clark, Vicar of Taunton. (Wells Gardner.)
The London Guide: How to get to or from any part of London. Fourth Edition. (Stanford.)
Brief: A Weekly Epitome of the Press. Vol. I. (Wyman and Sons, 81, Great Queen-street, W.C.)
Amours of Great Men. By Albert Vandam. 2 vols. (Tinsley, Bros.)
A Latter-Day Novel. By Lieutenant-Colonel C. E. Mansfield. 2 vols. (Chapman and Hall.)
The Romance of the Streets. By a London Rambler. Seventh Edition. (Hodder and Stoughton.)
The Philosophy of Existence: The Reality and Romance of History; or, History of Deities—Heaven, Demons, Hades, Angels, and Purgatory. By E. G. Kelly, M.D. (Chapman and Hall.)
A Search for Fortune: The Autobiography of a Younger Son. A Narrative of Travel and Adventure. By Hamilton Lindsay-Bucknall, Ass. R.E. Illustrated. (Daldy, Isbister, and Co.)
Conversations with M. Thiers, M. Guizot, and other Distinguished Persons, during the Second Empire. By the late Nassau William Senior, Master in Chancery, &c. 2 vols. (Hurst and Blackett.)
The Illustrated Waverley Novels: Kenilworth. By Sir Walter Scott, Bart. (Marcus Ward and Co.)
Sophie Crewe. A Novel. 3 vols. (J. and R. Maxwell.)
The Domestic World: A Practical Guide in the Higher Branches of Domestic and Social Economy. (Hodder and Stoughton.)

MOURNING ORDERS SENT AT ONCE
UPON RECEIPT OF LETTER OR TELEGRAM.

A large Staff of very competent Dressmakers and ASSISTANTS are kept purposely to TRAVEL to all parts of the country—no matter the distance—(free of any extra charge whatever to the Customer) with a full assortment of Made-up Goods of the most fashionable and suitable description.

FOR A FAMILY MOURNING, and also Mourning for Servants,

Orders, however large, can be completed at very short notice by Dressmakers of the greatest proficiency. (either French, German, or English).

Observe the only one Address—
PETER ROBINSON'S,
COURT AND GENERAL MOURNING WAREHOUSE,
256 to 262, REGENT-STREET, LONDON.

One of the most important Houses of its kind in England. Established as a Mourning Warehouse Thirty Years.

AT PETER ROBINSON'S, of REGENT-STREET.

BLACK DRESS SATINS, all pure Silk, at 5s. 9d., 6s. 6d., 7s. 6d., 8s. 9d., and 10s. 9d., made by Messrs. Bonnet.

The DUCHESSE SATIN, at 12s. 9d. (26 inches wide), a magnificent quality, for richness and for durability cannot be surpassed.

BLACK SATINS, for Trimming purposes, at 2s. 6d., 2s. 11d., 3s. 6d., and 4s. 6d. per yard.

BLACK SILKS—Specially Cheap,
Manufactured by Messrs. Bonnet et Cie, at .. 5s. 6d.
Manufactured by Messrs. Tapissier et Cie, at 5s. 3d.
Manufactured by Messrs. Jaubert et Cie .. 4s. 6d.
Manufactured by Messrs. Dégove et Cie, at .. 4s. 11d.

Also, BLACK SILKS, in very serviceable qualities, at 2s. 6d., 2s. 11½d., 3s. 6d., 4s. 6d., and 4s. 9d.

CHINA WASHING SILKS, 21s. the Piece of 20 yards.

PETER ROBINSON is a Wholesale as well as a Retail Dealer in Black Silks. As he buys direct from the Manufacturer, all intermediate profits are saved. Address ONLY for Patterns as follows:—
PETER ROBINSON, 256 to 262, REGENT-STREET.
THE COURT AND GENERAL MOURNING WAREHOUSE.

AT PETER ROBINSON'S, of REGENT-STREET,

COSTUMES IN BLACK SILK, Exquisitely Fashioned, at 4½, 5½, 6½, 7½, 8½, and 10½ guineas.

COSTUMES IN BLACK SATIN, the Purest and Richest Qualities, at 10½ guineas.

COSTUMES FOR YOUNG LADIES, in pretty Fancy Grisaille Silks, at 5½ guineas.

COSTUMES FOR DINNER AND EVENING DRESS, in Grenadine, trimmed Satin and Silk, a large variety, from 3½ to 7½ guineas.

COSTUMES IN BLACK BRUSSELS NET, at 2gs. 6d.

COSTUMES IN BLACK GRENADINE, at 2 guineas.

COSTUMES IN WHITE MUSLIN FOR GARDEN PARTIES, at 25s. 6d. to 3½ guineas, with Material for Bodice.

COSTUMES IN WHITE CAMBRIC FOR MORNING DRESS, at 10s. 6d. to 27s. 6d.

COSTUMES IN BLACK MATERIAL (New Summer Fabrics), at 2 guineas, and up to 7 guineas.

Observe—The ONLY Address for the above is
PETER ROBINSON, of REGENT-STREET,
THE COURT AND GENERAL MOURNING WAREHOUSE.
Nos. 256 to 262.

THE NEW CRAPE.
The Pure Silk Gordian Crape,
FOR WIDOWS AND FAMILIES.
Its advantages are—that it is made of Silk so pure that it will not crease when sat upon, nor spot with rain.
It is a richer black, free from dress and the gummed appearance so objectionable in other Crape.
The wear of every yard is guaranteed.

THE GORDIAN CRAPE
"is a Specialité, only to be obtained at PETER ROBINSON'S, of REGENT-STREET, The MOURNING WAREHOUSE, Nos. 256 to 262. Excellent qualities at 4s. 9d., 5s. 6d., 7s. 6d., 9s. 6d. Patterns free.

NOTICE.—In reference to the above advertisements, it is important that letters should be clearly addressed to 256 to 262, REGENT-STREET.

SWAN and EDGAR
ARE NOW SHOWING a large STOCK of SEASIDE and TRAVELLING GARMENTS, Ulsters, Waterproofs, and Dust Cloaks.—Piccadilly and Regent-street.

ROYAL DEVONSHIRE SERGES, woven from pure Wool, for LADIES' DRESSES, in Navy or Dark Indigo Blue, Black, Dark Browns, Prune, and other solid colours, price 1s. 11d., 2s. 6d., 2s. 11d. per yard.
For CHILDREN a lower quality is made, very strong, at 1s. 6d. per yard.
For BOYS' HARD WEAR it is extra milled, price, 56 in. wide, 3s. 6d. per yard.
Books of Patterns sent post-free by
SPEARMAN and SPEARMAN,
Devonshire Serge Factors, Plymouth.
The ROYAL DEVONSHIRE SERGE is the only true Yachting Serge.
Sea Water cannot injure it.
Any Length is Cut by the Factors, who arrange to pay the carriage of all Parcels above Two Pounds in value to and as far as London.

FOR ALL SEASONS AND ALL CLIMATES.
UNDER THE PATRONAGE OF THE
ENGLISH and FOREIGN COURTS.
EGERTON BURNETT'S
WELLINGTON SERGES,
AND VARIOUS OTHER APPROVED WOOLLEN FABRICS.
EGERTON BURNETT has repeatedly had the honour of supplying "these admirable Serges" to the ROYAL FAMILY, and executes Orders daily FROM ALL PARTS.
Neither rain nor salt water can affect their permanent dye. Prices from 1s. 2½d. to the finest at 4s. 6d. per yard. PATTERN-BOOKS sent free by post and carriage paid to Bristol or London on parcels over £2. GOODS PACKED FOR EXPORTATION.
A Special Strong Make for BOYS' and GENTLEMEN'S SUITS, 54 inches, from 3s. 6d. per yard.
EGERTON BURNETT,
SERGE WAREHOUSES,
WELLINGTON, SOMERSET.

ROUND SHOULDERS and STOOPING HABITS Cured by Dr. CHANDLER'S CHEST-EXPANDING BRACE for both sexes. It assists growth, and produces a handsome figure. 10s. 6d. each.—6, Berners-st. Illustrations sent.

ELECTRICITY IS LIFE.
PULVERMACHER'S "GALVANISM," NATURE'S CHIEF RESTORER OF EXHAUSTED VITAL ENERGY.
In this Pamphlet the most reliable proofs are given of the vast and wonderful curative powers of Pulvermacher's Patent Galvanic Chain-Bands, Belts, &c., in Rheumatic, Nervous, and Functional Disorders. Sent post-free for three stamps, on application to
J. L. PULVERMACHER'S GALVANIC ESTABLISHMENT, 194, REGENT-STREET, LONDON, W.; AND 39, RUE ST. MARC, PARIS.

TO PERSONS AFFLICTED WITH RUPTURE.—TRATT'S WATER-PAD TRUSSES are the most effectual Cure.—Apply to J. F. Tratt, Surgical Mechanician to St. Bartholomew's Hospital, 420, Oxford-street, London.

WILLS' "HONEY" CUT. In consequence of the disturbed state of the Retail Tobacco Trade, through the recent advance in the duty, W. D. and H. O. WILLS have introduced "Honey Cut," a Shag Tobacco, in Ounce Packets, at Fourpence, and Half-Ounce Packets, at Twopence, which they recommend as the best possible value at the price.
May be had of all the principal Tobacconists.

KINAHAN'S LL WHISKY.
THE CREAM OF OLD IRISH WHISKIES.
Pure, mild, mellow, delicious, and most wholesome. Universally recommended by the medical profession. Dr. Hassall says:—"The whisky is soft, mellow, and pure, well-matured, and of very excellent quality."—20, Great Titchfield-street, W.

ORANGE CHAMPAGNE is a light, pleasant drink, made simply from Oranges. It is effervescent, but entirely free from spirit, and perfectly wholesome. Price 7s. per Dozen Quarts; 4s., Pints. Bottles 2s. and Cases 1s. per Dozen until returned. Made only by CHAS. CODD and CO., 79, Copenhagen-street, London, N.

ELLIS'S RUTHIN WATERS.
ELLIS'S PURE AERATED RUTHIN WATERS.
ELLIS'S RUTHIN WATERS.—Crystal Springs. "Absolutely Pure."—See analyses, sent free on application.
ELLIS'S RUTHIN WATERS.—Soda, Potass, Seltzer, Lemonade, and also Water without Alkali.
ELLIS'S RUTHIN WATERS.—For Gout, Lithia Water, and Lithia and Potass Water.
ELLIS'S RUTHIN WATERS.—Crystal Springs. Corks branded "R. Ellis and Son, Ruthin." Every label bears Trade Mark.
ELLIS'S RUTHIN WATERS.—Sold everywhere. Wholesale, R. Ellis and Son, Ruthin, North Wales. London Agents, W. BEST and SONS, Henrietta-street, Cavendish-square.

AMERICAN CENTENNIAL PRIZE MEDAL.
FRY'S CARACAS COCOA.
Its pure flavour, delicate aroma, and invigorating qualities have established its position as a first-class dietetic article.

FRY'S CARACAS COCOA.
"The Caracas Cocoa of such choice quality."—Food, Water, and Air (Dr. Hassall).
"A most delicious and valuable article."—Standard.

FRY'S EXTRACT OF COCOA,
"than which, if properly prepared, there is no nicer or more wholesome preparation of Cocoa."—Food, Water, and Air. Edited by Dr. Hassall.
TENTH INTERNATIONAL MEDAL awarded to J. S. FRY and SON.

CHOCOLAT MENIER, in ½ lb. and ¼ lb. Packets.
For BREAKFAST and SUPPER.

CHOCOLAT MENIER.—Awarded Twenty-Three PRIZE MEDALS.
Consumption annually exceeds 17,000,000lbs.

CHOCOLAT MENIER. Paris, London, New York.
Sold Everywhere.

HORNIMAN'S TEA for Forty Years has commanded a large sale, because it can always be relied on for strength, flavour, and cheapness. It is the best tea imported. Sold only in Packets.

SUMMER DELICACIES.
BROWN and POLSON'S
CORN FLOUR
AS BLANCMANGE WITH STEWED FRUIT.
BROWN and POLSON'S
CORN FLOUR
AS BAKED PUDDING WITH STEWED FRUIT.
BROWN and POLSON'S
CORN FLOUR
AS CUSTARD PUDDING WITH STEWED FRUIT.

SAVORY and MOORE, 143, New Bond-street, prepare
THE BEST FOOD for INFANTS.
Malted on Liebig's principle, is Sweet and Wholesome in Itself. Entirely free from Beetroot Sugar.

THE BEST FOOD for INFANTS.
Superior to Condensed Milk and Swiss Foods. More closely resembles Healthy Mother's Milk than any other kind of Food.

SAVORY and MOORE,
143, NEW BOND-STREET, LONDON; and Sold by Chemists, &c., everywhere.

CORPULENCE.—YATE HOLLAND'S EMACIATING POWDERS (or Pills) speedily and safely absorb superfluous fat and reduce corpulency, however long standing. Price 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. per Box.—MARTIN and CO., 3, Paradise-road, London, S.W.; or through any Chemist.

TAMAR INDIEN.—Owing to the marked success of this fruit-lozenge—so agreeable to take and universally prescribed by the Faculty for Constipation, &c.—Base Imitations are being foisted on the public. The genuine preparations bear the title "Tamar Indien." Price 2s. 6d. per Box. E. GRILLON, Chemist, Lincoln, and 3, Wool Exchange, E.C.; and all Chemists.

"FOR THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE."
CLARKE'S WORLD-FAMED BLOOD MIXTURE is warranted to cleanse the Blood from all impurities, from whatever cause arising. For Scrofula, Scurvy, Skin and Blood Diseases its effects are marvellous. In Bottles, 2s. 6d. each, and in Cases containing six times the quantity, 11s. each, of all Chemists. Sent to any address for 30 or 132 stamps, of the Proprietor, F. J. CLARKE, Chemist, Lincoln.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS and OINTMENT. The Pills purify the blood, correct all disorders of the liver, stomach, kidneys, and bowels. The Ointment is unrivalled in the cure of bad legs, old wounds, gout, and rheumatism.

DINNEFORD'S MAGNESIA.
The best remedy for acidity of the Stomach, Heartburn, Headache, Gout, and Indigestion.

DINNEFORD'S MAGNESIA.
The safest and most gentle Aperient for delicate constitutions, Ladies, Children, and Infants.
OF ALL CHEMISTS.

APERIENT FRUIT LOZENGES, prepared from the Bark of the Rhamnus Frangula. A medicine which has been described on high authority as "The only real aperient we have;" all others usually classed under that name being drastic in their operation and often injurious in their after effect. These Lozenges are extremely palatable, and children take them readily as a sweetmeat. "Mild and uniform in their operation."—Lancet. The Lozenge "is an excellent and exceedingly mild form of laxative, especially suitable for children and delicate people."—Birmingham Medical Review. Prepared only by H. C. BAILDON and SON, Pharmaceutical Chemists, 73, Princes-street, Edinburgh. Sold in Boxes, at 2s. and 2s. 6d., by all Chemists.
London Agents—W. Edwards and Son, 157, Queen Victoria-street.

HOOPING-COUGH.—ROCHE'S HERBAL EMBROCATION.—The celebrated Effectual Cure without internal medicine. Sole Wholesale Agents, EDWARDS and SON, 157, Queen Victoria-street (late of 38, Old Change), London. Sold retail by most Chemists. Price 4s. per Bottle.

BUGS, Fleas, Moths, Beetles, and all other insects are destroyed by KEATING'S INSECT DESTROYING POWDER, which is quite harmless to domestic animals. In exterminating beetles the success of this powder is extraordinary. It is perfectly clean in application. Sold in Tins, 1s. and 2s. 6d. each by all Chemists.

THE TOPIC OF TO-DAY.

THE OCCUPATION OF CYPRUS.

INCREASE OF FEVER AT NICOSIA.

"The fever here is increasing. Captain Rawson, the acting Commandant, is down with it, and also Captain Hill, of the Goorkas, and about a dozen of his company. Unquestionably Nicosia is extremely unhealthy."

After suffering from FEVER FOUR TIMES, in each attack with very great severity—in fact, three of them could not have been more dangerous or critical—from a very extensive and careful observation, extending over a period of forty years, I am perfectly satisfied the "true cause" of fever is a disordered condition of the liver. The office of the liver is to cleanse the blood as a scavenger might sweep the streets. When the liver is not working properly a quantity of effete matter is left floating in the blood. Under these circumstances, should the poison germ of fever be absorbed then the disease results; on the contrary, anyone whose liver and other organs are in a normal condition may be subjected to precisely the same conditions as to the contagious influences and yet escape the fever. This, I consider, explains satisfactorily the seeming mystery that some persons who are placed in circumstances peculiarly favourable for the development of fever, who, in fact, live in the very midst of it, escape unscathed. This being the case, the importance of KEEPING THE LIVER IN ORDER CANNOT BE OVER-ESTIMATED; and I have pleasure in directing attention to my FRUIT SALT, which, in the form of a pleasant beverage, will correct the action of the liver, and thus prevent the many DISASTROUS CONSEQUENCES; not only as an efficient means of WARDING OFF FEVERS and MALARIOUS DISEASES, but as a REMEDY FOR and PREVENTIVE OF BILIOUS or SICK HEADACHES, CONSTIPATION, VOMITING, THIRST, ERRORS of EATING and DRINKING, SKIN ERUPTIONS, GIDDINESS, HEARTBURN, &c. If its great value in keeping the body in health was UNIVERSALLY KNOWN, NO FAMILY WOULD BE WITHOUT A SUPPLY. In many forms of fever, or at the COMMENCEMENT of ANY FEVER, ENO'S FRUIT SALT ACTS as a SPECIFIC. No one can have a simpler or more efficient remedy; by its use the POISON IS THROWN OFF and the BLOOD RESTORED TO ITS HEALTHY CONDITION. I used my FRUIT SALT freely in my last attack of fever, and I have every reason to say it saved my life.
J. C. Eno, Hatcham Fruit Salt Works, S.E.

IMPORTANT TO ALL TRAVELLERS, OR ANY ONE LEAVING HOME for CHANGE, RELAXATION, &c.
"Please send me half a dozen bottles of ENO'S FRUIT SALT. I have tried ENO'S FRUIT SALT in America, India, Egypt, and on the Continent for almost every complaint, fever included, with the most satisfactory results. I can strongly recommend it to all travellers; in fact, I am never without it.—Yours, faithfully, An Englishman, F.R.G.S., M.R.A.S., &c., Executive Engineer, P.W.D., Government of India, June 26, 1878."

A NATURAL WAY OF RESTORING AND PRESERVING HEALTH.
USE ENO'S FRUIT SALT prepared from sound ripe fruit). Without such a simple precaution the jeopardy of life is immensely increased.

REFRESHING, COOLING, INVIGORATING and INVALUABLE.—"I have used your FRUIT SALT for many years, and have verified the statement that it is not only refreshing and invigorating, but also invaluable, as giving speedy relief in cases of heartburn, sourness of the stomach, and constipation and its great evils. The thanks of the public are due to you for your unceasing efforts to relieve suffering humanity. Long may you live to be a blessing to the world!
"R. Hunt, Ph.D., Vicar of Collerly.
"St. Thomas's Vicarage, Annfield Plain, Lintz-green, "Co. Durham, March, 1878."

CAUTION.—Examine each Bottle and see the Capsule is marked "ENO'S FRUIT SALT." Without it you have been imposed on by a worthless imitation. SOLD BY ALL CHEMISTS. Price 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d.
Fruit Salt Works, Hatcham, S.E.

DR. DE JONGH'S
LIGHT-BROWN COD-LIVER OIL,
(KNIGHT OF THE ORDER OF LEOPOLD OF BELGIUM)
THE PUREST.
THE MOST PALATABLE.
THE MOST DIGESTIBLE.
THE MOST EFFICACIOUS.

DR. DE JONGH'S
LIGHT-BROWN COD-LIVER OIL,
proved by twenty-five years' medical experience to be THE ONLY COD-LIVER OIL which produces the full curative effects in CONSUMPTION AND DISEASES OF THE CHEST, THROAT AFFECTIONS, GENERAL DEBILITY, WASTING DISEASES OF CHILDREN, RICKETS, AND ALL SCROFULOUS DISORDERS.

SELECT MEDICAL OPINIONS.
SIR G. DUNCAN GIBB, Bart., M.D.,
Physician to the Westminster Hospital.
"The value of Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD-LIVER OIL as a therapeutic agent in a number of diseases, chiefly of an exhaustive character, has been admitted by the world of medicine; but, in addition, I have found it a remedy of great power in the treatment of many Affections of the Throat and Larynx, especially in Consumption of the latter, where it will sustain life when everything else fails."

DR. SINCLAIR COGHILL,
Physician Royal National Hospital for Consumption, Ventnor.
"I have convinced myself that in Tubercular and the various forms of Strumous Disease, Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD-LIVER OIL possesses greater therapeutic efficacy than any other Cod-Liver Oil with which I am acquainted. It was especially noted in a large number of cases in which the patients protested they had never been able to retain or digest other Cod-Liver Oil, that Dr. DE JONGH'S OIL was not only tolerated, but taken readily, and with marked benefit."

LENNOX BROWNE, Esq., F.R.C.S.E.,
Senior Surgeon Central London Throat and Ear Hospital.
"The action of Dr. de Jongh's Light-Brown Cod-Liver Oil has proved, in my own experience, particularly valuable, not only in those diseases for which it was originally employed, but also in many cases of weakness of the Singing and Speaking Voice, dependent on Bronchial or Laryngeal Irritation, and in all forms of Strumous Enlargement of Glands, and Discharges from the Ear."

DR. PROSSER JAMES,
Lecturer on Materia Medica, London Hospital.
"DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD-LIVER OIL contains the whole of the active ingredients of the remedy, and is easily digested. Hence its value, not only in Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, but in a great number of cases to which the Profession is extending its use."

DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD-LIVER OIL is sold ONLY in capsuled IMPERIAL Half-Pints, 2s. 6d.; Pints, 4s. 9d.; Quarts, 9s.; by all respectable Chemists and Druggists throughout the world.
SOLE CONSIGNEES,
ANSAR, HARFORD, and CO., 77, STRAND, LONDON.

MRS. S. A. ALLEN'S
WORLD'S HAIR RESTORER.
IT CANNOT FAIL TO RESTORE GREY HAIR TO ITS YOUTHFUL COLOUR, GLOSS, AND BEAUTY. WHEN THE HAIR TURNS GREY, LOSES ITS LUSTRE, AND FALLS OUT, IT SIMPLY REQUIRES NOURISHMENT. MRS. S. A. ALLEN'S WORLD'S HAIR RESTORER, BY ITS GENTLE TONIC ACTION, STRENGTHENS AND INVIGORATES THE HAIR, AND, BY THE OPERATION OF NATURAL CAUSES, GREY OR WHITE HAIR IS QUICKLY RESTORED TO ITS YOUTHFUL COLOUR, GLOSS, AND BEAUTY. IT WILL STOP ITS FALLING, AND INDUCE A HEALTHY AND MOST LUXURIANT GROWTH USE NO OTHER PREPARATION WITH IT, NOT EVEN OIL OR POMADE, OR ZYLO-BALSAMUM.
CAUTION!!—The Genuine only in Pink Wrappers.
Sold by all Chemists, Perfumers, and Dealers in Toilet Articles.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.
MRS. S. A. ALLEN manufactures two entirely distinct Preparations for the Hair. One or the other is suited to every condition of the Human Hair. Both are never required at one time. For details as to each preparation, kindly read above and below this paragraph. Readers can easily determine which of the two they require.

MRS. S. A. ALLEN'S
ZYLO-BALSAMUM,
For the Growth and Preservation of the Hair.
A cooling transparent liquid, entirely vegetable, without sediment.
A SIMPLE TONIC AND DRESSING OF INESTIMABLE VALUE TO BOTH SEXES, THE FAVOURITE WITH THE YOUNG AND ALL THOSE WHO HAVE NO GREY HAIR. PREMATURE LOSS OF THE HAIR, SO COMMON IN THESE DAYS, MAY BE ENTIRELY PREVENTED BY THE USE OF ZYLO-BALSAMUM. PROMPT RELIEF IN THOUSANDS OF CASES HAS BEEN AFFORDED WHERE THE HAIR HAS BEEN COMING OUT IN HANDFULS. IT PROMOTES A HEALTHY AND VIGOROUS GROWTH. HAIR DRESSED WITH ZYLO-BALSAMUM IS ALWAYS CLEAN, FREE FROM DANDRUFF, AND WITH THAT BEAUTIFUL GLOSS ONLY SEEN IN HEALTHY HAIR. IT IS DELIGHTFULLY FRAGRANT. NO OIL OR POMADE SHOULD BE USED WITH IT.
CAUTION!!—The Genuine only in Bluish Grey Wrappers.
Sold by all Chemists, Perfumers, and Dealers in Toilet Articles.

GOLDEN STAR
BAY-LEAF WATER.
Triple distilled from the fresh leaves of the Bay Tree (Myrcia Acris).
For the TOILET, NURSERY, and BATH.
A few drops on a sponge or towel moistened with water, and the face and hands bathed with it, is very beneficial to the skin, removing all roughness. Most highly recommended to apply after shaving. A small quantity in the bath gives a delightful aroma, and it has most remarkable cleansing properties. Particularly adapted to the bathing of infants and young children. Most grateful to invalids and all who suffer from headache from mental labour or fatigue Buy only the genuine Golden Star Bay-Leaf Water, sold in three sizes Toilet Bottles, 2s. 6d., 5s., 8s., by Chemists and Perfumers, or on receipt of stamps from the Wholesale Depôt, 114 and 116, Southampton-row, London.

VALUABLE DISCOVERY for the HAIR.
If your hair is turning grey, or white, or falling off, use "The Mexican Hair Renewer," for it will positively restore in every case Grey or White Hair to its original colour, without leaving the disagreeable smell of most "Restorers." It makes the hair charmingly beautiful, as well as promoting the growth of the hair on bald spots where the glands are not decayed. Ask any Chemist for the "Mexican Hair Renewer," price 3s. 6d. Prepared by HENRY C. GALLUF, 493, Oxford-street, London.

FLORILINE. For the Teeth and Breath.
Is the best Liquid Dentifrice in the World; it thoroughly cleanses partially-decayed teeth from all parasites or living "animalculæ," leaving them pearly white, imparting a delightful fragrance to the breath. Price 2s. 6d. per Bottle. The Florline removes instantly all odours arising from a foul stomach or tobacco smoke, being partly composed of honey, soda, and extracts of sweet herbs and plants. It is perfectly harmless, and delicious as sherry. Prepared by HENRY C. GALLUF, 493, Oxford-street, London. Retailed everywhere.

JOHN GOSNELL and CO.'S VIOLET and MILLEFLEUR POWDER, for the Toilet and Nursery. Universally admired for its purity and fragrance. Sold by all Chemists and Perfumers. Wholesale, 93, Upper Thames-street.

BREIDENBACH'S ABRONIA.—The New Scent for 1878. Delicate, refreshing, and durable. 4s. 6d. to 40s. per Bottle. BREIDENBACH'S MACASSARINE, invaluable for preserving the Growth of the Hair, 1s., 2s. 6d., 5s. per Bottle. Of all Chemists, and the Makers, 157a, New Bond-street, W.

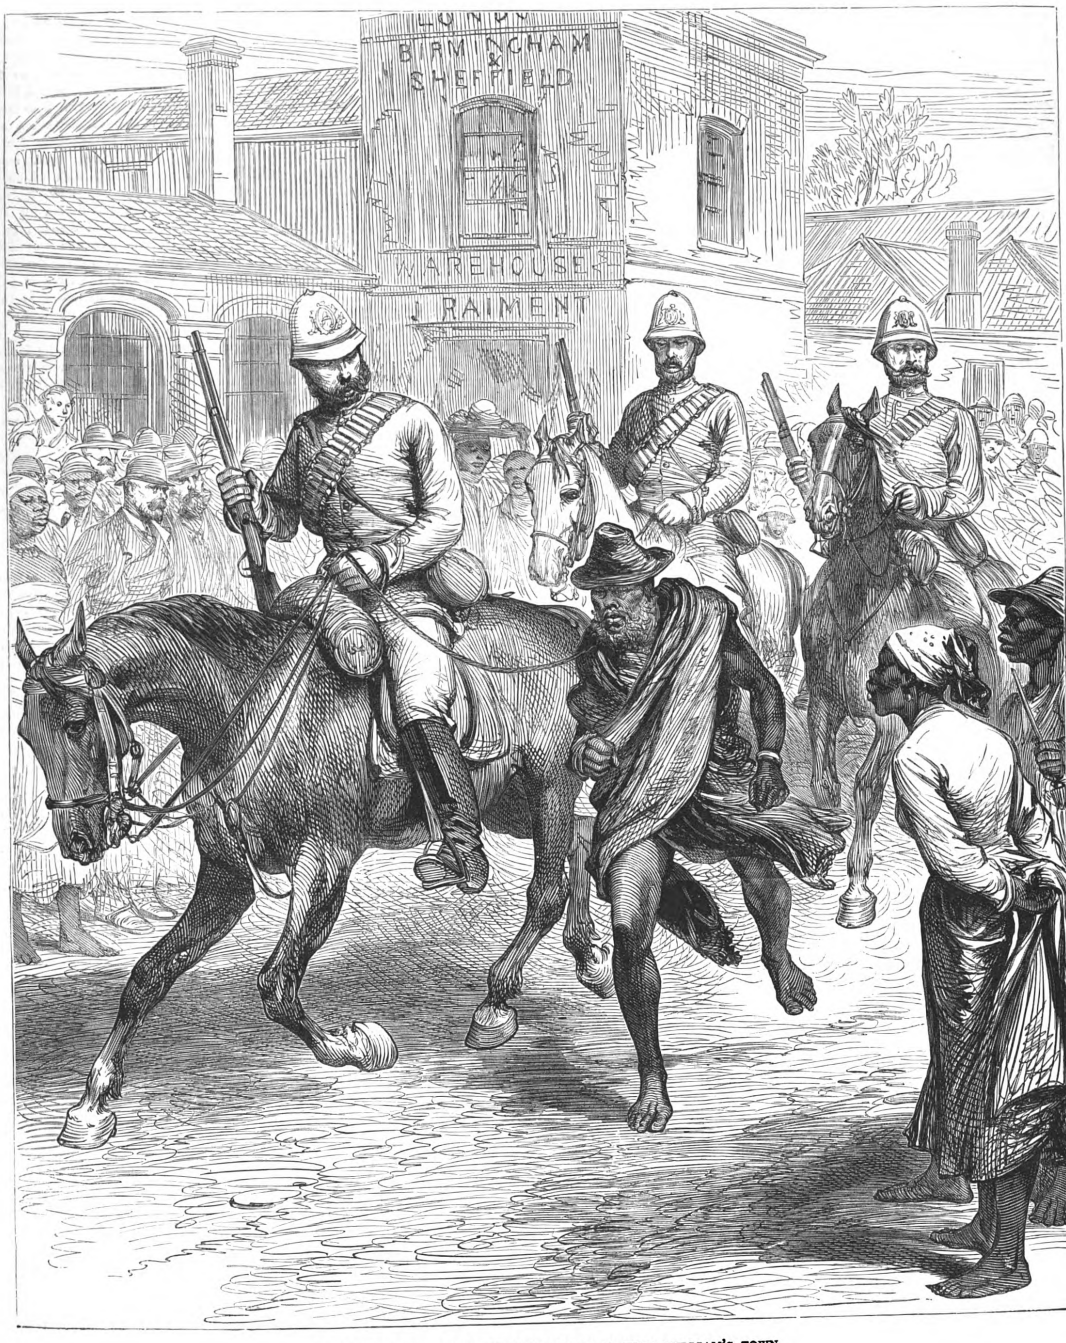
EAU DE CHYPRE.—PIESSE and LUBIN.
This is an ancient perfume from Cyprus. During the national career of Egypt, Persia, Greece, and Rome, the Isle of Cyprus was the resort of the elite, learned, and refined. It was at the time of the Crusades, when Richard I. of England assumed the title of King of Cyprus, that the famed Eau de Chypre was introduced into Europe, the composition of which is yet preserved in the archives of the Laboratory of Piesse and Lubin. Those who are curious in ancient perfumes can be gratified at 2, New Bond-street, London.

THE SKIN.—To give to it that Smoothness, Sweetness, and Lustrous Elegance indicative of Perfect Health use "THE ALBION MILK AND SULPHUR SOAP." It is the most it is elegantly white and pure of all soaps. "It is the most agreeable and elegant preparation for the skin I know."—James Startin, M.R.C.S., Surgeon to St. John's Hospital, London. By all Chemists, in Tablets, 6d. and 1s.—THE ALBION SANATORY SOAP CO., 532, Oxford-street, London. Refuse all substitutes.

ROWLANDS' KALYDOR cools and refreshes the face and hands of all exposed to sun and dust; eradicates tan, sunburn, &c., and produces a beautiful complexion. 4s. 6d. per bottle.

ROWLANDS' ODONTO whitens the teeth and prevents decay. ROWLANDS' MACASSAR OIL prevents the hair falling off during hot weather. Ask any Chemist for Rowlands' Articles.

THOMPSON AND CAPPER'S
DENTIFRICE WATER arrests decay in the Teeth and sweetens the Breath.—55, Bold-street, Liverpool; and 45, 20, Deansgate, Manchester.—Sold in 1s. 6d., 2s. 6d., 4s. 6d., and 8s. 6d. Bottles, by all Chemists.



MR. STREETER,
18 NEW BOND-STREET, W.
GOLDSMITH AND JEWELLER.
The only Jeweller in England whose Stock consists of one uniform standard quality—viz., 18 carats.
LONDON-MADE JEWELLERY
of Exquisite Design and Workmanship.
DIAMOND ORNAMENTS
in great variety, at prices relative to their intrinsic value.
SPECIALITIES IN BRIDESMAIDS' LOCKETS, WEDDING PRESENTS, &c.
THE "TALISMAN" BRACELET
(Patented), a Novelty for the Season, from £5.

LONDON: Printed and Published at the Office, 198, Strand, in the Parish of St. Clement Danes, in the County of Middlesex, by GEORGE C. LEIGHTON, 198, Strand, aforesaid.—SATURDAY, AUGUST 17, 1878.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

REGISTERED AT THE GENERAL POST-OFFICE FOR TRANSMISSION ABROAD.

No. 2043.—VOL. LXXIII. SATURDAY, AUGUST 24, 1878. WITH SUPPLEMENT | SIXPENCE. By Post, 6½d.

BRINGING A KAFFIR CHIEF PRISONER INTO KING WILLIAM'S TOWN.
FROM A SKETCH BY OUR SPECIAL ARTIST.

BIRTHS.

On the 17th inst., at Dunphail, N.B., Lady Thurlow, of a son.

On the 18th inst., at 25, Merrion-square South, Dublin, Lady Carden, of a daughter.

On the 18th inst., at 4, Carlton House-terrace, Pall-mall, the Hon. Mrs. Eustace Vesey, of a son.

On the 16th inst., at Kilkerran, Maybole, N.B., Lady Fergusson, of a son.

MARRIAGES.

On the 15th inst., at the parish church, Mitcham, by the Rev. Daniel F. Wilson, M.A., Vicar, assisted by the Rev. H. Dodd, M.A., Robert Morris Collier, only son of Robert Collier, of Douro-place, Kensington, to Eliza Mansell (Lizzie), eldest daughter of William Worsfold, of Hall Place, Mitcham, Surrey. No cards.

On May 30, in this city, John Lawrence, Esq., late Captain in H.M. Royal Welsh Fusiliers, and son of George Lawrence, Esq., of Larkfield, Chepstow, England, to Lizzie Lee, second daughter of J. H. Joseph, Esq., of Montreal.

On the 15th inst., at the parish church, Killinchy, County Down, Ireland, Thomas Boyd, Esq., 33, Mark-lane, London, elder son of the Right Hon. Thomas J. Boyd, Lord Provost of Edinburgh, to Chasee, youngest daughter of the late Rev. Robert McNaghten, B.A., and granddaughter of the late Robert McNaghten, Esq., Mountjoy-square, Dublin, and Magherabuy, County Derry, Ireland.

DEATHS.

On the 18th inst., at Heatherton Park, Taunton, Harriet Eliza, widow of Alexander Adair, Esq., of Heatherton, and of Collaves, Devonshire.

On the 17th inst., at Brighton, Mary Helen, eldest daughter of J. E. Hodgson, Esq., A.R.A., aged 17.

On the 15th inst., at Treewn, Charles Henry Barham, son of the late Joseph Foster Barham, M.P. for Stockbridge, Hants, and the Lady Caroline, daughter of Sackville, eighth Earl of Thanet.

On the 13th inst., at Blackpool, Thomas Cookson, of Ashbury Villas Withington, near Manchester, in his 41st year; and was this day (Aug. 14, 1878) interred at Blackpool Cemetery. Drowned whilst bathing.

On the 16th inst., at 15, Eaton-terrace, S W, aged 85, Jessie, widow of Major-General Sir James Limond, C.B., late Madras Artillery.

* The charge for the insertion of Births, Marriages, or Deaths is Five Shillings for each insertion.

CALENDAR FOR THE WEEK ENDING AUG. 31.

SUNDAY, Aug. 25.

Tenth Sunday after Trinity.
Morning Lessons: 1 Kings xii.; 1 Cor. vi. Evening Lessons: 1 Kings xiii. or xvii.; Mark i. to 21.
St. Paul's Cathedral, 10.30 a.m., Rev. Prebendary Dr. Currey, Master of the Charterhouse; 3.15 p.m., Rev. E. S. L. Randolph, missionary to Zanzibar; 7 p.m., Rev. R. C. Billing, Rector of Spitalfields.
St. James's, noon, probably Hon. and Rev. Canon Douglas Hamilton Gordon.
Whitehall, 11 a.m., Rev. W. Hulton; 3 p.m., Rev. Francis Garden, Sub-Dean of the Chapels Royal.
Savoy, 11.30 a.m., Rev. T. Bedford Jones; 7 p.m., Rev. Professor Watkins, M.A., Warden of St. Augustine's College, Canterbury.

MONDAY, Aug. 26.

The late Prince Consort born, 1819.
Torbay Royal Yacht Regatta.
Weymouth Races.
British Archæological Association at Wisbech: excursion to Cambridge, starting 9.30 a.m.

TUESDAY, Aug. 27.

British Archæological Association at Wisbech, closing meeting.
Torbay Royal Yacht Regatta.
York Races.

WEDNESDAY, Aug. 28.

New Moon, 6 a.m.
Airedale Agricultural Society Show, Bingley.

THURSDAY, Aug. 29.

Beheading of St. John the Baptist.
Yachting: Yare Sailing Club, Cantley Regatta, Ramsgate Annual Regatta.

FRIDAY, Aug. 30.

Bury Agricultural Society Show.
Craven Agricultural Society Show, Skipton.
Royal Dart Yacht Club Regatta.
Grove Park Rowing Club.
Scarborough Races.

SATURDAY, Aug. 31.

Accession of Abdul Hamid II., Sultan of Turkey, 1876.
Art-Union of London Exhibition closes.
Yachting: Royal Alfred Yacht Club, closing cruise.
Rowing: West London Rowing Club; Thames International Regatta (two days).
Salmon fishing ends.
Halifax and Calder Vale Agricultural Association Exhibition, Halifax.

THE WEATHER.

RESULTS OF METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS AT THE KEW OBSERVATORY OF THE ROYAL SOCIETY.

Lat. 51° 28′ 6″ N.; Long. 0° 18′ 47″ W.; Height above Sea, 34 feet.

	DAILY MEANS OF					THERMOM.		WIND.
DAY.	Barometer Corrected.	Temperature of the Air.	Dew Point.	Relative Humidity.	Amount of Cloud.	Maximum, read at 10 P.M.	Minimum, read at 10 P.M.	General Direction.	Movement in 24 hours, read at 10 A.M. next morning.	Rain in 24 hours, read at 10 A.M. next morning.
	Inches.	°	°	°	0-10	°	°		Miles.	In.
August 14	29·433	65·3	57·2	·76	7	72·1	58·4	SW. W.	388	0·000
15	29·546	62·8	52·4	·70	7	71·1	57·0	WSW. SW. SSW.	214	0·335
16	29·399	59·1	56·0	·90	8	65·1	56·9	SSW. WSW. W.	165	0·220
17	29·939	58·4	48·4	·71	6	67·6	51·9	W. SW.	295	0·010
18	29·989	61·5	53·0	·80	—	71·6	53·1	SW. SSW.	91	0·000
19	29·821	62·5	55·1	·78	7	71·0	56·9	SSW. NE. E.	206	0·000
20	29·924	59·3	50·4	·74	10	66·2	53·6	NE. E.	162	0·000

The following are the readings of the meteorological instruments for the above days, in order, at ten o'clock a.m.:—

Barometer (in inches) corrected ..	29·341	29·589	29·377	29·969	30·040	29·926	29·917
Temperature of Air ..	67·5°	55·4°	60·2°	59·5°	63°	65·5°	61·5°
Temperature of Evaporation ..	60·7°	56·9°	59·5°	52·5°	59·0°	60·9°	55·8°
Direction of Wind	W.	SW.	S.	W.	WSW.	E.	ENE.

TIMES OF HIGH WATER AT LONDON BRIDGE

FOR THE WEEK ENDING AUGUST 31.

Sunday.		Monday.		Tuesday.		Wednesday.		Thursday.		Friday.		Saturday.
M	A	M	A	M	A	M	A	M	A	M	A	M	A
h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m
11 17	11 55	—	0 27	0 52	1 15	1 38	2 0	2 20	2 42	3 2	3 21	3 40	4 3

DORÉ'S GREAT WORK, "THE BRAZEN SERPENT," "CHRIST LEAVING THE PRETORIUM," and "CHRIST ENTERING THE TEMPLE," each 33 ft. by 22 ft.; with "Dream of Pilate's Wife," "Soldiers of the Cross," &c., at the DORÉ GALLERY, 35, New Bond-street, W. Daily, 10 to 6. 1s.

ELIJAH WALTON.—EXHIBITION of ISLE OF WIGHT and other WATER-COLOUR DRAWINGS, chiefly Alpine and Eastern, NOW OPEN at BURLINGTON GALLERY, 191, Piccadilly. Ten till Six. Admission, including Catalogue, 1s.

CRYSTAL PALACE PICTURE-GALLERY. The GALLERY is now REOPENED for the Season with a NEW COLLECTION of BRITISH and FOREIGN PICTURES for SALE.—For Particulars, apply to Mr. C. W. Wass, Crystal Palace.

ST. JAMES'S HALL, PICCADILLY. ALL THE YEAR ROUND EVERY NIGHT AT EIGHT. MONDAYS, WEDNESDAYS, SATURDAYS AT THREE AND EIGHT.

THE MOORE and BURGESS MINSTRELS. Fauteuils, &c.; Sofa Stalls, 3s.; Area, Raised and Cushioned Seats, 2s.; Balcony, 1s. No fees. No charge for Programmes. Ladies can retain their bonnets in all parts of the Hall.

"LOVE'S YOUNG DREAM."

In answer to numerous inquiries, we beg to state that the ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS for Aug. 17, containing the COLOURED PICTURE "LOVE'S YOUNG DREAM," from a painting by T. K. Pelham, has been reprinted, and that a few copies are still on sale.

Office, 198, Strand, W.C.

THE ILLUSTRATED PARIS UNIVERSAL EXHIBITION.

An English Edition of

L'EXPOSITION UNIVERSELLE DE 1878 ILLUSTRÉE,

in continuation of the Illustrated Journal issued in 1867 under the authority of the Imperial Commission, is issued every Tuesday,

PRICE THREEPENCE.

PUBLISHED AT THE OFFICE OF

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS,

198, STRAND, LONDON.

All Country Orders to be supplied through the London Agents.

NOW READY.

VOL. LXXII. (JAN. 5 TO JUNE 29, 1878)

OF

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

Elegantly Bound in Cloth, Gilt Edges ... ... 20s. 0d.
Or in Paper Covers ... ... 15s. 0d.
Cases for binding the above ... ... 2s. 6d.
Reading-Case for Single Number ... ... 2s. 0d.
Portfolios for holding Six Months' Numbers ... ... 4s. 0d.
Office: 198, Strand.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

LONDON: SATURDAY, AUGUST 24, 1878.

It is an agreeable change to pass from the operations and triumphs of Diplomacy and War to those of Science. The meeting of the British Association at Dublin has diverted public attention from the former to the latter topics of thought. We are thankful for this diversion. It is matter for congratulation that we can once again enter upon a sphere of discusssion every part of which presents questions fraught with the elevation rather than the destruction of human kind. This has been the third meeting of the Association at Dublin, and a most successful one it appears to have been. Ireland welcomed her guests with that fervour of hospitality for which she is pre-eminently distinguished. So far as thoughtful consideration could go towards making the arrangements for the visit conducive to genial enjoyment as well as instruction, nothing could have been better—for in these annual efflorescences of the British Association the social element has perhaps as large a share as the scientific. Excursions to objects of attraction in the neighbourhood, conversaziones, banquets, complimentary interchanges of esteem between different public bodies, and sundry flattering recognitions by those who occupy high posts of authority, tend to throw a halo of grace over proceedings which but for them would possess comparatively little attraction for the general public. The weather in the Sister Isle has not so largely contributed to the success of the occasion as it might have done; but, with this drawback, the Scientific Session of 1878 in Dublin will advantageously compare with any that have preceded it.

A prominently distinctive feature of these meetings of the Association is the Inaugural Address of the new President. Mr. William Spottiswoode was in the chair this year, and discharged the duties of that high and honourable office. His Address, much as it differed from many of those which had preceded it, was characterised by most of the qualities which have made them memorable. Mr. Spottiswoode represents the Department of Mathematics, and it is extremely interesting to observe the felicity with which he put into an intelligible shape the relation of pure mathematics to all the other branches of science. Every subject, he contended, whether in its usual acceptation, scientific or otherwise, may have a mathematical aspect; as soon, in fact, as it becomes a matter of strict measurement or of numerical statement, so soon does it enter on a mathematical phase. The diversified illustrations of this general statement occupy the principal portion of the Presidential Address, and it is no slight feat to have accomplished, that a theme so remote from ordinary study and from common processes of thought was made to convey to a mixed audience a lengthened train of ideas not only intelligible but capable of arresting and enchaining pleased attention. This special topic was introduced by a lucid account of the purposes and functions of the British Association, in which Mr. Spottiswoode has occupied an official position for several years. They who desire to ascertain what the Society is, what it aims at, what it is doing, what kind of organisation it has developed, and what are its methods of work, will do well to read with care the first portion of the President's Address. We have seen no such full and, at the same time, luminous description of the nature and functions of the Association. As he himself remarks, "We are general in our comprehensiveness; we are special in our sectional arrangement; and, in this respect, we offer not only a counterpart, but, to some extent, a counterpoise, to a general tendency to subdivision in science. Further, while maintaining in their integrity all the elements of a strictly scientific body, we also include in our character of a microcosm an under or more social aspect, a certain freedom of treatment, and interaction of our various branches, which is scarcely possible among separate and independent societies."

The interest of the various sections of scientific research and knowledge appears to have been sustained quite up to the normal level, if not to have surpassed it. Of course, it would be impracticable to give our readers anything like a descriptive account of the Papers read in each department. The mere titles of them would fill the whole space at our disposal. Even the daily papers are necessarily restricted to a very meagre outline of the readings offered to the members of the Association. We may observe, however, that the topics touched upon, although not usually new in kind or character, are many of them fresh in detail. The most amusing, and by no means the least instructive, of these communications was that of Sir John Lubbock on the varieties, life, and habits of Ants; nor can the Address of Professor Huxley on Anthropology fail of securing attention or of exciting studious reflection. Mr. Easton's Address, dealing with the question of River Conservancy, opened up a question of vast practical importance, and served to impress upon one a conviction that the country reaps, or at any rate will reap in due time, a rich harvest from the speculations, theories, solid data, and inferences communicated from year to year to the Treasury of the British Association.

Two or three thoughts have been borne in upon our minds by such records of the Society's Transactions as have fallen within our reach. It may be noted, we think, that there is a general tendency among the members of the Association to over-much haste in their conclusions. It is quite natural that it should be so. We do not know that it is to be deplored, but surely it should be vigilantly guarded against. There is a great difference between plausible speculation and science. The first is useful enough in its place; but is there not some danger in our day lest it should be mistaken for and identified with the last? We have been struck, moreover, with the "light heart" with which our philosophers project schemes which, how beneficial soever they might prove to the population of these isles when carried into effect, would demand in the process large pecuniary sacrifices. Taxation is even now becoming extremely onerous to large classes of the people. What it might become if even only the rational enterprises broached at the British Association were to be carried out it is somewhat alarming to imagine. And yet, after all, it is impossible to deny that much of our annually accruing wealth as a nation might be invested far more usefully in such improvements than it has been hitherto. Much of what now is spent upon self-indulgence or is wasted upon warlike tastes would be more wisely contributed, under the direction of science, to such an amelioration of the lot of our general population as could in no wise generate or encourage a spirit of pauperism. We need only point to one instance in illustration of the remark. Take the Conservancy of Rivers; in other words, the regulated supply of pure water to all the inhabitants of the realm. The efficient control of the streams which nature has given us, the prevention of floods, the utilisation of mechanical and fertilising forces in water, the culture of fish and their distribution—who can say what boons might not be bestowed upon the entire population by undertakings of this order, costly though they unquestionably would be? But we must desist. The time will come, we hope, when public efforts for the good of all will absorb a much larger proportion of the growing wealth of the nation than has hitherto been the case, and when such an employment of the surplus capital of the nation will be appreciated at its proper value by even the least enlightened of the people.

THE COURT.

The Queen received the Admirals and Captains assembled at Spithead at Osborne previous to the dispersion of the Fleet. Admiral Fanshawe, C.B., Commander-in-Chief at Portsmouth, presented Admiral Sir A. Cooper Key, K.C.B., to her Majesty; after which Sir A. Cooper Key presented Rear-Admiral Boys and the Captains of seventeen of her Majesty's ships to the Queen. The officers were afterwards entertained at luncheon. Her Majesty's dinner party on Thursday week included Princess Beatrice, the Duke of Connaught, Prince Leopold, Lady Abercromby, the Hon. Caroline Cavendish, the Dean of Christchurch and Mrs. Liddell, Admiral Sir A. Cooper Key, and Major-General Gardiner.

The Grand Duke and the Grand Duchess of Hesse, with the Hereditary Grand Duke and Princesses Alice and Marie of Hesse, arrived at Osborne yesterday week. The Duke of Connaught met their Royal Highnesses at Portsmouth on board her Majesty's yacht Alberta, Captain Thomson, and accompanied them to Osborne. Major-General Gardiner received their Royal Highnesses on landing at Trinity Pier, East Cowes, and the Queen, with the Royal family and the ladies and gentlemen in waiting, received the Grand Duke and Grand Duchess in the entrance-hall. General the Right Hon. Sir Thomas and the Hon. Lady Biddulph dined with her Majesty.

The Duke of Connaught left Osborne on Saturday last, on board her Majesty's yacht Victoria and Albert, for Heligoland and Hamburg, en route for Potsdam.

The Queen and the members of the Royal family attended Divine service on Sunday, performed at Osborne by the Rev. Canon Prothero. The King and Queen of Denmark, with Princess Thyra, accompanied by the Prince and Princess of Wales, visited her Majesty and remained to luncheon. Their Majesties were attended by Mdlle. D'Oxholm, Captain Hedemann, and Captain Hoskjar, who had the honour of being presented to the Queen.

The Queen, the Grand Duke and Grand Duchess of Hesse, Princess Beatrice, Prince Leopold, and the Hereditary Grand Duke of Hesse witnessed a series of torpedo experiments in Osborne Bay on Monday. Admiral Fanshawe, C.B., Commander-in-Chief at Portsmouth, and Admiral Sir A. Cooper Key, K.C.B., lately in command of the fleet assembled at Spithead, were in attendance on her Majesty, and Commander

Arthur Wilson, of her Majesty's ship Vernon, torpedo school-ship at Portsmouth, was present to explain and conduct the various operations connected with the experiments. The Queen, with the Grand Duchess of Hesse and Princess Beatrice, drove to West Cowes and visited the King and Queen of Denmark. The Earl of Beaconsfield, K.G., accompanied by Mr. Montagu Corry, C.B., arrived at Osborne. The Premier had an audience of her Majesty. Princesses Victoria Ella and Irene of Hesse took leave of the Queen. The Marchioness Dowager of Ely arrived at, and the Hon. Horatia Stopford left, Osborne. Her Majesty's dinner party included the Grand Duke and Grand Duchess of Hesse, Princess Beatrice, Prince Leopold, Lady Abercromby, the Marchioness Dowager of Ely, the Earl of Beaconsfield, and Mr. Montagu Corry.

The Grand Duke and Grand Duchess of Hesse, with the Hereditary Grand Duke and Princesses Alice and Marie of Hesse, took leave of the Queen on Tuesday, and left in her Majesty's yacht Alberta, Staff Commander Balliston, for Portsmouth, on their return to Eastbourne. Princess Beatrice and Prince Leopold accompanied the Grand Duke and Grand Duchess in the Alberta to Portsmouth. Her Majesty's dinner party included Princess Beatrice, Prince Leopold, Lady Abercromby, the Marchioness Dowager of Ely, the Hon. Caroline Cavendish, the Earl of Beaconsfield, Sir Howard Elphinstone, Mr. Montagu Corry, C.B., and Lieutenant-General Ponsonby.

The Earl of Beaconsfield and Mr. Montagu Corry left Osborne on Wednesday. Sir Howard Elphinstone also left for Potsdam to join the Duke of Connaught.

The Queen and the Grand Duke and Grand Duchess of Hesse, with Princess Beatrice and Prince Leopold and the other members of the Royal family, have driven to Ryde and Cowes and to Carisbrooke Castle, and other parts of the island.

Lady Abercromby has succeeded the Marchioness Dowager of Ely as Lady in Waiting to the Queen.

ARRIVAL OF THE KING AND QUEEN OF DENMARK.

The King and Queen of Denmark and Princess Thyra arrived at Dover yesterday week from Copenhagen, having crossed from Calais in the special steamer, Maid of Kent, Captain Dane. Their Majesties were met upon landing by the Prince of Wales and by the Danish Minister and Sir Charles Wyke, British Minister at Copenhagen, and the principal naval and military officials of the district, and a guard of honour of the 58th Regiment, with the band, was drawn up on the pier. The Royal travellers lunched at the Lord Warden Hotel, and afterwards travelled by a special train, which was under the charge of Mr. John Shaw, general manager of the company, to London. Mr. Shaw was presented to the King by the Prince. Baroness de Bülow met the King and Queen at Charing-cross, whence the Royal travellers drove to Marlborough House. The King and Queen and their daughter, accompanied by the Prince of Wales, left Marlborough House the next morning for Cowes. At Portsmouth they were met by the Princess of Wales and her children on board the Royal yacht Osborne, in which they crossed to Cowes, their arrival being signalised with due honours at Spithead by the fleet and in Cowes Roads by the guard-ship Boadicea. The Royal party entered the Osborne's steam-pinnace and proceeded to Princes-green, where they landed for the purpose of going to Lisburn House, which had been taken for the use of their Majesties during their stay in England. On Sunday the King and Queen and Princess Thyra attended Divine service on board the Prince of Wales's yacht Osborne, the Danish Royal standard being hoisted with the union jack during their stay on board. Subsequently their Majesties, with the Prince and Princess of Wales and their children, steamed in the pinnace to East Cowes, where they landed and drove to Osborne, to visit her Majesty.

THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES.

The Prince of Wales gave an entertainment on board the Royal yacht Osborne in Cowes Roads on Monday evening, at which the Royal Handbell Ringers performed. The company included the King and Queen of Denmark and the Princess Thyra, with their suite, Mdlle. d'Oxholm, Captain Hedemann, and Captain Hoskjar; the Prince and Princess of Wales and suite, Prince Albert Victor and Prince George of Wales, the Princess Victoria of Hesse, Lord and Lady Charles Beresford, Lord and Lady Mandeville, with guests from yachts in the roads. By desire of the Prince, the whole of the crew of the Osborne, numbering 120, were present. The Princess, with her children, has paid frequent visits to the King and Queen of Denmark at Lisburn House.

The Grand Duke and the Grand Duchess of Hesse have returned to Eastbourne from visiting the Queen at Osborne. Prince and Princess Christian and the Duke of Connaught visited their Royal Highnesses at Eastbourne last week. On Tuesday the Grand Duchess opened the bazaar at the Pavilion in Devonshire Park, in aid of All Saints' Church.

The Duke of Connaught arrived at Heligoland on Monday from England on board the Royal yacht Victoria and Albert. The whole island was en fête. A Royal salute was fired from the guns of the battery, and the school children were drawn up in line, bearing bouquets of flowers. The Prince proceeded to the residence of the Governor, Lieutenant-Colonel Sir Henry Fitz-Berkeley Maxse, and there received an address presented him by a deputation from the inhabitants, to which he replied. After visiting the chief objects of interest, the Duke entertained the Governor and the principal inhabitants at dinner on board his yacht; after which he went to the theatre. The island was illuminated. His Royal Highness resumed his voyage at two o'clock on Tuesday morning for Hamburg, and arrived at Potsdam on Wednesday.

The Duke of Cambridge has arrived at Kissingen.

The Duke and Duchess of Norfolk have arrived at Loudoun Castle, Ayrshire, to visit Mr. Abney Hastings.

The Duke and Duchess of Abercorn and Lady Georgiana Hamilton have returned from Eastbourne.

The Duke and Duchess of Cleveland have arrived from Vichy.

The Duke and Duchess of Richmond and Gordon and the Ladies Gordon Lennox have arrived at Gordon Castle.

The Duke and Duchess of Northumberland have left town for Kielder Castle, Northumberland.

The Duke of Leeds has arrived at Gogmagog Hills, Cambridge.

The Duchess (Dowager) of St. Albans has left Bestwood Lodge for the North.

The Marquis and Marchioness of Exeter have arrived at Oban in the Marquis's yacht.

The Marquis and Marchioness of Ailesbury have left St. George's-place for Jervaulx Abbey, Bedale, Yorkshire.

The Marquis and Marchioness of Headfort and Lady Adelaide Taylour have left the Viceregal Lodge, Dublin, for The Lodge, Virginia, in the county of Cavan, from visiting the Lord Lieutenant and the Duchess of Marlborough.

The Marquis and Marchioness of Ormonde and Lord Arthur Grosvenor have arrived at Kilkenny Castle from staying with the Duke and Duchess of Westminster at Eaton Hall, Cheshire.

The Marquis and Marchioness of Bute have arrived at Harrogate.

The Marquis and Marchioness of Tavistock have left Chesham-place to join the Duke and Duchess of Bedford at Endsleigh, Tavistock.

The Marquis of Salisbury has left Arlington-street to join the Marchioness at the Châlet Cecil, near Dieppe.

The Marchioness of Londonderry has left town for Paris. The Marquis is staying at Cowes on board his yacht.

Maria Marchioness of Ailesbury has left town on a visit to the Countess of Chesterfield at Bretby Hall, Burton-on-Trent.

The Marchioness (Dowager) of Lansdowne and Lady Emily Fitzmaurice have left Loudon for Meikleour House, Perth.

The Queen has granted to Augustus Edward Hobart, Earl of Buckinghamshire, her Royal license and authority that he and his issue may henceforth take and use the surname of Hampden in addition to and after that of Hobart.

FASHIONABLE MARRIAGES.

The marriage of Miss Alice Van de Weyer, daughter of Madame Van de Weyer and the late M. Sylvain Van de Weyer, with Mr. Charles Brand, Coldstream Guards, son of the Right Hon. Henry Brand, Speaker of the House of Commons, and Mrs. Brand, took place on Thursday week at Bragwood church. Owing to the indisposition of Madame Van de Weyer, only the immediate relatives of the bride and bridegroom were present at the ceremony. The bride's presents were very numerous, and included a Cashmere shawl from the Queen and gifts from members of the Royal family. The bride and bridegroom left New Lodge for Kingstone Lisle, Wantage.

The marriage between Mr. Herbert Bonsor, youngest son of the late Mr. Joseph Bonsor, of Belgrave-square, and Miss Moon, eldest daughter of the Rev. Sir E. Graham Moon, Bart., will take place on Sept. 4; and the marriage between Major Dugdale, of the Rifle Brigade, and Miss Edith Montgomery, second daughter of Mr. and Lady Charlotte Montgomery, is appointed to take place at St. George's Church, Hanover-square, on Sept. 5.

Marriages are arranged between Captain Strachan Bridges, R.A., and Lady Grace Stopford, fourth daughter of the Earl of Courtown; between Captain Henry M. Hozier and the Lady Blanche Ogilvy, eldest daughter of the Earl and Countess of Airlie; and between Colonel Oliphant, of the Guards, and the Hon. Mary Gerard, eldest daughter of Lord and Lady Gerard.

THE CHURCH.

PREFERMENTS AND APPOINTMENTS.

Bathurst, W. A., to be Incumbent of Holy Trinity, Eastbourne.
Bentley, Seymour; Vicar of Bothamsall, Notts.
Burleigh, W.; Incumbent of St. Matthew's, Littleport.
Cheadle John H., Minor Canon of Bristol; Minor Canon of Westminster.
Garford, John; Rector of Holy Trinity, Rusholme.
Gilbert, William; Vicar of Hogsthorpe, Lincolnshire.
Johnson, Edwin; General Preacher in the diocese of Lincoln.
Knipe, T. W.; Vicar of St. Peter's, Dorchester.
Knox, Lindsey Neville; Vicar of Swinstead, Lincolnshire.
Meekin, R. W.; Vicar of Langley.
Perry, G.; Chaplain to St. Saviour's Hospital, Upper Holloway.
Sheppard, Edgar; Minor Canon of St. George's Chapel, Windsor.
Wordsworth, J.; Vicar of Ennerdale Bridge; Rector of Gosforth.—Guardian.

A new throne for the Bishop has been erected in the choir of Salisbury Cathedral.

On the 15th inst. the Bishop of St. Albans consecrated the new Church of St. Paul, Clacton-on-Sea, a new watering-place on the Essex coast.

Mr. Thwaites, M.P., lord of the manor of Mellor, intends to present a public clock and a peal of bells to Mellor church. The bells will be rung by aid of the machinery attached to the clockwork.

Yesterday week the Bishop of Exeter reopened the church of St. Bridget, Bridgerule, a parish situated on both sides of the river Tamar. A feature in the case is that all the work has been effected by mechanics living in the parish.

A handsome marble tablet, surmounted by a large-size medallion profile of the late Miss Mary Carpenter, has been fixed in the transept of Bristol Cathedral. The memorial bears an inscription recording Miss Carpenter's philanthropic labours in England and India.

On the afternoon of Sunday last a demonstration, originating exclusively with the working classes in the parish of Illingworth, Yorkshire, was made on behalf of the Halifax Infirmary, and they were in large numbers to their church. The Rev. William Gillmor, Vicar, preached. Notwithstanding the depression of trade in the parish, the collection amounted to £25.

At a meeting of the committee of the Additional Home Bishoprics Endowment Fund, held on Wednesday, under the presidency of Mr. Beresford-Hope, M.P., it was announced that local committees are being formed in each of the districts dealt with by the Bishoprics Act, and that about £140,000, in addition to contributions from existing sees, has been already promised towards the endowment of the new bishoprics.

A valuable old clock, said to have been presented to Colnbrook, Bucks, by the first Duke of Marlborough, the hero of Blenheim, having undergone reconstruction and improvement by and from the designs of Mr. John J. Hall, was inaugurated on Friday, the 16th inst., at a special choral evening service at the parish church, the Rev. R. C. F. Griffith, M.A., Vicar, officiating. After an address by the Vicar, the clock was started by Miss Meadows, daughter of the churchwarden.

The work of renovating the Church of St. Mary-le-Bow, Cheapside, is being actively carried out. The repairs, exclusive of those to the organ and stained-glass windows, will cost £5000. The committee have in hand £3000, of which sum £2000 were paid by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, the money being the proceeds of the sale of the site of All Hallows Church, Bread-street, the remainder being defrayed by a contribution from the Church of St. John the Evangelist.

Holy Trinity Church, Lane End, Bucks, was consecrated on the 1st inst. by the Bishop of Oxford. It has been built at the cost of £3000, raised by voluntary subscription and a grant from the Oxford Diocesan Society. It is in the Early Decorated Style, from the plans of Mr. J. Oldrid Scott, and it consists of nave, chancel, aisle, and small tower containing a peal of six bells (the gift of Mr. H. W. Cripps, Q.C.). The interior, through the gifts of many friends, is suitably furnished, and in the chancel are neat oak stalls for the choir.

A mural monument, richly carved in statuary marble (the work of Mr. Forsyth, of Baker-street), has been placed in Exeter Cathedral in memory of the late Mrs. Boyd. The Bishop of Exeter and Miss Temple, in conjunction with other friends of the deceased lady, have been instrumental in its erection, as an expression of their regard for a cherished friend.—Mr. Forsyth has also completed a monument to the late Lord Lyttelton, to be erected in Worcester Cathedral. The architectural portion of the memorial was designed by the late Sir Gilbert Scott. The cost of the whole work, amounting to £1500, will be defrayed by public subscription.

One of the peal of twelve bells which Messrs. Taylor, of Loughborough, are casting for St. Paul's has reached the cathedral. When complete the peal will weigh eleven tons. The largest of the bells, which will weigh 3 tons 3 cwt, has been given by the Corporation; the next, weighing 45 cwt, by the Grocers' Company; No. 10, weighing 33 cwt, by the Clothworkers'; No. 9, by the Fishmongers'; No. 8, by the Taylors'; No. 7, by the Salters'; the four next, by the Turners' Company and Lady Burdett-Coutts; and the two smallest bells by the Drapers' Company. With a view to the reception of the bells, Sir Christopher Wren left a large opening in the centre of the stone concave roof at the base of the tower. The peal will be hung in the northern tower, and not in that which contains the clock.

LONDON AND SUBURBAN CHURCHES.

The following particulars respecting the churches of London and its suburbs (within a radius of twelve miles) are compiled from the thirteenth annual edition of Mackeson's "Guide to the Churches of London and its Suburbs," published under the sanction of the Archbishop of Canterbury and the Bishops of London, Winchester, Rochester, and St. Albans. The "Guide" contains information as to 864 churches, but for statistical purposes the number is reduced to 854. There is a weekly celebration of the holy communion in 390, nearly one half; daily holy communion in forty-two, one church in every twenty; early communion in 458, more than one half; choral celebration in 120, nearly one seventh; evening holy communion in 246, more than one fourth. There is service on saints' days in 415 churches, nearly one half; daily service in 243, more than one fourth; while in 138 cases, nearly one sixth, there is no week-day service. The service is fully choral in 261 churches, nearly one third, and partly choral in 240, or two sevenths, thus giving 501 churches out of 854 where the psalms are chanted. There is a surpliced choir in 355, more than two fifths; the choir is paid or partly paid in 220, more than one fourth, and voluntary in 386, more than two fifths. Gregorian tones are used wholly or partly in 115, nearly one seventh. The seats are free and open in 252, more than one fourth; and there is a weekly offertory in 405, more than one half. The surplice is worn in preaching in 463, more than one half. The eucharistic vestments are adopted in thirty-five, or one church in every twenty-four; incense is used in fourteen, and altar-lights are used in fifty-eight, one ninth; while in forty-one other churches there are candles on the altar, but they are not lighted. The eastward position is adopted by the celebrant at the holy communion in 179 churches, nearly one fifth; 123, nearly one seventh, are open daily for private prayer; floral decorations are introduced at 238, more than one fourth; the feast of dedication is observed at 149, nearly one sixth; the shortened form of daily service sanctioned by the Act of Uniformity Amendment Act is used at eighty-eight, nearly one tenth; the Sunday services are separated at forty-nine; the old lectionary is still used exclusively at twelve churches, and the old and new optionally at six.

POLITICAL.

The Conservatives of Bath held a picnic at Summer Hill Park on Monday evening. Mr. Reginald Hardy, nephew of Lord Cranbrook, was introduced as the new Conservative candidate, and gave an address, in which he defended the foreign policy of the Government. Mr. R. N. Fowler, M.P., and Major Allen, M.P., also spoke, defending the policy of the Government.

A great Liberal gathering was held on the same day in the Mechanics' Hall, Nottingham, under the presidency of Alderman Howitt. There were present Mr. Waddy, M.P., Mr. Earp, M.P., Mr. Joseph Arch, and the leading Liberals of the town. Mr. Earp said that in towns like Nottingham, where there were two sections of Liberals, the best way to secure success at the next election was to elect two distinct candidates, one belonging to each section.

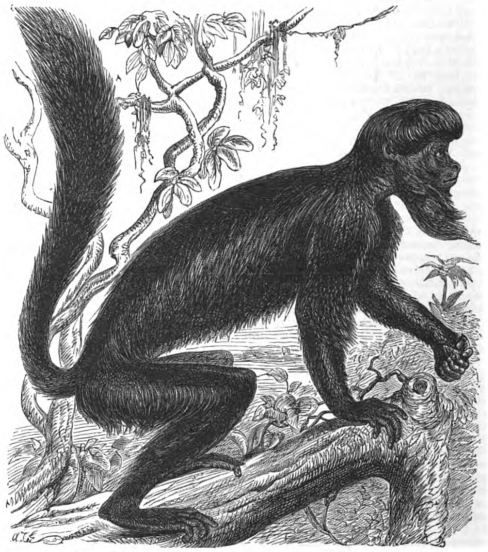
A picnic was held on Tuesday by the Southampton Conservative Association at Branksea Island, Poole Harbour, where they were welcomed by the owner of the island, the Right Hon. G. A. C. Cavendish Bentinck, M.P., who, in answer to a vote of thanks, rapidly reviewed the political situation, and, in conclusion, said he was a Conservative, but was in favour of true liberty.

Mr. Cross, Colonel Stanley, and Lord Sandon—the three members of the Cabinet who represent Lancashire constituencies—were entertained at Liverpool on Wednesday by Mr. Forwood, the Mayor of the borough. Colonel Stanley, in responding for the Army, spoke in terms of eulogy of the readiness with which the country and its dependencies had responded to the appeal for service if their services should be required, and added that the military force of the country was in the highest state of efficiency. Mr. Cross, in acknowledging the toast of "Her Majesty's Ministers," vindicated the policy of the Government in regard to the Eastern Question, and affirmed that not only had the honour of the country been maintained, but that there was every reason to believe that our position and strength were now appreciated, and that the peace which had been secured would be permanent. He regretted the expenditure which the foreign policy of the Government had entailed, justified the distribution of the payment over a series of years, and promised, now that peace was concluded, that every economy compatible with efficiency should be observed. Lord Sandon spoke in a similar strain.

Mr. John Pender has been addressing his constituents at Wick, Kirkwall, and elsewhere during the past week. The hon. member has not, it seems, been silent in Parliament because he had nothing to say on the Eastern Question. He dilated at great length on the absorbing topic, evinced a practical knowledge of the vexed subject, and, albeit strongly opposed to the secrecy observed by the Government in negotiating the Anglo-Turkish Convention, philosophically thought it would be advisable to make the best we could of the bargain, so as to make it eventually remunerative.

The first Town Council election at Burslem, one of the towns of the Staffordshire Potteries which has recently received a charter of incorporation, has resulted in the return of eleven Liberals out of eighteen seats. Mr. Woodall, one of the selected candidates for Stoke, and Mr. Boulton, chairman of the Liberal Association, headed the poll in their wards.

The number of public Acts passed in the late Session, commencing on Jan. 17 and ending on Aug. 16, was seventy-nine. In the previous Session, which began in February and ended on Aug. 14, the number was sixty-nine.



A recently-issued official document shows the balance standing to the credit of the Paymaster-General on behalf of the Court of Chancery is £1,080,006.

OFFICERS AND SOLDIERS PURCHASING TRINKETS OF FEMALE KAFFIR PRISONERS, AT FORT FORDYCE.
FROM A SKETCH BY OUR SPECIAL ARTIST.

HAIRY PREHENSILE-TAILED PORCUPINES.

BEARDED SAKI.

ANIMALS AT THE ZOOLOGICAL SOCIETY'S GARDENS.

THE LATE KAFFIR WAR.

Some graphic reminiscences of the late frontier war in South Africa, which remained to us in the Sketches of our Special Artist since his return to England, have been engraved for this week's publication. They represent no scenes of actual conflict or hostile movements and preparations, but the appearance and demeanour of Kaffir prisoners who were brought into King William's Town. We learn by one of the more recent letters, dated the 17th ult., that a special circuit court has just been held for the purpose of thinning the gaols of their rebel occupants. Large numbers of Gaikas have been sentenced to terms of imprisonment varying from three to fifteen years, but it is understood that in all ordinary cases Government will remit the sentence when peace is fully restored. Employment will be provided on the railways and other public works for all natives in need of assistance, and it is expected that many will avail themselves of this help in consequence of the scarcity of food. It seems that for many weeks previous to Sandilli's death the Kaffirs had keenly felt the pinch of hunger, and disease was rapidly spreading among them. The great majority of the rebels would, no doubt, have readily laid down their arms and submitted willingly to any punishment the Government might have thought fit to inflict upon them; but they merely followed their master. This has been the plea of many a Kaffir recently tried and sentenced for sedition, and there is much reason in the words. The Gaikas were, beyond question, simply "the dogs of their chief," and they ran hither and thither at his beck and call. Though in theory a British subject, Sandilli was practically an independent chief, and exercised despotic power over his people whenever he chose to do so. The Colonial Government simply pretended to govern him, and was always half afraid of him. The wily savage knew what a hold he had on his tribe, and he also knew that this would be his last struggle with the white man. When beaten back at all points on open ground he, in sheer desperation, betook himself to the mountains, probably with the intention of wearying his pursuers and obtaining peace on terms favourable to himself. The greater portion of his tribe fought because their chief fought. They were born to abject submission to their despotic master, and his will was their law. At the outset they fought with bravery and enthusiasm; and though defeat followed defeat, though the Snider daily thinned their ranks, though starvation and disease aggravated their misery, no semblance of disaffection towards their wanton, unscrupulous leader ever manifested itself. They were tired of fighting, but their chief was not; so they kept the field with him, and for him alone. His career has happily been cut short, and his death afforded an opportunity to surrender which his followers were not slow to accept. Many have received a free pardon from the Government, but a few influential or especially active rebels have been singled out as men to whom this clemency cannot be extended. Fortunately, the most important men among this latter class have been captured, and are now in gaol. The captive rebels include pretty well all Sandilli's family, and of this the eldest son, Edmund Sandilli, is, perhaps, the most interesting member. He is a young man of about five-and-twenty years of age; his features are well formed, and his appearance is prepossessing. He has received a good English education, and up to the time of the outbreak filled the post of magistrate's clerk at Middle Drift. But neither this well-paid employment nor the possession of land and cattle could preserve him from the war-fever infection. He joined his father shortly after hostilities commenced, but declares now that he only went to his father to dissuade him from war, and remained with him in the bush vainly endeavouring to bring hostilities to a peaceful termination. He states that several thousand Gaikas lost their lives while actually fighting, and that disease and starvation carried off large numbers of the fugitives in the mountains.

THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES LAYING THE DEDICATION STONE OF ST. MARY'S CHURCH, SOUTHAMPTON.

We learn by the latest news from Cape Town, to the 30th ult., forwarded by telegraph from Madeira, that hostilities still continue in Griqua Land West, where Mr. Arnold, of the Diamond-Fields Horse, was killed in a recent fight, and four other Europeans wounded. In the Trans-Vaal province some military movements against the hostile portion of the Zulus are now in progress. The session of the Cape Parliament closed at the end of last month. The Sprigg Ministry have carried their taxation measures, passed an Indemnity Bill for military operations, and obtained authority for loans of £750,000 for war expenses, and £1,750,000 for completing railways, a survey having been sanctioned to ascertain the best route for a railway to the Orange Free State. A subsidy of £15,000 per annum for a telegraph between the colony and England has also been passed.

ROYAL VISIT TO SOUTHAMPTON.

The Prince and Princess of Wales on Monday week visited Southampton to lay the "dedication stone" of St. Mary's parish church, which is to be rebuilt as a memorial of the late Bishop Wilberforce. The Rector of the parish is his son, Canon Wilberforce. The church is to be a handsome building, in the Early English style, from the designs of Mr. G. Street, which will, if completely carried out, at an estimated cost of £18,000, include a noble three-storeyed tower, 104 ft. high, with a steeple and spire rising 100 ft. above it. Only part, however, of the proposed building, the chancel, the transepts, and one bay of the nave, is actually commenced, the cost of which will be £10,000. The Mayor and Corporation and townspeople of Southampton made a public holiday of the Royal visit to their town. Several triumphal arches, with banners and evergreen garlands and mottoes of welcome, were erected in High-street, with a double line of small triangular flags, of every possible colour, extended along rows of Venetian masts, all the way from the quays to the Bar, the ancient town gate, and beyond it to the New-road. The piers and vessels lying there were also decorated with flags. The Prince and Princess came in the Royal yacht Osborne from the Queen's marine residence in the Isle of Wight. They were accompanied by their two sailor sons, in naval uniforms, and attended by Lord Colville of Culross, Mr. Knollys, Captain Stephenson, R.N., the Hon. Eliot Yorke, Mr. C. Sykes, and Miss Knollys. Many yachts and other vessels awaited the Osborne at Netley Buoy, where the Royal visitors descended into a steam-launch to come up to the pier at Southampton. All the vessels lowered their flags by way of salute, while the 18th Hants Artillery Volunteers fired a Royal salute.

The Prince and Princess, with their party, were received on landing by a guard of honour of the 15th Hants Artillery, whose band played the National Anthem. The Mayor and Mayoress, with the Town Clerk, presented his Royal Highness with an address of welcome, and a bouquet was given to the Princess. Their Royal Highnesses were conveyed in a four-horse carriage to the site of the new church, the walls of which have already been raised several feet high, forming a sufficient inclosure. A platform had been put up within it, which was adorned with flowers from the Bevis Valley Nursery Gardens, lent gratuitously by Mr. Kinsbury, and tastefully arranged by Mr. Frank Lankester. A temporary altar was placed in a sort of alcove, behind the site of the chancel-arch of the former church, backed with a bank of ferns and flowers. The arrival of the Royal party was greeted by fifteen hundred school-children singing "God Bless the Prince of Wales," and the choir afterwards sang "God Save the Queen." The Prince and Princess, with those in their company, took their seats in a pavilion on the platform. Canon Wilberforce, aided by the Bishop of Winchester and other clergymen, conducted the special religious service. A silver trowel was presented by a little boy, the son of Canon Wilberforce, to his Royal Highness, who laid the stone under the guidance of Mr. Street, the architect, stating that it was "in memory of Samuel Wilberforce, Bishop of Winchester." There was a procession of thirty or forty ladies, with the Hon. W. F. Cowper-Temple and the Mayoress of Southampton at their head, to deposit on the stone purses of money which they had collected. The amount was £407, in fifty-eight purses; and the offertory at the doors, and other gifts that day, brought up the total to £650. Another hymn and prayer ended the ceremonial, after which the Prince and Princess had some refreshment at the Deanery, the residence of Canon Wilberforce, and returned to Cowes about six o'clock.

It may interest some of our readers to know that the King of the Sandwich Islands has changed his Ministry, which consists of one Englishman, one American, and two natives. The former Ministry contained three Americans and one native.

THE ZOOLOGICAL SOCIETY'S GARDENS.

Aristocracy and plutocracy have gone out of town, and homely Londoners can enjoy at leisure the amenities of this manifold metropolis, without the risk of being run over by rich men's carriages, or flaunted off the pavement by splendid ladies' trains. The superior grandeurs of Kensington Gore, with its Albert Memorial and Royal Albert Hall, its Horticultural Square, framed in empty galleries once dedicated to International Arts, and its broad streets of stucco palaces, covering the estate of the 1851 Exhibition Commissioners, are left in silent solitude till the advent of next season. Let the West-End now suffer its autumnal period of loneliness and dulness, relieved only by the irruption of country visitors, who emerge from the South Kensington Museum to wonder at the vacancy of that stately neighbourhood. The brightest and prettiest, and by far the pleasantest, of all places of resort in these days within the cab-fare radius, is the north-east corner of Regent's Park. It is worth while to run up there, by the Waterloo omnibus if you like, merely to look at the new bridge over the canal at Gloucester-gate, at the top of Albany-street; a bridge the very lines of which, with those of its approach roads, are designed with such masterly skill, with such regard to elegance as well as convenience, that it would be sufficiently ornamental even without the graceful statuary groups and decorative lamps, and the beautiful fountain, there erected. The ever fresh verdure of the park, its healthy young trees and charming lake, with the green mamelon of Primrose-hill and the distant view of Hampstead heights beyond, will bear comparison with Hyde Park and Kensington Gardens.

Here, too, in August and September as well as in the early summer of fashionable living in town, the Zoological Society continues to invite all classes of shilling and sixpenny visitors to its peculiar domain of wonders and curious delights. What though no longer on Sunday afternoons you can admire or envy, if you be feminine and foolish, the costly attire of those conscious patterns of their sex's finery, who promenade the sunny lawn and shady walk, accompanied by men trying to look distinguished, and form a moving exhibition of Les Modes de Paris? What though no longer on Saturdays to the spirit-stirring strains of the Life Guards band under the great tree a thousand ladies and gentlemen, with their merry children, sit comfortably in the ranks of chairs on the soft cool grass, and rest for two hours after a fatiguing social week? The Zoological Society's collection of animals, unsurpassed in certain departments, may now be seen without distraction, and leisurely inspected with an intelligent quest of "entertaining knowledge." The beasts and birds are not in these days frightened out of their limited wits by the haughty presence of so many over-dressed dames and arrogant lords of the creation, strutting before their dens and cages, and speaking with a Pall-mall tone of drawling depreciation, to which the modest brute mind, unless it be that of a dog, is more sensitive than to the harsh tones of anger and rebuke. We have distinctly observed, in the demeanour of the Great Carnivora, sporting daily in the open-air cages where lions and leopards seem almost happy, and in the gentle manners of the wild ass, the zebra, and the different antelopes, not to speak of our familiar feathered favourites, a more conciliatory mood since Mr. and Mrs. M'Bullion, who spend nearly £10,000 a year, and Lady Alexandra Goldstick, with the Captain, her husband, departed from Charing-cross Station. The guileless creatures feel persuaded that they are now left to be examined by a different class of visitors, who will not flout and despise their brutish nature, but "wonder at the wonderful works of Providence," with the immortal Rumtifoozle of Mathews's "Country Fair." Even the rhinoceros has his finer feelings of self-respect, and prefers, as does also the Wart Hog and the Raccoon, albeit unused to the expression of tender sentiment, that people should regard him with a due share of attention. The so-called inferior orders of the animal kingdom are disposed to be sociable when they find themselves shut up, unable to run away, and dependent on human mercies for their daily food.

Any person, therefore, who at this time of year happens to be kept in London by his business, his duty, or his poverty, and misses the company of his acquaintance, gone to Paris, to Norway, Switzerland, or the Rhine, to Scotland, to North Wales, or to "the seaside" at every point of the compass, may do worse than turn his half-holiday steps again towards "the Zoo." The garden is still in perfect summer beauty, with such brilliant masses of colour in the splendid flower-beds, and so tastefully arranged, with such fair pieces of smooth verdure, bosky hedges, and ruddy brown paths, agreeable to the eye and to the foot, that it is luxury to walk there; and you meet no crowd of people, fewer than on the esplanade of a marine watering-place. The animals, as we have sufficiently remarked, are now to be seen under the most favourable circumstances; and the keepers, an intelligent and obliging set of men, have leisure to tell you all about them. We will not here describe some of the recent improvements in the construction of new abodes for particular classes of zoological specimens, and their removal from less suitable quarters, which render the Gardens a more distinct Index, as it were, to a scientific classification of their kinds, as well as more convenient for access to one or another. Every time you go there, all the year round, there is some beneficial alteration going on or lately accomplished, proving the diligence of the Council, of Mr. Bartlett, the able Superintendent, and of Dr. Sclater, the accomplished Secretary, in the management of a place which needs constantly to be adapted to novel or additional requirements. We have but to notice, especially as connected with the subject of two of our Illustrations this week, some interesting little animals which have lately made their appearance. The hairy porcupine with the prehensile tail, the tree-porcupine of Brazil, whose Latin name is "Sphingurus villosus," was obtained by purchase in March, 1877; but she gave birth to a youngster on July 9 of this year, and our Engraving represents both mother and child. They have a lodging at present in the house belonging to the Small Mammalia, on the east side of the Gardens; but the parent is apt to run up to the very top of the bough placed ashant in a corner, so as almost to hide herself beneath the roof. She is between a large rat and a small rabbit in size, and of a greyish brown colour; the tail is very useful, awake or asleep, for holding on to trees. In the popular Monkey House, on the side where the Lemurs are to be found, is a very pretty little black monkey, which is shown in our second Illustration. It is the Black or Bearded Saki, "Pithecia satanus," a native of the Lower Amazons in South America. The one represented by our Artist, which is a female, was purchased by the Zoological Society on the 11th ult. It shares the cage of a Barbary ape, and they play together in the friendliest and funniest manner; but we are informed that another Black Saki, likewise a female, has been procured this week. A golden-headed marmozet has just been added to the Collection of the Society, which is now rich in small mammals, as well as in antelopes, in elephants, and in birds.

The annual flower show at Dover was held on Wednesday in the College Grounds, and it proved very successful.

FOREIGN AND COLONIAL NEWS.

FRANCE.

The Museum of Decorative Arts at the Pavillon de Flore at the Tuileries was opened on Monday afternoon. Its object is to enable France to keep pace with other countries in the employment of every possible means for the development and progress of art-industry. France has for a long time possessed a certain supremacy in all industries to which art is applicable, owing to the peculiar good taste that has characterised the nation; but the Universal Exhibition of 1878 has shown that this supremacy is considerably endangered by foreign competition. It has, therefore, been deemed necessary to create an institution similar to the South Kensington Museum in London, and to initiate the liberal principles that have guided its direction, not only in the collection of models of architecture, sculpture, paintings, drawings, fixed and movable decorations, furniture, mosaics, ceramics, glass, clothing, jewellery, arms, scholastic instruments, books, &c., useful for the instruction of artisans and others engaged in the study and manufacture of articles of art-industry, but also in adopting the English system of sending the chefs-d'œuvre of the museum into the provinces, by arranging and encouraging numerous and frequent exhibitions throughout the country. The opening of this new institution was limited to five or six picture galleries, exhibiting numerous admirable works of the old and modern schools belonging to friends of the undertaking. The exhibition is supported by voluntary contributions, the first list of subscriptions showing a total of 132,350f. The Duc d'Audiffret-Pasquier is honorary president, and Mr. Cunliffe Owen and Sir Richard Wallace are the honorary vice-presidents.

The Monetary Conference is holding its sittings at Paris.

A Congress of Industry and Commerce held its first sitting on Tuesday, under the presidency of M. Honnête, the president of the Chamber of Commerce in Paris. The delegates of the United States, England, Belgium, and Russia were appointed vice-presidents. A second sitting was held on Wednesday in the Trocadéro. The congress discussed the question of tariffs, liberty of commerce, the rates of interest, and the reforms of the commercial code.

The committee of the National Lottery in Paris have decided to create grand prizes of the value of 50,000f., 35,000f., 25,000f., and 20,000f. respectively. The first will consist of diamonds, the others of objects of art. The drawing will take place on Oct. 20.

The Deauville races terminated on Sunday, and there was a brilliant contest for the Grand Prix, the unbeaten Hungarian mare Kincsem winning her thirty-eighth race. She was, however, closely pressed by M. Lupin's Fontainebleau, which was only beaten by half a length. Eight ran.

A considerable number of people assembled last Sunday on the quays between the Pont de Grenelle and the Auteuil Railway Viaduct to witness the international regatta, which was organised by the united committees of the Cercle Nautique of France, the Paris Rowing Club, and the Société Nautique of the Marne, with the aid of several other French and foreign clubs. Prizes to the amount of £160 were contributed by the French Yacht Club and the Municipal Council of Paris.

A statue of Lamartine, by Falguière, was unveiled on Sunday at Macon. A large number of strangers were present. An excursion was made to Cluny, where Madame Valentine de Lamartine conducted the visitors over her uncle's house, and his tomb was also inspected. At Macon itself there were regattas, and some of Lamartine's poems were recited and sung at the theatre.

The fêtes fixed to be held at Boulogne-sur-Mer on Sept. 1 and 2 in celebration of the laying of the foundation-stone of the new harbour have been deferred to Sept. 8 and 9. The foundation-stone will be laid on the 9th by M. de Freycinet, Minister of Public Works, and M. Léon Say, Minister of Finance.

Prince Alexander of the Netherlands has arrived at Paris.

According to a statement contained in the Siècle of Wednesday, the well-known M. du Bois du Bais, whose death was announced a short time ago, has bequeathed the whole of his large fortune to the poor of Paris. The amount reaches close upon £80,000.

M. Renouard, a French Republican Life Senator, and uncle to M. Léon Say, died last Saturday, aged eighty-four. He distinguished himself at the Bar, was Secretary-General of the Ministry of Justice in 1830, and published various works on political economy and jurisprudence.—M. Naudet, the author of a "History of Etienne Marcel," and formerly Professor of Latin at the Collége de France, died on the 15th inst., aged ninety-one. He is believed to have been the oldest member of the institute.—A French Hebraist, the Abbé Auguste Latouche, has also just died, at the age of ninety-five.

SPAIN.

The King presided over a Cabinet Council at Madrid yesterday week, and afterwards returned to the Escurial.

BELGIUM.

The King and Queen were present on Monday at Bruges at the unveiling of a statue to the Flemish painter Van Eyck. After the departure of their Majesties disturbances occurred at several points between the Clericals and the Liberals. The gendarmes dispersed the rioters, several of whom were arrested.

The fêtes in celebration of the Royal Silver Wedding may be said to have begun on Tuesday at the Royal residence of Laeken. Before the monumental church a triumphal arch with a Royal throne had been erected, and near it the Civic Guards and the garrison were under arms. The King and Queen and the two young Princesses, their children, arrived shortly after one o'clock, and were received with the strains of the "Brabançonne," played by all the musical societies of the town, and the enthusiastic acclamations of the crowd. The Communal Council and the clergy of the church were placed to the right of the throne, and, after their Majesties had taken their seats on it, the Burgomaster of Laeken read the address from the Communal Council congratulating them on the happy event. The King replied, expressing his best wishes for the prosperity of the commune of Laeken. Five young girls then presented a bouquet to the Queen, and the Royal party afterwards returned to the Château of Laeken.

On Wednesday afternoon their Majesties took up their residence at the Palace of Brussels, where they stayed during the fêtes, which lasted four days, from the 22nd till the 25th. In the afternoon they received there a deputation from the Cercle Artistique et Littéraire, who presented their homage and offered an artistically worked basket, one metre in length and sixty centimetres in width, filled with roses, the Queen's favourite flower. The deputation from the Federation of the Belgian Horticultural Societies were also received. They offered a basket of flowers.

The Société de Philanthropie distributed on Wednesday 2060 dinners to the poor at the two establishments of the Alimentary Co-operative Society. The dinners, which were composed of soup, fish, meat, vegetables, rice boiled in milk with sugar, bread, and beer, could be consumed on the premises or carried away, as the recipients pleased.

The reigning Duke of Saxe-Coburg, with a numerous suite, and Count Nesselrode, Grand Master of the Court of the Empress of Germany, charged by her Majesty with a congratulatory mission, have arrived at Brussels. On Wednesday afternoon Prince William of Prussia, eldest son of the Crown Prince of Germany, and the Austrian Archduke Charles-Louis, who arrived with numerous suites, were received at the Northern Terminus by the King of the Belgians. The greeting of the Royal and Imperial personages was most hearty. Their Highnesses are staying at the Royal palace. Lord Torrington, on the part of Queen Victoria, handed to the Queen of the Belgians on Tuesday a letter conferring on her Majesty the Ladies' Order of the Star of India and the insignia in diamonds. The Marquis of Hamilton had a private audience on Wednesday to make a presentation to the King from the Prince of Wales. The special Embassies sent to Brussels to congratulate their Majesties are thus composed:—France, General Clinchant, Commander of the French 1st Army Corps, General Campenon, the Senator-General Loysel, General Lambert, Colonel Negrier, and Captain Fayet; Spain, the Duke of Ossuna, and six attachés; Sweden, Baron Hochschild; Holland, Baron Fagel, Grand Marshal of the Court, Baron van Heerd, and Count Bylandt; England, Viscount Torrington; Russia, Prince Orloff, Ambassador at Paris; Portugal, Count Thomar; Italy, General Pasi; Saxe-Weimar, Count Boineburg; Saxony, Count Witzthum; Turkey, Caratheodori Effendi. The special Envoys have been received by the King and Queen, and have presented the letters of congratulation from their respective Sovereigns and the President of the French Republic. On Wednesday the diplomatic body and deputations from the Senate and the Chamber of Representatives were also received by the King and Queen at the Palace of Brussels to offer their congratulations.

The ceremonies attending the silver wedding are set forth in the programme as follows:—The crown subscribed for by the women of Belgium to be presented to the Queen on the 22nd inst. The deputation represents the 2016 communes which comprise the kingdom, each of which sends a delegate. The same day communal councillors, to the number of more than a thousand, entertain their Majesties and the Royal family at a banquet in the Great Hall of the Bourse, to which the whole foreign diplomatic body is invited. Afterwards the King and Queen go to La Monnaie Theatre to a gala performance, at which will also be present the foreign Princes expected at Brussels. In the proceedings for Friday, the 23rd, is a review by the King of all the civic guards of the realm, a torchlight procession, and serenade. The third day, the 24th, there will be an inspection of the primary schools, when more than 30,000 children will pass before their Majesties. In the evening a brilliant fête will take place in the Zoological Gardens. On Sunday, the fourth day, there is to be a gymnastic fête, horse-racing on the new course in the Bois de la Cambre, general illumination of the city, and fireworks. The diadem and suite of diamonds to be presented to the Queen of the Belgians by the city of Brussels in commemoration of the wedding has been completed by M. Buls, to whom its manufacture has been intrusted. It is made of silver plates jointed, entirely covered with diamonds in gold setting. In the centre is a large diamond weighing 23¼ carats, and valued at £1800. The silver plates have the form of a waving plume, and behind is the diamond of the Baron de Marpurgo, which weighs three carats. The whole diadem forms a crown of glittering plumes, and is considered to be a work of art.

HOLLAND.

It is officially announced that the King has sanctioned the new law on primary instruction.

GERMANY.

Prince Hohenlohe, the German Ambassador at Paris, has been re-elected to the Reichstag on the second ballot at Forchheim, Kulmbach, Bavaria. He polled 9800 votes, while his Ultramontane competitor had 8600.

Prince Frederick Leopold, son of Prince Frederick Charles of Prussia, fell on Wednesday from the balcony of the hunting-box at Glienicke and broke his leg below the knee.

The Berlin correspondent of the Morning Post states that the result of the elections is that the Ultramontanes, including Guelphs, have gained six seats and the Conservatives forty. The National Liberals have lost twenty-nine, the Progressists thirteen, the Socialists three, and the Democrats one. The other parties have retained their numbers.

Hödel, who attempted the life of the Emperor William on May 11 last, was early yesterday week beheaded in the courtyard of the New Prison at Berlin.

RUSSIA.

An Imperial Ukase was published at St. Petersburg on Wednesday disbanding the men of the Landwehr who were first called out.

The successor to General Trepoff as head of the St. Petersburg police was General Mesentzoff. Yesterday week the latter was leaving a confectioner's shop when he was set upon by two men, who attempted to stab him to the heart. The heart was not pierced, but the General died of the wound in the evening. The assassins drove off in a vehicle that was waiting and escaped. General Seliverstev has been appointed chief of the Gendarmes and the third department of the Chancery, in the place of the murdered General.

A review of the Russian troops at San Stefano was held on Saturday last. The manœuvres lasted two hours, and were witnessed by a great concourse. At the close of the review General Todleben, while making a speech to the men, was fired at by a young Greek armed with a pistol. The shot did not, however, take effect, and the Greek was arrested.

The Daily News' correspondent in Berlin telegraphs that Russia has determined to retain her position near Constantinople until the Turks surrender Batoum and Varna. According to a Constantinople telegram, the Turkish Commander at Batoum has informed the inhabitants that the Russians will enter the town on the 27th. The Lazes are biding their time in four intrenched camps.

SERVIA.

The festivities in honour of Prince Milan's birthday began on Wednesday. The town and public buildings were decorated with garlands and flags, and there was a general illumination and a torchlight procession at night. The state celebration of the event and a grand review were held on Thursday. Another battery of 18-pounder Krupp field-guns captured at Nisch has been added to the war trophies, and arranged in the Great Square in Belgrade.

EGYPT.

Mr. Rivers Wilson on Tuesday presented to the Khedive a voluminous report of the labours of the Committee of Inquiry in Egyptian Revenue. The Committtee of Inquiry has accepted an offer of Prince Mohammed Tewfik, the hereditary Prince, made on the advice of Nubar Pasha, to cede to the Committee all his estates, the annual rental of which amounts to £30,000. Princess Fatma, daughter of the Khedive, has also declared her readiness to cede all her estates to the Committee, and Prince Hussein Kamil Pasha, the Khedive's second son, is expected to do likewise. Following these examples, the mother of the Khedive has also ceded to the Committee all her estates, the annual value of which amounts to £20,000.

CANADA.

The Dominion Parliament has been dissolved. The new elections will be held on Sept. 17.

The Attorney-General has introduced in the Legislative Assembly of British Columbia a memorial to the Queen, praying her Majesty that, if the terms of the Union with the Dominion be not complied with by the month of May, 1879, British Columbia shall be allowed to withdraw from it. The memorial was adopted by a large majority.

The Canadian papers publish accounts of a terrible storm which visited Toronto on the 4th inst.

AUSTRALIA.

A Melbourne telegram dated yesterday week says that the Colonial Treasurer of Victoria has made his financial statement in the Legislative Assembly. The actual revenue for the current year is estimated at £4,991,713, and the expenditure at £5,137,642, leaving a deficit of £145,929. This deficiency will be covered by arrears and recoupments. There are to be new loans for a total amount of £9,000,000 for railways and public works, £4,000,000 to be issued immediately.

The Agent-General for New South Wales has been informed by telegram of the arrival in Sydney of the ship Smyrna, which sailed from Plymouth with emigrants in May last.

INDIA.

The Calcutta correspondent of the Times, telegraphing on Sunday, says that a good deal of rain has fallen throughout the west coast district, the north-east coast, in the ceded districts of Madras, and in Kurnoul. In the south-east coast district the fall has been slight. General prospects are reported good. A general rain is reported throughout Mysore. Prices have slightly fallen, and prospects are favourable. There has been a heavy rain in all parts of the Bombay Presidency, including Sind; and a good rain in the Central Provinces, in Central India a fair fall, and throughout Malwa. The state of Bundelkund gives cause for anxiety, the distress increasing. In Rajpootana prospects are good; in Northern Bengal there is some damage from floods, but more rain is required in certain districts; in Assam the floods in the valley districts are subsiding; in the North-West Provinces prospects are favourable. From Cashmere reports are very gloomy, and the Durbar is said to be thoroughly aroused to the appalling state of affairs. The authorities are buying grain in large quantities. Relief works are being started in all directions, and a mixed committee of Hindoos and Mussulmans are working together to relieve distress. The thanks of the Indian Government have been gazetted as due to military officers for services performed during the Madras famine. The Government hope to grant special concessions to officers who have suffered in health from their labours. It is decided that a winter camp of exercise shall be formed at Hassan Abdal, in the Punjaub.

The overland mail has brought news from Bombay to July 26, and from Calcutta to July 24. There is very little news of importance that has not been already received by telegraph. The Indian papers state that the Russians were endeavouring to establish an Embassy in Cabul, but that the Ameer refused to grant the needful permission. It is also stated that the family of the late Yakoob Beg, Ameer of Kashgar, have taken refuge in Russian territory, and the Russian authorities have refused the demand of the Chinese for their extradition, but have removed them to Tashkend.

A telegram from Bombay reports the death of the heir apparent to the throne of Cabul on the 17th inst., and that, in consequence of this event, the special mission of Sir Neville Chamberlain will possibly be postponed. A telegram from the Times' correspondent at Calcutta states that Abdul Karim Khan, brother of Shere Ali and the former ruler of Khokand, has arrived at Peshawur. After rebelling against the Russians he took refuge in Cabul, and has now left on the approach of the Russian Envoy.

A telegram from Lisbon states that the phylloxera is committing great ravages among the vines in the north of Portugal.

At Yokohama some students who ridiculed two Buddhist priests for teaching that the sun moves round the earth have been attacked by the populace and seriously injured.

The Congress on Prison Reform assembled on Wednesday at Stockholm, and the members of the Congress were entertained by the Municipality on Thursday.

The prize of 25,000f. offered by the King of the Belgians for the best work on national history published between 1874 and 1878 has been awarded to M. Alphonse Wanters for his "Les Libertés Communales: essai sur leur origine et leurs premiers développements en Belgique, dans le Nord de la France, et sur les Bords du Rhin."

The public may avail themselves of the existing mail communications, viâ New York, for correspondence addressed to Chili, Peru, and other parts of the west coast of South America by addressing, "viâ the United States," any correspondence they may desire to have forwarded by that route. The rates of postage (which must be paid in advance) are as follows:—Letters, 11d. per half ounce; newspapers, 3d. each (not exceeding 4 oz. in weight); books and trade patterns, 3½d. per 2 oz.; registration fee, 4d.

The sixth congress of the International Association for the Reform and Codification of International Law being held at Frankfort-on-the-Maine has adopted a resolution, proposed by Herr Marcus, of Bremen, approving the decision taken at Berne establishing a uniform railway goods tariff. Mr. Freeland, who was supported by Mr. Peabody, of the United States, spoke, amid general assent, in terms of approval of the new relations promoted in London by the Chinese and Japanese Ambassadors, both in the domain of political economy and international law. The Congress has unanimously adopted a resolution proposed by Sir Travers Twiss, supported by Count Sparre, of Sweden, to the effect that the Suez Canal and similar international works should be declared free in case of war, and not be subject to any restrictive measures on the part of belligerents.

Queen Christina died on Wednesday night, at St. Adresse, near Havre. Maria Christina, Queen Dowager of Spain, was the daughter of the late Francis I., King of the Two Sicilies, and was born in April, 1806, so that she had completed her seventy-second year. She was married to Ferdinand VII. of Spain, in December, 1829, and was appointed Regent in October, 1832. On the death of her husband, on Sept. 29, 1833, her eldest daughter, Isabella, then a child, was proclaimed Queen under the regency of her mother, and a civil war followed which lasted seven years. In 1840 Queen Christina was compelled to take refuge in France, but returned to Spain in 1843, and remained there until 1854, when she again fled to France, and has since only occasionally visited Spain. In December, 1833, she was secretly married to Fernando Munoz, who was made Duke of Rianzarès, and the marriage was acknowledged by a decree dated Oct. 13, 1844. The Duke died in 1873.

A RESTING PLACE.

Crabbe is out of fashion. Readers to whom the roses and raptures of vice are as daily bread, to whom poetry is a thing which must be always either wild, dreamy, voluptuous, or (best of all) entirely incomprehensible, can hardly be expected to find the quiet old chronicler of Aldborough anything but dull; and to such readers dulness is the one deadly sin.

Nor can one well attempt the denial of this charge against him. A poet who devoted twenty-four cantos (or "letters," as he, less pretentiously, called them) to the description of an ordinary seaside borough;—who began with this very unambitious prelude—

> "Describe the Borough"—though our idle tribe
> May love description, can we so describe,
> That you shall fairly streets and building trace,
> And all that gives distinction to a place?
> This cannot be; yet moved by your request
> A part I paint—let Fancy form the rest;—

who, finally, attacked, with all the anger his gentle spirit was capable of, an "enthusiast in religion:" such a writer could hardly be expected to attract much attention now.

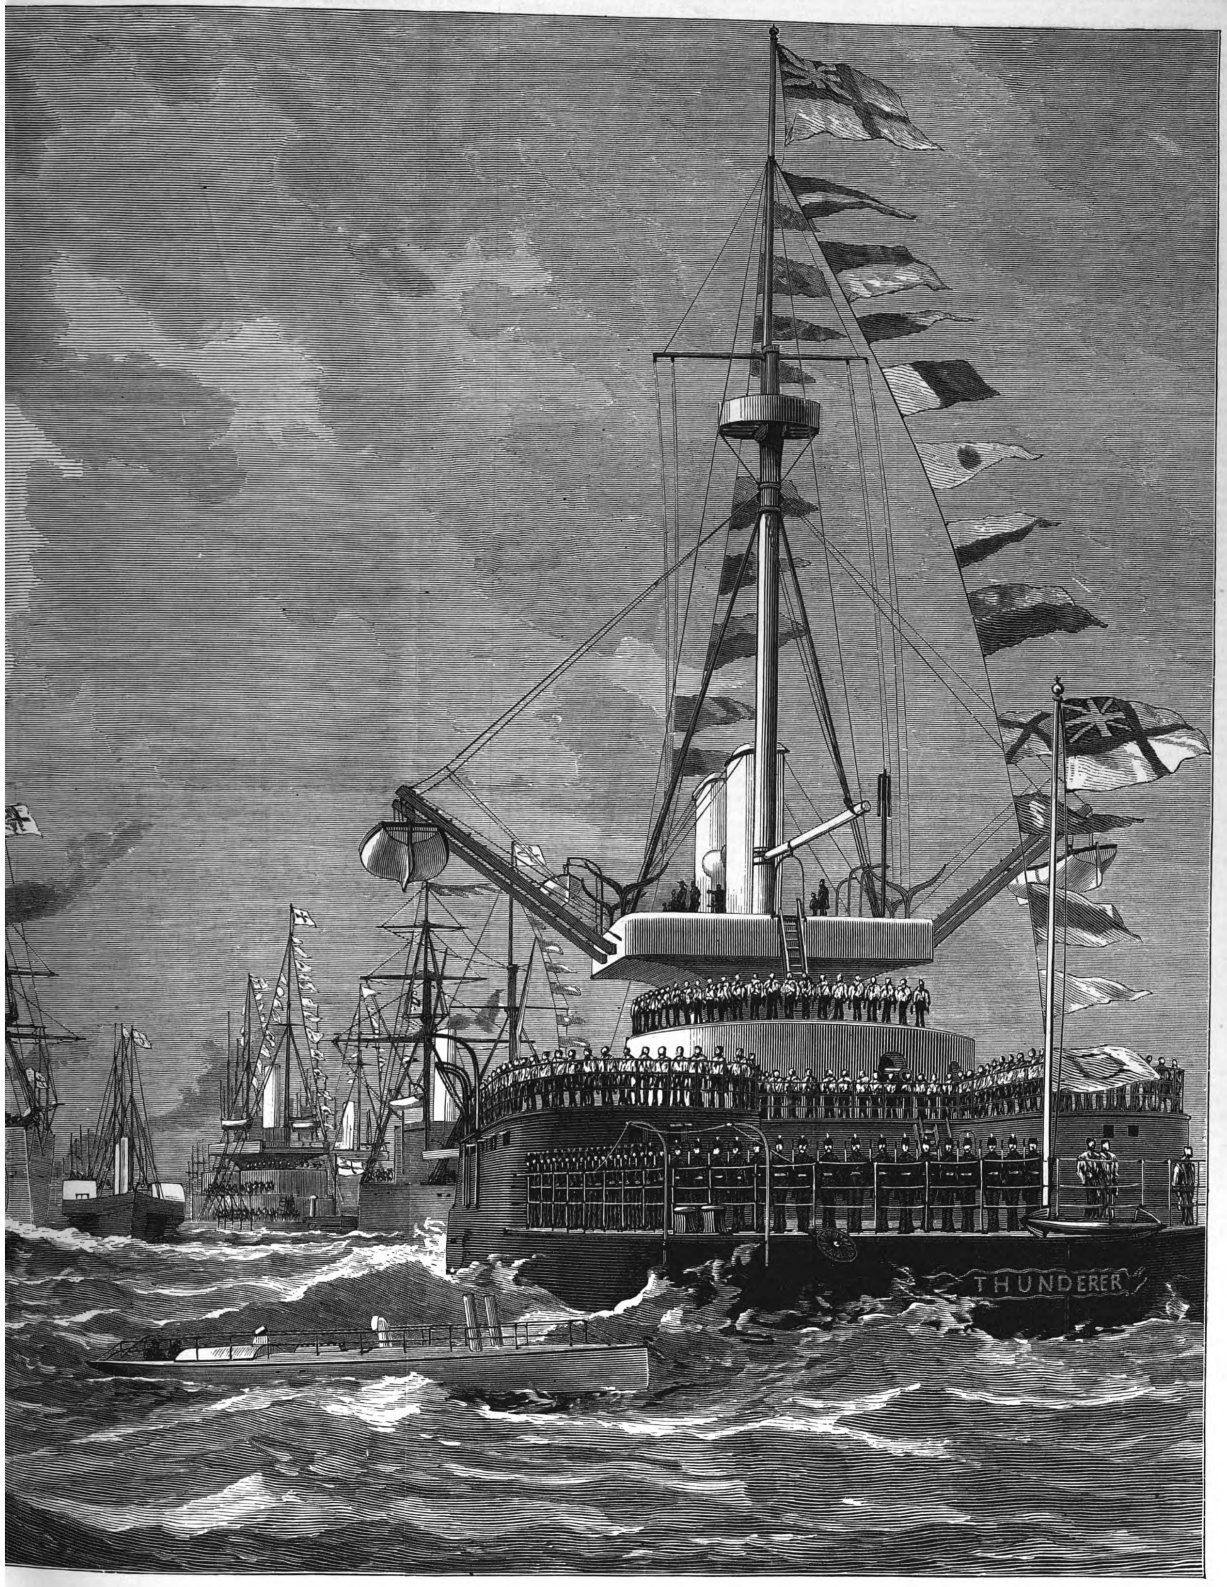
Yet it is by no means certain that Crabbe will not be read and respected when Swinburne and Rossetti are as much forgotten as the Euphuists of a former time; he has one great lasting quality, in which they are entirely—almost avowedly—deficient; and this is sound common-sense. His work will always have, at least, a historical value; it paints, with thorough fidelity, the life of its day—and his pictures of "The Almshouse and Trustees," "The Professions," "The Clubs and Social Meetings," of his little Borough, have a merit and an interest unsuspected by those who devote themselves to reproducing in most exquisite colours their own idlest fancies.

And it has been said that Crabbe, with this dulness, and this strong sense, is in some sort a type of the part of the world from which he came, and of which he constantly wrote with such affectionate remembrance. The people of the Eastern Counties are generally supposed to be slow—"thick-headed," their enemies call them; and the silliness of Suffolk in particular has become proverbial. Indeed, one does not find in Eastern England the quickness of the West, nor the keen North-countryman's passion for work, nor the Irishman's wit; but the assumption that these defects are counterbalanced by no good qualities is not necessarily a fair one. All over England you will find East-countrymen in high positions of trust; nor is there, probably, any part of England where life has more steady comfort, more stable happiness, than in the east.

One sees this in their great painters—Gainsborough, Constable, Crome; and one sees it, I think, in the scenery they painted—to describe which one may almost repeat what has just been said of Crabbe. There are not what the guide-books call very "striking features" in these landscapes; there are no mountains, and not many hills; there are not even very great rivers nor very picturesque lakes—Cumberland people would probably despise the "Norfolk broads" pretty heartily. Yet throughout the whole country there is an exquisite repose, a quiet richness of colouring, a genuine beauty of a sort which one gets to love very deeply.

Why do not people, ready enough to make tours in the East under the guidance of Mr. Cook, who drags them at express speed through Jerusalem, Joppa, Jericho, and other abodes of insects evilly disposed—why not, I say, make once in a way, for a pleasanter change, a tour in the East of England? Does Mr. Murray sell in a year half a dozen copies of his hand-book to this part of the kingdom, "so near and yet so far"? Even of the excursionists to the two or three popular watering-places, are not the great majority East Anglians born and bred? Perhaps there may be nothing in Norfolk really equal to Dartmoor, perhaps even the beautiful Orwell is not so beautiful as the Wye; but there is such a wholesome quiet about the entire country—it is so free from the airs and affectations of a show district, it is so uncockneyfied, and (may not one add?) so cheap!

Not only are the large towns—Norwich, with its cathedral, Ipswich, with its picturesque old houses and river—thoroughly interesting and representative, but there are smaller places innumerable every bit as good; places whose names are never heard but within a radius of barely fifty miles. There is Swaffham, in Norfolk; there is Yoxford, in Suffolk, with a handsome church, picturesque inns, a quaint high-street, and a delightful park.



Better still than the best of trips for real rest and refreshment is it to stay in one place—in any one almost among the hundreds that lie between jolly vulgar Yarmouth and dingy Harwich. Crabbe would no doubt have recommended Aldborough, his quaint old favourite; but since his day it has been converted into a watering-place, which though it is not fashionable would like to be—Camberwell-super-Mare somebody calls it. Felixstowe, too, has spoilt itself by a railway; and even Southwold has just attracted to itself a "branch" of the Great Eastern. But not far off this last-named place there is a little village, hardly known to the herd even in Suffolk—a village on the coast—which centuries ago was (we are told) a great town, with fifteen, some say forty, churches, of which all have now been washed away by the encroaching sea. All, that is, except the ruins of one, which now stand out most picturesquely against the sky upon the cliff which shelters the tiny town, making, with the broad sea at their feet and the woods behind them, a picture more lovely and complete than any of Crome or Cotman. Near these ruins are some more singular and finer still: the outer wall and the refectory of an ancient priory. The wall now incloses a great field, in the midst of which—like some strange ark floating in a sea of yellow corn—there rise the grey refectory walls; every passing breeze and cloud varies their surroundings, every hour of the day there is some change in this beautiful, tranquil scene.

Lower down lies the one street of the village: a street containing maybe ten houses, including the new schools (ugly, rectangular, and redbricked) and a cottage which fulfils the duties of Townhall, and in which is a great padlocked chest containing the archives of the place—which, by-the-way, returned its members to Parliament till 1832, and (as we find from the aforesaid archives) in older times thought no small beer of itself, sending representatives to consult the mighty Coke on occasions of importance, and paying their expenses, on that arduous journey to London, with becoming liberality.

Here is a resting-place for the tired man of business, for the artist "fagged out" by the London season: nor have we mentioned a tenth of its beauties—nor its principal defect. There are delightful drives and walks round it, to strange and ancient churches and to glorious heaths; it is cool, healthy, clean; and—if the whole truth must be told—hardly a quarter of its few dozens of inhabitants are on speaking terms with each other. This confirmation of the truth of Crabbe's "Dutch pictures" of life hardly adds to the beauty of the Arcadian scene; but it was necessary to complete our little photograph of it; and these slow and heavy resentments of years, while they do not interfere much with the comfort of the visitor, give him a theme whereon to moralise—show that the most sluggish and inartificial existence has faults as grave, in their way, as the follies of our headlong London life: faults which, soothed by the beautiful sights which Nature here spreads round him, he may not unprofitably rest to watch.

REVIEW OF THE F

SPITHEAD BY THE QUEEN.

ECHOES OF THE WEEK.

Paris, Aug. 21.

Hödel, the would-be regicide, has had his head duly cut off at Berlin; and (assuming that we are entitled under any circumstances to inflict capital punishment) the cowardly and conceited assailant of the aged Sovereign of Germany certainly deserved his fate. "Dr." Nobiling's turn will probably come next. Civilisation, nevertheless, may score a good many points when we contrast the comparatively merciful supplice undergone by this wretched man Hödel with the dreadful torments wreaked on Count Ankerström, the assassin (at a masked ball) of Gustavus III. of Sweden, and the yet more horrible agonies endured by Damiens, who wounded Louis XV. of France very slightly with a penknife. Ankerström (whose widow was living within the recollection of persons still surviving) was scourged with iron chains for three successive days preceding his execution, until he was nearly flayed alive. As for the miserable Damiens, we have all read and shuddered at the account of the "bed of steel" to which he was strapped; the "question ordinaire et extraordinaire" to which he was subjected; the melted lead and boiling oil, pitch, and sulphur which were poured into the wounds which the pincers had made in his limbs; and his final écartèlement, or the pulling of him to pieces by four horses. The horses were sluggish in the performance of their abominable task; and it was necessary to stimulate them by the lash. There were many ladies present at the execution, and when they saw the horses whipped they cried, in the mincing Court dialect of the time, "Oh, les pauv' zevaux!"

Mem.: Of course, George Selwyn went over specially to Paris to see Damiens done to death. He pushed so lustily to get through the crowd round the scaffold that one of the soldiers on duty, thinking that he might be the executioner himself, asked him whether he was "Monsieur de Paris." "No," replied George Selwyn, "je suis Monsieur de Londres." All kinds of cynically humorous stories have been told about executions. I remember one of a very cool criminal, a Greek, who was about to be guillotined, and who, on receiving a hint from the chaplain that it was time to be moving, exclaimed "Kai ti? den emporoun n'archiosou choris emé?" I purposely leave the remark untranslated for the benefit of the disciples of Professor Blackie.

The Parisians, on the other hand, are furious because Hödel was not guillotined. "Just like those barbarous Germans," they are saying, "to chop a man's head off with a hatchet." Nor is "Atlas" in the World quite satisfied. "They actually sent out and bought a new woodcutter's axe," cries the scandalised "Atlas." As a matter of fact, I believe that the axe with which Hödel was decapitated was made specially for the occasion by the first cutler in Berlin. There has not been these sixteen years past any call for the judicial axe in Prussia. There are two specimens of the implement extant at Berlin. One was consigned to the Brandenburg Museum. The other got into the possession of the proprietor of a waxwork show, and continues to adorn his Chamber of Horrors. The old manner of decapitation in Germany was not by the axe, but by the sword. The blade was hollow, and contained a certain quantity of quicksilver. The criminal was placed in a kneeling posture, but without placing his head on a block. The executioner, grasping the glaive with both hands, held it upright, so that the quicksilver in the hollow blade lay over the hilt. But, as the bourreau delivered his blow, with a semi-circular sweep, the mercury swept downwards from hilt to point, and lent tremendously increased momentum to the stroke.

Mem: It was not the executioner-in-chief who decollated Hödel, but one of his assistants. The chief is an aged man, and has grown wealthy by trafficking in stray dogs, which, by virtue of his office, he is entitled to seize in the streets. After a certain time the dogs which are not claimed and which are not worth anything are hanged. The valuable animals are sold, as the perquisites of the executioner. The carcases of the dead brutes belong to his assistants, who go by the significant name of "skinners." All things considered, it seems highly appropriate that a fellow accustomed to skin dogs should be called upon to cut off a man's head.

Enough of an ugly subject; but who among us has not been to Madame Tussaud's and enjoyed the Baker-street banquet, ab ovo usque ad malum: that is to say, from the top-booted effigy of the late William Cobbett, M.P., to the model of the guillotine and the dreadful figure of Orsini in his camisole de force? Who that goes to the Tower does not ask to see the axe with which Anne Boleyn was not executed, the thumbscrews, and the Scavenger's Daughter? There is a curious fascination about penology; and there are a great many more George Selwyns among us than is generally acknowledged.

By-the-way, talking of Madame Tussaud's, students of the Eastern Question might do well during the recess to study a remarkable series of water-colour drawings illustrating Turkish punishments in the early days of the reign of Sultan Mahmoud. These drawings are hung on the walls of a somewhat dark staircase at Madame Tussaud's; but they will repay inspection, showing as they do the marked improvement which has taken place in the administration of criminal justice in Turkey within the last forty years. Politically, I abhor the Turk as heartily as Torquato Tasso did, and many of the Muslim's manners and customs are to me utterly abominable; but justice should be done to all; and it is good to know that impalement, decapitation for trifling offences, the bow-string, and the sack (the last for reprehensible Turkish ladies) have been as completely abolished in the Ottoman Empire as the knout has been abolished in Russia. Even the bastinado no longer exists, so far as Constantinople is concerned; although in the remote districts recalcitrant taxpayers are still occasionally compelled to "cut stick."

It should be a wholesome corrective to our national propensity for bragging and boasting, and our national habit of sneering at the "barbarism" of foreigners, to remember that we are the only nation in Europe who judicially scourge criminals and who systematically beat children. I see that the Marquis Townshend has been protesting in the London newspapers against the practice of boxing schoolboys' ears, and that he proposes to give a prize of fifty guineas for the best essay on the impolicy of corporal punishment in schools altogether. When I was young boys were unmercifully thrashed both at school and at home; but I was fortunate enough to have a kind (although far from over-indulgent) Mother, and to be brought up at a school in which, although there were many hundreds of boys, not one blow was scholastically struck from year's end to year's end. I rejoice to believe that the majority of parents are not so ferocious as they were in the old days, and that the race of savage schoolmasters is gradually declining; but an immensity of reform is yet necessary in our schools, high and low, and the practice of hitting children violent blows on the head is one that assuredly should be put down by the law. To strike a child on the head is an aggravated assault, and should be punished as one.

Mem: I picked up the other day in a Parisian paper an intolerably nonsensical story about a precocious baby, which made me laugh heartily. I wonder whether it will have the same effect on you, dear reader. It is so highly expedient to laugh whenever we have a chance of so doing, since in ten minutes' time we shall have good reason, perchance, to weep. "I remember," says the narrator of the nonsensical story, "that when I was an infant of about ten months old I was naughty, and my nurse slapped me. 'Ah;' thought I, 'it's all very well; but you see if I don't tell my mamma as soon as ever I learn to speak.'" There is a vague idea of the Philosophy of the Inarticulate in this trivial story. We should be merciful to those who cannot translate their thoughts into speech. Did you ever mark the intensely wretched expression in the countenance of a dog that is sick and that cannot tell you what is the matter with him? It is a look of puzzled, hopeless, tongue-tied misery: the expression of pained bewilderment so grandly defined by the French critic as "the look of the Sphinx who has forgotten the solution of her own riddle."

We have been laughing, but not immoderately, in Paris, over the "Old Englyshe" of the bill of fare of the Ministerial whitebait dinner. Who was the concoctor of this dull joke? A really comic menu might have been drawn up had the chef at Greenwich given ad captandum names to a few of the "rich hashes" and "rare messes," the "soufflis," the "surprises," the "epigrammes," and the "suprêmes" of the Ministerial campaign. The gentleman, however, who translated the bill of fare into French for the benefit of the Parisian public is apparently a wag of the first water. There is a specialty of the Greenwich cuisine called "Omelette de crabe à la Blue Seal." I think that I mentioned this dish some weeks since in "Echoes," and that I erroneously quoted the "Seal" (which refers to a club of Guardsmen) as a "gold" instead of a "blue" one. But, for aught that I can tell with certainty, it may be a pink, or a yellow, or a pea-green cachet. In the French translation of the Greenwich bill of fare I find "Omelette de crabe à la Garde des Sceaux." This is delicious. The "Garde des Sceaux" is a functionary who combines some of the attributes of our Lord Chancellor with others of the Lord Privy Seal. The translation, however, can be capped by that of the American who rendered the French "Bureau du Timbre," or "Stamp Office," as "the Government Timber Yard." For a witty translation commend me to "Mors Omnibus" as the Latin equivalent for a hearse. This has been attributed to Lord Beaconsfield, in the days when he was "young and curly." Was it the Premier who, when a loquacious member of Parliament boasted that before he studied the art of oratory he used to speak worse than Demosthenes did before his course of pebbles, gently remarked that the honourable gentleman's actual style of delivery reminded him of Demosthenes, not after the course of pebbles, but while he still had them in his mouth?

I have heard of a traveller who remained for a whole month at an hotel at Niagara, and minutely described in his letters home all the features of the surrounding country. In his last communication he observed in a postscript: "By-the-by, they tell me that there are some waterfalls"—I am not sure that he did not write waterworks—"near here." I have been in Paris for a fortnight, and I have not. I believe, written as yet half a dozen lines in the "Echoes" about the Universal Exhibition and its bewildering contents. There have been many good reasons for my silence. In the first instance, I am anxious not to bore you; and the "Exhibition Bore" nearly equals the Eastern Question now as a social nuisance. In the next place, I very rarely visit the Champ de Mars; and as for the Trocadéro Palace and park, I have not yet set my foot inside those sumptuous precincts. In the third place, the Exhibition is so immense, and any information that I could impart to you would be necessarily so infinitesimal, that I have been reluctant to say anything at all concerning it from a systematic point of view. I have ventured, however, to set down just twenty-five things which I would counsel you to do when you visit the Exposition Universelle.

Pay the cabman before you reach the Exhibition palace. Give him six sous as a pourboire. Don't buy more than four tickets at a time. If you do you will probably lose them. Lunch at Catelain's Restaurant Français in the part of the Champ de Mars to the right before you get to the Bridge of Jena. If you are two in company "portions" for one will suffice. If you are three or four, order "portions" for two. "Eggs on the plate," an "omelette au jambon," or "aux rognons," "côtelettes de mouton à la jardinière," or "an entrecôte à la Bordelaise," are the safest things to order. Drink vin ordinaire, or, at the utmost, St. Estephe. The more expensive wines will not be better. Never drink water at a restaurant. Don't drink Eau de Selz from a syphon. Drink Apollinaris, or Eau de St. Galmier. Give the waiter fifty centimes for his fee. Your lunch should not cost you more than six francs a head. If you have a lady with you persuade her not to enter a Bath chair or fauteuil roulant. She will be wanting to alight every other minute to look at the pretty things. See the "Regent" Diamond by all means. Stand on tiptoe, but not (if you can help it) on your neighbour's toes, to see it. See the magnificent show of Sèvres china and Beauvais tapestry. See Ellington's "Pilgrim shield;" the "Pompeian Lady at her toilette;" the "damascened steel vase;" the "Renaissance mirror;" and the "tête-à-tête tea services of the famous Birmingham firm. See Barbedienne's bronzes. See the display of Tiffany, the renowned gold and silver smith of New York; and the remarkable display of the American Watch Company of Waltham, Massachusetts. See the Prince of Wales's pavilion. See the superb model of the Gallia, the newest built of the ocean fleet of the Cunard Royal Mail Steam-Ship Company. See the Gustave Doré vase and Copeland's china; and then—come back to dinner: I hope without a headache.

G. A. S.

THE NAVAL REVIEW AT SPITHEAD.

The Engraving that fills the two middle pages of this Number represents the scene on Tuesday week at Spithead, when her Majesty the Queen inspected the vessels of the reserve squadron, under the command of Admiral Sir A. C. Key. The Prince and Princess of Wales, Princess Beatrice, and the Duke of Connaught were present, and there was a great gathering of yachts and of the public. Unfortunately, the spectacle was marred by bad weather, and the programme had to be modified in consequence.

The events of the day began with the arrival, by the special trains from London, of the members of both Houses and their embarkation on board the Euphrates, while at the same time, from various points of the dockyard, other parties were embarking on board the different vessels to which they had been allotted. The review was deprived of much of its charm as a spectacle by the unfortunate meteorological conditions under which it was held. On Monday night the wind went down, and everything promised well for the review, notwithstanding the appearance of heavy rain-clouds that came sailing over the Isle of Wight. During the night, however, the wind sprang up again from the south-west, accompanied by copious falls of rain, and when day broke nothing could have appeared worse in the shape of weather. A heavy haze hung upon the water and shut out the ships from the spectators on shore, while the wind, which had increased to half a gale, dissipated the last vestige of hope with reference to the fleet getting under way. At noon a Royal salute was fired from all the vessels at Spithead and in harbour, and the ships were dressed—those about to proceed outside with masthead flags only, while the vessels which were to remain stationary dressed in rainbow, with the flags extending from masthead to masthead.

Towards three o'clock her Majesty was observed to be putting off in a Royal barge towards the Royal yacht Victoria and Albert, which lay with a slip-rope to a buoy off Osborne, and soon afterwards the Royal Standard was run up to the masthead, which was a signal for the fleet to salute. A line was then formed of the yachts and tenders following in the wake of her Majesty in the subjoined order:—Next astern of the Royal yacht came the Royal yacht Osborne, with his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales and his friends; then the Enchantress, with their Lordships the Commissioners of the Admiralty; then the Fire Queen, with the Commander-in-Chief, Admiral Fanshawe, flying his flag at the main; then the Euphrates, with the Lords, Commons, and a large bevy of peeresses and lady commoners; then the Vivid, with the foreign representatives; and in the rear of these the Dasher and Britomart, with half-pay naval officers and officers of the garrison. In this form the squadron of yachts, with a strong breeze blowing behind them, bore down on the Fleet, which was now seen to be anchored in most admirable order and perfect formation—the larger, but less formidable, vessels forming the Starboard Division, the turret-ships and monitors the Port.

The following is the disposition and order of the divisions:—

Ships.	Guns.	Horse Power.	Tons.	Crew.
STARBOARD.
Hercules, Admiral Sir A. C. Key	14	8529	8377	698
Hector, Captain C. H. Simpson	18	3236	6713	527
Valiant, Captain W. C. Chapman	18	3569	6713	549
Lord Warden, Capt. Hon. E. R. Fremantle	18	6706	7842	547
Warrior, Rear-Admiral Henry Boys	32	5469	9137	703
Penelope, Captain W. S. Brown	11	4703	4391	315
Resistance, Captain A. T. Thrupp	16	2428	6970	452
Boadicea, Captain J. E. Erskine	16	5149	4027	385
Emerald, Captain W. H. Maxwell	12	2100	2162	232
Cormorant, Commander J. A. T. Bruce	6	900	1124	139
Eurydice, Captain John D'Arcy	16	5250	3932	361
Blazer, Lieutenant H. B. Lang	1	236	254	24
Comet, Lieutenant R. F. O. Foote	1	262	254	25
PORT.
Thunderer, Captain John C. Wilson	4	6270	9387	349
Belleisle, Captain C. J. Rowley	4	3955	4720	296
Prince Albert, Captain Loftus F. Jones	4	2128	3905	198
Gorgon, Captain Sir Lambton Loraine	4	1669	3430	147
Hydra, Captain Albert H. Markham	4	1472	3430	146
Hecate, Captain Edward Howard	4	1755	3429	149
Glatton, Captain Morgan Singer	2	2828	4912	164
Cyclops, Captain Edward Kelly	4	1660	3430	159
Heady, Commander H. H. Edwards	4	715	592	77
Tweed, Lieutenant John Hayes	3	310	363	43
Tay, Lieutenant Thomas E. Miller	3	310	363	41
Vesuvius, Lieutenant W. H. May	—	379	260	14
Lightning, Lieutenant C. J. Norcock	—	300	98	9
	219	72,350	99,549	6391

The vessels in these two divisions left a broad water-way, down which her Majesty now steamed, having previously made the signal that the fleet would not be required to get under way. As the Royal yacht approached, the yards were manned, and cheer after cheer rang from the ships. A crowd of small craft followed thickly in the wake and on both beams of the squadron of yachts; and fortunately at this moment the one stray gleam of sunshine which appeared throughout the day shone forth and lighted up the scene. The long, even rows of vessels, the fluttering bunting, and the figures of the men as they stood on the yards presented a fine scene. The Royal yacht now steamed towards the Warrior light-ship, passing not far from the wreck of the Eurydice, which must have attracted her Majesty's attention, and then turned towards the fleet again. It was not her Majesty's intention to visit any of the vessels, so that the bad weather did not interfere with that part of the programme; but from the signal which was made it was evidently the intention that the fleet should have been got under way and have performed some such simple manœuvre as steaming round the Royal yacht, either in two columns or in single line ahead, and then resuming their stations at Spithead. But that it was wise to abandon this project all those who witnessed the review must agree, as from the confined space, the crowds of shipping and small boats, the violent squalls of wind, and the occasional blinding showers, it would have been attended with considerable risk. Her Majesty now made the signal, "Am much pleased, and regret that weather prevents evolutions;" with which gracious message, and under the smoke of a second Royal salute, the Royal yacht and her train of followers steamed away towards the Solent.

This was a general signal for the visitors to disperse, and soon the entrance to Portsmouth Harbour was crowded with vessels of all kinds making for the various landing-places. Dense crowds of people were now perceived to line the sea walls, and piers, and even the distant house-tops of South-sea, waiting patiently through the gusts of wind and blinding squalls of rain to see the far-off spectacle across the broad waters of Spithead. As the vessels approached their respective berths alongside the jetties of the dockyard they were promptly moored, and in a very few minutes discharged all their passengers. A special train was in waiting to convey away the members of the two Houses, who had been sumptuously entertained on board the Euphrates as guests of the Admiralty. No accident of any kind it is believed, occurred throughout the day, and no small credit is due to those responsible, when the crowded state of the harbour and the strong tide which sweeps in and out are taken into consideration. Except that the weather was not propitious, everything went off most satisfactorily.

Our Illustration shows the Thunderer and other turret-ships and monitors to the right hand of the spectator, with the Admiral's flag-ship and the rest of the starboard division on the other side; the Royal yacht is approaching between them. The yards of the ships in the starboard division are manned by the sailors, cheering the Queen as she passes by; while the men on board the Thunderer, and other ships without any square sails, are assembled on the upper decks, and on the turrets, to greet her Majesty in the same fashion. In the front of this view is seen one of the beautiful and swift torpedo-boats constructed by Messrs. Yarrow, of Millwall, whose performance was greatly admired.

The boys and girls of St. Mary's Schools, Lambeth, were entertained yesterday week in the archiepiscopal grounds to their usual annual summer fête.

THE BRITISH ASSOCIATION.

At the meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science in Dublin on Thursday week the Mathematical and Physical Science Section was opened without a formal address, in consequence of the absence of the president, Dr. Salmon, who remains at Manchester, owing to an accident. There were proceedings in the Geological, the Zoological, the Economic Science, and the Geographical Sections. The main feature in the day's proceedings was Sir C. Wyville Thomson's address at the Geography Section, in which he dealt with the brilliant results of Mr. Stanley's African expedition. Referring to Arctic and other explorations of the last quarter of a century, he declared that their result had been to give us an improved idea of the physical conditions of the ocean, two facts especially being made clear—in the first place, that there was a deposit of a chalky character going on some few hundred miles from land; and, secondly, that the ocean averaged 2000 fathoms in depth, and nowhere exceeded 5000. When the sectional business was over there was a garden party at the Viceregal Lodge, Phœnix Park, given by the Lord Lieutenant and the Duchess of Marlborough. All the chief members of the Association were present. Among the guests were also the Duke and Duchess of Leinster, the Marquis and Marchioness of Headfort, the Marquis of Drogheda, the Marquis of Kildare, and other distinguished persons.

An interesting discussion took place yesterday week on the subject of the antiquity of man, in the course of which it was admitted that some supposed prehistoric human remains were really those of quadrupeds. The same subject was revived in an address delivered by Professor Huxley on anthropology. He maintained that there was abundant evidence of the existence of man in ages antecedent to the historic, and said that the great questions and problem raised by Darwin with respect to animals were applicable to man. The data for solving the problem were in course of collection, and he believed that it would be solved one day. Papers were read on physiology, geography, and other subjects of interest. A most interesting paper was read in the department of zoology by Sir John Lubbock on the habits of ants. Sir John stated that he had kept thirty species of ants in confinement. They throve well; and he had specimens which he had kept since 1874. They were probably bred in the previous year, and were now, therefore, five years old. A peculiar feature of interest in these insects was resemblance to human beings in many social respects. There were, for example, slave-making ants, which, in one case at least were entirely dependent on their slaves, and would perish even in the midst of plenty if left to themselves. He had kept some of these ants, however, alive for months by giving them a slave for an hour a day to clean and feed them. These ants represented an abnormal, and perhaps only a temporary, state of things, for it was not improbable that the slave-making species would eventually find it impossible to compete with those which were more self-dependent and had reached a higher phase of civilisation. They found in the different species various conditions of life curiously answering to the earlier stages of human progress, such as the hunting and the pastoral, and even to the agricultural. Some species lived principally on the produce of the chase, and they probably retained the habits once common to all ants. They resemble the lower races of men, who subsist mainly by hunting. Like these, they live in comparatively small communities, and the instinct of collective action was little developed among them. They hunted singly, and their battles were single combats, like those of man in his early history. Another species might be compared to the pastoral stage of human progress, to the races that live on the produce of their flocks and herds. Their communities were more numerous, they acted more in concert, their battles were no more single combats, but they knew how to act in combination. Sir John's opinion was that they would gradually exterminate the hunting species, just as savages disappeared before more advanced races.

Little sectional work was attempted on Saturday, nearly all the members being absent on excursions. A party of fifty, under the direction Lord Talbot de Malahide, visited the seat of the Earl of Charlemont at Fairview, and Malahide Castle. Another party, under the conductorship of Professor Hull, went to Bray Head, and were entertained at luncheon by the Earl of Meath. One of the most interesting trips was made to Maynooth Catholic College; and Carton, the seat of the Duke of Leinster. Phœnix Park, Howth, was visited by seventy-five excursionists, under the guidance of Professor Mahaffy. Other trips were made to Dublin Bay and Glencree. A banquet was given in the evening by the Lord Mayor of Dublin to the members of the Association in the Round Room of the Mansion House, his Lordship being supported on his right by the Lord Lieutenant, and on the left by Mr. Spottiswoode, the President of the Association. Among those present were Lord O'Hagan, Viscount Gough, Lord Talbot de Malahide, the Lord Chief Justice of Ireland, Chief Justice Morris, &c. The winners of the Elcho Shield were present, the trophy which they had won at the last Wimbledon meeting being exhibited over the Lord Mayor's seat. The speakers included the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, Mr. Spottiswoode, the President of the Association, the Earl of Rosse, and Mr. Shaw Lefevre, M.P. The Lord Lieutenant, in replying to the toast of his health, referred in congratulatory terms to the advance which science had made, and to the satisfactory work performed by the Association during the past year.

On Monday morning the Association was early astir. Before nine o'clock a number of the principal members proceeded to the Zoological Gardens, in the Phœnix Park, where they were entertained at breakfast by the president and council of the Zoological Society. Among the more important subjects dealt with in the sections were an account by Captain Burton of his recent wanderings in the East; a paper on the island of Cyprus, by Dr. Phené; a description by Professor Forbes of an instrument for measuring fire-damp in mines; and an address by Mr. W. H. Preece on recent advances in telegraphy. At a general meeting of the council, held in the afternoon, Sheffield was chosen as the town in which the next meeting of the Association is to be held. According to an understanding previously arrived at, Swansea was selected for the place of holding the meeting of 1880. Dr. Allman was elected president of the next annual meeting.

The Association was kept very busy on Tuesday; the subjects dealt with including the progress of the geological survey of Ireland, polar explorations, the habits and customs of the tribes of tropical aborigines, ancient races generally and their traditions, and electric lighting. Professor Huxley presided at the Anthropological Section, and made some observations on a paper read by M. Henri Martin. In the course of a discussion to which the paper on electric lighting gave rise, Professor Briggs, of Washington, mentioned that electric lights were used in the House of Representatives and at the Pennsylvania railway station, and that the cost was one thirty-fourth part of that which would be paid for gas. The Dublin University at an extraordinary comitia conferred the degree of Doctor of Law upon Mr. W. Spottiswoode, Professor H. Smith, Mr. P. C. Janssen, Mr. M. Simpson, Mr. A. W. Williamson, Mr. J. Evans, Sir John Lubbock, Mr. J. D. Hooker, Professor W. H. Flower, Professor Huxley, Professor Wyville Thomson, and Mr. J. Thomson. At the conversazione of the Royal Irish Academy in the evening there was an immense audience. In the President's reception-room there were exhibited reproductions of ancient Irish objects; in the museum, bronze, iron, stone, and wooden antiquities; in the strong room, gold antiquities; and in the crypt, bronze curiosities, canoes, and ogham stones. In the passage to the Mansion House the library of the poet Moore, which is in the possession of the Academy, was shown. All the celebrities of the British Association were present.

Wednesday brought the meeting to a close Many of the members attended the breakfast given by the Irish Zoological Society at the Gardens, in Phœnix Park. Professor Haughton made a humorous speech on this occasion, descriptive of the struggles the Zoological Society has had to keep up its existence. The remaining papers were read, and some of them discussed, and the other proceedings were of a routine character. Grants of money were made for scientific purposes. The President, at the closing meeting, stated that the magnitude of this year's gathering was unprecedented in the history of the Association. The tickets sold numbered two thousand five hundred and seventy-eight. Votes of thanks were accorded to the Provost of the University, the Lord Mayor, and the local secretaries. The meeting was adjourned till Aug. 16, 1879, at Sheffield.

ARCHÆOLOGY AT WISBECH.

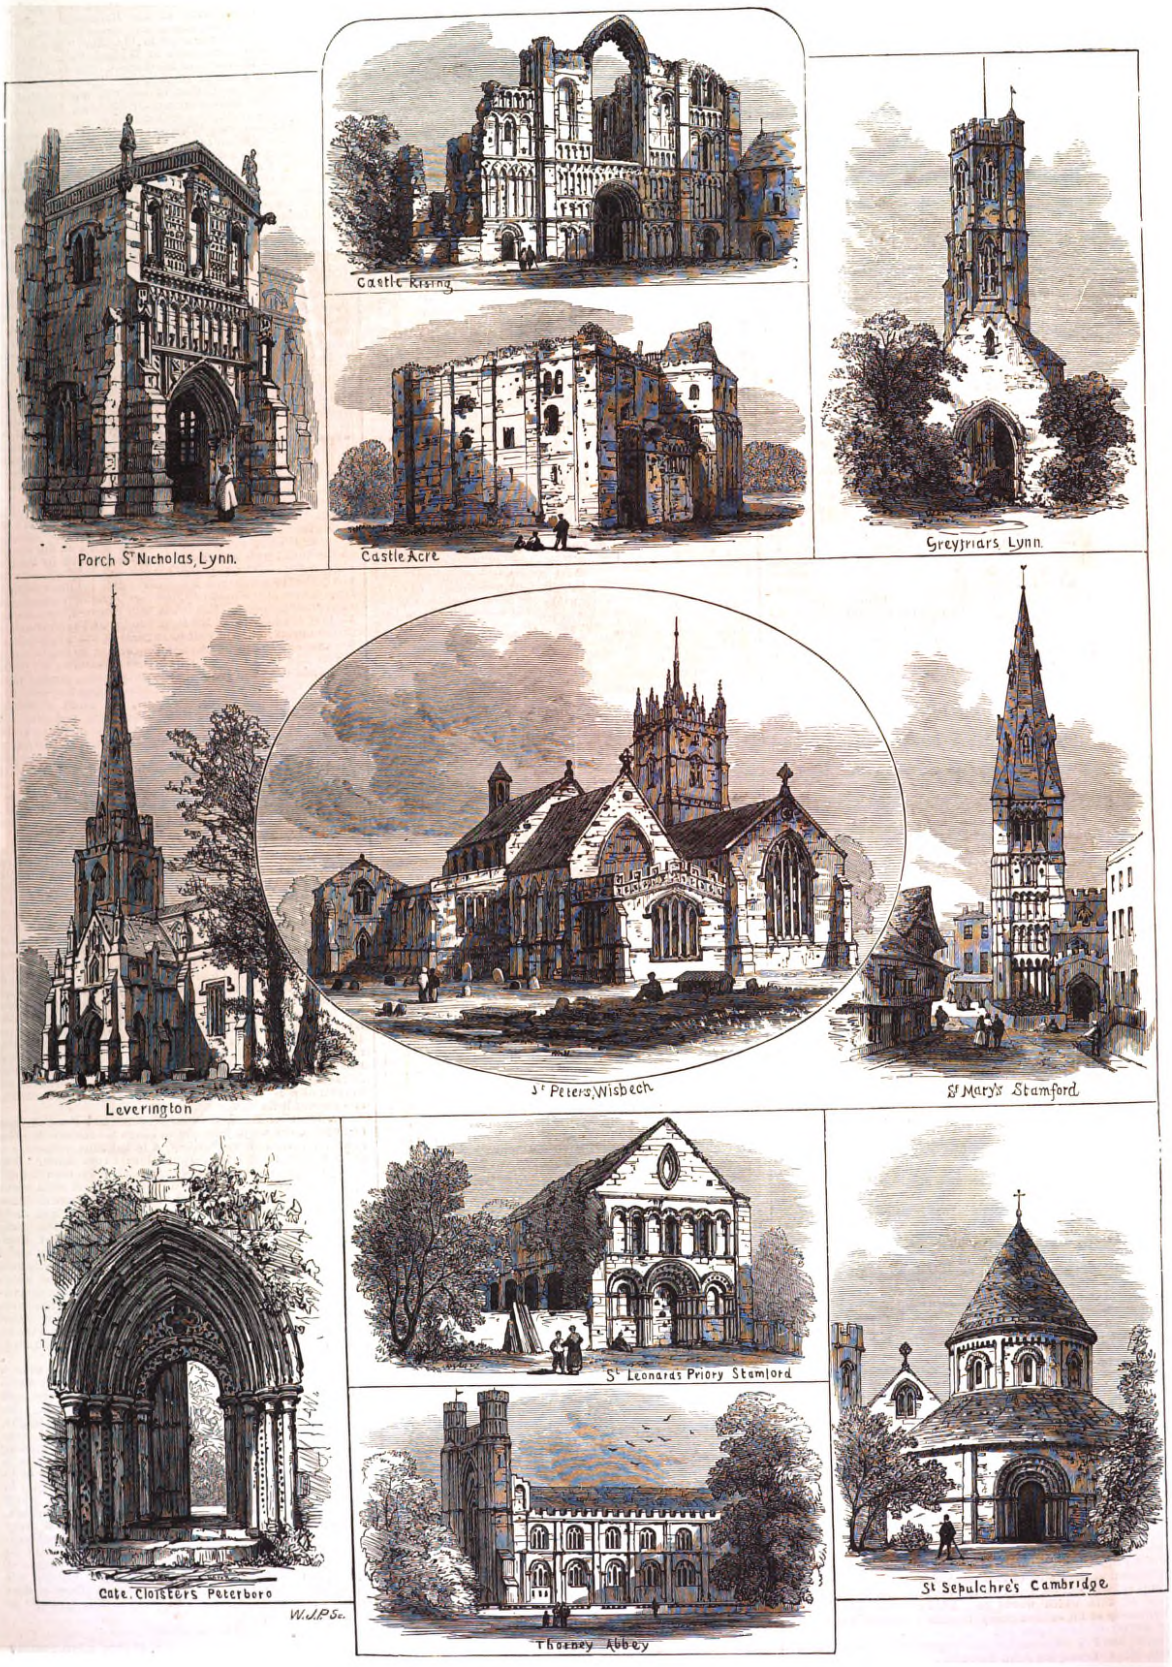
The British Archæological Association opened its annual Congress on Monday last in the town of Wisbech, in the centre of the Fen Country, under the presidency of the Earl of Hardwicke, Lord Lieutenant of Cambridgeshire. The Mayor and Corporation of that town gave its learned visitors a courteous and hospitable reception. Lord Hardwicke, in his opening address, spoke of the condition of the Fen Country in pre-historic times, and also within the era of history, showing how in very distant ages—many thousand years ago—the Isle of Ely and the surrounding district was a waste and boggy swamp, and how it was reclaimed by pious men and women, such as Guthlac and St. Etheldreda, and by those whom they had civilised; how in the Saxon and Norman times it had been the home of saints and of men of science; how the latter had gradually finished the work which the Romans had commenced, of draining off the waters; and how in later times these advantages had been lost by trying to make the natural subservient to the artificial drainage; and then how, lastly, an Earl of Bedford and other resident noblemen of this and neighbouring counties had charged themselves with the work of reclaiming the "Level"—a work which they had done with such success that over what was once a howling wilderness the harvest smiles, and the Fens are now one of the best corn-growing districts in England. His Lordship dwelt with considerable pride on the noble parish churches which adorn the Fens, in which he felt sure that his archæologist friends would find ample materials for study and research. He also mentioned in terms of high praise a work on the churches of the Fens and marsh lands, illustrated by photographs, and published by Messrs. Leach, of Wisbech. His Lordship added that the Prince of Wales had felt great pleasure in ordering his house at Sandringham to be thrown open to the Association.

We present, agreeably to our usual practice upon these occasions, a page of Engravings, from Sketches by our own Artist, showing a few of the most interesting architectural antiquities of Wisbech, Lynn Regis, Castle Rising, Castle Acre, Stamford, Thorney Abbey, Peterborough, and Cambridge, which are within reach of the excursions to be made by members of the Association this week and next week. They are nearly all situated within the area or on the borders of the South Fen Country—that is to say, south of the Wash—comprising the levels drained by the rivers Ouse, Nene, Welland, and their tributaries, and situated mostly in the counties of Huntingdon, Cambridge, and part of Norfolk, but extending over a corner of Northamptonshire to the Lincolnshire boundary. The North Fen Country, in Lincolnshire, principally occupying the lowlands on each side of the river Witham to its discharge into the Wash below Boston, is often considered as a separate region; yet there appear to be some grounds for viewing the whole Fenland, from Lincoln, at its northern extremity, to near Cambridge, at its southern termination, a distance of seventy-three miles, with an extreme breadth of half that space from Peterborough to Brandon in Suffolk, as one natural division in English physical geography. We may here refer, with very well deserved commendation, to the important work just produced by two joint authors, Mr. Samuel H. Miller and Mr. Sydney Skertchley (the latter of her Majesty's Geological Survey), entitled "The Fenland, Past and Present," a handsome volume published, in folio and in octavo, by Messrs. Leach and Son at Wisbech, and by Messrs. Longmans and Co. in Paternoster-row. It is a thorough scientific description of the entire region, its land and its water, its shores, its climate, its botany and zoology, its sanitary condition, its drainage, and its agricultural capabilities; besides which there are several chapters on its history in the successive British, Roman, Saxon, Danish, Norman, and modern English periods, with notes of a philological character, and some relating to local antiquities, particularly those of the monasteries that flourished in this part of England. The volume is furnished with serviceable maps and plans, and is adorned with a large number of lithographs and wood engravings, photographs of drawings, and one chromo-lithograph of the "Sunrise at Crowland," which render it not less attractive than instructive. We may, perhaps, have a future opportunity of citing this valuable work, which ought certainly to be in the possession of all who feel any interest in that remarkable portion of our country; but our present concern is rather with the places visited by the British Archæological Association.

Wisbech, a town of nine or ten thousand inhabitants, is situated on the Nene, a few miles above its estuary in the Wash, forty miles north of Cambridge, about twenty miles east of Peterborough and Spalding, and eighty-seven miles from London. It is a shipping port for vessels of 500 tons, and has a flourishing corn trade, enjoying also communication with the Great Northern, Midland, and Great Eastern Railways, and having its own tramways on the quays and river banks. The old church of St. Peter and St. Paul, which is figured in the centre of our page of Illustrations, is a large edifice of mixed Early English and Perpendicular styles, with a square tower, chancel, double nave, transept, and south porch. The Vicar, who is the Rev. Canon Scott (a brother of the late Sir Gilbert Scott), read to the Archæological Association some notes of the history of the building prepared by Sir Gilbert Scott himself. He gave a description of its chief structural peculiarities, its monuments, and other relics of antiquity, drawing attention to the flat roof which covered antiquity, drawing attention to the flat roof which covered both of its twin naves, and which he had little doubt was pre-Reformation and original work. Mr. Loftus Brock and Mr. Bloxham spoke briefly on the same subject, the former also drawing attention to the unique instance of an old Roman Catholic altar-stone being used in the chancel on the top of the communion-table. The stone is still to be seen in situ, but marked with only three instead of five crosses, as is usual. The communion-table, which was set up in the nave of this church at the Reformation, and now kept in the vestry, was shown and commented on; and the visitors were much interested in the fine "brass" of Sir Thomas Baunstone, constable of Wisbech Castle, which lies on the floor in the centre of the chancel. The beautiful tower came in for its share of admiration. There could be little doubt, as was agreed, that it was the work of that great mediæval prelate and statesman, Dr. Moreton, Bishop of Ely, and afterwards Archbishop of Canterbury.

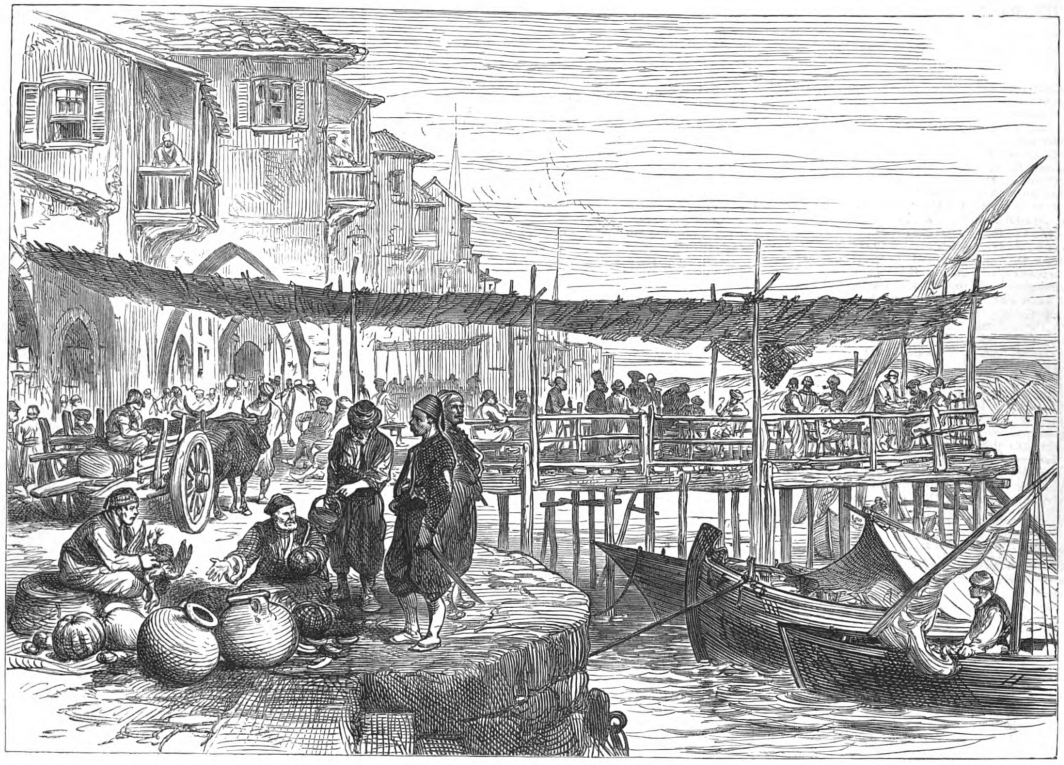
A mile or two from Wisbech is the village of Leverington, where the Association examined some Early English barrows that had been opened for their inspection, and a portion of the Roman fosse and agger still remaining. We give an Illustration of Leverington Church. This is a fine specimen of ecclesiastical architecture, with a perpendicular nave and open timber roof, an Early English chancel and sedilia, and a large decorated eastern window. The font, of rich perpendicular work, with figures under canopies in the upper part and also on the stem, and the southern porch, with its "parvise" and ogee arch, and its fine Early English tower, were much admired.

The excursions for this week were to Ely and its majestic Cathedral on Tuesday; to King's Lynn and Castle Rising, possibly to Sandringham, on Wednesday; to Swaffham, Castle Acre, and again to King's Lynn, on Thursday; to Thorney and Crowland Abbeys, Deeping, and Spalding, on Friday; to Stamford, Burghley House, and Peterborough, on Saturday; and on Monday the Association will visit Cambridge.



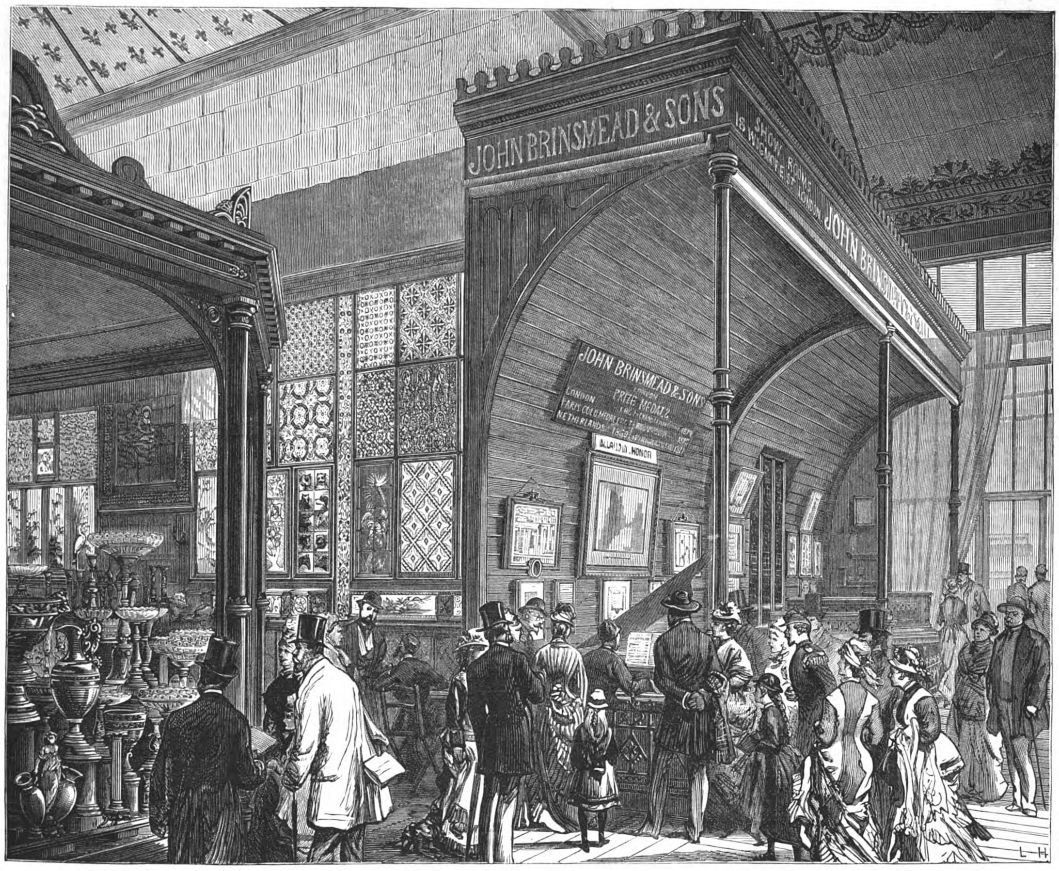
Lynn Regis, or King's Lynn, the chief town of West Norfolk, and the chief seaport of the South Fen Country, is situated on the Ouse estuary, nearly a hundred miles from London, about sixteen from Wisbech, and has a population of 17,000 souls. Its harbour and dock give accommodation to a large amount of shipping, mostly employed in the corn and coal trades. It is a terminal station for three important systems of railway communication throughout the Eastern Counties. The municipality has enjoyed its privileges since the time of King John, and has always sent its two members to Parliament. There are fragments remaining of the old town wall, the south gate with its tower and triple archway, and an octagonal tower on the Red Mount, overlooking the fosse on the east side of the town, with a pleasant boulevard shaded by lime and chesnut trees. The principal old church, St. Margaret's, formerly that of a Priory, is a fine old Gothic structure, with two large towers at the west end, and consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, and transepts. But it has been deprived, by a storm in 1741, of the lofty spire, 258 ft. in height, that surmounted one of the towers; and the central lantern, at the intersection of the nave and transepts, was also demolished by the fall of the spire. The nave and aisles have been restored by Sir Gilbert Scott, and the chancel by Mr. Ewan Christian, for the Ecclesiastical Commissioners. St. Nicholas's chapel-of-ease is an edifice of late Perpendicular style, the porch of which is shown in our Illustration; it has a beautiful new spire. We also give a sketch of the hexagonal tower of the old Grey Friars' monastery, near St. James's Hospital. Lynn was under the peculiar jurisdiction of the Bishops of Norwich, and was called Lynn Episcopi till the reign of Henry VIII., who confiscated much of the ecclesiastical property, and changed the name to Lynn Regis. In the Civil Wars of Charles I. this town sided with the King, and was besieged in August, 1643, by the Earl of Manchester's army, which took it for the Parliament.

Four or five miles from Lynn is Castle Rising, a village that once stood on the seashore, like Winchelsea and Rye in Sussex, and had some maritime traffic, but is now separated from the sea by a broad tract of sand. The Castle, of which a stately remnant is shown in our Artist's Sketch, was built in 1176 by William de Albini. It has some historical interest as the place of confinement in which the unworthy Queen Isabella, widow of Edward II., ended her life, in 1358, twenty-seven years after the overthrow of her favourite, Mortimer. The town of Swaffham, fifteen miles south-east of Lynn, has an interesting old church, with tombs and monuments; and in its vicinity is Castle Acre, where are some remains of a Norman fortress, constructed by William de Warenne, son-in-law of William the Conqueror; and also the Priory of Cluny monks, a very magnificent establishment, which is the subject of our Illustration. It is of enriched Norman architecture, dating about the end of the twelfth century. The inclosure of this monastery occupies about thirty acres, in which are several fragments of its buildings. Castle Acre was allowed to fall to ruin, as a feudal stronghold, in the reign of Edward III., and has but little history belonging to it.



On the river Nene, between Wisbech and Peterborough, and upon a site which was once an isle in the midst of the fens and meres, stood Thorney Abbey, a Benedictine monastery of great wealth and dignity, founded in Saxon times. The Abbey Church, shown in one of our Sketches, has been restored by Mr. Blore, and serves a parish of two thousand souls, under the patronage of the Duke of Bedford. The architectural character of this church, a mixture of Norman and Early English, has been well preserved, and its interior is beautifully fitted up, with stained-glass windows, a sculptured altar-screen, and a fine organ. Thorney, which was once called Ankeridge, has been the scene of great local improvements, described by Mr. S. H. Miller, in "The Fenland," by which the sanitary and social condition of its people, and the agricultural prosperity of the place, have been remarkably benefited. It seems to be as well deserving of a visit from the Social Science Association as from the Archæological Association, and the Duke of Bedford merits some degree of public commendation for such an example.

Peterborough Cathedral, of which we can only show a cloister gate in a corner of the page of Engravings, will divide with Ely Cathedral the admiration of those visitors who care for the grandest architectural works in this district. Its west front, with its three noble arches of equal height, rising to 81 ft., surmounted by gables with rose windows and flanked by turrets with spires, has nothing like it in England, and the portico of the middle door is very beautiful in detail. But this is not the occasion for us to describe the cathedral, and we have little to say of the gate in the cloister, formerly leading to the Abbot's Lodge, which our Artist has sketched. To the north-west of Peterborough, over the Lincolnshire border, is Stamford, which has many features of interest for the amateurs of antiquarian topography. Our Illustrations represent St. Leonard's Priory, with its stately front of Norman arches, and the tower and steeple of St. Mary's Church. The British Archæological tourists will find much to discourse upon in these famous places of East Anglia, which are associated with many stirring passages of our national history.



The Saddlers' Company have given £10 10s. to the 2nd City of London Volunteers.

BRITISH ARCHÆOLOGICAL ASSOCIATION AT WISBECH: SKETCHES OF PLACES IN THE NEIGHBOURHOOD.

WATERSIDE CAFÉ AT THE MARINA, LARNACA, CYPRUS.
FROM A SKETCH BY OUR SPECIAL ARTIST.

MESSRS. BRINSMEAD'S PIANOFORTES IN THE PARIS EXHIBITION.

THE PARIS EXHIBITION.

The engagement, at the Paris Exhibition, of the Chevalier de Lontski, Messrs. Augustus Tamplin, Joseph Rummel, the Baron Mora, and other celebrated pianists, has attracted numerous admiring audiences to the pianoforte stand of Messrs. John Brinsmead and Sons, of Wigmore-street, London. The French papers have been unanimous in their expressions of admiration of these splendid instruments. The two Grands especially have enchanted the Parisian professors and amateurs of music by their noble sonorousness, their enormous power, and the sympathetically voicelike quality of tone. The touch, also, is beautifully light, elastic, and certain, so that many pianists of every nation, from the Abbé Liszt downwards, who have tried these instruments, have highly complimented the enterprising manufacturers on their success. We give an Illustration of Messrs. Brinsmead's place in the Exhibition. The two Grands in the foreground are each nine feet in length, and extend in compass from seven octaves to seven and a half. The improvements are too numerous to describe in detail, but it has been necessary to embody them in several patents recognised throughout Europe and America. Vigorous attempts have been made to perfect every portion of these instruments, and the whole has been constructed on entirely new principles throughout. The "perfect check repeater action" renders the mechanism durable and perfect; "the new complete metal framing" ensures the durability and strength of the case, in spite of a great increase in the length of the strings; "the new sostinente sounding board" produces a lovely "singing" and grandly powerful quality of tone; while "the sympathetic bridge of reverberation" assists in the sustaining power, and "the sustaining pedal" enables the performer to produce beautifully sustained effects, without the confused roar that has hitherto been attendant on the employment of the forte pedal. These improvements are also contained in the upright, the oblique, the cross-strung oblique, and the upright iron grand pianofortes that are shown by Messrs. Brinsmead in Class 13 of the present Exhibition.

BOOKS ABOUT INDIA.

Thoroughness covers a multitude of sins; and thoroughness, with few sins to cover, beyond the omission of an index, is chief among the characteristics which distinguish Burma, Past and Present, by Lieutenant-General Albert Fytche, C.S.I. (C. Kegan Paul and Co.), two volumes written to a considerable extent in the autobiographical style and based, as regards their contents, partly upon "ancient Burmese chronicles and old Portuguese historians" and partly upon personal reminiscences and experiences, such reminiscences and experiences, full of weight and authority, as have long remained stored in the memory and recorded among the notes of one who "landed in India as a young Ensign in 1839," and "left it as Chief Commissioner of British Burma in 1871." There are numerous illustrations, coloured and uncoloured, to enliven, embellish, and elucidate the text; there is a large and useful "map of Burma and adjacent countries, with routes of various explorers;" and there are no fewer than six appendices containing copies of official and other documents referring to matters of great importance. The gallant author, it appears, had a sort of hereditary or ancestral connection with India, and even with Burma; for he is of the name and lineage, orthography to the contrary notwithstanding, of that Ralph Fitch who is said to have been the first Englishman to travel through India and Burma, about 1583-91, and of that William Fytche, East India merchant, who "was President of the English settlement at Calcutta in 1752, just four years before the tragedy of the Black Hole." It must have been, then, with peculiar feelings, as of one who treads in the footsteps of his ancestors, that our gallant author stepped, in 1839, on board the ship which was to bear him, and together with him the famous John Nicholson, to whom the Sikhs in after years looked up as a demi-god, over the weary waste of sea between England and Calcutta. His departure took place, in other respects, under more flattering auspices than was usual with the ordinary "griffin," for it was made the subject of some verses written by his cousin Charles Tennyson, now, by change of name, Charles Turner, brother of the Poet Laureate. Strangely enough, the first place at which he was posted was Berhampore, "the military station near Moorsherabad," so that he was "in the neighbourhood of Cossimbazaar, where William Fytche had been chief of the English Factory." But it was not long before "rumours were afloat that a war was impending with the King of Burma;" he applied and received employment, being "sent off to Burma, and ordered to do duty with the Arakan local battalion." And thus began his acquaintance with the country in which he was one day to fill so high a position, and of which he has written so interesting and so valuable an account. That account commences with some "historical sketches of Burma," bringing matters down to the time, in 1841, when our author was ordered to Arakan. These sketches are followed by a chapter devoted to "personal reminiscences of Arakan, Bassein, and Tenasserim." Then comes a chapter descriptive of the author's "mission to Mandalay, 1867," and containing a "narrative of former missions to the Kings of Burma." After this we have three chapter dealing respectively with the "physical geography o British Burma, including area, character of the surface, climate, temperature, and botanical productions," with "agriculture, manufactures, trade, and finance," and with the "ethnography of the inhabitants of Burma, and of the neighbouring hill tribes." So much for the contents of the first volume, of which enough has been said to justify the remark made at the commencement of this notice as to the spirit of thoroughness whereby the author appears to have been inspired. The second volume begins with a chapter concerning "language and literature," with a specimen of "Burmese writing" in a character "not understanded of the people" of this country and with a "translation of a Burmese drama." The second chapter is occupied with "physical description and habits and customs of the Burmese;" the third with an account of "four years administration of British Burma, 1867-1871;" the fourth and last with a dissertation upon "Buddhism and education in Burma;" and the rest of the volume is taken up by the hereinbefore-mentioned extensive but instructive and serviceable appendices. Whether the gallant author writes as a man under authority, having had soldiers and civilians under him and a difficult province to administer, or simply as a member of an honourable profession, having seen men and cities, having met with personal adventures, and having heard what is worth repeating from trustworthy sources, he is always pleasant to read, though, of course, he is more profitable when he draws his material from the storehouse of his official experience. He found duelling no longer very rife in the Indian Army, though a duel was occasionally brought off even in his time, and he mentions one case which exhibits the absurdity of the practice in a very strong light. Indeed it is probable that duelling, for which a great deal may be and has been said, owes its extinction as a national custom among us quite as much to the ridiculous aspect it assumed through the behaviour of roysterers, swaggerers, and hair-splitting exponents of the code of honour, as to the serious objections and arguments of more reasonable beings. Expense, however, seems to have had something, if not everything, to do with the efforts made by the late East India Company to stop the practice. "They were actuated," we are told, "partly by a laudable desire to prevent their servants from slaughtering each other, and partly from the loss which a killed or disabled officer brought on the public treasury": for "whenever an officer was killed another officer had to be sent up country, at a vast expense, to fill his place, whilst another one was sent out from England," so that, very naturally, "the Court of Directors grew irritated and alarmed," and "issued the most peremptory orders that any officer convicted of fighting a duel should be cashiered." If, however, our gallant author found himself tolerably free from those perils among his own countrymen and his brother officers to which he would have been exposed in a friendly way during the "good old times," he, what with actions in the field, and with expeditions against dacoits, and with sporting affairs among tigers and "demon" elephants and other dangerous beasts, frequently carried his life in his hand; and he has many exploits and escapes to recount. In connection with the author's services in the district of Bassein it is pleasant to come upon a handsome acknowledgment of the assistance rendered by Captain Rennie and other officers of the late Indian Navy, whose history, as written by Lieutenant Low, was recently noticed in these columns. Of Burmese athletic sports a short but entertaining account is given; of their rowing and boat-racing, of their football, and of their boxing and wrestling. It is impossible, however, to understand how "dead heats" can be "avoided," as our author declares that they are, in the boat-races, by the "simple device" he describes at p. 85 of the second volume. A "dead-heat," if true, and a true "dead-heat" does surely sometimes occur, would, according to his description, cause the two bunches of leaves to be grasped by two men at the same moment, if they were equally alert, as they ought to be, and the result would be a case of "pull devil, pull baker," so that the occurrence of the "dead-heat" would be plainly demonstrated. This, however, is but a small matter, and not worthy of being dwelt upon. The book is excellent, and deserves to meet with general acceptance.

A lovely frontispiece, representing "the Taj, Agra," at once prepossesses the possible reader in favour of Our Life and Travels in India, by W. Wakefield, M.D. (Sampson Low and Co.), a large, a sightly, and a full volume, containing a vast amount of more or less desirable information, gathered from many sources besides personal experience, but lacking, unfortunately, that index which would have doubled and more than doubled the value and the tangibility of the information. The author's profession would naturally induce him to look at certain matters from a point of view not generally adopted by the many writers who have preceded him in his field of observation; and in that respect, if in no other, his work is invested with some sort of originality and with some appearance of novelty. He commences his narrative "from the egg;" and that egg he hatches both personally and by means of artificial incubation, for which he is indebted to other authors, until a full-fledged record, of very imposing size, presents itself for the reader's gratification. We learn at the outset that the author, having in the summer of 1873 "received the appointment of staff-surgeon in the island of Guernsey," was, after but five months' pleasant tenure of his office, "curtly" ordered to India, for which distant land he and his wife set sail on Jan. 8, 1874, on board of the Serapis. Then follows a description of "life on the ocean wave," succeeded by sketches of Malta, Port Said, the Suez Canal, and Aden; and it is only at the end of the second chapter that we are landed at Bombay. Next comes an epitomised history of Hindustan, occupying another chapter. The author may then be said to resume his personal narrative, though he still continues to mingle with the story of his own and his wife's daily life liberal contributions levied upon standard works relating to "the principal cities of India," and to "the history, religions, and manners and customs of the natives." Nor let it be supposed that this manner of proceeding is mentioned with any intention of bringing the author into discredit or of reflecting upon him in any way; on the contrary, it is mentioned for the sole purpose of showing how much more there is in the book than the title might lead readers to expect, and how good an opportunity they have of picking up in a pleasant manner a fair amount of solid knowledge intermingled with agreeable gossip about the domestic and other experiences of two private individuals. Of life in India there are few, if any, details upon which the author does not touch; and upon very many he descants at considerable, but by no means tedious, length. On some subjects, not of the first importance perhaps, but nevertheless of no little interest, he gives, so far as memory bears him witness, information which is quite unique—as regards the lottery in connection with horse-racing, for instance. What he says about cholera and about the practice of medicine in India derives weight and attraction from his professional capacity. As to Esau, it is probable that readers will regret the comparative scantiness of the records concerning him. And if anybody should wish to know who Esau was, the answer is not far to seek. He was a person whom the author and his wife might, with the exaggeration of Oriental parlance, have described as their "father and mother:" he was, in fact, their "khansamah," or butler, at Faizabad, which is the principal town, after Lucknow, in the province of Oudh. He was a Madras Christian, thoroughly acquainted with his duties, scrupulously honest, a fluent speaker of English, a most devout Roman Catholic, given to the study of his Hindustani Bible, shaping his course of life thereby, save that he could not conceal his Pharisaical pride in not being as other men are, and especially as those "niggers," of whom, however, notwithstanding the term he applied to them, he was in reality the very blackest. His master and mistress, through "his care and devotion during a trying time of sickness and sorrow," he placed under an "everlasting debt of gratitude." It is very delightful to find this fact so simply and ungrudgingly recorded. Poor Esau appears to have had his romance. It so happened that his master and mistress had with them an English maid whose name, there is reason to believe, was Curtis; and she, after the fashion of her kind, must needs succumb to matrimony. So she was married to a Sergeant-Major of the Royal Artillery; and Esau, "being a Christian, was present in the church, where, arrayed in a gala costume of a long white garment," says the author, "with high shirt-collar, and his turban off his head in deference to the sacredness of the edifice, he stood apart, with a dismal expression on his black face, the most dejected-looking native it was ever our fortune to behold." He never told his love, perhaps; but he confided to his master and mistress that he "was very fond on the Courtis." Altogether, it would be difficult to mention a single book in which a reader will find so much, in so compact a form, and so pleasantly related, about the places, the peculiarities, and the general life of India.

METROPOLITAN NEWS.

All the children belonging to the Deaf and Dumb Asylum, in the Old Kent-road, and their teachers, were entertained at dinner and tea at the Crystal Palace on the 15th inst. by Mr. Richard Winch, a member of the committee.

The twenty-fourth annual fête of the Ancient Order of Foresters, in aid of the Widows' and Orphans' Fund of that society, was held on Tuesday at the Crystal Palace. Although the numbers present fell far short of the figures of a few years since, yesterday's festival upon the whole may be pronounced a success.—A fête of a popular character, in aid of the funds of the Metropolitan and City Police Orphanage, took place at the Alexandra Palace on Wednesday.

The weekly return of metropolitan pauperism shows that the total number of paupers on the last day of the second week of August was 75,845, of whom 38,173 were in workhouses and 37,642 received outdoor relief. Compared with the corresponding weeks in 1877, 1876, and 1875 respectively, these figures show a decrease of 1038, 1012, and 6915. The number of vagrants relieved on the last day of the week was 633, of whom 392 were men, 186 women, and 55 children under sixteen.

The coaching season is drawing to a close. The Orleans Club and the Portsmouth coaches have been taken off the road, and the Windsor coach ran its last journey this year on Saturday last. The London and Brighton coach will, however, continue running until the middle of September. On Monday the fifty-five horses which worked the coach running between London and Portsmouth this summer were sold by auction at Tattersall's. Several of these roadsters fetched over eighty guineas, and the entire stud averaged fifty guineas.

The medical colleges and schools of the metropolis will open on Tuesday, Oct. 1. At the Middlesex Hospital there will be an introductory address by Dr. Arthur W. Edis; at the Charing-cross Hospital, by Dr. James Pearson Irvine; at St. George's Hospital, by Dr. Thomas T. Whipham; at St. Mary's Hospital, by Dr. Robert Farquharson; at St. Thomas's Hospital, by Mr. Edward Nettleship, F.R.C.S. Eng.; at Westminster Hospital, by Mr. Charles Macnamara, F.R.C.S. Eng.; at King's College Hospital, by Professor Garrod, F.R.S.; at University College Hospital, by Professor Lankester, M.A., F.R.S.; and at the Dental Hospital of London Medical School, by Mr. A. Coleman, F.R.C.S. Eng., the senior surgeon.

A meeting of the council of the Hospital Sunday Fund was held on Tuesday afternoon at the Mansion House, for the purpose of receiving the report of the committee of distribution and ordering the payment of the awards made by them for the year 1878. The report stated that the total sum received in aid of the fund was about £25,000, and awards had been made of different amounts to seventy-nine hospitals and similar institutions, and sixty-two dispensaries, the total amount awarded being £24,600, and the balance is to be carried over to next year's fund. Alderman Sir Sydney Waterlow, the vice-president of the council, took the chair, and there were present the Bishop of London, the Rev. Canon Millar, the Rev. Mr. Walrond, Sir Rutherford Alcock, Mr. Jabez Hogg, Mr. Luke Hansard, Dr. Glover, Dr. Sedgwick Sanders, and several other members of the committee. The Bishop of London moved that the report be agreed to, and the different awards paid at once, and this was agreed to.

There were 2421 births and 1517 deaths registered in London last week. Allowing for increase of population, the births exceeded by 21, while the deaths were 59 below, the average numbers in the corresponding week of the last ten years. The fatal cases of smallpox, which had been 18 and 14 in the two previous weeks, further declined last week to 9, a lower number than in any week since the beginning of November last. Five fatal cases (all of children) were certified as unvaccinated, and one adult case as vaccinated; in the three other cases the medical certificates gave no information as to vaccination. The Metropolitan Asylum Hospitals contained 236 smallpox patients on Saturday last, corresponding with the number at the end of the preceding week. The deaths referred to diarrhœa and simple cholera, which had been 494 and 351 in the two preceding weeks, further declined last week to 268, and were 28 below the corrected average number in the corresponding week of the last ten years: 190 were of infants under one year of age, and 50 of children aged between one and five years. Only 5 deaths last week were referred to simple cholera and choleraic diarrhœa, against 24 and 12 in the two preceding weeks: 3 were adult cases, all of which were certified as choleraic diarrhœa. There were 10 deaths from measles, 27 from scarlet fever, 11 from diphtheria, 60 from whooping-cough, and 17 from different forms of fever. In the Greater London 2884 births and 1851 deaths were registered. The mean temperature was 62·2 deg. Rain fell on six days of the week to the aggregate amount of 1·08 in. The duration of registered sunshine in the week was 41·1 hours, the sun being above the horizon during 102·3 hours.

The fourth annual prize meeting open to the Army, Navy, auxiliary forces, and all comers, has been held this week at Browndown, Gosport. Prizes of the value of £450 were offered, and the competitors entered number nearly 2500.

The Admiralty have issued a fresh order impressing on commanding officers of training-ships the absolute necessity for carrying out most strictly the regulations in 1869 for instructing boys in swimming.

English Opera will be heard in London again early in the New Year. At the close of the provincial tour of the Carl Rosa Opera Company (to be begun at Bristol on Sept. 2) Mr. Rosa will give a series of performances of Opera in English on a grand scale at her Majesty's Theatre. The répertoire will include one or more novelties new to England.

The Alert, which has been fitted out for a scientific cruise in the South Pacific, was on Tuesday morning commissioned by Captain Sir George Nares, K.C.B., and was afterwards inspected by Vice-Admiral Sir W. King Hall, K.C.B., the Commander-in-Chief at the Nore. Nearly the whole of the officers have been appointed, and the crew have joined.

Gray, who was cashier of the Bank of Mona, in the Isle of Man, and who is undergoing penal servitude for having stolen money from that establishment, has made a confession which has led to the discovery of nearly all the missing £8873. The greater portion of the money has been found concealed at the country residence of Gray, and the remainder in the grounds of the lady to whose daughter Gray had been engaged to be married.

Mr. Sclater-Booth on Saturday last opened a home for pauper children, which has been built, at a cost of £5000, by the Ipswich union, outside the town, and apart from the workhouse. He said he was glad to know that several unions had intimated their desire to avail themselves of the advantages which such a home presented. Provision had been made for teaching the children the trades of tailor and shoemaker, and he suggested the desirability of the children being taught the use of agricultural implements.

SOCIAL SCIENCE CONGRESS.

The arrangements for the Cheltenham Congress, to be held in October next, are complete as regards the filling up of the various presidencies of departments. Mr. A. E. Miller, Q.C., one of the Railway Commissioners, has undertaken to preside over the Jurisprudence Department; the Hon. George Brodrick that of Education; Mr. W. H. Michael, Q.C., F.C.S., will take the Health; Mr. Bonamy Price, Professor of Political Economy at Oxford, the Economy and Trade; Mr. T. Gambier Parry, that of Art; and the whole will be presided over by Lord Norton. The addresses of the presidents will be delivered one on each day of the congress.

The standing committees of the several departments have selected the special questions for discussion as follow:—

International and Municipal Law Sections. 1. The codification of the criminal law, with special reference to the Attorney-General's Bill. 2. Simplification of the evidences of title to real property, by record of title or otherwise. 3. Whether the extinction of all customary and other special tenures and the limitations of leasehold are not desirable.

Repression of Crime Section.—1. Should the summary jurisdiction of magistrates be further extended? 2. The consideration of the proceedings of the Stockholm International Prison Congress.

Education Department.—1. Is it expedient to increase the number of Universities in England? 2. Is it desirable to establish free primary schools throughout the country? 3. In what way is it desirable to connect the system of primary schools with the endowed and other schools that supply secondary education?

Health Department.—1. The importance of complete disinfection, and the best means of providing for it by sanitary authorities. 2. On the better regulation of house building generally, and the best mode of improving the sanitary condition of existing houses. 3. How best to overcome the difficulties of overcrowding among the necessitous classes.

Economy and Trade Department.—1. What are the economic principles that should regulate the borrowing powers of local corporations? 2. What are the causes of the present depressed and stagnant condition of industrial enterprise, and what are the best remedies? 3. What means can best be adopted to secure to the wage-earning classes a due provision for old age?

Art Department.—1. How can street architecture be best improved with due regard to economy? 2. How can a sound knowledge of music be best and most generally disseminated? 3. By what means can good examples of art be brought within the reach of the population of small towns and villages?

In addition to the above special questions, papers, volunteered on other subjects coming within the scope of the departments, will be read and discussed.

A bazaar and a horticultural exhibition, largely attended, was held at Lymington on Wednesday.

The Plymouth Town Council on Wednesday resolved, after nearly four hours' debate, to expend £7000 in rebuilding the theatre, which was burnt down in June, and which was Corporation property.

On Wednesday the Durham County Agricultural Society's annual show was held at South Shields. £1100 was offered as prizes, including fifty-two silver cups. The exhibition was one of the most successful ever held by the society.

A correspondent of the Times warns ladies against wearing green gloves, and mentions two cases in which blistering and swelling of the hands have been caused by what is supposed to be the use of arsenic in the colouring of the gloves.

Mr. Gladstone will deliver his address as Lord Rector of Glasgow University in the second week of November. The right hon. gentleman will be asked by the West and South-West of Scotland Liberal Association and the Glasgow Liberal Association to attend two meetings during his visit.

The Kilmalcolm Waterworks, Renfrewshire, were on the 15th inst. opened by Sir Michael Shaw Stewart, Bart. The total cost of the scheme is about £3300. The reservoir is situated about three miles from the town, and has a drainage area of about a thousand acres, with a water surface of fifty thousand square feet, the length of piping being four miles.

Archery has not been altogether neglected. The forty-fifth annual meeting of the Royal St. Leonards Archers was held yesterday week, and the Ladies' Victoria Challenge Prize was won by Miss A. Hickman, the gentlemen's falling to Mr. Henty. On Tuesday the last meeting this season of the Archers of the Tesne took place in the grounds of Ludlow Castle. The shooting was good; and the fair Archers were rewarded with a ball in the evening.

The summary of the Agricultural Returns of Great Britain for the present year, published on Tuesday night, states that the extent of land under cultivation for wheat is this year 1·6 per cent more than last year, barley 2·2 per cent more than last year, oats 2·0 per cent less than last year, potatoes 0·8 per cent less, and hops 0·8 per cent more. The number of live stock in the country shows little variation, being 5,738,476 cattle, 28,397,274 sheep, and 2,483,437 pigs.

AQUATICS.

The Commodore's Cup at the Royal Victoria Yacht Club Regatta was won yesterday week by the Jullanar. The Florinda and Corisande led at first, with the Jullanar just astern; and when the yachts disappeared round St. Helen's they stood in the following order:—Florinda, Corisande, Jullanar, Arrow, Ada, Hildegarde, Miranda, Elmina, Psyche, Phosphorus, Neva, Vol-au-Vent, Fiona, and Enchantress a long distance astern. Eventually the Jullanar came in first, and, notwithstanding the allowance of time to the other yachts, won the prize. The matches for cutters of 40 tons and upwards and yachts of 30 tons and under closed the regatta on Saturday, the Vol-au-Vent winning the first prize for the former, but only beating the Arrow by 14 sec.; the Vanessa having no difficulty in winning first prize in the latter match.

The Royal Albert Yacht Club took up the running on Monday, opening its regatta with the race for the Albert Cup, which was won by the Florinda, the Ada being second, and the Fiona, Jullanar, Vega, and Neptune also competing. In the 40-ton class, Myosotis never gave Christine a chance, and won very easily; and the 10-ton race was won by Florence after a good race with Volga. Swift won the match for 9-tonners. The regatta was concluded on Tuesday with two races and a couple of walks over. The schooner match for £80 was walked over by the Miranda of Mr. J. C. Lampson, and a prize of the value of £25 for cutters of 20 tons was walked over by the Vanessa of Mr. R. Borwick. For the £30 prize for cutters, the Arrow, Vol-au-Vent, Oimara, Neva, and Psyche started. There was a close finish at Southsea. The Arrow seemed to be winning easily, when the Vol-au-Vent gained on her, and won by forty seconds, after allowing for the time she received from the Arrow. In the Corinthian match for cutters not exceeding 20 tons, the Florence fouled the Warner light-ship, and the Maggie won easily, the Mildred being the other cutter.

A private match was sailed on Wednesday between the schooner Hildegarde, 195 tons, belonging to the Prince of Wales, and the Aline schooner, 216 tons, the property of Lord Hastings. A flying start was effected at eleven a.m., with a good breeze from the south-west. The Aline was very smart in getting up her canvas, the Hildegarde not being so quick. The yachts went away at a good pace, the Aline leading. The course was round the Isle of Wight. Towards the evening the wind died away, and the yachts had hard work to get down against flood tide. The Hildegarde arrived off Cowes Castle at 12h. 37 min. 7 sec., winning by 8 min. 32 sec.

The town regattas of the south and east coast are now being held. On Monday the aquatic festivities of Brighton, Deal, and Broadstairs afforded satisfaction to the visitors at those popular resorts. On Tuesday Shoreham and Sheerness followed suit, the presence of a large number of men-of-war's men adding to the interest of the latter. Worthing Regatta was decided on Wednesday; and Lowestoft Regatta was spread over Wednesday and Thursday. The Lowestoft Town Cup, value £105, with a purse of £30 presented by Mr. J. J. Colman, M.P., was won by the Coralie (Sir F. Gooch), the Kiama (Mr. W. Brown) being second.

A swimming-race for the 500-yards' amateur championship was decided on Tuesday evening in the Wenlock-road swimming-bath. Six good swimmers entered. J. Taylor, of Newcastle, beat the Londoners, winning by a foot from Mr. Avery, Mr. D. Ainsworth being third, Mr. Whittle fourth, and Mr. Daniels fifth. G. Fearn retired almost immediately after the start. Time, 8 min. 7¼ sec.

Another aquatic event. Lieutenant von Zubovitz was represented in the Illustrated London News of April 7, 1877, afloat on horseback in the Danube, at Vienna. The two Engravings, which thoroughly depicted his indiarubber saddle for enabling a horse to cross a river with ease, might have served to illustrate the Lieutenant's trip in the Thames from Vauxhall to Limehouse on the back of Mr. P. L. Henderson's horse Sultan yesterday week. Swimming down with the tide, the fine horse which carried the inventor in safety traversed the distance, between four and five miles, in about an hour and ten minutes.

Mrs. Gladstone distributed the prizes at the annual flower show at Hawarden on the 15th inst. In acknowledging a vote of thanks, Mr. Gladstone said he did not recollect any time when political opinions were more divided, or when those opinions touched greater or more serious matters than at present. England would, however, never be ruined, never even seriously damaged, except by the act of the people themselves. If the Government of the country were ever carried on to the prejudice or the damage of England, those really responsible would be not merely the Ministry of the day, but the Legislature who gave their confidence to that Ministry, and, above all, the nation who chose those members. So that it was of great importance that the people should do their best to make themselves competent to discharge their public duties. The right hon. gentleman also referred to the question of skilled labour, and dwelt particularly upon the importance of hand labour, which he considered had been too much neglected of late years, and advised his hearers to cultivate the higher forms of manual work in preference to seeking to escape from the ranks of toil and becoming clerks. He also dwelt upon the pleasures and advantages of cottage gardening.

NEW BOOKS AND PUBLICATIONS.

NEW AND POPULAR NOVELS.
Now ready, at all the Libraries, in 3 vols.,
THE BUBBLE REPUTATION. By KATHARINE KING, Author of "The Queen of the Regiment."
WOOD ANEMONE. By Mrs. RANDOLPH.
THE PRIMROSE PATH. By Mrs. OLIPHANT.
UNDER TEMPTATION. By the Author of "Cecil's Love Story," &c.
HIS LAST STAKE. By SHIRLEY SMITH.
HURST and BLACKETT, Publishers, 13, Great Marlborough-street.

Now ready, price 7d.,
THE MAGAZINE OF ART
for SEPTEMBER, containing—
At the Masquerade" .. By W. C. T. Dobson, R.A.
The Paris Exhibition .. With Seven Illustrations.
The Higher Life in Art .. By Wyke Bayliss, F.S.A.
Artists' Haunts.—Sark .. With Five Illustrations.
British Pictures at the Paris Exhibition. By Henry Blackburn. With Thumb-nail Sketches.
Sir John Gilbert .. With Portrait and Illustrations.
Horses in Relation to Art. With Illustrations.
The Royal Academy. With Engravings and Sketches.
Art Notes for September, &c.
CASSELL, PETTER and GALPIN, London; and all Booksellers.

NEW SERIES.
PORTRAITS OF DISTINGUISHED MEN.
Part VI., now ready, contains Portraits of Sir Sydney H. Waterlow, Bart., M.P., and Mr. William Black. Price One Shilling.
MACLURE and MACDONALD, Queen Victoria-street, E.C.; and all Booksellers.

POTTERY-PAINTING: a Handbook to the Practice. By JOHN C. L. SPARKES, Director of the Lambeth School of Art, &c. Second Edition. Post-free, 1s. 1d.—London: LECHERTIER, BARBE, and Co., 60, Regent-street, W. (Agents in England for Lacroix's Ceramic Colours).

VITREMANIE SUPERSEDING DIAPHANIE.—An easy and inexpensive Method of Decorating Windows in Churches, Public Buildings, and Private Dwellings, by which may be produced the Rich Colouring and Beautiful Designs of Real Stained Glass. Handbook of Designs and Instructions, 1s. 1d. Particulars post-free. Sole Inventors, J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-street, London, W.

By DR. BAIR MEADOWS, Physician to the National Institution for Diseases of the Skin. Seventh Edition, post-free, 32 stamps,
ERUPTIONS; their Rational Treatment, Remarks on the abuse of arsenic, mercury, and other reputed specifics.—London: G. HILL, 154, Westmin-ter Bridge-rd.

Large 8vo, pp. 724, 8s. post-free; or, a half morocco, 10s. 6d.,
THE HOMŒOPATHIC DOMESTIC PHYSICIAN. By Drs. DRYSDALE and EPPS.
CONTENTS:—General Diseases—Local Diseases—Cutaneous Diseases—Fevers—Affections of the Mind—the Head—the Eyes—the Ears—the Nose—the Face, Lips, and Jaws—the Teeth, Gums, and Mouth—the Windpipe and Chest—the Stomach and Bowels—the Urinary and Genital Organs—Diseases of Women—Treatment of Children—Anatomy and Physiology—Hygiene and Hydropathy—Materia Medica—Domestic Surgery—Medical and Surgical Appliances—Dislocations and Luxations—Fractures.
A Chest of Medicines, Book inclosed, £3 10s. or £6 6s.
JAMES EPPS and Co., 48, Threadneedle-st., and 170, Piccadilly

24th Edition, 8vo, cloth, pp. 1102, 16s.,
HOMŒOPATHIC DOMESTIC MEDICINE. By J. LAURIE, M.D. Completely rearranged and revised by R. S. Guttveridge, M.D. The most comprehensive Guide published for the use of families, emigrants, and missionaries, being free of all technicalities. The present edition contains, in addition to the symptoms and treatment of all general diseases, including those of Females and Children, many important new chapters, comprising, among others, the specific characteristic effects of all the new American remedies, plain Directions for the treatment of Accidents, and illustrations delineating the minor operations in surgery. Hydropathic Appliances, Affection of the Eyes (with a description of the Eyes and their Appendages, and Illustrations showing the various parts of the eye). Full directions are also given for the treatment of Diseases prevalent in Tropical Climates. A new and concise Dictionary of Medical Terms and Treatment, with leading indications of Treatment prefixed to the various chapters and divisions. An Epitome of the above, 20th Edition, price 2s.
A Case of Medicines adapted to the former Work, in tinctures or pillules, price £4 4s.; in globules, £3.
To the latter, tinctures or pillules, price £2 2s.; globules, £1 10s.
LEATH and ROSE, 5, St. Paul's-churchyard; and 9, Vere-street, W.

CANCER AND TUMOURS, A Successful Mode of Treating Certain Forms of. By ALEX. MARSDEN, M.D., Senior Surgeon to the Cancer Hospital, London. Price 8s. 6d.—J. and A. CHURCHILL, New Burlington-street.

NOW READY,
THE ILLUSTRATED
PENNY ALMANACK FOR 1879,
containing Twenty-four Engravings from the ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS of our Ironclads, the Cleopatra, Ostrich Farming, and other Foreign and Domestic Subjects; Tables of Stamps, Taxes, and Licenses; Eclipses, Remarkable Events, Post-Office Regulations, and a great variety of Useful and Interesting Information. The Trade supplied by G. VICKERS, Angel-court (172), Strand; and H. Williams, Warwick-lane, Paternoster-row, London.

RAPHAEL'S SET of CARTOONS in COLOURS.—The whole Set of Seven beautiful Chromos, mounted, size 34 by 24, complete for 10s. 6d. The greatest bargain ever offered to the public.—GEO. REES, 41, 42, 43, Russell-street, Covent-garden. Established quarter of a century.

FOR ARMS and CREST, send Name and County to T. MORING, Inns of Court Heraldic Offices, 44, High Holborn, W.C. Plain Sketch, 3s. 6d.; Coloured, 7s. 6d. Seals, Dies and Diplomas. Illustrated Price-Lists post-free.

GEOLOGY.—In the Preface to the Student's "Elements of Geology," by Sir Charles Lyell, price 9s., he says:—"As it is impossible to enable the reader to recognise rocks and minerals at sight by the aid of verbal descriptions or figures, he will do well to obtain a well-arranged collection of specimens, such as may be procured from Mr. TENNANT, 149, Strand, Teacher of Mineralogy and Geology." These collections are supplied on the following terms, in plain mahogany cabinets—

100 specimens, in cabinet, with three trays	..	£2	2 0
200 specimens, in cabinet, with five trays	..	5	5 0
300 specimens, in cabinet, with nine drawers	..	10	10 0
400 specimens, in cabinet, with thirteen drawers	..	21	0 0

More extensive collections, at 50 to 5000 guineas each.

MUSICAL-BOX DÉPÔTS, 56, Cheapside, and 22, Ludgate-hill, London.—Nicole's celebrated Musical Boxes, playing best secular and sacred music. Prices, £4 to £123. Snuff-boxes, from 18s. to 40s. Largest stock in London. Catalogue gratis and post-free. Apply to WALES & M'CULLOCH, as above.

CHIME CLOCK, fine piece of English Mechanism, eight bells and deep-sounding gong; perfect timekeeper, cheerful tone, and very handsome. Unusual bargain.—WALES and M'CULLOCH, 56, Cheapside.

THE BEST ENGLISH WATCHES.
GOLDSMITHS' ALLIANCE, Limited, request the attention of Purchasers to their PATENT LEVER WATCHES, which, being manufactured on the Premises, are confidently recommended for accuracy and durability.

Prices of Silver Watches.

Patent Lever Watch, jewelled, enamel dial, and seconds	£4 14 6
Ditto, jewelled in four holes, and capped	6 6 0
Ditto, the finest quality, jewelled in six holes ..	8 8 0

Silver Watches in Hunting Cases, 10s. 6d. extra.
Gold Watches.—Size for Ladies.

Patent Lever Watches, with gold dial, jewelled	11 11 0
Ditto, with richly engraved case	12 12 0
Ditto, with very strong case, and jewelled in four holes	14 14 0

Gold Watches.—Size for Gentlemen.

Patent Lever Watches, jewelled, seconds, and capped ..	13 13 0
Ditto, jewelled in six holes, and gold balance	18 18 0

Gold Watches in Hunting Cases, £3 3s. extra.
Lists of prices, with remarks on watches, gratis and post-free.
The Goldsmiths' Alliance (Limited), 11 and 12, Cornhill, London.

GOLDEN HAIR.—ROBARE'S AUREOLINE produces the beautiful Golden Colour so much admired. Warranted perfectly harmless. Price 5s. 6d. and 10s. 6d., of all Perfumers. Wholesale, HOVENDEN and SONS, 5, Great Marlborough-street, W.; and 93 and 95, City-road, E.C. London; Pinaud and Meyer, 37, Boulevard de Strasbourg, Paris; 31, Graben, Vienna; 44, Rue des Longs Chariots, Brussels.

DOES YOUR HAIR TURN GREY? Then use HERRING'S PATENT MAGNETIC BRUSHES and COMBS. Brushes, 10s., and 15s. each. Combs, 2s. 6d., 3s., 5s. 6d., 10s., 15s., and 20s. each. Pamphlets upon application.—5, Great Marlborough-st., W.; 93 and 95, City-road; and of all Perfumers.

NUDA VERITAS.—GREY HAIR restored by this valuable specific to its original shade, after which it grows the natural colour, not grey. Used as a dressing, it causes growth and arrests falling. The most harmless and effectual restorer extant. One trial will convince it has no equal. Price 10s. 6d., of all Chemists and Hairdressers. Testimonials post-free.—R. HOVENDEN and SONS, London.

SILKS and DRESS FABRICS.
All kinds of Silks (Newest), from 1s. 11½d.
DRESSES.
All kinds of Dresses (Newest), from 10½d. yard.
COSTUMES.
All kinds of Costumes (Newest), from 21s.
ULSTERS.
All kinds of Ulsters (Newest), from 8s. 9d.
CASHMERES.
All the Newest Cashmeres, from 1s. 11½d
Patterns, Engravings of all goods free.
BAKER and CRISP'S, 198, Regent-street.

NICKNACKS for LADIES.
Gold Wings, Wings for Hats, all kinds, post-free, 1s. 3d. Gold Cords, Beads, Feathers, &c. Very best Two-Button Gloves, 1s. 11½d. Hose, Pink, Sky, Black, Chocolate, 2s. 6d.
BAKER and CRISP'S, Regent-street.

1500 DOZEN FINE FRENCH CAMBRIC HANDKERCHIEFS (Real French), 8s. 9d., 10s. 6d., 15s. dozen: less than half price. Sent for P.O.O. to BAKER and CRISP'S, 198, Regent-street.

ODDS and ENDS, in Bundles Fifty Yards. Best Dress Fabrics for 25s. 6d., 29s. 6d., 33s. 6d., and 42s. 6d., sent for Remittance to BAKER and CRISP'S, Regent-street.

HENRY GLAVE'S
FASHIONABLE COSTUMES FOR THE SEASON.
Theodora Costume, Cachmere de l'Inde, with garniture of Satin, £2 15s. 6d.; with Paletot, 3 gs.
Beaumarchais Costume, Cachmere de l'Inde, 39s. 6d.; with garniture of Silk, £2 18s. 6d.; with Paletot, £3 5s. 6d.
La Marjolaine Costume, the New Moss Cloth, £2 2s. 6d.; with Paletot, £2 9s. 6d.
Zaza Costume, French Fabrique, 35s. 6d.; with Paletot, 39s. 6d.
Duchess Costume, Lustre Fantaisie, 31s. 6d.; with Paletot, 35s. 6d.
Arcadian Costume, Washing Attalcas Fabrique, 25s. 6d.; with Paletot, 29s. 6d.
Matinee Costume, in Percale Nouveauté, 29s. 6d.; with Paletot, 35s. 6d.
Cymeville Costume, Galatea Rayée, 18s. 9d.; with Paletot, 25s. 6d.
Photographs, Sketches for the Season, Patterns, and Instructions for Self-Measurement, post-free.
534, 535, 536, and 537, New Oxford-street, London.

HENRY GLAVE'S
UNDERCLOTHING AND OUTFITTING.
Duchess Trimmed Chemise, 1s. 9½d. each; three for 5s. 3d.
Countess, Handsomely-Trimmed Chemise, Scotch Insertion and Work, 2s. 11½d.; or three for 8s. 6d.
Better quality, and more handsomely trimmed, 3s. 11½d. each; or three for 11s. 6d.
Mercedes Night-Dress, 2s. 11½d. each; or three for 8s. 6d.
La Reine Night-Dress, Trimmed Scotch Work and Frilling, 3s. 11½d. each; or three for 11s. 6d.
200 dozen Trimmed Drawers, 1s. 11½d. each; or three for 5s. 6d.
White Embroidered "Cuirass" Corset, with Spoonbill busk, 2s. 11½d. and 4s. 11½d.; usual price, 3s. 11½d. and 6s.
A lot of White French Wove Corsets, at 3s. 11½d., 5s. 11½d., and 6s. 11½d., good shapes; all reduced in price.
Fashionable Swanbill Jeilt Corsets for Princess Costumes, in Black, Scarlet, and Grey, 8s. 11½d.; and improved shapes, in scarlet, white, and grey, at 4s. 11½d., in every size.
Illustrated Lists of Underclothing.
534, 535, 536, and 537, New Oxford-street, London, W.C.

D. NICHOLSON and CO. send post-free Patterns of
NEW SILKS,
DRESS FABRICS,
MANTLES, and COSTUMES.
D. NICHOLSON and COMPANY, 50 to 53, ST. PAUL'S CHURCHYARD, LONDON.

SHIRTS.—FORD'S EUREKA.—"The most perfect fitting made."—Observer. Gentlemen desirous of purchasing Shirts of the best quality should try Ford's Eureka. 38s., 40s., 42s. half dozen. Illustrations and self-measure post-free.—41, Poultry, London.

THE COURT HAIR DESTROYER.—This newly-discovered remedy completely removes superfluous hair. Quite harmless. 3s. 6d.; post 3s. 9d., of Inventor, J. Leon, 19, Porteus-rd., London, W., or Chemists. Particulars, 1 stamp.

TO PERSONS AFFLICTED WITH RUPTURE.—PRATT'S WATER-PAD TRUSSES are the most effectual Cure.—Apply to J. F. Pratt, Surgical Mechanician to St. Bartholomew's Hospital, 420, Oxford-street, London.

INDIGESTION.

It is conclusively ascertained that LACTOPEPTINE will bring about the Digestion of Food in a manner perfectly identical to that obtained under the influence of the natural gastric juice. "A glance at the Formula of LACTOPEPTINE would convince even the most sceptical of the valuable results that must ensue through its administration. Composed of pepsin, pepsine, pancreatine, hydrochloric and lactic acids, it is a combination of all the digestive agents; consequently, can never be administered without giving the utmost satisfaction; for if there is a deficiency in the system of all or any of these agents, LACTOPEPTINE will supply it, and thus assist in digesting the food, enabling the organsthat produce these principles of digestion to rest and recuperate their relaxed energies."—From "Practical Medicine and Surgery," July 1877. LACTOPEPTINE being presented in saccharated form, is most agreeable to the taste, and can be administered even to the youngest child. The price of the LACTOPEPTINE is 4s. 6d. per one oz. bottle. (An ounce bottle contains forty-eight ten-grain doses.) If any difficulty is experienced in obtaining LACTOPEPTINE from your Chemist, communicate direct, sending P.O.O. for 4s. 6d. Address—CARNRICK-KIDDER, and CO., Gt. Russell-st., corner of Charlotte-st., London, W.C. Pamphlet to any address.

HOMŒOPATHIC HOSPITAL (SELECT) for LADIES, Bolton House, 192, Clapham-road, Surrey. Established 1867. A Private Home, where Patients suffering from serious diseases, and requiring special supervision, can obtain the best Medical and Surgical Treatment without incurring anxiety in their own homes. Treatise of successful cases forwarded for twelve stamps. Physician, DAVID JONES, M.D. Consultations daily, Eleven to One (Tuesday and Friday excepted), at 15, Welbeck-street, London.

POSTAGE OF THE
ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

AT HOME.

The cost of transmission by post within the United Kingdom, including the Channel Islands, is one halfpenny.

ABROAD.

Africa, West Coast of	2d	Gibraltar	2d
Alexandria	2d	Greece	2d
Australia, viâ Brindisi	4d	Holland	2d
viâ Southampton	2d	India, viâ Brindisi	4d
Austria	2d	viâ Southampton	2d
Belgium	2d	Italy	2d
Brazil	2d	Mauritius	2d
Canada	2d	New Zealand	2d
Cape of Good Hope ...	2d	Norway	2d
China, viâ Brindisi ...	4d	Russia	2d
viâ Southampton	2d	Spain	2d
Constantinople... ...	2d	Sweden	2d
Denmark	2d	Switzerland	2d
France	2d	United States	2d
Germany	2d	West Indies	2d

Copies printed on thin paper may be sent to the Colonies and Foreign Countries at half the rates stated above; but their use is not recommended, the appearance of the Engravings being greatly injured by the print at the back showing through.

Newspapers for foreign parts must be posted within eight days of the time of publication.

NEW MUSIC.

NEW DANCE MUSIC.

CHARLES D'ALBERT'S NOVELTIES.

CYPRUS POLKA .. .. 2s. 0d. net
CONGRESS LANCERS .. .. 2s. 0d. net
PAUL ET VIRGINIE WALTZ .. .. .. 2s. 0d. net
PAUL ET VIRGINIE QUADRILLE .. .. 2s. 0d. net
PAUL ET VIRGINIE GALOP .. .. .. 2s. 0d. net
THE ENGAGED WALTZ. Played at her Majesty's State Ball .. .. 2s. 0d. net
DISTANT SHORE WALTZ. On Sullivan's Song .. 2s. 0d. net
SWEETHEARTS LANCERS .. .. 2s. 0d. net
CLEOPATRA GALOP .. .. 2s. 0d. net
THE LOVE-LETTER POLKA .. .. 1s. 6d. net
THE FANFARE POLKA .. .. 2s. 0d. net
MOLLY DARLING QUADRILLE .. .. net
SWEETHEARTS WALTZ. On Arthur Sullivan's popular Song .. .. 2s. 0d. net

N.B.—A Complete List of M. D'Albert's Popular Dance Music will be sent on application.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

SIGNOR PINSUTI'S NEW SONGS.

DUSCHINKA; or, The Star of the North. Words by Fanny Lablache. 2s. net.
THE SOLDIER'S BETROTHED. Words by Maria X. Hayes. 2s. net.
NOT YET. 2s. net. AFTER LONG YEARS. 2s. net.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

SONGS AFTER HANS ANDERSEN'S POEMS, MUSIC BY MOLLOY.

THE LITTLE TIN SOLDIER. 2s. net.
TWO LITTLE LIVES. 2s. net.
THE LITTLE MATCH GIRL. 2s. net.
THE STORY OF THE NIGHTINGALE. 2s. net.
DEATH AND THE NIGHTINGALE. 2s. net.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

NEW NUMBERS of CHAPPELL'S MUSICAL MAGAZINE.

No. 118. Popular Marches for the Pianoforte .. .. 1s.
No. 117. Mixed Series for Piano .. .. 1s.
Dance and Vocal Music .. .. .. 1s.
No. 116. Ditto .. .. 1s.
No. 115. Ditto .. .. 1s.

REMINISCENCES OF ENGLAND.
REMINISCENCES OF IRELAND.
REMINISCENCES OF SCOTLAND.
REMINISCENCES OF WALES.
Arranged for the Pianoforte by FRED. GODFREY (B. M. Coldstream Guards). Played by all the Bands in her Majesty's Service. Price 2s. each net.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

SECONDHAND PIANOFORTES.
TERMINATION OF THE LONDON SEASON.
Now on view, an immense number of Pianofortes returned from Hire, to be sold, at greatly reduced prices, for cash.
Pianines from 18 guineas.
Cottages from 30 guineas.
Grands from 50 guineas.
50, New Bond-street.

SECONDHAND PIANOFORTES at 50, New Bond-street,
may be hired, with option of purchase, or on the "Three-Years' System," at greatly reduced prices.

SECONDHAND PIANOFORTES now on View by the following eminent Makers:—
BROADWOOD. | ERARD.
COLLARD. | CHAPPELL.
LIPP. | ROSENKRANZ.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

SECONDHAND HARMONIUMS, for CHURCH, SCHOOL, or DRAWING-ROOM.
Upwards of a hundred varieties now on View.
From 3 guineas to 100 guineas.
At CHAPPELL and CO.'S, 50, New Bond-street.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S SPECIALITIES in ORGAN HARMONIUMS.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S NEW ORGAN HARMONIUMS.—Five octaves, two pedals, suitable for cottage or school. Price 7 gs.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S GOTHIC MODEL, dark oak, ten stops, &c. 22 guineas, or £2 2s. per quarter on the Three-Years' System.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S NEW ORGAN MODEL by ALEXANDRE, two rows of keys, five stops and sub-bass, Venetian swell, two knee pedals. 28 guineas, or £2 16s. per quarter on Three-Years' System.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S EXHIBITION CHURCH MODEL, fifteen stops, 44 rows of vibrators, Venetian swell, 35 guineas, or £3 10s. per quarter for Three Years.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S SPECIAL CHURCH MODEL, 18 stops, five rows of vibrators, &c., 50 guineas; or £5 per quarter on the Three-Years' System.
Full Illustrated Lists free by post.
50, New Bond-street, W.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S SPECIALITIES in PIANOFORTES.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S STUDENT'S PIANOFORTE. Compass, five Octaves, 15 gs., or £1 10s. per quarter on the Three-Years' System.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S SCHOOL PIANINOS, Canadian Walnut, 30 gs., or 2gs. per quarter on the Three-Years' System of Purchase.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S YACHT PIANINOS, 30 gs., or £3 per quarter on Three-Years' System of Purchase.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S BOUDOIR PIANINO, 35 gs., or £3 10s. per quarter on the Three-Years' System of Purchase.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S MODEL PIANETTE, 35 gs., or £3 10s. per quarter on the Three-Years' System of Purchase.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S ENGLISH MODEL, 40 gs., or £4 per quarter, on the Three-Years' System of Purchase.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S COLONIAL MODEL, 45 gs., or £4 10s. per quarter on the Three-Years' System of Purchase.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S FOREIGN MODEL, 50 gs., or £5 per quarter on the Three-Years' System of Purchase.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S ENGLISH OBLIQUE, 55 gs., or £5 10s. per quarter on the Three-Years' System of Purchase.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S IRON-FRAMED OBLIQUE, 90 gs., or £8 per quarter on the Three-Years' System of Purchase.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S MIGNON IRON GRAND, 80 gs., or £8 per quarter on the Three-Years' System of Purchase.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S BOUDOIR IRON 110 gs., or £11 per quarter on the Three-Years' System of Purchase.
NEW BOND-STREET, W.

NEW MUSIC.

Price 10s. 6d., bound in cloth,

SPOHR'S VIOLIN SCHOOL. Edited by HENRY HOLMES. BOOSEY and CO. beg to announce the publication of an entirely new Edition of Spohr's great Violin School, translated into English by Florence Marshall; revised, annotated, and fingered by Henry Holmes. The numerous Notes are intended to elucidate the original text, and to assist the student in the course to be followed throughout in the practice of the School. Spohr's School is printed on the finest paper, and is published at the moderate price of half a guinea, with the view of placing it within the reach of all amateurs of the violin.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

This day, price 5s., paper; 7s. 6d., cloth, gilt edges,

THE CONTRALTO ALBUM. A Collection of 50 Songs for Mezzo-Soprano and Contralto Voices, extracted from the most celebrated Operas, with Italian and English words. All in the original keys (without alteration or alteration). This Collection includes many beautiful songs but little known in this country, besides all the most renowned of the last one hundred years. Also now ready, same prices as above.

THE PRIMA DONNA'S ALBUM. 40 great Operatic Songs for a Soprano Voice. In the press, for the TENOR and BARITONE ALBUMS, containing similar selections for these two voices.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

Price 2s. 6d., paper; 4s. 6d., cloth boards,

CALLCOTT'S HANDEL ALBUM. A collection of above one hundred of the best Oratorio and Operatic Airs by this great Composer. Edited for the Pianoforte by W. H. CALLCOTT. With Memoir and three Illustrations.—BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

THE SONGS OF SCOTLAND. A New and Enlarged Edition is published this day, containing 100 Songs. Edited by Pittman, with a new and important introduction on Scotch Poetry and Music by Dr. Charles Mackay. Price 2s. 6d., paper; 4s., cloth, gilt edges; or, beautifully illustrated by the most eminent artists, price 7s. 6d. Boosey and Co.'s Edition must be ordered.—295, Regent-street, London.

THE MOUNTAIN SYLPH.—A New Edition of John Barnett's celebrated opera is published this day, revised by the composer; complete for voice and pianoforte, price 3s. 6d. paper covers, 5s. cloth, gilt edges. Also uniform with the above,
The Siege of Rochelle. | Satanella.
The Lily of Killarney. | The Bohemian Girl.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

MUSIC FOR THE SEASIDE. Popular Numbers of BOOSEYS' MUSICAL CABINET. 1s. each.
212. BOOSEYS' MARCH ALBUM (30 Marches).
204. HUGHLAKE'S "BEST" PIANO ALBUM (11 pieces).
206. BRAHMS' PIANO ALBUM.
205. RAFF'S PIANO ALBUM.
200. ROTHERE'S WALTZ ALBUM (6 sets).
201. WALDTEUFEL'S WALTZ ALBUM (6 sets).
216. MINNET WALTZ ALBUM (36 songs).
170. SANTLEY'S NEW COPYRIGHT SONG-BOOK.
168. ARTHUR SULLIVAN'S 10 SONGS.
166. VIRGINIA GABRIEL'S 10 SONGS.
163. A. S. GATTY'S 12 BALLADS.
2. LONGFELLOW AND BALFE'S NEW SONG-BOOK.
98. SANTLEY'S AND FOLI'S 22 STANDARD SONGS.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

THE BLUE ALSATIANS WALTZ. By GEORGES LAMOTHE. On Stephen Adams's celebrated Song. Price 2s., Solo and Duet; Small Orchestra, 1s.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

SCHUBERT'S FAVOURITE WALTZES. In Three Numbers. Edited for the Piano by GEORGE FREDERICK WEST. Post-free, 24 stamps each. Quite as successful as the selection from the admirable Waltzes by Beethoven and Mozart.—London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

HALF-HOURS WITH THE ORATORIOS, and other Sacred Compositions. Transcribed for the Pianoforte by GEORGE FREDERICK WEST (elegantly Illustrated Titles). Six Books, 4s. each; all at half price, post-free.
London: Sole Publishers, ROBERT COCKS and Co., New Burlington-street.

STANDARD SCHOOL BOOKS (MUSIC).
Clarke's Catechism. 1s.; cloth, 1s. 6d.
Clarke's Elements of Harmony. 2s.
Sutton's Elements of the Theory of Music. 2s.
West's (G. F.) Questions on the Theory of Music. 1s.; in cloth, 1s. 6d.
Cocks and Co.'s Musical Cards. 2s.
Hamilton's Dictionary of 3500 Musical Terms. 1s.; in cloth, 1s. 6d.
West's (G. F.) The Pupil's Daily Exercises. 4s.
West's (G. F.) Teacher and Pupil. Four Piano duets, each 4s.
Hamilton's Modern Instructions. 118th Edition. 4s.
Appendix to ditto. By G. F. West. 5s.
Rohner's Art of Singing. 4s.
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co., New Burlington-street.

BEETHOVEN'S SIX FAVOURITE WALTZES for the PIANOFORTE. Edited and Fingered by GEORGE FREDERICK WEST. 3s. each. MOZART'S FAVOURITE WALTZES (Nos. 1, 2, and 3), carefully and effectively arranged by GEO. F. WEST, 3s. each; post-free at half price. ROBERT COCKS and Co.

CHARLES HALLÉ'S PRACTICAL PIANOFORTE SCHOOL.
Section 1.—No. 1. Pianoforte Tutor.
FORSYTH BROTHERS, London and Manchester.

HELLER'S FOURTH SONATA. Op. 143. 8s.
FORSYTH BROTHERS, 272A, Regent-street, Oxford-street, London; and Cross-street, South King-street, Manchester.

BOOSEY & CO.'S PIANOFORTE-ROOMS. GRAND and UPRIGHT PIANOFORTES, by all the great makers, both English and Foreign, for SALE or HIRE, subject to the largest discount obtainable in London. Pianettes, from £21. Short Grands, from £50. Sole Address, 295, REGENT-STREET.

BOOSEY and CO.'S Short Iron Grand PIANOFORTES, 60, 70, 80, and 85 guineas each, subject to a liberal discount for cash, or on the Three-Years' System, from £3 10s. per quarter. Special Instruments for India. Illustrated Price-Lists free.
Sole Address, 295, Regent-street (adjoining the Polytechnic).

SECONDHAND PIANOS.—BOOSEY and CO. have a large Stock of Instruments by all the great Makers, which they offer, according to their custom on the close of the season, at greatly reduced prices. The majority of these Pianos have been hired for one season only, and are as good as new.—295, Regent-street (adjoining the Polytechnic).

GEO. WOODS and CO.'S AMERICAN ORGANS.
BOOSEY and CO., 295, Regent-street,
Sole Agents for the United Kingdom.
Pipe, Reed, and Pedal Organs, from £17 to £200.
Illustrated Price-Lists post-free.

BOOSEY and CO.'S BRASS INSTRUMENTS FOR AMATEURS.
THE DISTIN CORNET, from £3 10s.
THE DISTIN CELEBRATED LIGHT VALVE CORNETS, 7 and 9 gs., are the best Cornets manufactured.
THE DISTIN MINIATURE CORNET-A-PISTONS, 9 gs.
THE DISTIN BALL-VALVE TRUMPETS, in C, D, and E flat.
THE DISTIN DRAG AND POST HORNS AND BAND INSTRUMENTS at all prices.
THE DISTIN MONTHLY BRASS BAND JOURNAL, 10s. 6d. per annum.
Illustrated Price-Lists upon application to BOOSEY and CO., Manufacturers of Military Band Instruments of every description, 295, Regent-street, London. Manufactory, Stanhope-place, Hyde Park.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' GOLD MEDAL PIANOS have been awarded First-Class Medals of Honour:—At London, 1862; Paris, 1867; Netherlands, 1869; Paris, 1870; Paris, 1874; Philadelphia, 1876; S. Africa, 1877, &c. Illustrated Lists free.—18, Wigmore-street, London.

PIANOFORTES for HIRE or for SALE, from 25 gs. upwards.—JOHN BROADWOOD and SONS, 33, Great Pulteney-street, Golden-square, W. Manufactory, 45, Horseferry-road, Westminster.

P. J. SMITH AND SONS'
IRON-STRUTTED PIANOS.
"The best and most substantial instrument produced."
9, CONDUIT-STREET, REGENT-STREET, W.

NEW MUSIC.

Just published,

CARMEN. Fantasie Brillante for Pianoforte, by W. KUHE, on this popular Opera. Post-free, 30 stamps.
METZLER and Co., 37, Great Marlborough-street, London, W.

CARMEN. Fantasie Brillante for Pianoforte, by J. LEYBACH, on this popular Opera. Post-free, 24 stamps.
METZLER and Co., 37, Great Marlborough-street, London, W.

CARMEN. Bouquet de Melodies pour Piano. Par RENAUD DE VILBAC. In Two Books. Post-free, 24 stamps each.
METZLER and Co., 37, Great Marlborough-street, London, W.

Now ready.

GRACEFUL DANCE from the Incidental Music to Shakespeare's "Henry VIII." Composed by ARTHUR SULLIVAN. Post-free, 24 stamps.
METZLER and Co., 37, Great Marlborough-street, London, W.

THREE GIFTS. New Song. By J. L. ROECKEL.
Sung by Mr. Barton McGuckin with the greatest success. Post-free, 24 stamps.
METZLER and Co., 37, Great Marlborough-street, London, W.

A SAILOR'S WOOING. New Song. By J. L. ROECKEL.
For Baritone or Contralto.
METZLER and Co., 37, Great Marlborough-street, London, W.

H.M.S. "PINAFORE." New Opera by W. S. GILBERT and ARTHUR SULLIVAN. Played nightly at the Opera Comique with the most genuine success. Song, for Voice and Piano, 4s. net, post-free.
METZLER and Co., 37, Great Marlborough-street, London, W.

GARDEN PARTY POLKA. C. GODFREY. Played nightly at the Promenade Concerts, Covent-Garden, with the greatest success. Post-free, 18 stamps.
METZLER and Co., 37, Great Marlborough-street, London, W.

PALOMINO. A Pure Spanish SHERRY of dry character, produced from the finest grape in the Xeres district. Recommended with complete confidence. 30s. per dozen, railway carriage paid. Sole Importers, HENRY BRETT and CO., 26 and 27, High Holborn, W.C. Established 1829.

KINAHAN'S LL WHISKY.
THE CREAM OF OLD IRISH WHISKIES.
"Pure, mild, mellow, delicate, and most wholesome. Unreservedly recommended by the medical profession. Dr. Hassall says:—"The whisky is soft, mellow, and delicate, well-matured, and of very excellent quality."—20, Great Titchfield-street, W.

ELLIS'S RUTHIN WATERS.
ELLIS'S PURE AERATED RUTHIN WATERS.
ELLIS'S RUTHIN WATERS.—Crystal Springs. "Absolutely Pure."—See analyses, sent free on application.
ELLIS'S RUTHIN WATERS.—Soda, Potass, Seltzer, Lemonade, and also Water without Alkali.
ELLIS'S RUTHIN WATERS.—For Gout, Lithia Water, and Lithia and Potass Water.
ELLIS'S RUTHIN WATERS.—Crystal Springs. Corks branded "R. Ellis and Son, Ruthin." Every label bears Trade Mark.
ELLIS'S RUTHIN WATERS.—Sold everywhere. Wholesale, R. Ellis and Son, Ruthin, North Wales. London Agents, W. BEST and SONS, Henrietta-street, Cavendish-square.

AMERICAN CENTENNIAL PRIZE MEDAL.
FRY'S CARACAS COCOA.
The pure flavour, delicate aroma, and invigorating qualities have established its position as a first-class dietetic article.

FRY'S CARACAS COCOA.
"The Caracas Cocoa of such choice quality."—Food, Water, and Air (Dr. Hassall).
"A most delicious and valuable article."—Standard.

FRY'S EXTRACT OF COCOA,
"than which, if properly prepared, there is no nicer or more wholesome preparation of Cocoa."—Food, Water, and Air. Edited by Dr. Hassall.
TENTH INTERNATIONAL MEDAL awarded to J. S. FRY and SON.

SCHWEITZER'S COCOAATINA.
Anti-Dyspeptic Cocoa or Chocolate Powder.
Guaranteed Pure Soluble Cocoa, with excess of Fat extracted.
Four times the strength of Cocoa Thickened yet Weakened with Arrowroot, Starch, &c.
The faculty pronounce it the most nutritious, perfectly digestive Beverage for "BREAKFAST, LUNCHEON, or SUPPER." Keeps in all Climates. Requires no Cooking. A teaspoonful to Breakfast Cup, costing less than a halfpenny. Samples gratis.
In Air-tight Tins, at 1s. 6d., 3s., 4s., 5s., by Chemists and Grocers.
H. SCHWEITZER and CO., 10, Adam-street, London, W.C.

LIEBIG COMPANY'S EXTRACT OF MEAT.
FINEST MEAT-FLAVOURING STOCK FOR SOUPS, MADE DISHES, AND SAUCES.

LIEBIG COMPANY'S EXTRACT OF MEAT.
CAUTION.—Genuine only with the facsimile of Baron Liebig's Signature in Blue Ink across label.

LIEBIG COMPANY'S EXTRACT OF MEAT.

PEARS' TRANSPARENT SOAP.
For Toilet, Nursery, and Shaving.
Recommended in the "Journal of Cutaneous Medicine."
By the Editor, MR.

ERASMUS WILSON, F.R.S.,
"As the most refreshing and Agreeable balm for the skin."
Pure, Fragrant, and Durable.

A HEALTHY SKIN and GOOD COMPLEXION
PEARS' TRANSPARENT SOAP, recommended by the Homœopathic Pharmaceutical Society as "The purest and best Toilet Soap made."

REDNESS, ROUGHNESS, and CHAPPING PREVENTED.
PEARS' TRANSPARENT SOAP.
Eighty years approved by the Public.
A specialty for Sensitive Skins.

SHAVING, TOILET, and NURSERY
PEARS' TRANSPARENT SOAP.
Always used by the Royal Family.
Sold by all Chemists.

THE ONLY SOAP FOR THE COMPLEXION, Making the skin clear, smooth, and delicious.
WRIGHT'S COAL-TAR SOAP
(SAPO CARBONIS DETERGENS).
Highly and extensively recommended for the toilet and in all cases of cutaneous disease by Mr. Jas. Startin, M.R.C.S., Surgeon to St. John's Hospital for Diseases of the Skin, the late Mr. James Startin, M.D., F.R.C.S., of Savile-row. Mr. McCall Anderson, M.D., F.F.P.S., of Woodside-crescent, Glasgow, and the other leading members of the profession. In Tablets, 6d. and 1s., in elegant Toilet-Boxes, of all Chemists. Beware of spurious imitations.—Inventors and Sole Proprietors, W. V. WRIGHT and CO. London.

THE SKIN.—To give to it that Smoothness, Sweetness, and Lustrous Elegance indicative of Perfect Health use "THE ALBION MILK AND SULPHUR SOAP." It is elegantly white and purest of all soaps. "It is the most agreeable and elegant preparation for the skin I know."—James Startin, M.R.C.S., Surgeon to St. John's Hospital, London. By all Chemists, in Tablets, 6d. and 1s.—THE ALBION SANATORY SOAP CO., 57, Lombard-street, London. Refuse all substitutes.

APERIENT FRUIT LOZENGES, prepared from the Bark of the Rhamnus Frangula. A medicine which has been described on high authority as "The only real aperient we have;" all others usually classed under that name being drastic in their operation and often injurious in their after effect. These Lozenges are extremely palatable, and children take them readily as a sweetmeat. "Mild and uniform in their operation."—Lancet. The Lozenge "is an excellent and exceedingly mild form of laxative, especially suitable for children and delicate people."—Birmingham Medical Review. Prepared only by H. C. BAILDON and SON, Pharmaceutical Chemists, 73, Princes-street, Edinburgh. Sold in Boxes, at 2s. and 3s. 6d., by all Chemists.
London Agents—W. Edwards and Son, 157, Queen Victoria-street.

CYPRUS.—Officers and others proceeding to Cyprus will effect an immense saving by supplying themselves from Messrs. OETZMANN and CO.'S. Their experience in supplying Officers of the Military, Naval, and Civil Service on Foreign Stations enables them to execute their orders with economy and dispatch. Packed in extra strong cases by experienced packers. Price-List of every requisite post-free. The "Daily News" says:—"Advice from Cyprus state that every thing is enormously dear there."—OETZMANN and CO.

FURNISH THROUGHOUT.
SUBSTANTIAL ARTISTIC FURNITURE.
OETZMANN & CO.,
HAMPSTEAD-ROAD,
NEAR TOTTENHAM-COURT-ROAD.

FURNISH THROUGHOUT.—OETZMANN and CO., 67, 69, 71, 73, 77 and 79, HAMPSTEAD-ROAD, near Tottenham-court-road. Cabinet Factory, Albion Works, Drummond-street; Bedding Factory, Eagle-place, London, N.W. CARPETS, Furniture, Bedding, Drapery, Furnishing Ironmongery, China, Glass, Paper Hangings, Pictures, Bronzes, Clocks, &c., and every other requisite for completely furnishing a house throughout.

THE IMMENSE RANGE of PREMISES formerly the EAGLE BREWERY having been REBUILT and ADDED to their SHOW-ROOMS, it is now one of the largest Furnishing Establishments in the world. Comparison of price and quality respectfully solicited before deciding elsewhere. OETZMANN and CO. are enabled to offer SPECIAL ADVANTAGES to Country Customers in the delivery of Goods by their own large PANTECHNICON VANS, and fixing in position by competent persons. Descriptive Catalogue, the best Furnishing Guide extant, post-free.—OETZMANN and CO.

BEDDING DEPARTMENT.—Handsome 3 ft. 6 in. Mahogany Chest of Drawers, with deep bottom drawer, 2 guineas; Spanish Mahogany Wardrobes, from 3 guineas upwards. Bed-Room Suites, enamelled imitation of amboyna, satin-wood, and other handsome woods, consisting of Wardrobe, Chest of Drawers, Washstand, Toilet Table, Toilet Glass, best plate, 16 in. by 12 in. Towel Airer, three Chairs, and pedestal Toilet Cupboard, all complete for 6½ guineas.
OETZMANN and CO.

ANGLO-INDIAN CARPETS.
OETZMANN and CO.—These elegant Carpets, of which Messrs. OETZMANN and CO. have the exclusive sale, are of first-class British manufacture, have all the style and appearance of real Indian Carpets, with the same beauty of design and rich Oriental colourings, at little more than the price of good Brussels, and are very durable. Price-List, post-free, on application. The "Art Journal" says:—Messrs. Oetzmann have made a better article than the Indians, Persians, and Turks, and at less than half the cost, without sacrificing aught of the grace of design and harmony of colours." For the convenience of those residing at a distance, a large piece, showing the border and centre of Carpet, sent on receipt of 5s., which will be deducted from price of Carpet or refunded upon return of pattern; or by sending the three pieces—viz., the Anglo-Indian, Anglo-Persian, and Anglo-Turkey—will be sent on the same terms. Hearth Rugs to match, 4ft. 6in. long by 3 ft. wide, £1 11s. 6d. Also, some real Indian Carpets at reduced prices.—OETZMANN and CO.

CRETONNES. — OETZMANN and CO. CRETONNES.—An immense assortment of all the choicest designs in this fashionable material, in every variety of style and colourings; excellent imitations of rare Tapestries, some being exact copies of the finest Gobelin Tapestry. Prices varying from 6½d. per yard. Some at 1s. 0½d. per yard, usually sold at 1s. 9d.; Super ditto, at 1s. 3½d., usual price 2s. per yard. Patterns sent into the country by stating kind required.

CLEOPATRA TOILET SERVICE.
OETZMANN and CO.'S New Special Design, a beautiful Grecian shape, meets the great desideratum of art-manufactures—viz., the shape best adapted for purposes of use required, combined with the most artistic design and decoration. Prices from 10s. 6d. per set. Descriptive Price-List post-free.
OETZMANN and CO.

PARIS EXHIBITION.—Messrs. OETZMANN and CO. invite an inspection of their large display of Royal Worcester Porcelain, Japanese and Chinese China, Nankin Blue and White China, the new Swiss Decorated Faience, French and English Terre-Cotta and Parian China Statuettes, Busts, &c.; Dresden China, Flemish Ware, Vallauris Pottery, Venetian and Iridescent Glass; also, a large Assortment of both English and Foreign Table and Ornamental Glass of every description, the latest Parisian designs in Clocks, Bronzes, and both ornamental and useful China, many of which are Duplicates of Goods exhibited at the Paris Exhibition. The prices will be found considerably lower than charged in Paris, besides saving the expense and annoyance of carriage and Custom House. Catalogue forwarded post-free.—OETZMANN and CO.

THE "Art Journal" says:—"We were conducted through the crowded rooms and long galleries of Messrs. OETZMANN and CO.'S Establishment, often to admire productions of good and true and useful art, but more often to see how every need was met that ministered to convenience and comfort."—OETZMANN and CO. Complete House Furnishers, 67, 69, 71, 73, 77 and 79, Hampstead-road; 146 and 148, Drummond-street; 8, Frederick-street; and Nos. 1 to 34, Eagle-place, London, N.W.

POSTAL ORDER DEPARTMENT.
OETZMANN and CO.—Orders sent per post, whether large or small, receive prompt and careful attention. Those residing at a distance, or any to whom a personal visit would be inconvenient, desirous of leaving the selection to the firm, may rely upon a faithful attention to their wishes and interest in the selection. This department is personally supervised by a member of the firm. For further particulars please see page 287 in Catalogue, sent post-free on application.

OETZMANN and CO., COMPLETE HOUSE FURNISHERS, 67, 69, 71, 73, 77 and 79, Hampstead-road (three minutes' walk from Tottenham-court-road and Gower-street Station, Metropolitan Railway). Lowest prices consistent with guaranteed quality. Close at Seven, and on Saturdays at Four. Descriptive Catalogue post-free.

DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE, post-free.
OETZMANN & CO.,
HAMPSTEAD-ROAD.

NOTICE.—SPOONS and FORKS, in SILVER and in ELECTRO-PLATE, ELKINGTON and CO., as the result of important improvements in the above manufactures, are able to offer their guaranteed qualities at such prices as, while fully maintaining their acknowledged superiority, place them within the reach of all classes. Revised Illustrated Price-Lists free by post on application. Purchasers of Silver Spoons and Forks obtain the advantage of any fluctuations in the silver market.
Address—ELKINGTON and CO., 22, Regent-street, London; or 42, Moorgate-street, City.

BREAKFAST IN BED.—CARTER'S PATENT REVOLVING BED-TABLE, adjustable to any height or inclination, for reading and writing. Price from £2 5s. Drawings free.—J. CARTER, 64, New Cavendish-street, Great Portland-street, W.

ELECTRICITY IS LIFE.
PULVERMACHER'S "GALVANISM, NATURE'S CHIEF RESTORER OF EXHAUSTED VITAL ENERGY."
In this Pamphlet the most reliable proofs are given of the vast and wonderful curative powers of Pulvermacher's Patent Galvanic Chain-Bands, Belts, &c., in Rheumatic, Nervous, and Functional Disorders. Sent post-free for three stamps, on application to
J. L. PULVERMACHER'S GALVANIC ESTABLISHMENT, 194, REGENT-STREET, LONDON, W.; AND 39, RUE ST. MARC, PARIS.

TOOTH-ACHE. INSTANT CURE.
FORMS A STOPPING. SAVES THE TOOTH.
J. Hounsell, Esq., Surgeon, Bridport, writes:—"I consider BUNTER'S NERVINE a specific for Toothache. Very severe cases under my care have found instantaneous and permanent relief."
Of all Chemists, at 1s. 1½d. per Packet.

LONDON: Printed and Published at the Office, 198, Strand, in the Parish of St. Clement Danes, in the County of Middlesex, by GEORGE C. LEIGHTON, 198, Strand, aforesaid.—SATURDAY, AUGUST 24, 1878.

THE BRITISH FLEET AT LARNACA, CYPRUS, SALUTING ON THE DUKE OF EDINBURGH'S BIRTHDAY.
FROM A SKETCH BY OUR SPECIAL ARTIST.

THE BRITISH OCCUPATION OF CYPRUS.

(From our Special Artist and Correspondent.)

Larnaca, Aug. 7.

Yesterday at eight in the morning the fleet was gay with bunting in honour of the thirty-fourth birthday of Captain the Duke of Edinburgh, while the bands of the different ships could be distinctly heard on shore. At noon the Royal salute was fired by the ships at the anchorage, and the Captains and other officers of the fleet went on board H.M.S. Black Prince to pay their respects to the Royal Duke. In the evening, at six o'clock, there was a review of the Larnaca division of the troops, and his Royal Highness, in undress uniform as a Naval Aide-de-Camp to the Queen, inspected the parade, which was particularly smart and well turned out, and there was the usual march past. To-day H.M.S. Salamis leaves for Brindisi, and I proceed at once to Nicosia.

Sir Garnet Wolseley has now established the seat of Government at Nicosia, and Commissioners have been appointed at the various ports throughout the island. The arrangements for the moving of the troops have been greatly delayed by contrary orders. At one time the troops were detailed for their respective stations, and were on board their transport and troop ships ready to proceed when they were suddenly ordered to land. They were accordingly disembarked on Saturday evening and Sunday morning (27th and 28th ult.), and encamped in rear of the Marina. Meantime H.M. ships Himalaya and Orontes were ordered away, the former (via Syracuse with mails) en route to Malta, and the Orontes to Malta, presumably for reinforcements of stores. The transport Suez had previously been sent to Beyrout to fetch horses, which were to have been purchased by Captain Bury, of the Royal Artillery. But it was found impossible to obtain any horses of the requisite stamp, and the Suez returned without her cargo after a fruitless visit. It is curious that the Suez should have been sent before the horses were purchased. At all events, information could have been obtained by telegraph as to the state of the horse market in Syria. An idea is current, at Damascus and Beyrout and the neighbouring towns, that the French contemplate an occupation of Syria; and those towns, judging from their fortunate neighbours at Cyprus, look forward to a rich harvest of European gold. The troops which had disembarked on the Sunday were ordered to re-embark on Friday, together with their stores and camp equipage, and sailed the same evening at nine o'clock for their several destinations. H.M.S. Tamar embarked some for Kyrenia, and H.M.S. Simoom some for Baffo; the hired transports Bengal and Goa took others to Famagosta, convoyed by the Tamar troop-ship; while the Madura and Malda left for Limasol, where the Pallas is lying. Brigadier-General Macpherson and his staff rode overland to take command at that port. As for the head-quarters of the British forces, their large camp at Chevlik Pasha is now well organised, in first-rate order, and, barring the heat, might form a portion of Aldershott. The camp is formed on a sloping plateau, elevated 150 ft. above the sea, and distant about four miles and a half from the Marina of Larnaca. The lines face the north, with the Royal Artillery on the extreme right. A slight interval separates them from the Bengal cavalry, whose camp is next. A larger space and a slight depression separate the cavalry from the British infantry, which are camped with the 101st in the centre, with the 42nd and 71st on the right and left flanks respectively. The ground falls to the front, forming a gradual descent, at the lowest level of which is the aqueduct, which supplies Larnaca with a perennial flow of pure and wholesome water. A portion of this water is diverted for various purposes, and is carried, in pipes or open gutters, to the various watering-troughs. As the ground falls away to the eastward, the aqueduct, which is carried across the inequalities of the ground on solid and apparently ancient arches, becomes higher, and here and there forms an important feature in the landscape. The soil is sandy and dusty, but wonderfully fertile; and, wherever any irrigation is possible, the brightest verdure is apparent. Of course, at this time of the year the surface of the ground is burnt up and the vegetation is scorched; but, nevertheless, where the ground is but scratched green crops of various descriptions are to be seen growing. The gardens about the thriving villages are wonderfully productive, as is, indeed, shown in the inexhaustible vegetable supply of the Larnaca bazaars and market. The place can produce anything; the soil is rich and fertile, in spite of its present pulverised, dusty look. The health of the troops at present is reassuring; the percentage of sick in hospital is as small, if not smaller, than it would be in England at the same time of year. We hear of no sickness among the inhabitants either of town or country; and it is not possible to see a more healthy lot of country folk than these cheery Cyprians, some very rough-looking but picturesque peasants, with a large predominance of classical features. A great proportion, we notice, have fair complexions and hair.

The Canara transport, which had gone to Malta a week since, returned on Aug. 2, towing a schooner. On the same day the usual sea-breeze increased to nearly half a gale of wind, and put a stop to the disembarkation for a few hours. Some heavy rain also alarmed the commissariat for the shelter of their exposed stores of flour; but no harm was experienced, and the oppressive weather has become decidedly improved in temperature since, as the thermometer, which under a double awning and in a cool situation originally stood from 85 deg.—90 deg. in the day, has fallen to 80 deg.—85 deg. The heat, however, is considerably tempered by the sea breeze, which sets in regularly as the sun gets high. The land breeze at night from off the heated shore is, on the other hand, wonderfully warm and dry.

But no sooner have the troops been disembarked, re-embarked, and again disembarked at the outer stations, than orders are again received by telegraph to prepare the whole of the Indian force for return to Bombay this autumn, and the transports are to be ready for the reception of the troops by the 23rd of this month—i.e., in little more than a fortnight. All this change of front is most provoking to everybody; counter-orders succeed to orders so rapidly that no one, from the Admiral downwards, knows what is to be the next move, and a good deal of discomfort and some discontent is the result. The Indian troops, however, will be glad to return to their own country, their known desire to be back, and the complications likely to result as to troops serving in the same island and receiving different rates of pay are among the causes which have led to this decision of the home authorities. By this time the disembarkation of troops and stores has been completed, and things are settling down somewhat on shore; the naval camp on the beach has been broken up, and the Duke has re-embarked with his staff on board his ship, the Black Prince. Saturday, Aug. 3, was the fête day of H.I.H. the Duchess, and the ships of war were dressed in bunting for the occasion. The crew of the Black Prince gave a burlesque entertainment in the evening before the Duke and the officers of the squadron, the Captains of the transports also receiving an invitation to be present.

From Nicosia we hear that his Excellency the High Commissioner, finding the heat, dirt, and general discomfort of the inclosed capital intolerable, has, with his staff, formed his camp a couple of miles to the south-west, without the walls.

As soon as the Salamis despatch-boat has departed with this packet it is our intention to proceed to Nicosia without delay, and thence to Kyrenia, from which our next instalment will be dispatched.

S. P. O.

The page Engraving in this Supplement, from our Special Artist's Sketch, represents the British Fleet in the roadstead of Larnaca firing the salute on the Duke of Edinburgh's birthday, the 6th inst. The squadron, every ship of which appears dressed in gala colours, consists of H.M.S. Black Prince, shown to the right hand, H.M.S. Minotaur, H.M.S. Monarch, and H.M.S. Raleigh, ironclads, with H.M.S. Salamis, paddle-wheel despatch-boat, a little in advance, between the Monarch and the Minotaur. The Admiralty transport-ships lie nearer to shore, and a number of hired transports are lying beyond. The Duke of Edinburgh has now left Cyprus and joined the Duchess and their children at Malta, having fairly earned his holiday by real hard work. We are glad also to learn that a plateau upon Mount Olympus, four thousand feet above the sea, and at an easy distance from the capital, has been selected as the site of a cantonment for the soldiers. It is very salubrious, abundantly supplied with water, and favoured with the aromatic fragrance of the pine woods.

PROROGATION OF PARLIAMENT.

The fifth Session of the ninth Parliament of the Queen was closed by Royal Commission yesterday week, the Commissioners being the Lord Chancellor, the Duke of Richmond and Gordon, the Duke of Northumberland, the Marquis of Hertford, and Lord Skelmersdale. The Commons having been summoned, the Royal assent was given to the following amongst other bills:—The Appropriation Act, Exchequer Bonds and Bills, Intermediate Education (Ireland), Contagious Diseases (Animals), Commons Jurisdiction, Statute Law Revision, Education (Scotland), Turnpike Acts Continuance, Drainage and Improvement of Land (Ireland), Telegraphs, Expiring Laws Continuance, Metropolitan Commons, and Sale of Intoxicating Liquors on Sunday (Ireland).

THE QUEEN'S SPEECH.

The Lord Chancellor then read the Royal Message proroguing Parliament:—

My Lords and Gentlemen,

When, in a critical condition of public affairs, you assembled at the commencement of the year, I pointed out to you that, in the interests of my Empire, precautions might become necessary, for which I appealed to your liberality to provide. At the same time I assured you that no efforts in the cause of peace should be wanting on my part.

Your response was not ambiguous, and contributed largely to a pacific solution of the difficulties which then existed. The terms of agreement between Russia and the Porte, so far as they affected pre-existing Treaties, were, after an interval of discussion, submitted to a Congress of the Powers; and their councils have resulted in a peace which I am thankful to believe is satisfactory and likely to be durable. The Ottoman Empire has not emerged from a disastrous war without severe loss; but the arrangements which have been made, while favourable to the subjects of the Porte, have secured to it a position of independence which can be upheld against aggression.

I have concluded a Defensive Convention with the Sultan, which has been laid before you. It gives, as regards his Asiatic Empire, a more distinct expression to the engagements, which in principle I, together with other Powers, accepted in 1856, but of which the form has not been found practically effectual. The Sultan has, on the other hand, bound himself to adopt and carry into effect the measures necessary for securing the good government of those Provinces. In order to promote the objects of this Agreement, I have undertaken the occupation and administration of the island of Cyprus.

In aiding to bring about the settlement which has taken place, I have been assisted by the discipline and high spirit of my forces by sea and by land, by the alacrity with which my Reserves responded to my call, by the patriotic offers of military aid by my people in the Colonies, and by the proud desire of my Indian Army to be reckoned among the defenders of the British Empire, a desire justified by the soldierly qualities of the force recently quartered at Malta.

The spontaneous offers of troops made by many of the native Governments in India were very gratifying to me, and I recognise in them a fresh manifestation of that feeling towards my crown and person which has been displayed in many previous instances.

My relations with all foreign Powers continue to be friendly.

Although the condition of affairs in South Africa still affords some ground for anxiety, I have learnt with satisfaction from the reports of my civil and military officers that the more serious disturbances which had arisen among the native population on the frontiers of the Cape colony are now terminated.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons,

I thank you for the liberal supplies which you have voted for the public service.

My Lords and Gentlemen,

The Act which has been passed for amending and greatly simplifying the law relating to factories and workshops will, I trust, still further secure the health and education of those who are employed in them.

I have had much pleasure in giving my assent to a measure relating to the Contagious Diseases of Cattle, which, by affording additional securities against the introduction and spread of those diseases, will tend to encourage the breeding of live stock in the country and to increase the supply of food to my people.

You have amended the law as to highways in a manner which cannot but improve their classification and management, and at the same time relieve inequalities in the burden of their maintenance.

I trust that advantage will be taken of the means which you have provided for dividing bishoprics in the more populous districts of the country, and thus increasing the efficiency of the Church.

I anticipate the best results from the wise arrangements which you have made for the encouragement of Intermediate Education in Ireland.

The measure for amending and consolidating the Public Health Laws in that country is well calculated to promote the important object at which it aims.

The measure passed in regard to Roads and Bridges in Scotland and for the abolition of tolls will greatly improve the management of highways in that part of the United Kingdom; while the Acts relating to education and to endowed schools and hospitals cannot fail to extend the benefits of education and improve the administration of charitable endowments in that country.

In bidding you farewell, I pray that the blessing of Almighty God may rest on your recent labours and accompany you in the discharge of all your duties.

The Commission proroguing Parliament till Nov. 2 was then read. The Lord Chancellor, on the part of the Royal Commissioners, and in the name of the Queen, declared Parliament prorogued till Saturday, Nov. 2 next.

With this the Session of 1878 came to an end.

The Bristol Chamber of Commerce has resolved to dispatch ten artisan reporters to the Paris Exhibition to report upon the following departments of trade:—Floorcloths, boot and shoe making, bookbinding and stationery, saddlery, engineering, cabinet making, and boiler and engine works.

THE VOLUNTEERS.

The prize meeting of the 2nd London began last Saturday at Rainham, when the principal winners were Sergeant Lowder, Colour-Sergeant Harris, Private Butler, Private Millard, and Sergeant Brown. The company match was won by N company, who beat F by three points.

At the annual prize meeting of the 4th Middlesex the challenge vase and silver medal were taken by Lieutenant Durrans, the bronze medal for second place being secured by Captain Heal. The champion badge, for marksmen only, was won by Colour-Sergeant Amison.

At the close of the competition last week at Rainham by members of the volunteer corps of Middlesex the winner of the champion badge was Private H. Smith, who has thus earned the distinction of being the champion shot of Middlesex.

The autumn meeting of the Middlesex Rifle Association was held last week upon the City Rifles' Ranges at Rainham. This competition was also the final one to decide who should be the winners of the championship badges of the county. The result was that Lieutenant Munday, who won the gold badge in 1875 and the silver badge in 1876, again secured the honour of being the premier shot; Private Shoveller, of the Civil Service, taking the silver, and Colour-Sergeant Bacchus, of the South Middlesex, the bronze badge of the Association. Private Rothon, last year's "bronze" winner was fourth. In the day's shooting winners were as follow:—£8 10s., Private H. Smith and Quartermaster W. Hawley; £5, Lieutenant F. W. Sharpe; £3, Corporal T. Andrews, Private W. Spon, Colour-Sergeant J. Bacchus, and Private S. Adams; £2 15s., Lieutenant J. A. Z. Allison, Private J. H. Shoveller, Sergeant P. Oliver, and Private C. F. Lowe; £2, Private F. A. Hollis, Corporal H. Brand, Private R. Bird, Private J. R. Shaw, and Sergeant G. S. Tovey, Queen's: other winners being Private C. R. Howell, Captain F. J. Sweeting, Private W. Vicars, Major J. R. Morris, Private A. S. Michie, Sergeant E. W. Brooking, Private J. A. M'Kenzie, Private G. E. Ewen, Private H. Bullimore, Corporal W. Weston, Private J. E. Carew, Sergeant Instructor J. B. Mumford, Private J. Sutherland, Private T. Fletcher, Lieutenant H. Munday, Private R. J. Cameron, Private A. Mackintosh, and Corporal H. B. Wilson. Range Prizes.—500 yards: £3, Quartermaster W. Hawley; £2, Private G. E. Ewen, Private C. F. Lowe, and Private H. Smith; £1, Colour-Sergeant J. Bacchus, Corporal H. Brand, Sergeant F. Elkington, Private J. A. M'Kenzie, Corporal H. B. Wilson, and Private J. Wyatt. 600 yards: £3, Corporal T. Andrews; £1 15s., Private J. Runtz, Lieutenant F. W. Sharpe, Private H. Smith, and Private T. Wace; £1, Private C. R. Howel, Private R. Bird, Private H. Bullimore, Private J. R. Saw, Captain F. J. Sweeting, and Corporal H. Weston. Extra Prizes.—Seven shots at 500 yards: £2 10s., Sergeant R. Pullman and Lieutenant J. A. Z. Allison; £2, Corporal A. Leete; £1, Private J. Runtz, Sergeant R. Cunningham, Sergeant-Instructor W. H. Gilder, Private C. F. Lowe, and Corporal S. Short. Seven shots at 600 yards: £3, Sergeant-Instructor W. H. Gilder; £1 10s., Corporal W. H. Hobbis, Private J. H. Jenner, Private C. F. Lowe, and Sergeant-Instructor J. B. Mumford.

The annual official inspection of the 9th Kent Artillery, by Colonel Waller, R.A., commanding the auxiliary artillery of the Home District, took place last Saturday. The usual preliminary exercises having been gone through, the regiment was marched to the batteries, and detachments were drilled at the 40 and 64 pounders, doing their work in excellent style. The detachment of the corps that carried off the third prize at Shoeburyness for repository drill were then called upon to perform operation "A," which they did under the time when victorious at the National Artillery Association meeting. As on that occasion, the squad was under the command of Sergeant-Major Clayton.

The 5th Essex, under the command of Lieutenant-Colonel Birt, also underwent a satisfactory inspection in West Ham Park by Colonel Rose, the officer commanding the sub-district. There was an excellent muster of the regiment.

The bronze medal of the National Rifle Association for Norfolk has been won by Corporal Betts, 1st Norfolk Rifles, the silver medallist of last year. Lieutenant Booth, of Forfar, has secured the Forfarshire bronze medal, shot for at the Angus and Mearns Rifle Meeting.

The Hants and Dorset Artillery Volunteers, under the command of Colonel C. Lanyon Owen, J.P., and made up of corps from Portsmouth, Southampton (whose representatives last year won the Queen's prize at Shoeburyness), Bournemouth, Charmouth, Swanage, Portland, Weymouth, and Lyme Regis, on Saturday went into camp on the grounds of Southsea Castle. On Sunday there was church parade at St. Jude's, Southsea, when twenty-five officers and about 350 men attended, a few remaining in charge of the camp.

The annual international rifle-match between members of the Liverpool rifle corps took place at Altcar on Thursday week. The result was a victory for Scotland, whose representatives, captained by Private Richardson, 5th Lancashire, made 764 points, against England (Private Buckley, 5th Lancashire, captain), 750; Wales (Lieutenant Roberts, 1st Lancashire, captain), 701; and Ireland (Surgeon Parsons, 64th Lancashire, captain), 699 points.

The sixth competition for the Brigade Challenge Medal of the Queen's Edinburgh Rifles took place on the 16th inst., when the holder, Sergeant Simpson, was again the winner, with the magnificent score of 48 points out of a possible 50, in ten shots at 200 yards.

Yesterday week the fortnight's encampment of the National Artillery Association at Shoeburyness came to an end. Before the camp broke up, Colonel Ravenhill, R.A., addressed the men, and, in closing his observations on the subject of their organisation and efficiency, said he hoped that any little deficiencies that had been found this year would be perfected before next year's assemblage. Lord Waveney distributed the prizes. His Lordship congratulated the men on their good conduct in camp, and on the great progress which had of late years been made in the science of gunnery by the volunteers. Lord Truro, General M'Murdo, Major-General Radcliffe, and others were present.

Mr. Donald Mackenzie, who is well known in connection with his efforts to develop North-West Africa, sailed from the Mersey last Saturday for the African coast. Mr. Mackenzie is the bearer of a draft treaty which is declared to have received semi-official approval. He will establish a station at Cape Juby, and penetrate thence to Timbuctoo.

Miss Millar, a young lady from England, who was residing as a summer visitor at the manse of Little Dunkeld, went out last Sunday morning for the purpose of taking a walk. She did not return, and in the evening the rivers Tay and Braan were dragged. Her body was recovered late at night in a pool in the Braan, about 20 ft. deep. It is not known how she got into the water.

AUSTRIAN OCCUPATION OF BOSNIA.

Our large Engraving, from a sketch by Mr. J. Bell, the Special Artist of this Journal attending the march of the Austrian army of occupation into Bosnia, represents the scene of the troops crossing the river Save, at Brod, the frontier town, by means of a bridge of boats, in the last days of July. We have already related the incidents of the week following their entry into Bosnia; the attack upon a squadron of Hussars by the Mussulman insurgents, in the defile of Maglai, where seventy of the Austrians were killed; and the defeat of the insurgents by General Philippovich, on the 4th inst., with the temporary retreat, on the other hand, of General Szapary's column, which was soon enabled, however, to rejoin the main advancing force. General Philippovich gained another victory over the insurgents at Hau Belalovac on the 16th; after which he pushed on to Serajevo, or Bosna Serai, the capital city, with a force numbering 30,000 men, besides all the garrisons he left in places captured along the road. At the same time General Jovanovich, the commander in Herzegovina, was moving to put himself in communication with Philippovich. We now learn that Serajevo was taken by storm on Monday last by a portion of the Austrian forces, under Field Marshal Tegetthoff and General Kaiffel, after a desperately fierce conflict, in which the Austrian troops were fired upon from every house, doorway, and window. Even women and the sick and wounded insurgents in the militars hospital took part in the fighting, which lasted several hours. Terrible scenes of the wildest fanaticism were enacted, and it was only owing to the good nature and discipline of the Austrian troops that the town was not more seriously damaged. Nevertheless, a few houses were plundered and set on fire. The Austrian losses are not inconsiderable, but cannot yet be accurately stated. The insurgents dispersed in all directions, especially towards Gorasda and Rogatica. After the close of the fighting and the complete occupation of the town the Imperial flag was hoisted over the town and saluted with a hundred guns, amid the singing of the National Anthem and acclamations, in which the troops were joined by a portion of the non-Mussulman population.

The provinces of Bosnia and Herzegovina, which are now coming into the possession of the Austrian Empire, were the north-western part of the Turkish dominions in Europe. Herzegovina is what was anciently regarded as the southern portion of Bosnia, and derives its name from the "Herzog," or Duke, by whom it was once separately governed. These territories, which formerly belonged to the important Slav kingdom of Servia, were conquered by the Turks 400 years ago. The feudal nobles and landowners at that time for the most part became apostates to the Mohammedan religion, by which these "Begs," as they are styled, have preserved their estates and aristocratic privileges, grievously oppressing the lower orders, who are commonly of the Greek Church. There is no difference of race or language in Bosnia between the Mussulman and the Christian population; the difference is of religion, but the ruling Moslems are, of course, attached to the Sultan's Empire, while the Greek Church Christians would in general prefer union with Servia.

The physical conditions of Bosnia are more favourable than those of Herzegovina, as it lies in the fertile plains and valleys of the interior, watered by the river Bosna and its tributaries, which flow into the Save, one of the great streams of the Danubian basin, and the boundary of the Austro-Hungarian dominions. Herzegovina, on the contrary, occupies the rugged uplands immediately behind the Dinaric Alps, on the eastern shore of the Adriatic, exposed to bleak north winds and having but a poor soil. By far the greater part of Bosnia is covered with thick forests, fertile meadows, and fruitful fields. Only the tenth part of the 19,240 square miles in Bosnia—in the Herzegovina almost the half—is incapable of culture; one half of the surface is covered with forests, into which in some places the axe has not yet found its way, and four tenths are devoted to agriculture. Bosnia produces much more corn and fruit than it consumes, and exports large quantities to Sissek (Austrian military frontier), Servia, the Herzegovina, and Dalmatia. The plum-trees form large plantations, and Bosnian plums are exported to Western Europe. Little use has yet been made of the inexhaustible treasures of the forests, but with time they may contribute to the Austrian State coffers. The wood of the oaks is prized for its hardness, while the beeches and firs attain a height and size seldom seen elsewhere. The forests are State property, but each inhabitant is permitted to take as much wood from them as he needs for his own use, especially to build the houses, which are mostly of wood. Fishing and hunting are also free, and unusually remunerative. The brooks swarm with trout, and the forests with deer, but also with bears, wolves, foxes, and lynxes. Almost every metal is to be found in Bosnia, even gold—the Dalmatian gold of which the old Roman poets sung came from Bosnia by way of Signa and Clissa, to Salona, and was supplied to Rome by the Propositus Thesaurorum Dalmatinorum. In the middle ages the Ragusa merchants profited by the Bosnian gold-mines, and to this day a rayah sometimes secretly brings small quantities of gold dust to the goldsmith in Sigu and Spalato. Silver is found in the north-east, near Srebrnik and Srebrnica; also lead and iron may be seen on the surface in many districts. The Mohammedan inhabitants of Fonjica, Varesh, Stari-Majdan, Vischegrad, and many other places—the Christians have no inclination for regular and laborious work—are almost without exception smiths. Inexhaustible mines of coal and salt, too, exist in Bosnia. All these treasures, of course, lie almost neglected.

The completion of the railway from Serajevo to Novi, on the Austrian frontier, will greatly change matters for the better, and the more so as the numerous rivers afford excellent means of communication. While in the Karst formation, in the course of many thousand years, the plateau rivers have worn for themselves deep beds in the stone, so that the banks rise perpendicularly to 2000 ft., most of the Bosnian rivers flow between hills in broad valleys. The Save is navigated by steam-boats; its more important affluents, the Unna, Verbas, Ukrina, Bosna, and Drina, are navigable for long distances; and even the Ibar, in the Pashalik of Novibazar, floats small barges of less draught. With other means of communication it looks badly, of course. Highways exist only between Brod and Serajevo, Gradisca and Banjaluka, Radcha (Austria) and Zvornik, Vischegrad and Zvornik, and between Zvornik and Serajevo; but even these few roads are so neglected that they are only to be used with great risk of life and limbs. In the whole country there are no carriages, except the arabas—clumsy, ill-suspended carts, drawn by oxen, in which the Mohammedan women make excursions every Friday and Monday, every week-day with the Mohammedans being devoted to a particular use; thus certain days are for marketing, others for travelling, and so on. The "Kaldermas," or paved roads, in marshy districts, are mostly constructed by private enterprise, seldom by order of Government, and are formed of blocks of stone, often a cubic foot in size, which with time have become worn down, thus forming impracticable barricades. The traveller, whenever the nature of the ground allows it, avoids these paved roads, and rides alongside of them. But as every horse steps in the hoofprints of those that went before him, deep ruts have been formed along the roads, which are generally marshy. The bridle-paths comprise at least 95 per cent of the highways. In the valleys and on the table-lands in good weather they are passable, but every rain transforms them into bogs. Almost all the paths, however, lead over mountains.

Under such circumstances, it is conceivable that few strangers have visited the country; but it will be quite otherwise when railway communication to Vienna is established. Bosnia is rich in natural beauties, some of which have not their equal on earth. Almost all Turkish cities are picturesquely situated; the provincial capital, Serajevo, or Bosna-Serai, is more beautifully situated than any other. It numbers about 48,000 inhabitants, comprising 4500 Greek Catholics, 3000 Jews, and 1000 gipsies. This town is the principal residence of the Bosnian nobility, and until 1850 it formed a sort of republic that was almost independent even of the Vizier; and it was only after the last revolt of the Begs (nobles) that Omer Pasha abolished the independence of the town. Its situation is 1750 ft. above the Adriatic Sea, on both banks of the Miljachka river, in a narrow valley, inclosed by a chain of mountains. The views of the town and valley from the old castle that stands on a plateau are charming; the view to the south is peculiarly lovely, where the Trebovich mountain, rising to a height of 5100 ft., and covered with verdant woods, is a striking object. The small white houses stand in gardens, and above the houses tower a hundred minarets. The parts of the town lying on the river—which latter is spanned by nine bridges—are regularly built, though the streets are narrow; the other parts stretch irregularly up the sides of the mountain. The bazaars are unusually extensive, and on market days contain a motley throng of men and women in the most varied costumes.

THE AUSTRIAN ARMY.

The Austrian army in time of peace numbers eighty regiments of infantry, each consisting of five battalions; three of these form a regiment of the Line, and the fourth and fifth united with the cadre of a battalion in dépôt form the reserves. The rifles consist of one regiment (that of the Tyrol) of seven battalions, each of four companies, and seven companies in reserve, besides a dépôt battalion en cadre, and of thirty-three battalions of rifles, each of four companies, one company of reserves, and the cadres of a dépôt company. The cavalry consists of fourteen regiments of dragoons, sixteen of hussars, and thirteen of Uhlans (cuirassiers no longer exist in Austria); every regiment numbers six squadrons, and the cadres of a squadron in dépôt. The field artillery is thirteen regiments strong, each consisting of thirteen batteries, the cadres to two other batteries, as well as to five or six columns for ammunition. Every battery has eight guns and eight ammunition waggons. The artillery in the fortresses numbers twelve battalions, each of six companies, among them one en cadre; the engineer corps consists of two regiments, each of which is divided into five field battalions, besides the cadres for eight companies of reserves and one battalion in dépôt; while the pioneers in time of peace form one regiment of five battalions and one company of reserves. The troops for the hospital service are divided into twenty-three divisions; the baggage-train consists of thirty-six squadrons, and the cadres to thirty-six in reserve and six more in the dépôt. The Cis-Leithan landwehr, in time of peace, consists only of cadres for eighty-one battalions, while Hungary keeps up the cadres of ninety-two battalions and fifty-eight squadrons.

When the mobilisation takes place all the men bound to serve are called to the colours; the regiments of the Line and the reserves are raised to their full strength in time of war, and the divisions at the dépôt remain stationary. The infantry regiments of the Line and the reserves take the field, the first three and the last two battalions strong. In Cis-Leithania, from the surplus men, a part of the troops at the dépôt, and the landwehr, six battalions can be formed, so that the regiments of reserves may also each number three battalions; but in Hungary, owing to the strict separation between the army and the honveds, any such proceeding would be impossible. The forty companies of reserves of the rifles will be changed into ten battalions, and in Cis-Leithania ten other battalions of reserves will be formed as soon as the last recruits are sufficiently trained. Every cavalry regiment will have a squadron of reserves; every regiment of artillery its fourteenth battery with the necessary ammunition; the artillery in the fortresses will fill up their cadres into companies, and the number of mountain batteries will be raised from five to ten. Every regiment will have a battalion of five companies at the dépôt and reserves; four of the companies can be incorporated at any time into the regiment. The pioneers will place their battalions on a footing of war and have a company at the dépôt for each battalion. Finally, ten railway divisions will be formed, and the baggage train leaves some companies behind. The intendance, sanitary arrangements, gensdarmerie, and military post and telegraph will at once come into operation. The Cis-Leithan landwehr will furnish eighty-one battalions of infantry and just as many companies at the dépôt; further, twenty-five squadrons of dragoons and Uhlans. In addition to these are the ten battalions of rifles from the Tyrol, the same number of reserves, and two squadrons of mounted rifles; Dalmatia also furnishes one. The peculiar relations in the Tyrol are the result of the insurrection in the year 1809, when the little province received out of gratitude for its loyalty the privilege that never more than one regiment of rifles should be recruited there. It is true this regiment now consists of seven battalions; but the Tyrolese still possess advantages over the inhabitants of the other provinces.

After the mobilisation the Austrian army will number thirteen army corps with forty-two divisions of infantry and five of cavalry. The division represents the tactical unit. Each division of infantry consists of two brigades of six to seven battalions, two to four squadrons, three batteries, one company of engineers, one sanitary division, and one commissariat column. The cavalry divisions consist of two or three brigades of eight to twelve squadrons, two to three batteries, one ammunition-waggon, one sanitary division, and one commissariat column. According to the law the Austrian army would thus number, after the mobilisation—

1. Regular army, 900,000 men, 150,000 horses, 24,000 conveyances; fighting force, 570,000 infantry, 50,000 cavalry, 1700 field-pieces.

2. Landwehr, 300,000 men, 24,000 horses; fighting force, 270 000 infantry, 13,000 cavalry.

3. Together, 1,200,000 men, 170,000 horses, 26,000 conveyances; fighting force, 800,000 infantry, 63,000 cavalry, 1700 guns.

The number of cannon, which in proportion was less than in any other large army, has now been increased with the introduction of the Uchatius cannon; the artillery will take the field with at least 2000, perhaps 2200 guns, and in the men who have served their time and retired it possesses excellent and sufficient reserves. But it still remains questionable whether the number of the mobilised army will correspond with that expected from the working of the law. Among the Servians in the south of Hungary and part of the Magyars, it has repeatedly occurred that out of one hundred or more young men bound to serve in the army not ten have been found physically fit to enter the service. In some parts of Hungary and Galicia the number of fugitives from the conscription is very high. The percentage of sick soldiers is usually higher than in any other army; only the German, Czechs, Magyars, and Ruthenians show a normal state of things in the hospital returns; among the Roumanians, Servians, and Croatians, the number of sick is very large. But the deficit thus occasioned is partly covered by the surplus of men from the German and North Sclavic districts. It may be considered that the Austrian army numbers at least 1,000,000 men, with a fighting force of 700,000, among them 50,000 cavalry. The landwehr, besides serving as garrisons for the fortresses and watching those districts where the inhabitants are inclined to opposition, will probably reinforce the army with 50,000 men. The landsturm, similar to the Prussian, will only be called out in case of extreme necessity, and—apart from the guerrilla war in some mountainous districts—will probably not be more useful than the French "franc-tireurs." The geographical and political situation of the Austro-Hungarian Empire will never allow Austria, like Prussia in 1866 and 1870, to concentrate its whole army on one line; but Austria can, in spite of the inefficient railway communication with the south, north-east, and south-east frontiers, assemble in two to three weeks 300,000 at each point of her frontier.

MUSIC.

The Covent-Garden Promenade Concerts will have completed their third week this (Saturday) evening. Since our last notice Madame Montigny-Rémaury has continued to be a special attraction, her admirable pianoforte playing having been heard in several important pieces, notably in Mendelssohn's second concerto (in D minor), which was very finely rendered by her in last Saturday's miscellaneous concert, her finished execution and refined grace of style having been conspicuously displayed in a work that makes large demands on both these qualities. Other features of the programme, although of varied interest, were too familiar to need specification. The serial performance of eight of Beethoven's nine symphonies was continued on Monday evening, when the "Eroica" (No. 3) was given—one of the few works to which the composer himself applied distinctive characteristic titles. The next specialty will be the first appearance of the eminent vocalist, Mdlle. Stella Faustina; Mr. Charles Hallé and Mr. Santley being announced for concerts early in next month. M. Viardot, the celebrated violinist, is also shortly to appear. It will thus be seen that the interest of these performances—ably conducted by Mr. Sullivan and his coadjutor, Mr. A. Cellier—is maintained with unflagging spirit. The third classical night took place on Wednesday.

The Alexandra opera performances are still being successfully given on Saturday evenings. Last week the "Sonnambula" was the opera, with Madame Rose Hersee as Amina, Mr. J. W. Turner as Elvino, and Mr. Ludwig as the Count. This week "Maritana" is to be given, with Madame Blanche Cole as the heroine.

THEATRES.

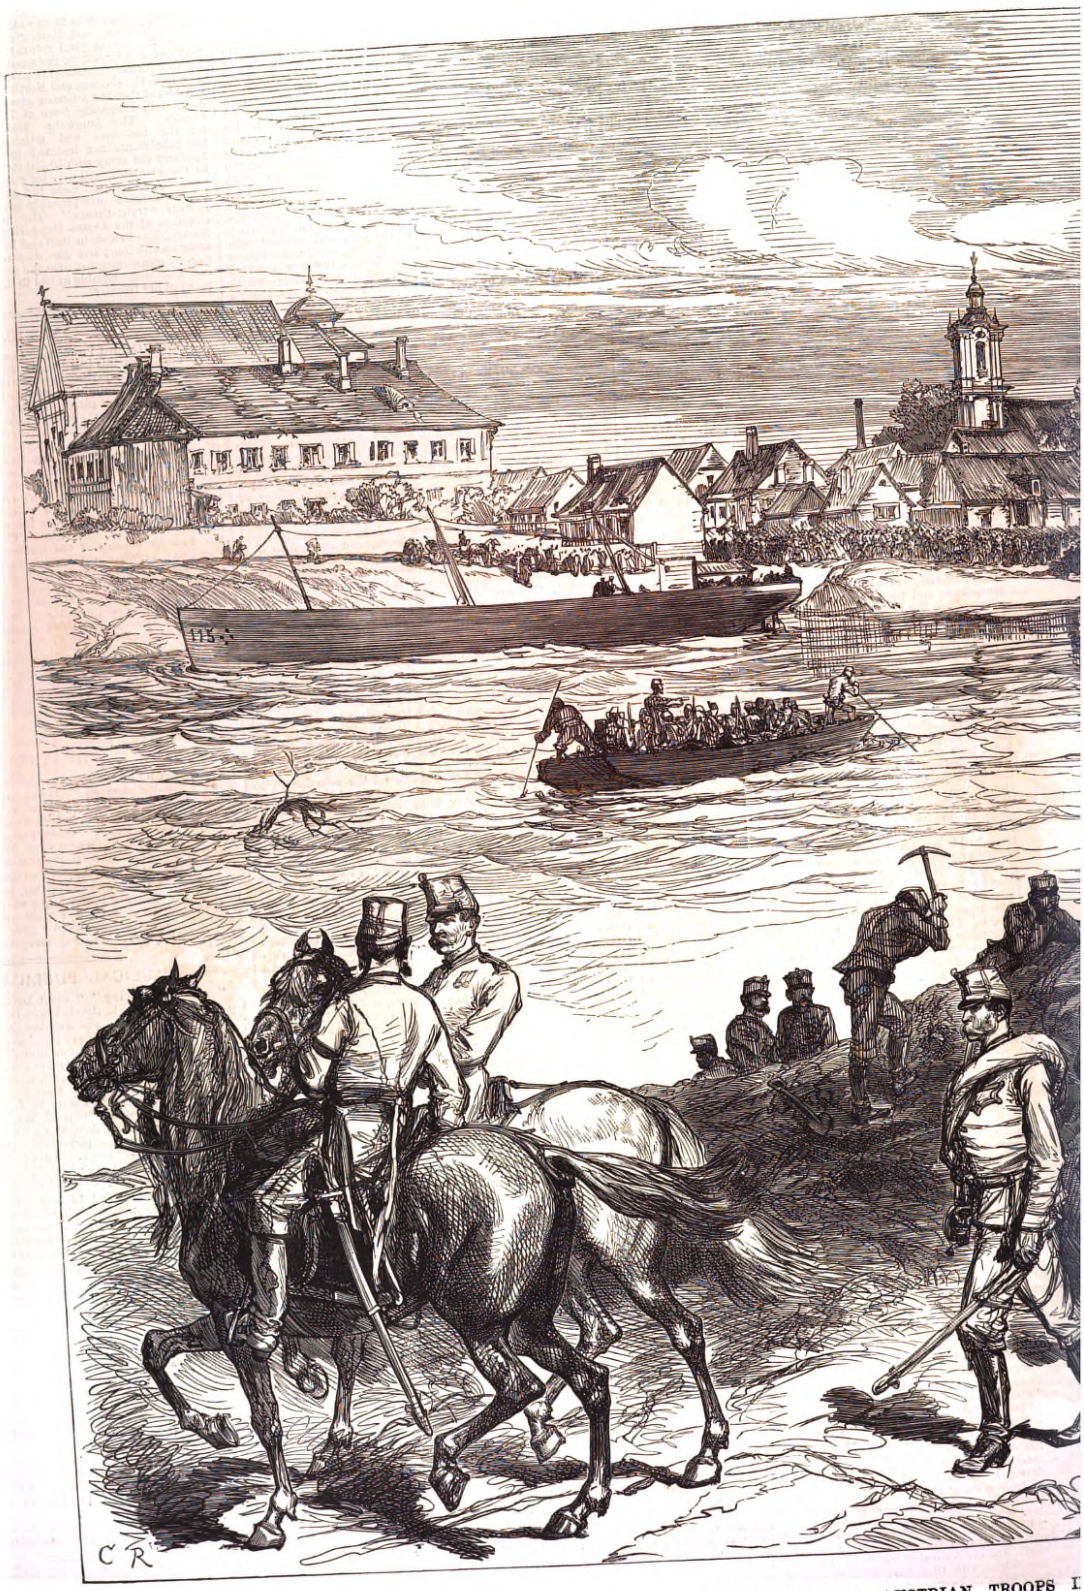
On Saturday a new piece was produced at the Aquarium, entitled "Evening Shadows." It is a three-act comedy drama, and not without merit. Its greatest is, that it provides a good part for Mr. Vollaire, who, as Guy Vere Desmond, achieved in it a remarkable success. Other parts also in the new piece were well interpreted. When acted before a more numerous audience than attended its production, it may prove attractive.

On Wednesday Mr. W. S. Gilbert's sarcastic drama, "Engaged," was acted at the Strand, being the last night but three. The morning performance was occupied with a new musical sketch, entitled "Our Accomplished Domestic," and a new three-act comedy, entitled "Love Wins." Next Monday Mr. Honey appears in a new extravaganza.

MUSICAL PUBLICATIONS.

"A Sailor's Wooing," "Sweet Dreamland," and "Three Gifts," songs by J. L. Roecker, will be acceptable to many drawing-room singers. The melodies lie well for the voice, and will be found generally available. Messrs. Metzler are the publishers, as also of "The Two Stars," a very effective song by Jacques Blumenthal, which gives good scope for declamatory singing. The accompaniment, although of but moderate difficulty, is an important feature. "An Old Chelsea Pensioner," a characteristic song by J. L. Molloy, and "The Last Vigil," a good specimen of the descriptive style, by Odoardo Barri, are also published by Messrs. Metzler and Co.; as are some pleasing pianoforte pieces—"Pera, Valse Orientale," by Edward Dorn; "Love Song," by C. Fontaine; six easy duets by O. Henike, and "Aquarellen," a series of pieces of similar kind, by Heinrich Stiehl.

"The Glee and Choral Library" (Ashdown and Parry) is far on its way towards the hundredth number. The contents of this cheap serial comprise various kinds of part-songs, old and new, well printed, in score, with an accompaniment for the pianoforte, the price of each part being twopence.



"England's Trust," a patriotic song, written by Mr. Edward Oxenford and set to music by Mr. C. H. R. Marriott (the same publisher), is a good specimen of the vigorous, declamatory style.

Three songs, by A. C. Mackenzie (Novello, Ewer, and Co.), are settings of some very expressive lines by Christine Rosetti. The work forms Op. 17 of Mr. Mackenzie's productions, and are worthy of his reputation as a highly cultivated and refined musician. The songs have much grace and charm. "Six Characteristic Pieces for the Pianoforte," by G. J. van Eyken (from the same publishers), are very pleasing bagatelles, each with its distinctive title. "Two Polka-Mazurkas" and "Galop," by the same (also published by Messrs. Novello), are very spirited pieces in the dance style.

"Four Novelletten" for the Pianoforte, by Tobias A. Matthay (Stanley Lucas, Weber, and Co.). There is much of interest and marked character in each of these pieces; which, moreover, afford excellent practice in various forms of mechanism.

"My Love is but a Sailor Boy," by A. S. Gatty (Enoch and Sons), is a telling song, with a bold and effective melody.

The second annual meeting of the International Congress of Librarians will be held at Oxford, under the presidency of the librarian of the Bodleian, the Rev. H. O. Coxe, in the month of October. The principal subject to be discussed at this congress will be one affecting the City libraries.

ENTRY OF THE AUSTRIAN TROOPS I

FROM A S

NIA: CROSSING THE RIVER SAVE, AT BROD.

ER SPECIAL ARTIST.

POETRY.

An exquisite rhymer and rhythmist, though, perhaps, somewhat less exquisite than heretofore, is revealed in Poems and Ballads: Second Series; by Algernon Charles Swinburne (Chatto and Windus), a volume of verse remarkable for mechanical skill, ingenious employment of language, mastery of musical numbers. There are original pieces, and there are translations, chiefly from the French of Villon; the former are, for the most part, vague and shadowy to an almost bewildering extent, but the latter are full of substance, life, flesh and blood, so to speak, of something which can be grasped as well as contemplated, comprehended as well as apprehended. It is in the original pieces, nevertheless, that the author, as might be expected, is seen at his best; and into the first of those pieces he has introduced a few lines of translation, so rendered as to create some doubt about his capacity as a translator. He has converted three lines of Greek, delicious Greek, into four lines of English, rather common-place and certainly inadequate English, ruthlessly breaking up the order and so spoiling the climax of ideas as expressed in the Greek, missing the grace of a very emphatic particle, disregarding the charm of a verbal repetition, whereby a sweet, sad note is twice struck, a special attribute is dwelt upon, and the plaintiveness of the singer's lament enhanced. This is the more remarkable, as well as regretable, because the translator, if anybody, employs with marvellous effect such delicate touches of composition. This, however, is a small matter, which may be passed over without further comment, beyond a cordial acknowledgment of the melodious sweep with which one is borne along through the swelling strophes of "The Last Oracle," each concluding with its mournful refrain, a supplication addressed to Apollo. In "A Forsaken Garden" we have the very spirit of desolation made palpable; and in "The Year of the Rose" we are reminded of the strain which came upon the lovelorn hearer "like the sweet South." Many of the poems are commemorative, and appreciation of them, such is human nature, will depend to some extent upon the reader's knowledge and estimate of the persons commemorated—of Giordano Bruno, of Théophile Gautier, of Victor Hugo, of Louis Kossuth, or of another. Moreover, there are poets and poets. There are those who compel all creatures to their will, to whom you can no more help listening than the wedding guest could help listening to the "ancient mariner;" if they do not hold you with their "glittering eye," they hold you with the irresistible fascination of their utterances; you may soon discover that their influence is baneful, but if you have once put yourself within reach of their enchantment you will struggle in vain against their power; you may renounce them and all their works, so soon as they have let you go free, but you can only keep your freedom by keeping your distance from them. These, of course, are the great masters, who play as easily on the human soul as Hamlet says a man might play upon a certain musical instrument. There are, on the other hand, those with whom, if you are to read their productions so that the reading shall be satisfactory to yourself and just to them, you must have some natural bond of sympathy, some intellectual or other affinity: otherwise they have no more power over you than the mesmerist over one who is not a "subject." They may pipe unto you, but you will not, you cannot, dance; they may mourn unto you, but you will not, you cannot, lament. Their cleverness, their elegance, their learning, their perfect acquaintance with their art, their picturesqueness of diction, the pretty style in which they play with words, the dexterous fashion in which they conjure with sounds, you readily admit, whilst you marvel and admire; but they seldom or never touch your heart, quicken your pulse, thrill your whole being, take you captive. You are more occupied with their manner than with their matter, so that in a little while you are oppressed with a sense of general factitiousness, and weariness steals over you. Words—words—words, you feel inclined to answer, with Hamlet, if anybody should ask you what you are reading. To this latter class of poets Mr. Swinburne, so far as his second series of poems and ballads is concerned, may be considered to belong—unless, indeed, he be placed alone by himself. It is probable that readers who have some sort of affinity with him will see in his latest publication a proof, if any were needed, of his excellence as a great poet, and it is equally probable that very many readers will see in it only an additional proof, if any were needed, of his excellence as a great versifier. Indeed, it appears to be almost certain that one or two of the pieces contained in the volume were intended by himself to be regarded as scarcely more than exercises in the difficulties of versification. And, if so, it is pertinent to remark that, when, as in the "sestina" and the "double sestina" and in the poem called "Relics," a trick of rhyme and of alternation is the prominent characteristic of the structure, neither eye nor ear can catch the full effect of assonance and inversion, unless the sense be so luminous, the ideas so connected, the construction so plain, the cadence so marked, that the lines can be read, as it were, at a breath, without break or pause to interfere with the force of instantaneous impression. No more graceful piece, whether for theme or for metre, is to be found in the volume than that which is entitled "Choriambics." But it is with poetry as with beauty, as with wit, as with humour; unless it be of that very highest kind which takes all appreciative mankind by storm, it depends for its greater or less acceptance upon the degree in which it responds to the requirements of various tastes and idiosyncrasies.

There is profound meditation, though not very melodiously expressed, in the new volume of Mr. Robert Browning's, which contains two poems with the unfamiliar names, La Saisiaz, and The Two Poets of Croisic (published by Smith, Elder, and Co.). Some travelled readers may, indeed, be aware that La Saisiaz is a place in the Jura highlands near Geneva, and Croisic might be guessed to be somewhere in Brittany. These localities serve merely for the stage upon which the author takes his stand, as a contemplative wanderer about Europe, to utter pregnant discourses of moral wisdom, in his accustomed fashion of a lengthy monologue confidentially addressed to an intimate companion, who speaks little or not at all in reply. The supposed partner of his stock of ideas and sentiments in an evening walk up the hillside at La Saisiaz must of necessity keep silence, being the spirit of a lady friend who died before. With her imagined presence, in a scene of outward solitude, does the serious-minded poet continue his strain of anxious metaphysical guessing and questioning, upon the topics of a late conversation between them. The rational probability, from such experience as we have of the laws of nature and the nature of man, that God has designed the soul to inherit an immortal life, is here made a theme of most earnest discussion, intermixed with tender reminiscences of what seems an undying friendship. We are not, however, at all satisfied with the merely problematical conclusion. Tennyson's "In Memoriam" is a far worthier, bolder, truer, more faithful treatment of this momentous question, and it is incomparably better poetry. The kind of versification presented by Mr. Browning, in "La Saisiaz," consists of unwieldy fifteen-syllabled lines, in rhymed couplets, which may possibly have been intended to suggest the heavy dragging tread of alternate booted feet in the pedestrian ascent of a steep bit of road. In "The Two Poets of Croisic" he has adopted an eight-lined stanza, which ought to be sprightly, but which seems to dance in clogs, with no rhythmic harmony in its movement, while the forced rhyming has rather a tedious effect. Here it is a trivial story of no particular interest, from the personalities of the French literary society that flourished in the last century, in the heyday of Voltaire's renown and intellectual dictatorship, which the poet has to relate. He is sitting beside a winter log-fire with the companion to whom he is pleased to talk first of René Gentilhomme, the Prince of Condé's page in 1610, and subsequently of Paul Desforges Maillard, who lived a hundred years later, and who was likewise a writer of verse. The endeavours of this second poet of Croisic to win the notice of the Parisian world, and the stratagem by which his sister, the Demoiselle Malcrais, imposed upon Voltaire, as well as upon the editor of a fashionable literary journal, might perhaps have been rendered amusing by a simpler and lighter style of narrative. But a subject of this kind seems to us quite unworthy of a mind so powerful as that of Mr. Browning, and he has not the sort of talent to deal happily with it, though he has more than talent, great original genius, for very different work.

Professor Edward Dowden, of Dublin University, is known as the author of a series of critical studies of the "Mind and Art" of Shakspeare, which is one of the best contributions to a true appreciation of our greatest poet. He has lately come before us with a volume of short poems of his own (published by H. S. King and Co.), which show that he possesses an active and creative poetic enthusiasm, with a perfect mastery of the resources of our language in metrical compositions of different forms, blank verse, terza rima, the sonnet, or the simple four-lined stanza of short measure. Greek mythology and heroic romance have furnished many of the subjects for his muse; and his treatment of these, while in substance quite original, seems to recall the manner of Tennyson's "Œnone" and "Ulysses." Several also of Mr. Dowden's sonnets are occupied with classic figures of Greek epic poetry or sculpture; but in the greater part of them we are invited to share his intimate convictions and sympathies concerning the individual life of man, its moral and religious aspirations, its capacities of love, devotion, and sacrifice, only marred by that painful self-consciousness which inevitably besets the poet inspecting and exhibiting his own deepest emotions. He passes occasionally into a satirical mood, as in "King Mob" and "The Modern Elijah;" but these poems contain much that is true and beautiful, in thought, feeling, and expression, and scarcely two lines of commonplace. Yet they should be intended merely as prelusions to more substantial and independent work.

The accomplished veteran in America who has studied and imitated with fair success almost every phase and tone of national poetry in the different countries of Europe, Professor H. W. Longfellow, master of a sweet and clear idyllic and lyric muse of his own, once again strikes up a melodious strain for our delectation. Keramos and Other Poems (Routledge) is a volume that will find acceptance in Old England as well as in New England, and one which should be dear to the amateurs of artistic porcelain and other "ceramic" wares displayed at the South Kensington Museum or at any fashionable Exhibition of Arts and Manufactures. The potter's wheel, as it spins deftly round, sets Mr. Longfellow singing of the pottery of all ages and nations. He crosses the Atlantic, landing at Delft, whence the Pilgrim Fathers sailed for New England; then he goes to visit Bernard Palissy in France, touches at Majolica or Majorca, on his short Mediterranean voyage to Italy, where he finds Etruria and Umbria, the artists of Gubbio and Faenza, and the Florentine Luca della Robbia, with much to be said of their lives and works. He passes on to the Levant, and up the Nile to Cairo, and discourses of Egyptian, Arabian, and Persian earthenware; after which he proceeds to India, China, and Japan, displaying the history of this branch of Oriental industry, associated with the general conditions of mankind in Asia, in a highly instructive review of the entire subject. Four divisions of the present volume are occupied with "Keramos;" the fifth contains a variety of smaller poems and translations, which have the merits of many other pieces by Mr. Longfellow already printed.

There is much imaginative faculty, roused to activity by strong and pure emotion, in Lady Charlotte Elliot's Medusa and Other Poems (Kegan Paul and Co.). But she has not, we think, been well advised in her choice of a metrical form which soon fatigues the ear with rhymed couplets of over-weighted and too lengthy anapæstic lines. The so-called Homeric hymn to Demêter has suggested the theme of one of her narrative pieces. In this, as well as in her treatment of the story of Perseus killing the Gorgon, she displays a true appreciation of Greek mythological fancies. "The Pythoness" is another poem in the same vein of classic enthusiasm. We are more pleased, however, with "A Calm Day by the River," and "Loch Maree," and some of the meditative verses which give expression to moral and religious sentiment. "A Dream of Long Ago" would make a beautiful song, if set to music like Virginia Gabriel's. Lady Charlotte's genius, we should say, is rather for lyrical poetry, and she will succeed best with the shorter and lighter kind of versification.

Miss A. M. F. Robinson's Handful of Honeysuckle (Kegan Paul and Co.) is something more than a pretty garland of wild flowers. We have rarely seen a volume so simple and unpretending with so much suggestion of a reserve of power. Especially is this conveyed in the terseness and condensation by which Miss Robinson differs so remarkably from the generality even of meritorious authoresses. "A Pastoral" is a perfect allegory of the Renaissance in sixteen lines, evincing great depth of thought as well as felicity in concrete figurative embodiment. The essence of Schopenhauer's philosophy is put into eight lines in the little poem entitled "Will." "Dawn Angels" might almost be attributed to Blake, a poet more easily emulated by a kindred spirit than imitated by a copyist. "Dawn" is almost equally beautiful in a different style. "A Street Singer" thrills with genuine passion, and the principal poem in the book evinces remarkable narrative as well as descriptive power. Mingled with these shining successes are a considerable number of unconscious reproductions of favourite authors, tedious refrains, and sonnets where weight of thought is disproportioned to elaboration of form. But, taken altogether, we have not hitherto seen a more promising first volume.

The opening chapters of a new novel, entitled "An Eye for an Eye," by Mr. Anthony Trollope, appear in the Whitehall Review this week.

The committee of the Royal Humane Society had under their consideration last Tuesday an unusually large number of cases in which gallantry had been displayed in saving or attempting to save life. The medals, money rewards, and certificates of the society were voted in accordance with the varying circumstances of the cases—a lady receiving the recognition of the society for saving a child from drowning.

UNIVERSITIES AND PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

It is settled that Mr. Evans, the Master of Pembroke College, Oxford, will succeed Dr. Sewell, as Vice-Chancellor.

The appointment of the Rev. J. J. S. Perowne to the Deanery of Peterborough will cause a vacancy in the Hulsean Professorship of Divinity, Cambridge. Dr. Perowne was elected Hulsean Professor on June 17, 1875, in succession to Dr. Lightfoot, who was elected Lady Margaret Professor.—The forms of entry for the December local examinations of the Cambridge University have been sent to local secretaries. The date for their return is this year Oct. 1.

The following candidates have passed the recent First M.B. Examination at London:—

First Division: H. T. Bassett, F. Bowe, R. Bredin, L. A. Cantin, W. Chisholm, W. W. Colborne, F. A. Cox, E. M. Cuffe, D. D. Day, T. V. Dickinson, A. W. Graham, R. Honeyburne, H. Hoole, V. A. H. Horsley, R. Jones, D. A. King, T. Kirsopp, D. McDonnell, R. Maguire, H. Moudsley, F. W. Mott, H. M. Murray, A. Newsholme, W. R. Parker, L. C. Parkes, W. Pasteur, A. E. Permewan, R. Pratt, B. N. Rake, J. Shaw, P. E. Shearman, C. A. Weber.

Second Division: A. Atmaram, C. A. Ballance, H. A. G. Brooke, D. Collingwood, W. J. Collins, A. W. Dallmeyer, J. Davidson, D. W. Donovan, H. T. Groom, D. T. Hoskyn, G. Hurst, G. R. Marsh, R. R. W. Oram, E. Rice, A. J. McConnel Routh, J. S. W. Silk, H. Smith, J. E. Squire, H. Swale, W. A. Sykes, E. S. Tait, W. D. Thomas, F. R. Walters, C. J. Watkins, C. H. White.

Excluding Physiology—First Division: G. F. Barnes, W. Sellers. Second Division: J. Smith, J. Whiting.

Physiology only—Second Division: T. Crisp, G. E. Fooks, R. Hughes, W. J. Roeckel, C. W. Suckling.

The Marquis of Lorne, who is an old and distinguished student of the University of St. Andrews, has contributed 100 to the fund of the new association for its better endowment and extension.

The Rev. Algernon Boys, M.A., of Jesus College, Cambridge, and Senior Curate of Faversham, has been appointed Classical Professor in the University of Trinity College, Toronto.

The following are declared by the Civil Service Commissioners to be the successful candidates in their order of merit at the open competition held in July, 1878, for cadetships at the Royal Military College:—

E. L. Guilding, W. D. J. Pollard, R. M'Donnell, T. O'H. Horsman,* J. L. Sinclair, J. F. Greenwood, H. W. Mitchell, A. F. Poulton, H. J. A. Rowe, W. H. Bowes, R. N. Gamble, R. C. M. Ferguson, E. D. Los, C. G. E. J. Manners, F. H. Lund, W. G. B. Western, M. A. Kerr, J. D. Hunt, E. F. Wade, J. Richardson, Hon. R. J. French, C. H. L. Baskerville, J. M. Fleming, C. R. M'Gregor, E. B. Burton, W. S. Cumming, M. C. R. Lang, G. P. Rankin, G. H. Butcher, J. Mosse, R. K. W. R. Clavell, R. P. S. Barnett, St. G. R. W. E. Burton, E. C. W. M. Kennedy, C. C. Monro, F. W. N. M'Cracken, G. M. Mackenzie, R. P. Grove, H. Hamilton, G. W. Gael,* C. J. O'Brien, R. F. L. Farrar, R. J. Tudway, H. J. Bremner, G. F. Rowcroft, H. T. Godden, T. H. Bairnsfather, W. R. G. Egerton, C. A. R. Blackwell, J. S. Ryall, C. A. Wedderburn, F. W. Ripton, F. S. Le Fanu, J. H. Medlicott, L. Seward, W. H. Rycroft, G. de W. Verner, J. A. H. Reilly, L. R. H. Roberts, A. J. Murray, G. G. Tarry, W. E. Rowe, J. G. Blake, W. J. H. Chawner, G. W. H. Le Feuvre, J. B. H. Carmichael, J. H. Harwood,* V. A. M. Fowler, L. T. Fitzgibbon, E. F. Sulivan, L. E. Cooper, N. C. Perkins, G. G. A. Egerton, E. Berry, W. H. Thackwell, H. S. Marshall, G. H. Weller, T. H. Hunter, A. R. Browning, W. B. Brabazon, R. Kinsaid-Smith, M. E. Loftus, C. W. Bishop, E. Allen, F. D. R. Newbury, F. W. B. Sandon, H. C. Pritchard,* J. H. S. Gibb, G. A. Norcott, F. G. T. Thornton, J. Vans-Agnew, C. H. Hunt, W. K. M'Clintock, C. G. Brittan, F. E. P. Curzon, A. Honywood, H. N. Gaitskell, R. F. Anderson, D. C. F. M'Intyre, D. A. Hamilton, A. Vint, R. E. Philips, M. H. S. J. Saltoun, O. A. Chambers, J. Lampen, R. H. Twigg, F. W. Eagar, J. G. Mayne, E. A. Kettlewell, A. Haynes, A. Fuller, G. Albam, R. F. Hibbert, J. R. H. Oldfield, A. N. Lysaght.* Candidates marked thus (*) are eligible for commissions in the West India Regiments only.

The following are the names of the University candidates successful at the same examination: L. S. Newmarch, F. W. Shaw, O. Ward, L. Brook-Hollinshead, H. A. Stock, L. G. Oliver, J. E. Pierson, J. R. D. Smith, J. E. F. H. Roche, L. Bannington, E. Knatchbull-Hugessen, F. W. Greatrex.

The Queen's Cadets, Indian Cadets, and Honorary Queen's Indian Cadets who have passed a qualifying examination for cadetships at the Royal Military College are:—Queen's Cadets—R. L. Cowper-Coles, T. H. Horne, W. R. Lloyd. C. R. M'Nair. Indian Cadets—A. Beale, E. J. Carter, V. A. Couper, W. A. B. Dennys, W. H. Dobbie, C. G. F. Edwards, F. H. Smalpage. Honorary Queen's Indian Cadets—F. B. Simpson, D. W. Stewart. The following Page of Honour has also passed a qualifying examination for a cadetship in the Royal Military College:—L. G. Drummond.

The following Lieutenants of Militia have passed a qualifying examination for commissions in the Army:—A. H. Brooksbank, G. Brooman, R. G. H. Couper, R. Gifford, H. H. H. Vyse, A. K. Huddart, A. B. Phipps, C. G. H. Sitwell, C. H. de K. Walhouse, J. G. Woodley, R. D. Wynyard.

The following, in the order of merit, are declared by the Civil Service Commissioners to be the successful candidates at the open competition held in July for admission to the Royal Military Academy, Woolwich:—

J. Stewart, M. Nathan, O. M. R. Thackwell, R. C. O. Stuart, E. T. Young, F. D. V. Wing, F. H. Crampton, G. E. Benson, L. G. Watkins, T. E. Carte, G. S. Mellish, S. E. G. Lawless, E. A. G. Tippinge, D. E. Hoste, H. S. Horne, D'Arcy W. Reeve, N. W. H. Du Boulay, A. Cooper-Key, H. W. W. Barlow, E. Pollock, A. T. Warre, C. T. Head, A. L. Carroll, M. M. Weekes, F. G. Kappey, P. J. T. Lewis, A. V. Briscoe, A. E. A. Butcher, A. B. N. Churchill, H. T. Hawkins, G. F. W. St. John, J. J. M'Mahon, A. L. Molesworth, E. M. Percival, R. F. L. M'Geough Bond, C. C. Wiseman-Clarke, W. L. Brook-Smith, C. H. S. Vores, H. G. Birch, J. S. C. Le Quesne.

The following are the names of the officers of the Royal Navy and Royal Marines who obtained prizes and certificates at the examination held on the termination of the session 1877-8 at the Royal Naval College, Greenwich:—

First prize (£100 scholarship), Lieutenant H. J. May; second prize (£80 scholarship), Lieutenant R. A. C. Montagu; third prize (£50 scholarship), Captain A. C. Bobilliard, R.M.A.

Honorary certificates have been gained by the following:—Lieutenants J. G. M. Field, F. G. Kirby, C. J. Trower, H. H. Hayes, H. C. A. Baynes, and F. Elton; Captain G. R. Hope; Lieutenants T. M. Scott, G. A. C. Egerton, H. J. Morgan, G. M. Henderson, G. M. Brooke, C. S. Fegan, R. M. T. Hockin, B. J. H. Adamson, R. W. White, B. R. Bradford, W. F. Carslake, W. B. Almack, H. G. Grey, C. H. Coke, G. S. Gunn, H. C. Hawker, J. Brant, H. Pearson, A. N. Heathcote, H. B. Elwyn, R. E. Berkeley, and H. G. W. Thorold.

Certificates on special subjects have also been awarded to Captain J. W. Harrison, R. M., Lieutenants W. C. Reid, G. F. Smith, G. H. Drury, H. J. Jeffreys, James Cuddy, and C. A. F. Waters.

Scholarships, exhibitions, and prizes gained at St. Bartholomew's Hospital Medical College in the sessions 1877-8:—

Lawrence Scholarship and Gold Medal, M. Prickett; Brackenbury Medical Scholarship, S. Dingley; Brackenbury Surgical Scholarship, A. Dingley; Senior Scholarship in Anatomy, Physiology, and Chemistry, D. A. King; Senior Scholarship in Science, W. A. Hoyle, W. Overend; Preliminary Open Scholarship in Science, W. A. Hoyle, W. Overend; Preliminary Scientific Exhibition, P. S. Abraham; Jeaffreson Exhibition, G. F. Herringham; Kirke's Gold Medal, C. A. D. Clarke; Bentley Prize, T. W. H. Garland; Hitchen's Prize, H. Smith; Wix Prize, A. C. Buller; Prox. accessit, D. A. King; Practical Anatomy, senior: Foster Prize, W. T. Wyatt, D. D. Day, S. Westcott; 4, W. J. Collins; 5, C. Sanders, E. Rice; 7, E. Cooke, J. Harper, 9; R. Jones, J. E. Risk, 11; G. T. Hockin. Practical Anatomy, junior: Treasurer's Prize, C. L. H. Tripp; 2, J. W. Field; 3, A. C. Roper; 4, J. E. Square; 5, B. Rice; 6, F. J. Short; 7, C. J. Muriel, T. Mudge; 9, W. A. Hoyle.

The Charity Commissioners have determined to promulgate a new scheme in connection with Alleyne's College of God's Gift, Dulwich. The changes aimed at have for their object the improvement of the curriculum of the college.

The prize which Prince Leopold gives annually to the Newport (I.W.) Grammar School has been awarded to Black.

Two open scholarships at the Oxford Military College, of the respective values of £40 and £30, have been awarded to Mr. W. C. A. Radcliffe and Mr. R. E. F. Bullen.

Mr. Benjamin Sharp, M.A., late Hulmeian Exhibitioner of Brasenose College, Oxford, has been appointed Second Master of the Royal Grammar School, Caermarthen.

The Rev. Charles Granville Gepp, M.A., has been appointed to the Head Mastership of King Edward VI.'s School, Stratford-upon-Avon, vacant by the resignation of the Rev. R. Valpy French, D.C.L.

The following have been elected to open exhibitions at Lancing College:—A. Hammond, from Mr. Cornish's, Clevedon School; A. R. Reynolds, from Lancing College; F. R Blagden, from Mr. Malden's, Windlesham House, Brighton. G. J. Pocock has been nominated to the Gladstone Scholarship.

At Crewkerne School the Wynford Exhibition has been awarded to W. B. C. Treasure; and the four Owsley Scholarships have been awarded to T. T. Carlyon, J. A. Devenish, F. J. Tompsett, and W. W. Coombs.

The Shrewsbury School list, which has just been issued, contains a long list of distinctions obtained by old boys during the past year.

OBITUARY.

MR. BAGSHAW.

Robert John Bagshaw, Esq., of Gloucester-square, Hyde Park, London, and Dovercourt, Essex, died on the 14th inst., at his town residence, aged seventy-four. He was only son of John Bagshaw, Esq., J.P. and D.L., of Dovercourt, M.P., by Rebecca, his first wife, daughter of J. Johnson, Esq. He was formerly a merchant at Calcutta, and after his return sat in Parliament for Harwich from 1857 to 1859. He was also a Justice of the Peace and a Deputy Lieutenant for Essex, and served as High Sheriff in 1873. He married, first, in 1841, Georgiana, daughter of Richard Baker, Esq., of Barham House, Herts (which lady died in 1867); and secondly, in 1870, Emma Ann, daughter of Matthew Clark, Esq. Mr. Bagshaw was Provincial Grand Master of Freemasons.

The deaths have also been announced of—

The Rev. Thomas Steele, LL.D., D.C.L., on the 16th inst., at 35, Sydney-buildings, Bath.

Colonel William Scott Adams, on the 12th inst., at 44, Chester-square, aged seventy-seven.

Richard Howson Lamb, Esq., J.P., on the 12th inst., at Bragborough Hall, Rugby, aged eighty-nine.

Thomas Livesey, Esq., formerly of Chamber Hall, Oldham, on the 4th inst., at his residence, Alton Grange, Ashby-de-la-Zouch, aged seventy-seven.

Lieutenant-Colonel Robert Chalmers, Royal Staff Corps, and Commandant 14th Bengal Cavalry Lancers, on the 11th inst., at 106, Lansdowne-road, Notting-hill, aged forty-six.

The Rev. William Gell, formerly missionary at Rarotonga, South Pacific, and for nearly twelve years minister of Rectory-place Chapel, Woolwich, on the 14th inst., at Camden House, Lee Glebe, Blackheath, aged sixty-five.

Colin Lorne Lochnell Campbell, second son of the Rev. Colin Campbell, and grandson of the late Archibald Campbell, Esq., of Lochnell, on the 2nd inst., shot while in action against the Kafflrs.

The Rev. Thomas Jackson, M.A., of Brasenose College, Oxford, formerly Vicar of Wadworth, in the county of York and afterwards Vicar of Merevale, Warwickshire, on the 7th inst., at Brighton, aged sixty-two.

The Rev. Morris Hughes, Rector of Pentraeth, Anglesea, to which he was appointed in 1854, at the age of ninety-six. He was ordained in 1811, and continued in the discharge of his duties until a very short time before his death.

Viva Jane Maria, Lady Martin, widow of Sir Ranald Martin, C.B., F.R.S., on the 5th inst., at 116, Gloucester-terrace, Hyde Park. Lady Martin was the youngest daughter of the late Colonel John Paton. She was married in 1826, and was left a widow in 1874.

Lady Georgina Seymour, widow of the late Admiral Sir George Seymour, and mother of the Lord Chamberlain, on the 20th inst., in her apartments at Hampton Court Palace. She was in her eighty-sixth year, and had only been ill a fortnight. She had lived at the palace sixty years.

Thomas Richard Peareth, Esq., late 12th Lancers, at Sandgate, on the 13th inst., in his thirty-first year. He was fourth son of William Peareth, Esq., of Usworth House, in the county of Durham, by Katherine, his wife, daughter of Thomas Law Hodges, Esq., of Hernsted Park, in the county of Kent, M.P.

Rear-Admiral James Dirom, on the 12th inst., at his residence in Annan, aged sixty-three. He entered the Navy in 1829, and served in the expedition to the Baltic in August and September, 1854; and afterwards, sailing to the Black Sea, took part in the naval operations against Sebastopol, and at the capture of Kertch and Kinburn in 1855. He retired from active service after the conclusion of the Crimean War, and was promoted a retired Rear-Admiral in June, 1874.

Captain Edwin A. Porcher, R.N., late in command of her Majesty's ship Sparrowhawk, suddenly, at Homburgh, on the 13th inst., aged fifty-three. He entered the Navy in 1838, and served as First Lieutenant of the Esk in the Baltic expedition of 1855, including the naval operations against Sweaborg. He was subsequently First Lieutenant of the Hibernia flag-ship at Malta, from 1857 to 1862, when he was promoted, afterwards commanding the Sparrowhawk on the Pacific station from 1865 to 1868. He was promoted to Captain in October, 1868.

The Rev. Charles Henry Barham, M.A., J.P. for the counties of Pembroke and Westmorland, and formerly Rector of Barming, Kent, and of Kirkby More, Westmorland, on the 15th inst., at his seat, Trecwn, near Haverfordwest, aged seventy. He was the youngest son of the late Joseph Foster Barham, Esq., M.P. for Stockbridge, Hants, by Lady Caroline, his wife, daughter of Sackville, eighth Earl of Thanet, and sat in Parliament for Appleby from May to November, 1832. He married, first, 1836, Elizabeth Maria, daughter of William Boyd Ince, Esq., of Ince, in the county of Lancaster; and secondly, 1863, Ellen Catharine, daughter of Edward T. Massy, Esq., of Cottesmore, in the county of Pembroke.

Yesterday week the Eurydice was cleared of all the remaining bodies. Upwards of 120 have now been recovered, the number including six officers.

Lord Rosebery has remitted 10 per cent on the rents of his tenantry due for last year. In writing to his factor, his Lordship says:—"A succession of bad years culminating in what was almost a famine year constitute so exceptional a state of things that I feel compelled to disregard for once my conviction that such remissions are wrong in principle."

The Government authorities have granted permission for the erection of a second pier on the long stretch of esplanade at Southsea. The site of the new structure is at East Southsea, and it will command a very fine sea view. The directors, of whom Colonel E. Galt, J.P., is chairman, have accepted the tender of Messrs. Head, Wrightson, and Co., of Stockton-on-Tees, who have engaged to complete it within nine months. Its entire length will be 580 ft., including a large pier-head of octagon shape 145 ft. in diameter. Mr. George Rake, of Southsea and Portsea, is the engineer.

CHESS.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

All communications relating to this department of the Paper should be addressed to the Editor, and have the word "Chess" written on the envelope.

S J (Bradford).—If you said "J'adoube" at the moment of touching the piece you were not bound to move it.

Chessophile (Ossett).—Your best course is to write to the publishers, 8, Salisbury-court, Fleet-street.

R J S (Paraiba, Brazil).—Your solution of No. 1791 is correct.

Waldenburg (Lindau).—Too simple in construction. Such a device as "Castles" in a two-move position presents no problem to the modern solver.

A S (Wildhad).—We are obliged for your courtesy, but the game inclosed in your letter has been frequently published, and the problem is much too elementary. Mr. Morphy resides in New Orleans. He was born in June, 1837.

H B (Berlin).—Your proposed solution of No. 1796 is correct but that of No. 1797 is not so. In reply to 1. B to R 4th Black can play 1. P to B 4th.

P Le P and Lelie.—We shall examine the position and report the result.

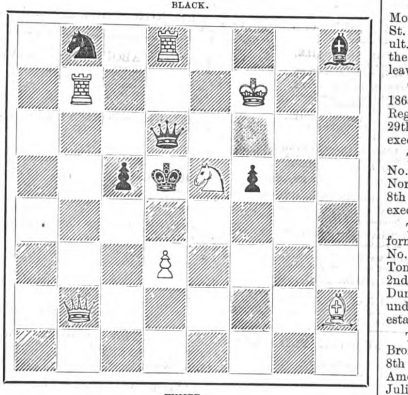
Ernest G (Southampton).—In castling on the Queen's side you must move the King to Q B sq and the Rook to Q sq.

J H (Queen's-square).—We have not space for all the variations springing from such a position. The following, which is the main line of play, will help you. Black plays, K takes Kt, B to Q 3rd (ch); 22. R to Kt sq, R takes P (ch); 23. K takes R, Q to Kt 5th (ch); 24. K to B sq, R takes Kt (ch); and, Waldenburg of Lindau.

Correct Solutions of Problem No. 1796 received from C J Ellison, G M B W, Tonks, G E Marr, W Lesson, J Hunter, Dabbshill, Emile Frau, M H Hind, Neworth, S D Bessell, R H Brooks, and Waldenburg of Lindau.

Correct Solutions of Problem No. 1799 received from L Sharswood, Curiosa, R Gray, T Edgar, S R of Leeds, C S Cox, A R G, D Leslie C Darragh, J F Spiers, L S D, Americaine, Lammas, St J E, E Esmonde, Lenora and Leon, R Schofield, T W Hope, S Threlfall, Dorothy, T Greenbank, G Foxbrooke, T Edgar, N Brock, Elsie, M Whitley, J Wontcene, J S W, M Rees, E Worsley, P le Page, E P Vulliamy, Lesson, A Wood, East Marden, John B W (Woodfield), T R Judson, Coplapino, N Rumbelow, C G Ellison, Abdul Kechlin, Tombstones, Waldenburg of Lindau, E L G, S D Bessell, Dabbshill, B Phelan, C E Marr, Chessophile, C Meyer, J Hunter, G H V, E H H V, Herewand, W S B, R H Brooks, Trial, Constance E, S Strype, J R Padston, Ned Nurca, Pretextat, Second Life Guards, Lulu, and W G Webb.

Solution of Problem No. 1798.



WHITE.	BLACK.
1. B to Q Kt 5th	B takes Kt *
2. Q to K Kt 3rd	B takes Q, or aught
3. B or Q mates accordingly.

* If 1. R takes Kt, then 2. Q to K 7th (ch); and if 1. B takes P, then 2. Kt to Q 3rd (ch), &c.

PROBLEM No. 1801.

By the Rev. W. Lesson.

BLACK.

WHITE.

White to play, and mate in two moves.

THE COUNTIES CHESS ASSOCIATION.

Played in the first-class Tourney of the above society between Mr. Thobold, the winner of the first prize, and Professor Wayte.—(Irregular Opening.)

WHITE (Mr. T.)	BLACK (Prof. W.)	WHITE (Mr. T.)	BLACK (Prof. W.)
1. P to K B 4th	P to K 3rd	15. B takes K R P (ch)
2. P to K 3rd	P to Q Kt 3rd	The impetuosity of the attack that follows here carries everything before it, and is highly characteristic of Mr. Thorold's vigorous style.
3. Kt to K B 3rd	B to Kt 2nd
4. P to Q Kt 3rd	Kt to K B 3rd
5. B to Kt 2nd	B to K 2nd	15.	K takes B
6. Kt to B 3rd	P to Q B 4th	16. P to Kt 5th	B to K 2nd
7. Kt to K 5th	Castles	17. Q to R 5th (ch)	K to Kt sq
8. B to Q 3rd	P to Q 3rd	18. K R to Kt sq	P to Q 5th
		19. R to Kt 3rd	Kt to K 4th

Black, of course, acted wisely in not taking the K Kt P with the Bishop, as that line of play would have given White a fine attack upon the castled King.

9. Kt to Kt 4th	Kt to B 3rd	Intending to play P to K B 4th, and sacrifice the Kt when the adverse Pawn is advanced to Kt 6th. There does not seem to be any better resource.
10. P to Q R 3rd	P to Q 4th
11. Q to K 2nd	P to Q R 3rd	20. P takes Kt	P takes Kt
12. Castles (Q R)	P to Q Kt 4th	21. R to R 3rd	P takes B (ch)
13. Kt takes Kt (ch)	B takes Kt	22. K to Kt sq	P to B 4th
14. P to K Kt 4th	P to B 5th	23. P to Kt 6th, and wins.

A Game played in the same Tourney between Mr. Fisher and Professor Wayte.—(King's Bishop's Game.)

WHITE (Mr. F.)	BLACK (Prof. W.)	WHITE (Mr. F.)	BLACK (Prof. W.)
1. P to K 4th	P to K 4th	7.	P to K Kt 4th
2. B to B 4th	Kt to K B 3rd	Black takes prompt advantage of White's two last moves.
3. Q to K 2nd	Kt to B 3rd
4. P to Q B 3rd	B to B 4th	8. Kt to R 2nd	R to K Kt sq
5. Kt to B 3rd		9. P to Q 3rd	P to Kt 5th
	P to K B 4th, at this point, forms the Lopez Gambit. That line of play was probably considered too hazardous for a tourney encounter, and the move in the text, or perhaps P to Q 3rd, appear to be the best at White's command.	10. P takes P	Kt takes P at Kt 5th
		11. Kt to B 3rd	Q to B 3rd
		12. B to K 3rd	Q to Kt 3rd
		13. B to Q sq
5.	P to Q 3rd	His best resource here appears to be B takes B; but Black in any case retains the attack with a fine game.
6. Castles	P to K R 3rd
7. P to K R 3rd		13.	B takes B
Whether this move proceeds from caution or timidity it is equally objectionable, for it only attack at the weakest point of the field. White, we think, would have done better by developing his forces on the Queen's side.		14. P takes B	Kt takes P
		15. Kt to R 4th	Q to Kt 6th
		16. Q to R 5th	Kt takes B
		17. P takes Kt	B to Kt 5th, and White resigned.

CHESS INTELLIGENCE.

A match between Mr. G. C. Heywood, the well-known composer of chess problems, and Mr. W. N. Potter, in which the latter yielded the large odds of a Knight and the Pawn and two moves alternately, has just been brought to a conclusion. In the course of the match ten games were played, Mr. Potter scoring three and drawing two at the odds of a Knight, and each side scoring two and one draw at the Pawn and two moves.

Messrs. Abbott, Andrews, and Pierce, the judges in the tourney of the British Problem Association, have awarded the prizes to the sets bearing the mottoes "Ex sudore voluptas" and "Anything," in the order named. The best single problems are pronounced to be as follow—in two moves, No. 1, of "Home, sweet home;" in three moves, No. 1, of "Qui se ressemble s'assemble;" in four moves, No. 3, of "Es giebt," &c. The award will remain open until Sept. 12 next, when it will become final, should no objections be raised regarding the accuracy or originality of the problems in the interval. Eleven sets were contributed to this tourney, and the judges inform us that eight of these were found to contain one or more unsound problems. Inaccurate compositions have always been too numerous in problem tournaments; but we cannot call to mind any former competition that presented such an average as this, and we do not believe it is any indication of the standard of accuracy among English composers. Two of the correct sets are referred to above; the third is "Home, sweet home," which secured the special prize for the best two-move problem, and is therefore ineligible for the prize provided for the third best set. This sum is consequently reserved for future competition.

WILLS AND BEQUESTS.

The will (dated Jan. 26, 1872) with two codicils (dated June 13, 1876, and July 28, 1877) of Mr. Philip Wykeham Martin, M.P., of Leeds Castle, Kent, who died on May 31 last at the Commons House of Parliament, Westminster, was proved on the 7th inst. by the Right Hon. John George Dodson, M.P., and Frederick Iltid Nicholl, the acting executors, the personal estate being sworn under £140,000. The testator leaves to his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Wykeham Martin, £1000, all his horses, carriages, wines and liquors, and other specific bequests; to Miss Emma Martha Ayton, formerly governess to his son, an annuity of £60 for life; to his uncle, the Rev. Francis William Wykeham Martin, £200; to his executors, £200 each, free of duty, and they are to receive certain annual sums in addition as trustees and for the management of his settled estates; and to his servants who have been two years in his service at the time of his decease two years' wages. All his real estate is devised to his executors, in the first place, for the purpose of keeping up and preserving them, for which object a sum of not more than £3000 per annum is to be spent; and, in the next place, to pay to his son, Cornwallis Philip Wykeham Martin, during the life of his mother, £2000 per annum; subject thereto, he settles all his estates to the use of his wife for life, and then to his said son for life, with remainder to his first and other sons according to their seniorities in tail. The residue of his personalty is given upon trusts similar to the uses declared of his real estate.

The will (dated July 1, 1876) of the Rev. Francis John Eyre, late of Sandhurst Lodge, Tonbridge Wells, who died on June 3 last, was proved on the 9th inst. by Mrs. Anne Louisa Eyre, the widow, Brownlow Poulter, and the Rev. John George Gresson, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £60,000. The testator bequeaths to his wife £500; to his executors, Mr. Poulter and the Rev. J. G. Gresson, £200 each; to his daughter, Sophia Frances, the income of £10,000 during the life of his wife; to his wife his residence with the furniture and effects for life, and on her death the same are to go to his said daughter. The residue of his property is to be held upon trust for his wife for life, then for his said daughter for life, and upon her death as she shall appoint.

The will (dated April 2, 1878) of the Venerable Hugh Morgan, Vicar of Rhyl, and Archdeacon and Canon of St. Asaph, who died on June 8 last, was proved on the 29th ult. by Mrs. Anna Maria Morgan, the widow, the sole executrix, the personal estate being sworn under £10,000. The testator leaves all his real and personal estate to his wife.

The will (dated Aug. 14, 1863) with a codicil (dated June 30, 1865) of General Harry Thomson, late of Park-square West, Regent's Park, who died on June 27 last, was proved on the 29th ult. by Miss Jane P. Thomson, the daughter, the acting executrix, the personal estate being sworn under £9000.

The will (dated Jan. 15, 1877) of Mr. James Wilson, late of No. 3, Blomfield-terrace, Shepherd's-bush, and of Craster, Northumberland, who died on the 9th ult., was proved on the 8th inst. by Henry Barrett and Aaron Howey, the surviving executors, the personal estate being sworn under £8000.

The will (dated May 4, 1876) of Mr. Henry Mitford Boodle, formerly of No. 6, Leinster-gardens, Hyde Park, and of No. 53, Davies-street, Berkeley-square, but late of Camerton, Tonbridge Wells, who died on the 3rd ult., was proved on the 2nd inst. by Henry Trelawny Boodle, the son, and Frederick Dumergue, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £8000. The testator gives all his real and personal estate to his wife, Mrs. Fanny Boodle.

The will (dated July 3, 1878) of Mr. Charles John Bythesea Brome, late of Heavitree, near Exeter, who died on the 8th ult., was proved in London on the 5th inst. by Miss Amelia Cecilia Brome, Miss Agnes Mary Brome, and Miss Julia Bythesea Brome, the daughters, the executrixes, the personal estate being sworn under £6000.

The Renfrew Town Council has resolved to buy five acres of land on the Elderslie estate, for the formation of a harbour.

Until the return of her Majesty from Scotland in November the state apartments at Windsor Castle will be open to the public on Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Fridays. Tickets can be obtained by applying personally at Collin's Library, Castle-hill. The Albert Memorial Chapel is open every Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday.

BOOKS RECEIVED.

Under the Red Ensign. By Thomas Gray. (Simpkin, Marshall, and Co.)
The Physical System of the Universe: An Outline of Physiography. By Sydney B. J. Skertchley, F.G.S., H.M. Geological Survey. (Daldy.)
The Lord's Host; or, Lessons from the Book of Joshua. By the Rev. G. W. Bethune, M.A. (Hamilton, Adams, and Co.)
Leisure Hours: Verses. By M. A. T. Sandys. (Pickering and Co.)
The Child of the Desert. By the Hon. C. S. Vereker. 3 v. (Chapman and Co.)
Ballads. By the Lady Middleton. (Kegan Paul and Co.)
Lyrics and Landscapes, &c. By Guy Roslyn. (Moxon.)
The Method of Law: An Essay on the Statement and Arrangement of the Legal Standard of Conduct. By James H. Monahan, Q.C. (Macmillan.)
Homo Sum. A Novel. By Georg Ebers. From the German of Clara Bell. 2 vols. (Sampson Low and Co.)
Hands, Not Hearts. By Lady Isabella Schuster. (Chapman and Hall.)
France: South Half; or, France beyond the Loire, with Parts of Italy and Spain, their Summer Resorts and Wintering Stations. Maps and Plans. Second Edition. By C. B. Black. (Adam and Charles Black.)
One Hundred Holy Songs, Carols, and Sacred Ballads. Original, and Suitable for Music. (Longmans and Co.)
William Tell. A Drama by Schiller. Translated into English Verse by Rev. E. Massie. (Clarendon Press, Oxford.)
Carmelin. By the Author of "Mary Castle." 2 vols. (Tinsley Brothers.)
Agriculture and Peasantry of Eastern Russia. By Henry Ling Rain. (Baillière, Tindall, and Co.)
Salvia Richmond. A Novel. 3 vols. (Bentley and Son.)
Verney Court. An Irish Novel. By M. Nethercott. 2 vols. (Remington.)
Tales from the Old Dramatists. By Marmaduke E. Browne, M.A. (Remington and Co.)
The Gamekeeper at Home. Sketches of Natural History and Rural Life. (Smith, Elder, and Co.)
The New Paul and Virginia; or, Positivism on an Island. By W. H. Mallock. (Chatto and Windus.)
Uppingham-by-the-Sea. A Narrative of the Year at Borth. By J. H. S. (Macmillan and Co.)
Characteristics of Leigh Hunt, as exhibited in "Leigh Hunt's London Journal," 1834-5. By L. Cross. (Simpkin, Marshall, and Co.)
Diplomatic Sketches: Count Beust. By "An Outsider." (Bentley and Sons.)
A Handbook on Home Life and Elementary Instruction. Practical Suggestions on National Primary Instruction. (Chapman and Hall.)
The Bulb Garden. By Samuel Wood. Coloured Illustrations, Plans, &c. (Crosby, Lockwood, and Co.)
On Foot Through the Peak. By James Croston, F.S.A. New Edition. (Simpkin, Marshall, and Co.)
The Nabob. A Story of Parisian Life and Manners. By Alphonse Daudet. Translated by E. Clavequin. 3 vols. (Smith, Elder, and Co.)
Molly Bawn. By the Author of "Phyllis." 3 v. (Smith, Elder, and Co.)
"Les Origines de la France Contemporaine:" The Revolution. By H. A. Taine, D.C.L. Translated by John Durand. Vol. I. (Daldy and Co.: Diderot and the Encyclopedists. By John Morley. 2 vols. (Chapman and Hall.)
Mine is Thine. A Novel. By Laurence W. M. Lockhart. 3 vols. (Blackwoods.)
Proceedings of the Royal Colonial Institute. Vol. IX., 1877-8. (Sampson Low and Co.)
A Month in the Midlands. By G. Bowers. Hunting Illustrations. Plates hand-coloured. New Edition. (Bradbury, Agnew, and Co.)
Hillford-on-Aire. By Martin Weld. 3 vols. (Tinsley Brothers.)
Physical Training: Practical and Theoretical. By "Amator." Second Edition. (Howard and Co., St. Bride-street.)

MAPLE and CO., the largest and most convenient FURNISHING ESTABLISHMENT in the world. A House of any magnitude Furnished from Stock in three days. Purchasers should inspect the Stock before deciding elsewhere. All goods marked in plain figures. Estab. 38 years.

MAPLE and CO. supply every requisite for HOUSE FURNISHING, including Linens, Ironmongery, Glass, Crockerywares, Clocks, Bronzes, and every description of Ornaments, either for dining or drawing rooms, or for Christmas and Wedding Presents, in separate departments.

DINING-ROOM FURNITURE.

MAPLE and CO.—DINING-ROOM FURNITURE.—Sideboards in oak, mahogany, and other woods, from 5 guineas to 100 guineas. Fine oak and mediæval Dining-room Furniture; Tables from 3 guineas to 70 guineas. A large assortment of Clocks, Bronzes, and other Ornaments.

DINING-ROOM FURNITURE.—Forty very handsome Carved Oak Antique Sideboards, with Dining-Tables and Chairs to match. Thirty complete Dining-room Suites in stock to select from, 14 guineas. Good strong Dining-room Chair, in mahogany or oak, stuffed all hair, and covered in leather, 24s. 6d.

MAPLE and CO.—DRAWING-ROOM FURNITURE. The Largest Assortment in London. An endless variety of Cabinets, from 2 to 90 guineas, many quite new in design; a large assortment of Buhl Furniture, as well as Black and Gold; 100 Easy-Chairs, from 1 to 10 guineas; a very extensive Stock of Clocks, Bronzes, and Fancy Ornaments; also Chimney-Glasses, from 2 to 80 guineas; Console-Tables, as well as Girandoles, from 1 to 20 guineas.

MAPLE and CO., Importers.

TURKEY CARPETS,

INDIAN CARPETS,

PERSIAN CARPETS.

OVER 2000 DAGHESTAN and SOUMNACK CARPETS, also 500 Turkey Carpets, of extra fine quality and at marvellously low prices, just received from Constantinople. These Goods have been bought by Agents especially dispatched by Messrs. MAPLE and CO. for cash, are of great rarity, some being very handsome old prayer rugs, which have been made over a hundred years. The prices are wonderfully low—in fact, one third of that usually asked for these curiosities.—145, 146, 147, Tottenham-court-road, London.

MAPLE and CO. — SILK DAMASKS. The largest and most varied assortment of Satin, Silks, Cotelines, Silk Reps, all in stock. To purchasers this is a great object, as not only do they get the silks at a lower price than if they were made, but they are not kept waiting.

MAPLE and CO.—CURTAINS, for Dining and Drawing Rooms. The largest and most varied stock of Curtain Materials in London. Good Wool Reps, double width, 2s. 6d. per yard. Satin Reps, in all colours, all wool, and double width, from 3s. 3d. per yard.

MAPLE and CO.—CRETONNE CHINTZ. The French Chintz, which requires no lining when used for loose covers. The width is 32 inches, and the prices vary from 6½d. per yard to 3s. 11d. per yard. The largest assortment in England. Patterns sent.

POSTAL ORDER DEPARTMENT. Messrs. MAPLE and CO. beg respectfully to state that this Department is now so organized that they are fully prepared to execute and supply any Article that can possibly be required in Furnishing at the same price, if not less, than any other house in England. Patterns sent and quotations given free of charge.

MAPLE and CO.—BED-ROOM SUITES in EARLY ENGLISH, carried out to design by the best artists of the day. Some new and most elegant suites, designed by gentlemen especially engaged by Messrs. Maple. These suites, which are a speciality with this firm, should be seen. Mackintosh, &c., has been erected so as to produce this class of furniture at the lowest possible cost.
145, 146, 147, 148, 149, Tottenham-court-road, London.

GARDNERS' NEW DINNER and TABLE GLASS SERVICES are original in design, effective in appearance, and unequalled in price. Dinner Services from £3 3s. the Set for twelve persons, complete, with 15 per cent discount for cash on or before delivery. Table Glass Services from £3 8s. 6d. the Set for twelve persons complete.

DINNER SERVICES.

	Coloured Lithographs post-free. In Deep Blue.		In Blue and White.
The Lansdowne	£2 3 0	The Lansdowne	£2 3 0
The Laurel	3 13 6	The Indiana	1 4 0
		The Danish	2 8 0

Discount 15 per cent.

In Enamelled Patterns.		In their unequalled Crown Ware.
The One Thousand and Two (A)	5 5 0	In Ruby	£5 5 0
The Japanese Bamboo	6 6 0	In Pink	5 5 0
The Humming-Bird	7 7 0	In Black	5 5 0
The Sèvres	7 7 0

Discount 15 per cent.

TABLE GLASS SERVICES.

Plain light stem glass	£3 5 6	Light engraved glass	£5 15 6
Richly cut glass	5 5 0	Richly engraved glass	6 19 6

Discount 15 per cent.

Illustrated Glass Catalogue, which must be returned, sent post-free on application.

Gardners', Lamp, Glass, and China Manufacturers, 453 and 456, West Strand, Charing-cross.

MORTLOCK'S CHINA.—GREAT SALE of CHINA, GLASS, and EARTHENWARE WILL TERMINATE AUG. 31. Further reductions in every department, previous to stocktaking.
202, 203, and 204, Oxford-street; and 30, 31, and 32, Orchard-street, Portman-square, London, W.

OROIDE GOLD WATCHES, 21s., 25s., 30s.; free by registered post 6d. extra. Facsimile of costly gold watches; correct time-keepers. Catalogues post-free.
C. C. ROWE, 88, Brompton-road, London, S.W.

£10. BENNETT'S WATCHES. In return for a £10 Note, free and safe per post, one of BENNETT'S LADY'S GOLD WATCHES, perfect for time, beauty, and workmanship, with keyless action, air-tight, dampt-ight, and dust-tight.—65, Cheapside, London. Gold Chains at manufacturers' prices. P.O.O. to John Bennett.
BENNETT, 65 and 64, Cheapside.

WALKER'S CRYSTAL CASE WATCHES are superseding all others. Prize Medals—London, 1862, Paris, 1867. Silver Watches, from £4 4s.; Gold, from £6 6s. Price-Lists sent free.—68, Cornhill; 220, Regent-street; and 76, Strand.

JOSEPH GILLOTT'S STEEL PENS. Sold by all Stationers throughout the World.

EPPS'S COCOA. GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING. JAMES EPPS AND CO., HOMŒOPATHIC CHEMISTS.

CHOCOLAT MENIER, in ½lb. and ¼lb. Packets. For BREAKFAST and SUPPER.

CHOCOLAT MENIER.—Awarded Twenty-Three PRIZE MEDALS. Consumption annually exceeds 17,000,000lbs.

CHOCOLAT MENIER. Paris, London, New York. Sold Everywhere.

MOURNING ORDERS SENT AT ONCE UPON RECEIPT OF LETTER OR TELEGRAM.
A large Staff of very competent Dressmakers and ASSISTANTS are kept purposely to TRAVEL (to all parts of the country, no matter the distance—(free of any extra charge whatever to the Customer) with a full assortment of Made-up Goods of the most fashionable and suitable description.

FOR A FAMILY MOURNING, and also Mourning for Servants,

Orders, however large, can be completed at very short notice by Dressmakers of the greatest proficiency.

Observe the only one Address—
PETER ROBINSON'S,
COURT AND GENERAL MOURNING WAREHOUSE,
256 to 262, REGENT-STREET, LONDON.

One of the most important Houses of its kind in England. Established as a Mourning Warehouse Thirty Years.

AT PETER ROBINSON'S, of REGENT-STREET.

BLACK DRESS SATINS, all pure Silk, at 5s. 9d., 6s. 6d., 7s. 6d., 8s. 9d., and 10s. 9d., made by Messrs. Bonnet.

The DUCHESS SATIN, at 12s. 6d. (26 inches wide), a magnificent fabric for richness and for durability cannot be surpassed.

BLACK SATINS, for Trimming purposes, at 2s. 6d., 2s. 11d., 3s. 6d., and 4s. 6d. per yard.

BLACK SILKS—Specially Cheap, Manufactured by Messrs. Bonnet et Cie, at .. 5s. 6d.
Manufactured by Messrs. Tapissier et Cie, at 5s. 3d.
Manufactured by Messrs. Jaulent et Cie .. 4s. 6d.
Manufactured by Messrs. Dégove et Cie, at .. 4s. 11d.

Also, BLACK SILKS, in very serviceable qualities, at 2s. 6d., 2s. 11½d., 3s. 6d., 4s. 6d., and 4s. 9d.

CHINA WASHING SILKS, 21s. the Piece of 20 yards.

PETER ROBINSON is a Wholesale as well as a Retail Dealer in Black Silks.
As he buys direct from the Manufacturer, all intermediate profits are saved.
Address only for Patterns as follows:—
PETER ROBINSON, 256 to 262, REGENT-STREET.
THE COURT AND GENERAL MOURNING WAREHOUSE.

AT PETER ROBINSON'S, of REGENT-STREET,

COSTUMES IN BLACK SILK, Exquisitely fashioned, at 4½, 5½, 6½, 7½, 8½, and 10½ guineas.

COSTUMES IN BLACK SATIN, the Purest and Richest Qualities, at 10½ guineas.

COSTUMES FOR YOUNG LADIES, in pretty Fancy Trimmed Silks, at 5½ guineas.

COSTUMES FOR DINNER AND EVENING DRESS, in Grenadine, trimmed Satin and Silk, a large variety, from 3½ to 7½ guineas.

COSTUMES IN BLACK BRUSSELS NET, at 2½s. 6d.

COSTUMES IN BLACK GRENADINE, at 2 guineas.

COSTUMES IN WHITE MUSLIN FOR GARDEN PARTIES, at 2½s. 6d. to 3½ guineas, with Material for Bodice.

COSTUMES IN WHITE CAMBRIC FOR MORNING DRESS, at 15s. 6d. to 27s. 6d.

COSTUMES IN BLACK MATERIAL (New Summer Fabrics), at 2 guineas, and up to 7 guineas.

Observe—The ONLY Address for the above is
PETER ROBINSON, of REGENT-STREET,
THE COURT AND GENERAL MOURNING WAREHOUSE.
Nos. 256 to 262.

FURS at SUMMER PRICES.
REAL RUSSIAN SEAL PALETOTS,
33 inches long .. .. 9½ guineas.
36 inches long .. .. 11½ guineas.
39 inches long .. .. 13 guineas.
New and Perfect Shapes,
and of the most enduring Qualities.

FUR-LINED CLOAKS,
Lined Real Russian Squirrel, 45 inches long, 25s. 6d., 34s., 42s., 52s. 6d., and 3 guineas.
Also a special lot,
Lined with Clear Grey and White Squirrel, 47 inches long, at 59s. 6d.
For Samples—Address ONLY as follows:—
PETER ROBINSON, REGENT-STREET,
Nos. 256 to 262.

THE LOUIS VELVETEEN. PERMANENT ORIENTAL BLUE-BLACK.
GRIFFIN'S HEAD SUPPORTED BY WINGS.
Trade Mark:
Motto:—
"NOS ASPICIT JUVANT."
These VELVETEENS, dyed in the new shade of BLUE-BLACK by a special process, are guaranteed to retain their colour and brilliancy, and cannot be distinguished from LYONS SILK VELVET at four or five times the price. Special makes for CHILDREN'S WEAR.
This VELVETEEN takes the needle much easier than any other make.
May be had at all Drapers' and Wholesale Houses.
CAUTION.—The public is respectfully informed that, in consequence of inferior dyes and makes (in fact, the OLD dyes and makes which, owing to their inferiority in dyeing, &c., will not stand the test of wear) being sold for the LOUIS VELVETEEN, each piece will now be STAMPED ON THE BACK EVERY TEN YARDS
THE REGISTERED TRADE-MARK—GRIFFIN'S HEAD, SUPPORTED BY WINGS. MOTTO—"NOS ASPICIT JUVANT."
The LOUIS VELVETEEN PERMANENT ORIENTAL-BLUE BLACK. Be careful to see the VELVETEENS bear this Trade Mark. The LOUIS VELVETEEN is NOT dearer than inferior dyes and makes. Agents for Wholesale only—J. H. FULLER, 92, Wood-street, London; WM. FIFE, 92, Glassford-street, Glasgow; JOHN FREEMAN, 20, Wicklow-street, Dublin.

MOURNING.
Messrs. JAYS' experienced Dressmakers and Milliners travel to any part of the kingdom, free of expense to purchasers, when the emergencies of sudden and unexpected mourning requires the immediate execution of Mourning Orders.
They take with them Dresses and Millinery, besides Materials, at 1s. per yard and upwards, to cut from the piece, all marked in plain figures, and at the same price as if purchased at The London General Mourning Warehouse in Regent-street.
Reasonable estimates are also given for Household Mourning at a great saving to large or small families.
JAYS,
THE LONDON GENERAL MOURNING WAREHOUSE, Regent-street.

FOR ALL SEASONS AND ALL CLIMATES.
UNDER THE PATRONAGE OF THE
ENGLISH and FOREIGN COURTS.
EGERTON BURNETT'S
WELLINGTON SERGES,
AND VARIOUS OTHER APPROVED WOOLLEN FABRICS.
EGERTON BURNETT has repeatedly had the honour of supplying "those admirable Serges" to the ROYAL FAMILY, and executes Orders daily FROM ALL PARTS.
Neither rain nor salt water can affect their permanent dye. Prices from 1s. 3½d. to the finest 4s. 6d. per yard. PATTERN-BOOKS sent free by post and carriage paid to Bristol or London on parcels over £2. GOODS PACKED FOR EXPORTATION.
A Special Strong Make for BOYS' and GENTLEMEN'S SUITS, 54 inches, from 3s. 6d. per yard.
EGERTON BURNETT,
SERGE WAREHOUSES,
WELLINGTON, SOMERSET.

NEW FABRICS AND FASHIONS FOR AUTUMN.
SILKS, DRESSES, MANTLES, COSTUMES.
Patterns and Illustrations free.
PETER ROBINSON, OXFORD-STREET, W.

TEN THOUSAND PIECES OF COLOURED, BLACK, AND FANCY SILKS at GREAT REDUCTIONS, including 20,000 mètres of rich Striped and Check Silks, at 1s. 11½d. per yard. 600 pieces of rich Coloured Gros Grain Silks, every new shade, at 3s. 9½d. per yard.
1000 pieces of Black Silks, of special pureness, in four prices—viz., 2s. 6d., 3s. 6d., 3s. 11d., and 4s. 6d. per yard.
BROCADED SILKS,
of extreme richness, usual prices, 8s. 6d. to 21s., will be sold at 4s. 6d. to 9s. 6d. per yard.
Damassés of the newest designs, usual price, 3s. 6d., at 1s. 11½d. per yard.
1000 PIECES OF SILK PONGEES, in lengths of 20 yards, with rich Embroidered and Satin Stripe trimming, 39s. 6d. complete. 60 pieces Rich Silk Embroidered Cashmere, at 3s. 9d. per yard; usual price 6s. 6d.
500 PIECES INDIAN PONGEE WASHING SILKS, 19s. 9d. the piece of 20 yards.
Patterns post-free.

VERY FASHIONABLE THIS SEASON.
RICH VELVET VELVETEEN.
300 pieces fast Black, very wide, 2s. 3d. to 3s. 6d. per yard.
All the new Rich Shades of Colour, 2s. 6d. to 4s. 6d. per yard.

CASHMERES AND CASHMERE MERINOS, FOR AUTUMN DRESSES.
A special purchase, in Black and all the new colours, amounting to several thousand pieces.
Very wide, at 1s. 11d. to 3s. 6d. per yard.

TRAVELLING and SEASIDE DRESSES.
Witney, Estamene, and Angola Serges,
Fancy Casimirs, Rich Foplins,
New Autumn Moss Cloths, and other Novelties,
in endless variety, 10s. 6d. to 21s. 6d. the Dress.

SPECIAL SALE OF
BLACK GRENADINE COSTUMES.
A Producer's Stock of several hundred, from 10s. 6d. to 1 guinea.
These Goods are much less than half price.
PETER ROBINSON, 103 to 108, OXFORD-STREET, W.

SWAN and EDGAR
ARE NOW SHOWING a large STOCK of SEASIDE and TRAVELLING GARMENTS, Ulsters, Waterproofs, and Dust Cloaks.—Piccadilly and Regent-street.

LADIES ABOUT TO TRAVEL should see the "OSBORNE" DRESS-CASE, very light and handsome, with collapsible bonnet compartment. Price 10s. 6d.
HARBUN, Manufacturer, 261, High Holborn (five doors west from Inns of Court Hotel). Illustrated List free.

CAUTION.—BOND'S CRYSTAL PALACE GOLD MEDAL MARKING INK.—Some Chemists and Stationers, for extra profit, deceive you. Genuine Label, "Prepared by the Daughter of the late John Bond."—Works, 75, Southgate-road, London. No heating required.

JOHN GOSNELL and CO.'S VIOLET and MILLEFLEUR POWDER, for the Toilet and Nursery, Universally admired for its purity and fragrance. Sold by all Chemists and Perfumers. Wholesale, 93, Upper Thames-street.

BREIDENBACH'S ABRONIA.—The New Scent for 1878. Delicate, refreshing, and durable, 2s. 6d. to 40s. per Bottle. Breidenbach's MACASSARINE, invaluable for preserving the Growth of the Hair, 2s. 6d. per Bottle.
Of all Chemists, and the Makers, 157a, New Bond-street, W.

ROWLANDS' KALYDOR cools and refreshes the face and hands of all exposed to sun and dust; eradicates tan, sunburn, &c., and produces a beautiful complexion. 4s. 6d. per bottle.

ROWLANDS' ODONTO whitens the teeth and prevents decay. ROWLANDS' MACASSAR OIL prevents the hair falling off during hot weather. Ask any Chemist for Rowlands' Articles.

EAU DE CHYPRE.—PIESSE and LUBIN. This is an ancient perfume from Cyprus. During the national career of Egypt, Persia, Greece, and Rome, the Island of Cyprus was the resort of the elite, learned, and refined. It was at the time of the Crusades, when Richard I. of England assumed the title of King of Cyprus, that the famous Eau de Chypre was introduced into Europe, the composition of which is yet preserved in the archives of the Laboratory of Piesse and Lubin. Those who are curious in ancient perfumes can be gratified at 2, New Bond-street, London.

VALUABLE DISCOVERY for the HAIR. If your hair is turning grey, or white, or falling off, use "The Mexican Hair Renewer," for it will positively restore in every case Grey or White Hair to its original colour, without leaving the disagreeable smell of most "Restorers." It makes the hair charmingly beautiful, as well as promoting the growth of the hair on bald patches where the glands are not decayed. Ask any Chemist for the "Mexican Hair Renewer," price 3s. 6d.
Prepared by HENRY C. GALLUF, 493, Oxford-street, London.

FLORILINE. For the Teeth and Breath. Is the best Liquid Dentifrice in the World; it thoroughly cleanses partially-decayed teeth from all parasites or living animalculæ, leaving them pearly white, imparting a delightful fragrance to the breath. Price 2s. 6d. per Bottle. The Fragrant Floriline removes instantly all odours arising from a foul stomach or tobacco smoke, being partly composed of honey, soda, and extracts of sweet flowers and plants. It is perfectly harmless, and delicious as sherry. Prepared by HENRY C. GALLUF, 493, Oxford-street, London. Retailed everywhere.

A LADY having a simple RECIPE that at once safely removes SUPERFLUOUS HAIRS, preventing their appearance, has pleasure in forwarding it upon application to Mrs. Grace Newton, Verwood Villas, Thornton-heath, Surrey.

LAXORA MEDICATED FRUIT LOZENGES for CONSTIPATION, SLUGGISHNESS OF THE STOMACH, BILE, HEADACHE.
The "Lancet:"—"It is a great improvement on the preparations in common use for the same purpose."
"Medical Times":—"Laxora Lozenges can be safely recommended."
C. R. C. Richborne, Ph.D.:—"Laxora Lozenges are efficacious, and nicely made."
Sold, 1s. 1½d., by all Chemists and Druggists; Wholesale, 62, Southwark-street.

"FOR THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE."
CLARKE'S WORLD-FAMED BLOOD MIXTURE is warranted to cleanse the Blood from all impurities, from whatever cause arising. For Scrofula, Scurvy, Skin and Blood Diseases its effects are marvellous. In Bottles, 2s. 6d. each, and in Cases containing six times the quantity, 11s. each, of all Chemists. Sent to any address for 30 or 132 stamps, of the Proprietor, F. J. CLARKE, Chemist, Lincoln.

HOOPING-COUGH.—ROCHE'S HERBAL EMBROCATION.—The celebrated Effectual Cure without internal medicine. Sole Wholesale Agents, EDWARDS and SON, 157, Queen Victoria-street (late of 38, Old Change), London. Sold retail by most Chemists. Price 4s. per Bottle.

DINNEFORD'S MAGNESIA. The best remedy for acidity of the Stomach, Heartburn, Headache, Gout, and Indigestion.

DINNEFORD'S MAGNESIA. The safest and most gentle Aperient for delicate constitutions, Ladies, Children, and Infants.
OF ALL CHEMISTS.

BLAIR'S GOUT PILLS, The Great English Remedy for Gout and Rheumatism. Sure, safe, and effectual. No restraint of diet required during their use, and are certain to prevent the disease attacking any vital part. Sold by all Chemists at 1s. 1½d. and 2s. 9d. per Box.

BUGS, Fleas, Moths, Beetles, and all other Insects are destroyed by KEATING'S INSECT DESTROYING POWDER, which is quite harmless to domestic animals. In exterminating beetles the success of this powder is extraordinary. It is perfectly [illegible] in application. Sold in Tins, 1s. and 2s. 6d. each by all Chemists.

BANK OF NEW ZEALAND
(Incorporated by Act of General Assembly, July 29, 1861).
Bankers to the New Zealand Government.
Authorised Capital, £1,000,000. Paid-up Capital, £750,000.
Reserve Fund, £250,000.
DIRECTORS.
J. LOGAN CAMPBELL, Esq., President.
George B. Owen, Esq. — W. J. Taylor, Esq.
Alfred Cox, Esq., M.G.A. — J. C. Firth, Esq.
Samuel Browning, Esq. — Hon. Jas. Williamson, M.L.C.
LONDON BOARD.
The Right Hon. Sir James Ferguson, Bart., K.C.M.G. — Falconer Larkworthy, Esq.
Archd. Hamilton, Esq. — Robert Porter, Esq.
A. J. Mundella, Esq., M.P. — Thomas Russell, Esq., C.M.G.
Head Office—Auckland.
BRANCHES AND AGENCIES.
In Australia—Melbourne, Sydney, and Newcastle.
In Fiji—Levuka.
In New Zealand—Auckland, Blenheim, Christchurch, Dunedin, Invercargill, Napier, Nelson, New Plymouth, Picton, Wellington.
The Bank grants Drafts on all their Branches and Agencies, and transacts every description of banking business connected with New Zealand, Australia, and Fiji on the most favourable terms.
The London Office RECEIVES DEPOSITS of £50 and upwards for fixed periods of two to five years, bearing interest at 5 per cent per annum. The rate for shorter periods can be ascertained on application. F. LARKWORTHY, Managing Director.
No. 1, Queen Victoria-street, Mansion House, E.C.

CYPRUS.—THE IMPERIAL OTTOMAN BANK is prepared, through its LONDON and PARIS AGENCIES, to grant CREDITS, to receive and REMIT MONEY, and to act generally as Bankers in connection with Cyprus, where it has for many years past had a branch establishment.
London Agency, 26, Throgmorton-street, E.C. — Paris Agency, 7, Rue Meyerbeer.

ORDER EVERYTHING YOU REQUIRE THROUGH COCKBURN'S UNITED SERVICE AGENCY SOCIETY, 41, Haymarket, London, S.W., and save from 5 to 50 per cent and much time and trouble by so doing.

DR. RIDGE'S FOOD. Gives Health, Strength, Comfort, and Quiet Nights to Mothers, Nurses, Infants, and Invalids. Sold by all Chemists and Grocers.

THE TOPIC OF TO-DAY.

THE OCCUPATION OF CYPRUS.

INCREASE OF FEVER AT NICOSIA.

"The fever here is increasing. Captain Bawson, the acting Commandant, is down with it, and also Captain Hill, of the Goorkas, and about a dozen of his company. Unquestionably Nicosia is extremely unhealthy."

After suffering from FEVER FOUR TIMES, in each attack with very great severity—in fact, three of them could not have been more dangerous or critical—from a very extensive and careful observation, extending over a period of forty years, I am perfectly satisfied the "true cause" of fever is a disordered condition of the liver. The office of the liver is to cleanse the blood as a scavenger might sweep the streets. When the liver is not working properly a quantity of effete matter is left floating in the blood. Under these circumstances, should the poison germ of fever be absorbed then the disease results; on the contrary, anyone whose liver and other organs are in a normal condition may be subjected to precisely the same conditions as to the contagious influences and yet escape the fever. This, I consider, explains satisfactorily the seeming mystery that some persons who are placed in circumstances peculiarly favourable for the development of fever, who, in fact, live in the very midst of it, escape unscathed. This being the case, the importance of KEEPING THE LIVER IN ORDER CANNOT BE OVER-ESTIMATED; and I have pleasure in directing attention to my FRUIT SALT, which, in the form of a pleasant beverage, will correct the action of the liver, and thus prevent the many DISASTROUS CONSEQUENCES; not only as an efficient means of WARDING OFF FEVERS and MALARIOUS DISEASES, but as a REMEDY FOR and PREVENTIVE OF BILIOUS or SICK HEADACHES, CONSTIPATION, VOMITING, THIRST, ERRORS of EATING and DRINKING, SKIN ERUPTIONS, GIDDINESS, HEARTBURN, &c. If its great value in keeping the body in health was UNIVERSALLY KNOWN, NO FAMILY WOULD BE WITHOUT A SUPPLY. In many forms of fever, or at the COMMENCEMENT of ANY FEVER, ENO'S FRUIT SALT ACTS as a SPECIFIC. No one can have a simpler or more efficient remedy: by its use the POISON IS THROWN OFF and the BLOOD RESTORED TO ITS HEALTHY CONDITION. I used my FRUIT SALT freely in my last attack of fever, and I have every reason to say it saved my life.

J. C. Eno, Hatcham Fruit Salt Works, S.E.

IMPORTANT TO ALL TRAVELLERS, OR AT ANY ONE LEAVING HOME for CHANGE, RELAXATION, &c.

"Please send me half a dozen bottles of ENO'S FRUIT SALT. I have tried ENO'S FRUIT SALT in America, India, Egypt. I have tried ENO'S FRUIT SALT in almost every complaint, from incipient fever, and stomach or tobacco smoke, being partly composed of honey, soda, and extracts of sweet flowers and plants. It is perfectly harmless, and delicious as sherry. Prepared by HENRY C. GALLUF, 493, Oxford-street, London. Retailed everywhere.

A LADY having a simple RECIPE that at once safely removes SUPERFLUOUS HAIRS, preventing their appearance, has pleasure in forwarding it upon application to Mrs. Grace Newton, Verwood Villas, Thornton-heath, Surrey.

LAXORA MEDICATED FRUIT LOZENGES for CONSTIPATION, SLUGGISHNESS OF THE STOMACH, BILE, HEADACHE.
The "Lancet":—"It is a great improvement on the preparations in common use for the same purpose."
"Medical Times":—"Laxora Lozenges can be safely recommended."
C. R. C. Richborne, Ph.D.:—"Laxora Lozenges are efficacious, and nicely made."
Sold, 1s. 1½d., by all Chemists and Druggists; Wholesale, 62, Southwark-street.

"FOR THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE."
CLARKE'S WORLD-FAMED BLOOD MIXTURE is warranted to cleanse the Blood from all impurities, from whatever cause arising. For Scrofula, Scurvy, Skin and Blood Diseases its effects are marvellous. In Bottles, 2s. 6d. each, and in Cases containing six times the quantity, 11s. each, of all Chemists. Sent to any address for 30 or 132 stamps, of the Proprietor, F. J. CLARKE, Chemist, Lincoln.

HOOPING-COUGH.—ROCHE'S HERBAL EMBROCATION.—The celebrated Effectual Cure without internal medicine. Sole Wholesale Agents, EDWARDS and SON, 157, Queen Victoria-street (late of 38, Old Change), London. Sold retail by most Chemists. Price 4s. per Bottle.

DINNEFORD'S MAGNESIA. The best remedy for acidity of the Stomach, Heartburn, Headache, Gout, and Indigestion.

DINNEFORD'S MAGNESIA. The safest and most gentle Aperient for delicate constitutions, Ladies, Children, and Infants.
OF ALL CHEMISTS.

BLAIR'S GOUT PILLS, The Great English Remedy for Gout and Rheumatism. Sure, safe, and effectual. No restraint of diet required during their use, and are certain to prevent the disease attacking any vital part. Sold by all Chemists at 1s. 1½d. and 2s. 9d. per Box.

BUGS, Fleas, Moths, Beetles, and all other Insects are destroyed by KEATING'S INSECT DESTROYING POWDER, which is quite harmless to domestic animals. In exterminating beetles the success of this powder is extraordinary. It is perfectly [illegible] in application. Sold in Tins, 1s. and 2s. 6d. each by all Chemists.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS and OINTMENT. The Pills purify the blood, correct all disorders of the liver, stomach, kidneys, and bowels. The Ointment is unrivalled in the cure of bad legs, old wounds, gout, and rheumatism.

CORPULENCE.—YATE HOLLAND'S EMACIATING POWDERS (no Pills) speedily and safely absorb superfluous fat and reduce corpulency, however long standing. Price 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. per Box.—MARTIN and CO., 3, Paradise-road, London, S.W.; or through any Chemist

MR. STREETER, 18 NEW BOND-STREET, W. GOLDSMITH AND JEWELLER. The only Jeweller in England whose Stock consists of one uniform standard quality—viz., 18 carats. LONDON-MADE JEWELLERY of Exquisite Design and Workmanship. DIAMOND ORNAMENTS in great variety, at prices relative to their intrinsic value. SPECIALITIES IN BRIDESMAIDS' LOCKETS, WEDDING PRESENTS, &c. THE "TALISMAN" BRACELET (Patented), a Novelty for the Season, from £5.

LONDON: Printed and Published at the Office, 198, Strand, in the Parish of St. Clement Danes, in the County of Middlesex, by GEORGE C. LEIGHTON, 198, Strand, aforesaid.—SATURDAY, AUGUST 24, 1878.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS

REGISTERED AT THE GENERAL POST-OFFICE FOR TRANSMISSION ABROAD.

No. 2044.—VOL. LXXIII. SATURDAY, AUGUST 31, 1878. WITH TWO SUPPLEMENTS SIXPENCE. By Post, 6½d.

THE AUSTRIAN PROVINCES OF DALMATIA: STREET SCENE IN RAGUSA.—SKETCH BY OUR SPECIAL ARTIST.

BIRTHS.

On the 23rd inst., at Douglas Castle, the Lady Dunglass, prematurely, of a daughter, stillborn.

On the 25th inst., at Wheathampstead House, Vicountess Kilcoursie, of a son.

On the 20th inst., at 33, Elvaston-place, the Lady St. Leonards, of a daughter.

MARRIAGES.

On the 27th ult., at San Francisco, California, by the Rev. W. A. Scott, D.D., of St. John's Presbyterian Church, San Francisco, George Darsie, of Anstruther, Fifeshire, to Mrs. Tetuanuiraiaiteriaiatea Salmon Brander, of Tahiti, Society Islands.

On the 21st inst., at the parish church, Eastham, by the Rev. W. E. Torr, assisted by the Rev. B. Storrs, the Rev. George Wyndham Knight Bruce, eldest son of Lewis Bruce Knight Bruce, of Rivermead, Sunbury, and 9, Emperor's-gate, S.W., to Louisa (Lillie), younger daughter of John Torr, M.P., of Caslett Park, Cheshire.

DEATHS.

On the 25th inst., at Sheerness, Clara, wife of Edwin A. Lang, H.M. Dockyard, younger daughter of the late Joseph Hodgson, Esq., surgeon, Spitsl-square, London.

On the 21st inst., Mary Ann, the beloved wife of Montague Ainslie, Esq., of Grizedale Hall, Hawkshead, Lancashire, J.P. and D.L. for that county, and late H.E.I.C.'s service, in the 64th year of her age.

On the 21st inst., at Arden House, Dumbartonshire, Eliza Pinkerton, wife of Sir James Lumsden of Arden. Friends will kindly accept of this the only intimation.

On the 20th inst., at Compton, Quebec, Canada, Joseph Lougee, J.P., Major Militia, one day before his 88th anniversary.

On the 26th inst., at Castleham, Hollington, Hastings, Mary, the dearly beloved wife of Alderman Stone, aged 52 years.

 The charge for the insertion of Births, Marriages, or Deaths is Five Shillings for each insertion.*

CALENDAR FOR THE WEEK ENDING SEPT. 7.

SUNDAY, SEPT. 1.

Eleventh Sunday after Trinity. Morning Lessons: 1 Kings xviii.; 1 Cor. xi. 17. Evening Lessons: 1 Kings xix. or xxi.; Mark St. Paul's Cathedral, 10.30 a.m., the Bishop of Missouri; 3.15 p.m. and 7 p.m. Westminster Abbey, 10 a.m. St. James's, closed. Whitehall, 11 a.m. and 3 p.m. Savoy, 11.30 a.m., the Right Rev. Waite H. Stirling, D.D., Lord Bishop of the Falkland Isles; 7 p.m., the Right Rev. Charles Robertson, D.D., Lord Bishop of Missouri, U.S.A.

MONDAY, SEPT. 2.

Partridge-shooting begins. Thames International Regatta (last day). Liverpool Autumn Exhibition of Pictures opened in Walker Art-Gallery.

TUESDAY, SEPT. 3.

Moon's first quarter, 8.26 p.m. Races: Richmond, Warwick. Rowing: Grove Park Rowing Club. Royal Manchester, Liverpool, and North Lancashire Agricultural Society, Lancaster (three days.).

WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 4.

The Present French Republic proclaimed, 1870. Entomological Society, 7 p.m. Bicester Agricultural Society Show.

THURSDAY, SEPT. 5.

Old Bartholomew's Day. Croydon Races.

FRIDAY, SEPT. 6.

Dr. R. Wyatt born, 1714. Wreck of the Forfarshire: many lives saved by Grace Darling and her father, in a coble, 1838.

SATURDAY, SEPT. 7.

Hospital Saturday in London. Rowing: Curlew Rowing Club. Yachting: Thames Sailing Clubs, Hampton.

THE WEATHER.

RESULTS OF METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS AT THE KEW OBSERVATORY OF THE ROYAL SOCIETY.

Lat. 51° 28′ 6″ N.; Long. 0° 10′ 47″ W.; Height above Sea, 34 feet.

DAY.	DAILY MEANS OF Barometer Corrected.	Temperature of the Air.	Dew Point.	Relative Humidity.	Amount of Cloud.	THERMOM. Maximum, read at 10 P.M.	Minimum, read at 10 P.M.	WIND. General Direction.	Movement in 24 hours, read at 10 A.M. (next morning).	Highest in 1 hour, Half to 10 A.M. (next morning).	Rain.
	Inches	°	°	0-10		°	°		Miles.	In.	In.
August 21	29·987	59·8	50·4	·73	9	69·0	52·7	E.	203	0·090
22	29·841	61·3	52·5	·77	9	69·9	56·1	E.	426	0·580
23	29·464	61·9	59·6	·93	8	70·1	57·8	E. S. SE.	266	0·610
24	29·415	60·6	59·3	·95	9	68·0	57·8	NE. NW.	91	0·410
25	29·486	57·9	57·1	·97	—	67·1	53·9	NW. W. SSW.	101	0·530
26	29·481	61·0	56·0	·85	—	70·3	51·8	SSW.	61	0·090
27	29·643	61·9	57·2	·85	6	70·3	58·5	SSW. S. SW.	269	0·095

The following are the readings of the meteorological instruments for the above days, in order, at ten o'clock a.m.:—

Barometer (in inches) corrected	30·010	29·909	29·495	29·412	29·488	29·461	29·644
Temperature of Air	61·2°	65·5°	65·2°	64·8°	60·4°	64·0°	62·6°
Temperature of Evaporation	55·3°	58·3°	62·0°	61·7°	58·6°	59·9°	54·0°
Direction of Wind	E.	E.	ESE.	N.	W.	SSW.	S.

TIMES OF HIGH WATER AT LONDON BRIDGE

FOR THE WEEK ENDING SEPTEMBER 7.

Sunday.		Monday.		Tuesday.		Wednesday.		Thursday.		Friday.		Saturday.
M	A	M	A	M	A	M	A	M	A	M	A	M	A
h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m
4 25	4 44	5 5	5 25	5 47	6 10	6 35	7 3	7 35	8 15	9 0	9 50	10 48	11 20

DORÉ'S GREAT WORK, "THE BRAZEN SERPENT," "CHRIST LEAVING THE PRAETORIUM," and "CHRIST ENTERING THE TEMPLE," each 33 ft. by 22 ft.; with "Dream of Pilate's Wife," "Soldiers of the Cross," &c., at the DORÉ GALLERY, 35, New Bond-street, W. Daily, 10 to 6. 1s.

ELIJAH WALTON.—EXHIBITION of ISLE OF WIGHT and other WATER-COLOUR DRAWINGS, chiefly Alpine and Eastern, NOW OPEN at BURLINGTON GALLERY, 191, Piccadilly. Ten till Six. Admission, including Catalogue, 1s.

CRYSTAL PALACE PICTURE-GALLERY. The GALLERY is now REOPENED for the Season with a NEW COLLECTION of BRITISH and FOREIGN PICTURES for SALE.—For Particulars, apply to Mr C. W. Wass, Crystal Palace.

ST. JAMES'S HALL, PICCADILLY. ALL THE YEAR ROUND EVERY NIGHT AT EIGHT. MONDAYS, WEDNESDAYS, SATURDAYS AT THREE AND EIGHT.

THE MOORE and BURGESS MINSTRELS. Fauteuils, 5s.; Sofa Stalls, 3s.; Area, Raised and Cushioned Seats, 2s.; Balcony, 1s. No fees. No charge for Programmes. Ladies can retain their bonnets in all part of the Hall.

NOW READY.

VOL. LXXII. (JAN. 5 TO JUNE 29, 1878)

OF

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

Elegantly Bound in Cloth, Gilt Edges ... ... 20s. 0d.
Or in Paper Covers ... ... 15s. 0d.
Cases for binding the above ... ... 2s. 6d.
Reading-Case for Single Number ... ... 2s. 0d.
Portfolios for holding Six Months' Numbers ... ... 4s. 0d.
Office: 198, Strand.

"LOVE'S YOUNG DREAM."

In answer to numerous inquiries, we beg to state that the ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS for Aug. 17, containing the COLOURED PICTURE "LOVE'S YOUNG DREAM," from a painting by T. K. Pelham, has been reprinted, and that a few copies are still on sale.

Office, 198, Strand, W.C.

THE ILLUSTRATED PARIS UNIVERSAL EXHIBITION.

An English Edition of

L'EXPOSITION UNIVERSELLE DE 1878 ILLUSTREE,

in continuation of the Illustrated Journal issued in 1867 under the authority of the Imperial Commission, is issued every Tuesday,

PRICE THREEPENCE.

PUBLISHED AT THE OFFICE OF

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS,

198, STRAND, LONDON.

All Country Orders to be supplied through the London Agents.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

LONDON: SATURDAY, AUGUST 31, 1878.

A ground swell following a storm is very natural, highly inconvenient, but seldom dangerous. Excited passions, even when the main cause of them has been removed, subside but slowly, and every here and there, sustained by local influences, continue for some time to exert their unabated force. The Treaty of Berlin, although happily averting a European War, has not yet succeeded—nor, indeed, could it have been expected to succeed—in neutralising all the destructive forces which had been called into play by the state of affairs with which it dealt. The public will regret this, but will hardly be surprised at it. It somewhat retards a return to the settled confidence so indispensable for the revival of commercial enterprise, and it prolongs in some places the bitter strife and bloodshed which it was fondly hoped would quickly come to an end. But it can hardly be said with truth to threaten the general tranquillity of Europe. We may, perhaps, be permitted briefly to advert to those causes of disturbance which, although it may be hoped they have spent their main force, have not wholly ceased to operate in connection with the Eastern Question.

We begin with India. It is becoming anxious. The Government of the Viceroy may be described as troubled with apprehensive forebodings. An Envoy from Russia, it seems, has been received with special honour by the Ameer of Cabul. Nothing was known in India of his mission until after the object of it—whatever that may have been—was accomplished. Of course, it opened out a prospect of Russian influence in Afghanistan, seriously to be deprecated by the ruling authority in Calcutta. There have been incidents during the last four or five years which have irritated the Ameer against the British name. They do not in the least militate against the honour, or the straightforwardness, of the Indian Administration, but they account for the secret enmity of Shere Ali, the occupant of the Afghan Throne. In ordinary times, they would probably have been left to perish of neglect, and the wrath of the Ameer would scarcely have obtained even a momentary recognition. But it is hardly wonderful that the appearance of a Russian Envoy at Cabul, and the ostentatiously friendly character of his reception there, suggested the importance of initiating a policy of counteraction, and of dispatching to the capital of Afghanistan an Indo-British Mission, having for its object the re-establishment of British influence at the Court of the Ameer. Events, however, have subsequently transpired, or occurred, which deprived the occasion of almost everything which gave to it a menacing appearance. The action of the Russian Envoy at Cabul has been admitted by the Government at St. Petersburg as having resulted from the prospect of a war between Russia and England. In some sense, it was a counter-move to the transport of Indian Native Troops to Malta. Its aggressive meaning has been effaced by the Berlin Treaty. It has now lost its practical import, and the objects which it was intended to subserve have ceased to exist. But, in addition to this, events at Cabul have occurred to offer special facilities for effecting a reconciliation with the present ruler of Afghanistan and with his probable successor. The next move is in the hands of the Indian Government, and there is a reasonable hope that, for the present at least, and for a time to come, it may bring to a close a dangerous state of relations on the frontiers of India, which would have greatly facilitated a collision between England and Russia.

We now revert to Europe. The obstruction thrown in the way of the occupation of Bosnia and Herzegovina by Austria cannot fail to be regarded with regret, and still more so the secret countenance evidently ministered by the Porte in aid of that obstruction. It is clear, and it might have been so from the beginning, that the ascendancy of the land proprietary class in Bosnia would not be surrendered without a struggle, or, at any rate, without diplomatic efforts calculated to soothe down affronted pride. The Porte can hardly be acquitted in this affair of double dealing. The ruling Pashas have evidently been too strong for the Sultan—the oligarchy for the Monarch. They have, however, failed in their design. They have roused the anger as well as wounded the Imperial susceptibilities of Austria. They have no chance of success. They are fast losing even their claims to easy terms. No doubt they can still prolong resistance and inflict upon the Austro-Hungarian Government severe but temporary embarrassment. But Europe looks on the course they are pursuing, not only without sympathy, but with utter condemnation; and they have not the slightest ground for hoping that by protracting the contest they will kindle a European conflagration.

Then comes Greece. The invitation of the Powers represented at Berlin to the Government of the Sultan to rectify the frontier of that little kingdom in accordance with a suggestive sketch of their own, subscribed although it was by the Turkish Plenipotentiaries and ratified by the Sultan, has not been acted upon, has been practically protested against, has been, as it were, sent back for revision. Of course, this will not do. The Powers represented at Berlin will hard ly permit their decision to be thus trifled with. France and Italy are not likely to look upon the affront, and England ought not, with tame acquiescence. We have little doubt that in this case the Porte will eventually listen to reason. Our own Government is surely pledged to see to the realisation of the scanty terms to which their Plenipotentiaries succeeded in reducing the more generous, though it may be the less politic, proposals of France. Turkey, as is her wont—and, indeed, as is the wont of all Orientals—grimaces for a time at the nauseous medicine she well knows she will be obliged to swallow. We need not wonder; we may exercise patience, but there can be no sufficient room for fearing that in this case, as in others, the will of combined Europe will not be complied with.

As to the surrender of Batoum to the Russians, it may be looked upon as in principle accomplished. The Lazes will perhaps cause no little suffering, and in the process of their resistance may be destroyed. But Constantinople will do nothing to help them. It pledged Batoum to Russia by the Treaty of San Stefano, and England, although it succeeded in modifying the terms, tacitly acquiesced in the pledge. One can only lament that might so often tramples right under foot. We are not sure, however, that in this instance humanity will lose much by the transfer of Batoum as a commercial port to Russian hands. Altogether there seems to be a fair likelihood of the stipulations of the Berlin Treaty being within a moderate time reduced to facts. How far they will conduce to the peaceful and happy development of the races to which they apply remains to be seen. We shall not venture to anticipate.

THE COURT.

The Queen, previously to her departure from Osborne, gave an interview to General Sir Lintorn Simmons, G.C.B., and Captain Edwards, Royal Engineers, his aide-de-camp, was presented to her Majesty. Lieutenant-Colonel Barrett, commanding the troops at Parkhurst, and Captain Erskine, her Majesty's ship Boadicea (guardship at Cowes), dined with the Queen.

Her Majesty received visits on the day of her departure from the King and Queen of Denmark, the Prince and Princess of Wales, Princes Albert Victor and George, and Princesses Louise Victoria and Maud of Wales, Princess Thyra and Prince Waldemar of Denmark, and Prince William of Schleswig-Holstein-Glücksburg.

The Queen, accompanied by Princess Beatrice and Prince Leopold, left Osborne at six o'clock p.m. yesterday week for Broxmouth Park, on a visit to the Duke and Duchess of Roxburghe, on her way to Balmoral. The suite in attendance consisted of the Marchioness Dowager of Ely, Lieutenant-General Ponsonby, Sir W. Jenner, Lord Bridport, the Hon. A. Yorke, the Hon. Mrs. Phipps, the Hon. Miss Lascelles, and Miss Bauer. The Royal party embarked on board the steam-yacht Alberta, Staff-Commander Balliston, and crossed to Clarence Yard, Gosport, whence her Majesty travelled in a state saloon by a special train of the London and North-Western Railway Company over the South-Western and Great Western lines to Banbury, where a stay of twenty minutes was made for tea, and at 10.41 the journey was resumed, viâ Leamington and Birmingham, to the Bushbury junction of the North-Western line, and continued northwards. The Queen arrived at Dunbar at a quarter to nine on Saturday morning, and was received at the railway station by the Duke and Duchess of Roxburghe, the Marquis and Marchioness of Bowmont, Sir James and Lady Susan Grant-Suttie, Master Ker and Master Bertie Ker, Provost Brand, the magistrates and Town Council of Dunbar, the Earl of Haddington, the Lord Lieutenant and the Sheriff of the county, Mr. John Stirling, chairman of the North British Railway Company, Sir William Miller, and other directors of the company. The route to Broxmouth Park, a distance of a mile and a half, was lined by the Haddington Artillery Volunteers, the East Lothian Yeomanry, a body of special constables, the county constabulary, and the members of the several local associations. The inhabitants of the district greeted her Majesty with the utmost enthusiasm, which was gracefully acknowledged by her, the parish church Sunday scholars, who were ranged on a stand, being specially noticed. At noon the Provost presented an address from the Town Council at the castle for the Queen. In the afternoon her Majesty, with Princess Beatrice and Prince Leopold, accompanied by her host and hostess and their various guests, visited Dunbar; the Royal cortége was escorted by a troop of East Lothian Yeomanry Cavalry, under the command of Captain Houstoun, the Lord Lieutenant of the county being in attendance on horseback. The town was en fête, the floral and other decorations being artistically carried out, and the loyalty of the people most demonstrative. The Queen drove through the principal streets and into the Castle Park, where she inspected the ruins of the ancient fortress. Her Majesty afterwards drove out, and was met by the Gipsy Queen, Esther Faa Blythe, whose tribe was encamped in a field near Dunbar. Esther, with her subjects, raised a hearty cheer, which the Queen acknowledged especially to the Gipsy Queen. The drive was continued past Belhaven Paper Works and through the village of Westburn to the policies of Bell, the property of Lady Nisbet Hamilton, and through its grounds, thence by Sir George Warrender's estate of Lochend to Broxmouth.

The Queen, Princess Beatrice, and Prince Leopold attended Divine service, performed at Broxmouth House by the Rev.

Robert Buchanan, minister of Dunbar. Mr. Buchanan was presented to her Majesty. The Queen drove in the afternoon to Dunglass Castle, the seat of Sir Basil Hall, Bart., and through its policies, returning to Broxmouth by way of Innerwick, Thurston, and Barney Hill, the seat of Sir William Miller. The Earl of Haddington joined the Royal dinner circle.

On Monday her Majesty and the Prince and Princess, with the Duke and Duchess of Roxburghe, drove to Tyninghame, the residence of the Earl of Haddington, and to the ruins of Tantallon Castle, where she was received by Sir Hew and Lady Hamilton Dalrymple. Sir David Baird was presented to the Queen. On the way through Dunbar 500 girls were ranged on each side of the principal streets and strewed flowers on the path. Her Majesty planted a cedar-tree in Broxmouth Park in commemoration of her visit. The Queen left Broxmouth in the evening. The Earl of Haddington was in attendance on horseback, and a guard of the Haddington Artillery Volunteers was drawn up at the station, the road was lined with torchbearers and the town illuminated, and her Majesty's ship Lord Warden, in the Dunbar roads, burned blue lights at sea. The Queen took leave of the Duke and Duchess of Roxburghe at Dunbar railway station, and proceeded by special train en route for Balmoral. Her Majesty was much gratified by the loyalty displayed on the occasion of her visit to Broxmouth, and by the beauty of the surrounding country.

The Queen arrived at Ballater at eight o'clock on Tuesday morning, and was met by Colonel Farquharson, of Invercauld, and Mr. J. T. Mackenzie, of Kintail. A guard of honour, a company of the 79th Highlanders, under Captain Gordon, was in attendance. The Royal party drove in open carriages to Balmoral.

Her Majesty charged Viscount Torrington to present her Order of Victoria and Albert to the Queen of the Belgians on the occasion of the silver wedding of the King and Queen.

Her Majesty, Princess Christian, Princess Beatrice, and Prince Leopold sent wreaths of flowers and immortelles to be placed upon the coffin of the late Madame Van de Weyer at her funeral at Windsor.

The Hon. Harriet Phipps is Maid of Honour in Waiting, and General Viscount Bridport has arrived as Equerry in Waiting to the Queen.

THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES.

The Prince of Wales and the King of Denmark visited the wreck of the Eurydice on Saturday last, proceeding from Cowes in the turret-ship Thunderer. They made a close examination of the ship, and clambered on to the top side of the wreck, which lies on its starboard bilge at an angle of 39 deg.; and here the means to be adopted for canting the Eurydice on to her port bilge for caulking her lee side were explained. The Prince, with the King of Denmark and Princes Albert Victor and George of Wales, paid a visit to Portsmouth on Monday, and made a tour of inspection of the dockyard. The Princess, with her children, pays daily visits to the Queen of Denmark at Lisburn House.

Prince and Princess Christian left Cumberland Lodge on Monday en route for Germany. Their Royal Highnesses intend to return to England about the middle of October.

Princess Louise of Lorne and the Marquis of Lorne were compelled to vacate their residence on Sunday week at Kissingen in consequence of an extensive fire having broken out in close contiguity to it, and which continued to rage during the night. The Marquis and the Duke of Cambridge were most active in removing the property, not only from the Princess's residence, but from the adjacent houses. The Princess was obliged to remain in a small room at the Kurhaus during the night.

The annual gathering of the Cambrian Archæological Association was held last week at Lampeter, in Cardiganshire.

The Orleans Club, Twickenham, will be closed for the winter season on Monday next, Sept. 2.

It is announced that, the resignation of Mr. Justice Keogh having been accepted, the seat on the Irish Bench has been accepted by Mr. Gibson, Q.C., Attorney-General for Ireland.

The annual harvest-home at the Philanthropic Society's Farm School, Redhill, was held on Wednesday. Three hundred boys participated in the entertainments, which were witnessed by a large number of friends of the society.

The Isle of Thanet Flower Show, held at Mr. Hannam's Park, at St. Peter's, on Wednesday, was attended by a large number of visitors. Among those present were Messrs. Pemberton and Deedes, the two members for East Kent, and Sir George Bowyer, M.P.

An Eisteddfod was held at Llanwrtyd Wells on Monday. The principal choirs and bands in Glamorganshire, Pembrokeshire, and other counties in Wales took part in the contest. Miss Hattie Davis, Miss Jeannie Lewis, and Eos Morlais were among the vocalists. Dr. Morgan, of Llanelly, was conductor. The adjudicators were Mr. Owen, of Chester, and Mrs. Watson, of Llanwrtydd Hall. There was a large attendance, both of English and Welsh. Mr. Arthur Morgan was president.

The autumnal meeting of the Associated Chambers of Commerce began on Monday at the Cutlers' Hall, Sheffield. Mr. Sampson S. Lloyd, M.P., the president of the association, occupied the chair. Upwards of 150 delegates, representing the whole of the Chambers of Commerce throughout the country, were present. They were welcomed to the town by the Mayor (Alderman Mappin), the Master Cutler (Alderman Ward), and the president of the Sheffield Chamber (Mr. W. K. Peace). An introductory address was delivered by the president, who expressed an opinion that great benefit would result from the appointment of a Minister of the first rank to attend to commercial interests, and of a Minister under him to attend to agriculture. A resolution urging the Government to maintain the principle of free trade in the negotiation of foreign treaties having been adopted unanimously, the Sheffield Chamber submitted a motion asking for a Royal Commission to inquire into the causes of the decline of the foreign trade of the country. This motion was carried by a majority of 27 to 23, which the chairman said was too small to enable the associated chambers to take action upon the resolution. Another resolution agreed to was that a deputation should wait upon the Prime Minister to urge upon him the necessity of the appointment of a Minister of Commerce and Agriculture.—On Wednesday a resolution was adopted against the Employers' Liability for Injury Bill. With respect to the cost of foreign telegrams, a deputation was appointed to wait upon the Postmaster-General and present a report that might be considered at the telegraphic conference next year. Resolutions were passed against the present system of paying factory surgeons, and in favour of the Bankruptcy Act Amendment Bill. In the evening the Mayor (Alderman Mappin) gave a dinner, which was attended by nearly 400 gentlemen. Mr. Roebuck, M.P., replied on behalf of the House of Commons, and advised the association to endeavour to bring about a universal commercial law. Mr. Mundella, M.P., and others also responded.

The Extra Supplement.

ELY CATHEDRAL.

We present, in the large Engraving that forms our Extra Supplement this week, a view of the majestic Cathedral of Ely, which was visited by the British Archæological Association during their late Congress at Wisbech. This week, their proceedings were brought to a close, after an interesting visit to Cambridge on Monday last. Ely, a city of eight or nine thousand people, and a Bishop's see, is about seventy miles from London, sixteen beyond Cambridge, and twenty-seven from the sea at Lynn Regis. It is the capital of the district called the Isle of Ely, which comprises the northern part of Cambridgeshire, and which formerly was rather a group of small islands, a sort of inland archipelago, surrounded or interspersed with lakes and fens, than a single island of that name. We refer to the valuable new book mentioned in our last, "The Fen-Land," by Messrs. S. H. Miller and Sydney Skertchly, for ample description and history of that remarkable district. Ely Cathedral occupies the site of a monastery founded in the year 673 by Princess Etheldreda (Audrey), daughter of a King of the East Angles, and widow first of Tondbert, the Saxon Prince of the South Fens, secondly of Egfrid, King of Northumberland. She endowed her convent, both of monks and nuns, with all the lands of the Isle of Ely, bequeathed to her by her first husband. After the Norman Conquest, the party of English led by Hereward, still standing in arms against the Conqueror, made their Camp of Refuge in this neighbourhood, trusting to its natural defences of marsh and mere. King William I. appointed a relative of his own, Simeon, Prior of Winchester, to be Abbot of Ely, by whom, in 1083, the building of the oldest, or Norman, part of the existing church was begun, and this was carried on by Abbot Richard, son of the Earl of Clare.

Under King Henry I. the Abbey was converted into an Episcopal See, which was erected in 1109, its first occupant being Bishop Hervé Le Breton, translated from the diocese of Bangor. Among the succeeding Bishops were several men of mark; Bishop Nigel, nephew to the powerful Bishop Roger of Salisbury, and Lord High Treasurer of the Kingdom; Bishop William Longchamp, Chancellor and Grand Justiciary under Richard I., and the stout opponent of John; Bishop Eustace, who took an active part in John's dispute with the Barons; Bishop Hotham, Lord Chancellor in the reign of Edward II.; and one of still greater eminence, Bishop Morton, who was the chief agent in overthrowing Richard III. and bringing in Henry Tudor, and who became Archbishop of Canterbury. Since the Reformation, likewise, the see of Ely has been held by several distinguished Churchmen.

The Cathedral is well described in a neat "Handbook" published by Messrs. T. A. Hills and Son, Minster Place, Ely, the tenth edition of which was issued last year. There is a more elaborate treatise, "The Architectural History of Ely Cathedral," by the Rev. D. J. Stewart, Minor Canon, and one of older date, by the Rev. James Bentham. Upon the occasion, in October, 1873, of the bis-sexcentenary celebration of Ethelreda's foundation of Ely Abbey, Dean Merivale compiled a memorial volume (also published by Messrs. T. A. Hills and Son), which contains all the speeches, lectures, sermons, and other addresses delivered at that festival, with a full report of the proceedings, and an account of the works for the restoration of the sacred building. Sir Gilbert Scott's lecture upon its architectural characteristics may here be consulted with advantage.

The view drawn by our Artist, Mr. S. Read, is taken from the north-west, showing the gap left by the fall of the north transept tower, at what date is not certainly known. The corresponding transept tower on the south side is seen, to the right hand of the great tower, rising above the roof of the west front. In the eastward part of the building, a beautiful octagonal structure, of moderate height, marks the junction of the nave with the choir, here crossed by the great transept, which is chiefly Norman, and the most ancient portion of the Cathedral. To the left hand in our view, and thus situated, not as usual, east of the choir, but parallel with the choir on its north side, is the Lady Chapel, which was originally the shrine of St. Etheldreda. The entire length of the cathedral is 565 ft., which is greater than that of any other Gothic church in Europe; and if the Lady Chapel were in the ordinary position, behind the choir, the whole edifice would be 100 ft. longer. The nave, 203 ft. long, 72 ft. 6 in. wide, including the aisles, and 72 ft. high, is of late Norman construction. Its ceiling has recently been adorned with a series of paintings on wood, representing Bible history subjects, by two accomplished amateurs, the late Mr. Styleman Le Strange, of Hunstanton, and Mr. Gambier Parry. The great tower, and also the two transept towers near the west end, were probably built by Bishop Geoffrey Riddell, in the latter part of the twelfth century; but the upper turrets are of Perpendicular style. The noblest feature, however, of the whole Cathedral is the central octagonal structure, which was built in about twenty years, from 1321 to 1342, by Prior Alan of Walsingham, in place of the old central tower of the Norman Abbot Simeon, which had suddenly fallen. The octagon is so arranged as to take in the entire breadth of the church, including the aisles both of nave and choir; its interior presents four large and four smaller arches, with lofty clustered shafts to support a ribbed vaulting of timber, and the lantern above all. This is said to be unique in Gothic architecture. Part of the choir, and the Lady Chapel also, which is of unusual dimensions and very beautiful, are of the same period, the first half of the fourteenth century. There is, perhaps, no cathedral in Great Britain which displays more adequately the characteristics of different stages in the progress of ecclesiastical architecture than this Cathedral of Ely, the Queen of the East Anglian Fenland.

SOUTH AFRICA.

Another of the remaining sketches by our Special Artist late in South Africa, which we have called "Reminiscences of the Kaffir War," finds place among the Engravings in this Number. It is that of the departure of Governor Sir Bartle Frere, on his return from the eastern frontier, at King William's Town, to the colonial capital city, Capetown. His Excellency has just now closed the Session of the Legislative Assembly at Capetown, where he, in the name of the Government, specially commended to the constituencies at the ensuing elections the necessity of a united South Africa for purposes of defence, commerce, civilisation, and progress. The interests of all the colonies and States, he urged, were one, and he hoped the country would give no uncertain answer upon the most important subject ever submitted to its judgment. The latest reports from the frontier show that some still think that the Kaffir rebellion is not yet quite extinguished; but official information does not warrant such a conclusion. Another chief, Delima, with his followers, has surrendered at Mount Coke, and the disarmament of the people is being carried on with ease. Mr. Griffiths will shortly resume office as the Governor's agent in Basutoland. Colonel Jarvis will have temporary charge of the colonial forces. Colonel Lanyon and Captain Warren, with a force of 500 men, had a successful engagement with the Batlapis fifty-five miles north-east of Kurmuan. The enemy's fortifications covered some acres of ground; they were well armed, and fought with determination. Thirty-nine were found killed in the intrenchments. The casualties on our side were five men mortally wounded or killed. From the Transvaal we learn that Captain Clarke is making an effective impression on Secocoeni's people, many of whom are surrendering. General Thesiger is now in Natal.

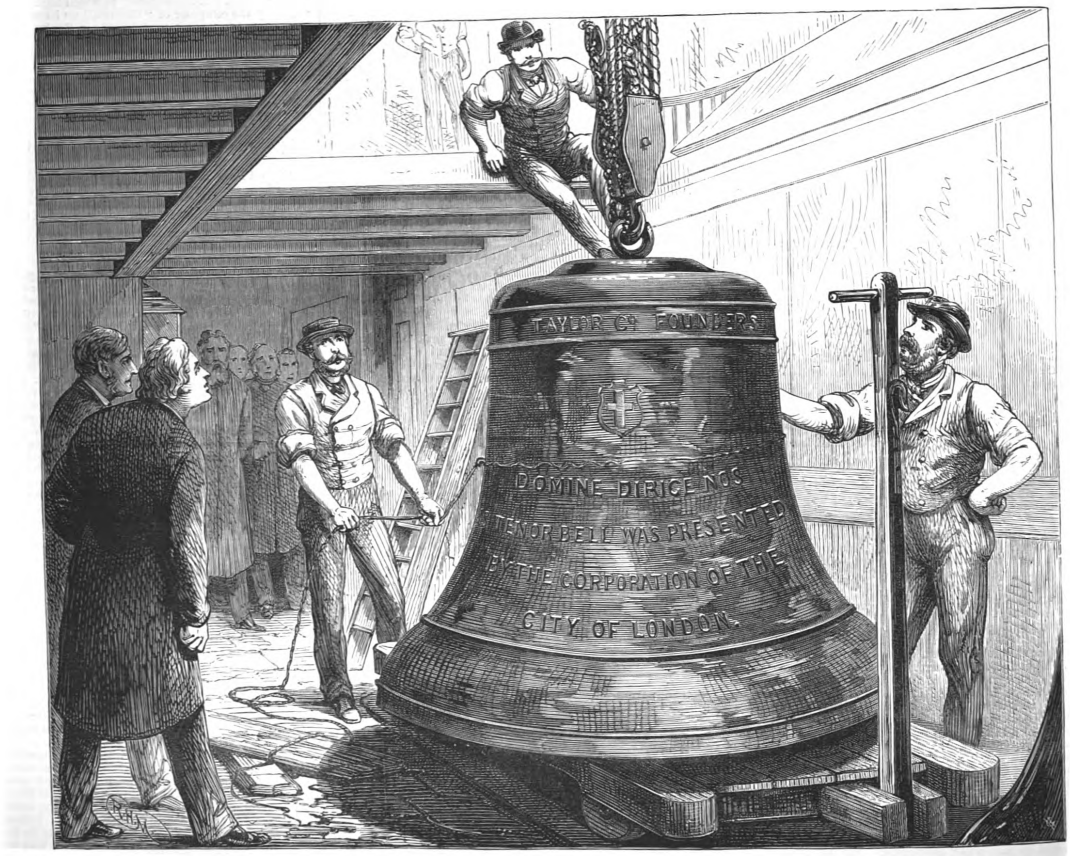
THE NEW BELLS FOR ST. PAUL'S.

We give an Illustration of the first and largest bell, of the new peal of twelve, presented to the Dean and Chapter of St. Paul's, which are to be placed in the north-west tower of the Cathedral, as described in our last. This bell, which is the gift of the Corporation of London, ranks as the "tenor," and weighs not less than three tons and three cwts. The others, given by the Grocers', Clothworkers', Fishmongers', Merchant Taylors', Salters', Drapers', and Turners' Companies (Lady Burdett-Coutts, as a member of the last-named Company, bearing a handsome part in the gift), are of smaller dimensions, though one of these weighs 45 cwt. and another 33 cwt. The aggregate weight of the twelve is about eleven tons, cast by Messrs. Taylor and Co., of Loughborough, Leicestershire. Each bell bears on one side the emblematic device of the cathedral, and on the other side the armorial bearings of the company presenting it, with the company's motto and the name of the master at the time of the vote. Messrs. Shaw, of King Edward-street, under the superintendence of the cathedral architect, Mr. Penrose, have executed the necessary alterations and fittings. The work of preparation has entailed an outlay of about £1000.

MUSIC.

The season of the Covent-Garden Promenade Concerts is now half-way towards its completion, which will be at the end of another four weeks. Recent performances have comprised the four first symphonies of Beethoven, No. 4 (in B flat) having been given on Monday, the following four being reserved for the subsequent Mondays. Thus the whole series of these grand works, except the ninth and last (the "choral"), will have been heard in regular order during the present season of Messrs. Gatti's concerts. That accomplished pianist Madame Montigny-Rémaury, having left London, has been replaced by M. Paul Viardot, the eminent violinist, who appeared on Saturday evening, and executed Mendelssohn's concerto with those excellent qualities of style and mechanism on which we have more than once commented in noticing his performance of the same work elsewhere. Saturday's concert included an effective orchestral arrangement of prominent themes from Mr. Sullivan's comic opera, "H.M.S. Pinafore," comprising prominent solos for Mr. Radcliff (flute), Mr. Horton (oboe), Mr. Lazarus (clarinet), Mr. Hughes (ophicleide), and Mr. Howard Reynolds (cornet), &c. Two pieces were encored, as was M. Gounod's exquisite piece of musical drollery, the "Funeral March of a Marionette." Another specialty in the programme was the orchestral "Suite," by the late M Georges Bizet, entitled "L'Arlésienne," of which highly characteristic work, by the composer of "Carmen," we have already spoken in reference to its first performance in England at one of the concerts of Madame Viardi-Louis. Other pieces, classical and popular, completed Saturday's programme. During last week the principal solo vocalists have been Mdlle. Alma Verdini, Mesdames Rose Hersee, Edith Wynne, and Antoinette Sterling, Miss Anna Williams, Mr. E. Lloyd, Mr. Bridson, and Mr. Maybrick. A classical night was given on Wednesday. Mdlle. Stella Faustina made her first appearance and was warmly received in the air "Una voce" ("Il Barbière di Siviglia") and "Ah, non giunge" ("La Sonnambula"), for the latter of which she received an encore.

"The Crown Diamonds" is the opera announced for this (Saturday) evening at the Alexandra Palace, the principal characters to be sustained by Madame Blanche Cole, Miss Lucy Franklein, Mr. Parkinson, Mr. Ludwig, and Mr. Marler.



AGRICULTURAL SHOWS.

The exhibition of horses, cattle, sheep, and pigs in connection with the annual show of the Cheshire Agricultural Society was opened last Saturday in Toft Park, Knutsford. In open classes the Duke of Westminster took the first prize for hunters, and the Stand Stud Company first for cart horses; Lieut.-Colonel Cornwall Leigh was first in the class for young cart horses, and Mr. Wilson, Coddington, took the Duke of Westminster's prize for brood mares for hunters. In the open class for cattle the Stand Stud Company took the first prize for old shorthorn bulls and for shorthorn cows. Mr. Ackers, Painswick, Gloucestershire, took the first prize for shorthorn heifers. Mr. Ackers was also successful in the pig class, along with Sir Philip Egerton. All the prizes for sheep went to Mr. Cooke and Mr. Bowdage Mold. In the class restricted to tenant farmers in the county there was a moderate show of cattle, of which the principal feature was the bull class. The prize winners in this class were pronounced better than anything shown at any previous show of the Cheshire Society. There was also a good show of horses, especially agricultural horses. The show of turn-outs was good, and the jumping excellent. The society's first prize was awarded to Mr. Goodall, of Altrincham, and Mr. Cossins was second with Blue Peter. The Local Committee's first prize was won by Mr. Dodsworth's Snowdrop, and Mr. Goodall was second. The Duke of Westminster and Lieutenant-Colonel Legh were awarded medals for extra stock in horses, and Lord de Tabley and several others for some splendid Highland bullocks and Alderney and Channel Island cattle. Mr. Leycester, on whose ground the show was held, showed the best collection of farm produce. A large number of medals were awarded for implements and for special merit in various classes. Prizes were awarded for cheese classes, the show of which was not large, owing to the season not being yet sufficiently advanced for the maturity of best Cheshire cheeses. There were also several awards for farms and cottages.—The Duke of Westminster, speaking at a luncheon in connection with this show, accepted the Cattle Bill as a happy compromise between the town populations, as representing the consuming interest, and the agriculturists.

The annual general meeting of the members of the Lancashire Agricultural Society, the most important association in the north of England, was held on Wednesday at the Townhall, Lancaster. Lord Winmarleigh presided. The arrangements for the forthcoming three days' exhibition at Lancaster were discussed. The inspectors read their awards for the best arable farms, dairy or stock farms, and green crops. The rewards to men and women, servants and labourers in the county, were also made. The next exhibition will probably be held at Manchester.

REMINISCENCES OF THE LATE KAFFIR WAR: GOVERNOR SIR BARTLE FRERE LEAVING THE FRONTIER.

NEW PEAL OF BELLS FOR ST. PAUL'S CATHEDRAL: THE TENOR BELL, PRESENTED BY THE CITY CORPORATION.

PARIS INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION: THE TUNISIAN, EGYPTIAN, AND SWEDISH PAVILIONS, IN THE TROCADÉRO PARK.

THE AUSTRIAN CAMPAIGN IN BOSNIA.

A special Map, designed to illustrate the advance of the Austrian military forces through Bosnia and Herzegovina, in order to occupy those provinces according to the resolution of the Berlin Congress, is presented in our Supplement. Three different series of thick dotted lines, each with a few ramifications and detours, show the routes of march taken by three separate portions of the army under their respective commanders, intending to act in concert with each other. These lines must not be confounded with the thinner dotted lines, which indicate the frontier boundaries of Dalmatia, Servia, and Montenegro. It will be most expedient for the reader at once to find the objective points of the threefold movement, which are, in Herzegovina, the towns of Livno, Mostar, and Stolacz, approached by General Jovanovich from Dalmatia; in Bosnia, the capital city, named Serajevo or Bosna Serai; and Zvornik, on the Drina, which is on the Servian frontier. The troops of General Jovanovich met with a slight resistance at Citluk on the 4th inst, but took possession of Mostar, the capital of Herzegovina, next day, without any more fighting. The Austrians were received by the municipality and townspeople with expressions of welcome. Livno and Stolacz have also been occupied; but at Ravonice, beyond the last-mentioned place, on the 13th inst., a detachment of Austrians was attacked by Moslem insurgents in superior force, and got the worst of it. Last week a battle was fought near Stolacz, where the enemy were defeated by Jovanovich, and were driven towards the Montenegrin frontier at Bilek.

The operations in Bosnia have been far more difficult and important. General Baron von Philippovich is the Commander-in-Chief, with General Szapary commanding his left wing, on the road from Doboj towards Zvornik, and with General Tegetthoff and the Duke of Wurtemberg holding minor commands. The main body of the forces has advanced from Brod, on the Save, by Derbend or Dervent, to the River Bosna at Doboj, and has marched up the Bosna valley, suffering temporary check at Maglai, on the 5th inst., from an ambush laid for one of the Hussar regiments, but defeating the enemy at Zepce and two or three other places, in the following days. In the mean time, another army corps was moving southward from Banjaluka, where the Archduke John Salvator had established his head-quarters. Travnik was occupied on the 10th inst., and a junction was soon afterwards effected between the right-hand column and the main army. On the 15th a battle was fought at Han Belalovac, in which the Mohammedans were defeated with much loss. Tegetthoff then pushed on to join the advanced guard of the main army in storming the town of Serajevo, which was effected on the 19th, but not without a sanguinary resistance, and terrible havoc and slaughter of the townspeople.

The left wing of the army, led by General Szapary eastward from Doboj, has encountered formidable opposition, which is supposed to derive some assistance from Servian volunteers, and has been compelled to retreat from Tuzla, fighting at Gracanica to secure its passage of the river. Its commander is now at Doboj awaiting reinforcements, with which he is to resume his advance upon Zvornik. He had to fight in defence of his position at Doboj on Monday last.

We learn from Vienna that the mobilisation of the Austrian troops has raised the army of General Philippovich to a strength of between 125,000 and 130,000 men. The garrisons of Trieste and Göritz, which had been reduced by the dispatch of men to Bosnia, are now being strongly reinforced. A strong garrison is also being stationed at Semlin.

Our Special Artist, Mr. J. Bell, who is with the army of General Philoppovich, has sent us sketches of the recent conflicts in the Bosnia valley, which shall appear in our next week's Paper. The Engraving on our front page, and that which occupies another page of this Number, are from sketches taken a year or two since by Mr. Melton Prior, when he was in Dalmatia and Herzegovina, at the outbreak of the provincial hostilities which soon brought on the Russo-Turkish War. They represent street scenes in Ragusa, the notable Adriatic seaport belonging to the Austrian Empire, and in Grahovo, a small frontier town of Herzegovina which has recently been annexed to the principality of Montenegro. The people of Grahovo, at the time when our Artist's sketch was made there, were engaged in festivities to celebrate the arrival of Prince Nikita of Montenegro, their future ruler. As for Ragusa, that city was, and still is, full of distressed refugees from the neighbouring Turkish provinces, who had sought Austrian protection. It is upon this account that we have considered the subjects of these two sketches not inappropriate, as aiding to illustrate the origin and the motives of the present military intervention in Bosnia and Herzegovina.

FOREIGN AND COLONIAL NEWS.

FRANCE.

The Grand Duchess Catherine of Russia arrived on Tuesday evening in Paris.

M. de Marcère, the Minister of the Interior, was entertained at a banquet at Mortagne on Monday, and made a speech on the condition of France. He gave the assurance that there was no ground for fear that the existing tranquillity and prosperity of the country would not continue. It had been said daily that the meeting of the Chambers would be the signal for fresh complications. These gloomy forebodings were uttered by those who had an interest in their realisation. There was no ground for anticipating fresh misfortunes. The nation was not tired of her long good behaviour, and her Republican representatives were at one with her. Frenchmen might not all be agreed as to certain minor points, but on the essential point of an unswerving determination to uphold the Republic there was no difference of opinion among them.

While M. de Marcère was delivering a speech intended to inspire France with confidence in the future, M. Paul de Cassagnac, at Brossac, in the Charente, was uttering one of the most violent and seditious diatribes which he has ever composed. He accused the Republican party with being a mass of greedy place-hunters, who are refusing liberty to the people, as is evidenced by their conduct in annulling so many of the late elections. He foretold the speedy coming of the Fourth Napoleon, and said that although France had driven Kings from the throne it had never ceased to care for Imperialism. He concluded by drawing a most gloomy picture of the decline and death-throes of the Republic.

M. Teisserenc de Bort announces that, with a view to encourage improvement in French agriculture, he will during the year 1879 award one gold medal of 1000f.; one silver ditto of 700f., two ditto of 600f., two ditto of 500f., and one of 300f. to such landowners or farmers in the Hautes or Basses Alpes as shall have utilised in the most intelligent manner the waters of the irrigating canals.

On Tuesday evening the members of the Monetary Congress were entertained at dinner by Marshal MacMahon.

Mr. Cunliffe Owen, C.B., was entertained at a luncheon yesterday week by the United States Commissioner. In proposing his health Governor McCormack ascribed much of the success of the exhibits of English-speaking people to Mr. Owen's energy, tact, and good management.

The French Association for the Advancement of Science, which usually visits some provincial town, met on the 22nd inst. at Paris, when M. Frémy gave an address on the manufacture of soda and of steel. M. Gambetta was present, and several German scientific men accepted invitations to attend, the first time this has happened since the war.

A meeting of working men to advocate international peace was held in Paris on Sunday afternoon at the theatre of the Château d'Eau, under the presidency of M. Tolain. About 5000 persons were present. Letters were read from MM. Victor Hugo and Louis Blanc. The English delegates who spoke were Mr. Cremer, of London; Mr. Slatter, of Manchester; and Mr. Rolley, of Sheffield. A collection was made at the doors on behalf of the families of political prisoners.

The International Horticultural Exhibition was opened at Versailles on Saturday last. Galignani states that a British exhibitor, Mr. John Wills, who entered his display in the seventeenth class, was successful in carrying off fifteen first and two second prizes, among them being the Grand First Prize and a splendid Sèvres vase given by the Government.

General Noyes, the United States Minister in Paris, gave a dinner on the 22nd in honour of the American delegates to the Monetary Conference.

The Commercial Congress decided yesterday week in favour of a commercial international code, and resolved to appoint a committee, who are to prepare a draught and report to the Congress of 1880, which will be held in Belgium.

General Chanzy, the Governor of Algeria, has been presented with the Grand Cross of the Legion of Honour, which, now that vacant marshalships are not filled up, is the highest honour he could have received. The decree mentions as his qualifications that he became Grand Officer of the order on Dec. 2, 1870, was awarded the military medal on Feb. 13, 1872, has had thirty-seven years of service, and seen thirty-five campaigns.

There are 1150 entries for the International Horse Show to be opened on Sept. 1. Seventy of these are from England, one hundred from Belgium, and twenty-five from Russia; other countries being also represented.

A Council of French Ministers was held on the 22nd, under the presidency of Marshal MacMahon, at which, according to the National, the question of the Crédit Foncier was considered at great length. The council postponed its decision until more ample information was obtained. The President signed eighty pardons and commutations of sentences in favour of persons condemned for participation in the Commune.

The new sub-governors of the Crédit Foncier, MM. Leveque and Leguay, were installed on Wednesday. M. Mallet, one of the oldest members of the board, has resigned, apparently in order to mark his disapproval of the dismissal of MM. de Soubeyran and Leviez.

The death is announced of M. Charpentier, formerly Professor of Rhetoric and the author of many original works and translations, in his ninety-second year.

Marshal MacMahon on Wednesday conferred the Legion of Honour of different grades on Algerian chiefs.

The Liberté announces, with all reserve, that a marriage has been arranged between M. Gambetta and Mdlle. Guichard, the niece of M. Dubouchet. Mdlle. Guichard has a dowry of 18,000,000f.

SPAIN.

Royal honours are to be paid to the remains of the late Queen Christina, which will be taken to Spain and interred in the mausoleum of the Kings of Spain in the Escurial.

Villarino, the leader of the late rising in Estramadura, has been tried by court-martial and sentenced to imprisonment for life. Sentence of seventeen years' imprisonment has been passed on the other chiefs, the common prisoners being condemned to terms varying from twelve to eight years.

SWITZERLAND.

The Extraordinary Session of the Federal Assembly terminated last Saturday. There will be a general election in October.

The Austrian police have handed over to the Bernese authorities a Swiss lady who, under the name of "The Russian Countess, Cajewska," is said to have disposed of false jewellery during the last three years, chiefly in Nice, Monaco, and Paris, to the amount of 1,000,000f.

The Bishop of Rhode Island consecrated at Geneva last Saturday the new American Episcopal church.

GERMANY.

The Crown Prince Rudolph of Austria dined on the 21st inst. with the Empress of Germany and the family of the Grand Duke of Baden. After a stay of nearly two hours his Imperial Highness bade his host a cordial farewell. The German Emperor on leaving Teplitz sent a note to the Mayor expressing his warm thanks to the inhabitants of all ranks in the town for the kindness and sympathy manifested for him during his stay there. His Majesty arrived at Gastein last Saturday morning.

The Duke of Connaught and the Princess Louise lunched on Tuesday morning with the Crown Prince and Crown Princess in the Zoological Gardens, Berlin. Their Royal Highnesses afterwards visited the picture-gallery and the art-exhibition, and returned at one o'clock to Potsdam.

A brilliant review of the troops stationed at Potsdam was held by the Crown Prince yesterday week. The King of the Netherlands and Prince Henry, the Duke of Connaught, all the Princes of the Royal family, and a number of distinguished foreign personages were present. A dinner was given at four o'clock in the afternoon, to which 200 persons were invited. In the evening there was a gala performance in the Berlin Opera-House.

The marriage between William Frederik Hendrik, Prince of the Netherlands, and Princess Marie Elizabeth Louise Frederika of Prussia was solemnised at Potsdam on Saturday last. As Prince Henry led his bride to the altar the King of Holland conducted the Crown Princess of Prussia. The Crown Prince followed with the mother of the bride, the Red Prince with the Grand Duchess of Saxony, Prince Frederik of the Netherlands with Princess Albrecht of Prussia, and the Duke of Connaught with his betrothed.

Count Hatzfeld, the newly-appointed German Ambassador at Constantinople, left Berlin on the 22nd inst. for his post, by way of Teplitz.

On Tuesday the bill against the Socialists was agreed to by the German Federal Council, after being modified. The amended measure provides that the police authorities of the different States, instead of the central Federal authorities, shall be competent to prohibit Socialist associations.

At the Radziwill Palace, on Wednesday the documents bearing the signature of the Sultan in ratification of the Treaty of Berlin were exchanged against copies presented by the other signatory Powers.

It is stated from Berlin that the assassin Nobiling will be transferred to a lunatic asylum, in order to be placed under medical observation, some physicians being of opinion that he is not really deranged, but only simulating madness.

RUSSIA.

The Emperor of Russia started for Livadia on Tuesday morning, accompanied by M. de Giers, M. de Hamburger, Count Lamsdorf, and Prince Obolenski.

San Stefano is being rapidly evacuated by the Russian troops. It is stated from St. Petersburg that the first troops returning from Turkey have arrived at Moscow, and have been received with much enthusiasm by the populace.

The clipper Rasboinik was successfully launched at St. Petersburg on the 22nd instant. The new man-of-war, after being engined during the winter, will proceed to Cronstadt next spring to join the Baltic fleet.

The Russian Consuls-General at Bucharest, Belgrade, and Cettinje have been raised to the rank of Ministers-Resident.

By an Imperial ukase issued on Monday at St. Petersburg it is ordered that, in consequence of the recent series of attempts upon the lives of public functionaries, crimes against the State and attacks upon Government officials shall be placed for a time under the jurisdiction of the military tribunals, and tried according to the laws in force in time of war.

AUSTRIA-HUNGARY.

The Pope has addressed an autograph letter to the Emperor of Austria, in which he implores his Majesty to protect the organisation of the Roman Catholic religion in Bosnia.

The promotion of Feldzeugmeister-General Philippovich to the rank of Commander of the second Austrian army, and the bestowal upon him of the grand cross of the Order of Leopold, with the decoration for military services, were gazetted on the 22nd inst. The Duke of Wurtemberg was at the same time gazetted as a Feldzeugmeister. Feldzeugmeister the Duke of Wurtemberg, Lieutenant Field-Marshal Rambery, Count Szapary, and Baron Bieneth are appointed Commanders of the 13th, 5th, 3rd, and 4th Army Corps respectively. Five appointments of Generals of Division are also made.

Bishop Michael Horvath, the celebrated Hungarian historian, died recently. He was Minister of Public Instruction in the Provisional Government of 1849.

The annual Vienna grain fair was opened on Monday by Herr Naschauer, president of the Fruit and Flower Exchange. There were 5500 persons present, and the opening was attended by Herr Arndt, representing the Minister of Commerce, and by the Burgomaster, Herr Newald.

SERVIA.

The official festival celebrating simultaneously the independence of Servia, Prince Milan's birthday, and his accession to the throne, took place at Belgrade on the 22nd. Court ceremonies were held in the church and palace, and there was a parade of the troops. The Prince issued a proclamation in which he announces a future era of peace, thanks the nation for the sacrifices it made during the late war, congratulates the country on the accession of territory, and promises help to the families of those killed or injured during the hostilities. There were fireworks and illuminations in the evening.

Prince Milan has accepted the resignation of his Cabinet, and has intrusted M. Ristics with the formation of a Ministry.

The Austrian, Russian, and Italian representatives in Belgrade who have hitherto held the position of diplomatic agents have been raised to the rank of Ministers Resident at the Servian Court, and M. Zukits has been appointed Servian Minister Resident at Vienna.

TURKEY.

A new Order for ladies has been instituted by the Sultan, who has offered to confer it upon Lady Layard. Lord Salisbury has, however, declined to authorise its acceptance.

Safvet Pasha's circular dispatch to the Powers, in which he assigns reasons why the Porte should not comply with the recommendation of the Berlin Congress to grant a ratification of frontier to Greece is published. The document is long and closely argumentative, and the Turkish Minister expresses in conclusion his conviction that the Powers, duly enlightened on the subject, will not press the claims of Greece, and so jeopardize the peace of Europe. He does not say, however, in so many words that the Porte will not do what the Congress has recommended.

EGYPT.

It is announced on official authority from Alexandria that the Khedive has accepted unconditionally all the conclusions of the report of the Commission of Inquiry, including the restitution to the State of all lands belonging to himself and family, and has made a formal declaration to that effect to Mr. Rivers Wilson. A Ministry with independent Powers will immediately be formed, under the presidency of Nubar Pasha, to carry out the reforms recommended by the Commission. Subject to permission being given him by the British Government, Mr. Rivers Wilson has accepted the appointment of Egyptian Minister of Finance, and has attended the sittings of the Council of Ministers. The Khedive has promised Mr. Wilson that he will loyally carry out the conclusions of the Anglo-French Commission of Inquiry. In the course of his speech he said, "My country is no longer African; we now form part of Europe."

AMERICA.

Mr. Sherman, the Secretary of the Treasury, delivered a speech at Mansfield, Ohio, on Monday, in which he expressed himself in favour of the circulation of a large amount of silver and greenbacks, so that they might be kept at a par with gold. Mr. Sherman declared that the execution of the Resumption Act was rapidly approaching, and that silver, gold, and paper were now almost at par. The United States Treasury had 140,000,000 dols. in coin available, and he believed that the resumption would be easily maintained, and that no step backward would be justified. The Government had effected an annual saving of interest on the debt to the amount of 10,000,000 dols. The sales of the Four per Cent Bonds were rapidly progressing; and Mr. Sherman was confident that they would exceed 100,000,000 dols. this year, thus enabling him to redeem all Five-Twenty Bonds of the 1865 issue. While labour in the United States was depressed in consequence of over-production, and the same depression existed in other countries, there was a better prospect of relief in the United States, where labour as well as property received protection from the Government. In conclusion, Mr. Sherman defended the policy pursued by President Hayes, whose object, he said, was to destroy sectionalism.

Telegrams from New Orleans represent the yellow fever as spreading rapidly in the Lower Mississippi, with an increasing proportion of fatal cases. Several Chicago ladies have volunteered their services as nurses.

The hostile Indians in Oregon have accepted the terms of peace proposed by General Howard.

CANADA.

The Nova Scotian Legislature has been dissolved. The new elections will be held on Sept. 17 next, simultaneously with the elections to the Dominion Parliament.

INDIA.

The following intelligence is telegraphed by the Calcutta correspondent of the Times:—

"Reports from Madras contain cheering accounts of continued improvements in the prospects. A telegram states that Dehra, Ghazee, and Khan have been almost destroyed by floods. In view of this greatly improved aspect of affairs throughout the north-west, the local Government is authorised to carry out proposals for lowering the rate of relief wages and turning off the works all able-bodied people who refused to do a fair task in relief employment and all able-bodied people for whom work exists in the fields.

"Bombay has held a solemnity for the purpose of investing Maharance Surnomoye with the insignia of the Imperial Order of the Crown of India. This lady is the Burdett-Coutts of India, and of all the natives the most eminently distinguished for her noble and enlightened benevolence. She has contributed over £20,000 to famine charities enumerated by the Commissioner from 1871 to 1877, and bestowed over £50,000 in works of charity and public utility. During that period she had expended in charity one sixth of her whole income. Worthily indeed has this noble woman, by great personal merit, earned the high distinction bestowed upon her.

"A durbar was held at Jeypore on the 16th in presence of the chief Sirdars and European officers for the investiture of the Maharajah with the Order of the Indian Empire. Returning thanks, he said:—'I cannot express in adequate language my sense of gratefulness for the token of Imperial favour conferred upon me by the Queen-Empress. The infinite obligation she has placed me under demands my constant attachment and devotion to the throne, and loyal duties to the Sovereign always remain uppermost in my mind.'

"The Lieutenant-Governor left Calcutta on the 21st inst. for a lengthened tour en route for Darjeeling. Sikkim Rajah will meet him at Damsang. He desires advice and assistance with reference to the conduct of Nepaulese immigrants in obstructing the collection of rents."

The Government of India has published a resolution thanking the military famine relief officers for their services. Those who were compelled to take sick leave are allowed six months' full pay up to 600 rupees a month.

General Sir Neville Chamberlain, who has been appointed the head of the English special mission to Cabul, arrived at Simla last Tuesday.

AUSTRALIA.

Sir Arthur Blyth, K.C.M.G., the Agent-General for South Australia, has received a telegram from the Government at Adelaide, dated the 20th inst., stating that his Excellency the Governor, Sir W. F. D. Jervois, C.C.M.G., had arrived in the colony, and had been enthusiastically received by the colonists; that the season was exceptionally good, and that Sir Arthur is to send another emigrant-ship in September, so that the emigrants might arrive in time for harvest.

By the overland mail we have papers from the Australian colonies to July 9, but telegrams have anticipated the most important items of news.

Slight shocks of earthquake were felt on Monday in Rhenish Prussia, Holland, and Belgium.

An immense bronze statue has been found in the bed of the Tiber under Ponte Sisto.

There have been waterspouts and inundations in the Tyrol, and serious damage has resulted.

Telegrams from San Francisco announce that news had been received of the death of the infant Prince Imperial of Japan.

Count Harry von Arnim has bought from Count Colloredo, for £60,000, a large estate in Bohemia, the possession of which gives a title to a seat in the Vienna House of Lords.

Major-General Lothian Nicholson, C.B., of the Royal Engineers, will, it is thought, succeed Sir William Norcott as Governor of Jersey, on the expiration of that officer's tenure of the appointment next month.

A telegram of Tuesday's date from Larnaca, addressed by Sir A. D. Home to the Director-General Army Medical Department, states that the health of the troops in camp at Cyprus has generally much improved.

The Government has accepted a tender from the Peninsular and Oriental Steam Navigation Company for the conveyance of the India and China mails for a period of eight years from February, 1880, when the present contract expires.

Four Italian Alpine excursionists (MM. Vaccarone, Costa, Nigra, and Brioschi) have succeeded in making an ascent which had hitherto been attempted in vain—that of Mont Blanc from the Italian side, descending it on the French.

Lieutenant Meering Bloomfield Seager, of the Royal Marine Light Infantry, has been appointed Assistant Civil Commissioner in the island of Cyprus. Mr. Seager is a barrister-at-law, and was called to the degree of the utter bar of the Middle Temple in June, 1874.

Reports which had reached New York of a revolution having broken out in San Domingo have been confirmed. The revolutionary forces, according to the latest intelligence received, are marching on the capital.

Advices from Sydney bring further particulars of the native revolt in New Caledonia. It appears that the movement was confined to two tribes, numbering 1000 men, and that it is attributed to the arbitrary seizure of some land and a village.

The ship Pericles, 1598 tons, Captain Largie, chartered by the Agent-General for New South Wales, sailed from Plymouth for Sydney on the 22nd inst. with 441 emigrants, under the supervision of Dr. A. Booth as surgeon-superintendent, with Miss Jones in charge of the single women.

The Belgian Royal Quadrennial prize of 25,000f. for the best work on the national history has been awarded to M. Alphonse Wauters for his publication on "Communal Liberties; an Essay on their Origin and Development in Belgium, the North of France, and on the Banks of the Rhine."

The French forces in Senegal are preparing for an expedition into the interior, in consequence of the fact that the negro King Sambala, an ally of France, has been attacked by the Kersoukes, the Saracoles, and the Toucouleurs of the Logo. The French corps is going to aid him. The officers propose to penetrate as far as Medines, a town in the interior.

There was issued on Wednesday from the Foreign Office the annual report, addressed to the Lords of the Admiralty, of the Commander-in-Chief on the East India Naval station in respect to the slave trade. Admiral Corbett remarks that there is a manifest diminution in the slave trade on the East Coast of Africa, and proves it by the figures, as the number of slaves liberated by her Majesty's ships during the past year was sixty, compared with 438 in the preceding year.

Vice-Consul Dupuis, in his report made this year on the trade of Susa, Tunis, in 1877, says:—"Nothing has rewarded research among the antiquities in the country. I have secured the marble statue of one of the emperors, discovered some years ago, but lost again from being buried up in rubbish, and so baffled the endeavours of the author of 'Travels in the Footsteps of Bruce' when here to discover. It stands 5 ft. 2½ in. high from the knees, where it is broken off. Two winged figures and the head of Medusa are beautifully sculptured on the breast. This had led some to suppose it to be one of the Christian Emperors, but I am inclined to think they represent the Gloriæ. I have had it fixed up in my office."

THE CHURCH.

PREFERMENTS AND APPOINTMENTS.

Begbie, Mars Hamilton, to be Vicar of St. Andrew's, Stockwell.
Beley, Charles Allen Evans; Perpetual Curate of Manningtree.
Bennett, George; Vicar of East Overton.
Bright, Edward Augustus; Vicar of North Lydbury-cum-Norbury.
Brooke, Hubert; Perpetual Curate of St. Bride's, Liverpool.
Buckmaster, E.; Vicar of Epping.
Bush, Thomas Henry; Perpetual Curate of St. Luke's, Burton, Hants.
Butter, J.; Vicar of St. Thomas's, Bethnal-green.
Clay, Edward Keatinge; Vicar of Great Kimble, Bucks.
Darby, George William; Rector of North Wingfield.
Davidson, Arthur Armitstead; Rector of St. Lawrence's, Norwich.
Grundy, Henry Dickinson; Vicar of Cerne Abbas.
Hodgson, F. H.; Vicar of Abbots Langley.
Jauncey, Henry John; Vicar of Houghton or Torside.
Legge, George Barrington; Vicar of Whittington.
Morley, Samuel; Perpetual Curate of Warslow with Elkstone.
Peake, George Eden Frederick; Vicar of St. Margaret-next-Rochester.
Perry-Keene, Charles John; Vicar of Dean Prior.
Pegler, John James; Vicar of Stowe.
Peel, Frederick; Vicar of Little Malvern.
Philips, Edward; Rector of Checkley with Hollington.
Popham, John; Rector of St. John and St. George, Exeter.
Prescott, Benjamin B.; Perpetual Curate of Christ Church, Latchford.
Randall, James; Rector of Ifield.
Reynolds, Seymour Baylie; Rector of Thorndon.
Russell, Alfred Francis; Rector of Chingford.
Slaite, George Herbert; Perpetual Curate of Ashton Hayes.
Sowter, Francis Briggs; Rector of Corscombe, Dorset.
Stobart, W. J.; Vicar of St. Augustine's, Bermondsey.
Starbuck, Edward Stephenson; Rector of Salcott Virley.
Turner, James; Rector of Chipping Ongar.
Theed, Joseph V.; Vicar of Lower Halstow, near Sittingbourne, Kent.
Walters, W.; Rural Dean of Pershore.
Wellsted, A. G.; Rector of Colne Wake.
Whitworth, William; Rector of Taxal.
Wilson, John; Vicar of Avenbury.
Winslow, Forbes E.; Rector of St. Paul's, Hastings.—Guardian.

The Bishop of Truro has opened a school-chapel at Tregudillet, Launceston.

Mr. J. L. Pearson, A.R.A., has been appointed architect of the new cathedral at Truro.

On the 21st inst. the Dean of York opened the parish church of Haxby, which has been almost entirely rebuilt.

The congregation of St. James's Church, Ryde, have presented a handsome silver communion service to the Rev. Howard B. Finch on his leaving that curacy.

On St. Bartholomew's Day the foundation-stone of a church, to be dedicated to St. John the Evangelist, at Delabole, Cornwall, was laid by Miss Hellyar, of Boscastle, who gave the site.

The subjects and speakers at the Church Congress, to be held at Sheffield on Oct. 1, 2, 3, and 4, have been arranged. The congress will sit in two sections—at the Albert Hall and at the Cutlers' Hall.

A beautiful fresco by Messrs. Campbell and Smith, of Southampton-row, has been presented to the Rev. Arthur Robins for the Church of The Saviour, Windsor, by the officers of the 1st Regiment of Life Guards.

A memorial has been placed in Playford church to the memory of Thomas Clarkson, the strenuous advocate of the abolition of slavery. It consists of a marble medallion portrait of him in the prime of life, with a suitable inscription. Mr. Clarkson lived at Playford for more than thirty years.

The Bishop of Exeter has consecrated the chapel of ease of St. Michael, at Beer, restored at the sole cost of the Hon. Mark Rolle. The altar cloth has been embroidered by Lady Gertrude Rolle. Upon the retable stands a polished brass enamelled and jewelled cross. The oak lectern is the gift of the Hon. Miss Trefusis.

A painted window, representing the sanctity of domestic life, has been placed in Gloucester Cathedral by the Dean and Chapter, in memory of the wife of Canon Tinling. The window is on the north side of the choir, the third eastward from the restored chapel of St. Paul, and opposite to the shrines of Edward II. and King Osric.

A pulpit of Caen stone, executed by Messrs. Cox and Son, from the designs of the late Sir Gilbert Scott, and intended as a memorial to the late Rev. M. Williams, M.A., Rector of Llanrhyddlad, Anglesea, a clergyman well known in the Welsh literary world, has been erected in Bangor Cathedral, and will be used for the first time on Sunday. Miss Bonham, a lady amateur, has executed the stone work of the panels, which are filled with representations of scriptural subjects.

The east window of the new chancel at St. Mary's, Southampton, of which the Prince of Wales recently laid the stone, is in the hands of Messrs. Clayton and Bell, who are working out a beautiful design by Mr. Street, R.A. The central light contains a "Crucifixion." Above, below, and in the two other lights are events from The Passion. It is to be given by all whom Bishop Wilberforce confirmed: £120 is still lacking. Subscriptions may be sent to Miss L. Phillimore, The Coppice, Henley-on-Thames.

The annual account and report to the governors of Queen Anne's Bounty has been issued. It appears that 117 grants towards the improvement of poor benefices were assigned during the year, as compared with 114 in the year 1876. The receipts during the past year amounted to £152,962, and the disbursements to £122,975, of which £114,970 was for interest and dividends due to the clergy. The liabilities of the corporation are estimated at £3,814,920, and the assets at £3,844,018, leaving a balance in hand of £29,097.

The Bishop of St. Albans reopened the church of Tollesbunt Knights, Essex, on the 21st inst. It is a small though interesting church, and it contains a defaced effigy, supposed to be that of a Knight Templar.—Next day his Lordship reopened the church of Little Horkesley, which had undergone a thorough restoration, under the care of Mr. Blomfield. The cost of the work which the Vicar has been enabled to carry out has been £2415, exclusive of the cost of rehanging the peal, and of adding a fifth bell and a chiming apparatus, which has been done at the expense of Mrs. Bourdillon and Miss Cardonell, of Horkesley Hall.

The Church of St. Mary, High Crompton, near Oldham, was consecrated on the 22nd inst. by the Bishop of Manchester. In his sermon he dealt with the subject of endowments. The Bishop said that within the last thirty years the number of parishes in the diocese had nearly doubled, and all the new parishes had been formed and largely endowed out of the common fund, as it was called, which was at the disposal of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners. Wherever a new parish was formed and the population exceeded 4000 the Commissioners endowed it to the extent of £200 a year, and where the population was under that, they met local liberality by making a grant corresponding to the benefaction which was offered.

A severe explosion of gas occurred last Saturday morning off the Longships light-ship on board the steam-vessel Summerville, of Glasgow, bound from Cardiff to Rochfort, laden with coals. Captain Clements, who was in the chart-room at the time, was killed, and the cook was badly burned. The main-deck of the vessel was much damaged.

ART.

"The Polo-Match at Hurlingham," now exhibited at the Guardi Gallery, Haymarket, is from the pencil of Mr. George Earl, the painter of "Coming South" and "Going North." The present work is about 7 ft. by 5 ft., and represents in a spirited manner the game of polo as played by five officers of the Royal Horse Guards (Blue), attired in jerseys and caps striped red and blue on the one side, and five gentlemen in white shirts and red caps, belonging to the Monmouthshire Polo Club, on the other. The match takes place in the grounds of Hurlingham, before the Prince and Princess of Wales and a large gathering of fashionable guests. The players are mounted on stout ponies, whose varied action the artist portrays with his well-known facility. The portraits are all readily recognisable, and when translated into black and white the animated scene has almost a better look than on the canvas.

Mr. Alma-Tadema's picture of "Pleading" has been etched by Mr. Leopold Lowenstam. It represents a Roman youth lying on a marble seat urging his suit on the not unwilling ears of his lady-love, who, elbow on knee and hand thoughtfully to mouth, sits beside him, with a lapful of unheeded roses. This marble bench occupies the whole breadth of the picture, and beyond it we catch a glimpse of a summer sea bounded by far-off hills. Mr. Alma-Tadema painted this picture as a centre to his "In Confidence" and his "First Whisper," both of which have, like the subject before us, been etched by Leopold Lowenstam, a Dutch artist of commanding merit. The present etching is, for lightness, brightness, and clearness of texture, perhaps the finest plate M. Lowenstam has yet etched; and no doubt Messrs. Pilgeram and Lefèvre, to whom we are indebted for Mr. Alma-Tadema's published works, will find art-lovers of a like opinion.

Yesterday week, in the presence of Lord and Lady Rosebery, £3500 was presented to the Glasgow Royal Infirmary, as the proceeds of an exhibition of paintings lent by the merchant princes of Glasgow and the neighbourhood. Lord Rosebery congratulated Glasgow upon the success of so worthy and benevolent an enterprise.

The statue of the "Deerstalker," by Mr. E. B. Stephens, A.R.A., exhibited at the Royal Academy three years ago, has been bought by subscription for presentation to the city of Exeter. The ceremony was to take place on the 30th inst., the Earl of Devon making the presentation to the Mayor as representing the citizens.

An International Art-Exhibition is to be held at Munich next year, and thenceforth every fourth year.

We learn from the Hampshire Telegraph of the 24th inst. that "Mr. Robins, marine artist, of Commercial-road, Landport, has completed a large oil-painting representing the operations in connection with the raising of the Eurydice in Sandown Bay. The picture shows the wreck, together with the Rinaldo, steam-tugs, &c., and is complete in every detail. Mr. Robins has also executed a capital sketch of the Naval Inspection at Spithead by the Queen. The artist had the honour of submitting these works to her Majesty at Osborne on Thursday, when she expressed herself highly pleased with them, and bought a copy of the first-named picture, together with the sketch. Mr. Robins also had the honour of showing the picture of the wreck to the Prince of Wales, who expressed his satisfaction. The picture was painted in less than forty hours. Mr. Robins is a retired sergeant from the Royal Marine Artillery."

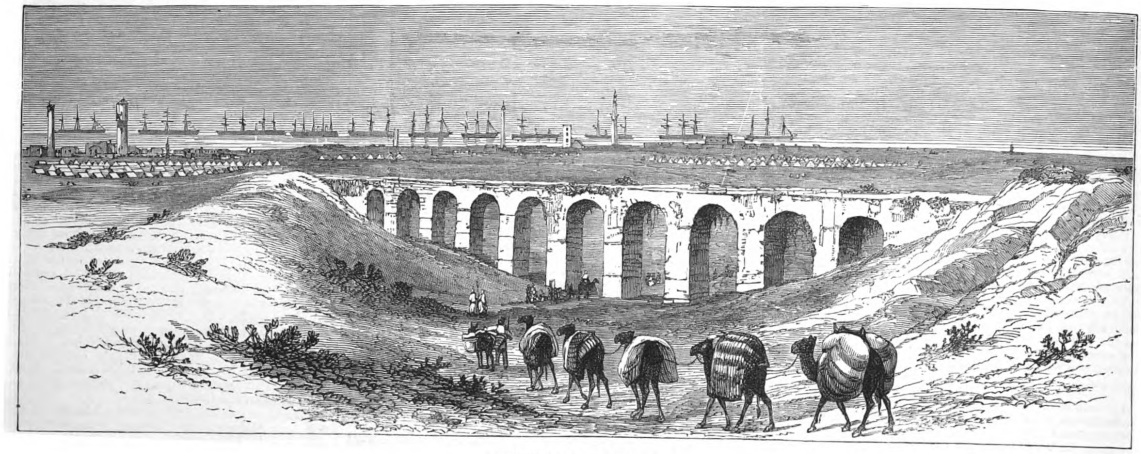
ROYAL CORNWALL POLYTECHNIC EXHIBITION.

The forty-sixth annual exhibition of the Royal Cornwall Polytechnic Society was opened at Falmouth on Tuesday by a speech from the president of the society, Mr. Richard Taylor, F.G.S., in which he dwelt on the most important points in connection with the management of mines.

The exhibition throughout was a very good one. In the Fine-Art Department there are several Welsh views by L. Leroux. W. C. Symonds has a couple of capital figures, one being "A Sunny Page," which was exhibited at the Royal Academy, 1877; the other, "Cupid's Arbour." Mr. W. Williams has landscape and river views; and Julia Bertha's Welsh and Thames-side views are unusually good. The other professionals include F. H. Edgcombe, W. Gibbon, F. C. Jackson, E. A. Prynne, &c. In water colours, as usual, Mr. T. Hart and Mr. J. G. Philp are the largest exhibitors. The latter deals chiefly with the Cornish coast, while the former, in addition to depicting the beauties of his native country, gives Italian and Irish drawings. Amongst the other exhibitors are R. W. Boase Smith, Sheldon Williams, Mrs. Genn, Hester Sterling, and Mary Philp. In photography, by professionals, first silver medals are awarded to David Hedges for studies of animals; and to Edwin Forehead for Old Church, Bonchurch. Bronze medals are given to Robert Faulkner and Co. for studies of dogs, to Marsh Brothers for a Quarry Wood, Great Marlow.

The Morning Post understands that Major-General George Brydges Rodney, C.B., Deputy Adjutant-General of the Royal Marines, has resigned that appointment.

Garrison sports, in which officers, non-commissioned officers, and men of the regiments at Woolwich competed, were successfully carried out at that place on Tuesday and Wednesday

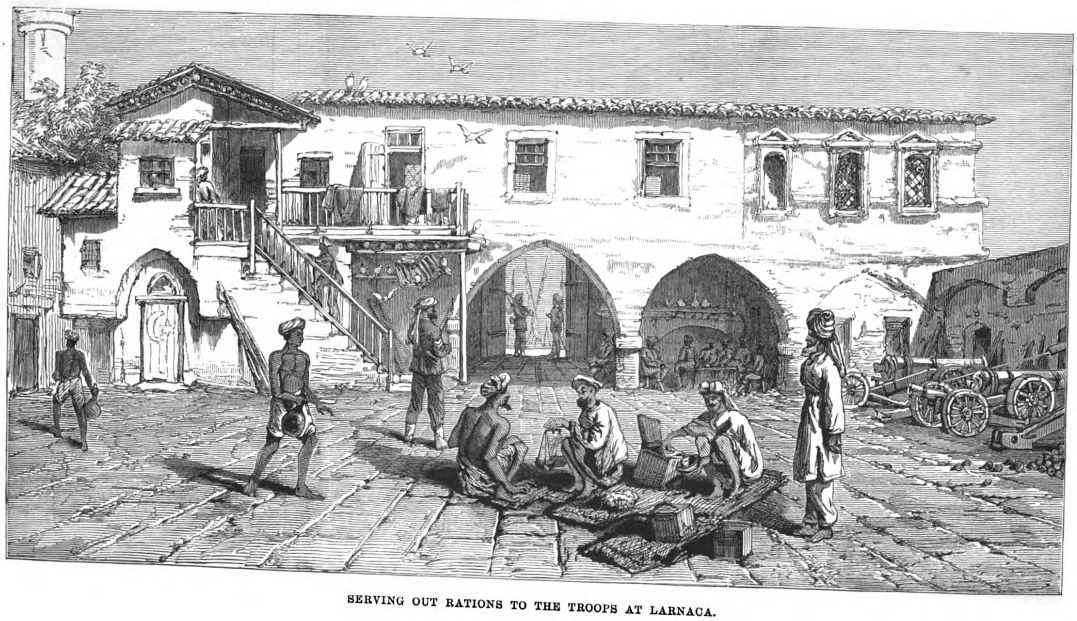


Watches and jewellery, to the value of between £200 and £300, were stolen on Monday from the premises of Mr. W. Clarke, watch and clock dealer, Manchester.

The Queen has conferred the honour of Companion of the Civil Division of the Order of the Bath upon Mr. John Elijah Blunt, her Majesty's Consul at Adrianople.

Official despatches respecting the famine in China have been issued. Mr. Fraser, writing from Pekin on May 10, says he had heard, on good authority, that as many as seven millions of persons were computed to have perished. The province of Shanshi alone was said to have lost five millions of its inhabitants during last winter. He cites a letter from the province, which stated that the people in some districts preyed upon each other like wild beasts, and that in many villages seven-tenths of the population were dead. Later despatches announce that in all parts of North China enough rain had fallen this spring to permit the autumn crops to be sown, and that the wheat promised well.

Last week 2000 quarters of beef and ninety-seven dead sheep were landed in Liverpool from America. The arrivals of live stock were again on an extensive scale, amounting in the aggregate to 1288 oxen and 1595 sheep. In addition to the above, sixty-one horses were landed in good condition.—Several valuable consignments of live cattle, sheep, pigs, and horses reached the Mersey on Wednesday afternoon from the United States and Canada. The Leyland steamer Illyrian, from Boston, had on board 276 head of cattle, 833 sheep, 407 pigs, 21 calves, and 3 horses; the American Line steamer Lord Clive, from Philadelphia, brought 404 cattle; and the Beaver Line steamer Lake Champlain, from Montreal, 290 cattle; whilst the steamer Egypt, of the National Line, arrived from New York, with 564 quarters of fresh beef and 33 valuable horses.



SKETCHES IN CYPRUS, BY OUR SPECIAL ARTIST.

AQUEDUCT AT LARNACA.

BAZAAR AT LARNACA.

SERVING OUT RATIONS TO THE TROOPS AT LARNACA.

THE AUSTRIAN OCCUPATION OF HERZEGOVINA: STREET SCENE IN GRAHOVO.
FROM A SKETCH BY OUR SPECIAL ARTIST.

ECHOES OF THE WEEK.

Seven cities of Greece, so the anonymous distich tells us, laid claim to the honour of being the birthplace of Homer. Two French towns, Tours and Chinon, have for some months past been disputing as to which is most entitled to erect a statue of Francois Rabelais. The conflict has come to an amicable termination, the Municipal Council of Tours having definitively abandoned its pretensions; and the "Doctor of Chinon" is to have a statue in the town from the name of which he derives his sobriquet. It was time that such honour was paid to the most illustrious satirist of the period of the Renaissance. The unutterable coarseness of diction in "Gargantua" and "Pantagruel" makes the works of Rabelais wholly unfit for family reading; although, as a moralist, he is undoubtedly the superior of Chaucer. The essay on the education of Gargantua and the description of the Abbey of Thelemé are in reality ethical discourses of the highest order; but it is difficult to make English readers of Sir Thomas Urquhart's scurrilous translation understand that the grossness of Rabelais was assumed with a deliberate and most subtle purpose. He veiled sublime truths under a mask of immodest buffoonery. He was a ribald jester because he was anxious to avoid being denounced by the Sorbonne and burned by the Inquisition. He was one of the most earnest and the most puissant precursors of the Reformation in France. He had all Luther's common-sense and more than Luther's wit; but he lacked Luther's moral courage, simple-minded piety, and apostolic fervour. Still, the Doctor of Chinon dealt terrible blows at Popery, nevertheless.

The fair city of Tours may console herself for the loss of a statue of Rabelais. She should set about raising a monument to the most celebrated of her sons—the most renowned French novelist of the last generation, Honoré de Balzac. The 19th of August was the nineteenth anniversary of the death of the author of "Eugénie Grandet" and "Le Père Goriot." Balzac died in 1849, of a lingering and dreadful malady—hypertrophy of the heart. He had only recently been married, after a prolonged and most pathetic courtship, to Madame Eve de Hanska, a noble Polish widow of large property. The pre-nuptial correspondence between the great novelist and Madame de Hanska, forming as it does a substantial biography of Balzac during the last twenty years of his career, is intensely interesting, not only for its matter, but for its manner. Many of Balzac's letters are models of eloquence of diction and purity of style.

Mem: Love-letters should not be too irreproachable from a grammatical point of view. We must needs break Priscian's head, now and again, else we shall not be able to indulge in that "little language" of which Swift was so mighty a master. The "Journal to Stella" is far from being a model of grammatical English. Abelard's letters to Eloise are, indeed, faultless in their syntax; but then both lovers wrote in Latin, and piqued themselves on their scholarship, even in the midst of their overwhelming misery. Again, when love-letters are too scrupulously correct in style one begins to doubt the sincerity of their writers. Lord Dalling (H. L. Bulwer), in his Memoir of Lord Byron, attached to the Galignani edition of 1839, states that some of the most passionately worded of the epistles of the noble poet to Lady Caroline Lamb were literally translated from the "Liaisons Dangereuses" of Choderlos de Laclos. The accusation may be well founded; still it is equally true that many of the most fervent of the letters in the "Liaisons" were almost literally translated by Laclos from the "Pamela" and the "Clarissa Harlowe" of the virtuous Samuel Richardson.

Returning for a moment to the author of the "Comédie Humaine," I want to know whether Mr. George Bentley has yet published, or when he intends to publish, that English translation of Balzac's correspondence which he promised us ever so many months ago. The French edition was produced full eighteen months since. I know that the perusal of the letters were a solace to me during a dismal nine days' journey by rail, post-chaise, and sledge through the drifting snow from Petersburg to Warsaw, and from Warsaw to Odessa, in December, '76; but where is the English version?

Those poor Shakers! Out in the pitiless highway at Vag's Lane down in Hampshire, and in the midst of such storms as we have had lately! Their wretched "sticks" seized by the bailiffs and sold by the brokers by "public roup," and, "to cap the climax of their catastrophe," the luckless Mother Girling herself harried by the county police, and summoned before the magistrates for obstructing the thoroughfare! I suppose that the Shakers are crazy—hopelessly crazy. Who is so very sane, if it comes to that? Many years ago a dear literary friend of mine went out of his mind, and it was necessary to place him in confinement. "Just like him!" cried Verjuice, the cynic. "I've been ten times madder than he for years; but I never was such a fool as to let people know how mad I was!" That is (I take it) where it is. The Shakers have had the imprudence to make their eccentricities public. If you want to get on in this world, you must not hop on one leg or turn round and round like a tectotum coram publico—unless, indeed, you be an acrobat or a ballet-dancer, in which case you may make money by the operation. But to be mad, and a contortionist, and poor, is (mundanely speaking) inexcusable. The Dancing and Howling Dervishes of Constantinople are wiser in their generation. They are ancient and wealthy corporations; yet their antics (to be witnessed for so many piastres a séance) are ten times more grotesque and more revolting than those of the lamentable sectarian "polkomaniacs" at Hordle by Lymington seem to be.

Whither they be mad or sane, I cannot help feeling a tenderness—a grateful tenderness, too—for the Shakers. Many years ago, before I "went in" to the journalistic line of business, I was a draughtsman on wood. A speculative friend of mine had just become the proprietor of a new patent medicine, say the "Shaking Quakers' Universal Elixir," which was supposed to be prepared from a recipe derived from the Shakers' community at Lebanon, N.Y., U.S.A., so admirably described in Charles Dickens's "American Notes." My friend commissioned me to draw an immense cartoon depicting the American Shakers—the brethren on one side, the sisters on the other—executing their pious gambadoes. This was to serve as an advertisement for the patent medicine; and a capital one it proved to be. Business did not, however, go well with my friend, and he departed for the Far West, leaving me the Universal Elixir as a legacy. I took a partner, and for a while we worked the thing very profitably, but eventually we got into difficulties with H.M.'s Stamp Office, and, discovering that the Cagliostro line was not my vocation, I gracefully retired from it.

Talking of mad people, history has repeated itself very oddly in the case of the fanatic David Lazzaretti, of Arcidosso, in the province of Grosseto, between Civita Vecchia and Leghorn. You have read how this crack-brained adventurer gathered round him a band of disciples as addle-pated but less cunning than himself; how he proclaimed his own supersanctity, a community of goods, the imminence of the millennium, and all the rest of it; and how, at last, the authorities were forced to move against him. David Lazzaretti was shot dead by the Italian carabinieri; but does not his brief and turbulent career remind you, with curious precision, of another fanatic who made notable noise in the county of Kent some eight-and-thirty years ago? Do you remember the madman Thom, alias "Sir Edward Courtenay" (he was a bankrupt wine merchant, I think), who went about persuading the simple-minded Kentish peasants that he was all kinds of impossible things. In the end, a detachment of infantry from Canterbury was sent out against Thom and his followers. The madman shot the poor young Lieutenant who was in command of the military dead; whereupon the soldiers fired a volley, and Thom, alias "Sir Edward Courtenay," was killed. The Canterbury maniac was a strikingly handsome man; and I have a picture of him at home, with coal-black ringlets and a flowing beard, and in the tom-fool costume which he wore. He called himself, if I remember aright, among other things, a Knight of Malta. There should be a full account of this precursor of David Lazzaretti either in Dr. Charles Mackay's "Extraordinary Popular Delusions" or in one of the tracts of the Miscellanies of the Messrs. Chambers.

I mentioned Samuel Richardson, novelist and bookseller, just now. The post has just brought me the London World, and I find therein an announcement from "Atlas" that two dramatic versions of "Clarissa Harlowe," one by Mr. Boucicault, the other by Mr. Wills, are in contemplation for the forthcoming season. That announcement fills me with horror. Oh, Mr. Wills! oh, Mr. Boucicault! do leave that most maudlin of stories, full of sham sentiment and mock morality, alone. I have the dreariest of recollections of "Clarissa Harlowe" on the English stage. Three-and-thirty years since the late Jules Janin took it into his head to transform Richardson's long-winded prose epic into French. The French have a fondness for manufactured sentiment (witness their admiration for Sterne), and "Clarissa" was a success; and it was dramatised likewise successfully at one of the Paris theatres.

Forthwith did Mr. J. M. Maddox, the then lessee of the Princess's Theatre, incite his "stock" dramatist, Mr. T. H. Reynoldson, to prepare an English version of "Clarissa Harlowe." The piece was very powerfully cast, and the Harlowe as a novel; but the obsolete romance was received with but scant favour by the reading public. Perhaps the public taste has changed since then. Mr. Boucicault has, perhaps, his eye on the incident of the house on fire as a "sensation" scene; and as for Mr. Wills, he is so thoroughly poetical in all he does that (with the assistance of Miss Ellen Terry) he might succeed in making Moll Flanders attractive and Mother Brownrigge fascinating. But why not give Henry Fielding a chance, Mr. Wills? Could nothing be done with that pearl of of British darlings "Amelia;" and might not the incomparable Sophia Western be brought with advantage on the stage?

Mem.: Mr. Thackeray used frequently and laughingly to express his ambition to write a novel called "The Married Life of Thomas Jones, Esquire." But the French were before him in this respect. There is actually a five-act comedy entitled "Tom Jones Père de Famille."

The Austrian police, I perceive, have handed over to the judicial authorities of the canton of Berne, in Switzerland, a certain adventuress of Russian extraction, calling herself a Countess, who is accused of having swindled tradespeople, principally at Nice, Geneva, and Paris, of upwards of a million of francs (£40,000), by means of selling them false jewellery. The case is worth noting and remembering. There is an enormous amount of sham jewellery—principally emeralds, rubies, and sapphires—about just now; and even the London pawnbrokers (usually reputed to be the astutest of mankind) have been of late so often and so grossly deceived in this respect that they are beginning to be chary of lending any money on jewellery at all. If you will turn to a very curious book, more than once quoted in this column, called "Five Years' Penal Servitude," you will find how the fraud is, in all probability, perpetrated. The hero of the book, just before the term of his punishment expired, had a conversation with a fellow-prisoner, a German, who proposed that when they left prison they should go into partnersnip in a transaction which he assured him would prove highly remunerative. The precious scheme was for the manufacture of "triplets," the secret of which is that a piece of coloured glass is placed between two thin layers of genuine precious stone. The triplet will triumphantly stand all tests save one. The coloured glass is made to adhere to the upper and lower strata by means of some gum as strong and translucent as Canada balsam; but you have only to place the triplet in a little warm water, when the gum will dissolve and the sham gem will disintegrate.

I never professed to know anything about grammar, or to speak with more than the accuracy of a courier or a valet de place any one of the languages which I have contrived to pick up. Still—if I ever betted—I would willingly, until a few days since, have laid a moderate wager—aye, and at good odds—that it was not incorrect to say in French that "un homme avait les mains liées derrière le dos," or, in English, that "a man had his hands tied behind his back." A gentleman, however, who writes in the Paris Figaro under the signature of "un Rébouteur," on grammatical solecisms, which he calls les entorses de la grammaire, points out not only that the expression which I have quoted is wrong, but that it is physically impossible that a man should have his hands tied behind his back. We should say, it would seem, that il avait les mains liées par derrière, or derrière lui; in English, "his hands tied behind," or "behind him." Why? Simply for the reason that behind the human back comes, first, the inner processes of the spine, then our internal arrangements, and, finally, the human breast. So that, in verbal strictness, the only possible way of tying a man's hands behind his back would be to tie them across his bosom. Will anyb ody controvert this? I sincerely hope that somebody will; for the entorse pointed out by "M. le Rébouteur" is so ridiculously obvious as to be positively exasperating.

P.S.—All letters for me to be addressed (post-paid) to Heliopolis, care of Thothmes III. I am always to be found at the Café du Soleil. G. A. S.

Mr. Barber, solicitor, Bangor, has been appointed Clerk of the Peace for Carnarvonshire, in the room of Mr. Poole.

NATIONAL SPORTS.

There was a considerable decrease in the number of spectators on the third and last day at Stockton, though those who remained to the end were rewarded by witnessing some capital sport. Ronaleyn, on the strength of his close race with Coromandel II. on the previous day, was backed against the field for the Twenty-second Zetland Biennial, but he seemed chopped at the start, and was never fairly with his field, a rattling finish between Constellation and Pretoria ending in favour of the former by a neck. The winner, who belongs to Mr. Bowes, had never run previously. She is by Knight of the Garter out of Toison d'Or, and was ridden by Tom Chaloner, who has appeared in the saddle far too seldom this season. The famous "black and gold" was again carried successfully by Twine the Plaiden in the Stockton Stewards Cup; and, as Skotzka had won on the previous day, the news that all three were objected to was most unwelcome to a large number of backers. It appears that Mr. J. Peart, jun., who entered them, was in the forfeit list as far back as 1861, and on this ground Lord Zetland and Messrs. Lowther and Vyner claimed the respective races for which their horses ran second. The objection was considered at York on Tuesday, and Lord Hartington, Sir George Chetwynd, and Lord Falmouth overruled it, deciding that, as Mr. Peart was merely the paid servant of Mr. Bowes, and in no way responsible for the entry money or forfeits for the races for which he had nominated the animals in question, they were not disqualified. There can be little doubt that this decision is founded on commonsense, and will give general satisfaction: still it appears to us to be opposed to the law on the subject. It is distinctly laid down that "A person entering a horse for a race thereby becomes liable for the entrance-money and stake or forfeit;" and, further, that "so long as the name of a person is in the Unpaid Forfeit List he cannot subscribe to any sweepstakes, and no horse can be entered by him or under his subscription for any sweepstakes; and no horse which has been entered by him, or in his name, or under his subscription is qualified to run for any race." It will be observed that no exception whatever is made in favour of a servant or agent; and, while fully recognising the hardship that would have been entailed upon Mr. Bowes by the disqualification of his horses, we cannot but think that the exception made in his favour furnishes a dangerous precedent. While this objection was pending, an attempt was made to play the Julius Cæsar trick again. Messrs. Weather by received a telegram, dated from Streatlam Castle, and purporting to come from Mr. Bowes, instructing them to scratch all his horses for their engagements at York. Fortunately, it soon became known that Mr. Bowes had been in Paris for some little time, so there was not much harm done by the rascally attempt, though one or two fancy bets were laid against Jagellon for the Ebor Handicap, "all in," which must have cost some money to cover.

With upwards of £3000 given in added money, and three or four St. Leger horses pretty sure to fulfil their various engagements, it seemed tolerably certain that the York Meeting would prove a success, especially as matters have been unusually dull since the close of the Sussex fortnight. Nor were these expectations disappointed, for the very first race produced a small sensation, and appears to dispose of the Leger claims of Glengarry, who won the Prince of Wales's Stakes at Ascot in such gallant style. He was only opposed by Bonnie Dundee, who, though a splendidly-bred filly, being a daughter of Blair Athol and Hester, has hardly displayed even plating form in her previous essays. Odds of 6 and 7 to 1 were naturally enough laid upon him; but, after making all the running at a moderate pace, the filly got up at the half distance, and beat him rather cleverly by a head. In the Convivial Stakes, Lord Falmouth depended upon Ringleader instead of the penalised Charibert, a selection which proved unfortunate, as Falmouth gave him 10 lb. with consummate ease, and showed that he was not indebted to the good start he obtained for his victory at Stockton last week. Redwing (7 st. 12 lb.), the bearer of the magpie colours in the Lonsdale Plate, was not more fortunate than Ringleader, and did not finish within hail of Rowlston (8 st. 4 lb.), who has proved a rather fortunate purchase, having won a good race for Mr. Peck at the Epsom Summer Meeting. Jannette had nothing to beat in the Yorkshire Oaks, yet so sensitive is the market on the St. Leger, that she had no sooner cantered home in front of Strathfleet and Carillon, to each of whom she was conceding 7 lb., than she pressed Beauclerc very closely in the quotations, 5 to 1, and, in some cases, a shade less, being freely accepted about her. Of course there was nothing in the performance; but the filly looked far better, though little heavier, than she did at Ascot, and we fully expect that Archer will elect to wear the first colours on her, in preference to intrusting his fortunes to the uncertain Childeric. Alpha, who defeated St. Augustine last week, had matters all his own way in the Badminton Plate, and, in the last race of the day, Fordham squeezed King Boris first past the post by one of the most determined pieces of riding ever seen.

A bright afternoon made the second day's sport very enjoyable. Sword Knot, who can gallop away from anything not quite in the first class, had no trouble in the Filly Sapling Stakes; but the next event produced a grand finish between Claudius and Witchery, Archer, who rode the former, just doing Fordham by a short head. The winner, who is by Cecrops—Light, is the property of Mr. Gee, and had never run previously. By the success of Caerau (6 st. 9 lb.) Mr. Cartwright was credited with his third Ebor Handicap; and there is little doubt that the son of the defunct Marsyas was the best-class horse in the race, as, though Jagellon (7 st. 4 lb.) ran him to a head, we fancy that the winner had a little to spare, and, moreover, he only received 9 lb. for the year from Mr. Bowes's colt. Strathmore (8 st. 4 lb.), the favourite, cut up miserably badly; but Ivy (7 st. 1 lb.) showed well in front until about a quarter of a mile from home, when she died away to nothing. Only the first and second had anything to do with the finish, so no value need be attached to the place gained by Knight Templar (8 st. 2 lb.). Though the absence of Ruperra deprived the Prince of Wales's Stakes of a good deal of the interest that would have otherwise attached to it, the meeting of Wheel of Fortune and Falmouth caused considerable excitement, while Alice Lorraine, in spite of her four victories unsullied by a single reverse, attracted little attention. On this occasion she found the company too good for her, and Wheel of Fortune and Falmouth, both of whom carried a 7 lb. penalty, drew away by themselves and raced home together, the former securing a half-length verdict. Wheel of Fortune is by Adventurer from the famous Queen Bertha, and is, therefore, half sister to Gertrude, Queen's Messenger, Paladin, and Spinaway, all of whom are high-class performers, and Lord Falmouth seems to have a very rosy chance of the Oaks of 1879, especially as Leap Year is little inferior to the daughter of Queen Bertha.

In the present extraordinary weather, we cannot help thinking that cricket "lags superfluous on the stage;" for, owing to constant rain, a match can seldom be finished, besides which, the ground is far too heavy to furnish anything like a good wicket. Glancing hastily over the chief matches of the past few days, we note that an Eighteen of Yeadon and District have beaten the Australians by 24 runs, the scoring being miserably low on each side. Journeying on to Scarborough, the Colonials took full revenge on an Eighteen of that district, whom they defeated in a single innings, with 46 runs to spare, their batting being so good that we append the innings:—

A. Bannerman b Dewes ...	...	42	T. Garrett c Watmough b Freeman 6
W. L. Murdoch hit Dodds b Firth		5	W. Tobin b Watmough 1
T. Horan c Watmough b Freeman		47	W. Butler not out 2
F. E. Allen c and b Eastwood ...		35	F. H. Boyle c Eastwood b Watmough 0
F. R. Spofforth st Boden b Eastwood		64	B 3, l b 1, n b 2 6
J. M. Blackham run out ...		55	Total 295
G. H. Bailey thrown out by Hildyard		32

The Cheltenham Week was somewhat spoilt by the heavy rain and only one match could be finished. This was between Gloucestershire and Sussex; and, as might have been expected, the former won anyhow. In the first innings of Sussex the whole team were disposed of for 29; and though, at their second attempt, J. Phillips (not out, 77) and H. Charlwood (43) batted exceedingly well, they succumbed by an innings and 24 runs. The Rev. P. Hattersley-Smith (not out, 51) did best for Gloucestershire. Yorkshire v. Gloucestershire ended in a draw; as did Nottinghamshire v. Middlesex, which was hard on the northern county, Selby (96) and Shrewsbury (not out, 74 having scored so freely that defeat was almost impossible. In the same way Kent, for which Lord Harris (88), Hearne (32 and 53), Mr. F. Penn (67), and the Hon. Ivo Bligh (60) all did great things, were deprived of a well-earned victory over Surrey, Jupp (not out, 52; and not out, 43) showing some of his best form on the other side. Middlesex beat Yorkshire by an innings and 94 runs, thanks mainly to Messrs. A. J. Webbe (94), I. D. Walker (59), and T. S. Pearson (41). This week, Notts has beaten Surrey by 139 runs, Selby (56) and Mr. J. Shuter (not out, 45) being the only ones to distinguish themselves with the bat, but the bowling of Shaw and Morley was magnificent. Gloucestershire has proved too good for Lancashire, Messrs. W. G. Grace (49) and G. F. Grace (not out, 73) doing the most towards gaining a victory by eight wickets. Then we must chronicle a splendid performance of the Australians against an Eighteen of Hastings and District, which included such players as Lord Harris, the Hon. Ivo Bligh, Messrs. C. Absolom, F. Penn, &c. Bailey made 106 and Murdoch 73, while Spofforth took twelve wickets for 39 runs, the Eighteen being beaten by an innings and 47 runs.

In aquatics the most important coming event is the Thames International Regatta, in which the finest professional scullers of the Thames and Tyne, including Higgins (the champion), Elliott, Boyd, and Blackman will compete between Putney and Chiswick to-day and on Monday next.

The seaside regattas are being continued. The great meetings in the Solent having been brought to a close, Sandown took up the running yesterday week, and gave the visitors to this pleasant nook of the Isle of Wight a regatta on its own account. The principal race resolved itself into a match between Mr. Little's Florence and the Mosquito of Mr. Wyndham, the Florence gaining first prize and the Mosquito not leaving the prize-list unbitten.

Torbay Regatta took place on Monday and Tuesday, when Devonshire witches were to be admired in numbers. The Arrow, Vol-au-Vent, Neva, and Myosotis started in the leading race, the first prize falling to the Vol-au-Vent, and the second to the Arrow, albeit the latter gained the goal 1 min. 25 sec. before the Vol-au-Vent, which won by time allowance. On Tuesday the chief prize was carried off by the Jullanar in a contest against the Corisande, Ada, and Florinda, which won the second prize. In the match for cutters not over forty-one tons the Glance came to grief, and the Myosotis won with ease, the Niobe being second. Maggie led throughout in the race for smaller cutters, Mable taking the second prize. What with the festivities following the completion of their sanitary improvements, and what with the regatta, the residents and visitors have had a "good time" of it.

A race from Lowestoft to Yarmouth and back on Tuesday was won by the Red Rover, and during the contest the Wanderer, of which Mr. J. J. Colman, M.P., is the owner, had her masts broken, and was placed hors de combat.

Falmouth held its regatta on Wednesday, when the principal race was won by Mr. H. Bird's Ripple, the second and third yachts being the Spinaway and Butterfly. The yacht-race of next importance was won by Mr. F. Anglesea's Cygnet.

Swimmers have furnished the usual shoals of races, few of which are worth dwelling upon. The fact, too, that on Tuesday last a skilful swimmer, the winner of prizes at swimming-races, Mr. John Dillwyn Llewellyn, was, unhappily, drowned whilst bathing in Caswell Bay, Swansea, suggests that endurance may be sometimes sacrificed to speed at these swimming competitions. Be this as it may, it may be suggested to the committees of swimming clubs that it might be advisable to promote a more practical general knowledge of swimming than they do. Descending to details, we may add that on Saturday last the captaincy of the Norwood Swimming Club was won by Mr. G. S. Goodwyn after a stiff race with Mr. Horton Ledger, the previous captain; and on Tuesday the silver challenge cup of the Jersey Swimming Club was won at St. Helier's by Mr. Charles Stone, the previous holder, F. Luckarift, being defeated.

A town's meeting was held in the Townhall, Liverpool, on Wednesday, in aid of the sufferers by yellow fever in New Orleans. Nearly £1000 was promised in the room.

Mr. T. E. Smith, M.P. for Tynemouth, opened the Aquarium and Winter Garden at that place on Wednesday. The establishment consists of a marine and a fresh-water aquarium, summer and winter gardens, skating-rink, concert-hall, and assembly and reading rooms, and has been erected from the drawings of Messrs. Norton and Macey, of London, at a cost of £100,000.

The Eurydice was successfully moved on Tuesday. To get at the leaks on her starboard side it was necessary to heel her over to port, and to assist in this operation eighty tons of ballast were placed on a platform built on the port side of the wreck. The starboard side of the hull has sustained a good deal of damage through resting on the fluke of an anchor. In moving the vessel twelve more bodies came to the surface and were brought ashore for burial.—Admiral Fanshawe presided on Tuesday, on board the Duke of Wellington, the flag-ship at Portsmouth, over the court-martial on the two survivors of the Eurydice. Both of these stated that they had every confidence in the stability of the ship previous to her foundering on March 24. The Court acquitted the survivors, but adjourned the inquiry in order to take further evidence as to the cause of the capsizing of the ship. The court-martial was resumed on Wednesday, when several witnesses were examined as to the peculiarities of the fatal snow-gale of March 24, and as to the operations connected with the raising of the Eurydice; and the inquiry was again adjourned.

METROPOLITAN NEWS.

Captain Frederick G. Frith has been appointed Deputy-Governor of Coldbath-fields Prison.

Mr. Knox, the senior magistrate at the Marlborough-street Police Court, has retired from the bench, owing to ill-health.

A bicyclist has been fined twenty shillings at Guildhall for riding a bicycle to the common danger in Bishopsgate-street. The defendant, coming noiselessly along at a late hour, knocked down a constable, who was unaware of his approach.

The stud of twenty-eight horses which ran in the London and Windsor coach this season were sold at Tattersall's on Monday. Some clever roadsters brought seventy guineas, and the teamsters, generally, produced good average prices.

The weekly return of metropolitan pauperism shows that the total number of paupers at the end of the third week in August was 76,569, of whom 38,468 were in workhouses, and 38,101 received outdoor relief. Compared with the corresponding weeks in 1877, 1876, and 1875, these figures show a decrease of 585, 717, and 6300 respectively. The number of vagrants relieved on the last day of the week was 746, of whom 475 were men, 221 women, and 50 children under sixteen.

The report of the Civil Service Supply Association for the half year ended June 30 last, which was presented at the general meeting of the shareholders at the Cannon-street Hotel on Thursday evening, shows a net balance for the half year available for distribution to the shareholders of £19,460—a larger amount than has ever been available for division. The number of shares is limited to 4500, and of these 4388 are at present held by members of the Civil Service.

The fourteenth annual flower show of the East Tower Hamlets Floricultural Society was held on Monday in the hall attached to the Grecian Theatre, City-road, and drew together a large number of visitors. In addition to the plants exhibited by the members of the society, there was a collection of fine foliage plants from Victoria Park, lent by the First Commissioner of Works. The plants exhibited by the members showed great care and attention in their culture. Prizes were awarded for dinner-table decorations, miniature gardens, and bouquets.

A fire took place on Monday morning in the first floor of a house near Columbia Market, and two young children were burnt to death. The mother of the children had gone out, leaving them in the room in which the fire broke out, and it is supposed that in playing with the matches the elder child set the room on fire. Two firemen (C. Wright and P. Pettitt) entered the blazing premises and were much scorched. A lodger in a front room jumped into the street, and falling twenty-five feet, sustained such injury to the spine that she had to be conveyed to the London Hospital.

For the purpose of asking public aid for such of the recently discharged reserve men as are in need through want of work, a meeting of the Reserve Forces Relief Committee of the British Hospitallers was held on Tuesday afternoon, under the presidency of Lord Shaftesbury.—Several members of the reserve forces waited last Wednesday upon Mr. Alderman Figgins, in the justice-room at Guildhall, to lay their case before him. According to the statement of their spokesman, more than half of the men recently called out were still without employment, Alderman Figgins said he thought the reserves had acted very well, and gave to each of those present 5s. for his immediate necessities.

For some of the original communications read and discussed during the past session of the Institution of Civil Engineers, at the ordinary meetings and at the students' meetings, and for other papers selected for publication without being read and discussed, the council have made the following awards:—Telford Medals and Premiums to Dr. Higgs, Mr. Brittle, and Mr. T. Clarke: Watt Medals and Telford Premiums to Mr. H. Davey, Mr. B. Leslie, and Mr. A. Holt; Telford Premiums to Mr. Longridge, Mr. W. C. Unwin, Mr. Target, Mr. G. Wilson, Mr. F. C. Barron, and Mr. Carson, and the Manby Premium to Mr. E. Bazalgette. A Miller Scholarship has been adjudged to Mr. W. B. Dawson, and Miller Prizes to Messrs. Britton, Hurtzig, Moss, and Szlumper, while the Howard Quinquennial Prize, given on this occasion for the first time, goes to Mr. Bessemer.

It has been arranged that the third annual show of the British Dairy Farmers' Association shall be held in the Agricultural Hall on Oct. 10 and three following days. Prizes are offered for milking cows of the various breeds of shorthorns, crosses, Ayrshires, Channel Island, and Brittany and Kerry breeds, in all, in eight classes, amounting to £245. For heifers best adapted for dairy purposes £90 is to be awarded; and for bulls, £100. Goats find a place in the schedule, there being five classes, in which are distributed prizes to the aggregate value of £36. For cheese of various makes £140 is to be given, and for collections of not less than one ton £50 is offered. In addition to these monetary prizes, there are medals of gold, silver, and bronze, and special medals are offered for foreign cheese and butter. For butter made in the United Kingdom the sum set aside is £63.

The Act passed in the late Session to amend the law relating to the raising of money by the Metropolitan Board of Works has been issued. By this Act the board may raise and advance £2,302,000, of which £50,000 is to be supplemental loans, to public bodies for the present year and the remainder for 1879. The board may raise money by the issue of "Metropolitan Bills," the date of such bills not to be less than three months nor more than twelve months, and the interest payable on such metropolitan bills to be at such a rate and in such a manner as the board, with the consent of the Treasury, may direct. The new money powers conferred by this Act for the year 1879 are:—£100,000 for minor improvements; £20,000 fire brigade; £1,500,000 Street Improvement Act, 1877; street improvements under Act 1872, £60,000; Tooting-common, £12,000; Plumstead-common, £10,000; loans to vestries and district boards, £200,000; loans to guardians, £200,000; loans to public bodies, £100,000; and loans to managers of metropolitan asylum district, £50,000.

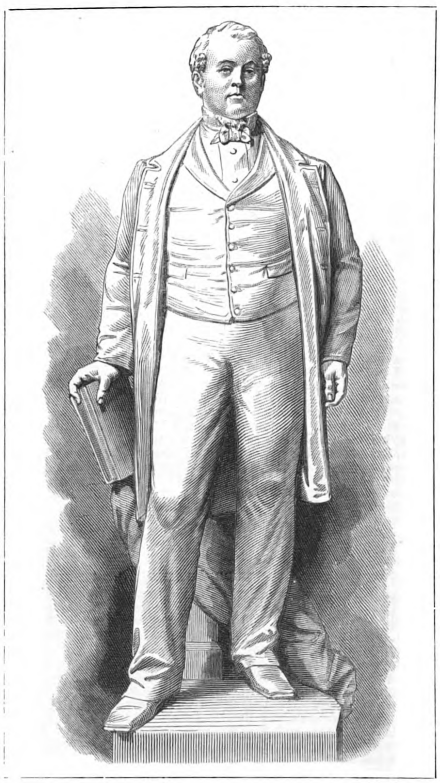
The Secretary of State for India has presented to the Crystal Palace Company's library a copy of the great trigonometrical survey of India, on the scale of four miles to the inch. This most valuable and interesting series of maps, which together would cover a superficies of fifty-one square feet, can thus be consulted by inquirers in the company's library reading-room without any charge, and orders to inspect the Indian atlas can be obtained in the Tourist's Court for the asking. The sections are bound in two great volumes, to admit of close examination in detail. The gift was accompanied by a copy of the survey of Turkestan and the countries between the British and the Russian dominions in Asia, compiled by Colonel J. T. Walker, R.E., on a scale of thirty-two miles to the inch; and that of Persia, compiled for the Government by Captain O. B. C. St. John, R.E.; as well as the very interesting map of Central Assyria, the iconographic sketch of remains of the ancient Nineveh, with the modern Mosul, and the similar chart of the ancient cities of Nimrud and Selamiyeh, made by command of the Government of India by Captain Felix Jones. There is also the fine map of India on the scale of sixty-four miles to the inch that was compiled from the topographical and revenue surveys.

There were 2491 births and 1433 deaths registered in London last week. Allowing for increase of population, the births exceeded by 145, whereas the deaths were 75 below, the average numbers in the corresponding week of the last ten years. The fatal cases of whooping-cough, which had steadily declined from 106 to 60 in the five preceding weeks, rose again to 74 last week, and exceeded the corrected average by 38. The deaths referred to diarrhœa and simple cholera, which had been 494, 351, and 268 in the three preceding weeks, further declined to 201 last week, and were 64 below the corrected average number in the corresponding week of the last ten years. The fatal cases of smallpox, which had been 18, 14, and 9 in the three previous weeks, were 10 last week. The Metropolitan Asylum Hospitals contained 213 smallpox patients on Saturday last, showing a decline of 23 from the number at the end of the previous week: 22 new cases were admitted during the week, against 21 and 36 in the two preceding weeks. The Highgate Smallpox Hospital contained but 9 patients on Saturday last. There were 24 deaths from scarlet fever, 10 from measles, and 16 from different forms of fever. In the Greater London 3021 births and 1739 deaths were registered. The mean temperature of the air was 61·5 deg., and 0·7 deg. above the average in the corresponding week of the sixty years 1814-73. The duration of sunshine during the week was 21·5 hours, the sun being above the horizon during 99·4 hours; the recorded duration of sunshine was, therefore, only equal to 22 per cent of its possible duration.

EDINBURGH STATUE OF DR. CHALMERS.

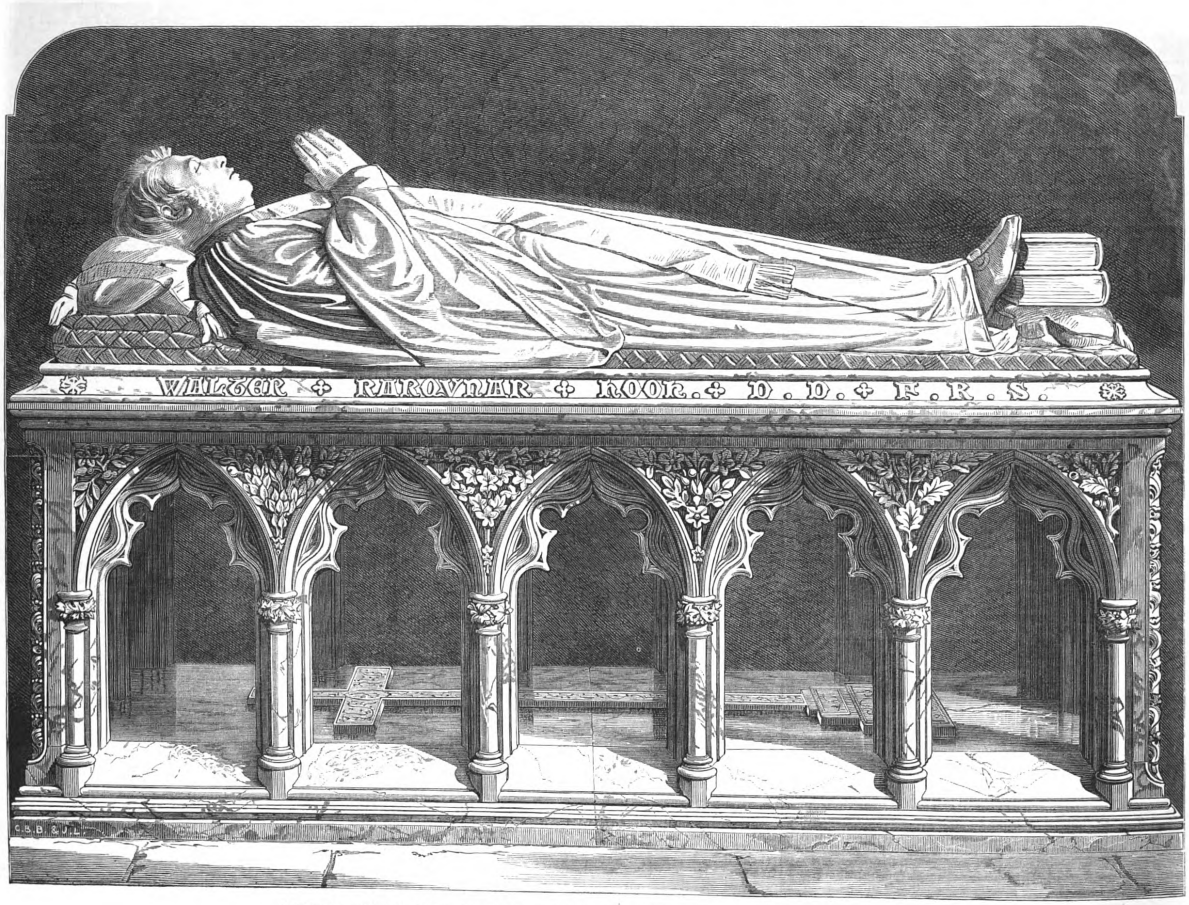
The bronze statue of the late Rev. Thomas Chalmers, D.D., the eloquent Scottish preacher, and author of many admired writings upon religious subjects, is erected in George-street, Edinburgh, at the crossing of Castle-street. It was uncovered to public view on Saturday, the 27th ult., with addresses spoken by Sir John M'Neill, Lord Moncrieff (the Lord Justice Clerk), the Lord Provost of Edinburgh, the Rev. Dr. Hanna, and Provost Swan, of Kirkcaldy. Dr. Chalmers died so long ago as 1847, and it was then proposed to have a marble statue placed in the library of the Free Church College. But it was felt that this was not enough, and that a monument of Chalmers should not be of a sectarian or provincial but of a national character. This movement was, however, allowed to fall into abeyance till the end of 1869, when it was again taken up by Dean Ramsay, Dr. Candlish, Dr. Guthrie, and others, and the work was intrusted to the veteran Edinburgh sculptor, Sir John Steell. He had executed several busts of Chalmers, one of which occupies a prominent place in a public gallery in New York, and had enjoyed for years his personal acquaintance and familiar friendship. In this statue, of which we give an Illustration, Dr. Chalmers is represented as standing before an assemblage in quiescent attitude. He is attired in a rich Geneva gown, with "buckled shoon" on the feet, being the attire he wore as Moderator of the General Assembly. The left hand supports an open quarto Bible, and the open right hand is brought round over the top of it. The face is an admirable likeness; the grand leonine head, with the broad, manly brow, around which the shaggy locks lie carelessly, yet majestically, at once recalls the presence of Chalmers. The difficulties of the robe have been very successfully treated, and fall in graceful folds around the well-proportioned figure. The statue, which was cast in two pieces, stands 12 ft. high. The pedestal, 15 ft. in height, is the work of Messrs. Macdonald, Field, and Co., Aberdeen. It is of polished Peterhead granite, was designed by Mr. Steell, son of the sculptor, and, while treated somewhat differently, is yet in accord with the other statues in the street.

ASHWORTH MEMORIAL, ROCHDALE.

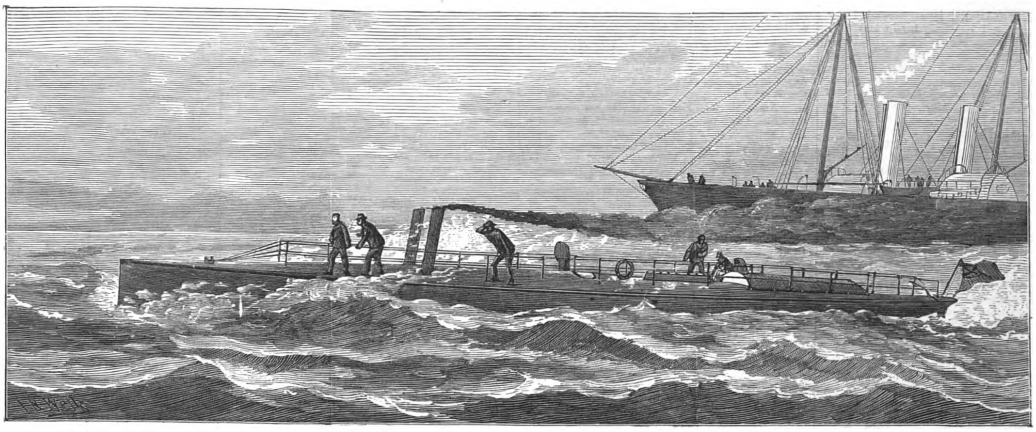


The Memorial statue of the late Mr. G. L. Ashworth was unveiled on June 1 last at Rochdale, about 15,000 persons being present. It stands in the centre of the large ornamental garden of the public park of Rochdale. The ceremony was performed by Mr. T. B. Potter, M.P. for the borough. There was a procession, starting from the Townhall, joined by the Mayor, Mr. James Tweedale, and by many gentlemen of the Town Council, followed by the Liberal associations of the town, the Order of Good Templars, and representatives of the Sunday schools. Flags and garlands were displayed throughout the town, and the event was made the occasion of a general holiday. On reaching the park, the chairman of the committee, Mr. Councillor Harley, made the formal presentation of the statue to the Mayor on behalf of the town, and Mr. Potter then unveiled the statue, proceeding to review the life and labours of the late Alderman Ashworth, whose whole time was devoted to the welfare of all classes of his native town, and who twice held the office of Mayor. The statue is placed on a granite pedestal, ten feet high; the figure itself is eight feet high, and is cut out of a solid block of hard Sicilian marble, which weighed four tons. It is of a light grey colour, harmonising well with the tone of the pedestal, and weighs one ton fifteen cwt. The attitude of the figure is spirited and dignified, and full of energy; the likeness is pronounced a most faithful one. The sculptors are Messrs. W. and T. Wills, of Euston-road, London, who have executed statues of Sir Humphrey Davy, Earl Mayo, and Richard Cobden, the last named in the High-street of Camden Town.

LEEDS MEMORIAL OF DR. HOOK.



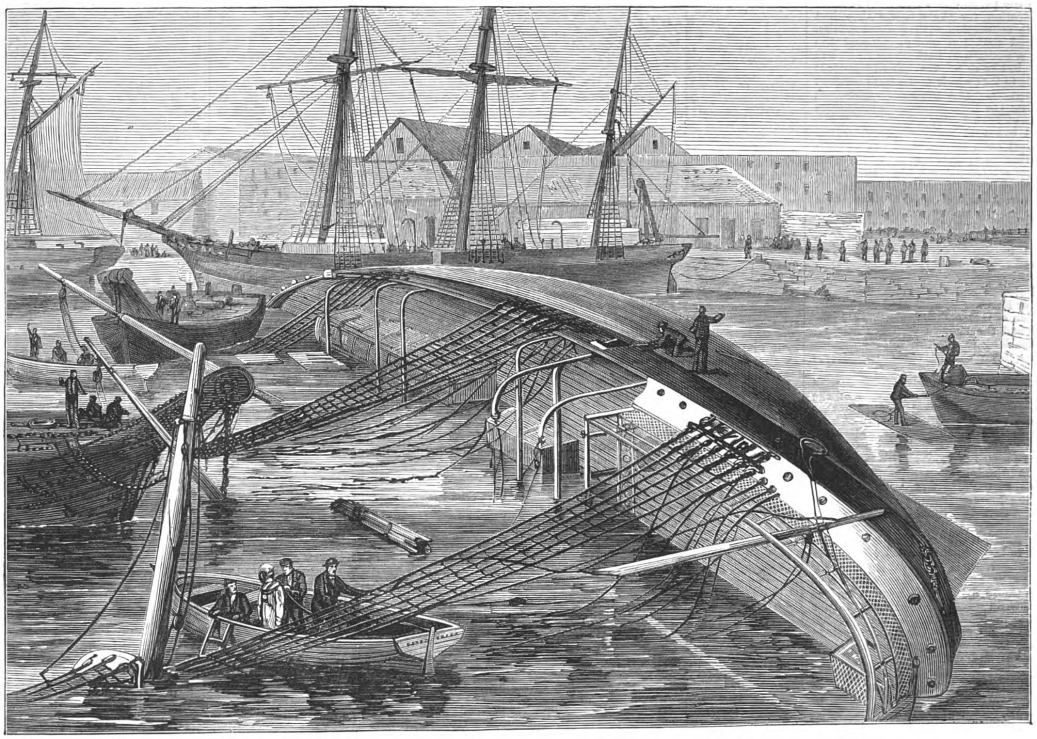
The late Rev. Walter Farquhar Hook, D.D., author of "Lives of the Archbishops of Canterbury," was Vicar of the parish church of Leeds from 1837 till his promotion, in 1859, to the Deanery of Chichester. On St. Peter's Day this year (June 29) the dedication festival of the Leeds parish church was held, and advantage was taken of the occasion to uncover the beautiful monument which has been erected to the memory of "the great Vicar of Leeds." Sermons were preached, morning and evening, by Archdeacon Anson and by the Rev. Dr. Alfred Gatty, Sub-Dean of York. The memorial consists of a recumbent figure in white marble, representing Dean Hook in his ecclesiastical vestments. The head rests on a cushion, and at the feet is another cushion, upon which are two volumes. The hands are closed as in prayer. The sculptor is Mr. W. D. Keyworth, jun., Buckingham Palace-road, London. His work does him great credit, for he has with remarkable fidelity reproduced the well-known features of the late Dr. Hook. The late Sir Gilbert Scott designed the tomb on which the figure rests. It is of alabaster, and of Gothic design, and has been executed by Mr. Anthony Welsh, of Woodhouse-lane, Leeds. It is a beautiful work of art, and forms a fitting accompaniment to the noble piece of sculpture which rests upon it. The memorial is placed in the second bay at the north-east end of the church, between the ante-chapel and the altar steps. It has cost nearly £1000. The late Dr. Hook died in October, 1875, at the Deanery at Chichester. A memorial pulpit has been erected in Chichester Cathedral.



STATUE OF THE REV. DR. CHALMERS, AT EDINBURGH.

STATUE OF THE LATE MR. G. L. ASHWORTH, MAYOR OF ROCHDALE.

MONUMENT TO THE LATE DR. HOOK, DEAN OF CHICHESTER, IN THE LEEDS PARISH CHURCH.



THE PRINCE OF WALES IN A TORPEDO-BOAT.

THE NEW TORPEDO-BOATS.

At the Naval Review on Tuesday, the 13th inst., at Spithead, before her Majesty and the members of both Houses of Parliament, the Queen and all the spectators were very much pleased with the performance of two torpedo-boats, which have been purchased by the Admiralty from their builders, Messrs. Yarrow and Co., of Poplar. Upon another occasion his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales inspected one of the nimble little vessels, and went on board of her for a brief experience of their wonderful swiftness. These boats in their trial-trips at Long Reach about six weeks ago attained a mean speed exceeding twenty-one knots, or twenty-four statute miles an hour. They are each 85 ft. long, with 11 ft. beam, and draw, when fully equipped for service, an average of 3 ft. of water. They are strongly constructed of steel, and are fitted with compound surface condensing engines, capable of indicating 420-horse power. The high-pressure steam cylinder of these engines is 12½ in. in diameter, and the low-pressure 21½ in., both having a 12 in. stroke. These boats are at present known by their builders' numbers, one being No. 419 and the other No. 420. The former is propelled by a three-bladed screw, 5 ft. 6 in. diameter and 5 ft. pitch; and the latter by a two-bladed screw of similar proportions. Messrs. Yarrow adopt supplementary engines for driving the air-pump, circulating-pump, and feed-pumps; they consider this plan preferable to that of working these pumps direct off the main engine, as is sometimes done. One advantage in having separate pumping engines is that, whether the vessel is in motion or stationary, a powerful means is available for pumping her out, should the necessity arise. It is estimated by her builders that if the air pump and circulating pump were both utilised for this purpose the water could be pumped out as fast as it could enter either of these vessels through one hundred holes made in the skin by Martini-Henry rifle bullets. If this be the case, these craft may be deemed safe from sinking so long as their machinery is working efficiently. The boiler is of the locomotive type, is placed in the forward part of each vessel, and has a closed stoke-hole. In connection with the boiler a very important improvement has been introduced by Messrs. Yarrow. This consists in a means of rendering the closed stoke-hole safe for the men in the event of the collapse of a boiler tube—a contingency which cannot be absolutely guarded against. The arrangement appears very simple, while its efficiency was proved beyond all question upon a previous trial of one of these boats. This was No. 419, which was tried on May 24 last under the supervision of the Admiralty officials. Upon that occasion an accidental rupture of one of the boiler tubes occurred nearly at the close of the runs over the measured mile, which so far had been very successful. When the boiler tube gave way the steam rushed out of the foremost hatchway from the compartment in which the smoke-box end of the boiler is situated, and soon after from the two funnels. The men in the stoke-hole, however, being shut off from the boiler, were uninjured, and remained at their post several minutes after the first outburst of steam. The accident, though an untoward event, was considered by the Admiralty officials as affording a highly satisfactory proof of the efficiency of Mr. Yarrow's invention. The engines are placed amidships, and each vessel has spacious cabin accommodation aft, as it is intended that they may be used either as despatch or torpedo-boats. For the latter purpose the cabin framings above deck are removed and replaced by steel-plating. These vessels are, in fact, now fitted one for one purpose and one for the other. They are steered from the cabin, there being a look-out for the steersman just above deck-level. The deck is clear of all obstructions, the two funnels being placed one on each side. They are fitted with balanced rudders, and steer well, answering their helms very quickly. These vessels would probably have now been on their way to Russia but for the Government proclamation which prohibited torpedo-boats leaving this country, and which led to their purchase by our own Government.

ACCIDENT IN LONDON DOCKS.

Our Illustration represents the singular position of the ship Eastminster, when capsized in London Docks, by a curious accident, on Saturday, the 17th inst. This clipper ship, which is the property of Messrs. Berryman and Turnbull, had recently discharged a cargo of rice from Akyab, Bengal, and, after being in the dry dock, was taken into London Docks to load a general cargo for the Cape of Good Hope. She is an iron ship of 1200 tons register, was built at Port Glasgow, classed A 1 at Lloyd's, is commanded by Captain Moxey, and has only made two voyages. At the time of this accident the Eastminster was lying at the western end of the docks; the wind was fresh from the south-west, and, curling around Hermitage basin, found an outlet with accumulated force at a point close to the Eastminster's position. The ship was blown on her side, and as she fell over she struck three barges, which were loaded, and sank them. On board the ship at the time she heeled were the chief mate, the second mate, and twenty men, but fortunately they all escaped with only a wetting. No one was on board the barges. The Illustration shows the ship lying on her broadside, with half her keel visible. The Thames Conservancy derrick barges, under the superintendence of Mr. Wood, have been at work dismantling the ship and preparing to raise her. The ship has been restored to an erect position, and moored at the quay, where men have since been employed in pumping the water out of the hold, and taking down the masts and rigging, before removing her to the dry dock for the needful repairs.

THE IRON CLIPPER-SHIP EASTMINSTER, CAPSIZED IN LONDON DOCKS.

POLITICAL.

The polling for the election of a member for Newcastle-under-Lyme, in the room of Sir Edmund Buckley, took place on the 23rd inst., the candidates being Mr. Rathbone Edge (Liberal) and Mr. Donaldson Hudson (Conservative). The Liberal candidate was elected by a majority of 340, the numbers being—Edge, 1330, and Hudson, 990. The result is that Newcastle-under-Lyme is now represented by two Liberals, instead of, as before, by one Conservative and one Liberal.

The polling for the representation of Argyleshire, rendered vacant by the appointment of the Marquis of Lorne to be Governor-General of Canada, took place on Tuesday, the contest being between a brother of the Marquis, Lord Colin Campbell (Liberal) and Mr. J. W. Malcolm (Conservative). It resulted in the return of the former by a majority of 355; the numbers being—Campbell, 1462, Malcolm, 1107. This leaves the representation of the county as it was.

Mr. Samuel Morley will not seek re-election for Bristol. Mr. Hodgson's resignation, in consequence of ill-health, has been in the hands of the Liberal committee for some months.

It was to be hoped that the floodgates of talk would close for a time with the closing of Parliament, but it is not so. No sooner has Parliament been prorogued than the out-of-session speeches have begun. Several members gave addresses on Thursday, the 22nd inst.

Colonel Stanley, Secretary of State for War, opened a Conservative Working Men's Club at Barrow-in-Furness and in the evening was entertained at a banquet in the Townhall. In acknowledging the toast of "her Majesty's Ministers," Colonel Stanley warmly defended the foreign policy of the Government, and pointed to the peace which had been secured as a justification for the attitude they had observed in connection with Eastern affairs. He admitted that the cost of placing the country in a position to back up its views had been great, but he urged that the expense was a mere trifle to that which would have resulted from a sanguinary and protracted European war. During the Session domestic legislation had no doubt been somewhat neglected, but he pointed out that many important social questions had been settled since the Government first entered upon office.

The Attorney-General, speaking at an agricultural meeting at Clitheroe, said that although the Session had been denounced as barren, one good measure had been passed. The Cattle Bill, so far from increasing the price of meat, would have a tendency to cheapen it by effectually guarding against diseases, and consequently increasing the supply of food.

Mr. J. Puleston and Captain G. Price, the members for Devonport, addressed the Stonehouse portion of their constituents. Mr. Pulestone reviewed the Eastern Question at great length, remarking that in this respect the last Session had been one of the most glorious recorded in ancient or modern times. He claimed that the calling out of the Indian troops was the greatest achievement of the present Government; it showed Russia that England was thoroughly in earnest. The hon. gentleman also defended the financial policy of the Government. Captain Price spoke highly of the action of Lords Beaconsfield and Salisbury in bringing about so satisfactory an arrangement of the Eastern Question.

Addressing his constituents at Nairn, Lord Macduff said that the Liberal party as a whole did not grudge a reasonable extension of Russian territory, while they could not allow any Power to become paramount in the East.

Admiral Sir William Edmonstone, member for Stirlingshire, addressed his constituents at Kilsyth on the 23rd inst. While praising the course followed by Lord Beaconsfield and his colleagues in the Eastern Question, he believed that had England shown her power eighteen months ago there would have been no war between Russia and Turkey.

Mr. Mundella gave his annual address to his constituents on Monday night in Paradise-square, Sheffield; the square was crowded. Mr. Mundella, who was received with cheers and groans, spoke for some time amid great interruption, and at last he addressed himself to the reporters. He referred to the miserable harvest of measures to which the Session had given birth, and said that the only thing that had made great progress was the national expenditure. He was compelled by the disorder of the meeting to bring his speech to an abrupt conclusion, but said he would attend every ward meeting and insist upon a hearing.

Mr. G. C. Bentinck, M.P., was on Wednesday one of the speakers at the annual dinner of the West Cumberland Conservative Registration Association at Maryport, and entered into a vigorous defence of the Government against the charge of extravagance.

At a meeting of the Leicester Town Council on Tuesday a resolution was moved that addresses should be presented to Lord Beaconsfield and the Marquis of Salisbury congratulating them and the Government on the success which has attended their negotiations at the recent Congress. An amendment was proposed by Alderman Grimsley adverse to the conduct of the Government, which, after a protracted discussion, was carried by a majority of six.

The first meeting of the Town Council for Burslem, which has recently been incorporated, was held on Wednesday. Mr. Thomas Hulme, four times chief bailiff, was elected Mayor. The aldermen were also chosen; with one exception they are Liberals, as is also the Mayor.

THE STORMS.

Great damage was done by the storm which on Saturday last raged over a large portion of the kingdom, and with special severity in London and its neighbourhood. A number of workmen engaged on a block of buildings near the Bishopsgate-street station of the Metropolitan Railway ran for shelter beneath some arches of the foundation, when the roof of a subterranean chamber gave way, and several of them were buried beneath the débris. One man was taken out dead, and others were removed to the hospital. At Brixton and Camberwell the basements of many houses were flooded several feet deep, and the fire-engines were employed in pumping out the water. The Masonic Hall at Camberwell was seriously damaged. Two men who were working in a field took refuge in an outhouse, which was struck by the lightning, and one of the men was dreadfully injured. A servant employed in Clifton-road, Peckham, was struck blind while passing in front of a mirror in the drawing-room. In Kennington and Newington great damage was caused by the flooding of houses, and two roofs were struck by lightning. In Walworth part of the front of a beershop near Beresford-street was knocked down, and a house in Sultan-street, Camberwell, had all the windows broken and the fire-grates displaced. At Hackney, Dalston, and Homerton the floods were heavy, and traffic was much impeded. Along the south coast the storm was very violent. A barn near Hastings was set on fire by the lightning and burned to the ground. Brighton, Southampton, and Bournemouth were flooded. At Nottingham a party of four persons in a boat on the river were overtaken by the storm, and in endeavouring to land the boat was upset and three of them were drowned. The damage caused to the wheat is said to be very great.

During a thunderstorm which occurred on Monday afternoon a few miles to the south of St. Andrew's, a waterspout is said to have burst over the residence of Mr. Alexander Cheape, and completely flooded the house.

Parts of West Berks and North Hants were visited on Tuesday night by a terrific storm. Heavy rain poured down continuously for upwards of an hour, deluging the roads, which in many places were more like rivers, and the force of the streaming rain carried away large quantities of soil in the hilly districts. Many houses were flooded.

A tourist, named Mackenzie, was walking over Blackdown to the coast on the 21st inst., when a thunderstorm caused him to take shelter in a shepherd's hut. The lightning struck the hut, and Mr. Mackenzie was killed. His watch was fused into a molten mass, and the clothing on his right side burned off.

On Thursday morning London was visited with another thunderstorm, which appears to have extended over the south of England generally. At Blackheath, Mrs. Sharman was struck by lightning while dressing, and killed.

COLOMBO, MADRAS, and CALCUTTA. P. and O. DUCAL LINE.—Exceptional and favourable terms of Passage. Apply to the Agents, McDIARMID, GREENSHIELDS, and CO.; or F. GREEN and CO., 12, Fenchurch-street, E.C.

CYPRUS.—THE IMPERIAL OTTOMAN BANK is prepared, through its LONDON and PARIS AGENCIES, to grant CREDITS, to receive and REMIT MONEY, and to act generally as Bankers in connection with Cyprus, where it has for many years past had a branch establishment.

London Agency, 26, Throgmorton-street, E.C. Paris Agency, 7, Rue Meyerbeer.

ROYAL DUBLIN SOCIETY. TAYLOR ART SCHOLARSHIPS AND PRIZES. The Trustees and Judges appointed for carrying into effect the Trusts of the Will of the late Captain George Archibald Taylor, in reference to the income arising from the sum bequeathed by him for the promotion of Art in Ireland, have fixed the terms upon which £120 will be awarded in the year 1879, in Two Scholarships and Two Prizes to Art Students.

Particulars will be furnished on application to RICHARD J. MOSS, Registrar, Royal Dublin Society.

Leinster House, Dublin, Aug. 10, 1878.

A BAZAAR, under Distinguished Patronage, in AID of the ANTI-VIVISECTION MOVEMENT, will be held in BRIGHTON, NOV. 12, 13, and 14. The kind co-operation of Friends respectfully requested. Papers of Particulars, List of Patronesses, &c., to be had, free, of Mrs. GORDON, Honorary Secretary, 46, Princes-gate, London, S.W., who will be happy to receive Articles for the Bazaar or Remittances for the General Fund.

VIVISECTION.—WHAT HAS BEEN DONE IN AN ENGLISH HOSPITAL. Price 4d.; 1d. per post; or 6d. per doz., free.—M. WALBROOK, Secretary, London: ANTI-VIVISECTION SOCIETY, 180, Brompton-road, S.W.

HOMŒOPATHIC HOSPITAL (SELECT) for LADIES, Bolton House, 192, Clapham-road, Surrey. Established 1867. A Private Home, where Patients suffering from serious disease, and requiring special supervision, can obtain the best Medical and Surgical Treatment without incurring anxiety in their own homes. Treatise of successful cases forwarded for twelve stamps. Physician, DAVID JONES, M.D. Consultations daily. Eleven to One (Tuesday and Friday excepted), at 15, Welbeck-street, London.

NEW BOOKS AND PUBLICATIONS.

EMBROIDERY (NEW), BY E. M. C.—2s. 6d.

THE LADY'S CREWEL BOOK.
Book of Directions, and Twelve Floral Designs for Tracing,
Mantelpiece (Arcticite). Tea-cosey (Cherry).
Chair-Back (Daffodil). Apron (Cistus).
Chair (Clematis). Cushion (Morning Glory)
Banner (Dahlia). Chair-Back (Cornflower).
Tea-Cloth (Peach). Curtain (Rose).
Blotting-Book (Nemophila).
To be followed by a Second Series in the Autumn.

Also, by the Same Author,
13 Vols., with Illustrations, 1s. and 1s. 6d. each.
KNITTING. 4 Series. | WORK. 2 Series.
CROCHET. 4 Series. | NETTING. 1 Series.
KNITTING, NEEDLEWORK, } For National Schools, 6d. each.
Over 110,000 copies of the above have been sold.

HATCHARDS, 187, Piccadilly, London.

THREE BIRTHDAY BOOKS.
1. From the Bible. 2. From Shakspeare. 3. From the Poets.
1. THE SOUL'S INQUIRIES ANSWERED. By G. WASHINGTON MOON. 27th Thousand.
2. THE SHAKESPEARE BIRTHDAY BOOK. By MARY F. P. DUNBAR. Forty-fifth Thousand.
3. THE POETICAL BIRTHDAY BOOK. By the Countess of PORTSMOUTH. Fifth Thousand.

DRAWING-ROOM EDITIONS.
12 Copyright Photographs, after Millais, Reynolds, &c.
Crown 8vo, cloth, each 10s. 6d.; leather, 13s. 6d. to 42s.

POCKET EDITIONS.
32mo, cloth, 2s.; gilt, 2s. 6d.; leather, 3s. to 21s.

THE BIRTHDAY BOX of POCKET EDITIONS,
3 vols., cloth gilt, in handsome box, 10s. 6d.
HATCHARDS, 187, Piccadilly, London.

NOTICE.—A NEW STORY, ENTITLED "HAWORTH'S," BY FRANCES H. BURNETT, AUTHOR OF "THAT LASS O' LOWRIE'S," WILL BEGIN IN MACMILLAN'S MAGAZINE FOR OCTOBER.

MACMILLAN'S MAGAZINE, No. 227, for SEPTEMBER. Price 1s.
CONTENTS OF THE NUMBER.
1. Cyprus. By R. Hamilton Lang, late H.M. Consul for the Island of Cyprus. II.
2. A Doubting Heart. By Miss Keary. Chapters VII., VIII.
3. William Cullen Bryant. By E. S. Nadal.
4. Robert Schumann on Music and Musicians. By Edmund Gurney.
5. Two Sides to a Saint—S. Francis de Sales. By Rev. L. Woolsey Bacon.
6. Unknown Graves—in Cyprus. By R. H. Horne.
7. Recent Homeric Studies—Gladstone, Geddes, Jebb. By Rev. J. P. Mahaffy.
MACMILLAN and Co., London.

NEW AND CHEAPER ILLUSTRATED EDITION OF THE COMPLETE WORKS OF W. M. THACKERAY.
Now ready, with Illustrations by the Author, Frederick Walker, and R. B. Wallace,
THE ADVENTURES OF PHILIP. Vol. I. Crown 8vo, 3s. 6d.
London: SMITH, ELDER, and Co., 15, Waterloo-place.

Now ready (One Shilling), No. 225,
THE CORNHILL MAGAZINE for SEPTEMBER. With Illustrations by George Du Maurier and Frank Dicksee.
CONTENTS.
"For Percival" (with an Illustration). Chap. XLII.—Walking to St. Sylvester's. XLIII.—Faint Heart wins Fair Lady. XLIV.—The Last Music Lesson. XLV.—A Thunderbolt in Standon-square.
The Centaurs. Part I. By S. Colvin.
Rose Cherril: An Exile's Love Story.
Age of the Sun and Earth.
Como and Il Medeghino.
Child's Play.
Within the Precincts (with an Illustration). Chap. XXII.—A Chance for Law. XXIII.—Good Advice. XXIV.—A Crisis.
London: SMITH, ELDER, and Co., 15, Waterloo-place.

Price One Shilling, Illustrated,
BELGRAVIA for SEPTEMBER.
CONTENTS.
The Return of the Native. By Thomas Hardy. Illustrated by Arthur Hopkins.
Our Scholastica. By E. Lynn Linton.
A Ballad of Heroes. By Austin Dobson.
A Mayfair Mystery. By James Payn.
Bird or Reptile—Which? By Henry O. Forbes.
A Tourist's Notes.
The Empress of Andorra. By J. Arbuthnot Wilson.
The Game of Bowls. By Robert B. Macgregor.
The Haunted Hotel. By Wilkie Collins. Illustrated by Arthur Hopkins.

Price One Shilling, Illustrated,
THE GENTLEMAN'S MAGAZINE for SEPTEMBER.
CONTENTS.
Cupid: an Episode in the Career of Professor MacPelvis. By George Augustus Sala. Illustrated by Arthur Hopkins.
Sark and its Caves. By the Hon. Roden Noel.
First Fruits of the Eclipse Observations. By Richard A. Proctor.
Richard Brinsley Sheridan. By H. Barton Baker.
Early Wedding Customs. By J. A. Farrer.
Queensland Rambles and Gossip. By Redspinner.
Cervantes' Novels. By James Mew.
Glimpses of Minute Life. By Henry J. Slaed.
Table-Talk. By Sylvanus Urban.
CHATTO and WINDUS, Piccadilly, W.

THE BEST AND CHEAPEST JOURNAL FOR LADIES IN THE WORLD.
MYRA'S JOURNAL OF DRESS AND FASHION.—NOVELTIES FOR SEPTEMBER. Price 6d.; postage, 2d.
CONTENTS.
1. Dress and Fashion in Paris, by Madame Goubaud.
2. Spinnings in Town, by the Silkworm.
3. Dress and Fashion in Paris.
4. Myra's Answers on Dress; Health, Personal Attention; Books, Music, &c.
5. Costumes—Seaside, Mourning, and Travelling.
6. Toilettes—Visiting, Reception, Walking, and Mantles.
7. A Beautifully Coloured Fashion-Plate of Seaside Toilettes for Ladies and Children.
8. A Diagram Sheet, containing full-size Models for Cutting-out:—(1) Basquine for Visiting Toilette; (2) Collar for Dressy Toilette; (3) The Cyprus Costume.
9. A Cut-out Paper Pattern of the Whitby Sleeveless Paletot.
10. Needlework:—Fan in Renaissance Guipure; Directions for Crochet Frivolite; Bands in Berlin Wool Work; Borders in Embroidery; Crochet Rosette.
Yearly Subscription, 8s.; Half-Yearly, 4s.; Quarterly, 2s.
GOUBAUD and SON, 39 and 40, Bedford-street, Covent-garden, W.C.

POTTERY-PAINTING: a Handbook to the Practice. By JOHN C. L. SPARKES, Director of the Lambeth School of Art, &c. Second Edition. Post-free, 1s. 1d.—London: LECHERTIER, BARBE, and Co., 60, Regent-street, W. (Agents in England for Lacroix's Ceramic Colours).

VITREMANIE SUPERSEDING DIAPHANIE.—An easy and inexpensive Method of Decorating Windows in Churches, Public Buildings, and Private Dwellings, by which may be produced the Rich Colouring and Beautiful Designs of Real Stained Glass. Handbook of Designs and Instructions, 1s. 1d. Particulars post-free. Sole Inventors, J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-street, London, W.

Third Edition, Sixth Thousand, gratis and post-free,
CANCER and EXTERNAL TUMOURS; their Successful Dispersion by the Miehel and other Processes without the knife. By H. ROBINSON, F.R.A.S., L.R.C.S.I., Senior Surgeon to S. Saviour's Cancer Hospital, North-end, Fulham, S.W.
London: J. B. LANCASTER, 2, Osnaburgh-street, S.W.

Just published, post-free, 2 stamps,
DYSPEPSIA AND THE SEVERER FORMS OF INDIGESTION. A small Pamphlet on these distressing complaints, and the complete cures. By RICHARD KING, Esq., Staff-Surgeon, R.N., 23, Warwick-street, Rugby.

CANCER AND TUMOURS, A Successful Mode of Treating Certain Forms of. By ALEX. MARSDEN, M.D., Senior Surgeon to the Cancer Hospital, London. Price 8s. 6d.—J. and A. CHURCHILL, New Burlington-street.

NEW BOOKS AND PUBLICATIONS.

MESSRS. BESANT AND RICE'S NEW NOVEL. Now ready, in 3 vols.,
THE MONKS OF THELEMA: a Tale of the Day.
By the Authors of "Readymoney Mortiboy," "The Golden Butterfly," "By Celia's Arbour," &c.
CHATTO and WINDUS, and at every Library in the Kingdom.

MARCUS WARD and CO.'S SEPTEMBER LIST.
THE BLUE BELL SERIES OF NEW NOVELS. Illustrated. Undertaken in opposition to the "Library" system of half-guinea volumes. Issued Monthly. The tales are selected for their healthy character and good tone. Permanent price, 2s. each.
A SIMPLE MAIDEN. By LESLIE KEITH. Illustrated by W. J. Hennessy. [Ready Sept. 2.
THE ILLUSTRATED WAVERLEY NOVELS. In half-crown (complete) volumes monthly. Clear type, well illustrated, and elegantly bound.
THE MONASTERY. With 37 Illustrations. Now ready. The Series is now being issued, half-bound extra, price 2s. 6d. per volume.
In Monthly Parts, price 1s., Part VI. now ready,
OUR NATIVE LAND: Its Scenery and Associations. Three Chromograph Views in each Part, with descriptive Letterpress. Part VI. contains Views of O'Sullivan's Cascade, Middle Lake, and Meeting of the Waters, Killarney.
Now ready, 8vo, cloth extra, price 6s.,
AMONG THE FLOWERS, and Other Poems. By FRANCIS W. BOURDILLON.
MARCUS WARD and Co., London, Belfast, and Philadelphia.

Now ready, price 6d.,
SOCIAL NOTES. Edited by S. C. HALL, F.S.A. Part 6 (AUGUST, 1878) contains Public Markets. T. Campbell Foster, Q.C.
The Social Ethics of the Stage. D. Christie Murray.
Accidents in Coal-Mines. Professor Austed, F.R.S.
Sick Persons and Young Children. Leith Derwent.
Vivisection. William Hewitt.
Safety in the Streets. G. Phillips Bevan.
Home Travel. John Dennis.
Music at Home.
Emigration and Colonisation. J. V. Fitzgerald.
Social Changes of the Time. F. R. Conder.
The Future of English Women. Mrs. Simpson.
Correspondence.
Notes on Current Events.
The Street Arab. Leith Derwent.
Open-Air Concerts in London. G. B. Stewart.
On and after Sept. 7 each Weekly Number will contain an Illustrated Portrait of some Man or Woman who was a benefactor "Not for an age, but for all time."
Published at the Office of SOCIAL NOTES, 16, Southampton-street, Strand; and to be had of any Bookseller or Newsagent, and at all the Railway Bookstalls of Messrs. W. H. Smith and Son.

Price 6d.; post-free, 7½d.,
FAMILY HERALD for SEPTEMBER, Part 424.

PURE LITERATURE.
The "Illustrated London News," in reference to pure literature, speaks of "the 'Family Herald,' that joy to tens of thousands of innocent English households."

LEADING ARTICLES AND ESSAYS.
The "British Quarterly Review" says:—"There is a well-considered leading article or essay every week upon some subject of an instructive or thoughtful character."

NOVELS AND TALES.
The "Saturday Review" says:—"Its novels and tales are quite as well written as the best circulating-library stories."

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS
The "Saturday Review" says:—"The editor is the confidant and confessor in every station of life. The Answers to Correspondents cannot be fictitious, a romance and a life-history being embodied in almost each of them."

Price 6d., at all Newsvenders (post-free, 7½d.),
FAMILY HERALD for SEPTEMBER, Part 424.
W. STEVENS, 421, Strand, London, W.C.; and at all Newsvendors.

NOW READY,
THE ILLUSTRATED PENNY ALMANACK FOR 1879, containing Twenty-four Engravings from the ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS of our Ironclads, the Cleopatra, Ostrich Farming, and other Foreign and Domestic Subjects; Tables of Stamps, Taxes, and Licenses; Eclipses, Remarkable Events, Post-Office Regulations, and a great variety of Useful and Interesting Information. The Trade supplied by G. VICKERS, Angel-court (173), Strand; and H. Williams, Warwick-lane, Paternoster-row, London.

FOR ARMS and CREST, send Name and County to T. MORING, Inns of Court Heraldic Office, 44, High Holborn, W.C. Plain Sketch, 3s. 6d.; Coloured, 7s. 6d. Seals, Dies, and Diplomas. Illustrated Price-Lists post-free.

FOR FAMILY ARMS (Lincoln's-Inn Heraldic Office), send Name and County. Sketch, 3s. 6d.; or stamp. Arms Painted and Engraved on Seals. Book-Plates, Dies, &c.—PUGH BROS., Great Turnstile, Lincoln's-Inn.

BIRKET FOSTER'S CHROMOS.—GREAT BARGAIN.—Eight 10s. 6d. Chromos for 21s. The following subjects—Rustic Students, Minding Baby, Bird's Nest, Cottage Door, Hay-Field, Hedge-Side, Feeding Ducks, Seaweed Gatherers.—GEO. REES, 41, 42, 43, Russell-street, Covent-garden.

JOSEPH GILLOTT'S STEEL PENS.
Sold by all Stationers throughout the World.

WHITE WOOD ARTICLES, for PAINTING, FERN PRINTING, and Decalcomanie. Hand Screens; Book Covers; Glove, Knitting, and Handkerchief Boxes; Paper Knives, Fans, &c. Priced List on application.
WM. BARNARD, 119, Edgware-road, London.

£10. BENNETT'S WATCHES. In return for a £10 Note, free and safe per post, one of BENNETT'S LADY'S GOLD WATCHES, perfect for time, beauty, and workmanship, with keyless action, air-tight, damp-tight, and dust-tight.—65, Cheapside, London. Gold Chains at manufacturers' prices. P.O.O. to John Bennett.
BENNETT, 65 and 64, Cheapside.

WALKER'S CRYSTAL CASE WATCHES are superseding all others. Prize Medals—London, 1862, Paris, 1867. Silver Watches, from £4 4s.; Gold, from £6 6s. Price-Lists sent free.—68, Cornhill; 220, Regent-street; and 76, Strand.

MR. STREETER, 18 NEW BOND-STREET, W.
GOLDSMITH AND JEWELLER.
The only Jeweller in England whose Stock consists of one uniform standard quality—viz., 18 carats.
LONDON-MADE JEWELLERY of Exquisite Design and Workmanship.
DIAMOND ORNAMENTS in great variety, at prices relative to their intrinsic value.
SPECIALITIES IN BRIDESMAIDS' LOCKETS, WEDDING PRESENTS, &c.
THE "TALISMAN" BRACELET (Patented), a Novelty for the Season, from £5.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' GOLD-MEDAL PIANOS have been awarded First-Class Medals of Honour:—At London, 1862; Paris, 1867; Netherlands, 1869; Paris, 1870; Paris, 1874; Philadelphia, 1876; S. Africa, 1877, &c. Illustrated Lists free.—18, Wigmore-street, London.

P. J. SMITH AND SONS' IRON-STRUTTED PIANOS. "The best and most substantial instrument produced." 9, CONDUIT-STREET, REGENT-STREET, W.

MUSICAL-BOX DÉPOTS, 56, Cheapside, and 22, Lndgate-hill, London.—Nicole's celebrated Musical Boxes, playing best secular and sacred music. Prices, £4 to £120. Snuff-boxes, from 18s. to 60s. Largest stock in London. Catalogues gratis and post-free. Apply to WALES & M'CULLOCH, as above.

MAPLE and CO., the largest and most convenient FURNISHING ESTABLISHMENT in the world. A House of any magnitude Furnished from Stock in three days. Purchasers should inspect the Stock before deciding elsewhere. All goods marked in plain figures. Estab. 28 years

MAPLE and CO. supply every requisite for HOUSE FURNISHING, including Linens, Ironmongery, Glass, Crockeryware, Clocks, Bronzes, and every description of Ornaments, either for dining or drawing room, or for Christmas and Wedding Presents, in separate departments.

DINING-ROOM FURNITURE.

MAPLE and CO.—DINING-ROOM FURNITURE.—Sideboards in oak, mahogany, and other woods, from 3 guineas to 100 guineas. Fine oak and mediæval Dining-room Furniture; Tables from 3 guineas to 70 guineas. A large assortment of Clocks, Bronzes, and other Ornaments.

DINING-ROOM FURNITURE. — Forty very handsome Carved Oak Antique Sideboards, with Dining-Tables and Chairs to match. Thirty complete Dining-room Suites in stock to select from, 14 guineas. Good strong Dining-room Chair, in mahogany or oak, stuffed all hair, and covered in leather, 24s. 6d.

MAPLE and CO.—DRAWING-ROOM FURNITURE. The Largest Assortment in London. An endless variety of Cabinets, from 2 to 60 guineas, many quite new in design; a large assortment of Buhl Furniture, as well as Black and Gold; 100 Easy-Chairs, from 1 to 10 guineas; a very extensive Stock of Clocks, Bronzes, and Fancy Ornaments; 500 Chimney-Glasses, from 2 to 80 guineas; Console-Tables, as well as Girandoles, from 1 to 20 guineas.

MAPLE and CO., Importers.

TURKEY CARPETS,

INDIAN CARPETS,

PERSIAN CARPETS.

OVER 2000 DAGHESTAN and SOUMACK CARPETS, also 500 Turkey Carpets, of extra fine quality and at marvellously low prices, just received from Constantinople. These Goods have been bought by Agents especially dispatched by Messrs. MAPLE and CO. for Cash, are of great rarity, some being very handsome old prayer rugs, which have been made over a hundred years. The prices are wonderfully low—in fact, one third of that usually asked for these curiosities.—145, 146, 147, Tottenham-court-road, London.

MAPLE and CO. — SILK DAMASKS, the largest and most varied assortment of Satin, Silks, Cretelines, Silk Reps, all in stock. To purchasers this is a great object, as not only do they get the silks at a lower price than if they were made, but they are not kept waiting.

MAPLE and CO.—CURTAINS, for Dining and Drawing Rooms. The largest and most varied stock of Curtain Materials in London. Good Wool Reps, double width, 2s. 6d. per yard. Stripe Reps, in all colours, all wool, and double width, from 3s. 3d. per yard.

MAPLE and CO.—CRETONNE CHINTZ. The French Chintz, which requires no lining when used for loose covers. The width is 32 inches, and the prices vary from 6½d. per yard to 3s. 11d. per yard. The largest assortment in England. Patterns sent.

POSTAL ORDER DEPARTMENT. Messrs. MAPLE and CO. beg respectfully to state that this Department is now so organised that they are fully prepared to execute and supply any Article that can possibly be required in Furnishing at the same price, if not less, than any other house in England. Patterns sent and quotations given free of charge.

MAPLE and CO.—BED-ROOM SUITES in EARLY ENGLISH, carried out to design by the best artists of the day. Some new and most elegant suites, designed by gentlemen especially engaged by Messrs. Maple. These suites, which are a specialty with this firm, should be seen. Machinery, &c., has been erected so as to produce this class of furniture at the lowest possible cost.
145, 146, 147, 148, 149, Tottenham-court-road, London.

MORTLOCK'S CHINA.
202, 203, 204, OXFORD-STREET;
30, 31, 32, ORCHARD-STREET, LONDON, W.
Messrs. Mortlock beg to state that although the exterior of their premises is not palatial the rooms are the largest and most convenient in London. They are thirty in number, and a day may be spent in examining the various productions. All goods are marked in plain figures with 15 per cent. for cash on or before delivery. The public are respectfully solicited to walk through the rooms and compare the prices and character of the designs with any of the smaller or more recently established houses.
JOHN MORTLOCK and CO.,
Oxford-street and Orchard-street, W.

GARDNERS' NEW DINNER and TABLE GLASS SERVICES are original in design, effective in appearance, and unequalled in price. Dinner Services from £3 3s. the Set for twelve persons, complete, with 15 per cent discount for cash on or before delivery. Table Glass Services from £3 5s. 6d. the Set for twelve persons complete.

DINNER SERVICES.
Coloured Lithographs post-free.

In Deep Blue.		In Blue and White.
The Lansdowne ..	£3 3 0	The Lansdowne ..	£3 3 0
The Laurel ..	3 13 6	The Indiana	4 4 0
		The Danish	5 5 0

Discount 15 per cent.

In Enamelled Patterns.		In their unequalled Crown Ware.
The One Thousand and Two (A) ..	5 5 0	In Ruby	£5 5 0
The Japanese Bamboo	6 6 0	In Pink	5 5 0
The Humming-Bird ..	7 7 0	In Black	5 5 0
The Sevres	7 7 0

Discount 15 per cent.

TABLE GLASS SERVICES.

Plain light stem glass	£3 5 6	Light engraved glass ..	5 15 6
Richly cut glass ..	5 5 0	Richly engraved glass	5 19 6

Discount 15 per cent.
Illustrated Glass Catalogue, which must be returned, sent post-free on application.
Gardners', Lamp, Glass, and China Manufacturers, 453 and 454, West Strand, Charing-cross.

SILVER WAITERS.—The GOLDSMITHS' ALLIANCE (Limited) have always ready a large Stock of SILVER WAITERS and TEATRAYS of the newest and most elegant designs:—

Size and Weight.	King's. Plain centres. 9s. per oz.	King's. Neatly chased. 9s. 6d. per oz.	Beaded. Richly engraved. 11s. 6d. per oz.
8 inch 12 ounces	£5 8 0	£5 14 0	£6 18 0
9 inch 17 ounces	7 13 0	8 1 6	9 15 0
10 inch 20 ounces	9 0 0	9 10 0	11 10 0
12 inch 30 ounces	13 10 0	14 5 0	17 5 0
14 inch 43 ounces	19 7 0	20 8 6	24 14 6
16 inch 58 ounces	26 2 0	27 11 0	33 7 0
18 inch 80 ounces	36 0 0	38 0 0	46 0 0
20 inch 124 ounces	55 16 0	58 18 0	71 6 0
22 inch 158 ounces	67 10 0	71 5 0	86 5 0
26 inch 200 ounces	90 0 0	95 0 0	115 0 0

A Pamphlet of Prices, Illustrated with Engravings, will be forwarded, gratis and post-free, on application.
11 and 12, Cornhill, London.

BREAKFAST IN BED.—CARTER'S PATENT REVOLVING BED-TABLE, adjustable to any height or inclination, for reading and writing. Price from £2 5s. Drawings free.—J. CARTER, 6A, New Cavendish-street, Great Portland-street, W.

JEWEL ROBBERIES PREVENTED.—J. TANN'S RELIANCE SAFES have never failed to resist the attempts of the most determined burglars. Fire-Resisting Safes, £5 5s. Lists free.—11, Newgate-street, E.C.

JEWEL ROBBERIES.—CHUBB'S SAFES for JEWELS give the greatest security from the attacks of burglars, and are also Fire-Resisting. All sizes, with various fittings. Chubb's Latches and Detector Locks. Price-List sent free.—CHUBB and SON, 128, Queen Victoria-street, St. Paul's, E.C.; and 68, St. James's-street, S.W.

LADIES ABOUT TO TRAVEL should see the "OSBORNE" DRESS-CASE, very light and handsome, with collapsible bonnet compartment. Price 10s. 6d. HARRON, Manufacturer, 261, High Holborn (five doors west from Inns of Court Hotel). Illustrated List free.

MOURNING ORDERS SENT AT ONCE UPON RECEIPT OF LETTER OR TELEGRAM.
A large Staff of very competent Dressmakers and ASSISTANTS are kept purposely to TRAVEL to all parts of the country—no matter the distance—
(free of any extra charge whatever to the Customer)
with a full assortment of Made-up Goods of the most fashionable and suitable description.
FOR A FAMILY MOURNING,
and also Mourning for Servants,
Orders, however large, can be completed at very short notice by Dressmakers of the greatest proficiency.
(either French, German, or English).
Observe the only one Address—
PETER ROBINSON'S,
COURT AND GENERAL MOURNING WAREHOUSE,
256 to 262, REGENT-STREET, LONDON.
One of the most important Houses of its kind in England. Established as a Mourning Warehouse Thirty Years.

AT PETER ROBINSON'S, of REGENT-STREET,
BLACK DRESS SATINS, all pure Silk, at 5s. 9d., 6s. 6d., 7s. 6d., 8s. 9d., and 10s. 9d., made by Messrs. Bonnet.
The DUCHESSE SATIN, at 12s. 9d. (26 inches wide), a magnificent Fabric, for richness and for durability cannot be surpassed.
BLACK SATINS, for Trimming purposes, at 2s. 6½d., 2s. 11d., 3s. 6d., and 4s. 6d. per yard.

BLACK SILKS—Specially Cheap,
Manufactured by Messrs. Bonnet et Cie, at .. 5s. 6d.
Manufactured by Messrs. Tapissier et Cie, at 5s. 3d.
Manufactured by Messrs. Jaubert et Cie .. 4s. 6d.
Manufactured by Messrs. Degrenet Cie, at .. 4s. 11d.
Also, BLACK SILKS, in very serviceable qualities, at 2s. 6d., 2s. 11½d., 3s. 6d., 4s. 6d., and 4s. 9d.
CHINA WASHING SILKS, 21s. the Piece of 20 yards.
PETER ROBINSON is a Wholesale as well as a Retail Dealer in Black Silks.
As he buys direct from the Manufacturer, all intermediate profits are saved.
Address ONLY for Patterns as follows:—
PETER ROBINSON, 256 to 262, REGENT-STREET.
THE COURT AND GENERAL MOURNING WAREHOUSE.

AT PETER ROBINSON'S, of REGENT-STREET,
COSTUMES IN BLACK SILK,
Exquisitely fashioned,
at 4½, 5½, 6½, 7½, 8½, and 10½ guineas.
COSTUMES IN BLACK SATIN,
the Purest and Richest Qualities,
at 10½ guineas.
COSTUMES FOR YOUNG LADIES, in pretty French Mantelle Silks,
at 5½ guineas.
COSTUMES FOR DINNER AND EVENING DRESS, in Grenadine, trimmed with Satin and Silk,
a large variety, from 3½ to 7½ guineas.
COSTUMES IN BLACK BRUSSELS NET, at 29s. 6d.
COSTUMES IN BLACK GRENADINE, at 2 guineas.
COSTUMES IN WHITE MUSLIN FOR GARDEN PARTIES, at 25s. 6d. to 3½ guineas, with Material for Bodice.
COSTUMES IN WHITE CAMBRIC FOR MORNING DRESS, at 15s. 6d. to 27s. 6d.
COSTUMES IN BLACK MATERIAL (New Summer Fabrics), at 2 guineas, from 5 to 7 guineas.
Observe—The ONLY Address for the above is
PETER ROBINSON, of REGENT-STREET,
THE COURT AND GENERAL MOURNING WAREHOUSE.
Nos. 256 to 262.

FURS at SUMMER PRICES.
REAL RUSSIAN SEAL PALETOTS.
33 inches long .. .. 9½ guineas.
36 inches long .. .. 11½ guineas.
39 inches long .. .. 13 guineas.
New and Perfect Shapes,
and of the most enduring qualities.

NOTICE.—In reference to the above advertisements, it is important that letters should be clearly addressed to 256 to 262, REGENT-STREET.

D. NICHOLSON and CO. send post-free Patterns of
NEW SILKS,
DRESS FABRICS,
MANTLES, and COSTUMES.
D. NICHOLSON and COMPANY,
69 to 83, ST. PAUL'S CHURCHYARD, LONDON.

HENRY GLAVE'S
UNDERCLOTHING AND OUTFITTING.
Duchess Trimmed Chemise, 1s. 9½d. each; three for 6s. 3d.
Countess, Handsomely-Trimmed Chemise, Scotch Insertion and Work, 2s. 11½d.; or three for 8s. 9d.
Better quality, and more handsomely trimmed, 3s. 11½d. each; or three for 11s. 6d.
Mercedes Night-Dress, 2s. 11½d. each; or three for 8s. 9d.
La Reine Night-Dress, Trimmed Scotch Work and Frilling, 3s. 11½d. each; or three for 11s. 6d.
200 dozen Trimmed Drawers, 1s. 11½d. each; or three for 5s. 9d.
White Embroidered "Cuirass" Corset, with Spoonbill busk, 2s. 11½d. and 4s. 11½d.; usual price, 3s. 11d. and 6s. 11d.
A lot of White French Wove Corsets at 3s. 11d., 5s. 11d., and 6s. 11d., good shapes; all reduced in price.
Fashionable Swanbill Belt Corsets for Princess Costumes, in Black, Scarlet, and Grey, 11s.; and improved shapes, in scarlet, white, and grey, at 6s. 11d., in every size.
Illustrated Lists of Underclothing.
Patterns, Samples, and all Information post-free.
534, 535, 536, and 537, New Oxford-street, London, W.C.

HENRY GLAVE'S
SILK AND VELVET DEPARTMENT.
Black Silks, special prices for this month.
Black Silks, at 1s. 6d., 1s. 11½d., 2s. 6d., and 2s. 11½d. yd.
Black Silks, Lyons Grains, by Messrs. Gourd, Croizat, and Cie., special prices, 3s. 11½d. a yard.
Blue-Black Velveteens, 1s. 6½d. a yard, 23 in. wide.
7000 yards Rich Coloured Velveteens, 70 different shades, 27 in. wide, 1s. 6½d. a yard; former price, 2s. 11½d.
7000 yards Rich Coloured Velveteens, 70 different shades, 27 in. wide, 2s. 10½d. a yard; former price, 3s. 11½d.
The new "Louis" Velveteens. These Velveteens, dyed the new shade of blue-black by a special process, are guaranteed to retain their colour and brilliancy, and cannot be distinguished from Lyons Silk Velvets at four or five times the price.
Special Parcels of 27 in. Silk Costume Velvets, 6s. 11d. the yard; former price, 10s.
Black Satins, 1s. 6½d., 1s. 9½d., 1s. 11½d., 2s. 6½d., and 2s. 11½d.
Black Satins, 3s. 6½d., 3s. 11½d., 4s. 11½d., and 6s. 11½d. a yd.
Coloured Satins, in 100 shades, 2s. 6½d. and 3s. 6½d.
Patterns of all Silks post-free.
534, 535, 536, and 537, New Oxford-street, London.

ROYAL DEVONSHIRE SERGES, woven from pure Wool, for LADIES' DRESSES, in Navy or Dark Indigo Blue, Black, Dark Browns, Prune, and other solid colours, price 1s. 11d., 2s. 6d., 2s. 11d. per yard.
For CHILDREN a lower quality is made, very strong, at 1s. 6d. per yard.
For BOYS' HARD WEAR it is extra milled, price, 54 in. wide, 3s. 6d. per yard.
Books of Patterns sent post-free by
SPEARMAN and SPEARMAN,
Devonshire Serge Factors, Plymouth.
The ROYAL DEVONSHIRE SERGE is the only true Yachting Serge.
Sea Water cannot injure it.
Any Length is Cut by the Factors, who arrange to pay the carriage of all Parcels above Two Pounds in value to and as far as London.

NEW FABRICS AND FASHIONS FOR AUTUMN.
SILKS, DRESSES, MANTLES, COSTUMES.
Patterns and Illustrations free.
PETER ROBINSON, OXFORD-STREET, W.

TEN THOUSAND PIECES OF COLOURED, BLACK, AND FANCY
SILKS at GREAT REDUCTIONS, including
20,000 mètres of rich Striped and Check Silks, at 1s. 11½d. per yard.
400 pieces of rich Coloured Gros Grain Silks, every new shade, at 3s. 9½d. per yard.
1000 pieces of Black Silks, of special pureness, in four prices—viz., 2s. 6d., 2s. 9½d., 3s. 11d., and 4s. 6d. per yard.
BROCADED SILKS,
of extreme richness, usual prices, 8s. 6d. to 21s., will be sold at 4s. 6d. to 10s. 6d. per yard.
Damassés of the newest designs, usual price, 3s. 6d., at 1s. 11½d. per yard.
1000 PIECES OF SILK PONGEES,
in lengths of 20 yards,
with rich Embroidered Scarves for trimming, 28s. 6d. complete.
600 pieces Rich Silk Embroidered Cashmere, at 3s. 9½d. per yard; usual price 6s. 6d.
500 PIECES INDIAN PONGEE WASHING SILKS,
16s. 9d. the piece of 20 yards.
Patterns post-free.

VERY FASHIONABLE THIS SEASON.
RICH VELVET VELVETEEN.
300 pieces fast Black, very wide,
2s. 5½. to 3s. 6d. per yard.
All the new Rich Shades of Colour, 2s. 6d. to 4s. 6d. per yard.

CASHMERES AND CASHMERE MERINOS,
FOR AUTUMN DRESSES.
A special purchase, in Black and all the new colours, amounting to several thousand pieces.
Very wide, at 1s. 11d. to 3s. 6d. per yard.

TRAVELLING and SEASIDE DRESSES.
Witney, Estamene, and Angola Serges,
Fancy Cashmeres, Rich Poplins,
New Autumn Moss Cloths, and other Novelties,
in endless variety, 10s. 6d. to 31s. 6d. the Dress.

SPECIAL SALE OF
BLACK GRENADINE COSTUMES.
A Producer's stock of several hundred, from 18s. 6d. to 1 guinea.
These Goods are much less than half price.
PETER ROBINSON, 103 to 108, OXFORD-STREET, W.

SWAN and EDGAR
ARE NOW SHOWING a large STOCK of SEASIDE and TRAVELLING GARMENTS, Ulsters, Waterproofs, and Dust Cloaks.—Piccadilly and Regent-street.

PATTERNS FREE.
BLACK SILKS,
manufactured by Bonnet, of Lyons.
Messrs. JAY beg to inform their Patrons and the Public generally that they are now selling these well-known Pure Light-Dyed Silks at a reduction of from 33 to 40 per cent off prices that were charged previous to the depression in the Lyons Silk Market.
Present price, 5s. 6d.; former price, 8s. 9d.
" " 5s. 11d.; " " 9s. 6d.
" " 6s. 9d.; " " 10s. 6d.
Messrs. JAY are also selling Janberi's good wearing Black SILKS, at the following reduced rate:—
Present price, 3s. 9d.; former price, 5s. 9d.
" " 4s. 6d.; " " 6s. 3d.
" " 5s. 3d.; " " 7s. 6d.
" " 5s. 9d.; " " 8s. 3d.
As these low prices are not at all likely to continue, and as Silks wear much better when not used fresh from the loom, Messrs. JAY strongly advise their Customers to take advantage of this occasion to make purchases of their always fashionable and useful article, a good Black Silk.
BONNET'S BLACK SATINS, all pure silk, 22 inches wide, from 5s. 3d. per yard.
JAYS',
The London General Mourning Warehouse,
Regent-street, W.

PATTERNS FREE.
BAKER and CRISP'S WORLD-WIDE NOTED CHEAP SILKS, CHEAP DRESSES.
£10,000 WORTH
EARLY AUTUMN FABRICS OF ALL NATIONS, from 8d.
NEW CYPRUS CLOTHS. NEW ROUGH SERGES.
NEW RECONSFIELD CLOTHS.
MALTESE CLOTHS. SAVOY CLOTHS.
LADIES SINTINGS.
SALISBURY CLOTHS. PARIS CLOTHS.
SILK MIXTURES.
TWILLED FLANNELS. SOFT SERGES.
NEW ULSTER CLOTHS.
INDIAN CASHMERES. FRENCH CASHMERES.
BLACK FABRICS.
LADIES' SKIRTINGS. ESTAMENE SERGES, from 8½d.
AUTUMN COSTUMES. TROCADERO COSTUMES.
100 New Costumes, from 9s. 6d.
LADIES' ULSTERS. 12s. 6d. LADIES' ULSTERS, to 50s.
Black Satins, 2s. 6d. to 5s. 6d.
Coloured Satins, 3s. 6d. to 5s. 6d.
SILKS, SATINS, JAPANESE, DAMASSE SILKS, from 1s. 11½d.
Patterns free.—BAKER and CRISP, 198, Regent-street.

SHIRTS.—FORD'S EUREKA. — "The most perfect fitting made."—Observer. Gentlemen desirous of purchasing Shirts of the best quality should try Ford's Eureka. 30s., 40s., 45s. half dozen. Illustrations and self-measure post-free.—41, Poultry, London.

JUDSON'S DYES.—6d. each, of Chemists. Curtains, Table-covers, Mantles, Scarves, Jackets dyed in ten minutes in a pail of hot water. Judson's Dyes—Crimson, Green, and Twenty-four Colours.

VALUABLE DISCOVERY for the HAIR. If your hair is turning grey, or white, or falling off, use "The Mexican Hair Renewer," for it will positively restore in every case Grey or White Hair to its original colour, without leaving the disagreeable smell of most "Restorers." It makes the hair charmingly beautiful, as well as promoting the growth of the hair on bald spots where the glands are not decayed. Ask any Chemist for the "Mexican Hair Renewer;" price 3s. 6d. Prepared by HENRY C. GALLUP, 493, Oxford-street, London.

FLORILINE. For the Teeth and Breath. Is the best Liquid Dentifrice in the World; it thoroughly cleanses partially-decayed teeth from all parasites or living "animalculæ," leaving them pearly white, imparting a delightful fragrance to the breath. Price 2s. 6d. per bottle. The Fragrant Floriline removes instantly all odours arising from a foul stomach or tobacco smoke, being partly composed of honey, soda, and extracts of sweet herbs and plants. It is perfectly harmless, and delicious as sherry. Prepared by HENRY C. GALLUP, 493, Oxford-street, London. Retailed everywhere.

JOHN GOSNELL and CO.'S VIOLET and MILLEFLEUR POWDER, for the Toilet and Nursery. Universally admired for its purity and fragrance. Sold by all Chemists and Perfumers. Wholesale, 93, Upper Thames-street.

BREIDENBACH'S ABRONIA.—The New Scent for 1878. Delicate, refreshing, and durable. 2s. 6d. to 40s. per Bottle. Breidenbach's MACASSARINE, invaluable for preserving the Growth of the Hair. 1s., 2s. 6d., 5s. per Bottle. Of all Chemists, and the Makers, 157a, New Bond-street, W.

THE COURT HAIR DESTROYER.—This newly-discovered remedy completely removes superfluous hair. Quite harmless. 3s. 6d.; post 3s. 10d., of Inventor, J. Leon, 19, Portens-rd., London, W., or Chemists. Particulars, 1 stamp.

GOLDEN HAIR.—ROBARE'S AUREOLINE produces the beautiful Golden Colour so much admired. Warranted perfectly harmless. Price 5s. 6d. and 10s. 6d., of all Perfumers. Wholesale, HOVENDEN and SONS, 5, Great Marlborough-street, W.; and 93 and 95, City-road, E.C. London; Piesse and Meyer, 97, Boulevard de Strasbourg, Paris; 31, Graben, Vienna; 44, Rue des Longs Chariots, Brussels.

DOES YOUR HAIR TURN GREY? Then use HERRING'S PATENT MAGNETIC BRUSHES and COMBS. Brushes, 10s. and 15s. each. Combs, 2s. 6d., 5s., 7s. 6d., 10s., 15s., and 20s. each. Pamphlets upon application.—5, Great Marlborough-st., W.; 93 and 95, City-road; and of all Perfumers.

A FACT.—HAIR COLOUR WASH.—By damping the Hair with this Wash, in twelve hours it becomes its original colour (this is guaranteed). 10s. 6d. Sent for stamps.—ALEX. ROSS, 248, High Holborn, London.

PARIS EXHIBITION.
Special Arrangements for Visitors to the Exhibition have been made by the RAILWAY PASSENGERS' ASSURANCE COMPANY,
for providing against
ACCIDENT BY RAILWAY OR STEAM-BOAT
during the journey to PARIS and back.
A Premium of One Shilling Insures £1000 if Killed, or £6 per week if laid up by Injury during the Double Journey.
POLICIES AGAINST ACCIDENTS OF ALL KINDS may also be effected for One, Three, or Twelve Months, on moderate terms.
Apply at the Booking-Offices of the Southern Railways, or at the Head Office, 64, Cornhill, London.
WILLIAM J. VIAN, Secretary.

BRIGHTON FURNISHED HOUSES for the SEASON.—For particulars of those in the best situations—Adelaide-crescent, Palmera-square, Brunswick-square, Brunswick-terrace, West Brighton—apply to Messrs. CROUCH and STEVENS, 35, Western-road, Brighton.

ORDER EVERYTHING YOU REQUIRE THROUGH COCKBURN'S UNITED SERVICE AGENCY SOCIETY, 41, Haymarket, London, S.W., and save from 5 to 50 per cent and much time and trouble by so doing.

PRIZE POULTRY and PIGEONS. Splendid Leghorns, Partridge Cochins, Minorcas, and Game Bantams for Sale. Also Pigeons—Carriers, Barbs, Jacobins, Tumblers, and other varieties.—1, Cowick-terrace, Exeter.

ORANGE CHAMPAGNE is a light, pleasant drink, made simply from Oranges. It is effervescent, but entirely free from spirit, and perfectly wholesome. Price 7s. per Dozen Quarts; 4s. Pints. Bottles 2s. and Cases 1s. per Dozen until returned. Made only by CHAS. CODD and CO., 79, Copenhagen-street, London, N.

KINAHAN'S LL WHISKY. THE CREAM OF OLD IRISH WHISKIES.
Pure, mild, mellow, delicious, and most wholesome. Universally recommended by the medical profession. Dr. Hassall says:—"The whisky is soft, mellow, and pure, well-matured, and of very excellent quality."—20, Great Titchfield-street, W

ELLIS'S RUTHIN WATERS.
ELLIS'S PURE AERATED RUTHIN WATERS.
ELLIS'S RUTHIN WATERS.—Crystal Springs. "Absolutely Pure."—See analyses, sent free on application.
ELLIS'S RUTHIN WATERS.—Soda, Potass, Seltzer, Lemonade, and also Water without Alkali.
ELLIS'S RUTHIN WATERS.—For Gout, Lithia Water, and Lithia and Potass Water.
ELLIS'S RUTHIN WATERS.—Crystal Springs. Corks branded "R. Ellis and Son, Ruthin." Every label bears Trade Mark.
ELLIS'S RUTHIN WATERS.—Sold everywhere. Wholesale, R. Ellis and Son, Ruthin, North Wales. London Agents, W. BEST and SONS, Henrietta-street, Cavendish-square.

AMERICAN CENTENNIAL PRIZE MEDAL.
FRY'S CARACAS COCOA.
Its pure flavour, delicate aroma, and invigorating qualities have established its position as a first-class dietetic article.

FRY'S CARACAS COCOA.
"The Caracas Cocoa of such choice quality."—Food, Water, and Air (Dr. Hassall).
"A most delicious and valuable article."—Standard.

FRY'S EXTRACT OF COCOA,
"than which, if properly prepared, there is no nicer or more wholesome preparation of Cocoa."—Food, Water, and Air. Edited by Dr. Hassall.
TENTH INTERNATIONAL MEDAL awarded to J. S. FRY and SON.

HORNIMAN'S TEA for Forty Years has commanded a large sale, because it can always be relied on for strength, flavour, and cheapness. It is the best tea imported. Sold only in Packets.

TAMAR INDIEN.—Owing to the marked success of this fruit-lozenge—so agreeable to take and universally prescribed by the Faculty for Constipation, &c.—Base imitations are being foisted on the public. The genuine preparations bear the title "Tamar Indien." Price 2s. 6d. per Box. E. GRILLON, Wool Exchange, E.C.; and all Chemists.

HOOPING-COUGH.—ROCHE'S HERBAL EMBROCATION.—The celebrated Effectual Cure without internal medicine. Sole Wholesale Agents, EDWARDS and SON, 157, Queen Victoria-street (late of 38, Old Change), London. Sold retail by most Chemists. Price 4s. per Bottle.

LAXORA MEDICATED FRUIT LOZENGES for CONSTIPATION, SLUGGISHNESS OF THE STOMACH, BILE, HEADACHE.
The "Lancet:"—"It is a great improvement on the preparations in common use for the same purpose."
"Medical Press":—"Laxora Lozenges can be safely recommended."
C. R. C. Tichborne, Ph.D.:—"Laxora Lozenges are efficacious, and nicely made."
Sold, 1s. 1½d., by all Chemists and Druggists; Wholesale, 82, Southwark-street.

BLAIR'S GOUT PILLS,
The Great English Remedy for Gout and Rheumatism. Sure, safe, and effectual. No restraint of diet required during their use, and are certain to prevent the disease attacking any vital part. Sold by all Chemists at 1s. 1½d. and 2s. 9d. per Box.

TOOTH-ACHE.
INSTANT CURE.
FORMS A STOPPING.
SAVES THE TOOTH.
J. Hounsell, Esq., Surgeon, Bridport, writes:—"I consider HUNTER'S NERVINE a specific for Toothache. Very severe cases under my care have found instantaneous and permanent relief."
Of all Chemists, at 1s. 1½d. per Packet.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS and OINTMENT. The Pills purify the blood, correct all disorders of the liver, stomach, kidneys, and bowels. The Ointment is unrivalled in the cure of bad legs, old wounds, gout, and rheumatism.

CORPULENCE.—YATE HOLLAND'S EMACERATING POWDERS (or Pills) speedily and safely absorb superfluous fat and reduce corpulency, however long standing. Price 2s. 6d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. per Box.—MARTIN and CO., 3, Paradise-road, London, S.W.; or through any Chemist.

TO PERSONS AFFLICTED WITH RUPTURE.—PRATT'S WATER-PAD TRUSSES are the most effectual Cure.—Apply to J. P. Pratt, Surgical Mechanician to St. Bartholomew's Hospital, 420, Oxford-street, London.

ELECTRICITY IS LIFE.
PULVERMACHER'S "GALVANISM, NATURE'S CHIEF RESTORER OF EXHAUSTED VITAL ENERGY."
In this Pamphlet the most reliable proofs are given of the vast and wonderful curative powers of Pulvermacher's Patent Galvanic Chain-Bands, Belts, &c., in Rheumatic, Nervous, and Functional Disorders. Sent post-free for three stamps, on application to
J. L. PULVERMACHER'S GALVANIC ESTABLISHMENT, 194, REGENT-STREET, LONDON, W.; AND 39, RUE ST. MARC, PARIS.

WORMS IN A PUG. "Vicarage, Welley Rocks, Leek, June 6, 1878.—A very handsome female pug, which had been presented to me, seemed very much out of condition, and, notwithstanding great care as to diet, &c., no improvement was perceptible. I therefore gave her yesterday one of Naldire's Powders, and in fifteen minutes she brought off a tapeworm 6 ft. in length, with a quantity of slime. You may add this, with my name, to your numerous testimonials.—E. DOWMAN." NALDIRE'S POWDERS are sold by all Chemists, price 2s., 3s. 6d., and 5s.; and by Barclay and Sons, 95, Farringdon-street, London.

FLEAS IN DOGS. NALDIRE'S TABLET (the Prize Medal Dog Soap) instantly destroys insects, cleanses the skin, and improves the coat. Price 1s., of all Chemists and Perfumers.

BUGS, Fleas, Moths, Beetles, and all other Insects are destroyed by KEATING'S INSECT DESTROYING POWDER, which is quite harmless to domestic animals. In exterminating beetles the success of this powder is extraordinary. It is perfectly clean in application. Sold in Tins, 1s. and 2s. 6d. each by all Chemists.

NEW MUSIC.

NEW DANCE MUSIC.

CHARLES D'ALBERT'S NOVELTIES.

CYPRUS POLKA	2s. 0d. net
CONGRESS LANCERS	2s. 0d. net
PAUL ET VIRGINIE WALTZ	2s. 0d. net
PAUL ET VIRGINIE QUADRILLE	2s. 0d. net
PAUL ET VIRGINIE GALOP	2s. 0d. net
THE ENGAGED WALTZ. On Sullivan's Song	2s. 0d. net
DISTANT SHORE WALTZ	2s. 0d. net
SWEETHEARTS LANCERS	2s. 0d. net
CLEOPATRA GALOP	2s. 0d. net
THE LOVE-LETTER POLKA	2s. 0d. net
THE FANFARE POLKA	2s. 0d. net
MOLLY DARLING QUADRILLE	2s. 0d. net
SWEETHEARTS WALTZ	2s. 0d. net

N.B.—A Complete List of M. D'Albert's Popular Dance Music will be sent on application.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

SONGS AFTER HANS ANDERSEN'S POEMS, MUSIC BY MOLLOY.

THE LITTLE TIN SOLDIER. 2s. net.

TWO LITTLE LIVES. 2s. net.

THE LITTLE MATCH GIRL. 2s. net.

THE STORY OF THE NIGHTINGALE. 2s. net.

DEATH AND THE NIGHTINGALE. 2s. net.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

NEW NUMBERS OF

CHAPPELL'S MUSICAL MAGAZINE.

No. 118.—POPULAR MARCHES.

Marche Romaine		..	Ch. Gonnod.
March of the Pashas		..	J. Pridham.
March in "Judas Maccabeus"		..	Handel.
March in "Scipio"		..	Handel.
March in the "Occasional Oratorio"		..	Handel.
March in "Rinaldo"		..	Handel.
March in "Hercules"		..	Chas. d'Albert.
The Wellington March		..	Handel.
Dead March in "Saul"		..	Handel.
March in "Judas Maccabeus" ("See the Conquering Hero comes.")		..	Mozart.
March in "Die Zauberflöte"		..	Gluck.
March in "Alceste"		..	Mozart.
March in "Idomeneo"		..

No. 117.—(MIXED SERIES, No. 3.)

Song (Tenor)	Elly Mavourneen	..	Sir J. Benedict.
Song (Contralto)	The lonely Harp	..	Miss Cowell.
Song (Soprano)	I'm alone	..	Sir J. Benedict.
Song (Baritone)	I never can forget	..	A. Mellon.
Vocal Duet (Sop. and Con.)	O ye voices gone	..	Zeta.
Vocal Duet (Sop. and Con.)	Two wandering Stars		B. Richards.
Pianoforte	Soldier's Prayer	..	A. Lindahl.
Pianoforte	Siren's Song	..	A. Lindahl.
Pianoforte	Blue Bells of Scotland		R. Richards.
Dance Music	West End Polka	..	Charles D'Albert.
Dance Music	Little Nell Waltz	..	Dan Godfrey.
Dance Music	Lord of Lorne Lancers		Dan Godfrey.
Dance Music	Express Galop	..	Charles D'Albert.

No. 116.—(MIXED SERIES, No. 2.)

Song (Baritone)	The Bell Ringer	..	W. Vincent Wallace.
Song (Soprano)	Tender and True	..	Arthur Sullivan.
Song (Contralto)	To Thee	..	Alberto Randegger.
Song (Tenor)	Oh! whisper what thou feelest	..	B. Richards.
Vocal Duet (Sop. and Con.)	When Birds are singing	..	H. Smart.
Vocal Duet (Sop. and Con.)	Two Merry Gipsies	..	G. A. Macfarren.
Pianoforte	The Soldier's Chorus		B. Richards.
Pianoforte	Air by Louis XIII.	..	Henri Ghys.
Pianoforte	A Ray of Sunshine	..	Cecil Ledue.
Dance Music	Dew Drop Waltz	..	Charles d'Albert.
Dance Music	The Sultan's Polka	..	Charles d'Albert.
Dance Music	Polo Lancers	..	Dan Godfrey.
Dance Music	The Mabel Galop	..	Dan Godfrey.

No. 115.—(MIXED SERIES, No. 1.)

Song (Contralto)	Juanita	..	Mrs. Norton.
Song (Soprano)	The Maiden's Story	..	A. Sullivan.
Song (Baritone)	The Stirrup Cup	..	Luigi Arditi.
Song (Tenor)	There's Sunlight in Heaven	..	M. Balfe.
Vocal Duet (Sop. and Con.)	Wind and the Harp	..	S. Glover.
Vocal Duet (Sop. and Con.)	Ave Sanctissima	..	Mrs. Hemans.
Pianoforte	Home, Sweet Home	..	B. Richards.
Pianoforte	The Silver Trumpets	..	F. Vivian.
Pianoforte	Prière d'une Vierge	..	T. Badarzewska.
Dance Music	The Rink Galop	..	Charles D'Albert.
Dance Music	The Hilda Waltz	..	Dan Godfrey.
Dance Music	Palermo Quadrilles	..	Charles D'Albert.
Dance Music	The King Pippin Polka	..	Charles D'Albert.

ONE SHILLING EACH (post-free, 1s. 2d.).

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street, London, W.

REMINISCENCES OF ENGLAND.
REMINISCENCES OF IRELAND.
REMINISCENCES OF SCOTLAND.
REMINISCENCES OF WALES.

Arranged for the Pianoforte by FRED. GODFREY (B. M. Coldstream Guards). Played by all the Bands in her Majesty's Service. Price 2s. each net.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

SECONDHAND PIANOFORTES.
TERMINATION OF THE LONDON SEASON.

Now on view, an immense number of Pianofortes returned from Hire, to be sold, at greatly reduced prices, for cash.
Pianinos from 18 guineas.
Cottages from 20 guineas.
Grands from 50 guineas.
50, New Bond-street.

SECONDHAND PIANOFORTES at 50, New Bond-street,
may be hired, with option of purchase, or on the "Three-Years' System," at greatly reduced prices.

SECONDHAND PIANOFORTES now on View by the following eminent Makers:—

BROADWOOD.	ERARD.
COLLARD.	CHAPPELL.
LIPP.	ROSENKRANZ.

CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

SECONDHAND HARMONIUMS, for CHURCH, SCHOOL, or DRAWING-ROOM.
Upwards of a hundred varieties now on View.
From 3 guineas to 100 guineas.
At CHAPPELL and CO.'S, 50, New Bond-street.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S SPECIALITIES in ORGAN HARMONIUMS.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S NEW ORGAN HARMONIUMS.—Five octaves, two pedals, suitable for cottage or school. Price 7 gs.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S NEW ORGAN MODEL by ALEXANDRE, two rows of keys, five stops and sub-bass, Venetian swell, two knee pedals. 28 guineas, or £2 16s. per quarter on Three-Years' System.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S EXHIBITION CHURCH MODEL, fifteen stops, 44 rows of vibrators, Venetian swell, 35 guineas, or £3 10s. per quarter for Three Years.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S SPECIAL CHURCH MODEL, 18 stops, five rows of vibrators, &c., 50 guineas; or £5 per quarter on the Three-Years' System.
Full illustrated Lists free by post.
50, New Bond-street, W.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S SPECIALITIES in PIANOFORTES.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S SCHOOL PIANINOS, Canadian Walnut, 20 gs., or 2gs. per quarter on the Three-Years' System of Purchase.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S YACHT PIANINOS, 30 gs., or £3 per quarter on Three-Years' System of Purchase.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S BOUDOIR PIANINO, 35 gs., or £3 10s. per quarter on the Three-Years' System of Purchase.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S ENGLISH MODEL, 40 gs., or £4 per quarter, on the Three-Years' System of Purchase.

NEW MUSIC

CHAPPELL and CO.'S COLONIAL MODEL, 45 gs., or £4 10s. per quarter on the Three-Years' System of Purchase.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S FOREIGN MODEL, 50 gs., or £5 per quarter on the Three-Years' System of Purchase.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S MIGNON IRON GRAND, 80 gs., or £8 per quarter on the Three-Years' System of Purchase.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S BOUDOIR IRON 110 gs., or £11 per quarter on the Three-Years' System of Purchase.
NEW BOND-STREET, W.

Price 10s. 6d., bound in cloth,

SPOHR'S VIOLIN SCHOOL. Edited by HENRY HOLMES. BOOSEY and CO. beg to announce the publication of an entirely new Edition of Spohr's great Violin School, translated into English by Florence Marshall; Violin School, translated into English by Florence Marshall; and edited, with Notes, by Henry Holmes. The numerous Notes are intended to elucidate the original text, and to assist the student in the course to be followed throughout in the practice of the School. Spohr's School is printed on the finest paper, and is published at the moderate price of half a guinea, with the view of placing it within the reach of all amateurs of the violin.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

This day, price 5s., paper; 7s. 6d., cloth, gilt edges,

THE CONTRALTO ALBUM. A Collection of 50 Songs for Mezzo-Soprano and Contralto Voices, extracted from the most celebrated Operas, with Italian and English words. All in the original keys (with ut abbreviation or alteration). This Collection includes many beautiful songs but little known in this country, besides all the most renowned of the last one hundred years. Also now ready, same prices as above.

THE PRIMA DONNA'S ALBUM. 40 great Operatic Songs for a Soprano Voice. In the press, THE TENOR and BARITONE ALBUMS, containing similar selections for these two voices.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

Price 2s. 6d., paper; 4s. 6d., cloth boards,

CALLCOTT'S HANDEL ALBUM. A collection of above one hundred of the best Oratorio and Operatic Airs by this great Composer. Arranged for the Pianoforte by W. H. CALLCOTT. With Memoir and three Illustrations.—BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

THE SONGS OF SCOTLAND. A New and Enlarged Edition is published this day, containing 100 Songs. Edited by Pittman, with a new and important introduction on Scotch Poetry and Music by Dr. Charles Mackay. Price 2s. 6d., paper; 4s., cloth, gilt edges; or, beautifully Illustrated by the most eminent artists, price 7s. 6d. Boosey and Co.'s Edition must be ordered.—295, Regent-street.

THE MOUNTAIN SYLPH.—A New Edition of John Barnett's celebrated opera is published this day, revised by the composer; complete for voice and pianoforte, price 3s. 6d. paper covers, 5s. cloth, gilt edges. Also uniform with the above,

The Siege of Rochelle.	Satanella.
The Lily of Killarney.	The Bohemian Girl.

BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

MUSIC FOR THE SEASIDE. Popular Numbers of BOOSEYS' MUSICAL CABINET. 1s. each.
212. ROOSEYS' MARCH ALBUM (32 marches).
203. RUBINSTEIN'S FIRST PIANO ALBUM (11 pieces).
204. BRAHMS' PIANO ALBUM.
205. RAFF'S PIANO ALBUM.
200. LAMOTHE'S WALTZ ALBUM (6 sets).
201. WALDTEUFEL'S WALTZ ALBUM (6 sets).
216. ROBERT FRANZ ALBUM (30 songs).
170. SANDLEY'S NEW COPYRIGHT SONG-BOOK.
168. ARTHUR SULLIVAN'S 10 SONGS.
169. VIRGINIA GABRIEL'S 10 SONGS.
163. A. S. GATTY'S 12 BALLADS.
2. LONGFELLOW AND BALFE'S NEW SONG-BOOK.
98. SANTLEY'S AND FOLI'S 25 STANDARD SONGS.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

THE BLUE ALSATIANS' WALTZ. By GEORGES LAMOTHE. On Stephen Adams's celebrated Song. Price 2s., Solo and Duet; Small Orchestra, 1s.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

BOOSEY & CO.'S PIANOFORTE-ROOMS.
GRAND and UPRIGHT PIANOFORTES,
by all the great makers, both English and Foreign,
FOR SALE or HIRE,
subject to the largest discount obtainable in London.
Pianettes, from £21. Short Cabinets, from £50.
Sole Address, 295, REGENT-STREET.

BOOSEY and Co.'S Short Iron Grand PIANOFORTES, 60, 70, 80, and 85 guineas each, subject to a liberal discount for cash, or on the Three-Years' System, from £5 10s. per quarter. Special Instruments for India. Illustrated Price-Lists free.
Sole Address, 295, Regent-street (adjoining the Polytechnic).

SECONDHAND PIANOS.—BOOSEY and CO. have a large Stock of Instruments by all the great Makers, which they offer, according to their custom on the close of the season, at greatly reduced prices. The majority of these Pianos have been hired for one season only, and are as good as new.—295, Regent-street (adjoining the Polytechnic).

GEO. WOODS and CO.'S AMERICAN ORGANS.
BOOSEY and CO., 295, Regent-street,
Sole Agents for the United Kingdom.
Pipe, Reed, and Pedal Organs, from £17 to £200.
Illustrated Price-Lists post-free.

ROBERT COCKS and CO.'S MUSICAL BOX. Caprice for the Pianoforte. By J. LIEBICH. "An agreeable and clever piece, which is very popular among amateurs."—Vide Musical World. Free by post for 24 stamps.
New Burlington-street.

NEW DANCES FOR THE PIANOFORTE.

THE SWALLOW'S FAREWELL. Illustrated. Composed for the Pianoforte by CLAUDE DAVENPORT. Post-free for 24 stamps.

THE QUEEN OF HEARTS. Waltz. Illustrated. Composed for the Pianoforte by CLAUDE DAVENPORT. Post-free for 24 stamps.

FANFARE DES DRAGONS. Galop, for the Pianoforte. By CLAUDE DAVENPORT. 3s.; post-free at half price.—London: Sole Publishers ROBERT COCKS and Co., New Burlington-street. Order everywhere.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' TRANSCRIPTIONS for the PIANOFORTE. Each free by post at half price in stamps.

The Albert Edward March. 3s.	God Bless the Prince of Wales. 4s.
Warblings at Eve, Dawn, and Noon. 4s. each.	Chime again, beautiful Bells. 4s.
The Echo of Lucerne. 4s.	Bells of Aberdovey. 3s.
The Bridge. 3s.	What Are the Wild Waves Saying? 4s.
Her Bright Smile Haunts Me Still. 4s.	Fading Away. 3s.
The Liquid Gem. 4s.	Cherry Ripe. 3s.
The Alpine Horn, 3s.; and the Echoes of Killarney, 3s.	I'll Hang My Harp, and Katherine Mavourneen. 4s. each.
Far on the Deep Blue Sea. 3s.

London: Published only by ROBERT COCKS and Co.

WHEN SUMMER DIES. New Song. By Miss LINDSAY. In C and in D. Published this day. Post-free for 24 stamps each.
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co., New Burlington-street.

CHARLES HALLÉ'S PRACTICAL PIANOFORTE SCHOOL.
Section I.—No. 1. Pianoforte Tutor.
FORSYTH BROTHERS, London and Manchester.

HELLER'S FOURTH SONATA. Op. 143. 8s.
FORSYTH BROTHERS, 272A, Regent-circus, Oxford-street, London; and Cross-street, South King-street, Manchester.

ERARDS' PIANOS.—Messrs. ERARD, of 18, Great Marlborough-street, London, and 13, Rue-de-Mail, Paris, Makers to her Majesty and the Prince and Princess of Wales, CAUTION the public that pianofortes are being sold bearing the name of "Erard" which are not of their manufacture For information as to authenticity apply at 18, Great Marlborough-st., where new Pianos can be obtained from 50 guineas.

ERARDS' PIANOS.—COTTAGES, from 50 guineas.
OBLIQUES, from 85 guineas.
GRANDS, from 125 guineas.

NEW MUSIC.

Just published,

CARMEN. Fantasie Brillante for Pianoforte, by W. KUHE, on this popular Opera. Post-free, 30 stamps.
METZLER and Co., 37, Great Marlborough-street, London, W.

CARMEN. Fantasie Brillante for Pianoforte, by J. LEYBACH, on this popular Opera. Post-free, 24 stamps.
METZLER and Co., 37, Great Marlborough-street, London, W.

CARMEN. Bouquet de Melodies pour Piano. Par RENAUD DE VILBAC. In Two Books. Post-free, 24 stamps each.
METZLER and Co., 37, Great Marlborough-street, London, W.

Now ready,

GRACEFUL DANCE from the Incidental Music to Shakspeare's "Henry VIII." Composed by ARTHUR SULLIVAN. Post-free, 24 stamps.
METZLER and Co., 37, Great Marlborough-street, London, W.

THREE GIFTS. New Song. By J. L. ROECKEL.
Sung by Mr. Barton McGuckin with the greatest success.
Post-free, 24 stamps.
METZLER and Co., 37, Great Marlborough-street, London, W.

A SAILOR'S WOOING. New Song. By J. L. ROECKEL.
For Baritone or Contralto.
Post-free, 24 stamps.
METZLER and Co., 37, Great Marlborough-street, London, W.

H.M.S. "PINAFORE." New Opera by W. S. GILBERT and ARTHUR SULLIVAN. Played nightly at the Opera Comique with the most genuine success. Song, for Voice and Piano, 4s. net, post-free.
METZLER and Co., 37, Great Marlborough-street, London, W.

GARDEN PARTY POLKA. C. GODFREY. Played nightly at the Promenade Concerts, Covent-Garden, with the greatest success. Post-free, 18 stamps.
METZLER and Co., 37, Great Marlborough-street, London, W.

E. DENT and CO., 61, Strand; and 34 and 35 (within), Royal Exchange, London,
Manufacturers of Watches, Chronometers, &c., to her Majesty.
Makers of the great Westminster clock (Big Ben) and of the Standard clock (the primary standard timekeeper of the United Kingdom) of the Royal Observatory, Greenwich.
Catalogues on application.

"THE WORLD has been endowed with one of the greatest blessings in the manufacture of Macniven and Cameron's excellent pens."—Reading Herald.
"They come as a boon and a blessing to men,
The Pickwick, the Owl, and the Waverley Pen."
"They are a treasure."—Standard.
Just out, the HINDOO PENS, Nos. 1, 2, 3.
Patentees: MACNIVEN and CAMERON, 23 to 33, Blair-street, Edinburgh (established 1770), Penmakers to her Majesty's Government Offices.
Sample Box, assorted of all the kinds, 1s. 1d. by post.
Just out, No. 2 WAVERLEY PEN, Large Size.

WEDDING and BIRTHDAY PRESENTS at HENRY RODRIGUES', 42, Piccadilly, London.
Sets for the Boudoir and Writing Table, 21s. to £10.

Envelope Cases	10s. to £5	Dressing Cases	21s. to £50
Inkstands	5s. to £5	Jewel Cases	21s. to £5
Despatch Boxes	21s. to £5	Work-Boxes	10s. 6d. to £2
Writing Cases	10s to £5	Card Trays	21s. to £6

Travelling Bags, Candlesticks, Candelabra, Flower Vases, Jardinieres, and a large and choice Assortment of English, Viennese, and Parisian Useful and Elegant Novelties, from 5s. to £5.

PORTRAIT ALBUMS at RODRIGUES', with Patent Leather Guards, 4s. 6d. to £5. Easel Albums, Scrap Albums, Presentation and Regimental Albums.
Albums of every description made to order.—42, Piccadilly.

MONOGRAMS.—RODRIGUES' Novelties in Monograms, Crests, and Addresses. Steel Dies engraved as gems. Note Paper and Envelopes. Illuminating in gold, silver, bronze, and colours. Coloured stamping, 1s. per 100. All the New and Fashionable Note Papers.—42, Piccadilly.

VISITING CARDS at H. RODRIGUES'. A Card-Plate elegantly engraved and 100 superfine Cards printed for 4s. 6d. Ball Programmes, Bills of Fare, Guest Cards, and Invitations, in every variety.—42, Piccadilly.

CAUTION.—BOND'S CRYSTAL PALACE GOLD MEDAL MARKING INK.—Some Chemists and Stationers, for extra profit, offer you genuine Lalel, "Prepared by the Daughter of the late John Bond."—Works, 75, Southgate-road, London. No heating required.

ROWLANDS' KALYDOR cools and refreshes the face and hands of all exposed to sun and dust; eradicates tan, sunburn, &c., and produces a beautiful complexion. 4s. 6d. per bottle.

ROWLANDS' ODONTO whitens the teeth and prevents decay. ROWLANDS' MACASSAR OIL prevents the hair falling off during hot weather. Ask any Chemist for Rowlands' Articles.

EAU DE CHYPRE.—PIESSE and LUBIN. This is an ancient perfume from Cyprus. During the national career of EGYPT, PERSIA, GREECE, and ROME, the Island of Cyprus was the resort of the elite, learned, and refined. It was at the time of the PHŒNICIANS, when Richard I. of England assumed the title of King of Cyprus, that the famed Eau de Chypre was introduced into Europe, the composition of which we have preserved in the archives of the Laboratory of PIESSE and LUBIN. Those who are curious in ancient perfumes can be gratified at 2, New Bond-street, London.

THOMPSON AND CAPPER'S

DENTIFRICE WATER arrests decay in the Teeth and sweetens the Breath.—55, Bold-street, Liverpool; and at 39, Deansgate, Manchester.—Sold in 1s. 6d., 2s. 6d., 4s. 6d., and 8s. 6d. Bottles, by all Chemists.

THE ONLY SOAP FOR THE COMPLEXION, Making the skin clear, smooth, and lustrous.

WRIGHT'S COAL-TAR SOAP (SAPO CARBONIS DETERGENS).
Highly and extensively recommended for the toilet and in all cases of cutaneous disease by Mr. Jas. Startin, M.R.C.S., Surgeon to St. John's Hospital for Diseases of the Skin, the late Mr. James Startin, M.D., F.R.C.S., of Savile-row, Mr. McCall Anderson, M.D., F.C.P.S., of Woodside-crescent, Glasgow, and the other leading members of the profession. In Tablets, 6d. and 1s., in elegant Toilet-Boxes, of all Chemists. Beware of spurious imitations.—Inventors and Sole Proprietors, W. V. WRIGHT and CO. London.

PEARS' TRANSPARENT SOAP.—Pure, Fragrant, and Durable. Established 80 years. The "Journal of Cutaneous Medicine," edited by Mr. Erasmus Wilson, says:—"Pears'is a name engraven on the memory of the oldest inhabitant, and Pears' Transparent Soap is an article of the nicest and most careful manufacture, and the most agreeable and refreshing balm to the skin." Sold by all Chemists, and by Pears, 91, Great Russell-street, London.

THE SKIN.—To give to it that Smoothness, Sweetness, and Lustrous Elegance indicative of Perfect Health use "THE ALBION MILK AND SULPHUR SOAP." It is elegantly white and purest of all soaps. "It is the most agreeable and elegant preparation for the skin I know."—James Startin, M.R.C.S., Surgeon to St. John's Hospital, London. By all Chemists, in Tablets, 6d. and 1s.—THE ALBION SANATORY SOAP CO., 532, Oxford-street, London. Refuse all substitutes.

DINNEFORD'S MAGNESIA. The best remedy for acidity of the Stomach, Heartburn, Headache, Gout, and Indigestion.

DINNEFORD'S MAGNESIA. The safest and most gentle Aperient for delicate constitutions, Ladies, Children, and Infants
OF ALL CHEMISTS.

A NEVER-FAILING REMEDY for Bilious and Liver Complaints, Indigestion, Wind, Spasms, Giddiness, Dizziness of the Eyes, Habitual Costiveness, &c.—Dr. SCOTT'S BILIOUS and LIVER PILLS, without Mercury, are unequalled. Mild in their operation, they create appetite and strengthen the whole nervous system.—Sold by W. LAMBERT, 1a, Vere-street, London, W., and all Druggists, in Boxes, 1s. 1½d. and 2s. 9d. The genuine are in a square green packet.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' GOLD MEDAL PIANOS are lent on Hire for Three Years, after which time they become the property of the hirers.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' GOLD MEDAL PIANOFORTES were awarded
THE GRAND PRIZE MEDAL AND DIPLOMA OF HONOUR of the Philadelphia Exhibition, 1876.
THE GOLD MEDAL, Paris, 1869.
THE HIGHEST AWARD—THE GRAND DIPLOMA OF HONOUR, Paris, 1874.
LA MEDAILLE D'HONNEUR, Paris, 1867.
THE PRIZE MEDAL, London, 1862.
LE DIPLOME DE LA MENTION EXTRAORDINAIRE, Netherlands International Exhibition, 1869.
THE GOLD MEDAL AND DIPLOMA OF MERIT, South Africa, 1877, &c.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' PERFECT CHECK REPEATER ACTION PIANOS, Patented 1862, 1868, 1871, and 1875, in

GREAT BRITAIN,	AUSTRIA,
PRUSSIA,	ITALY, BELGIUM, and
FRANCE,	AMERICA.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' GOLD MEDAL PIANOS, With the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action.
"This most ingenious and valuable invention cannot fail to meet with success."—Sir Julius Benedict.
"The touch is absolute perfection."—Sydney Smith.
"A very clever and useful invention, and likely to be extensively adopted."—Brinley Richards.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' GOLD MEDAL PIANOS.
"The tone is full, melodious, and of extraordinary power. The touch is extremely delicate, and the repetition is excellent."—The Chevalier Antoine de Kontski, Court Pianist to the Emperor of Germany.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' GOLD MEDAL PIANOS, with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action.
"The nearest approach to perfection of 'manual expression' yet attained."—Examiner.
"The tone of the grand now referred to possessed all the qualities that a good piano ought to have, and in touch and action was perfect. The sweet and silvery quality of the upper octaves was worthy of special admiration."—The Era.
"Sir Julius Benedict played on one of Messrs. John Brinsmead and Sons' grand pianos, with the recently patented improvements, which enabled him to produce sustained tones with great variety of effect in the light and shade of tones, especially so when extreme delicacy of touch was required."—Court Journal.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' SHORT IRON GRAND PIANOS, with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action.
"An immense improvement in arpeggios. The rapid passages in the upper register, the beautiful flutelike tone, and quick and perfect repetition were very effective."—Figaro.
"Sir Julius Benedict, now seldom heard as a soloist, delighted the public once more. He played upon a new Patent Grand by Brinsmead, possessing a remarkably loud and clear tone."—Echo.
"The upright Iron Grand Piano, with sostenente sounding-board, produces the obvious result of a fuller and richer tone."—Morning Advertiser.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' SHORT IRON GRAND PIANOS.
"The improvements made in English pianos have caused this trade rapidly to increase, until one pianoforte manufactory after another has been built to supply the growing demand. One of the largest of these, lately erected by Messrs. John Brinsmead and Sons, of Wigmore-street, covers nearly an acre of ground in the Grafton-road, Kentish Town, and is intended to accommodate 300 workmen. These works alone can supply 3000 pianos annually."—Illustrated London News.

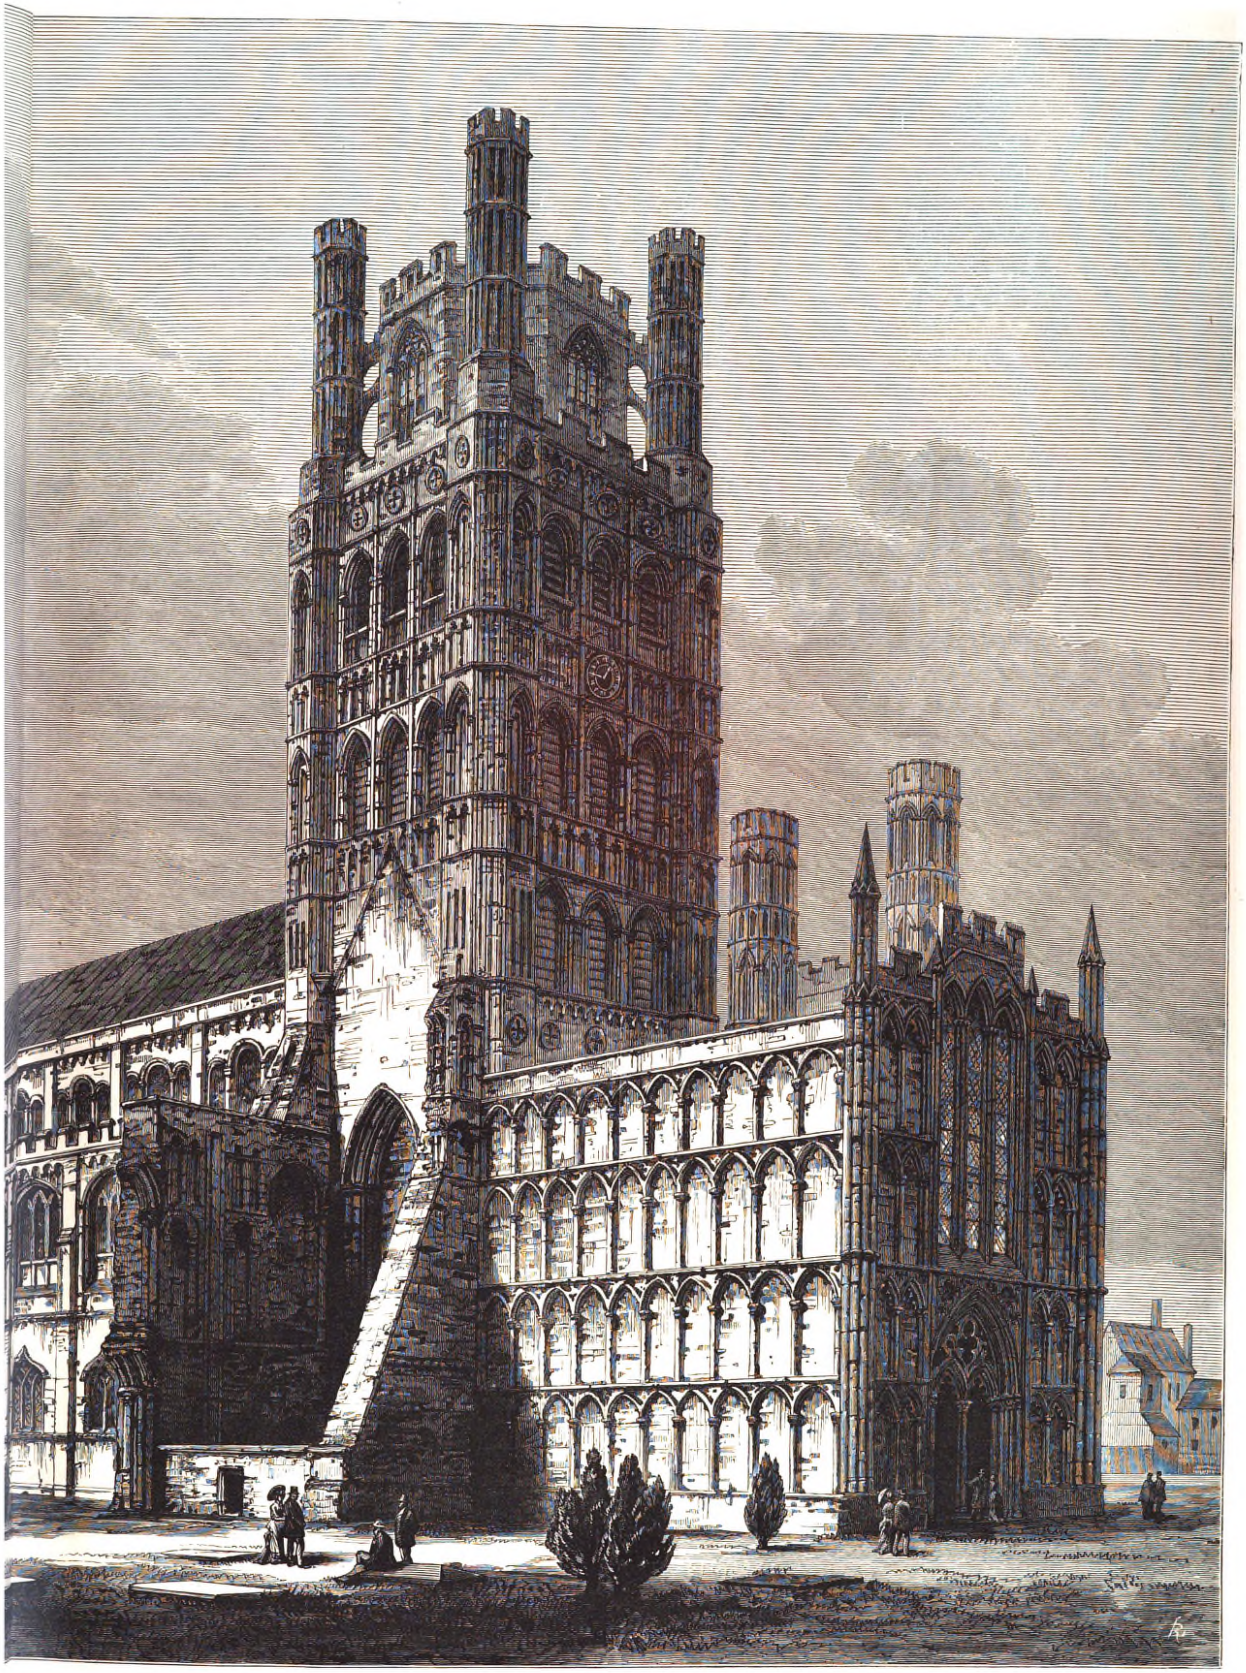
JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' GOLD MEDAL PIANOS, with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action.
"A metal bridge of a peculiar form is used to produce the treble, and a much finer tone is elicited than if a wooden bridge were used."—Morning Post.
"Beautifully light and elastic touch, and an instant repetition."—Globe.
"This invention is simplicity itself."—The Queen.
"Receive the greatest approbation everywhere of musicians and manufacturers."—The Standard.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' PATENT "PERFECT CHECK REPEATER ACTION." Pianofortes of every description manufactured expressly for India and extreme climates.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' GOLD MEDAL PIANOFORTES may be obtained from all the principal Musicsellers throughout the World.
Prices from 35 guineas to 330 guineas.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' GOLD MEDAL PIANOS are lent on Hire for Three Years, after which payments they become the property of the hirers.

GILBERT L. BAUER'S PRIZE MEDAL ORGAN-VOICED ENGLISH HARMONIUMS on the Three-Years' System.



JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' PIANOFORTES.
Illustrated Price-Lists and Descriptions, with opinions of the London Press and Musical Profession, forwarded, post-free, upon application.
18, WIGMORE-STREET, LONDON, W.

MANUFACTORY:
THE "BRINSMEAD WORKS" GRAFTON-ROAD, KENTISH TOWN, N.W.

LONDON: Printed and Published at the Office, 198, Strand, in the Parish of St. Clement Danes, in the County of Middlesex, by GEORGE G. LEIGHTON, 198, Strand, aforesaid.—SATURDAY, AUGUST 31, 1878.

ELY CA

THEDRAL.

THE SHAKERS' ENCAMPMENT AT HORDLE, NEAR LYMINGTON, HAMPSHIRE: SCENE IN VAGS LANE.

THE SHAKERS' ENCAMPMENT AT HORDLE, NEAR LYMINGTON, HAMPSHIRE: DWELLINGS OF THE FAMILIES.

THE SHAKERS IN HAMPSHIRE.

The extraordinary sect of religious enthusiasts, following the prophetic leadership of Mrs. Mary Ann Girling, who have been living together in a strange community near Lymington for several years past, have again got into trouble. These misguided people, whose theological notions may be innocent enough, went into the country from Walworth six or seven years ago. They unhappily make it a point of conscience not to pay rent to unbelievers, but have attempted to "squat," without permission, on land belonging to private owners. They have been evicted by due process of law, and have since been dwelling at the hedge-side in "Vags Lane," in the parish of Hordle, which is a seacoast village between Lymington and Christchurch, and five miles south-west of Lymington. On Saturday last Mrs. Girling, as the acknowledged responsible head of the community, appeared before the magistrates at Lymington, with Mr. Henry Osborne, one of the elders, to answer a complaint made by the local inspector of the Hants Constabulary, who charged her with obstructing the highway in Vags-lane with a quantity of furniture. It seems that the household goods, which the Shakers formerly kept in the huts they had built for themselves in the adjoining field, were removed by the Sheriff's officer not long ago, when they were ejected from the field, a small piece of two or three acres, for not paying rent to the landlord. They were forbidden by their religious persuasion to enter into any legal engagement for the occupation of other ground or houses, so they have since been living in the manner of gipsies, but without any tents or roof of any kind. They will neither buy nor sell, and have subsisted for years on the casual gifts of visitors, in addition to what little food they could produce from the soil by their own labour. It is said, indeed, that Mrs. Girling has been in possession of a sufficient amount of money, from the property given up by several members of her flock, small tradesmen and farmers, in accordance with the rules of their conventual society. No children are with them, and the men and women live in strict celibacy without any scandal. The Lymington magistrates adjourned the case to that day week (this present Saturday), admonishing Mrs. Girling to clear away the things, and to find proper lodgings for her people, under penalties of the Highway Act and the Vagrant Act. Our Artist has visited Hordle to make the two Sketches from which two Illustrations are prepared. The scene in Vag's-lane is wretched, as well as absurdly strange; the roadside margin of grass and ditch, on either hand, for a length of one hundred yards, is covered with chairs and tables, beds, chests of drawers, sofas, and other furniture, arranged as best it can be to form a little shelter for each of these miserable family parties, with blankets, counterpanes, and shawls, to screen them from wind and rain. Mrs. Girling herself contrives to dress neatly, and there is nothing very peculiar in her appearance; but some of the poor women, though hitherto of decent character, have got into a very untidy condition. There are many able-bodied men amongst them; but none will work for wages, which have been offered them in harvest-time, nor will they take parish relief. It is expected, however, that necessity will soon oblige the Shakers to do what other people do, more or less without sin, and this queer delusion will come to an end. The celebrated community of Shakers at Mount Lebanon, in America have no such fancies, but simply abstain from marriage, and hold all property in common stock.

THE BRITISH OCCUPATION OF CYPRUS.

(From our Special Artist and Correspondent.)

LARNACA, Aug. 8.

The despatch-boat Salamis, with his Royal Highness the Duke of Edinburgh, Captain of the Black Prince, on board, sailed yesterday for Brindisi. General Ross, who came to Malta in command of the Indian contingent, also left in the Salamis on a month's leave in England. The absence of his Royal Highness here will be much regretted, as he had made himself very popular both ashore and afloat. The London newspapers which arrived here last contained the speech of Mr. Anderson,

The Spelling of the Austrian Staff.
Map has been retained. C to be sounded = tz, é = j, č = ch, š = sh, ž = zh, j = y.
Austrian Lines of March.
Engagements.
0 10 20 30 40 Miles
BOSNIA
HERZEGOVINA
MONTENEGRO
SERVIA
CROATIA
HUNGARY
SERAJEVO
Banjaluka
Mostar
Trebinje
Ragusa
Old Ragusa
Cattaro
Cetinje
Podgurica
NOVI BAZAR
Metkovic
Gradiska
Brood
Dervent
Doboj
Maglaj
Zepče
Zenica
Travnik
Jaice
Jezero
Skoplje
Kladanj
Tuzla
Zvornik
Ljubovija
Mitrovic
Semlin
Belgrad
Panesova
Ruma
Neusatz
Titel
Karlovic
Petrovaradin
Karlovac
Sisak
Josefstadt
Agram
Fiume
Zara
Sebenico
Spalato
Almissa
Brazza
Lissa
Curzola
Sabbioncello
Ragusa
Gravosa
Stolac
Nevesinje
Gacko
Foca
Visegrad
Rogatica
Olovo
Vlasenica
Srbrenica
Milanovac
Uzice
Pozega
Cacak
Ivanjica
Novi Varos
Prepolje
Sjenica
Bjelopolje
Berane
Kolasin
Kozaj
Pec
Plava
Gusinje
Spuz
Podgorica
Niksic
Piva
Krstac
Bilek
Trebinje
Ljubinje
Stolac
Mostar
Metkovic
Opuzen
Narenta
Klek
Stagno
Melada
Sutorina
Castelnuovo
Cattaro
Cetinje
Budua
Antivari
Dulcigno
Scutari
Spalato
Sinj
Livno
Prozor
Kreševo
Fojnica
Visoka
Busovaca
Han Bila
Vitez
Travnik
Jaice
Jezero
Varcar Vakuf
Skender Vakuf
Kotor
Teslic
Doboj
Dervent
Brood
Gradiska
Dubica
Kozarac
Prijedor
Prnjavor
Kotorsko
Gracanica
Tuzla
Brcka
Bjelina
Janja
Sabac
Loznica
Krupanj
Valjevo
Mijonica
Dadovica
Obrenovac
Grocka
Semlin
Racha
Mitrovic
Ruma
Neusatz
Titel
Karlovic
Petrovaradin
Vukovar
Brod
Virovitica
Djakovo
Josefstadt
Agram
Karlovac
Sisak
Petrinja
Glina
Dvor
Hrustjanica
Grgurevac
Kostajnica
Novi
Kozara Mts.
Berbir
Kobas
Mladic
Gradacac
Orasje
Samac
Bosut
Danube
Save Una
Sana
Unac
Vrbas
Ukrina
Bosna
Drina
Lim
Ibar
Morava
Karanovac
Ovcar
Kablar
Rasina
Rzava
Ljubovija
Zvornik
Krupanj
Valjevo
Mijonica
Dadovica
Obrenovac
Grocka
Semlin
Belgrad
Panesova

mountains near Paphos (Baffo), as soon as a site has been selected for the wooden huts which have been ordered from England, and which, indeed, ought to be on their way out here by this time. Here, in these elevated regions, about 2000 ft. above sea-level, the main body of European troops might be quartered, at all events during the summer months and during the season when fever is prevalent on the lower plains, on the same plan as the troops in Jamaica are mostly kept up at Newcastle, on the high ground. The intended station, in all probability, will be formed in the direction of Melia, Phyti, and Panaia, in the neighbourhood of the large monastery of Grisovoghiatissa. It will form an excellent sanatorium, both for soldiers and for the sailors of the Mediterranean squadron, as well as for our garrisons at Malta and Gibraltar, where the troops suffer from the insupportable heat from July to September. The change of quarters will be most beneficial after the monotonous routine of garrison duty; and Cyprus will doubtless soon be looked upon as a favourite quarter, as Corfu was once similarly regarded. Game laws are at once to be instituted; the hunting will be first rate across the wide Messarian plains, and we shall see the wooded slopes of west and north Cyprus dotted with villas, and resorted to by invalids during the winter months, in preference to Nice, Monaco, Mentone, or even Algiers. A fashionable watering-place will soon spring up, and with a garrison of three crack regiments, and a numerous English official staff of civilians as well as military, prosperity of a certain description may certainly be predicted for Cyprus.

To the soft Cyprian shores the goddess moves
To visit Paphos and her blooming groves,
Where to the Power a hundred altars rise
And breathing odours scent the balmy skies;
Concealed she bathes in consecrated bowers,
The Graces unguents shed, ambrosial showers,
Unguents that charm the gods! She last assumes
Her wondrous robes; and full the goddess blooms.

The mail from this place closes almost directly, and therefore we must send off at once, not to lose an opportunity.

S. P. O.

ASTRONOMICAL OCCURRENCES IN SEPTEMBER.

(From the "Illustrated London Almanack.")

The Moon is near Jupiter during the evening hours of the 6th and 7th, being situated to the right of the planet on the former and to the left on the latter evening. She is near Saturn during the evening hours of the 12th and morning hours of the 13th; the nearest approach will be about 9h. p.m. on the 12th, when the planet will be a little below the Moon. She is near Mercury and Venus on the morning of the 25th, and near Mars on the 26th. Her phases or times of change are:—

First Quarter	on the	3rd	at 26 minutes after	8h.	in the afternoon.
Full Moon	„	11th	„ 49 „	3	„ afternoon.
Last Quarter	„	19th	„ 30 „	6	„ afternoon.
New Moon	„	26th	„ 10 „	2	„ afternoon.

She is nearest the Earth on the afternoon of the 26th, and most distant from it on the afternoon of the 13th.

Mercury rises at about the time of sunrise on the 11th; on the 13th he rises at 5h. 5m. a.m., or 27 minutes before sunrise; on the 18th at 4h. 26m. a.m., or 1h. 14m. before the Sun; on the 23rd at 4h. 9m. a.m., or 1h. 39m. before sunrise; on the 28th at 4h. 14m. a.m., or 1h. 42m. before the Sun. He is near Mars on the 7th, in inferior conjunction with the Sun on the 10th, stationary among the stars on the 18th, in his ascending node on the 21st, near Venus on the 25th, and again on the last day; near the Moon on the 25th, at his greatest western elongation (17 deg. 50 min.) on the 26th, and (the fourth time this year) at his least distance from the Sun on the same day.

Venus is still a morning star, rising 2h. 12m. before sunrise on the 8th, 1h. 55m. before the Sun on the 18th, and 1h. 40m. before sunrise on the 28th; the planet rising on these days at 3h. 13m. a.m., 3h. 45m. a.m., and 4h. 16m. a.m. respectively. She is due south on the 1st at 10h. 28m. a.m., on the 15th at 10h. 40m. a.m., and on the last day at 10h. 51m. a.m. She is at her least distance from the Sun on the 19th, and near the Moon on the 25th.

Mars sets on the 8th at 6h. 42m. p.m., or 13 minutes after sunset; on the 18th at 6h. 14m. p.m., or 7 minutes after sunset; on the 28th he sets at sunset, and sets in daylight from this day till the end of the year. He rises with the Sun on the 17th, and 20 minutes before sunrise on the 28th. He is due south on the 1st at 0h. 22m. p.m., on the 15th at noon, and on the last day at 11h. 37m. a.m. He is in conjunction with the Sun on the 18th, and near the Moon on the 26th.

Jupiter sets on the 1st at 1h. 29m. a.m., on the 9th at 0h. 56m. a.m., on the 19th at 0h. 15m. a.m., on the 28th at 11h. 36m. p.m., and on the last day at 11h. 24m. p.m. He is due south on the 1st at 9h. 18m. p.m., on the 11th at 8h. 36m. p.m., on the 21st at 7h. 56m. p.m., and on the last day at 7h. 21m. p.m. He is near the Moon on the 7th, and stationary among the stars on the 23rd.

Saturn rises on the 7th at 7h. 5m. p.m., or 33 minutes after sunset; on the 17th at 6h. 25m. p.m., or 15 minutes after sunset; on the 25th the planet rises at sunset, and from this day till the end of the year he rises in daylight. He sets on the 23rd at sunrise, and at 5h. 20m. a.m., or 38 minutes before sunrise, on the 29th. He is due south on the 1st at 1h. 28m. a.m., on the 11th at 0h. 46m. a.m., on the 21st at 0h. 4m. a.m., and on the last day at 11h. 22m. p.m. He is near the Moon on the 12th, and in opposition to the Sun on the 22nd.

A fire which broke out at the house of Mr. Dennison, a confectioner, near St. Martin's-lane, Birmingham, on Monday night, resulted in the death of Mrs. Dennison, her child, her sister, and a servant. The fire-escape caught fire when attempts were being made to rescue Mrs. Dennison, and she remained shrieking at the window for assistance, ultimately falling head-foremost on the pavement. Her child, which was accidentally let fall as it was being brought down the escape, died shortly afterwards. The bodies of Mrs. Dennison's sister and the servant were found after the fire was extinguished. Mr. Dennison was the only person saved in the house; he jumped on to a high ladder which was placed against the house before the escape arrived.

About two months ago a youth named William Hughes, while bathing in the canal at Winson-green, near Birmingham, got out of his depth and sank into the mud. None of the spectators of his struggles had the courage to go to his assistance, till a youth named Reuben Saunders came up, plunged into the water, and with great difficulty succeeded in rescuing the drowning lad, who was then in an unconscious state. Lieutenant Carter, master of the Birmingham Workhouse, to which the rescued lad was removed, having communicated the circumstances to the Royal Humane Society, had the satisfaction of receiving for presentation to Saunders the society's certificate for bravery. The presentation, which was made on Monday with unusual honours, in presence of the schoolboys of the workhouse, was accompanied by a gift of money subscribed on the ground.

THEATRES.

STRAND.

This theatre has become very miscellaneous in character, and showed distinguishable signs of a period of transition previous to the commencement of a new season, under the temporary management of Messrs. Walter Joyce and Arthur Swanborough, which began on Monday. The previous week had witnessed the production of two pieces, one of them new, both successful, but not yet repeated — "Our Accomplished Domestic" and "Love Wins." These pieces are clever. The first has been arranged for the stage by E. Dale, Esq., and exhibits the versatility of two sisters, of the age of twelve and nine, named Miss Jessie Sinclair and Miss Sallie Sinclair (the daughters of Mr. Henry Sinclair, the actor)—the latter a danseuse of considerable ability, who simulates different characters, and performs a variety of Terpsichorean feats in illustration of the dialogue. The second piece is a revived comedy-drama, in three acts, by Messrs. Savile Clarke and the late Du Terreaux, in which Mr. Charles Collette appears as Professor Lobelia, an ex-circus proprietor. A confirmed drunkard, this worthy has sold his daughter for a certain annuity to a rich man, who has her educated with a view of making her his wife. His son, however, Arthur Dalton (Mr. Caen), falls in love with the damsel, and incurs thereby his father's resentment. Compelled to work at his art for a living, he paints a picture of the young lady careering on a bare-backed steed round a crowded circus. Mr. Dalton, sen., becomes the purchaser of the painting, a circumstance that leads to a general reconciliation. The professor, too, becomes a total abstainer; and thus the curtain falls on the probable happiness of all parties. There is, also, a fantastic part, the Hon. Tom Leverton, well acted by Mr. A. M. Denison, which deserves commendation. On Monday the new season was inaugurated by two revivals of dramas almost forgotten from lapse of time, but worthy to be remembered. "An Ambassador from Below," by the late Robert Brough and Sutherland Edwardes, and the three-act comedy of "Love or Money," by the late Mr. Andrew Halliday. These were preceded by Mr. T. J. Williams's farce of "Peace and Quiet." This clever, but noisy farce was vigorously enacted, by Mr. Cecil Murray as Mr. Smashington Goit, Mr. J. Day as Mr. Twitterly Fluttersome, and Mr. J. G. Bauer as Mr. Jonas Closefist. The ladies, also, were well represented, Mrs. Fluttersome by Miss C. Harvey, Clara by Miss Helen Stuart, and Helen by Miss Verner. The Brough-Edwardes Musical extravaganza then followed. In this Mephistophiles is a leading part, and was satisfactorily represented by Miss Hetty Tracey. But the burden of the most important rôle rested on Mr. George Honey, that of the Marquis de Brancador (his original character), and this he supported with his usual nonchalance and irresistible humour. The scene between him and Honesta, the Marchioness (Miss L. Gourlay), was capitally acted. The gardener's wife, Fiametta, and her husband, Pepito, were admirably represented by Miss L. Telbin and Miss Verner. The incidental music was effectively rendered. So much well done was sufficient to predispose the audience to appreciate the three-act drama that followed. "Love or Money" is indeed powerfully sustained. First and foremost is Mr. George Honey again, as Major Buncombe, a part full of opportunities for the special kind of fun in which the artist naturally delights. Mrs. Buncombe likewise is characteristically interpreted by Miss Caroline Harvey. This impecunious couple are of that astute order of parents who build their hopes on marriageable daughters, and succeed in obtaining suitable husbands. One of the latter is apparently rich, but really a needy speculator, and the other a worthy individual in the situation of clerk to a firm in which he subsequently becomes a partner. The contrast of the two households is strikingly delineated—the false splendour of the one and the substantial comfort of the other. The two daughters were skilfully discriminated by Miss L. Telbin as Clarissa and Miss Louisa Gourlay as Jemima. Miss Hetty Tracey did the brilliant as Mrs. Darlington, and really shed a lustre on the scenes in which she so prominently assisted. In these revivals the scenery has been well cared for; and the ostensible wealth of Alfred Skimmington's mansion is elaborately indicated in the stage arrangements and accessories. It may be mentioned that the acting manager for Mr. Honey is Mr. George Keogh. Probably it is intended, after this intercallary season is over, to give another chance to Mr. Dale and the Sinclairs, as also to Messrs. Clarke and De Terreaux, in connection with Mr. Charles Collette and his talented associates. We shall be glad to make Mrs. Leigh Murray's acquaintance again as Mrs. Hirst. Altogether, we do not see that a period of transition could have been better occupied.

GAIETY.

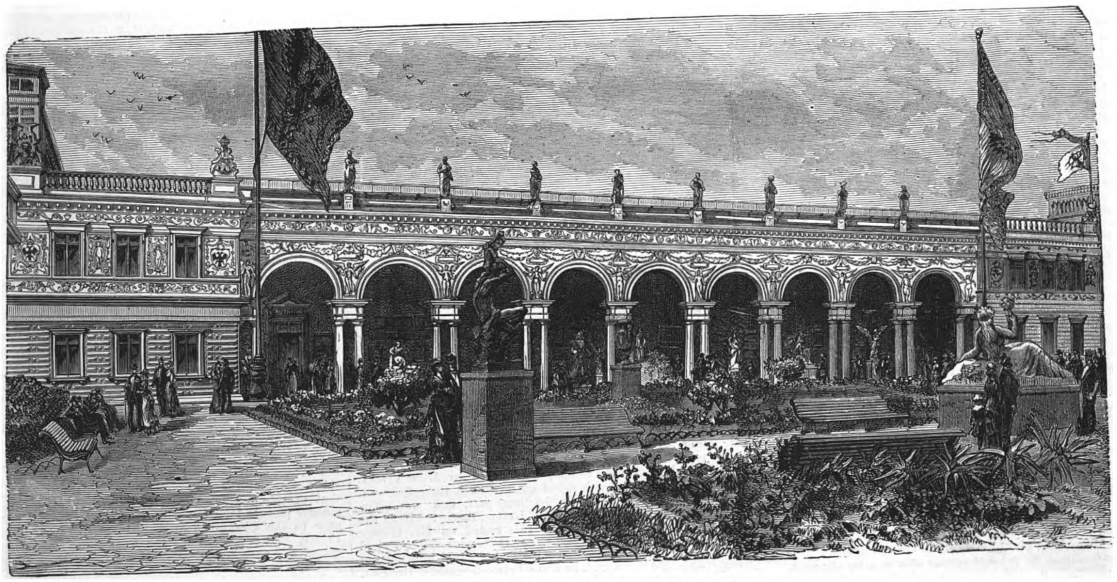
At length the famous "Jeames" of Mr. Thackeray has obtained a stage representative. Mr. Burnand has written a four-act comedy on the subject of "the diary;" and Mr. Terry has impersonated the fortunate footman to the very life. We have here the conceited James Blodder in all phases of his character and history. He is first located (that is, in the play) in Mayfair, where he is tempted to dabble in shares connected, according to the same authority, with the "Ellen Mine," and succeeds so far that he begins to forget his family relations and early love, and aspires to an aristocratic union with the Lady Angelina. The change, however, at last comes; and, lo! the upstart parvenu is reduced to his original level. The dramatist represents this catastrophe as a moral benefit to the man. Mr. Terry fully enters into the spirit of the portraiture, and gives an actual individual, readily to be identified, whether on or off the stage. Miss E. Farren also comes in for her share of commendation as Mary Ann, the maid-servant. In other respects the play is very efficiently cast, and its performance will probably long continue to be gratifying to the players and the public. The burlesque of "Little Doctor Faust" continues its triumphant career, which has now lasted more than 170 nights.

Miss Glyn has been reading at Margate, assisted by her pupil, Miss Annie Baldwin (Mrs. Raisbeck Robinson), we hope with success. On Wednesday Miss Baldwin gave the principal scenes of Rosalind in "As You Like It;" and Miss Glyn read from "The Merchant of Venice," and also from Ophelia's mad scenes and the Gravedigger's scene in "Hamlet." On Friday Miss Baldwin recited "The Wreck of the Hesperus" and "The Charge of the Light Brigade," Miss Glyn reading "Macbeth." On Tuesday next they will appear together at Ramsgate. We may here record that Miss Glyn prepares pupils for the stage.

In the new Metropolis Management and Building Act there are some regulations as to theatres and music-halls of an important character, both in reference to existing and new establishments. It is recited in the preamble that, with a view to protect the public frequenting theatres and music-halls within the metropolis from danger by fire, it is expedient that provisions should be made to empower the Metropolitan Board of Works to cause alterations in existing theatres and music-halls, and to make regulations with respect to the position and structure of new theatres and music-halls. The Act provides that, whenever it appears to the board that theatres and music-halls containing a superficial area of not less than 500 square feet, which at the time of the passing of the Act are so defective in their structure that special danger from fire may result to the public frequenting the same, then and in every such case the board may, with the consent of the Lord Chamberlain in the case of theatres under his jurisdiction, or of the Secretary of State in all other cases, if, in the opinion of the Board, such structural defects can be remedied at a moderate expenditure, by notice in writing, require the owners to make such alterations as may be necessary in a reasonable time, and, if the owner fails, to impose a penalty not exceeding £50, and £5 a day while the default continues. The owner, within fourteen days, may give notice of appeal, and the First Commissioner of Works is to appoint an arbitrator, whose decision is to be final. With regard to new theatres and other public establishments for entertainments, the places are to be constructed to protect the public from the danger of fire, and also the neighbourhood, with heavy penalties for non-compliance. Such places are not to be open until a certificate is obtained, and all such buildings are to be inspected by the officers of the board.

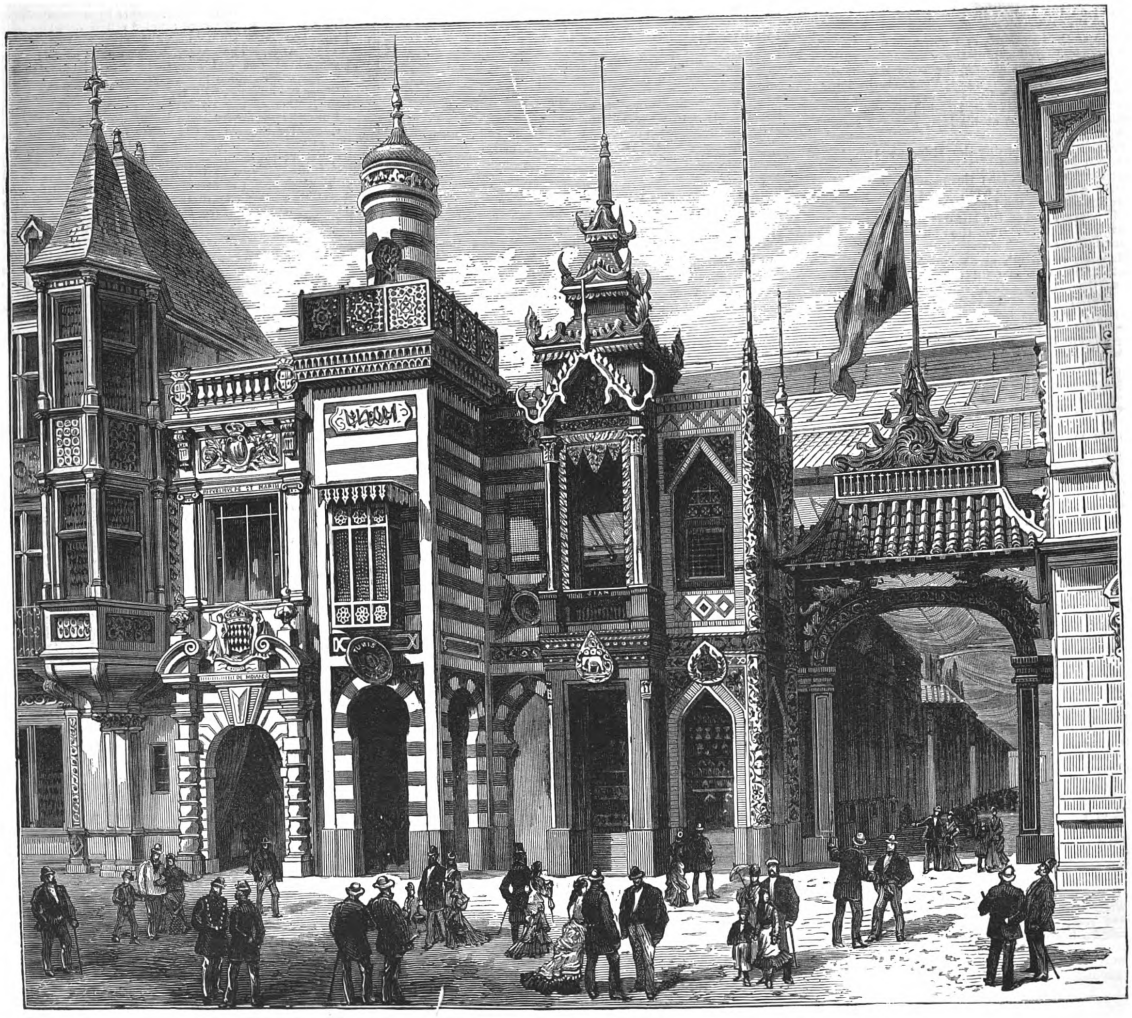
THE PARIS EXHIBITION.

Our Illustrations this week represent the exterior of the Tunisian, Egyptian, and Swedish pavilions, adjacent to each other, in the Trocadéro Park; the outside and inside of the Monaco pavilion, likewise in the Trocadéro Park; the façade of the Austrian Section, in the Avenue of Nations, which is the central avenue of the Exhibition Palace in the Champ de Mars; and the entrances to the Persian and Siamese Sections, that of Annam, in Cochin China, and those of the petty Principality of Monaco and the petty Italian Republic of San Marino, in the same avenue of the Exhibition Palace. The Tunisian and Swedish buildings have been described upon former occasions. The Egyptian, on the west side of the Trocadéro, is a structure of two huge pyramidal blocks, with truncated summits, connected by a gallery, beneath which is the ponderous-looking doorway; the side walls have no windows, but the back wall, in its upper part, has a wide bay, opening to the south, and overlooking the Seine and the Champ de Mars. The only decoration is that of coloured bands and miniature colonnades on the massive piers to the right and left of the entrance. Passing over to the Champ de Mars, and entering the Exhibition Palace, as we proceed up the Central Avenue, where the entrance to each nation's particular location is adorned with a façade, often exemplifying its peculiar style or fashion of architecture, the Austro-Hungarian façade commands our attention. It has no pretensions, indeed, to be especially characteristic of the architecture of Austria or Hungary, but it is an elegant, graceful, and appropriate front, consisting of two equal square blocks, one for each division of the two-fold Monarchy, built of stone, having two storeys with a balustrade on the top, connected together by an arcade or portico of nine arches, supported on coupled pillars of white stone; and the arcade is surmounted by allegorical statues of the Fine Arts. The Austrian Imperial standard is displayed at one end and that of the Hungarian Kingdom at the other, which has a certain political significance. The group of buildings, with very narrow frontage to each, shown in another of our Engravings, requires a few words to distinguish one part from the other. Beginning at the left-hand side of the Engraving, the reader is to observe that here are the three smallest of the European States, apparently under one roof; the arched door, with an heraldic escutcheon above it, is the entrance to the Monaco section of the Exhibition; the window of the first-floor room overhead belongs to San Marino, a little city in the Apennines, whose civic commonwealth, existing since the Middle Ages, has not yet been absorbed by the kingdom of Italy; and the still independent Republic of Andorre, on the south side of the Pyrenees, has likewise a place in the upper storey. Next to this comes the Tunisian portal, with its narrow Saracenic arches, its first-floor window protected by a screened balcony of carved woodwork, a decorated frieze at the top, and a circular turret above all; the whole coloured in alternate wide horizontal bands of red and black. The Siamese front may be recognised by its heart-shaped escutcheon, displaying a white elephant, over the door, and by the triple pagoda roof. The Persian slip of building at the corner, with its pointed angular arch, above and below, and its delicate arabesque ornamentation, is next observed. The wide and lofty triumphal arch to the right hand, with its winged dragons and the flag above, appertains to the Eastern Asiatic kingdom of Annam, which borders on the French colony in Cochin China.



The longest Act passed in the recent Session was to consolidate and amend the law relating to public health in Ireland. There are 294 clauses in the statute, and several schedules extending to thirty-four sheets. The Act is divided into several parts, and treats on sanitary matters and infectious diseases. Among the penalties is one of £10 for any person having a "wake" over a person dying of an infectious disorder.

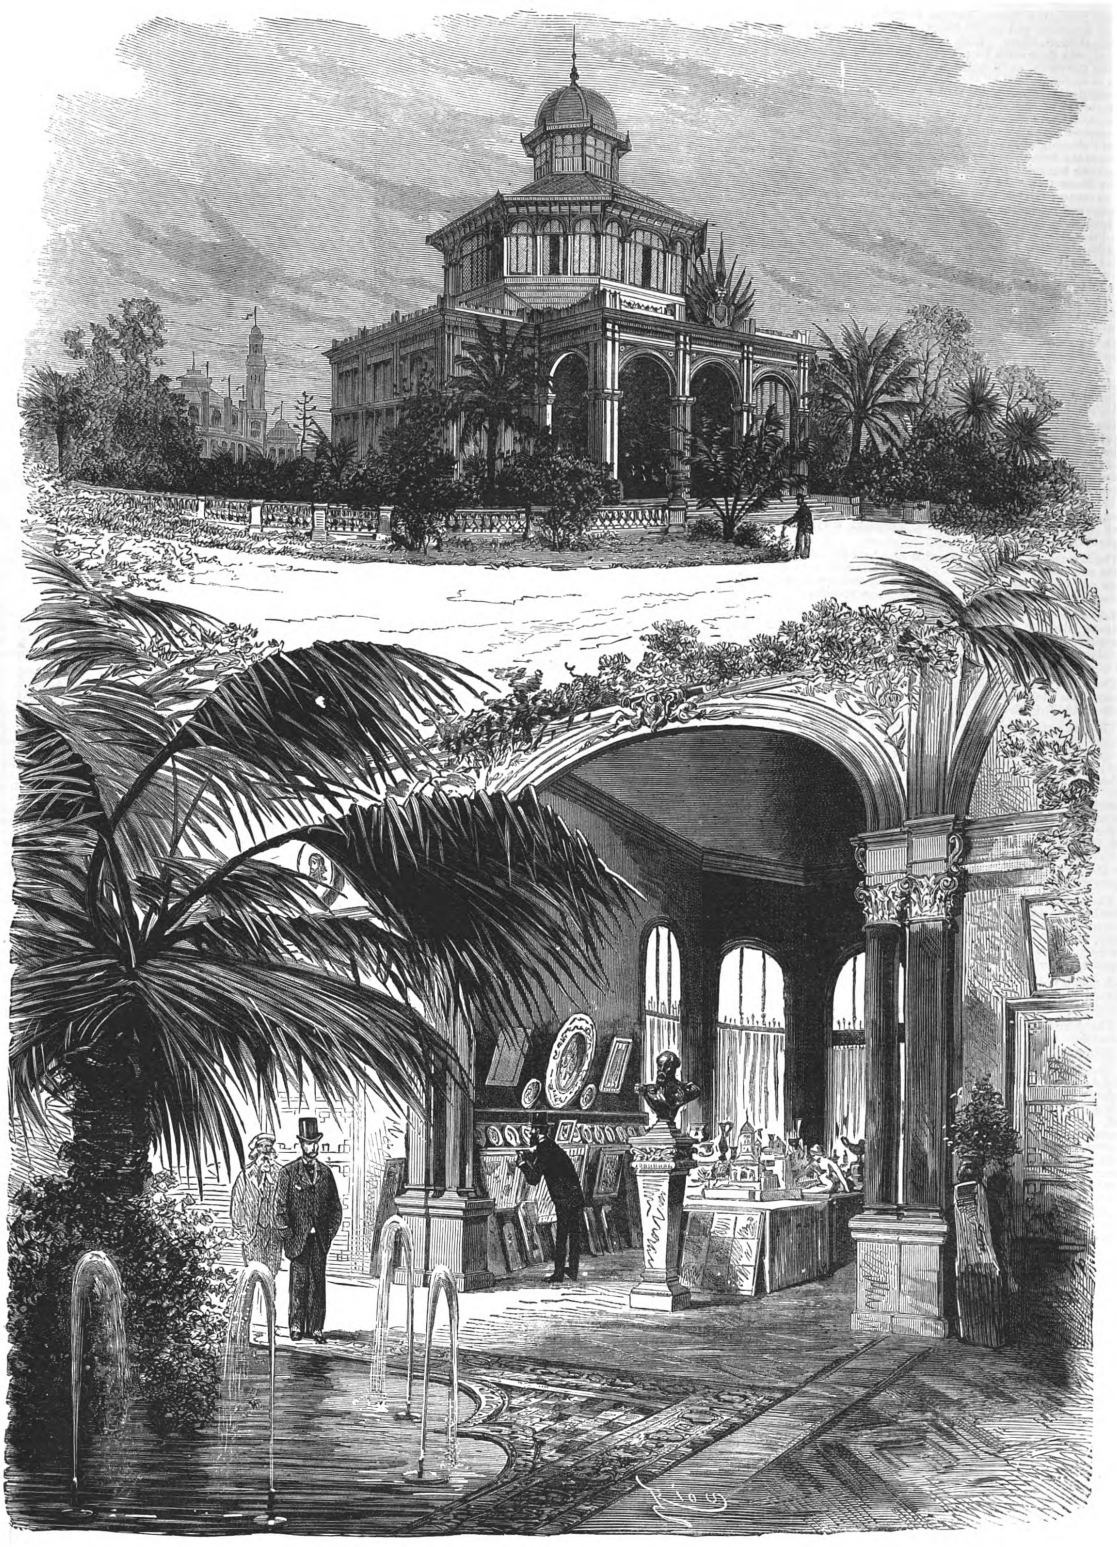
At a meeting of the Corporation of Worcester on Monday a resolution was discussed for opposing the project of the Liverpool Corporation to supply their town with water from the Vernier, a tributary of the Severn, on the ground that the diversion of the stream would jeopardise the navigation of the river. After long argument, an amendment was carried adjourning the further consideration of the question to enable the Corporation to obtain the opinion of the engineer of the Severn Navigation Commission on the matter.



An extraordinary general meeting of the British Medical Association was held at Birmingham on Tuesday. Dr. Falconer, of Bath, the president of the association, occupied the chair, and there were, besides many local medical gentlemen, representatives from Sheffield, Warwick, Croydon, and other parts. The object of the meeting was to confirm a resolution passed at a general meeting of the association held at Bath on the 8th inst., to the effect that no female shall be eligible for election as a member of the association. The resolution was unanimously confirmed, on the motion of Dr. Wade, seconded by Dr. De Bartolomé.

Within this year the Missions to Seamen Society, Buckingham-street, Strand, have distributed 80,977 secondhand books, magazines, and pictorial periodicals amongst merchant-ships, for the use of their crews when going to sea. This large number of disused books was sent to the secretary's offices by benevolent ladies and gentlemen, and it included many thousand numbers of the Illustrated London News, 2801 bibles and prayer-books, and 9003 hymn-books, very useful for services at sea. The supply is now exhausted, and fifty-eight hon. chaplains and fifty-five chaplains and readers, working afloat in forty-three harbours and roadsteads, solicit a further supply through the medium of the institution.

THE PARIS INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION.



FAÇADE OF THE AUSTRIAN SECTION, AVENUE OF NATIONS.

THE PERSIAN, SIAMESE, ANNAM, MONACO, AND SAN MARINO SECTIONS, AVENUE OF NATIONS.

THE PARIS INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION.

THE MONACO PAVILION, IN THE TROCADÉRO PARK: EXTERIOR AND INTERIOR.

THE VOLUNTEERS.

A rifle-match which annually creates a large amount of interest among the metropolitan volunteers, for the handsome trophy, value fifty guineas, presented by Mr. Holms, M.P. for Hackney, to the battalions in the borough which the hon. gentleman represents in Parliament, came off last Saturday at the Rainham ranges, in Essex. The representative teams of the battalions entitled to compete were the 1st Administrative Battalion Tower Hamlets, commanded by Colonel Sir Fowell Buxton, Bart., the Tower Hamlets Brigade, commanded by Colonel Mapleson, and the 9th Essex (Silvertown), commanded by Colonel W. S. Silver. Each battalion was represented by ten men, who fired seven rounds at each of the ranges of 200, 500, and 600 yards, at Wimbledon 1878 targets. The match began at eleven o'clock at the 200 yards' range, under most depressing circumstances, the targets, owing to the heavy rain, being, instead of white and showing the rings clearly, almost obscured. Here, however, the Brigade was credited with the total score of 263 at this range, where they led the 1st Administrative Battalion by 26 points, and the 9th Essex by 53. At 500 yards the Brigade still further increased their lead, adding 237 to their fine score, as against 206 by the Battalion and 214 by the Essex men. At the final range the Essex men tried hard to retrieve the loss they had incurred at the two previous distances and retain the custody of the trophy, which they had held since last year; and the result was that the Essex battalion outdistanced the Brigade by 30 points, and the 1st Administrative Battalion by 40 points, the respective totals being 189, 159, and 149. Notwithstanding this effort, however, of the Essex team, the good average shooting at the first two ranges of the Brigade stood them the best, and they came in the winners by 19 points, scoring 659 to 640 points by the Silvertown corps, and 565 by the Administrative Battalion.

At the prize-meeting of the Tower Hamlets Brigade, at Ilford last week, the chief winners were:—£10, Private Adams; £8, Sergeant G. Sage; £6, Private Tempest; £5, Private Curnon; £4 10s., Corporal Foley; £4, Corporal Arle and Private Bullimore; £3 10s., Sergeant Moore and Private Shaw; £3, Corporal Werner and Corporal Arle.

The battalion prize-meeting of the 2nd London was concluded last week at Rainham; Sergeant Brown was the winner of the Merchant Taylors' Challenge Prize, Corporal White took the Joiners' Challenge Cup, and Sergeant Brown was again successful in the contest for the Salters' Challenge Cup. Sergeant Lowden won Mrs. Rimington's Challenge Cup.—At the H company meeting of the same regiment Colour-Sergeant Green won the Company Badge and first prize, the next places being taken by Sergeant Spooner, Sergeant Swyer, and Corporal Sears.

The B company of the 3rd London also held their meeting at the same time as the latter. Corporal Turpin took the badge and first prize, next in order coming Privates Dewar, Bramsgrove, Denmore, Remaine, and Sergeant Nicholas.

Yesterday week No. 2 Company of the Honourable Artillery Company fired a match against No. 6 Company for the championship of the regiment, which they won by 49 points. The highest scorers of the winning team were Privates Munn and Chandler.

The third and last silver cup competition of the South London Rifle Club resulted in a victory for Sergeant Fraser, London Rifle Brigade.

The prize-meeting of the 7th Surrey at Wimbledon was brought to a close last week, the following being the chief winners:—Series A: £5 5s., Corporal Eccles; £4 4s., Private Hart; £3 3s. each, Private Suttill, Private Lee, and Private Richards. Series B: £7 7s., Private Hart; £5 5s., Private Lee; £4 4s., Corporal Holland; £3 10s., Colour-Sergeant Mansell; £3 3s. each, Corporal Francis, Private Martin, and Lieutenant Chubb. Series C: £5 5s., Private Suttill; £3 3s., Corporal Holland. Series D: £3 3s., Corporal Eccles; £2 2s. each, Colour-Sergeant Mansell, Corporal Holland, and Sergeant Smith. Private Hart won the Colonels and Corporal Broughton the Majors' Challenge Cups; the first places in the grand aggregate series were taken by Privates Suttill and Hart.

The annual prize-meeting of the 19th Surrey began last Saturday, the following being the winners:—£7, Private C. Brown; £5 each, Sergeant Fruen, Private Foster, Lieutenant Sexby, and Lieutenant Richards; £4, Sergeant Hattersley and Sergeant Meredith; £3 3s., Lieutenant Willington and Sergeant-Major Laverock.

A match was fired last Saturday at the Great Marlow range between the 1st Bucks and the H company of the London Brigade, and resulted in a victory for the visitors by 38 points.

The bronze medal of the National Rifle Association for Oxfordshire was won last week at the Oxon County Meeting by Sergeant Thomas of Banbury.

The annual County and All Comers' Meeting of the Yorkshire Association was held on Wednesday and Thursday last week at Strensall-common, and was a great success. The N.R.A. bronze medals were won by Sergeant Bogg, of Bradford, 1st West Riding medal; Sergeant John Depledge, Doncaster, 2nd West Riding medal; Private Holmes, Northallerton, North Riding medal; and Sergeant Kirk, Hull, East Riding medal. The principal winners in the various all-comers' competitions were as follows: Class E.—To all members of the association: £10, Colour-Sergeant Love, Scarborough; £8, Colour-Sergeant Goddard, Rotherham; £6, Sergeant Gilder, Harrow; £5, Sergeant Bogg, Bradford, Private Kelsey, Leeds; £4, Quartermaster-Sergeant Ruxton, Doncaster, Sergeant-Major Hodgson, Hull; £3, Sergeant Woolley, Chester, Lieutenant Mitchelson, Pickering, and Lieutenant Batley, Huddersfield. Class G.—All Comers, Military Breechloaders: £5, Mr. Eddison, Leeds; £3, Private Johnson, Carlisle, Sergeant-Major Gilder, Harrow; and £2, Sergeant Harrison, Ripon. Class F.—All Comers: £15, Lieutenant Redman, Stockton; £12, Private Holmes, Northallerton; £10, Private Chapman, Wensleydale; £7, Quartermaster Cortis, Worthing; and Major Burt, Birmingham; £5, Lance-Corporal Allinson, Middleton; Private Kelsey, Leeds; Private Wilson, Ossett; and Private Smith, London Rifle Brigade; £4, Sergeant Smith, Rotherham; Sergeant Falconer, Middlesborough; and Sergeant Allen, Doncaster; Colour-Sergeant Slater, Oldham; Sergeant Metcalf, Richmond; Sergeant Woolley, Chester; Lance-Corporal Ellison, Barnsley; £3, Mr. Eddison, Leeds; Private Jenner, Manchester; and Private C. F. Lowe (S. M.) Class I.—All Comers: £4 10s., Lieutenant Allison, Middlesex, and Private Bonner, Sleaford; £3, Private Kelsey, Leeds; Lieutenant Livesey, Worthing; Corporal Short, Harrow; and Corporal Taylor, Ripon. Class H.—All Comers—Military Breechloaders: £5, Quartermaster Cortis, Worthing; £3, Captain Crowther, Huddersfield; Sergeant-Instructor Gilder, Harrow; £2, Private H. Smith, London Rifle Brigade, and Lieutenant Livesey, Worthing. Class K.—All Comers, "The Wilton," £20 for Snipers: £5, Major Shepherd, Bradford; £3, Captain Mayman, Dewsbury, and Captain Ellis, Batley.

At an inspection on Monday of the 1st Administrative Battalion Hants Volunteers, encamped by the sea at Hayling Island, General M'Murdo, who came in a non-official capacity, said that he was pleased to inspect the battalion to see what progress had been made since its origin, eighteen years ago. The drill reflected great credit both on the men and their excellent Colonel (Sir W. Humphrey). The advance in line was excellently performed, and it was by such a steady advance that an advantage would be gained over an enemy. Referring to the rapidity of some movements, he suggested that small flags should be carried by the pivot men in their muskets, in order that the men should know their leaders without confusion. Looking at the work done that day, he had never seen some of the movements surpassed by any of the forces, either regular or irregular. The battalion is comprised of companies from the towns of Winchester, Botley, Romsey, Andover, Hartley-Witney, Alresford, Alton, and Basingstoke, and numbers 615 on parade.

The twelfth annual prize-meeting of the 2nd Administrative Battalion Middlesex Rifle Volunteers took place recently at the Park range, Tottenham. The proceedings began with a competition for the battalion drill prizes, given by Lieutenant-Colonel Warner, one for the best shot at 200 yards (five rounds) and the other for 500 yards (five rounds). The first was secured by Bugler Williams, of the 13th, and the second by Corporal Minns, of the same corps. Then followed the officers' prizes. The winners were Private Denyar, 33rd; Lieutenant Williams, 41st; Sergeant O'Brien, 41st; Corporal Horwood, 33rd. The competition for the challenge cup, battalion badge, and prizes came next, with the following results:—Cup and badge, and a prize value £3, Corporal Alexander, 13th; second prize, Sergeant Gilbert, 41st; best at 200 yards, Private Crocker, 41st; best at 500, Private Greenway, 12th; best at 600, Sergeant Dobbs, 33rd. The other prizes in this competition fell to Sergeant Seaward, 33rd; Private Smith, 41st; Private Stringer, 12th; Captain Harrison, 12th; Private Lingard, 41st; Private Luff, 41st; Colour-Sergeant Blake, 14th; Corporal Conn, 33rd; Sergeant Janes, 14th; Corporal Warr, 13th. The Marksman Prize, given by Lieutenant-Colonel Warner, was won by Lieutenant Sharpe, 41st; and the Consolation Prizes were taken by Private Norman, 13th; Sergeant Giles, 33rd; and Corporal Palmer, 41st Yesterday week the meeting which had been in progress since Tuesday, the 20th inst., among nearly 2500 competitors of the Army, Navy, and auxiliary forces for prizes of the aggregate value of between £400 and £500, was brought to a close at the Browndown ranges, and has been productive of some splendid practice with military rifles—the Martini-Henry, with which the regular troops are armed, and the weapon still in use among the volunteers, the Snider. In the first match for the rank and file of the Army and auxiliary forces, and to seamen below the grade of first-class petty officers, thirty-five prizes, of the total value of £35, were offered. Lance-Corporal Kemp, second battalion 12th Regiment, won the first prize; and a representative of the Navy, Seaman Coleman, of her Majesty's ship Excellent, took the second honour. Sergeant-Major Tuck gained the first prize open to naval petty officers and sergeants, and Colour-Sergeant Strachan and Sergeant-Instructor Bonner second and third. Major Nixon, Royal Marine Artillery, carried off the Browndown Cup. In the Officers' Match, Captain Moore, second battalion 4th Regiment, won the first prize, and Lieutenant Furner, first battalion 60th Rifles, took the second. In the match of "Soldiers versus Seamen," Private Callaghan, 56th Regiment, won the first prize, a silver watch; and the second prize of £5 went to Corporal Salter, also of the 56th. In the Sergeants' and Petty Officers' Match, Sergeant Legg, Royal Marines, took the first prize, and Colour-Sergeant Newman, of the Hants Rifle Volunteers, the second, of £4; Sergeant-Instructor Moulton, 56th Regiment, took the first prize, a silver tankard, in the Browndown Cup contest; and Barrack-Sergeant Patterson, Royal Marine Artillery, the second, £5; and Lieutenant Atkinson, 56th Regiment, the third. The Ladies' Champion Belts, value £5 each, were won by Captain Gosling, 37th Regiment, and Lieutenant Evans, 30th Regiment. The "Army and Navy" contest produced some fine shooting, and again the first honour went to a representative of the first line of defence—Seaman Rewell, of her Majesty's ship Excellent; Rowley, of the same ship, being second, and Sergeant Deane, 64th Regiment, third. For the Army Skirmishing Competition, the 55th Regiment had a close struggle with the 109th, but eventually were declared the winners, beating the 109th, who took second place. The second battalion of the 60th Rifles was third. The prize which the 55th have won is a handsome carriage clock, mounted and inscribed. The match for the Ladies' Silver Belts, five rounds, resulted in some splendid shooting, two of the officers making only one off the highest possible score, Lieutenant Brooke, of the 94th Regiment, and Major Tuson, Royal Marine Artillery, the prize eventually being awarded to the former. The third contest for the Browndon Cup brought thirty-eight competitors to the lists, and the silver tankard was taken by Lieutenant-Colonel Hume, of the 55th Regiment, Sergeant Collins, Royal Marines, taking second place and winning £5. Lieutenant Godsel, 52nd Regiment, took the first prize (a silver pocket flask) in the officers' competition, and Captain Moore, second battalion 4th Regiment, took the second prize, a field-glass.

Rear-Admiral Sir William Edmonstone, M.P. for Stirlingshire, gave his customary annual dinner yesterday week to the tenantry on his estate in the Dunreath Arms Inn, Kilsyth. Sir William occupied the chair.

The important Act to consolidate the law relating to weights and measures has been issued. On the Act coming into force on Jan. 1 there is to be a uniformity of weights and measures in the United Kingdom. The statute extends to eighty-six sections and several schedules, and repeals a number of Acts and portions of other statutes. The Act is divided into five parts, and the latter two relate to Scotland and Ireland. The imperial standards of weights and measures deposited in the Standards Department of the Board of Trade are to continue to be the standards, and all articles, with special exceptions, to be sold according to the same; offenders as to unjust weights and measures to be liable to a penalty not exceeding £5 for a first offence and £10 for a second offence. "Every weight, except where the small size of the weight renders it impracticable, shall have the denomination of such weight stamped on the top or side thereof in legible figures and letters." The Board of trade are to have all powers and perform all duties as to weights and measures, the "local authorities" in every county and borough to provide local standards, and each "local authority" to appoint inspectors of weights and measures, and all expenses to be paid out of the local rates. Orders in Council may be made to carry out the Act. In a table the metric equivalents of imperial weights and measures are given. Penalties are set forth for infringements of the provisions, and the Act with the schedules will require consideration before the time of its operation. As it is a consolidation of the law the other Acts specified will be repealed.

THE METROPOLITAN POLICE.

The Secretary of State has issued an order, founded on the recommendation of the Committee appointed to inquire into the pay and organisation of the metropolitan police force, authorising the following changes, to date from the 19th inst.:—

Station Sergeants: 1. The class of station sergeants is abolished, and the rank of third-class inspectors substituted, with weekly pay of £2 5s. 2. Station sergeants at present permanently appointed to that duty are to be promoted to the rank of third-class inspector without examination, but they must pass the usual Civil Service examination before they are promoted to second-class inspectors. 3. In future promotions from the ranks of sergeant to third-class inspector candidates must pass the examination laid down for the rank of inspector. 4. Promotions to the rank of third-class inspector will not be confined to sergeants serving in divisions where vacancies may occur, but be thrown open to all divisions in the service. 5. Third-class inspectors are to wear inspectors' uniforms.

Sergeants: The weekly pay of sergeants will be as follows:—After five years' service complete, 38s. per week; after two years' and under five years', 36s.; less than two years', 34s.

Constables: 1. The advancement of constables to second class will take place in future on the completion of three years' service, provided their conduct has been such as to merit the Commissioners' favourable consideration. 2. The strength of the first class constable is augmented to 3500 (a very large augmentation), and advancements to that class will, as heretofore, be made as vacancies occur.

Acting Sergeants: 1. Constables hereafter appointed acting sergeants will receive 1s. per week in addition to the ordinary pay of their class for the first three years' service in that capacity, and an additional sum of 1s. per week after that period. 2. Appointments as acting sergeants to be limited to first and second class constables, to be selected, as occasion arises for their services, by divisional superintendents, and approved by district superintendents. Special attention to be given to the claims of first-class constables who are qualified to act as sergeants in all respects except passing the educational test. Number for the present limited to 100, to be allotted to the exterior district in the proportion of about 2 per cent on the present strength of constables, in addition to the authorised strength of 10 per cent of section sergeants. (Here follows a list of divisions affected by this regulation.) 3. Acting sergeants are to wear two-bar chevrons.

Third-class Inspectors: Returns are to be sent to this office, 24th inst., giving particulars in the following form of the third-class inspectors. (Particulars as to warrants, number, name, date of joining, promotion to sergeant, and permanent appointment to station duty, with any remarks necessary.) Then follows a long list of the officers advanced by this order.

In the case of promotion of station sergeants to the rank of third-class inspectors, the increase in pay is 5s. per week; in the other classes, 4s., 2s., &c. Besides this, the saving of several years' service in waiting for promotion is effected by the new order.

The Times says that the changes and promotions thus begun have come as a surprise upon the force; but, notwithstanding the considerable advantages which the order confers upon several branches of the service, it is only regarded as an earnest of the Government to give early consideration to all the classes embraced in the force.

Another new department is to be formed at Scotland-yard —"The Public-house Register Department"—in connection with which Mr. J. E. Davis, the legal adviser to the Chief Commissioner, has issued an order to the whole of the divisions within the metropolitan district calling for returns regarding public-houses. A report is to be furnished by the various superintendents of every public-house in their divisions, and all particulars connected therewith. The value (approximate), the rental, and the rateable value of each house is to be given; also, whether it was licensed under the old Act or new; the number of tenants it has had since the passing of the Act of 1872, what they were before they entered the business, and (in the case of those that have left the house) what are they doing now, whether the house bears a good name, or whether there have been any convictions against it or the holder of the license.

THE WINTER ASSIZES.

By an Order in Council, dated Osborne, Aug. 14, 1878, the Winter Assizes are directed to be held as follows:—

The northern and Salford divisions of the county of Lancaster will be united under the name of the Winter Assize County No 1, and the assizes held at Manchester.

The counties of Cumberland and Westmorland will be united under the name of the Winter Assize County No. 2, and the assizes held at Carlisle.

The county and city of York will be united under the name of the Winter Assize County No. 3, and the assizes held at Leeds.

The county and city of Lincoln and the county of Nottingham will be united under the name of the Winter Assize County No. 4, and the assizes held at Nottingham.

The counties of Derby, Leicester, and Rutland will be united under the name of the Winter Assize County No. 5, and the assizes held at Leicester.

The counties of Northampton, Bedford, and Buckingham will be united under the name of the Winter Assize County No. 6, and the assizes held at Bedford.

The counties of Norfolk and Suffolk will be united under the name of the Winter Assize County No. 7, and the assizes held at Norwich.

The counties of Huntingdon and Cambridge will be united under the name of the Winter Assize County No. 8, and the assizes held at the Shirehall at Chesterton.

The counties of Oxford and Berks will be united under the name of the Winter Assize County No. 9, and the assizes held at Oxford.

The county and city of Worcester and the counties of Hereford, Monmouth, and Gloucester will be united under the name of the Winter Assize County No. 10, and the assizes held at Gloucester.

The counties of Salop and Stafford will be united under the name of the Winter Assize County No. 11, and the assizes held at Stafford.

The county of Southampton and the counties of Wilts and Dorset will be united under the name of the Winter Assize County No. 12, and the assizes held at Winchester.

The counties of Devon and Cornwall will be united under the name of the Winter Assize County No. 13, and the assizes held at Exeter.

The counties of Montgomery, Merioneth, Carnarvon, Anglesea, Denbigh, and Flint will be united under the name of the Winter Assize County No. 14, and the assizes held at Ruthin.

The county of Glamorgan, the county and borough of Carmarthen, the county of Pembroke, the county of the town of Haverfordwest, and the counties of Cardigan, Brecknock, and Radnor will be united under the name of the Winter Assize County No. 15, and the assizes held at Swansea.

The county of Sussex, the county of the city of Canterbury, and so much of the county of Kent as is not within the Central Criminal Court District will be united together under the name of the Winter Assize County No. 16, and the assizes held at Maidstone.

The county of Herts and so much of the county of Essex as is not within the Central Criminal Court District, will be united under the name of the Winter Assize County No. 17, and the assizes held at Chelmsford.

The Most Rev. Dr. Macarthy, vice-president of Maynooth College, was consecrated Roman Catholic Bishop of Kerry on Sunday in the cathedral, Killarney. The consecrating Bishop was the Right Rev. Dr. Crooke. Lord Kenmare read an address of welcome to the new Bishop.

A banquet was given at Torquay last Saturday night to celebrate the completion of an important sanitary work, a new intercepting sewer having been constructed, by which the sewage of the town is conveyed to a headland two miles distant and there discharged into the Channel. The sewer is altogether three miles long, and 6400 ft. have been tunnelled through hard rock. The total cost of the work is £70,000. Sir L. Palk, M.P., Sir J. Kennaway, M.P., and Sir Joseph Bazalgette were present at the banquet; and the last named, under whose advice the work was carried out, stated that there were few, if any, provincial towns which had undertaken more comprehensive, satisfactory, and complete works for the total removal of their sewage.—Another important scheme is the water supply to the town. The water is obtained from a mountain stream on Dartmoor, twenty miles from Torquay; it is brought home by gravitation, and stands next in purity to that of Loch Katrine, used by Glasgow. The authorities are engaged in doubling the area of the storage reservoirs, which will enable them to give a continuous supply.

OBITUARY.

MADAME VAN DE WEYER.

Elizabeth, Madama Van de Weyer, of New Lodge, Windsor Forest, whose death is just announced, was the only child of the late Joshua Bates, Esq., of Sheen House, Surrey, and Winkfield-place, Berks, by Lucretia Augusta, his wife, daughter of Samuel Sturgis, Esq., of Boston, America; and was married, in 1839, to his Excellency Sylvain Van de Weyer, Minister of State and late Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary of the King of the Belgians. She was left a widow in 1874. Madame Van de Weyer had the high honour of enjoying the friendship of her Majesty. The Queen paid frequent visits to her at New Lodge. Her eldest son, Major Victor William Bates Van de Weyer, J.P., married, in 1868, Lady Emily Georgina, youngest daughter of William, second Earl of Craven.

The deaths have also been announced of—

Captain Edrom Augustus Porcher, R.N., aged fifty-three.

Robert Nicholson, Esq., of Abbotsfield, Chester, J.P., on the 20th inst., aged sixty-five.

Lieutenant-Colonel Thomas Alexander Pasley Dirom, of Mount Annan, late R.H.A., aged forty-seven.

Colonel John Bontein, Retired List, H.M. Bengal Army, on the 17th inst., at Ledbury-road, in his seventieth year.

Major John Godfrey, late 43rd Bengal Native Light Infantry, on the 14th inst., at Leamington, aged sixty-eight.

Lady Lumsden (Eliza), wife of Sir James Lumsden, formerly Lord Provost of Glasgow, on the 21st inst., at Arden House, Dumbartonshire.

His Excellency Señor Don Pedro Galvez, for the last eight years Minister for Peru at the Court of St. James's, on the 23rd inst., at the Hôtel du Palais Royal, Paris.

The Rev. Arthur Gibson, M.A., some time Fellow of Queen's College, Oxford, and for fifty years Vicar of Chedworth, Gloucestershire, on the 7th inst., aged ninety-three.

The Rev. Hugh Stewart, Rector of Kilscoran, in the county of Wexford, and Chancellor of the Dioceses of Ossory and Ferns, on the 15th inst., in his eighty-fourth year.

Mrs. Wilkinson (Annie Margaret), wife of the Right Rev. Bishop Wilkinson, on the 14th inst., at Caerhages, Cornwall, aged thirty-three.

Augustus William Hegman, Esq., formerly Captain 2nd Dragoons, on the 18th inst., at Shangana Castle, Bray, in the county of Dublin, aged eighty-two.

Favell Lee, widow of the late Rev. Thomas Mortimer (Authoress of "The Peep of Day," and other works for children), aged seventy-six, on the 22nd inst., at Runton, near Cromer.

Mr. Leonard Thompson, of Sheriff Hutton Park. The deceased gentleman, who was born in 1806, married Lady Mary Fitzwilliam, sister of the present Earl. He is succeeded in his estates by his nephew, Mr. E. Percy Thompson.

Lady Limond (Jessie), widow of Major-General Sir James Limond, C.B., late Madras Artillery, and daughter of the late John Campbell, Esq., of Ormidale, Argyllshire, on the 16th inst., at 15, Eaton-terrace, aged eighty-five.

Mr. Benjamin Colls, chairman of the City Lands Committee of the Corporation of London and a member of the Irish Society, somewhat suddenly, at Bray, North Wicklow. He was on his way home to London after an official visit to Londonderry and Coleraine on the society's business.

Mr. S. S. Dickinson, Chairman of the Gloucestershire Quarter Sessions, on the 24th inst., at his residence, Brownshill, Stroud. He represented Stroud in the last Parliament, was chairman of the local board of guardians and of the magisterial bench, and held a number of public offices.

The Hon. Thomas John Wynn, eldest son and heir apparent of Lord Newborough, on the 25th inst., at Glyn, Carnarvonshire. He was born in 1840; married, in 1871, Sibyl Anna Katherine, eldest daughter of Edwin Corbett, Esq., her Majesty's Minister resident at Guatemala, and leaves one infant daughter and a son, William Charles, born in 1873, now heir to the title of Newborough.

Penelope Elizabeth Marie, Miss Lenigan, of Castle Ffogerty, a considerable Irish heiress, and the representative of the old Celtic family of O'Ffogerty of the county of Tipperary, on the 3rd inst., at Bad-Gastein, Austria. She was the last surviving child of the late James Lenigan, Esq., of Castle Ffogerty, J.P. and D.L., High Sheriff in 1864, by Eleanor Frances, his wife, sister of William Evans, Esq., M.P. for Leominster. The representation of the family appears to be now in the issue of Miss Lenigan's aunt, Anna Elizabeth, wife of John Denis Ryan, Esq.

General Henry Cooper, on the 24th inst., after a few hours' illness. The deceased officer entered the Army in 1829, and commanded the reserve battalion of the 45th Regiment in the Kaffir War of 1846-7, and one wing of the same regiment throughout the Kaffir War of 1850-3. He was appointed Commandant of the Natal Colony at the close of the war. General Cooper was appointed Colonel of the 79th Regiment (Queen's Own Cameron Highlanders) in 1870, and was transferred to the 45th in 1876. His commission as General dates from Oct. 1, 1877.

Major-General Oakes, C.B., at Farnham, Surrey, on the 22nd inst., after a long and painful illness. The General, with his family, had resided at Farnham for some years. He returned to England but a few weeks ago, having passed the winter in the south of France. General Oakes, who had seen much active service, entered the Army in 1846, served with the 12th Lancers in the Kaffir War, 1850 and 1853 (medal); also in the Crimea from May 2, 1855 (medal, with clasps for Sebastopol, Sardinian, and Turkish medal, and the Fifth Class of the Medjidié). The General was also Inspector of Auxiliary Cavalry.

Lord Blackburn, Mr. Justice Barry, Mr. Justice Lush, and Sir James Stephen, Q.C., are the Commissioners who are to consider the draught penal code during the recess; Mr. Hugh Cowie, barrister-at-law, is secretary to the Commission.

Mr. T. Brassey, M.P., distributed the prizes at the annual flower show in connection with the St. Paul's Working Men's Club, Hastings, on the 22nd inst. The hon. gentleman said that in his opinion there was no effort which had been set on foot amongst the working classes which so much deserved their sympathy and good wishes as shows of that description.

The decrease in the extent of land under crops in Ireland in 1878 is, as the Registrar-General's returns show, 62,198 acres. The chief decrease in cereals is in oats, and in green crops is in potatoes. Flax also shows a decreased acreage of 11,572. There is an increase in the number of horses in Ireland, but a decrease in cattle, the latter entirely in the province of Ulster. The general result is to indicate a decline in agricultural prosperity, though a slight one, in consequence of the bad harvest of last year. The yield from all crops this year will be large.

CHESS.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

All communications relating to this department of the Paper should be addressed to the Editor, and have the word "Chess" written on the envelope.

M P (Shrewsbury).—Difficulty of solution is not an essential quality; but, apart from the question of difficulty, we disapprove of castling in a chess problem. How is the solver to know that the King and Rook have not been moved?

H F M (Mansfield, U.S.A.).—Your solution of No. 1796 is correct.

B L (Berlin).—We are obliged to M. Wladimiroff for the problems, and to yourself for the courteous letter which accompanied them.

L S (Temple).—Mate cannot be forced by two Knights and a King against the solitary King. There is no good work upon end games readily obtainable. The book by Kling and Horwitz has been out of print many years.

W S B.—Problem No. 1800 is not so easy as you think. You have failed to observe that Black's first move is your proposed solution discovers check to the White King. You are not alone in this error, however, as some thirty or forty other correspondents have fallen into the same trap.

W N (Strabane).—You are wrong as regards Nos. 1795 and 1797. In the former, after the moves, 1. Q takes Kt (ch), K to Q 4th; 2. R to R 4th, Black plays, 2. P to Q 4th; and in the latter, Black's answer to 1. B to K 7th is 1. P to K 4th.

J B (Paris).—If you will send the problems transcribed upon diagrams we shall have pleasure in examining them.

EAST MARDEN.—A curiosity no doubt, but the construction is exceedingly clever.

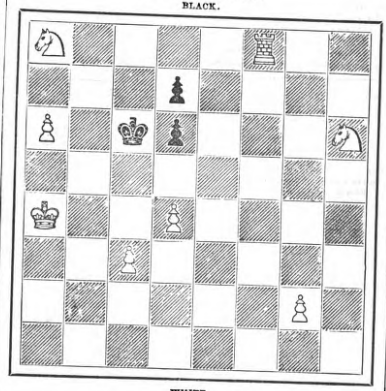
J C (Glasgow).—Very neat indeed; it shall have early publication.

MARIANA (Bruges).—We hope you are satisfied about No. 1798. Please look at No. 1800 again, the checks and counter-checks have puzzled many of our correspondents.

CORRECT SOLUTIONS OF PROBLEM No. 1798 received from Pretextat, D Hazlewood, and P S Shenele.

CORRECT SOLUTIONS OF PROBLEM No. 1799 received from M and G M B W, Emile Frau, Clarina, Pulchinelle, J K, Portous-road, Œdipus, J Bordas, Franklin Institute, W Nicholls, B Lowy, and P S Shenele.

CORRECT SOLUTIONS OF PROBLEM No. 1800 received from Alfred, J F Spiers, Leonora and Leon, F W H, R GPSY, J Wontone, R Roughead, W Alston, N Powell, Americaine, S Threlfall, W Lee, st. J E H T King, A Mackenzie, J S W, P Hampton, C Elmore, A Rock, D Leslie, Long Stop, Black Knight, M Whiteley, Simplex, M Rees, S Western, F W Hope, T Edgar, A R G, Triton, Ltc, S R of Leeds, E Worsley, I of Titus, G J G, T Greenlaus, S D Tessellated, P le Page, E L G, Pretextat, T P F, Dr F St, R H Brooks, S Peniston, Alpha, J de Honstayn, Lotis, Dalbahill, Portous-road, D C Maxwell, J Hunter, Copiapino, W Lemon, East Marden, B Phelan, J K, Waldenburg (Lindau), M T Check, G H V, E H H V, Sensa, H M Prideaux, Hereward, S D G, B Lowy, and P S Shenele.



SOLUTION OF PROBLEM No. 1799.

WHITE.	BLACK.
1. R to Q 3rd
2. B to Q 2nd	P takes R*
3. B to B 6th. Mate.	K takes Kt

*If 1. K takes Kt, then 2. B to B 5th (ch), &c.; and if 1. P to Q B 6th, then 2. Kt to Q 6th, mating next move. White may, however, play 1. Kt to Q 6th without affecting the result.

PROBLEM No. 1802.
By E. N. FRANKENSTEIN.

BLACK.

WHITE.

White to play, and mate in three moves.

ENGLAND v. AMERICA.

The following interesting Game occurred in the International Match by Correspondence now pending. It was played between Mr. H. BREWER, on the side of England, and Mr. EUGENE DELMAR, of Brooklyn.

(Bishop's Gambit.)

WHITE (Mr. B.)	BLACK (Mr. D.)	WHITE (Mr. B.)	BLACK (Mr. D.)
1. P to K 4th	P to K 4th	The two last moves of Black appear to us to be very ill-judged. The Knight now blocks up the Queen and renders her a very conspicuous object for White's attack.
2. P to K B 4th	P takes P
3. B to B 4th	P to Q 4th
4. B takes P	Q to R 5th (ch)
5. K to B sq	P to K Kt 4th	14. Kt to Q 3rd	P to K B 6th
6. Kt to Q R 3rd	B to Kt 2nd	15. Kt to Kt 3rd	P takes P (ch)
7. P to Q 4th	Kt to K 2nd	16. K takes P	Kt takes P (ch)
8. Kt to B 3rd	Q to R 4th	His only resource to save the Queen.
9. P to K B 4th	P to K R 3rd	17. K to B 2nd	Q to Kt 3rd
10. P to K 5th		18. R takes Kt	B to K 3rd
		19. Kt to B 4th	Q to Kt 4th
It was, of course, desirable to avoid the attack springing from 10. K to Kt sq, which leads to a well-known draw by perpetual check.		20. R to R 5th	Q to K 2nd
		21. B takes B	P takes B
10.	P to Q B 3rd	22. Q takes P
Black would have done better by playing 10. Kt to Q B 3rd, afterwards moving out the Bishop, and castling on the Queen's side.		White has it all his own way now, and conducts the termination with commendable precision.
		22.	Kt to Q R 3rd
11. B to B 4th	P to Kt 5th	23. K to Kt 2nd	K R to K sq
12. Kt to K sq	Kt to Kt 3rd	24. R takes P	Kt to B 2nd
13. Kt to K 4th	Castles	25. Kt (from Kt 3rd) to R 5th	Q R to Q sq
		26. Kt to B 6th (ch), and wins, for Black must now either sacrifice his Queen for Knight, or submit to be mated in three moves.

THE COUNTIES CHESS ASSOCIATION.

A Game played in the first-class Tourney between Mr. THOROLD, the winner of the first prize, and Mr. F. S. ENSOR.—(Irregular Opening.)

WHITE (Mr. T.)	BLACK (Mr. E.)	WHITE (Mr. T.)	BLACK (Mr. E.)
1. P to K B 4th	P to K 4th	11. Kt to Kt 5th	Kt to K B 3rd
2. P takes P	P to Q 3rd	12. Q to K 2nd	R to K B sq
3. P takes P	B takes P	13. Kt takes B	K takes Kt
4. Kt to K B 3rd	B to K 3rd	14. B to Kt 5th	Kt to Kt 3rd
This eccentric defence is known on the continent of Europe as the "From Gambit," but it was played in England by English amateurs many years before the appearance of Herr From's analysis. The correct line of play for Black at this point is either 4. P to Kt 4th or 4. Kt to K R 3rd.		15. P to B 4th	Q Kt to Q 2nd
		16. Kt to Q B 3rd	P to Q B 4th
		17. P to Q 5th (ch)	K to K 2nd
		18. B takes P	Q to Kt 3rd
		19. Q to Kt 4th	K to Q sq
5. P to K 4th	P to Q B 3rd	20. Q to K 6th	P to R 3rd
6. P to Q 4th	P to K B 3rd	21. B to Kt 4th	K to B 2nd
7. B to Q 3rd	Kt to Q 2nd	22. B takes Kt	Kt takes B
8. Castles	P to K R 4th	23. B to R 3rd	Q R to K sq
From a player of Mr. Ensor's force this move is altogether inexcusable, more especially in an important tourney.		24. Q to B 5th	Q to Kt 5th
		25. Q to Q 3rd	Q takes Kt P
9. P to K 5th	P takes P	The immediate effect of Black's last move is the loss of the Queen.
10. B to Kt 6th (ch)	K to K 2nd	26. Q R to Kt sq	Q to R 6th
		27. Kt to Kt 5th (ch), and wins.

CHESS INTELLIGENCE.

The lists of the problem tourney in connection with the Huddersfield College Magazine will be closed for British amateurs on the 1st proximo. The prizes in this competition are—First, a silver cup, value £5, given by Mr. Medley from the Löwenthal fund; second, three guineas in cash; third, a set of Staunton chessmen and leather board, value two guineas: and special rewards will be given for the best single problems in two, three, and four moves. From composers residing abroad problems will be received up to December 1 next.

A Sydney correspondent writes that an interesting tourney is now progressing at the Sydney Chess Club. Mr. C. M. Fisher stands alone in the first class, and is handicapped to yield nearly every description of odds to five other classes of lower grades. The usual intercolonial match with Victoria was not played this year.

WILLS AND BEQUESTS.

The will (dated Jan. 17, 1878) of Mr. John Pearson, late of No. 10, St. James's-place, Westminster, who died on May 8 last, has been proved by Patrick Marcellinus Leonard, the Rev. Edmund Henry Fisher, and Charles Walter Holdich, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £250,000.

The testator leaves legacies to his executors, his three sisters, and his nephews and nieces; and the residue of his real and personal estate upon trust for his sisters, Elizabeth Connell, Mary Leonard, and Frances Pearson, and their children.

The will (dated Jan. 2, 1877) of Lieutenant-Colonel Maxwell Hyslop, late of No. 11, Cavendish-place, Bath, who died on June 19 last, was proved on the 12th inst. by Mrs. Mary Hyslop, the widow, and Robert Maxwell Hyslop, the son, the acting executors, the personal estate being sworn under £40,000. The testator gives to his wife his furniture and household effects, and makes up her income to £1000 per annum. The residue of his property he leaves upon trust for his children in equal shares.

The will (dated Feb. 26, 1872) with a codicil (dated April 11, 1874) of the Very Rev. Augustus Page Saunders, D.D., Dean of Peterborough, formerly Head Master of Charterhouse School, who died on the 21st ult. at the Deanery, Peterborough, was proved in London on the 10th inst. by Oliver Augustus Saunders and Alfred Robert Henry Saunders, the sons, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £30,000. The testator bequeaths to his wife his furniture and an immediate legacy of £1000; to his said two sons, £4000 each; the remainder of his property is to be held upon trust for his wife for life; at her death the portions of his six daughters are made up to £4000 each; and the ultimate residue is to be divided among his children, as his wife shall appoint.

The will (dated Nov. 15, 1877) of Thomas Clifford Davies, M.D., late of Plinolas, near Bury, Lancashire, who died on June 13 last, was proved on the 10th inst. by Mrs. Alice Eliza Davies, the widow, the personal estate being sworn under £25,000. The testator's wife being already provided for, he leaves her all his furniture and effects for life; among the bequests to take effect on the death of the wife may be mentioned £1000 to the University of Edinburgh and considerable legacies to relatives. The residuary legatee is testator's nephew, Edward Mucklow, jun.

The will (dated Oct. 10, 1876) with a codicil (dated May 5, 1877) of Lieutenant-Colonel Sir George Clay, Bart., formerly of Grantlands Uffculme, Devon, and late of Castle Hill, Dorset, who died on June 30 last, at No. 17, Cavendish-square, was proved on the 9th inst. by Dame Mary Caroline Clay, the widow, and Sir Arthur Temple Felix Clay, the brother, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £8000.

The will (dated Feb. 9, 1878) of Admiral Sir Hastings Reginald Yelverton, G.C.B., who died on the 24th ult., at Bath, was proved on the 10th inst. by Gowran William Barnabyde Robeck, the nephew, the acting executor, the personal estate being sworn under £6000.

The London and North-Western Railway directors are, according to a statement made by Mr. Moon, the chairman of the company, at the half-yearly meeting, ambitious that the line should be worked without an accident; and they were able to boast that during the past half-year no person had been fatally injured.

Lord Sandon opened a new branch Sailors' Home at Liverpool on the 22nd inst. Speaking of the commercial greatness of the country, he said he thought the less the enterprise of our merchants was interfered with by Governmental action the more prosperous it would become. The right hon. gentleman afterwards presented the prizes to the boys being educated on board the training-ship Indefatigable, in the Mersey, and addressed them in suitable terms as to their prospects and career in life.

At Newbury on the 22nd inst. the Earl of Carnarvon presided at a meeting of the District Field Club, at which it was stated that the arrangements for the erection of a memorial to Viscount Falkland on the battle-field of Newbury, where he fell, were being rapidly carried out. The noble Earl, in a subsequent speech, congratulated the club on its archæological researches, and urged upon the members the great value of minute investigations near home. At the close of the meeting a block of granite weighing eleven tons was placed in position as a base for the Falkland Memorial by Alderman Absalom, ex-Mayor of Newbury.

BOOKS RECEIVED.

Guzman the Good: A Tragedy. The Secretary: A Play. And Miscellaneous Poems. By R. G. Gilman. (Emily Faithful, Victoria Press.)
Light: A Series of Experiments for Students. By A. Mayer and C. Barnard. Illustrated. Nature Series. (Macmillan.)
Mary with Many Friends. By Georgina M. Moore. (E. Marlborough and Co.)
The Apiary; or, Bees, Beehives, and Bee Culture. By Alfred Neighbour. Third Edition. (Kent and Co.)
Brownie. By C. W. Bardsley. (Marcus Ward and Co.)
Newport and Cardiff as Shipping Ports. (Newport, Bullock and Son.)
Brave Men in Action. Thrilling Stories of the British Flag. By Stephen J. MacKenna. (Sampson Low and Co.)
English Men of Letters: Gibbon. By J. C. Morison, M.A. (Macmillan.)
Hollybush Hall: "Open House" in an "Open Country." By O. Bowers. Hunting Illustrations. New Edition. (Bradbury, Evans, and Co.)
Ancient Classics: Lucretius. By W. H. Mallock. (Blackwood and Sons.)
Fashion Then and Now. Illustrated by Anecdotes, Social, Political, Military, Dramatic, and Sporting. By Lord William Pitt Lennox. 2 vols. (Chapman and Hall.)
The Hazard of the Die. By Mrs. A. W. Hunt. 3 vols. (Hurst and Co.)
The Cossacks: A Tale of the Caucasus in 1852. By Count Leo Tolstoy. (Scribner and Co.)
Poganuc People: their Loves and Lives. By Harriet Beecher Stowe. (Sampson Low and Co.)
A Practical Guide to the Law of Landlord and Tenant. By George Larmuth. (John Heywood, Manchester.)
The Illustrated Waverley Novels. Old Mortality. By Sir Walter Scott, Bart. Illustrated. (Marcus Ward and Co.)
Seven Days in London. Second Edition. (Richardson and Best.)
Monetary Frauds and Extortions; Safe Investments; Value of Property, &c. By Axford Packer. (Hamilton, Adams, and Co.)
The Organ: Its History and Construction. By Edward J. Hopkins and Edward F. Rimbault, LL.D. Third Edition. (Robert Cocks and Co.)
On Going to Sleep. By C. H. Moore. (Hardwicke, Piccadilly.)
Sanitary Engineering: A Guide to the Construction of Works of Sewerage and House Drainage. By Baldwin Latham, C.E. Second Edition. (E. and F. N. Spon, Charing-cross.)
A Memoir of Lieutenant-General Sir Garnet J. Wolseley. By Charles Rathbone Low. 2 vols. (Bentley and Son.)
Chambers' Index to Next of Kin, Owners of Unclaimed Money, &c. By Edward Preston. Fourth Edition. (Allen.)
Charlotte Cushman: Her Letters and Memoir of Her Life. By Emma Stebbings. (Trübner and Co.)
Current Coin. By the Rev. H. R. Haweis, M.A. (Henry S. King and Co.)
The Monomaniac of Love. A Study in the Pathology of Character. 2 vols. (Provost and Co.)
The Eastern Question and the Foreign Policy of Great Britain. By Major-General Hope Crealock, C.B. (Chapman and Hall.)
Faust. A Tragedy. By T. W. von Goethe. Translated into English Verse by Charles Hartpole Bowen. (Longmans and Co.)
A Handy Dictionary of Commercial Information. By Edward T. Blakeley, F.S.S. (Simpkin, Marshall, and Co.)
The English Student's French Examiner. By F. Julien. (Sampson Low.)
The Paris Exhibition. Handbook to the British Indian Section. By Dr. George P. M. Birdwood, C.S.I. Second Edition.
Domestic Medicine and Hygiene. By Dr. W. J. Russell. (Everett.)

CYPRUS.—Officers and others proceeding to Cyprus will effect an immense saving by supplying themselves from Messrs. OETZMANN and CO.'S. Their experience in supplying Officers of the Military, Naval, and Civil Service on Foreign Stations enables them to execute their orders with economy and dispatch. Packed in extra strong cases by experienced packers. Price-List of every requisite post-free. The "Daily News" says:—"Advices from Cyprus state that every thing is enormously dear there."—OETZMANN and CO.

FURNISH THROUGHOUT.
SUBSTANTIAL ARTISTIC FURNITURE.
OETZMANN & CO.,
HAMPSTEAD-ROAD,
NEAR TOTTENHAM-COURT-ROAD.

FURNISH THROUGHOUT.—OETZMANN and CO., 67, 69, 71, 73, 77 and 79, HAMPSTEAD-ROAD, near Tottenham-court-road. Cabinet Factory, Albion Works, Drummond-street; Bedding Factory, Eagle-place, London, N.W. Furnishing Establishments in the world. Comparison of price and quality respectfully solicited before purchasing elsewhere. OETZMANN and CO. are enabled to offer SPECIAL ADVANTAGES to Country Customers in delivery of Goods by their own large PANTECHNICON VANS, and fixing in position by competent persons. Descriptive Catalogue, the best Furnishing Guide extant, post-free.—OETZMANN and CO.

THE IMMENSE RANGE OF PREMISES formerly the EAGLE BREWERY having been REBUILT and ADDED to their SHOW-ROOMS, it is now one of the largest and best Furnishing Establishments in the world. Comparison of price and quality respectfully solicited before purchasing elsewhere. OETZMANN and CO. are enabled to offer SPECIAL ADVANTAGES to Country Customers in delivery of Goods by their own large PANTECHNICON VANS, and fixing in position by competent persons. Descriptive Catalogue, the best Furnishing Guide extant, post-free.—OETZMANN and CO.

OETZMANN and CO.'S FIVE-GUINEA NONPAREIL BEDSTEAD and BEDDING is a marvel of quality and economy combined—consists of a 4 ft. 6 in. wide handsome Brass and Iron French Bedstead, one of O. and Co.'s patent Pallio Mattresses, and a good Wool Upper Mattress, good Feather Bolster, and two Pillows. Everyone about to furnish should see this excellent set on view in the Show-Rooms. Also, to suit the above, two fine Linen Sheets, one ditto Bolster-case, two ditto Pillow-cases, three superior quality Blankets, and handsome white Marsella Quilt, for 7Os. 6d. the set.
OETZMANN and CO.

OETZMANN'S PATENT PALLIO MATTRESS supersedes the use of the old rigid palliasse; is more cleanly, healthy, and elastic; combines the advantages of a mattress and palliasse at the cost of one article. Price from 16s. 9d. upwards. See page 123 in "Guide to House Furnishing." Sent post-free on application.

FLOOR CLOTH! FLOOR CLOTH! FLOOR CLOTH!—Well seasoned. Colours and designs to suit every style of decoration. An immense assortment for selection. Some clearing out at 1s. 6d. per square yard; best quality and newest designs, 2s. 6d. A quantity of squares, 2 yards by 3 yards, 3 by 4, and other useful sizes, very cheap. Quotations forwarded per post on receiving size of room or hall. Bordered Floor Cloth, for passage or stairs, from 9d. per yard.
OETZMANN and CO.

EXHIBITION PATTERN COAL VASE. OETZMANN and CO.'S new Special Designs for the Season, much admired, handsomely japanned, and richly burnished gold ornamentation, with oval handles, strong loose lining, great convenience and saving in wear. Complete, 21s.
OETZMANN and CO.

CHINA and GLASS DEPARTMENT. Ironstone China Dinner Services, various neat and elegant designs, from 1Os. 9d. the set; handsome ditto, at 2Os. and 35s. per set—a large assortment of superb patterns for selection; Dessert Services complete, 17 pieces, 13s. 9d.; best French China ditto, 18 pieces, very choice, with burnished gold edges, 18s. 9d.; China Tea Services, complete, 28 pieces, 5s. 9d.; elegant ditto, burnished gold and enamelled, 15s. 9d.—OETZMANN and CO.

POSTAL ORDER DEPARTMENT. OETZMANN and CO.—Orders sent per post, whether large or small, receive prompt and careful attention. Those residing at a distance, or any to whom a personal visit would be inconvenient, desirous of leaving the selection to the firm, may rely upon a faithful attention to their wishes and interests in the selection. This department is personally supervised by a member of the firm. For further particulars please see page 267 in Catalogue, sent post-free on application.

OETZMANN and CO., COMPLETE HOUSE FURNISHERS, 67, 69, 71, 73, 77 and 79, Hampstead-road (three minutes' walk from Tottenham-court-road and Gower-street Station, Metropolitan Railway). Lowest prices consistent with guaranteed quality. Close at Seven, and on Saturdays at Four. Descriptive Catalogue post-free.

DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE, post-free.
OETZMANN & CO.,
HAMPSTEAD-ROAD.

NOTICE.—SILVER and ELECTRO-PLATE.—ELKINGTON and CO., Manufacturing Silversmiths and Patentees of the Electro-Plate. Revised Illustrated Pattern Book of Newest Designs in Table Plate of all kinds, and new qualities in Spoons and Forks forwarded free by post on application. Testimonial Plate in Solid Silver, in great variety, always in stock; and Committees provided with Designs and Photographs to suit all occasions.
Address—Elkington and Co., 22, Regent-street, London; or 42, Moorgate-street, City.

CASELIERS, in Crystal, Glass, Ormoulu, or Bronze, Mediæval Fittings, &c. A large assortment always on view. Every article marked with plain figures.—D. HULETT and CO., Manufacturers, 55 and 56, High Holborn.

OSLER'S GLASS CHANDELIERS,
Wall Lights and Lustres for Gas and Candles.
Chandeliers in Bronze and Ormoulu.
DUPLEX LAMPS
fitted with Patent Extinguisher.
KEROSENE AND OTHER OILS OF THE FINEST QUALITY.
TABLE GLASS of ALL KINDS and NEWEST DESIGNS.
ORNAMENTAL GLASS, ENGLISH and FOREIGN.
Minton's and Worcester, Porcelain and Stone China.
BIRMINGHAM: Manufactory and Show Rooms, Broad-street.
LONDON: Show-Rooms, 45, Oxford-street, W.

SUMMER DELICACIES.
BROWN and POLSON'S
CORN FLOUR
AS BLANCMANGE WITH STEWED FRUIT.
BROWN and POLSON'S
CORN FLOUR
AS BAKED PUDDING WITH STEWED FRUIT.
BROWN and POLSON'S
CORN FLOUR
AS CUSTARD PUDDING WITH STEWED FRUIT.

CHOCOLAT MENIER, in ½ lb. and ¼ lb. Packets.
For BREAKFAST and SUPPER.

CHOCOLAT MENIER.—Awarded Twenty-Three PRIZE MEDALS.
Consumption annually exceeds 17,000,000 lbs.

CHOCOLAT MENIER. Paris, London, New York.
Sold Everywhere.

MRS. S. A. ALLEN'S
WORLD'S HAIR RESTORER.
IT CANNOT FAIL TO RESTORE GREY HAIR TO ITS YOUTHFUL COLOUR, GLOSS, AND BEAUTY. WHEN THE HAIR TURNS GREY, LOSES ITS LUSTRE, AND FALLS OUT, IT SIMPLY REQUIRES NOURISHMENT. MRS. S. A. ALLEN'S WORLD'S HAIR RESTORER, BY ITS GENTLE TONIC ACTION, STRENGTHENS AND INVIGORATES THE HAIR, AND, BY THE OPERATION OF NATURAL CAUSES, GIVES OR WHITE HAIR IS QUICKLY RESTORED TO ITS YOUTHFUL COLOUR, GLOSS, AND BEAUTY. IT WILL STOP ITS FALLING, AND INDUCE A HEALTHY AND MOST LUXURIANT GROWTH USE NO OTHER PREPARATION WITH IT, NOT EVEN OIL OR POMADE, OR ZYLO-BALSAMUM.
CAUTION!!—The Genuine only in Pink Wrappers.
Sold by all Chemists, Perfumers, and Dealers in Toilet Articles.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.
Mrs. S. A. ALLEN manufactures two entirely distinct Preparations for the Hair. One or the other is suited to every condition of the Human Hair. Both are never required at one time. For details as to each preparation, kindly read above and below this paragraph. Readers can easily determine which of the two they require.

MRS. S. A. ALLEN'S
ZYLO-BALSAMUM,
For the Growth and Preservation of the Hair.
A cooling transparent liquid, entirely vegetable, without sediment.
A SIMPLE TONIC AND DRESSING OF INESTIMABLE VALUE TO BOTH SEXES, THE FAVOURITE WITH THE YOUNG AND ALL THOSE WHO HAVE NO GREY HAIR. PREMATURE LOSS OF THE HAIR, SO COMMON IN THESE DAYS, MAY BE ENTIRELY PREVENTED BY THE USE OF ZYLO-BALSAMUM. PROMPT RELIEF IN THOUSANDS OF CASES HAS BEEN AFFORDED WHERE THE HAIR HAS BEEN COMING OUT IN HANDFULS. IT PROMOTES A HEALTHY AND VIGOROUS GROWTH. HAIR DRESSED WITH ZYLO-BALSAMUM IS ALWAYS CLEAN, FREE FROM DANDRUFF, AND WITH THAT BEAUTIFUL GLOSS ONLY SEEN IN HEALTHY HAIR. IT IS DELIGHTFULLY FRAGRANT. NO OIL OR POMADE SHOULD BE USED WITH IT.
CAUTION!!—The Genuine only in Bluish Grey Wrappers.
Sold by all Chemists, Perfumers, and Dealers in Toilet Articles.

GOLDEN STAR BAY-LEAF WATER.
Triple distilled from the fresh leaves of the Bay Tree (Myrcia Acris).
For the TOILET, NURSERY, and BATH.
A few drops on a sponge or towel moistened with water, and the face and hands bathed with it, is very beneficial to the skin, removing all roughness. Most highly recommended to apply after shaving. A small quantity in the bath gives a delightful aroma, and it has most remarkable cleansing properties. Particularly suited to the delicate skin of infants and young children. Most grateful to invalids and all who suffer from headache from mental labour or fatigue Buy only the genuine Golden Star Bay-Leaf Water, sold in three sizes (Toilet Bottles, 2s. 6d., 5s., &c., by Chemists and Perfumers, or on receipt of stamps from the Wholesale Dépôt, 114 and 116, Southampton-row, London.

DR. DE JONGH'S
(KNIGHT OF THE LEGION OF HONOUR, KNIGHT OF THE ORDER OF LEOPOLD OF BELGIUM)
LIGHT-BROWN COD-LIVER OIL.
THE PUREST.
THE MOST PALATABLE.
THE MOST DIGESTIBLE.
THE MOST EFFICACIOUS.

DR. DE JONGH'S
LIGHT-BROWN COD-LIVER OIL,
proved by twenty-five years' medical experience to be
THE ONLY COD-LIVER OIL
which produces the full curative effects in
CONSUMPTION AND DISEASES OF THE CHEST, THROAT AFFECTIONS, GENERAL DEBILITY, WASTING DISEASES OF CHILDREN, RICKETS, AND ALL SCROFULOUS DISORDERS.

SELECT MEDICAL OPINIONS.
SIR G. DUNCAN GIBB, Bart., M.D., Physician to the Westminster Hospital.
"The value of Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD-LIVER OIL as a therapeutic agent in a number of diseases, chiefly of an exhaustive character, has been admitted by the world of medicine; but, in addition, I have found a remedy of great power in the treatment of many Affections of the Throat and Larynx, especially in Consumption of the latter, where it will sustain life when everything else fails."

DR. SINCLAIR COGHILL,
Physician Royal National Hospital for Consumption, Ventnor.
"I have convinced myself that in Tubercular and the various forms of Strumous Disease, Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD-LIVER OIL possesses greater therapeutic efficacy than any other Cod-Liver Oil with which I am acquainted. It was especially noted in a large number of cases in which the patients protested they had never been able to retain or digest other Cod-Liver Oil, that Dr. DE JONGH'S OIL was not only tolerated, but taken readily, and with marked benefit."

LENNOX BROWNE, Esq., F.R.C.S.E., Senior Surgeon Central London Throat and Ear Hospital.
"The action of Dr. de Jongh's Light-Brown Cod-Liver Oil has proved, in my own experience, particularly valuable, not only in those diseases for which it was originally employed, but also in many cases of weakness of the Singing and Speaking Voice, dependent on Bronchial or Laryngeal Irritation, and in all forms of Strumous Enlargement of Glands, and Discharges from the Ear."

DR. PROSSER JAMES,
Lecturer on Materia Medica, London Hospital.
"DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD-LIVER OIL contains the whole of the active ingredients of the remedy, and is easily digested. Hence its value, not only in Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, but in a great number of cases to which the Profession is extending its use."

DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD-LIVER OIL is sold ONLY in capsuled IMPERIAL Half-Pints, 2s. 6d.; Pints, 4s. 9d.; Quarts, 9s.; by all respectable Chemists and Druggists throughout the world.
SOLE CONSIGNEES,
ANSAR, HARFORD, and CO., 77, STRAND, LONDON.

"FOR THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE."
CLARKE'S WORLD-FAMED BLOOD MIXTURE is warranted to cleanse the Blood from all impurities, from whatever cause arising. For Scrofula, Scurvy, Skin and Blood Diseases its effects are marvellous. In Bottles, 2s. 6d. each, and in Cases containing six times the quantity, 11s. each, of all Chemists. Sent to any address for 30 or 132 stamps, of the Proprietor, F. J. CLARKE, Chemist, Lincoln.

IMPORTANT TO ALL,
ESPECIALLY TO CONSULS, SHIP CAPTAINS, EMIGRANTS, AND EUROPEANS GENERALLY, who are visiting or residing in HOT OR FOREIGN CLIMATES.
As a means of keeping the system clear, and thus taking away the groundwork of Malarious Diseases and all Liver Complaints, or as a Gentle Laxative and Tonic in the Invigorating Beverage, or as a Gentle Laxative and Tonic in the various forms of Indigestion, use
ENO'S FRUIT SALT
(PREPARED FROM SOUND RIPE FRUIT).

THE TOPIC OF TO-DAY.
THE OCCUPATION OF CYPRUS.
INCREASE OF FEVER AT NICOSIA.

JEOPARDY OF LIFE.—GREAT DANGER OF DELAY.
After suffering from FEVER FOUR TIMES, in each attack with very great danger, three of them out of the four having been more dangerous or critical—from a very extensive and careful observation, extending over a period of forty years, I am perfectly satisfied the "true cause" of fever is a disorganised state of the liver. This, if left to itself, poisons the blood as a scavenger might sweep the streets. When the liver is not working properly a quantity of effete matter is left floating in the blood. Under these circumstances, should the system receive germs of fever, absorbed then the disease results; on the contrary, anyone whose liver and other organs are in a normal condition may be subjected to precisely the same conditions as to contagious influence and yet escape the fever. This, I consider, explains the seeming mystery that some persons who are placed in circumstances peculiarly favourable for the development of fever, who, in fact, live in the very midst of it, escape unscathed. This being the case, the importance of KEEPING THE LIVER IN THE HIGHEST POSSIBLE STATE OF EFFICIENCY UNDER CONTROL BE OVER-ESTIMATED; and thus prevent the many DISASTROUS CONSEQUENCES; not only as an efficient means of WARDING OFF FEVERS and MALARIOUS DISEASES, but as a REMEDY FOR and PREVENTIVE OF BILIOUS or SICK HEADACHES, CONSTIPATION, VOMITING, THIRST, ERRORS of EATING and DRINKING, SKIN ERUPTIONS, GIDDINESS, HEARTBURN, &c. If its great value in these and like troubles were UNIVERSALLY KNOWN, NO FAMILY WOULD BE WITHOUT A SUPPLY. In many fevers, AT THE COMMENCEMENT of ANY FEVER, at the COMMENCEMENT of any ILLNESS, ENO'S FRUIT SALT ACTS as a SPECIFIC. No one can have a simpler or more efficient remedy; by its use the POISON IS THROWN OFF and the BLOOD RESTORED TO ITS HEALTHY CONDITION. I used my FRUIT SALT freely in my last attack of fever, and I have every reason to say it saved my life.
J. C. ESO, Hatcham Fruit Salt Works, S.E.

WHAT EVERYBODY SHOULD KNOW.
HOW IMPORTANT IT IS to every individual to have at hand some simple, effective, and palatable remedy, such as ENO'S FRUIT SALT, to check disease at the onset! For this is the time. With very little trouble you can change the course of the trickling mountain stream, but not the rolling river. It will then be all your tiny efforts. I feel I cannot sufficiently impress this important information upon all Householders or Ship Captains, or Europeans generally who are visiting or residing in any hot or Foreign Climate. Whenever a change is contemplated likely to disturb the condition of health, let ENO'S FRUIT SALT be your companion, for, under any circumstances, its use is beneficial and never can do harm. When you feel out of sorts, or unable to say why, frequently without any warning you are suddenly seized with lassitude, disinclination for bodily or mental exertion, loss of appetite, sickness, pain in the forehead, dull aching of back and limbs, coldness of the stomach, and shivering, or, then your whole body is out of order, the spirit of danger has already begun, but you do not know it may end; it is a real necessity to have a simple remedy at hand, that will always answer to the call in such a positive assurance of doing good in every case, and in no case any harm. The Fruit Salt can steer and direct so as to bring the ship into safety, but he cannot quell the raging storm. The common idea when not feeling well is—I will wait and see; perhaps I shall be better to-morrow; whereas, had a supply of ENO'S FRUIT SALT been at hand, and use made of it at the onset, all calamitous results might have been avoided. What sickness to the earth so many hopes, breaks so many sweet alliances, blasts so many auspicious enterprises as untimely death? It is not exaggeration, but simple fact, when I state that any little pecuniary benefit I may derive from the sale of this preparation is absolutely nothing as compared with the immense benefit by those who use it.

ENO'S FRUIT SALT
is particularly valuable. No traveller should leave home without a supply, for by its use the most dangerous forms of Fevers, Blood Poisons, &c., are Prevented and Cured. It is, in truth, a Family Medicine Chest in the simplest and most potent form. Instead of being lowering to the system, this preparation is in the highest degree invigorating. Its effect in relieving thirst, giving tone to the system, and aiding digestion is most striking.

ENO'S FRUIT SALT (one of Nature's own products) keeps the blood pure, and is thus of itself one of the most valuable means of keeping the blood free from fevers and blood poisons, liver complaints, &c., ever discovered. As a means of promoting and restoring health it is unequalled; and it is, moreover, a pleasant, refreshing, and invigorating beverage. After a patient and close observation of its effects when used, I have no hesitation in stating that if its great value in keeping the body healthy were universally known, not a household in the land would be without it nor a single travelling ship or portmanteau but would contain it.—J. C. ENO.

ENO'S FRUIT SALT.—IMPORTANT to ALL TRAVELLERS.
"Please send me half a dozen bottles of ENO'S FRUIT SALT. I have tried ENO'S FRUIT SALT in America, India, Egypt, and on the Continent for almost every complaint, fever included, with the most satisfactory results. I can strongly recommend it to travellers; in fact, I am never without it.—Yours, faithfully, An Engineer, F.R.G.S., M.R.A.S., &c., Executive Engineer, P.W.D., Government of India, June 26, 1878."

A BLESSING IN EVERY HOUSE.
ENO'S FRUIT SALT.
A Lady writes:—"Everything, medicine or food, ceased to act properly for at least three months before I commenced taking it. The little food I could take generally punished me or returned. My life was one of great suffering, so that I must have succumbed before long. To me and our family it has been a great earthly blessing."

HOW TO AVOID THE INJURIOUS EFFECTS OF STIMULANTS.—The present system of living—partaking of too rich foods, as pastry, sauces, and fatty substances, alcoholic drinks, and an insufficient amount of exercise—frequently deranges the liver. I would advise all bilious people, unless they are careful to keep the liver acting freely, to exercise great care in the use of alcoholic drinks, avoid strong, and always dilute largely with water. Experience shows that porter, mild ales, port wine, dark sherries, sweet champagne, liqueurs, and brandies are all very apt to disagree; while light white wines, and gin or whisky largely diluted with soda-water, will be found the least objectionable. ENO'S FRUIT SALT is peculiarly adapted for any constitutional weakness of the liver; it possesses the power of reparation when digestion has been disturbed or lost, and places the invalid on the right track to health. A world of woes is avoided by those who keep and use ENO'S FRUIT SALT; therefore no family should ever be without it.

CAUTION.—Examine each Bottle and see the Capsule is marked "ENO'S FRUIT SALT." Without it you have been imposed on by a worthless imitation. SOLD BY ALL CHEMISTS. Price 2s. 6d. and 4s. 6d.
FRUIT SALT WORKS, HATCHAM, LONDON, S.E.

EPPS'S COCOA.
GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.
JAMES EPPS AND CO., HOMŒOPATHIC CHEMISTS.

THE "Civil Service Gazette" says:—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast-tables with a delicately-flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by such application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly-nourished frame."

THE "Naval and Military Gazette" says:—"The nutritive qualities of cocoa over either those of tea or coffee are now so generally acknowledged that the steady increase shown by official statistics in its consumption during recent years ceases to be a matter of surprise. One of the first firms to popularise this now indispensable beverage in our breakfast-table was Messrs. Epps and Co., whose adjunct to our breakfast-table has been, since 1839, has been so continuously before the public, and whose Homœopathic Cocoa is as familiar in our homes as the proverbial 'household words.' Those whose business it has been to watch at Messrs. Epps's works the elaborate and complex processes, and to note the care and labour bestowed before the cocoa bean is considered ready for consumption, cannot but admit that the popularity Messrs. Epps's productions have secured is fully deserved. The vastness of these works may be imagined when it is stated that four millions of pounds of prepared cocoa alone are prepared there yearly. The reputation gained, now many years since, for Mr. James Epps's preparation, both for its purity and its value as a dietetic, has been upheld and maintained. A constant increasing demand fully testifies to this—which must be as gratifying to Messrs. Epps as it is certainly flattering to the good faith they have kept with the public to secure so gratifying a result."

"All the Year Round" says:—"Having now disposed of fancy chocolate, let us stroll to the Euston-road, hard by the Regent's Park, to Epps's manufactory, where may be studied the making of cocoa from a stupendous scale, giving a just idea of the value of these articles, not as luxuries, but as actual food."

THE "Court Journal" says:—"In a climate so varying and trying as our own, to maintain sound and uniform health, our daily diet cannot be too carefully and attentively studied. Advancing science and recent discoveries have within the last few years been instrumental in adding several most valuable additions to our comparatively short list of dietetic foods. Foremost among these should be ranged cocoa, which, although known here several centuries previously, only came into general use within the last forty years. One of the first to popularise this now indispensable adjunct to our table was Mr. James Epps, whose 'Prepared Cocoa' has gained such just repute for its excellent and nutritious character. Prepared originally on homœopathic principles, in a soluble and convenient form, and easy of digestion, it met a public demand, speedily became popular, until now Messrs. Epps produce, almost unaided, millions of pounds of their cocoa a year, and their duce over four millions of pounds of their cocoa a year, and their manufactory is the largest of its kind in this country."

"Cassell's Household Guide" says:—"We will now give an account of the process adopted by Messrs. James Epps and Co., manufacturers of dietetic articles, at their works in the Euston-road, London."

THE "Morning Advertiser" says:—"In the middle of the seventeenth century an announcement appeared in one of the few journals of that period, to the effect that 'out of Bishopsgate-street, at a Frenchman's house, is an excellent West India drink, called chocolate, to be sold at reasonable rates.' This is the first record we have of the introduction of cocoa into England. For a time it flourished as a fashionable drink, and then, like all fashions, subsided. Nearly two centuries after, in 1832, the duties, which had been almost prohibitive, were greatly reduced, and one of the first to take advantage of re-establishing the popularity of the first to take advantage of re-establishing the Homœopathic cocoa was Messrs. James Epps and Co., the Homœopathic Chemists. Under the name of 'Prepared Cocoa' they introduced a soluble and convenient preparation, which required no boiling, and was palatable and highly nutritious. It met a public need, and was patronised from the first, and has increased in want, specially became popular, and year by year has increased in demand, till the consumption now exceeds four millions of pounds yearly."

THE "Christian World" says:—"If I am to take cocoa,' said I, 'I must know what it is made of; I must examine the process; I must dive into the mystery of its manufacture; I must see and judge for myself what are the ingredients of which it is composed. With this view I made my way to the manufactory of James Epps and Co., in the Euston-road.'"

"John Bull" says:—"In no branches of industry are recent scientific and chemical discoveries more generally applied than in those upon which our food supply is so largely dependent. The labours of the last generation have in many cases become the daily necessaries of the present. A forcible illustration of this is to be found in the enormous increase in the consumption of cocoa year by year—in exact proportion to the increased facilities for its manufacture. An idea of the vast extent of this industry may be gained from the fact that one firm alone—that of Messrs. Epps and Co.—now sell over four millions of pounds annually. The most important of these is the 'Homœopathic Cocoa' of Messrs. Epps has, during the many years it has been before the public, gained great and just repute, which its excellent quality and careful preparation certainly entitle it to. A cocoa in soluble form, and combining what are technically known as 'flesh-forming' and 'heat-giving' properties, is clearly an invaluable addition to our scanty list of dietetic foods. Such Messrs. Epps claim for their prepared cocoa, and such analysis and—most valuable of all—experience has proved it to be."

THE "Church Review" says:—"Although we cannot yet boast of a free breakfast-table, still the active legislation in furtherance of that object during the last half century leaves us much to be thankful for. A striking instance of the general good resulting from the removal of heavy imposts upon our food supply is afforded by the manufacture of cocoa. The consumption of cocoa since 1833, up to which period an almost prohibitive duty was levied, is 1,830 times increase in the consumption of cocoa since 1833, up to the total amount consumed in this country was less than half a million pounds yearly. At the present time one firm alone, that of Messrs. James Epps and Co., the Homœopathic Chemists, sell annually four million pounds."

THE "Civilian" says:—"In the seventeenth century, before either tea or coffee had found their way into the English markets, chocolate was a favourite beverage with the luxurious classes at that period; it then fetched an almost fabulous price per pound. To-day, when modern science and enterprise have placed it within the reach of every class, cocoa is not only still regarded as a palatable and refreshing drink, but is valued for its nutritive and dietetic qualities. One of the first, we believe, who may be credited with introducing cocoa in its present form is Mr. James Epps. Prepared on sound dietetic principles, Epps's Homœopathic cocoa contains all the nutritive properties of the native product in such a form that they are rendered thoroughly soluble, and, therefore, much more easy of digestion. The natural superabundance of fat present in raw cocoa is, moreover, not only counteracted, but made to serve one of the most essential functions of sound diet. Messrs. Epps's works are now, perhaps, the largest in the country, the cocoa produced there amounting to many million pounds a year."

"Land and Water" says:—"Through the kindness of Messrs. Epps, I recently had an opportunity of seeing the many complicated and varied processes the cacao bean passes through ere it is sold for public use, and being interested and highly pleased with what I saw then, and being interested and highly pleased with what I saw then, and being interested in manufactures, I thought a brief account during the visit to the manufactory, I thought a brief account of the cacao and the way it is manufactured by Messrs. Epps to fit it for a wholesome and nutritious beverage, might be likewise of interest to the readers of 'Land and Water.'"

EPPS'S COCOA.
GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.
JAMES EPPS AND CO., HOMŒOPATHIC CHEMISTS.

LONDON: Printed and Published at the Office, 198, Strand, in the Parish of St. Clement Danes, in the County of Middlesex by GEORGE C. LEIGHTON, 198, Strand.—SATURDAY, AUGUST 31, 1878.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS

REGISTERED AT THE GENERAL POST-OFFICE FOR TRANSMISSION ABROAD.

No. 2045.—VOL. LXXIII. SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 7, 1878. WITH TWO SUPPLEMENTS SIXPENCE. By Post, 6½d.

H.M.S. LIFFEY RESCUING THE CREW OF THE BURNING BARQUE ANITA.

BIRTHS.

On the 3rd inst., at Oriel Temple, Collon, Drogheda, Ireland, the Viscountess Massereene and Ferrard, of a daughter.

On the 31st ult., at Encombe, the Countess of Eldon, of a son.

On the 27th ult., at 29, Melville-street, Edinburgh, Lady Belhaven, of a daughter.

On the 30th ult., at 11, Grosvenor-crescent, Edinburgh, Countess Percy, of a daughter.

MARRIAGES.

On June 10, at Wellington, New Zealand, John Sawers, Esq., manager of the Bank of Australasia in New Zealand, to Elizabeth Hannah, eldest daughter of John Buchanan, Esq., of Elsthorpe and Napier, N.Z.

On the 5th inst., at the parish church, West Ham, by the Rev. Thomas Pratt, James, fourth son of the late William Kitson, of Stratford, Essex, to Elizabeth Celia, eldest daughter of William John Clarke, of Milton House, Stratford, Essex.

On the 29th ult., at the parish church, Horsley, Gloucestershire, the Rev. Percy Waller, Curate of the parish church, Clifton, to Emily, daughter of the late Sir Richmond Campbell Shakespear, C.B., Colonel Bengal Royal Artillery.

DEATHS.

On July 23, at his residence, The Hermitage, Westmoreland, Jamaica, the Hon. William Hilton Cooke, Custos for the parish of Hanover, in that island, and formerly of Worlaston Rookery, Nantwich, Cheshire, in his 64th year.

On the 1st inst., at the Lower Hall, Ledbury, Herefordshire, Archibald Kempt, Lieutenant R.N., second son of the late Rev. Edward Alexander Frederick Harenc, aged 29.

On July 6, at Sydney, Frederic Herbert, fourth and dearly loved son of William and Elizabeth E. Bray, of Darlinghurst, Bognor, Sussex, from a gun accident, in his 20th year.

On the 1st inst., at Thirlestane Castle, Lauder, N.B., the Earl of Lauderdale, G.C.B., Admiral of the Fleet, aged 75.

On the 1st inst., at The Firs, Esher, John William Brotherton, late 11th Hussars, aged 57, only son of the late General Sir Thomas W. Brotherton, G.C.B.

On the 31st ult., at Cheltenham, Eleanor Judith, widow of Burman Langa, Esq., and eldest daughter of the late Sir John Peniston Milbanke, Bart., of Halnaby Hall, Yorkshire.

 The charge for the insertion of Births, Marriages, or Deaths is Five Shillings for each insertion.

CALENDAR FOR THE WEEK ENDING SEPT. 14.

SUNDAY, Sept. 8.

Twelfth Sunday after Trinity. Morning Lessons: 1 Kings xxii. to 2 Kings ii. to 16 or iv. 8—38; Mark ix. 2—30. Evening Lessons: 1 Cor. xvi. 2 Kings ii. to 16 or iv. 8—38; Mark ix. 2—30. Westminster Abbey, 10 a.m., Rev. H. A. Cotton; 3 p.m., Rev. Canon Duckworth. Whitehall, 11 a.m. and 3 p.m., Rev. William Hulton. St. Paul's Cathedral, 10.30 a.m., Rev. W. Calvert, Minor Canon; 3.15 p.m., the Bishop of Montreal; 7 p.m., Rev. Dr. R. H. Luard, Vicar of Great St. Mary's, Cambridge. Savoy, 11.30 a.m., Rev. E. A. Hardy, Chaplain to the Government and the Collegiate Church, Malta; 7 p.m., the Bishop of Montreal.

MONDAY, Sept. 9.

Opening of Eleventh Annual Trades-Union Congress, Bristol. Wakefield Dog Show.

TUESDAY, Sept. 10.

Worcester Musical Festival: Morning, Handel's Dettingen "Te Deum," &c.; sermon by the Bishop of Worcester. Evening, Haydn's "Creation," Part I.; Mozart's "Requiem;" Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise." Doncaster Races. Warwickshire Agricultural Society Show, Coventry (two days).

WEDNESDAY, Sept. 11.

Full Moon, 3.49 p.m. Worcester Musical Festival: Mendelssohn's "Elijah." Evening, miscellaneous concert in the College Hall. Doncaster Races: the St. Leger. High Wycombe Show of Poultry, &c. Wirral and Birkenhead Agricultural Society's Show, Birkenhead (two days).

THURSDAY, Sept. 12.

Louis IV., Grand Duke of Hesse, born, 1837. Worcester Musical Festival: Morning, Dr. Armes's "Hezekiah" (new oratorio), Mendelssohn's "Hear my Prayer," and Spohr's "Last Judgment." Evening, miscellaneous concert in the College Hall. Middleton Agricultural Show. Northampton Horse Show, &c. (two days).

FRIDAY, Sept. 13.

Quekett Microscopical Club, 8 p.m. Worcester Musical Festival: Morning, Handel's "Messiah." Evening, grand choral service, parts by Sir F. Ousely and Dr. Stainer.

SATURDAY, Sept. 14.

Holy Cross. Buck-hunting begins. Gaiety Matinée: performance for the Hospital for Sick Children. Ripon and Middleton Athletic Sports. Wakefield Agricultural Society Annual Horse and Dog Show. West London Rowing Club. Yachting: Hammersmith Sailing Club.

THE WEATHER.

RESULTS OF METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS AT THE KEW OBSERVATORY OF THE ROYAL SOCIETY.

Lat. 51° 28′ 6″ N.; Long. 0° 10′ 47″ W.; Height above Sea, 34 feet.

Day.	Daily Means of: Barometer Corrected.	Temperature of the Air.	Dew Point.	Relative Humidity.	Amount of Cloud.	Thermom.: Maximum, read at 10 P.M.	Thermom.: Minimum, read at 10 P.M.	Wind: General Direction.	Movement in 24 hours, 10 A.M. next morning.	Rain in 24 hours, 10 A.M. next morning.
	Inches.	°	°	°	0-10	°	°		Miles.	In.
Aug. 26	29·739	61·6	56·8	·85	8	68·5	57·6	SW.	309	0·045
27	29·518	62·1	60·1	·94	9	70·3	56·3	SW. E. SSW.	226	0·170
28	29·440	60·7	56·3	·85	7	67·2	56·8	S. SW.	386	0·375
31	29·685	60·5	54·8	·82	8	66·4	57·5	SW. WSW. W.	263	0·050
Sept. 1	30·054	58·7	51·9	·79	—	62·3	57·1	W. WNW.	161	0·000
2	30·259	58·2	47·3	·69	6	66·5	53·7	WNW. W.	87	0·000
3	30·206	58·9	53·2	·83	4	70·6	48·9	W. SW.	135	0·000

The following are the readings of the meteorological instruments for the above days, in order, at ten o'clock a.m.:—

Barometer (in inches) corrected ..	29·783	29·589	29·374	29·613	30·004	30·267	30·256
Temperature of Air	64·5°	63·8°	62·7°	59·8°	59·3°	61·3°	62·0°
Temperature of Evaporation	59·3°	61·9°	58·8°	56·9°	55·3°	55·7°	57·8°
Direction of Wind	sw.	E.	W.	WSW.	WNW.	WNW.	sw.

TIMES OF HIGH WATER AT LONDON BRIDGE

FOR THE WEEK ENDING SEPTEMBER 14.

Sunday.		Monday.		Tuesday.		Wednesday.		Thursday.		Friday.		Saturday.
M	A	M	A	M	A	M	A	M	A	M	A	M	A
h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m
11 26	—	0 27	0 50	1 13	1 30	1 50	2 5	2 20	2 35	2 50	3 3	3 17	3 30

NOW READY.

VOL. LXXII. (JAN. 5 TO JUNE 29, 1878)

OF

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

Elegantly Bound in Cloth, Gilt Edges ... ... 20s. 0d.
Or in Paper Covers ... ... 15s. 0d.
Cases for binding the above ... ... 2s. 6d.
Reading-Case for Single Number ... ... 2s. 0d.
Portfolios for holding Six Months' Numbers ... ... 4s. 0d.
Office: 198, Strand.

"LOVE'S YOUNG DREAM."

In answer to numerous inquiries, we beg to state that the ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS for Aug. 17, containing the COLOURED PICTURE "LOVE'S YOUNG DREAM," from a painting by T. K. Pelham, has been reprinted, and that a few copies are still on sale.

Office, 198, Strand, W.C.

THE ILLUSTRATED
PARIS UNIVERSAL EXHIBITION.

An English Edition of

L'EXPOSITION UNIVERSELLE DE 1878 ILLUSTRÉE,

in continuation of the Illustrated Journal issued in 1867 under the authority of the Imperial Commission, is issued every Tuesday,

PRICE THREEPENCE.

PUBLISHED AT THE OFFICE OF

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS,

198, STRAND, LONDON.

All Country Orders to be supplied through the London Agents.

DORÉ'S GREAT WORK, "THE BRAZEN SERPENT," "CHRIST LEAVING THE PRÆTORIUM," and "CHRIST ENTERING THE TEMPLE," each 35 ft. by 22 ft.; with "Dream of Pilate's Wife," "Soldiers of the Cross," &c., at the DORÉ GALLERY, 35, New Bond-street, W. Daily, 10 to 6. 1s.

ELIJAH WALTON.—EXHIBITION of ISLE OF WIGHT and other WATER-COLOUR DRAWINGS, chiefly Alpine and Eastern, NOW OPEN at BURLINGTON GALLERY, 191, Piccadilly. Ten till Six. Admission, including Catalogue, 1s.

CRYSTAL PALACE PICTURE-GALLERY. The GALLERY is now REOPENED for the Season with a NEW COLLECTION of BRITISH and FOREIGN PICTURES for SALE.—For Particulars, apply to Mr C. W. Wass, Crystal Palace.

ST. JAMES'S HALL, PICCADILLY. ALL THE YEAR ROUND EVERY NIGHT AT EIGHT. MONDAYS, WEDNESDAYS, SATURDAYS AT THREE AND EIGHT. THE MOORE and BURGESS MINSTRELS. Fauteuils, 5s.; Sofa Stalls, 3s.; Area, Raised and Cushioned Seats, 2s.; Balcony, 1s. No fees. No charge for Programmes. Ladies can retain their bonnets in all parts of the Hall.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

LONDON: SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 7, 1878.

There has been no unusual dearth of political events during the week—at any rate, of those which are connected with foreign affairs. The commemoration of M. Thiers's death in the Cathedral of Notre Dame, Paris; the advance, difficult and slow, but nevertheless sure, of Austrian troops in Bosnia and Herzegovina; the cession of the port of Batoum to Russia; the reluctance of the Porte to give effect to the Treaty of Berlin in as far as it affects the rectification of the frontiers of Greece; and several minor incidents thereto relating, offer subjects of reflection both inviting and instructive. But, for the moment, all such topics are effaced from the mind by the appalling catastrophe which occurred on the river Thames last Tuesday evening. The magnitude of this disaster exceeds anything of the kind which has been recorded for many years past. The details of the accident, so far as it has been possible to collect them, will be found elsewhere. It will suffice for our present purpose to state that the Princess Alice, one of the largest saloon-steamers of the London Steam-Boat Company, which had started in the morning with between six and seven hundred excursionists on board, came into collision, on her return passage, with a screw collier steamer, the Bywell Castle, near the middle of the stream, just off the City of London Gasworks at Beckton, a little below North Woolwich Gardens. Within about five minutes the Princess Alice, with her crowded freight of holiday passengers, went down in deep water. A few saved themselves by clambering on to the other vessel; some were picked up by the Duke of Teck, another steamer belonging to the same company, which was also on her passage up with a party of excursionists; but we are told that "the river, for a hundred yards, was full of drowning people, screaming in anguish and praying for help."

In the presence of so awful a calamity one can only stand aghast, paralysed, heart-stricken. The first thought that starts up within one relates to the dead. Within an hour or two of their respective places of abode, buoyant with the excitement of the pleasurable trip they had enjoyed, mingling with grateful retrospection of the day, pleasing anticipations of the homes to which they were drawing nigh, with little thought of danger, and therefore with no preparation for their swift-approaching fate, it is impossible to realise what must have been the agony of emotion which convulsed that assemblage of gay-hearted people during the few minutes in which death stared them in the face. A considerable proportion of them would, on such an occasion, be made up of women and children, many of them, of course, consisting of family parties—few of them, perhaps, without relations on board, or without intimate associates. It is matter of question whether those who finally escaped, or those who were engulfed in the stream, were most to be commiserated. Short and sharp was the summons which called hundreds away from their earthly lot, just when their cup of enjoyment was as full as it was sweet. What passed within those few minutes the most active imagination scarcely dares to conjecture. Perhaps it were unwise even to make the attempt. The dead cannot be recalled to life by the most earnest outcries of sympathetic feeling from the living. They have passed beyond human aid. There is nothing that can be done for them but to collect their remains as soon and as far as may be possible, and to commit them to the tomb in hushed resignation and in hope of a happier future.

But the living are still among us. If sympathy can mitigate their grief, sympathy they certainly will have in no scant measure. All London mourns with the bereaved, and the country shares its sorrow. There must have been in hundreds of homes on Tuesday night terrible suspense, perhaps anxious inquiries, and, eventually, apprehensions amounting to moral certainty, with regard to some member, perhaps members, of the household to whom the worst had happened. Even now, it may be, some days after the event, there are people scattered over both the metropolis and the provinces who know not the calamity that has befallen them or what evil tidings are in store for them. No list of the passengers could be taken beforehand, and the names of the few survivors only are likely, for some time, to be given to the public. The consequences, direct and remote, of the event resemble those of a great battle, save only that women and children make up so large a proportion of the victims. It is saddening to think upon; it casts a shade of gloom far and wide over the country; and in this sense, if in no other, must be regarded as a national disaster.

As yet, of course, the exact conditions under which the catastrophe occurred cannot be generally known. To the inquiry, "Who is accountable for this awful waste of life?" no definite or well-assured answer can be given. The wonder is, perhaps, all things considered, that such accidents are not more frequent than they have been. A comparatively narrow stream like that of the Thames in the vicinity of London, crowded with shipping seeking ingress and egress day and night, must make it a delicate and anxious task to steer a pleasure-steamer full of passengers clear of dangerous collision with other craft, and yet the infrequency of catastrophes similar to that of the Princess Alice is evidence that, in proper hands, the feat may be usually accomplished with safety. We do not see what measures of precaution can be taken calculated to obviate with certainty occasional disasters. The risks attendant upon these pleasure trips, whether visible or concealed from the eye, are many, but experience shows that they are ordinarily escaped, and that, under proper management, they are scarcely more to be feared than those of a railway excursion-train. The recreation which they offer throughout the summer season to pent-up citizens is ordinarily as enjoyable as it is beneficial to health, and may be looked upon by myriads as indispensable to the maintenance of both physical and moral tone under the pressure of business. It would be useless, nay, we cannot but think it would be cruel, to take advantage of such a misfortune as that to which we are adverting for the purpose of discountenancing excursions of the kind. It may be a question whether all the arrangements which affect them are as adequate as they might be for the prevention of accident. But it is by no means to be taken as a matter of course that the most perfect arrangements within the possibilities of the case would ensure to those needing a day's recreation now and then a complete immunity from unforeseen disaster.

There will, perhaps, be some clamour for legislative regulations with a view to lessen the dangers attendant upon steam-boat excursions from the metropolis. It is to be hoped that the question, if broached at all, will be treated with sufficient caution and under the light of all the information bearing upon either side of the subject. It would be quite possible to destroy the sources of a vast number of healthy recreations by a multiplicity of precautionary enactments. But, perhaps, absolute safety of life or limb could not be obtained thereby, nor be worth having at so enormous a cost. The gain on the one hand would be probably more than balanced by the loss on the other. So long as society exists it will be exposed, more or less, to mischances of a deplorable nature; and it is only within extremely narrow limits that legal regulations can be devised to eliminate them altogether.

THE COURT.

The Queen, accompanied by Princess Beatrice, was present at the Braemar games and gathering of the Braemar Royal Highland Society at Mar Castle on Thursday week, and witnessed the competition for the different prizes. Her Majesty was received by the Earl of Fife and Colonel Farquharson of Invercauld; and a guard of honour, composed of the respective clans, saluted the Queen, both on her arrival and departure. The Right Hon. R. A. Cross arrived at Balmoral as Minister in attendance on her Majesty.

The Queen received the gratifying intelligence of the birth of the Queen's twenty-sixth grandchild on Sunday, her Imperial and Royal Highness the Duchess of Edinburgh having given birth at Coburg to a daughter. Her Majesty, Princess Beatrice, and Prince Leopold attended Divine service, performed at the castle by the Rev. A. Campbell, of Crathie.

The Queen, accompanied by Princess Beatrice, has made various excursions on Deeside. On Tuesday her Majesty and the Princess drove to the Glassalt Shiel. Prince Christian Victor of Schleswig-Holstein, who is staying at Birchwood Cottage, Braemar, has paid various visits to Balmoral and lunched with the Queen; and his tutor, Mr. Burnside, has been presented to her Majesty. Prince Leopold takes daily walks and drives.

The Right Hon. Sir Thomas and the Hon. Lady Biddulph and the Rev. Archibald Campbell have dined with the Queen. The Right Hon. R. A. Cross dines generally with her Majesty.

The Queen has telegraphed to the President of the Board of Trade to express her deep sympathy with the sufferers in the recent railway accident at Sittingbourne; and on Wednesday her Majesty again telegraphed expressing her deepest sorrow and sympathy for the relatives and friends of the poor creatures who perished by the sinking of the steamer Princess Alice in the Thames, which message was immediately forwarded to Woolwich.

The Queen has received, through Sir A. H. Layard, a magnificent album from the Sultan, containing his own portrait and those of the Imperial family.

Her Majesty has appointed Safvet Pasha, Grand Vizier and Minister of Foreign Affairs to the Sultan of Turkey, to be an Honorary Knight Grand Commander of the Star of India.

The Queen has appointed Captain Arthur John Loftus to be one of the Gentlemen Ushers Quarterly Waiters in Ordinary to her Majesty, in the room of General H. S. Stephens.

Upon the anniversary of the lamented Prince Consort's birthday, the gentlemen in waiting, together with the servants and tenants of the Balmoral, Abergeldie, and Birkhall estates, assembled at the obelisk at twelve o'clock, and drank to the memory of his Royal Highness.

The following were the orders for the Court's going into mourning on Sunday last for the late Queen Dowager Christina of Spain, grandmother of the reigning King—viz., The ladies to wear black dresses, white gloves, black or white shoes, feathers and fans, pearls, diamonds, or plain gold or silver ornaments. The gentlemen to wear black Court dress, with black swords and buckles. The Court to change the mourning on the 15th, and to go out of mourning on the 22nd inst.

THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES.

The Princess of Wales, accompanied by the King and Queen of Denmark, Princess Thyra and Prince Waldemar, and Prince William of Schleswig-Holstein-Glücksburg, drove from Cowes to Newport on Saturday last, and thence took the ordinary train for Ventnor viâ Sandown, arriving at Ventnor Station at two o'clock, where carriages were in waiting to take the distinguished visitors to the Royal Hotel, Undercliffe. After luncheon the Royal party walked in the grounds of the hotel, ascending the mound forming part of them, whence they obtained a bird's-eye view of Ventnor, with its bay and the pier. The King and Queen were to have inspected the grounds of Steephill Castle, but the time was too short, and the Princess sent a message to Mr. Hambrough, the owner, thanking him for his courtesy, and regretting that there was not time to see his place properly on that occasion. The Royal visitors drove through Ventnor and Bonchurch to Shanklin, where they viewed the Chine, and afterwards drove to Sandown, where they re-entered the train and returned to Cowes. The Prince and Princess, with their children, accompanied by the King and Queen of Denmark, Princess Thyra, and Prince William of Glücksburg, left Cowes on Wednesday for town. The Royal party crossed in the Prince's yacht Osborne to Portsmouth, whence they travelled by special train to Victoria station, where they were received by the Grand Duchess of Mecklenburg, the Danish Minister and Madame Bülow, and Mr. J. P. Knight. Mrs. J. P. Knight, who was also on the platform, had the honour of being presented to the Princess, who presented her to the Queen of Denmark. The Royal party drove to Marlborough House.

The Prince has subscribed one hundred guineas to the fund for rebuilding the Marbœuf Chapel, Paris.

ACCOUCHEMENT OF THE DUCHESS OF EDINBURGH.

The Duchess of Edinburgh was safely delivered of a daughter at seven o'clock on Sunday morning last at the Duke's palace at Coburg. Dr. W. S. Playfair and Dr. C. Florschustz were in attendance. Latest telegrams announce that the Duchess and her infant are doing well.

THE GRAND DUKE AND GRAND DUCHESS OF HESSE.

The Grand Duke and Grand Duchess of Hesse, accompanied by the Hereditary Grand Duke, and Princesses Victoria, Ella, Irene, Alix, and Mary of Hesse, arrived at Buckingham Palace on Wednesday from Eastbourne. Their Royal Highnesses travelled by the London, Brighton, and South Coast Railway to the Victoria station, where Colonel Du Plat, Equerry to the Queen, was in attendance to receive them.

Prince and Princess Christian of Schleswig-Holstein have arrived in Germany.

Princess Louise of Lorne and the Marquis of Lorne arrived at Coburg on Sunday on a visit to the Ducal Court and the Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh.

The Grand Duchess of Mecklenburg-Strelitz has arrived at St. James's Palace from Strelitz on a visit to her mother, the Duchess of Cambridge.

Prince Wilhelm of Prussia arrived in town on Wednesday from Potsdam.

His Excellency Musurus Pasha has left London for Constantinople. Etienne Musurus Bey, Councillor of the Ottoman Embassy, will act as Chargé-d'Affaires during the absence of his Excellency.

His Excellency the Minister of the United States and Miss Welch left town on Monday for the Continent. During Mr. Welch's absence the Legation will be in the hands of Mr. W. J. Hopkin, the first secretary, as Chargé-d'Affaires.

The Lord Lieutenant of Ireland and the Duchess of Marlborough have returned to the Viceregal Lodge.

The Duke of Richmond and Gordon has returned to Gordon Castle from Glenfiddich.

The Duchess Dowager of St. Alban's has arrived at Ardarroch on a visit to Mr. and Mrs. White.

The Marquis and Marchioness of Bristol have left Ickworth Park, Bury St. Edmunds, for Scotland.

The Marchioness Dowager of Huntly and Lady Margaret Gordon have arrived at Mount Auville on a visit to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Roe.

Earl and Countess Sydney have returned to Frognal, their seat in Kent, from the Continent.

The Earl of Countess of Clarendon have arrived at The Grove, Watford, from visiting Colonel the Right Hon. F. A. and Lady Constance Stanley at Witherslack Hall, Lancashire.

The Earl and Countess of Aberdeen have gone to Sir Dudley and Lady Coutts Marjoribanks, at Guisachan, Beauly.

Viscountess Combermere has left Tunbridge Wells for St. Leonards-on-Sea.

Lord and Lady Londesborough have arrived at Londesborough Lodge, Scarborough.

The Dowager Lady Carington has arrived at Drummond Castle, Perthshire, on a visit to Lady Willoughby de Eresby.

The Right Hon. the Chancellor of the Exchequer and Lady Northcote and Miss Northcote have arrived on a visit to Macleod of Macleod at his seat in the North of Scotland.

Sir Charles Lennox Wyke has left town on his return to Denmark.

FASHIONABLE MARRIAGES.

The marriage of Lord Granville Gordon, brother of the Marquis of Huntly, and Miss Roe, eldest daughter of Mr. Henry Roe, D.L., the restorer of Christ Church Cathedral, took place in the cathedral on Wednesday. The bridesmaids were Miss Hall, Miss E. Roe, Miss M. Roe, Miss F. Roe, Lady Margaret Gordon, the Hon. Nora Gough, Miss Napier, and Miss Jameson. Their dresses were of white Indian muslin and lace over white silk. They also wore jasmine wreaths and long tulle veils, and in their hair each bridesmaid had a myrtle spray in diamonds and pearls, the gift of the bridegroom. The bride wore a white satin dress trimmed with a magnificent flounce of Brussels point lace and orange-blossoms and myrtle. She also wore a row of Orient pearls, a diamond heart, diamond and pearl earrings, and diamond bracelet. Her veil was fastened with pearl and diamond stars. The marriage service was performed by the Archbishop of Dublin, the Rev. Robert J. Roe, uncle of the bride, and the Rev. Canon Seymour, Precentor of the cathedral. The wedding breakfast took place at Mount Annville, the residence of the parents of the bride. Lord and Lady Granville Gordon left Dublin by special train for Killarney.

Lord Lyttelton is engaged to the daughter of Lord Chesham, and younger sister of the Countess of Leicester. The marriage will take place early in December.

The marriage of Captain J. Strachan Bridges and Lady Grace Stopford will take place at St. Michael's Church, Chester-square, on Thursday, the 19th inst.

BURNING OF A SHIP AT SEA.

We give an Illustration of the burning of the German barque Anita, and the rescue of her crew by H.M.S. Liffey, in the Atlantic Ocean. It was on June 19 that the Liffey, commanded by Captain W. R. Kennedy, outward bound to the Pacific, was running down before the north-east trade wind, to the westward of the Canary Islands, some of which were visible from the deck, when a smart sailing-barque appeared in sight astern. After a few hours she was sufficiently close to make out her name—the Anita, of Hamburg. Colours were exchanged, and the barque passed on; but about nine o'clock the same evening the officer of the watch in the Liffey reported a light, and afterwards a rocket, from a ship on the starboard side. The Liffey's course was at once altered, to close with the stranger, which proved to be the Anita. In answer to the question, "What is the matter?" the barque replied, "Ship on fire." The Liffey was at once brought to the wind, her sail shortened, and her boats were sent away with fire engines, buckets, and other apparatus. The barque proved to be laden with spirits for the West African negroes, also some paraffin and gunpowder—a goodly mixture. The flames had already got hold of the cargo, and spread so rapidly that it was soon apparent that there was no hope of saving the ship. The captain and crew were therefore transferred to the Liffey, and the barque was left to her fate. In a very short time the flames mounted on high, illuminating the sea and sky, and presenting a magnificent spectacle. About midnight the mizenmast fell over the side, and soon after the gunpowder exploded; this was followed by the fall of the mainmast, which, after rocking for some time, fell over to leeward. The Liffey stood by the burning ship till she was burnt to the water's edge, and then passed on her course to St. Vincent, Cape de Verde Isles, where the crew of the Anita were landed.

THE PARIS EXHIBITION.

One of the subjects chosen this week for our Illustrations of the Great Exhibition in the Champ de Mars at Paris will be interesting to mechanical engineers and to iron and steel manufacturers. It is the model of an enormous steam-hammer constructed for the forge of M. Schneider's great ironworks at Creusot, in Burgundy, some account of which has been given in our Journal. This most powerful implement consists of a piston moving up and down in a steam-cylinder which is upheld by a horizontal slab of iron resting upon two oblique converging side-pieces, 34 ft. high, the length of the cylinder being 16 ft. The piston is armed, at the lower end, with a huge hammer-head of the hardest steel, the combined weight of piston and hammer-head being more than seventy tons; and its perpendicular fall being 16 ft., the force of its blow, multiplying the weight by the effect of momentum in such a descent, may easily be calculated. The anvil at Creusot is a mass of iron, timber, and brickwork founded on solid rock, the base of which is fixed thirty feet below the surface of the ground. This tremendous forge-hammer is placed to work at Creusot in a vast hall built of iron, with four steam cranes attending upon it, to hand it the ponderous morsels of iron and steel, often weighing more than a hundred tons, with which it has to deal. The total cost of the forge, with all its machinery, is estimated at £120,000. It is destined especially for manufacturing the shafts of screw-propellers for large steam-ships, also the heaviest pieces of armour-plate for iron-clad ships-of-war and the monster ordnance lately introduced for naval warfare. The model shown in the Paris Exhibition, of the same dimensions, is placed at the north-east corner of the Exhibition Palace in the Champ de Mars, but, of course, it is not a working model. Another of our Illustrations represents the clock-tower, of pinewood, which stands in the centre of the space occupied by three Swedish and Norwegian model cottages in the Trocadéro Park. Such a tower is often to be found in a small country town or village of Sweden. The sides of the tower are plated with wooden shingles, laid so as to overlap each other like slates on a roof; the doorways and windows are of artistic design, and decorated with carving.

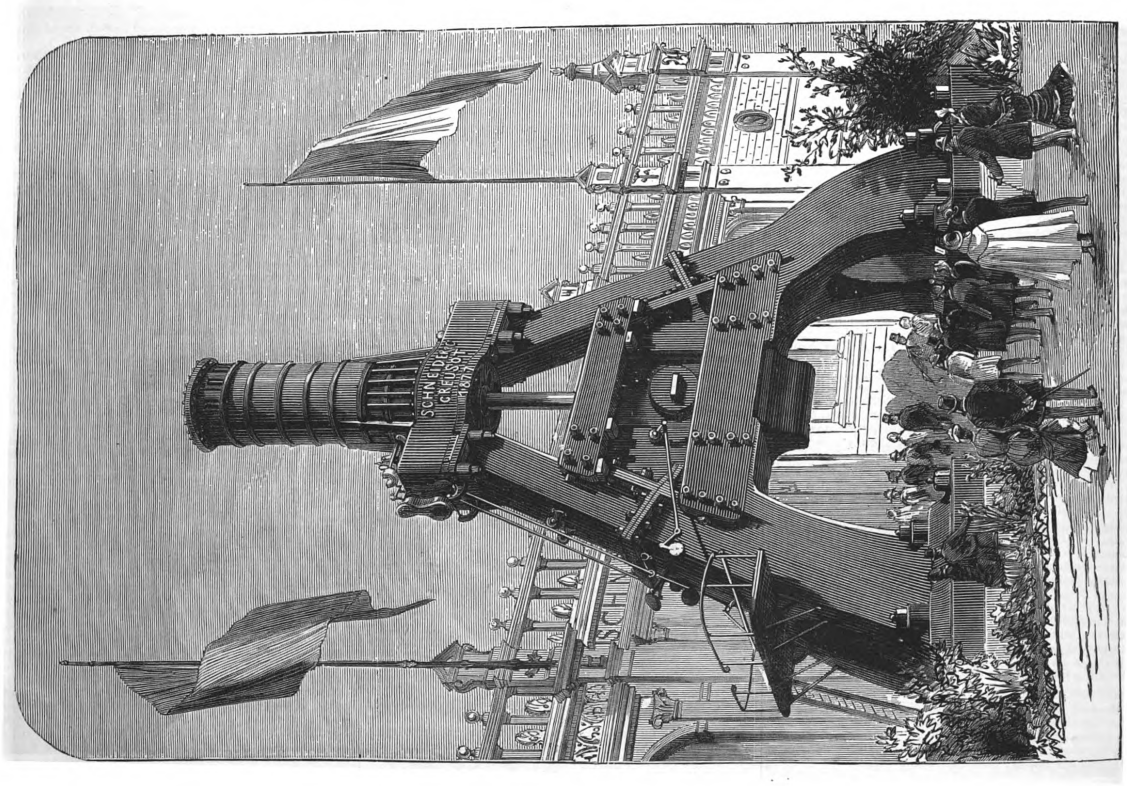
NATIONAL SPORTS.

The death of Mr. George Payne, which occurred on Monday morning last, breaks almost the last link between the present and a bygone era in the history of the turf. It cannot be said that the sad event was unexpected; indeed, nothing but the most marvellous constitution could have enabled a man who was nearly seventy-five years of age to survive a severe paralytic attack for so long. Mr. Payne was born in 1804, and after being educated at Eton and Oxford succeeded to his father's estates, which, owing to a long minority, had increased immensely in value; and the almost regal style in which he dispensed hospitality on all sides is still well remembered in Northamptonshire. In 1826 he accepted the office of High Sheriff, and was twice Master of the Fytchley, the occasion of his final retirement being marked by the presentation of a magnificent testimonial from members of the Hunt. In spite of a connection with the turf which extended over fifty years, Mr. Payne never possessed a really good horse, perhaps the best that ever ran in his name being that fine stayer, Musket, and he always carried the colours of Lord Glasgow, by whom he was bequeathed to Mr. Payne. When he first became an owner of racehorses he was in confederation with the Marquis of Ailesbury and Mr. Greville; but after one or two changes of stables he sent his horses to Alec Taylor, at Fyfield, and for many years past has been closely identified with the successes of Mr. Stirling Craufurd and other patrons of the Manton establishment. But there were other branches of sport in which Mr. George Payne distinguished himself far more highly than in racing. Few have ever gone straighter or better in the hunting-field; he could well hold his own among the grouse and partridges, while his reputation as a whist-player was European. Still we cannot help feeling rather sad that a man of such unequalled charm of manner and great natural gifts did not achieve, as he might readily have done, a great reputation in widely different pursuits; but he steadily declined to represent a constituency in Parliament, feeling that his time and thoughts were fully taken up with other occupations. Still a man has not lived in vain who has shown that it is possible to be actively mixed up with turf pursuits for half a century and yet to preserve his honour bright and free from blemish, and to die honoured and lamented by, perhaps, the largest and most distinguished circle of friends of which any man could ever boast.

The result of the Great Yorkshire Stakes, which was run on the last day at York, fairly extinguished the St. Leger chances of the three outsiders that were engaged in it. Certainly Glengarry ran a little better than he did against Bonnie Dundee; but Castlereagh managed to catch him about fifty yards from the judge's box and beat him by a neck, while Eau de Vie collapsed altogether inside the distance, and is clearly a non-stayer. On the spur of the moment, so little as 20 to 1 was accepted about Castlereagh; but, in the race, there was little to choose between him and the second, while all three were so close together that we may as safely write them down as very moderate. Amice had some little trouble in getting rid of Coromandel II., and it was very pleasant to see Mr. Savile's luckless colours in front for once in a way. The Queen's Plate was naturally a gift for Hampton; but Lady Golightly had all her work to do to beat the moderate Adamite in the York Cup, and it is clear that Lord Falmouth's filly retains little of the form that enabled her to win so many good stakes about this time last year. The much-talked-of Sans Pareil made his first appearance in the Colt Sapling Stakes, and had so much trouble in defeating the Woodbine colt, that the reports of his capabilities appear to be exaggerated, though it is never wise to attach too much importance to a two-year-old's first essay, as inexperience, and the complete novelty of the situation, often prevent him from displaying his real powers.

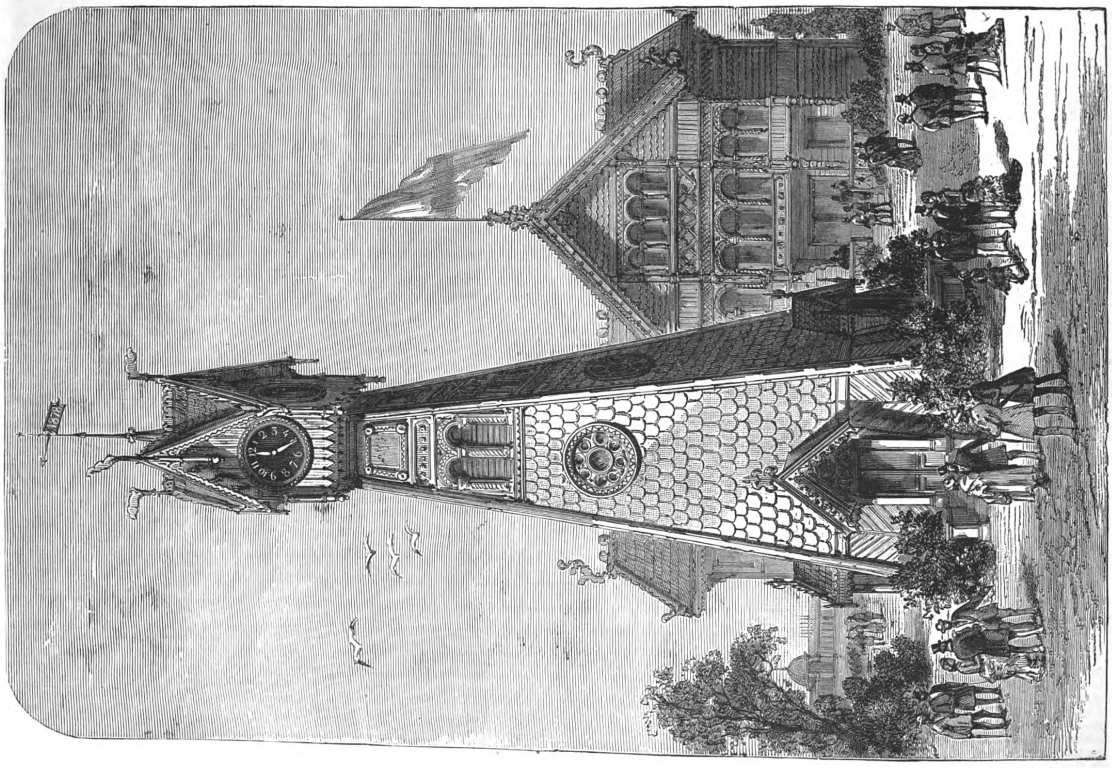
Heavy rain quite spoilt what might have been two pleasant days' racing at Scarborough at the end of last week; and the sport does not require comment. During the present week meetings have been held at Warwick, Richmond, Croydon, &c., but, with one or two exceptions, the events decided were only of passing interest. At Warwick Sword Knot carried home her 8 st. 12 lb. in gallant style in the first juvenile handicap of the season; and the double victory of White Rose at Richmond makes Cæsar's performance in the Ebor a very fair one indeed, as she could not get near him, in spite of having about 16 lb. the best of the weights. Still, these minor meetings evoked little interest, general attention being concentrated upon the St. Leger, which will be decided on Wednesday next, and the field for which seems likely to comprise the following:—Insulaire (Goater), Jannette (Archer), Childeric (Morris), Red Archer (Cannon), Beauclerc (Snowden), Attalus (Fordham), Glengarry (Custance), Castlereagh (J. Osborne), Clocher (Heslop), Bonnie Scotland (Constable), and Boniface. To this dozen may be added the names of Cyprus, Topaz, Eau de Vie, Inval, Master Kildare, Matador, Oasis, the Wild Deer colt, Potentate, and Ridotto, the starting of each of whom is more or less doubtful, though it may be taken for granted that some of them will help to swell the field. Since Beauclerc hit his leg again last week there have been a good many changes in the betting; but, at present, Insulaire is firmly established at the head of affairs, and seems likely to hold his position until the fall of the flag. Red Archer gains fresh adherents every day, and, of Lord Falmouth's pair, the colt, at the time of writing, is in better odour than the filly, though her credentials are superior to his in every way. Of course, after Beauclerc's enforced absence from exercise, the hopes of a northern victory are greatly damped; still the claims of four others seem so evenly balanced that the contest will create as much excitement as ever.

The two last county cricket matches of the season ended in draws, as the incessant and heavy rain made continuous play quite impossible. In all probability, Surrey would have wound up the season with a glorious victory over Gloucestershire, as, thanks mainly to Mr. J. Shuter (59) and Jupp (not out, 60), and the good bowling of Barratt, the game was all in their favour. Notts, for which Shaw and Morley bowled as grandly as ever, must have beaten Kent, as the northern county only required two more wickets to gain a single-innings victory. Owing to an unfortunate misunderstanding between the Australians and the leading professionals on the subject of remuneration, "the Australians v. the Players of England" became a mere farce, as, with two or three exceptions, England was represented by a second-class team. Still they made a splendid fight, being only beaten by eight runs. C. Bannerman (51) batted splendidly; but it was essentially a bowlers' match, and in the first innings of the Australians Barratt performed the great feat of taking all ten wickets for only 43 runs, though, oddly enough, not one of them was bowled. Spofforth took twelve wickets for only 75.



Partridge shooting this year began on Monday under very favourable circumstances. There seems to be an average number of birds, and they are reported to be in good condition.

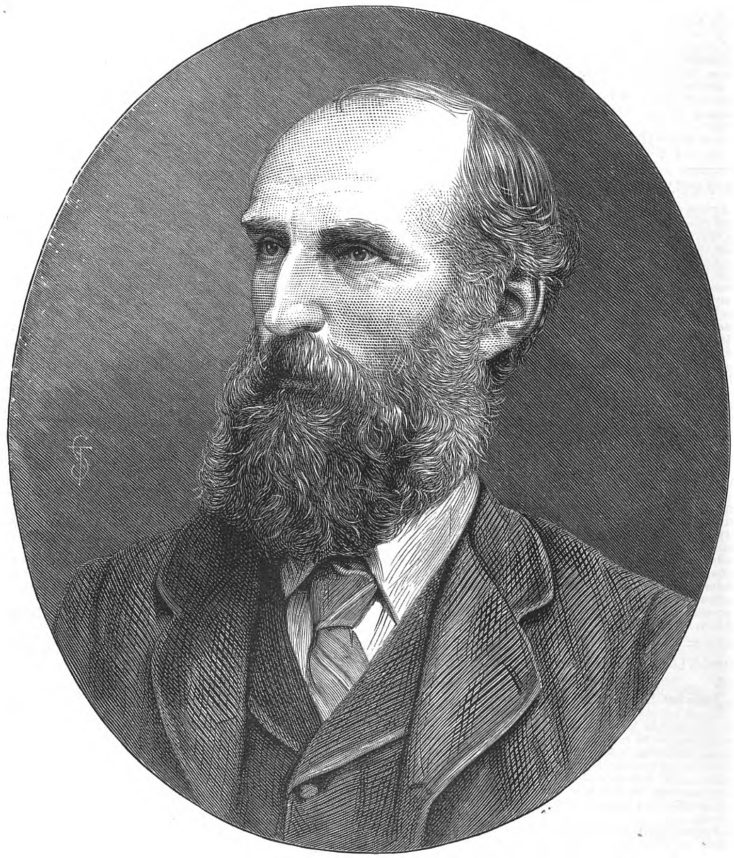
Profiting by the experience of former years, the committee of management of the Thames International Regatta have made it a great success, and an immense crowd of spectators assembled at Putney last Monday to see the final heats. The North-countrymen took full revenge for their defeats of last season, and literally swept off every first prize that was open to them. Boyd, Lumsden, Nicholson, and Elliott made a grand Four; while, in the Pairs, Lumsden and Boyd completely turned the tables upon Thomas and Higgins, who beat them so easily twelve months ago. Of course the most interesting event upon the card was the meeting of Higgins and Elliott for the final heat of the Sculls; but bad luck still followed the south, as, after getting well away, Higgins caught such a bad crab that he lost four lengths, and was never afterwards on terms with Elliott. The amateur element has been wisely eliminated from the regatta; but the tradesmen's races attracted numerous entries, and furnished some very closely-contested finishes.



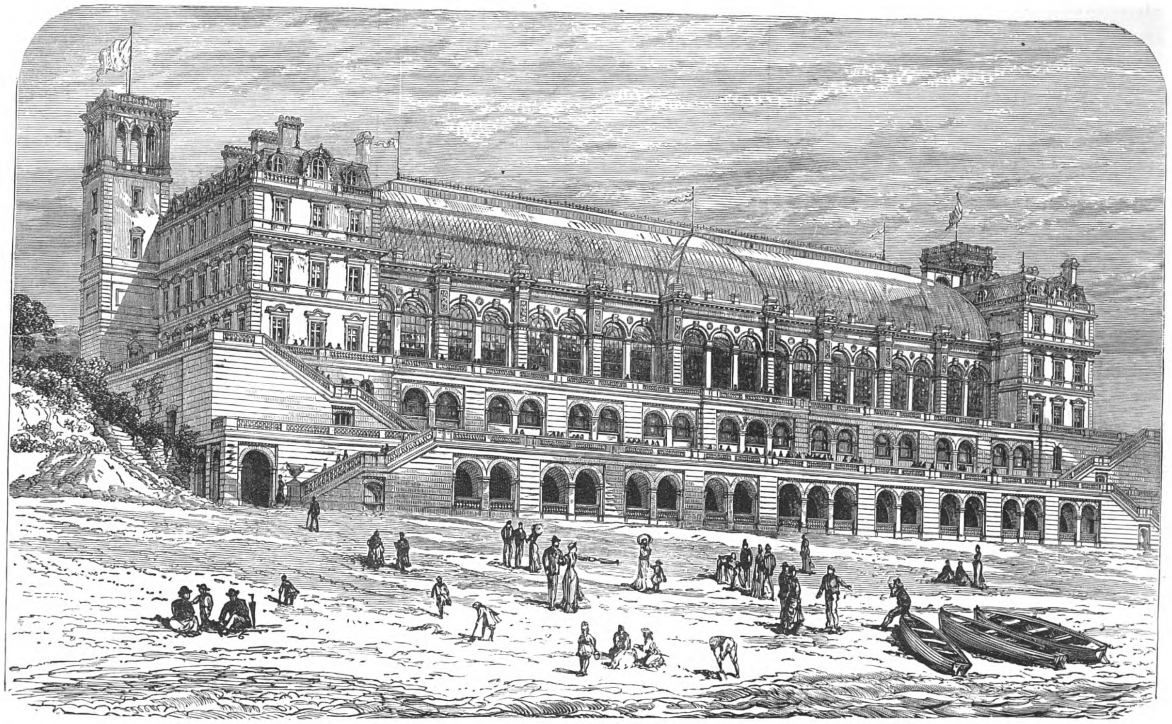
The Attorney-General for Ireland has appointed Mr. Henry Fitzgibbon, Q.C., Crown Prosecutor for the County Down, in the room of Mr. Thomas M'Dounell, Q.C., who has retired.

The quinquennial festival of the Royal Albert Asylum for Idiots at Lancaster took place on Wednesday in the hall of the institution—Lord Winmarleigh, the president, occupying the chair. Lord Hartington presided at a banquet which was held in the evening in connection with the event; and a distinguished company, including several members of the Government and Parliament, attended. Political subjects were avoided in the speeches, which dealt principally with the objects of the institution.

The new Exchange, built in memory of the late Lord Tredegar at Newport, Monmouthshire, was opened on Wednesday by the Duke of Beaufort, Lord Lieutenant of the county. Among those present were Lord Tredegar, Lord Henry Somerset, and Sir George Walker. Addresses were presented by the Newport Town Council, the Chamber of Commerce, and the Monmouthshire Chamber of Agriculture. The Exchange will be used not only for corn, but as a metal market. In the afternoon there was a luncheon—the Duke of Beaufort presiding—at which about 200 guests were present.



MODEL OF THE GREAT STEAM-HAMMER AT THE CREUSOT IRONWORKS.



THE PARIS EXHIBITION: SWEDISH CLOCK-TOWER, TROCADÉRO PARK.

MR. WILLIAM SPOTTISWOODE.

Mr. Spottiswoode, M.A., D.C.L., LL.D., Tr. R.S., the President of the British Association this year at Dublin, was born on Jan. 11, 1825, being the eldest son of the late Mr. Andrew Spottiswoode, for some time M.P. for Saltash, who was the printer to the Crown and the House of Lords, and the energetic promoter of many of those improvements in the art of printing of which we now witness the fruits. After due preparation, the son proceeded to the University of Oxford, where he became specially eminent for proficiency in his mathematical studies, the results of which are apparent in many profound papers in the principal scientific journals. His "Meditationes Analyticæ" were privately printed in 1837 and following years; and he has long been an earnest member of the London Mathematical Society. General literature also was not neglected, and he gave much attention to that of the East, especially Sanskrit. On leaving college and assuming the active superintendence of a large printing establishment, in succession to his father, he devoted his leisure to the study of physics; and by his long-continued experimental researches in the polarisation of light has attained special eminence in that department of optical science. The results of these labours have been, from time to time, laid before the members of the Royal Institution of Great Britain, with brilliant chromatic illustrations, in Friday evening discourses, and in a course of four lectures in 1876, notices of which have been duly given in the Illustrated London News, the two last ("Quartz, an Old Chapter re-written," and "A Nocturne in Black and Yellow") during the present year. In 1874 Mr. Spottiswoode complied with a general request by publishing, in "Nature Series," a little treatise on the "Polarisation of Light," of which a new edition, embracing his recent discoveries, is much desired. The practical application of his arithmetical powers has appeared in his conduct as treasurer of the British Association from 1861 to 1874, of the Royal Institution from 1865 to 1873, and of the Royal Society from 1871 to 1878 and all these bodies have flourished under the combination of wise liberality and judicious economy. In 1871 Mr. Spottiswoode succeeded the late Dr. H. Bence Jones, F.R.S., as honorary secretary of the Royal Institution, one of the more important duties of which is providing the lecture and Friday arrangements, in which, aided by the co-operation of Dr. Tyndall and the other professors, he has caused not only pure and applied science, but history, literature, music, and the fine arts to be honourably represented. The Royal Institution, being cosmopolitan in its character, a meeting-place for the scientific men of all countries, has given Mr. Spottiswoode the opportunity of showing much generous hospitality, in which he has been warmly supported by his wife. All these facts prove that his election as President of the British Association in 1877, and his nomination as future President of the Royal Society, in succession to Sir Joseph Dalton Hooker, is no more than a just recognition of his merits both as a worker in science and as a patron, since our more skilful philosophical instrument makers have always found him a liberal supporter of their ingenious inventions. Among these may be mentioned an exceedingly powerful electric induction machine, with which some remarkable effects in vacuum tubes have been produced. In 1876 Mr. Spottiswoode was elected a Corresponding Member of the French Academy of Sciences at Paris; in June last he was made D.C.L. at Oxford, and he received the degree of LL.D. at Dublin on the 22nd of last month. An abstract of his recent address to the British Association is given in our number for Aug. 17, page 151. In 1856 he made a brief visit to Eastern Russia, and described his experiences in a "Tarantasse Journey," published in 1857, with fourteen engravings, containing much information respecting the country and native tribes.

MR. W. SPOTTISWOODE, F.R.S., PRESIDENT OF THE BRITISH ASSOCIATION.

THE NEW AQUARIUM, TYNEMOUTH.

The Portrait of Mr. Spottiswoode is from a photograph by Mr. Chancellor, of Lower Sackville-street, Dublin.

THE TYNEMOUTH AQUARIUM.

The advantages of Tynemouth, as a place of seaside recreation for the inhabitants of Newcastle and other busy towns of the North, seem likely to be more fully appreciated than they have been in time past. Our Illustration shows the group of new buildings on Tynemouth Links, consisting of an aquarium and winter garden, baths, club establishment, skating-rink, and pleasure-grounds. They were opened on Wednesday week by Mr. T. Eustace Smith, M.P. The style of architecture adopted is the Italian Renaissance, and the buildings extend from the upper level of the Cullercoats-road to the sea-shore. The length of the main façade is 336 ft. On either side the grounds will be planted with pines, tamarisks, and other hardy trees and shrubs, and meandering paths traversing the slope will communicate between the different levels. There is an entrance from the road between Tynemouth and Cullercoats to the winter garden or floral hall. This edifice is 225 ft. long by 60 ft. broad, with a mid-transept, increasing the width in that part to 72 ft. The sides consist of a light and lofty arcade of stone, and are filled in with glass. The roof is vault-shaped, of glass, on wrought-iron ribs and principals. The external appearance of the building will be diversified by groups of statuary and fountains. Outside, facing the sea, is the upper of a series of terraces, the balustrades of which will bear vases of flowers. At each end of the winter garden are the entrance-halls. Above, on the first floor, are the library and reading-rooms, the secretary's and manager's rooms. On the second floor are card, billiard, and smoking rooms. On the third floor, are the bed-rooms of the domestics. The aquarium includes both salt and fresh water tanks, occupying both sides of hall. A row of columns divides the floor into two avenues. The baths, at the bottom, are not yet begun. The sum of £100,000 has been expended. The architects are Messrs. John Norton and P. E. Masey, of London.

FOREIGN AND COLONIAL NEWS.

FRANCE.

The great event of the week in Paris has been the funeral service in commemoration of M. Thiers's death. It was held on Tuesday with great pomp and solemnity in the Cathedral of Notre Dame. The event, one correspondent remarks, was a truly national demonstration of sympathy towards the memory of the liberator of the French territory and the man who raised France from her ruins. An immense crowd, including all the leading political personages, the members of the diplomatic body, and numerous deputations from the provinces attended the religious ceremony.

The French Committee on the Franco-American Treaty of Commerce entertained at a banquet on Thursday week the American delegates, at the Grand Hotel, Paris, the chief saloon of which was decorated for the occasion with the American and French flags.

The Institute of International Law, which met last year at Zurich, opened its congress at Paris on Monday. M. de Parieu is president, Sir Travers Twiss is one of the two vice-presidents, and M. Jacquemyns, the Belgian Minister of the Interior, is secretary.

The International Association for Obtaining a Uniform Decimal System of Weights, Measures, and Coins has held a congress this week at the Trocadéro. Earl Fortescue is president, and D. Leone Levi secretary of the association.

A new English church has been erected at Biarritz. It will be opened by the Bishop of London on Oct. 11.

Mdlle. Marguerite Gidel, the daughter of the Principal of the Henri IV. College, has passed the first part of her examination as Bachelor of Art at the Paris Faculty of Letters. The young lady is only sixteen years of age. M. Louis Audiat, Professor of Rhetoric at Saintes, and laureate of the institution, presented three of his children, one of whom is a girl, to the commission delegated by the Faculty of Poitiers at Limoges, for the examination entitling to the degree of Bachelor of Art, and all three were received on the same day with commendations.

Readers of "Sartor Resartus" interested in the Rue d'Enfer will henceforth have to inquire for the Rue Denfert Rochereau, it having just been rechristened in honour of the late defender of Belfort. There is much criticism on the kind of pun involved in the change; and other alterations on the same principle, such as the Rue de Say for the Rue Desaix, are ironically suggested.

The death, at Paris, at the age of eighty-four, is announced of M. Garcin de Tassy, who was elected a member of the Academy of Inscriptions and Belles Lettres in 1838, where he succeeded Talleyrand; and, at Marseilles, of M. Etienne Aimé Tronchet, Body Guard to Louis XVIII. and Charles X., aged ninety-one.

The fêtes organised at Boulogne-sur-Mer on the occasion of laying the first stone of the monument which is to commemorate the voting of the law for the creation of a deep-sea port at that place will be as follows:—On Sunday, Sept. 8, at half-past eleven, assemblage of the local bands from the neighbourhood; at two, regattas; from five to six, musical entertainment at the bathing establishment; eight, ball at the Tintelleries Garden; illuminations, fireworks at eleven. On Monday, at noon, arrival of M. de Freycinet (Public Works) and M. Léon Say (Finance); formation of a procession and laying of the first stone; from half-past two to six, public concerts in various places; gratuitous performance in the Municipal Theatre at two; at half-past six, banquet to the Ministers at the baths; at eight, torchlight processions; at nine, public free ball at the Tintelleries; at ten, subscription ball at the baths; illuminations and fireworks at midnight.

Municipal preparations are being made at Calais for the fêtes of the 10th inst., when M. de Freycinet, Minister of Public Works, and M. Léon Say, Minister of Finance, will visit that town to inspect the works of the port.

SPAIN.

The remains of Queen Christina were deposited yesterday week in the Chapel Royal of the Escurial. The body was received by Cardinal Moreno, the members of the Chapter of the Escurial, and the Canons of the Chapel Royal. The King and the members of the Royal family were present in the chapel during the reception.

The King left the Escurial on Sunday for La Granja to stay several weeks before he leaves for his travels in October. They will extend over Castille, Navarre, and Aragon, and the King will visit several garrisons and camps.

The Cortes will assemble in the beginning of October.

SWITZERLAND.

The general elections for the National Council have been fixed for Oct. 27. In the same month the people will vote for the representatives who will have to elect the Federal Council and the President of the Confederation in December.

HOLLAND.

Prince and Princess Henry of the Netherlands arrived on Thursday week at the Summer Palace of the Loo, from Berlin. The telegram says that their Royal Highnesses met with a warm reception from the King, the high dignitaries of State, and the inhabitants. A dense crowd had assembled to welcome their arrival. On Saturday the Prince and Princess Henry entered the Hague city in state, amid enthusiastic demonstrations of welcome. The streets were decorated with flags, garlands, and triumphal arches. The Burgomaster, accompanied by the members of the municipality, gave an address to the Royal couple, who afterwards proceeded to the palace, where the King and the Grand Duke and Duchess of Saxe-Weimar were waiting to receive them. Prince Henry and his bride appeared at the balcony of the palace in response to the warm acclamations of the multitude, and thanked the people for their cordial reception. There was a brilliant illumination in the evening.

The Dutch papers speak of a contemplated marriage of the King to Princess Paulina of Waldeck, the eldest daughter of the reigning Prince of Waldeck-Pyrmont, and of Helena, daughter of the late Duke of Nassau. She is twenty-two years of age.

The new Dutch education law sanctioned by the King excludes the Bible and religious teaching from primary schools.

BELGIUM.

The King and Queen of the Belgians proceeded on Sunday to St. Nicholas, attended by MM. Graux and Sainctelette, Ministers of Finance and of Public Works. Their Majesties were received by the first echevin of the town, and, after inaugurating the new Hôtel de Ville and assisting at the banquet which followed, the King and Queen returned to Laeken at ten p.m. His Majesty went to Ostend on Sunday.

The Chinese lantern and transparencies procession, which was to conclude the Royal silver wedding fêtes, took place last Sunday night, notwithstanding unfavourable weather. More than one hundred societies took part in it, and the effect produced by it, and the detachments of warriors of the fifteenth century accompanying it, was very happy. It was accompanied also by the car of the Amman (an historical souvenir of the old burgomasters of Brussels, who bore the title of Amman), containing the oldest married couple of Brussels.

The battalion of chasseurs-éclaireurs of the Brussels Civic Guards have celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of the command of the battalion by Major de l'Eau d'Andrimont by a banquet and the presentation to him of his portrait. Major de l'Eau d'Andrimont commanded the Civic Guards during their visit to London, in 1866.

The Pall Mall Gazette correspondent at Brussels states that the Belgian Ministry is preparing projects of law for completing the electoral legislation by the vote in alphabetical order and other measures, and for the revision of the law of 1842 giving to priests access to public schools. It is considered possible that after the completion of the electoral reform laws the Ministry will proceed to a dissolution of the Chambers and a general election.

GERMANY.

The Crown Prince proceeded on Wednesday evening, viâ Stuttgardt, to Ulm, to hold a review of the troops.

Prince William of Prussia started on Tuesday for Scotland.

The German Parliament will be opened on the 9th inst. by Count Stollberg, the Vice-President of the Ministry.

The second ballots for the election to the Reichstag were held on Wednesday in Berlin. In the first district Dr. Löwe, of the Progressist party, was returned; and in the second district Herr Hoffmann, also a Progressist, was elected.

Monday being the anniversary of the battle of Sedan, the occasion was celebrated by public festivities at Berlin and at most of the towns of the German empire.

The Crown Prince, after having attentively perused the records of the judicial proceedings, has refused to grant a pardon to Mr. Bishop, the newspaper correspondent, who was sentenced to two and a half years' imprisonment.

Some Russian students who are suspected of Nihilism have been arrested at Berlin on the request of the Russian authorities to the police there.

At Duisburg on Monday there was unveiled a memorial of Gernardt Kremer, commonly known as "Mercator," and the author of "Mercator's Projections." Born of German parents in Flanders in 1512, he settled at Duisburg in 1552, and died there in 1594. The first stone of the monument was laid in 1869, but lack of funds delayed its completion.

AUSTRIA-HUNGARY.

An Imperial patent has been published convoking the Diets of Galicia, Carniola, Goricia, and Trieste for Sept. 12; and the other Provincial Diets, with the exception of those of Istria and Dalmatia, for the 24th proximo.

Several districts in Hungary were visited by a terrible thunderstorm yesterday week. Miskolcz, a town in Hungary, was completely laid waste. One thousand houses were destroyed. Over 400 dead bodies have been recovered, and 200 persons are missing. At Erlau the storm swept away whole rows of houses, and many persons were killed. The Vienna correspondent of the Daily Telegraph writes that words cannot depict the sight that met his eyes on arriving on Miskolcz. The once thrifty commercial town no longer exists. A pile of bricks and mortar now stands in its place. The survivors are, almost without exception, utterly ruined. The mischief was done, not by an ordinary flood, but by the rupture of a colossal waterspout over the very heads of the population. The shock was terrific. Furniture was hurled in every direction. The houses reeled for a moment from their basements, and then came down with one tremendous crash. In the village of Mad the greatest damage seems to have been done by the flood that followed the breaking of the waterspout. Huge masses of water were suddenly seen rushing down the side of the hills behind the village like lava vomited by a volcano. The panic-stricken inhabitants fled in wild disorder, many of them to meet with death a few yards beyond their thresholds. Forty houses were completely destroyed, and the rest all more or less damaged. The total number of victims is not yet known.

RUSSIA.

The Emperor arrived at Odessa on Friday morning last week, and, after reviewing the troops, left at noon for Nicolaieff. The Empress left St. Petersburg for Livadia on Thursday week.

Colonel Chepeloff, formerly Governor of Philippopolis, has been appointed Director of the Diplomatic Chancellery of General Dondoukoff. General Huebsch has been appointed Governor of Philippopolis.

The Official Messenger, the Government organ at St. Petersburg, publishes an article in which it is declared that the patience of the Government has become entirely exhausted by the series of criminal acts which culminated in the assassination of General Mesentzoff. The Government announces its intention to proceed with inflexible severity against all persons guilty of or accessory to machinations against the laws, the bases of public or family life, and the rights of property.

The St. Petersburg Gazette, with reference to the subscriptions to the new Russian internal loan of 300,000,000 roubles, states that 30,000,000 roubles have been subscribed by the Discount Bank, 45,000,000 by the Volga Kama Bank, 7,000,000 by the Russian Bank, 10,000,000 by the International Bank, 5,000,000 by the Moscow Merchants' Bank, and 2,000,000 by the Poliakoff Mosco Bank. Two other banks have subscribed for 2,500,000 roubles each.

TURKEY.

The Sultan has handed to Sir A. H. Layard for Queen Victoria a magnificent album, richly bound, containing his own portrait and those of the Imperial family.

We learn from Constantinople that, the Sultan having telegraphed a remonstrance to the Czar on the subject of the atrocities alleged to have been committed by Russians upon Mussulmans in Roumelia and Bulgaria, the Emperor has replied expressing sorrow at the disturbed state of affairs, but pointing out that the reports referred to are probably exaggerated, as all the Russian Generals have orders to prevent and punish severely any such offences on the part of the troops.

The correspondent of the Daily News at Galata telegraphs that the departure of the Russian troops from before Constantinople is progressing rapidly, 28,000 men having left up to the present. Several transports are in the Bosphorus awaiting orders to embark the troops at San Stefano. The correspondent adds that 70,000 men are to proceed to Russia, and that the rest of the army will retire towards the Balkans.

A Constantinople telegram to the Times says:—"The Rhodope Commission, in consequence of diversity of opinion, has abandoned the idea of a collective report. Each member will send in his report independently, but those of the British, French, Italian, and Turkish Commissioners will be identical.

The special correspondent of the Daily Telegraph at Constantinople telegraphed on Wednesday that "the Commissioners appointed for the purpose have, as it appears, signed at Batoum the arrangement relative to the cession of that town and its dependencies. The evacuation is to take place on the 6th inst."

SERVIA.

Prince Milan, in accordance with the wish expressed in a resolution unanimously adopted by the Council of Ministers, has accepted the title of Sovereign Highness for himself and the Princess, and the title of Most Serene Highness for the Hereditary Prince.

EGYPT.

The text of the Khedive's letter announcing his acceptance of the proposed Egyptian reforms has been published. His Highness says:—"I am firmly determined to apply European principles to the Egyptian administration, instead of the personal power hitherto prevailing. I desire a power balanced by the Council of Ministers, and am resolved henceforth to govern with and through this Council, the members of which will be jointly and severally responsible. The Council will discuss all important questions, the majority deciding. Thus, by approving its decisions, I shall sanction the prevalent opinion. Each Minister will apply the decisions of the Council in his own department. Every appointment or dismissal of higher officials will be made by the President of the Council and the Minister of the department with my sanction. The officials will only obey the chiefs of their own departments."

A letter of Nubar Pasha to the Khedive announces that he has formed a new Ministry, composed as follows:—Nubar Pasha, President of the Council, Minister for Foreign Affairs, and Minister of Justice; Riaz Pasha, Minister of the Interior; Ratib Pasha, Minister of War; Aly Moubarek Pasha, Minister of Public Instruction and ad interim Minister of Agriculture and Public Works. Nubar Pasha adds:—"I leave the Ministry of Finance vacant for a short time until I can submit to your sanction a personage who I know enjoys your esteem and the public confidence."

AMERICA.

President Hayes had a great popular reception at Chicago, a procession of citizens five miles long being formed to escort him into the town.

The President has gone to St. Paul, meeting with a hearty reception along the route. Replying to an address of welcome, the President declared that prosperity was returning with a sound currency, a reduced public debt, and plentiful crops. He urged the North to share its abundance with the afflicted South.

In the State elections in Arkansas the Democratic candidates have been returned unopposed.

Meetings are being held in the States, at which large sums of money are being subscribed for the relief of the distress existing in the Southern districts in which yellow fever is raging. From New Orleans and other places it is reported that the weather is bad, and that the epidemic is increasing More than 1000 persons fell victims to yellow fever in the Southern States last week—the fourth since the outbreak. There were eighteen deaths at Vicksburg on Monday, and it was estimated that there were 1700 persons then ill, and that the number was rapidly increasing. The Federal authorities of New Orleans have telegraphed to the Secretary of War that the contributions for the relief of the terrible distress prevailing in that city are inadequate, and urging the immediate issue of the rations which have been ordered.

The acting British Consul at New Orleans has telegraphed to the Mayor of Liverpool stating that great distress prevails amongst British subjects, and asking for funds for their relief.

CANADA.

Lady Dufferin was among the passengers on board the Sardinian, which sailed from Quebec on Sunday for Queenstown and Liverpool.

The Legislative Assembly of British Columbia has been prorogued.

In consequence of a dispute with a contractor, the Quebec Government has taken military possession of the Montreal and Ottawa Occidental Railway.

THE CAPE COLONIES.

News from the Cape is received to the 13th ult. The Premier (Mr. Gordon Sprigg) has gone to the frontier, accompanied by Mr. W. Ayliff, the Secretary of State for Native Affairs, and Mr. Laing, Minister of Public Works. The position of affairs in the war district remains stationary chiefly from the fact that the Kaffirs are afraid of surrendering unconditionally. The conclusion of peace is shortly expected. The aggressive attitude which has been held in regard to Cetewayo is believed to be unintentional. General Thesiger has arrived at Natal. Secocoeni is openly hostile, but other chiefs have sent flags of truce to the British lines. Sir Bartle Frere purposes visiting Natal and the Transvaal.

INDIA.

Sir Neville Chamberlain and his staff, constituting the proposed mission to Cabul, remain at Simla, pending the receipt of an answer from the Ameer to the letter of the Governor-General expressing his intention to dispatch an Embassy. Advices from Cabul, dated Aug. 21, state that the Ameer, after much persuasion by the Mustaphi, attended a durbar that day for the first time since the death of his son, Abdullah Jan.

AUSTRALIA.

The second reading of the bill introduced into the Victorian Assembly by Mr. Graham Berry for reforming the Constitution has been carried by 56 to 21. Mr. Berry has already stated that he has no expectation of the measure being approved of by the Upper House, and that the inevitable result must be an appeal to the Imperial Parliament.

A largely attended meeting of Liberals was held at Sydney on Aug. 27, when an address to Mr. Gladstone, expressing confidence in the right hon. gentleman and the leaders of the English Liberal party, was adopted amid much enthusiasm.

Sir Hercules Robinson has accepted a twelvemonth's extension of his appointment as Governor of New South Wales.

The Melbourne Argus reports a "rush" for gold in the Dunolly district, Victoria. A Chinaman, working at a place in that district, found, on June 23, a nugget weighing 400 oz. But the reports of the Government mining surveyors and registrars of the colony for the quarter ending March 31 show a continued decline in the quantity of gold raised. The quarter's yield is computed at 168,428 oz., or nearly 14,000 oz. below the corresponding quarter of last year.

JAPAN.

We have news from Yokohama, viâ San Francisco, to July 31. Prince Takenomya, the fourth and only surviving son of the Emperor of Japan, and heir to the Imperial throne, died on July 26. The Emperor starts on Aug. 27 on a progress in the northern provinces. Six of the assassins of the Minister Okumbo have been beheaded, the other fifteen accomplices receiving lighter sentences.

The Government internal loan of 12,500,000 yen for developing the resources of the country has been successful. It is receivable and payable in paper.

Inouye Kaoru, recently returned from Europe, has been appointed Minister of Public Works.

A gun-boat, the first built in Japan, has been launched.

Locusts were ravaging the rice-fields in some districts, but are not generally prevalent. The rice crop promises well, and the prospects of the silk and tea crops are still favourable.

Intelligence comes from Yokohama of the launching of a gun-boat, the first built at Japan.

Cremation becomes optional in Gotha on Oct. 1, and a building has been erected for the purpose.

A new Baptist chapel (the third) is about to be built in Rome. Signor Alessandro Petocchi is to be the minister.

In the last number of Peterman's Geographische Mittheilungen, the number of inhabitants of the globe is estimated at 1,439,145,300. The number of horses existing (China and Japan not included) is said to be 51,000,000.

A telegram from Sydney states that the native rising which recently broke out in New Caledonia is still unquelled. The insurgents maintain their positions in the mountains, and offer a stubborn resistance to the troops. The military force has been strengthened.

A chair of military science has been founded at the Polytechnic High School of Stuttgart, and a pensioned Prussian engineer officer has been called to it. This is the first chair of the kind established in a German high school. A chair of military science was established some time ago at Zurich in connection with the Polytechnic School there.

Messrs. Money Wigram's sailing-ship Essex, Captain Ticehurst, with a full general cargo and fifty passengers, thirteen of whom were embarked at Plymouth, left Plymouth Sound on the 29th ult. for Melbourne.—The New Zealand Shipping Company's sailing-ship Waitara, Captain M'Kelvie, with emigrants for Bluff Harbour, Otago, New Zealand, sailed from Plymouth Sound on the same day. She has on board 222 emigrants.—The ship Rodell Bay arrived at Brisbane on Aug. 26, the passage occupying seventy-nine days. The passengers were landed all well.

Vice-Consul Moffat, in his report from Sebastopol this year, states that the British cemeteries are in a fair state of preservation, but time and money are both required to ameliorate their present bare and dreary appearance. Besides isolated crosses and obelisks there are thirteen cemeteries, some of them five miles distant from the cottage built for the guardian in charge. Crosses and monuments are not unfrequently wantonly damaged, most probably by Tartars; the walls have been slightly damaged by cattle, thus early after the general restoration; and the destructive effect of the weather both on walls and monuments in such exposed situations must be expected to be serious. The present grant of £30 a year for repairs will, it is feared, prove inadequate for permanently maintaining the cemeteries in a satisfactory state. There are no funds provided for laying-out and gardening beyond the salary of £5 a year to the guardian. The ground round the Cathcart-Hill Cemetery, which has been ceded to the British Government, necessarily remains unenclosed.

There were 2404 births and 1365 deaths registered in London last week. Allowing for increase of population, the births exceeded by 34, whereas the deaths were 83 below, the average numbers in the corresponding week of the last ten years. The deaths included 6 from smallpox, 7 from measles, 29 from scarlet fever, 12 from diphtheria, 56 from whooping-cough, 23 from different forms of fever, and 148 from diarrhœa. The fatal cases of whooping-cough, which had been 60 and 74 in the two preceding weeks, declined to 56 last week—a lower number than in any week since the middle of December last, but exceeding the corrected weekly average by 17. The deaths from measles and scarlet fever were again considerably below the average numbers. The 12 fatal cases of diphtheria exceeded by one the number in each of the three preceding weeks. The deaths referred to diarrhœa and simple cholera, which had been 494, 351, 268, and 201 in the four preceding weeks, further declined to 154 last week, and were 57 below the corrected average number. The Metropolitan Asylum Hospitals contained 194 smallpox patients on Saturday last, showing a further decline of 19 from the numbers at the end of recent weeks; 18 new cases were admitted during the week, against 36 and 22 in the two preceding weeks. The Highgate Smallpox Hospital contained but 6 patients on Saturday last. The mean temperature of the air was 61·8 deg., and 1·7 deg. above the average in the corresponding week of the sixty years 1814-73. The duration of registered sunshine in the week was 27·5 hours, the sun being above the horizon 96·4 hours.

THE CHURCH.

PREFERMENTS AND APPOINTMENTS.

Ayre, Leigh Richmond, to be Rural Dean of Ulverston.
Browne, G. W. H.; Missions to Seamen Chaplain, Cardiff Docks.
Chalmers, W.; Incumbent of St. Paul's, Geelong, diocese of Melbourne.
Kingston, Edward; Rector of Great Chalfield, Wilts.
Livington, Theodore; Curate-in-Charge of Balscote, Banbury, Oxon.
Rotherham, William; Rector of Somerton.
Smith, F. R.; English Community Chaplain at Canton.
Starbuck, Edward Stephenson; Rector of Salcott Virley.
Trinder, Daniel, Vicar of Teddington; Vicar of Highgate.
Wadsworth, J.; Rector of Gosforth, Cumberland.
Walker, T. R., Minor Canon of Bangor; Vicar of Capel Curig.
Webster, R.; Vicar of Haile, Cumberland.
Williams, Thomas, Minor Canon of Bangor; Vicar of Llanidloes.—Guardian.

Mr. John Torr, M.P., laid the foundation-stone of a church at Great Sutton, in the parish of Eastham, on Wednesday.

The Archbishop of Canterbury is staying at a quiet hotel on the Lake of Geneva, not far from Montreux.

Mr. J. D. Allcroft, M.P., Mr. R. C. L. Bevan, and Mr. W. E. Hubbard have each given £500 to the Church Missionary Society.

Last Saturday afternoon Lord Winmarleigh laid the foundation-stone of the new Church of St. Barnabas, at Warrington, which he said would be the fifth that had been built in the town since he had been connected with it.

Through the liberality of Mr. Alfred Bell, of Bayford House, Hampstead, who is one of the churchwardens of that parish, and a member of the firm of Bell and Clayton, a handsome stained-glass window has been placed in the north gallery of the parish church of St. John, Hampstead, to the memory of Sir George Gilbert Scott.

On Monday the new Church of St. Lawrence, Morecambe, was consecrated by the Bishop of Manchester. The church, which is situated in Chapel-street, consists of a nave four bays in length, with north and south aisles, a south porch, and a tower at the west end of the north aisle, a chancel with an aisle on the south, and an organ transept and vestries on the north. The lower portion only of the tower and spire is at present built, and forms the principal entrance to the church.

The Church of St. Mary Magdalene, Winterborne Monkton, was opened last week after a complete restoration, under the superintendence of Mr. Butterfield. It was built in the thirteenth century by the monks of Glastonbury, to replace a church of which the only record remaining is some interesting fragments which were found under the walls of the present church, and a grand old Norman font, which has been carefully preserved. The east window is filled with painted glass, by Mr. Gibbs, as a memorial to the Rev. de Saussmarez Middlemas, late Curate of the parish, and was erected by his clerical friends as a tribute of their regard and affection. The restoration cost £2000, and amongst the contributors were the trustees of the Littlecot estates, the Rev. Freeman Wilson, the impropriator of the great tithes, the trustees of Sir H. Meux, and most of the clergy and gentry of the neighbourhood.

In a previous Number it was announced that a clock and an address of congratulation had been presented, on his golden wedding-day, to Mr. Henry Watts, who has been for thirty-five years chief clerk and record-keeper in the Vicar-General's office at Doctors' Commons for the grant of marriage licenses in and throughout the metropolis and the whole province of Canterbury. We have now to add that he was at the same time presented with a claret-jug mounted in silver by the Archbishop of Canterbury, with the following inscription upon it:—"Presented to Mr. Henry Watts, on his golden wedding-day, Aug. 7, 1878." At the same time Mr. Watts received a centre-cup, with the following engraved upon it:—"Presented to Mr. Henry Watts by the Vicar-General (Dr. Deane, Q.C.) and the Principal Registrar (Mr. John Hassard), on his golden wedding-day, Aug. 7, 1878."

The Act which received the Royal assent on the day of the prorogation for the foundation of four new bishoprics in England has been issued. The preamble recites that it is expedient to provide increased episcopal supervision in certain parts of England, and the four bishops are to be the Bishop of Liverpool, the Bishop of Newcastle, the Bishop of Southwell, and the Bishop of Wakefield. The Ecclesiastical Commissioners are empowered to receive public contributions for the endowment of any of the new bishoprics, and whenever they certify to her Majesty that the annual value of the endowment fund, with the sum to be derived from a contributory bishopric, is not less than £3500 a year, or £3000, with contributions to raise it within five years to £3500, then her Majesty, by Order in Council, may "found" the new bishopric. The number of Bishops sitting in Parliament is not to be increased. So long as there is not a Dean and Chapter of any of the four new bishoprics, her Majesty may appoint the Bishop by letters patent. The new Bishops of Liverpool, Newcastle, and Wakefield are to be subject to the jurisdiction of the Archbishop of York, and that of Southwell to the Archbishop of Canterbury.

UNIVERSITIES AND PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

The Derby Memorial Scholarship at Oxford, founded in Lancashire in honour of the late Earl of Derby, has been awarded by the trustees to Mr. A. Milner, B.A., Fellow of New College.

The Rev. Samuel W. Wayte, B.D., President of Trinity College, Oxford, is about to retire from the presidency of that society, which he has held since 1866. Mr. Wayte will, it is understood, go into private life, The Rev. H. G. Woods, the Bursar, and Senior Proctor last year, is spoken of as Mr. Wayte's successor.

Mr. Gladstone has made known to the senate of the Glasgow University his intention to give a prize of £50 for the best essay on a subject to be afterwards announced. The competition for this prize is to be open to matriculated students in any of the three sessions of Mr. Gladstone's tenure of office as Lord Rector. We are informed that there is no foundation for the statement that Mr. Gladstone's installation will take place in November next.

A general meeting of the Liberal electors of the Universities of Glasgow and Aberdeen resident in London has been held, and an association formed for the purposes of consolidating the Liberal party and of promoting all movements calculated to improve the Universities' system.

The Rev. Dr. Henry, president of Belfast Queen's College, has issued his report of the college for the session which ended in June last. He refers to the prosperity of the college and its general condition as presenting continued evidence of its adaptation to the progress of science and literature, and to the educational demands of Ireland. Dr. Henry gives a return of 463 students in the different departments, being an increase on the past year of twenty-six, and on the past two an increase of seventy students. He bears strong testimony to the spirit of harmony that continues to pervade the college and the professors and students belonging to various churches, and no instance of religious dissension has ever come under his notice. He declares that this non-sectarian college is accomplishing the noble designs of its founders and of Parliament.

Several members of the council of the Oxford Military College, which includes amongst its number the Marquis of Lorne and many officers of high rank, have announced their intention of giving special prizes to be competed for annually, the Bishop of Oxford giving one for religious instruction, Sir E. Lechmere, M.P., one for history, Colonel Moncrieff one for German, and other members for French, dictation, and mathematics. Other special prizes will shortly be announced.

The Rev. T. Perkins, M.A., formerly Senior Mathematical Master of Reading School, has been appointed Head Master of Shaftesbury Grammar School.

Miss A. E. Cockayne, daughter of the late Rev. T. Oswald Cockayne, for many years a master in King's College School, London, has been elected Lady-Principal of the Grantham Ladies' College.

The Freemasons' Gold Medal, given by "The Bard of Avon Lodge" for the encouragement of the study of Shakspeare, to the College School, Stratford-upon-Avon, has been gained by L. S. Penley, captain of the school. The examiners were Messrs. J. C. Parkinson and Edmund Yates.

The following are, in order of merit, the successful candidates at the recent open competition for admission to the Royal Indian Engineering College, Cooper's-hill, Surrey:—

Edward C. Rawson. George H. Le Maistre, Arthur L. Webb, Archibald T. Mackenzie, George Deuchers, Walter J. Weightman, Charles H. Hutton, Francis H. Fyn, Charles H. D. Marjoribanks, Benjamin K. Finnimore, Walter Giles, Charles S. Rennick, Henry V. R. Kemball, Henry V. M. Phelips, Percy C. Raven, John H. Medlicott, Lionel A. Light, Marmaduke H. Arnott, Richard S. Strachey, Cuthbert J. O'Brien, James K. E. Verschoyle, John J. Whiteley, John C. Mills, Herbert L. Butcher, Charles A. White, Sisley G. Batten, Edward R. Gardiner, Richard D. Buck, Donald H. Scobie, Mountstuart H. Jackson, William Drew, James B. Chernside, Richard H. Tickell, Frederick W. Maunsell, Spencer Cox.

The following is a list of the candidates for her Majesty's Indian Medical Service who were successful at the competitive examination held at Burlington House on Aug. 12, 1878:—

Twenty-one candidates competed for fifteen appointments. Nineteen were reported qualified, two having retired during the examination:—J. H. Sweny, D. F. Barry, G. F. A. Harris, J. Anderson, C. J. Bamber, E. H. Dumbledon, M. O'Dwyer, W. P. Carson, H. B. Briggs, C. G. W. Lowdell, A. S. Faulkner, C. Malins, R. M. Allen, E. M. Dumla, H. St. C. Carruthers.

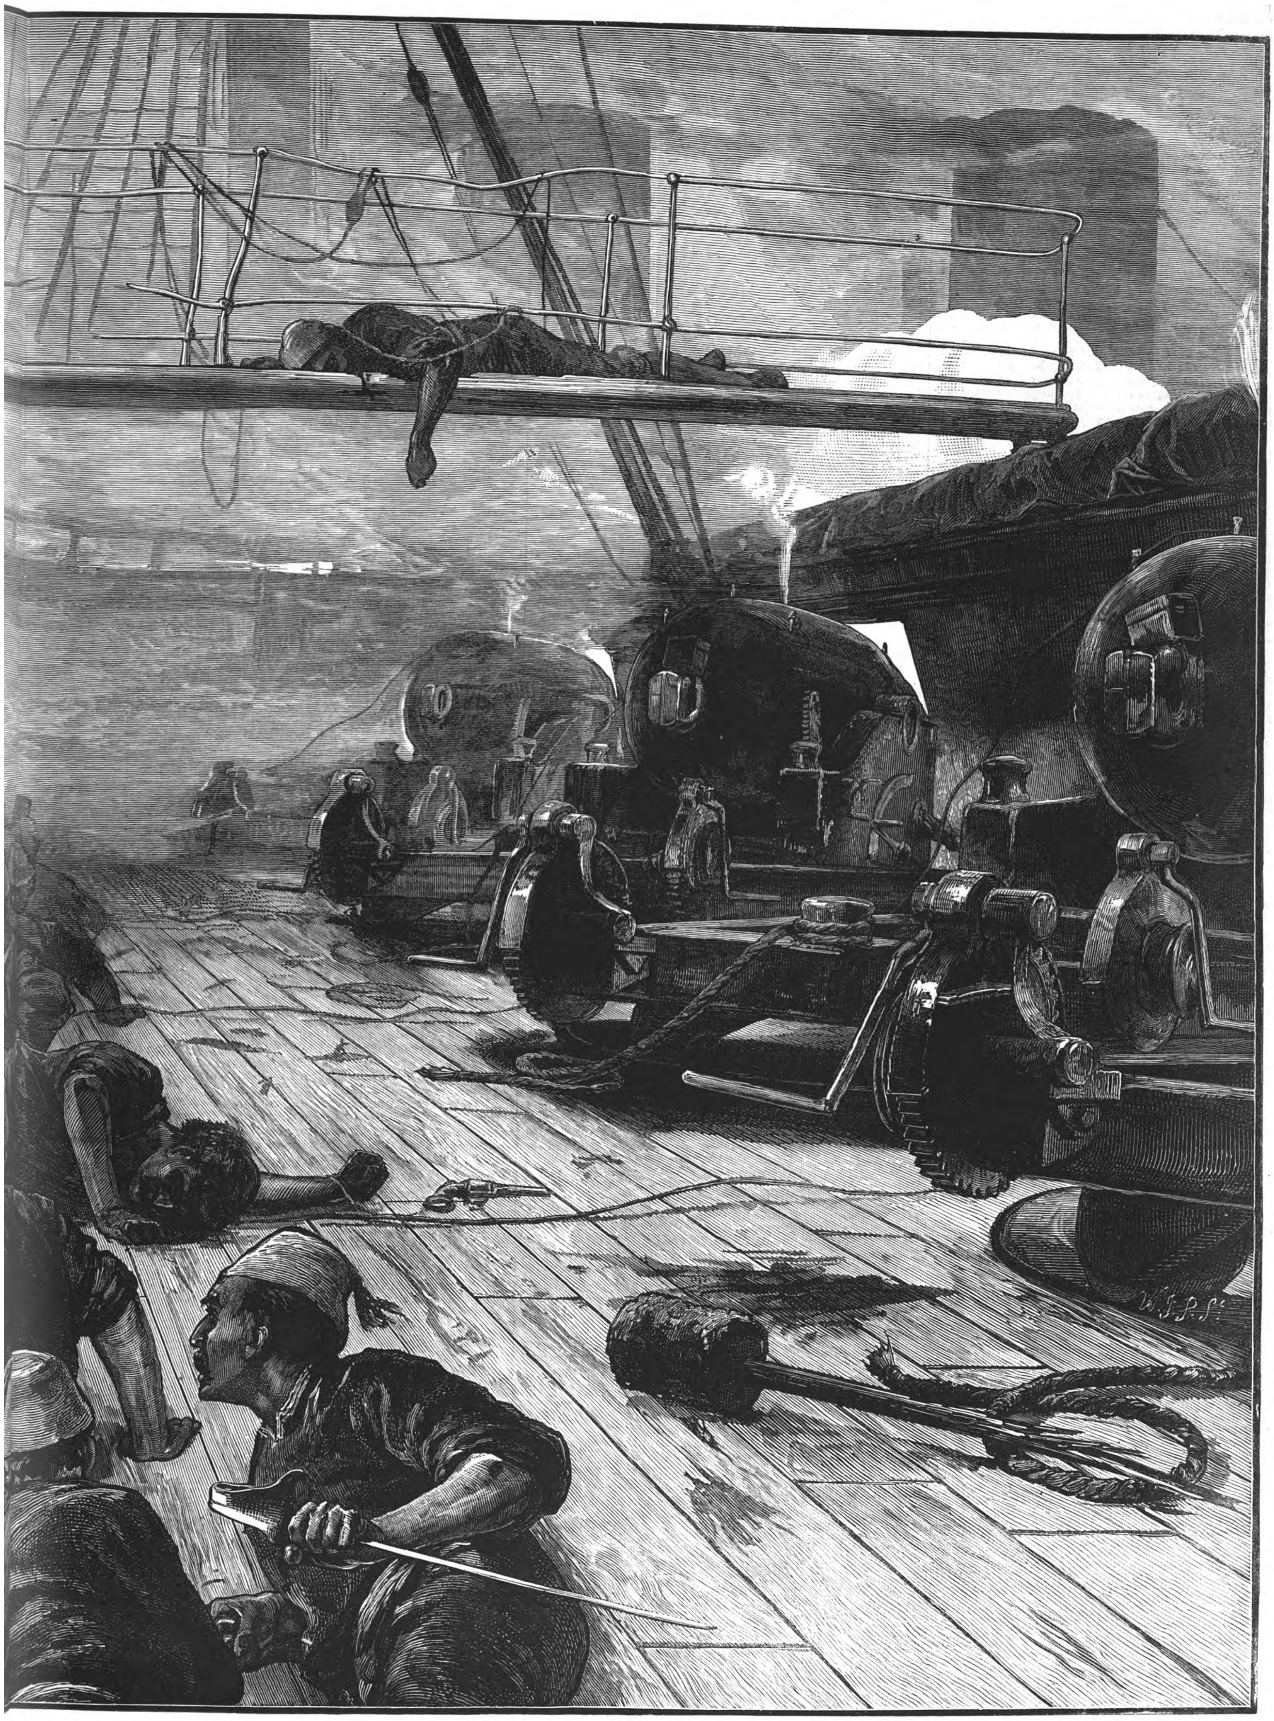
LIFE-BOAT SERVICES.

At a meeting of the National Life-Boat Institution, held on Thursday at its house, John-street, Adelphi, payments to the amount of £1100 were made on some of its 268 life-boat establishments, including rewards to the crews of life-boats for going out on service during the past month. The Drogheda, No. 2, life-boat was promptly launched to the assistance of the crew of the brigantine Frances Mary, of that port, on that vessel stranding on Drogheda Bar in a heavy easterly gale and rough sea. One of the crew was brought ashore in the life-boat; the other men decided to stay by their ship, but in the course of a few hours she began to break up, and at low water they had to take to their boat and come ashore through the surf at very great risk to themselves. The receipt of different contributions and legacies was announced at the meeting. A communication was read from Mr. Leopold March, H.B.M. Vice-Consul at Santander, Spain, stating that it was proposed to establish a life-boat station at that port and asking the co-operation of the institution. Reports were also read from the four inspectors of life-boats to the institution on their recent visits to life-boat stations. The proceedings then terminated.

A municipal demonstration was held at Warrington last week, on the occasion of the laying of the foundation-stone of a hospital for infectious diseases, which is estimated to cost £6000. The stone was laid by Mr. William Beaumont, the antiquary, who forty-one years ago was the first Mayor.

At a crowded meeting of the Manchester City Council on Wednesday, after a lengthened discussion, the Free Libraries Committee were instructed, by a majority of twenty-eight to twenty, to make arrangements for the opening of the reference and branch libraries on Sunday afternoons.

Early on Wednesday morning the woollen manufactory of Messrs. Mackenzie, Campbell, and Co., situated on the banks of the Earn, near Crieff, Perthshire, was destroyed by fire. The flames lighted the valley for miles around. More than one hundred hands are thrown out of employment.



An open competition for the situation of outdoor officer in her Majesty's Customs will be held in London, Edinburgh, Dublin, Liverpool, Bristol, Newcastle-on-Tyne, Hull, Leeds, Portsmouth, Plymouth, Glasgow, Aberdeen, Cork, Belfast, and Limerick on Wednesday, Oct. 30. Appointments will be given to the first thirty candidates on the list, if duly qualified. Outdoor officers of the Customs receive salaries varying according to the port at which they may be employed. The lowest rate of pay is £55 per annum.

Consequent on the appointment of Major-General F. S. Roberts, C.B., V.C., to the Indian Frontier Commissionership, Colonel C. C. Johnson, Bengal Staff Corps, will be appointed Quartermaster-General of the Bengal Army; Colonel C. M. Macgregor, C.S.I., Bengal Staff Corps, succeeding Colonel Johnson as Deputy Quartermaster-General.—The appointment of Major-General Robert Bruce Hawley, C.B., as Deputy Adjutant-General to the Forces, in succession to Lieutenant-General R. C. H. Taylor, C.B., has been gazetted.—Major-General C. W. Adair, C.B., Aide-de-Camp to the Queen, was on Tuesday appointed Deputy Adjutant-General of the Royal Marines, in the place of Major-General George Brydges Rodney, C.B., resigned.—Commander Lord Charles Beresford, R.N., who recently resigned his appointment as second in command of H.M.S. Thunderer, is about to return to active service, and is to accompany Commodore Wilson to the Australian station.

Mr. G. Muller, in his annual report of the working of the Orphan Home on Ashley Down, Bristol, and his Scriptural Knowledge Institution, states that, though the expenses during the year had amounted to £42,000, the managers had been able to close the accounts with a small balance in hand. Since the founding of the institution £784,000 had been received, and 66,600 children or grown-up persons had been taught in the various schools, besides tens of thousands benefited in other schools, assisted by the funds; 10,500 children and others at present frequent the schools; 124,000 Bibles, 315,000 Testaments, 19,000 copies of the Psalms, and 195,000 small portions of the Scriptures in various languages had been circulated. Upon the object of missionaries alone £169,000 had been expended from the beginning. During the year the number of orphans had been 2193, and the mortality amongst them had been less than one per cent. For the orphanage alone, without any one having been appealed to personally, £512,214 had been subscribed by the charitable.

ON BOARD A TURKISH MAN-OF-WAR PREPA

ARING TO RAM—FIRING BY ELECTRICITY.

ECHOES OF THE WEEK.

Messrs. Thomas Cook and Son and their "personally conducted" tours are so widely known, and the system which they have organised has gained such universal acceptance, that no public notice of their work can be looked upon in the light of what the French call a réclame, and what we term a puff. One cannot puff a Dent's chronometer or a Stanford's map. Everybody knows all about them. So I need not apologise for saying that a few mornings since I paid a visit to Mr. Thomas Cook, sen., in his very pleasant quarters in the Rue de la Faisanderie—one of the fourteen houses which he has fitted up in Paris for boarding and lodging the shoals of tourists who travel under his wing. There is no need to specify the remarkably cheap scale of charges made for bed and board. Those are particulars which intending tourists can ascertain for themselves at Messrs. Cook's offices. I merely went to look at the accommodation, and I found it capital. Exquisite cleanliness, solid and sober comfort, a substantial English breakfast, and a plentiful meat and tea and coffee supper, or "high tea," as the Americans call that substantial meal. I saw the kitchens and the bed-rooms, the parlours and the refectories; and, to my mind, everything was excellently provided and admirably arranged. The fourteen boarding-houses, it is almost needless to say, are constantly thronged.

Mr. Cook, senior, is an old friend of mine. I think that I first met him in Venice in 1866, and since then I have been personally aware of him and his tourists all over the Continent. It used to be the fashion to sneer at and disparage "Cook's Tourists," and the late Charles Lever (as "Cornelius O'Dowd" in Blackwood) once went out of his way to libel in a very cruel and uncalled-for way the harmless travellers who were trotted over Europe under the auspices of the "personal conductor." Mr. Cook has got over all that long ago, and can afford to smile at his detractors, and to forgive the shade of Charles Lever, who, abating a few old-fashioned prejudices, was one of the kindest hearted creatures that ever breathed.

I went over two or three of the handsome suburban villas temporarily tenanted by the "Cookists;" and the name of the proprietor of one of these mansions struck me with a pleasant surprise. It was Madame St. Leon, who, as Mademoiselle Cerrito was one of the most fascinating dancers that ever adorned the grand era of the terpsichorean stage. Nearly forty years ago Thomas Ingoldsby, describing the memorable Tamburini and Coletti emeute at Her Majesty's Theatre, wrote (I am quoting from memory, mind)—

> Mademoiselle Cherrytoes
> Shook to her very toes:
> She could'nt hop on, so she hopp'd off on her very toes.

The delightful "Cherrytoes"—the only ballerina whom the austere consort of the Czar Nicholas of Russia would tolerate—is still extant, hale, prosperous, and vivacious. Very blithely did she come to terms with Mr. Cook. "You are an Englishman," she said, "and I love England and the English." It is good to think of these former Reines de la Danse enjoying a green old age. The exquisitely graceful Duvernay, world-famous as the dancer of the "Cachuca," lives still in England, the land of her adoption, a wealthy and most charitable Lady Bountiful, beloved by all her neighbours; and only a few days before I left London I met at a garden party a very sprightly lady, Madame la Comtesse Gilbert des Voisins, whom more than forty years before I had known as Marie Taglioni.

When Mrs. Partington remarked by the side of a scrubby little plant in a Botanical Garden a little wooden ticket with an inscription setting forth that the plant was (say) the "Tooraloorus Vulgaris (Linn.), introduced 1726," the good dame exclaimed that it was a burning shame that the poor dear foreign gentleman had not had a better tombstone put up to his memory after all these years. A graver injustice has been done to the renowned chartographer known as "Mercator," who has been waiting more than three hundred years for a statue. At length the author of the cosmogony known as "Mercator's Projection" has received a portion of his due, and an effigy in his presumed likeness has been erected in his native town, Duisburg. I am not ashamed to admit that until I read this announcement in the newspapers I was utterly ignorant as to whether "Mercator" was the geographical gentleman's real name or a pseudonym. It turns out that the latter is the case. "Mercator's" name in the flesh was Gerhardt Kremer.

"Mercator's" projection was superseded by Malte-Brun, just as Malte-Brun has been superseded by Keith Johnstone; but the old geographer of the sixteenth century still enjoys considerable prestige in Italy. His "projection," if my memory serves me correctly, forms a conspicuous feature in the Hall of Maps in the Palace of the Vatican.

Mr. Cavendish Bentinck, M.P., in the course of a very entertaining and very sensible speech at a Literary Institute at Lytham, drew attention, I perceive, to a somewhat injudicious rule of the institution, making it obligatory on every reader of a newspaper to deliver it up ten minutes after the journal had been asked for by another frequenter of the reading-room. The regulation (which has probably by this time been rescinded) was probably borrowed from the practice prevailing in the cheap coffee-shops; and that practice was a legacy of the days when newspapers (thanks to the stamp and paper duties) were four, five, six, or seven times dearer than they are now. Mr. Cavendish Bentinck preached a very exhaustive lay sermon on the "ten minutes newspaper reading," but pointing out with much cogency that modern society was, as a rule, in a desperate hurry, and anxious to do everything, comparatively speaking, in ten minutes. Dismissing, however, the metaphorical side of the question, I have always been strongly of opinion that the Committees of Library and Scientific Institutes would act very sensibly if they banished the daily newspapers altogether from their reading-rooms. I would go further; I would exclude all novels save those of Sir Walter Scott. There is no more passionate admirer than I am of the romances of Dickens, Thackeray, Charlotte Brontë, and George Eliot; but youths between sixteen and twenty-six would derive far greater intellectual advantage from reading Gibbon, Robertson, Macintosh, Mrs. Somerville, Froude, Carlyle, Macaulay, and Freeman, than from lingering over the fascinating pages of "Pickwick," "Vanity Fair," and "Jane Eyre."

Mem: If the novels of Captain Marryat were not so cheap I would make an exception in his favour. The wonderful and glorious naval history of the first fifteen years of this century is writ large for all to read who run, in Marryat's sea-stories. But "Peter Simple" and Mr. Midshipman Easy" (I drank bottled stout with him in the spirit at the Vice-Consul's house at Teheran three years ago) can be bought for ninepence; and, besides, I am disposed to think very meanly of an English boy of twelve who has not got those renowned tales—aye, and "Poor Jack," "Newton Forster," and "The King's Own" wellnigh by heart. A young Englishman should have his Marryat at his fingers' ends long before he joins a Literary Institute.

I find that what is known in English journalism as the "silly season" has set in with its accustomed severity. We have outgrown "enormous gooseberries," "showers of frogs," and colossal cucumbers. The "cat discovered in a gas-pipe" has not yet made its appearance; nor have I heard anything of the Great Sea Serpent or the Russian war-steamer (she used to be a French one) discovered by a coastguardsman to be taking soundings off St. Michael's Mount, Cornwall. Such items as these can at most only furnish a few paragraphs; whereas the "silly season" needs of a modern daily paper extend over at least three columns per diem. How are those columns to be filled? Advertisers decline to rush to the rescue; since the present time happens to be precisely the one at which prudent tradespeople care least about advertising. I notice that, apparently in despair at having nothing further to say about the climate of Cyprus and the Rhodope massacre, two great metropolitan dailies have set themselves to the task of ventilating two very stale and thoroughly pumped-out topics—the alleged grievances of commercial clerks, and the subject of physicians' fees.

Were I at home, and on my quotidian treadmill, I should probably be writing leading articles—and very silly ones, too—on both the matters just mentioned. But my name being still Nothing-to-Do, the woes of the clerks and the charges of the medicos do not, I rejoice to say, affect me in the slightest degree. One tiny observation touching both classes in the community I intend, however, to hazard. I note that a vast quantity of nonsense has been published touching the foolishness of middle-class parents in making clerks of their sons instead of apprenticing them to some trade. The authors of these strictures appear to forget that a premium must be paid before a boy is apprenticed; and that vast numbers of young clerks are the sons of clerks who, lacking the premium-paying power, are constrained to turn their lads loose in the first mercantile office into which they can gain admission. How is a luckless quill-driver at thirty shillings a week, or a Government writer at tenpence an hour, to find a hundred pounds, or fifty, or even twenty, wherewith to bind his smart young son 'prentice to an engineer, or a cabinetmaker, or a grocer. I wish with all my heart that I had been apprenticed to a grocer.

Touching the physicians, I hold the outcry against them to be wholly stupid, ungrateful, and unjust. The people who grudge an eminent medical man a two-guinea fee for a first consultation remind me of an enterprising capitalist who—it is not so long ago—offered me the sum of ten pounds sterling for the prospectus of a new periodical which he was about to start. I told him that it had taken me some five-and-twenty years to acquire the art of writing prospectuses for new periodicals, and that I should be happy to oblige him for the sum of fifty pounds; but that, if he thought the honorarium excessive, I would willingly furnish him with the address of a very clever young gentleman at Camberwell who would be glad to write what he wanted for a guinea.

Mem: I don't think that I have delivered a public lecture more than half a dozen times in the course of my life; but I remember going to Glasgow some years ago to talk about the United States, and Mexico, and Algeria. The Glaswegians received me with boundless hospitality, and paid me a great deal more money for my lectures than those discourses were worth. Just before departing I received a telegram from the secretary of an institute in a very distant part of the kingdom inquiring if I would deliver a lecture on a given subject on a given evening. "If above two guineas," concluded the message, "state lowest terms." Forthwith I wired back, "With my panorama, a hundred guineas; with my canaries and white-mice, a hundred and twenty." I did not hear anything more of the secretary of that institute.

I shall never, I hope, stand at the reading-desk of a lecturer's platform again; and I never occupied the rostrum in question without an overwhelming sensation of nervous terror, weariness, and general avoision; but I can readily understand the fatal fascination which magnificently paid lecturing exercises over men of letters of real renown. "I went to America a poor man," W. M. Thackeray used to say (he had written "Vanity Fair" and "Pendennis" before he went), "and I came back with a pot of money." This was through reading the "English Humourists." He went back again with the "Four Georges," and made another "pot of money." Charles Dickens made some thousands of pounds by his incomparably admirable public readings—and they killed him. Too much express-train. Too much seven forty-five a.m. and nine fifty p.m. on the brain. Too much agent in advance. Too much contrasting of the receipts of last week with those of the present one. Too much hotel breakfast, dinner, and supper. Too much deputation receiving. Too much saying the same thing over and over again, night after night, to the same kind of people. Too much gas-heated atmosphere, black coat, and white cravat. Too much craving for the unhealthy stimulus of applause. This surplusage of everything will surely tell at last. It told with the most illustrious man of letters of the Victorian era.

I hope that my friend Archibald Forbes will read these lines, all ill-conditioned as they may seem to be. Mr. Forbes is, I understand, on his way home from Cyprus, the climate of which delicious isle did not agree with him: and I read in the World that he was visited en route by a slight touch of fever. He should have gone to Corfu, which is a real sanatorium for fever patients. But the trenchant Captain Pen of the Daily News will soon be among us again, I hope, stalwart and strong as ever; and so soon as he sets foot on British shore people will be offering him fifty pounds a night to go about the country lecturing. I very meekly counsel him not to overdo it. A learned Judge once told a prisoner in the dock, whom he was sentencing to two years' imprisonment and hard labour, that such a term of punishment would break down the strongest man. I think that six months' public lecturing would be quite sufficient to break down the strongest Special Correspondent. I should be glad to see Archibald Forbes in Paris, where (in the centre of the Cascade in the Bois de Boulogne) I am still residing. How we would Do nothing, to be sure!

G. A. S.

A TURKISH MAN-OF-WAR.

The Turkish ironclad fleet in the late war had few opportunities of gaining renown by any brilliant action, but rendered important service to the Ottoman Empire by keeping the Russian naval force, such as it is, confined to port on the north coast of the Black Sea. One of our Special Artists in Turkey, during the war, was permitted to visit a squadron at the time of practising the series of manœuvres, rehearsed at stated periods to instruct the officers and crews in the operations they would have to execute in actual combat. The entire fleet of the Sultan comprises six ironclad frigates, seven ironclad corvettes, and two small gun-boats; this was its strength at the end of the war, two corvettes having been lost, and five gun-boats, on the Danube, surrendered to Russia under the terms of the armistice. The most powerful of the frigates is the Massoudieh, which was built in the Thames and completed in Chatham Dockyard, and has been chiefly employed as guard-ship in the Bosphorus. This ship is of equal dimensions with the Hamidieh, the one lately purchased by our own Government, and now called the Belleisle; her armour is twelve inches thick, and she carries twelve 18-ton guns in a raised central battery amidships, and three 120-pounder Armstrongs on the upper deck. The Azizieh, Mahmoudieh, Orkanieh, and Osmanieh frigates were all built in England, and are similar to one another, having armour-plating but 4½ in. thick, and each carrying one 300-pounder Armstrong gun and fifteen 150-pounders. The Assar-i-Tefik is a smaller frigate, but armed with four 12-ton guns and four 6-ton guns. She is of French construction. The corvettes have 7½-in. and 9-in. armour-plating, and carry each four 12-ton guns in a central battery; the Fatih-Bulend, of English build, is the best of this class.

ART.

The Liverpool Corporation Exhibition of Pictures was opened the public on Monday. Some changes have been made in the management this year, and Mr. P. H. Rathbone, M.P., succeeds Mr. Samuelson as chairman of the committee. So far as can be yet judged, the exhibition will be a good and successful one. Taken as a whole, the works contributed appear to range higher in quality than on former occasions.

The Autumn Exhibition of Pictures at Birmingham, which has opened its doors to the general public, is chiefly remarkable for the large proportion of Academicians and Associates among its contributors—most of them represented by works which have passed the ordeal of criticism at the Royal Academy and other London exhibitions. At the private view last week "purchases were made (the Times says) on a fairly liberal scale, considering the general depression of trade."

An exhibition of paintings and drawings by Stockport artists was opened in that town on Wednesday.

The Brighton fifth annual Exhibition of Modern Pictures in Oil was opened to the public on Thursday at the Pavilion.

Sir T. Acland, M.P., on Saturday last distributed the prizes awarded at an art and industrial exhibition at Bideford. In the course of an address, in which he spoke with gratification of the means which existed for the multiplication of copies of works of art, and of the employment of machinery generally, he said that many persons bewailed that their lot was not cast in the good old times of the past, but that, as one whose recollection enabled him to go back many years, he must confess that he believed in the present and in the future.

The four panels, designed by Boehm, to decorate the pedestal of the equestrian statue presented by Sir Albert Sassoon to commemorate the visit of the Prince of Wales to Bombay were on Monday shipped on board the Avondale. The panels, which weigh more than three tons, have been cast from the original plaster models by Messrs. Elkington, of Mydddleton-street, Clerkenwell, and are as follow:—The first is the reception of the Prince by the native chiefs, the second is a procession of native women bearing offerings in the shape of flowers and fruits, the third the Royal arms, and the fourth a huge square panel bearing the following inscription:—"Albert Edward, Prince of Wales, K.G.C., C.S.I., in commemoration of the visit of his Royal Highness to India, 1875-6. Sir Albert Sassoon presented this statue to his fellow-townsmen of the loyal city of Bombay." The panels were submitted to the Prince, and received his hearty approval.

The Somerset Archæological and Natural History Society held its thirtieth annual meeting last week, the excursions having been to the principal buildings of archæological interest in the neighbourhood of Bruton. The society has above 500 members, and the Rev. Canon Meade has succeeded Bishop Clifford in the presidency. Among the places visited has been a small and quaint old building at Witham, near Frome, known as the Guest House. The parish church of Bruton was the subject of a paper by Mr. Carpenter, who said the edifice was one of the finest examples in the district of the style of architecture prevalent at the end of the fifteenth century, and for which Somerset and Dorset are famous. The works in connection with the restoration were described, and stated to have so far cost £4500. The fine old Abbey ruins, the Abbot's house, and Hugh Sexey's Hospital were visited, and a very ancient and important cartulary of Bruton Abbey was introduced to the society by Mr. John Batten, of Aldon.

The ecclesiastical art-exhibition during the meeting of the Church Congress in Sheffield will be in two divisions. The first will be devoted to the exhibition of ecclesiastical art in all its branches, at manufacturers' expense; and the loan collection will be displayed in a villa adjoining the main building, and will be open for the reception of works of a purely ecclesiastical character.

The jury of the Academy of Fine Arts in Paris met last week to decide upon the sketches furnished by the pupils of the School of Fine Arts in competition for the prizes for historical painting and landscape founded by M. Jauvin d'Attainville. Each prize is of 2500f. The subject in the former class was "The Miser who Lost his Treasure." Out of nineteen competitors, ten were admitted to the final trial. In the second category the subject was "Evening in a Clearing in a Wood." Nine young men were admitted.

The retiring pension of the Marquis de Chennevières, late Director of the Fine Arts in France, has been fixed at 5000f.

Vice-Consul Dupuis, in his report made this year on the trade at Susa, Tunis, in 1877, says:—"Nothing has rewarded research among the antiquities in the country. I have secured the marble statue of one of the Emperors, discovered some years ago, but lost again from being buried up in rubbish, and so baffled the endeavours of the author of 'Travels in the Footsteps of Bruce' when here to discover. It stands 5 ft. 3¼ in. high from the knees, where it is broken off. Two winged figures and the head of Medusa are beautifully sculptured on the breast. This has led some to suppose it to be one of the Christian Emperors; but I am inclined to think they represent the Gloriæ. I have had it fixed up in my office."

Dr. Schliemann is said to have obtained permission from the Greek Government to commence certain excavations at Ithaca.

There have been several deaths by drowning during the past week. A sad accident occurred on a lake adjoining Brymston House, Somerset, the seat of the De Vesci family. Three young ladies were rowing on the lake, when the boat capsized. Two of them were rescued, but the third, Miss Ellen Ponsonby, third daughter of the Hon. Spencer Ponsonby Fane, aged eighteen, was drowned.

TERRIBLE COLLISION ON THE THAMES.

GREAT LOSS OF LIFE.

The necessity of adopting effective safeguards to render the navigation of the Lower Thames free from danger was painfully exemplified last Tuesday night, when the large saloon steam-boat Princess Alice was run into below Woolwich by the screw-steamer Bywell Castle, and sank in about five minutes after the collision, with several hundred souls on board.

It was a bright, mellow autumnal day, and the fineness of the weather tempted a great number of persons to spend a holiday in a trip down the river to Sheerness in the Princess Alice, the saloon-boat in which the Shah of Persia visited the docks five years ago. The Princess Alice (a light iron vessel, 219 ft. 4 in. in length, 20 ft. 2 in. in breadth, and with a net tonnage of 158 tons, built by Messrs. Caird, of Greenock, in 1865) left London Bridge in the morning about eleven o'clock, and carried her light-hearted freight of six or seven hundred pleasure-seekers in safety to Sheerness, and some distance past Gravesend on the return voyage. There were whole families enjoying a quiet holiday in this way, the number of children on board being remarkably large. As darkness began to gather over the river, the high spirits of the passengers did not diminish. A band played lively airs, and the popular tune of "Nancy Lee" was struck up as the saloon-boat drew near Woolwich, between seven and eight o'clock. Captain Grinstead, an officer with twenty years' experience on the Thames, was keeping a good look-out ahead from the paddle-box. The lights of the Princess Alice shone over the darkening waters; but there came an ugly bend in the river; and a huge black screw-steamer was seen bearing down on the saloon-boat, which was thronged with humanity. "Hi! hi! hi! Where are you coming to?" shouted out Captain Grinstead at the top of his voice. But the warning cry was too late. Just off what is known as Tripcock's Point, a bend in the river less than a mile below Woolwich, and almost on the identical spot where the Metis, belonging to the same company, was run down some ten years since, the Princess Alice was "rammed" by an iron screw-collier, named the Bywell Castle, bound in ballast from Millwall Docks to the Tyne, she being at the time in charge of a pilot named Christopher Dicks, of Stepney. The huge iron vessel appears to have come full tilt on to the Princess Alice, striking her on the starboard side, near the sponson, and almost literally cutting her in half, and causing her to sink in about 18 feet of water in something like five minutes. The scene that ensued is stated by those who witnessed it as being simply indescribable. The screw-steamer appears to have at once stopped and thrown over her life buoys and lines, afterwards lowering some boats, in which some of the survivors and a number of dead bodies were picked up. There happened, fortunately, to be a few shore boats in the vicinity, and they rendered all the assistance they could, which was, however, but little comparatively, so many of the unfortunate travellers being imprisoned in a similar manner to the ill-fated mariners of the Eurydice, where they were drowned as in a trap. The steamer Duke of Teck, belonging to the same company, which was running on a similar service to the Princess Alice, was about ten minutes behind her; but when she arrived it was too late to be of much assistance. She, however, took on board the survivors and dead bodies that were on board the Bywell Castle, and conveyed them to the Arsenal Pier, where the bodies were laid out in the board-room of the company's offices; and the wants of the sufferers were attended to at the Townhall and other places, prior to their being dispatched to their homes. Quite 500 are estimated to have been drowned, but the exact number of the dead may not be ascertained for some time—indeed may never be known. As soon as possible after the calamity the police formed patrols along the banks. Mr. Wrench Towse, superintendent of the London Steam-Boat Company, assumed the direction of affairs, although he himself had lost his wife and four of his children.

Some of the survivors saved their lives by swimming. Two brothers, named Wiele, narrate in vivid terms how they escaped by means of their familiarity with this readily-acquired art. Their accounts being virtually identical, it will suffice to quote the statement of one of the brothers. Mr. Herbert Augustus Wiele says:—"I was on the saloon deck, aft, but looking ahead. I heard a shouting, when I saw the huge hull of a steamer coming upon us, towering high above our saloon. She struck us amidships on the right-hand side, and then we seemed to lie still for a minute. I ran down the companion-ladder and got to the extreme after part of the boat, and I took off my boots ready to dive. The passengers were frantic, and I tried to pacify some of them, for I did not think we should sink, and I think the people got a little quieter; but in three or four minutes our vessel parted in the middle, and she seemed to double up. The part where I was rose so high in the air that I was almost afraid to dive. I shut my eyes and plunged in, taking a long dive to get clear of the people in the water. I had seen them sliding down the decks before I leaped. Our vessel seemed near the north shore just before the accident, and we were not steaming at all, for the captain had stopped to avoid another vessel which had just shaved us, and before she could go ahead this other one came upon us. The captain and officers shouted, 'Where are you coming to!' and she drove into our side. When I came up after diving the Princess Alice was not to be seen, but I wiped the water out of my eyes and saw my brother. We swam together to the screw-ship and got hold of a rope, which some one threw over to us. The screw had stopped, and did what it could to save life; but it did not lower any boats. I saw four or five men on board, and they said they had no boats. The money-taker of the Princess Alice climbed up the chain of the funnel when the accident took place, and got on board the screw as she came crashing in, and I also saw one of the stewards catch hold of the anchor-chain. I believe these two afterwards came ashore. My brother and I got faint clinging to the rope, and let go. We swam about till we got hold of a boat, and dragged on there for awhile, until at last the man in charge of the boat took us in. We were taken on shore at Barking Creek and lodged at the Crooked Billet. We were in the water about twenty minutes. Before there was any apparant danger I saw two clergymen on the saloon-deck singing hymns, and the fellows down aft were singing songs. The captain and crew were all steady."

The Bywell Castle (an iron screw-steamer of 892 tons net tonnage, 254 ft. 3 in. in length, 32 ft. 1 in. in breadth, and built by Palmer, of Newcastle, in 1870) belongs to Messrs. Hall, of Newcastle-on-Tyne. She returned up the river on Wednesday. The Bywell Castle looked a long, knife-bowed steamer such as could easily cut so frail a pleasure-craft as the Princess Alice in twain with the slightest touch of her sharp prow. Her master, Captain Thomas Harrison, gives the following account of the deplorable collision:—"Immediately I saw the collision was inevitable I stopped the engines, and ran for'ard myself, and, finding the people on the forecastle were doing all they could, hauling people over the bows and saving life, I came aft again, got together the chief engineer, the cook, the donkey-man, and the steward, and sang out to get the boats out, and assisted to get the starboard after-boat out, which was soon done. By this time we were joined by some passengers who had been saved from for'ard, I calling loudly for help all the time, and superintending the getting out of the boats. After getting out the starboard after-boat we got out the port after-boat, and afterwards the port life-boat. I had the ship's duties to attend to, and had to run on to the bridge, and look after other things myself. I kept giving just all the direction I could. Saving life was the main object. I did not care about running on shore, but we saw we did not run into other vessels to do damage. The people were like bees swarming round us. I think the boats took the people on shore. I do not know how many were saved. The three boats I have mentioned would hold seventy people, but they were not full. The life-boat was so long getting out—it was so heavy—that it was of very little use. I anchored just below Barking Reach. My vessel was drifting down with the ebb tide all the time. I anchored there, determined to abandon the voyage, and return to London and make all the report I possibly could. I weighed anchor again at eight o'clock this morning (Wednesday), it having been foggy, and made fast to Deptford buoys a little after nine, and then came on to London. Our ship is perfectly uninjured; a little paint is alone scratched off, that is all. The other vessel was just like an eggshell. She broke right up when touched. She was totally unfit for her business. I had none of her passengers on board during the night. They had all gone, either in boats or in the Duke of Teck. Two or three were much exhausted when they came on to my vessel. One poor fellow had lost his wife and four children. About eleven o'clock Mr. Chapman, the North Sea pilot, suggested taking one of our boats on shore, and seeing if he could be of any further assistance. He went ashore at Beckton and found twenty-two bodies lying in a factory covered with bags. He could not do any good, so he returned. I say most emphatically that, so far from my abandoning the wreck, I gave all the assistance I could. I anchored, abandoned my voyage, and have now come up to London. My own opinion is that the cause of the collision was the Princess Alice improperly starboarding her helm when she ought to have continued her course on the port helm. If she had continued her port-helm course she would have kept clear. The Bywell Castle had no weight in her, only water ballast. She was going to the north to load coal."

The Princess Alice (which was insured for £8000) was on Wednesday morning discovered lying on the north of mid-stream; her upper gear was visible, and she had eight feet of water over her deck at low tide. The Thames Conservancy flag floated above her, and she bade fair to be speedily lifted, for she lay right in the fairway. The divers said she was in three pieces. A sad and anxious crowd of relations and friends of the dead swayed to and fro in Woolwich on Wednesday from the Pier to the Townhall. It was wisely determined by the Coroners of the several districts to collect together the bodies from the outlying places and group them in a large open shed in Woolwich Dockyard. From Rainham, from Erith, from the Lawes chemical works, from the North Woolwich Gardens, and from Beckton gasworks, about sixty bodies were collected. There were on Wednesday twenty-eight at Woolwich Townhall, twenty-one at the Pier, and four in a neighbouring tavern, the Star and Half-Moon. Thus 113 bodies had been recovered, and every hour since has added to the number.

A black museum has been formed at the Townhall, Woolwich, consisting of various articles of male and female apparel. In an adjoining room were the twenty-eight corpses, twelve of which had been covered with white sheeting, to signify that they had been identified. The others lay in various attitudes, but all with the left leg bent at the knee, and nearly all with the left hand thrown forward. The faces were composed, but much discoloured. A fair-haired woman had a gold watch and chain and a locket laid on her breast.

The inquest was opened on Wednesday by Mr. C. J. Carttar, Coroner for West Kent, in the Alexandra Hall, Woolwich. The jury viewed the bodies and the spot where the Princess Alice sank, and heard evidence as to the identification of the dead before adjourning till Thursday.

Her Majesty the Queen no sooner heard of the disaster than she telegraphed for particulars to the Board of Trade, and all the information in the hands of the London Steam-Boat Company was at once forwarded to Balmoral.

The board of the London Steam-Boat Company, which ordinarily meets once a week, had at the time of the accident a fortnight's vacation. Mr. Edwin Hughes, an ex-director, being on the spot, has, however, been exerting himself to the utmost to circulate descriptions of the dead and missing. Mr. J. Orrell Lever, another director, has addressed a letter to the Lord Mayor, in which he states that the Princess Alice was in charge of a captain who had been twenty years in their service. During the last ten years, he adds, the company's steamers had carried 200,000,000 passengers, exclusive of over 300 private excursion parties every year, and not a single life (previous to the catastrophe of Tuesday night) had been lost by neglect on the part of the captains or other servants of the company. In a calamity affecting so many bread-winners, he asks the Lord Mayor to convene a public meeting, and to receive subscriptions towards alleviating the sufferings of the survivors and their bereaved families. Captain Pelly, R.N., has subscribed £100; and Mr. Orrell Lever's first subscription is £100; Mr. B. Barrow has subscribed £100; Mr. Murray Aston, £50; Mr. John Mann, 10 guineas; Mr. C. E. M'Kenna, 10 guineas; Mr. B. Nicholson, Mr. E. Walker, and "A. P." have given like amounts.

FATAL RAILWAY ACCIDENT.

A terrible accident occurred last Saturday at the Sittingbourne station on the London, Chatham, and Dover Railway. A cheap fast train leaves Ramsgate for London at half-past eleven every morning: but on Saturday, in consequence of the great number of holiday-makers who were returning home, the train was divided into two portions, the first starting from Margate at twenty minutes before twelve, and the second from Ramsgate at half-past eleven. The first part of the train performed its journey safely; but the second, which consisted of a powerful engine, fourteen carriages, two luggage-vans, and a brake-van, and carried about 300 passengers, came into collision with a goods-train on approaching Sittingbourne station. The goods-train had arrived from London, and had to leave some trucks to be sent on to Queenborough. The shunting operations were being conducted upon the down line entirely, and the signals on the up line signified that all was clear for the second part of the train from Ramsgate. While, however, the vans of the luggage-train were being shunted, a guard engaged in the work pulled the wrong lever, which sent them right across the up line, in front of the approaching train, which at that moment was seen advancing at the rate of forty miles an hour. Seeing what had happened, the signalman put up the danger signals, the senior guard of the goods-train ran forward to stop the Ramsgate train, and the goods engine-whistle was sounded. The driver of the passenger-train immediately reversed his engines, and the brakes, which are said not to have been continuous, were put on. But the notice was too short, and the Ramsgate train dashed full into two goods vans standing across the line. The force of the concussion was so great that the engine and tender were thrown off the line, the tender was bent shapeless, and the three first passenger-carriages—two third-class and one first-class—were completely smashed. Five persons were taken out of the ruins of the carriages dead. They are—Mr. Corbett, of 7, Nutford-place, Edgware-road; Mrs. Brown, of North-terrace, Oxford; Mrs. Over, of 36, Loughborough-road, Brixton; a boy named Frederick Knivett, of Whitfield-street, Fitzroy-square; and a domestic servant named Robinson, of Rugeley, Staffordshire. Between thirty and forty other persons were injured, and were removed to a neighbouring infirmary or to private houses in Sittingbourne.

A Coroner's inquest has been held on the persons killed, and the jury has returned a verdict to the effect that the catastrophe was caused by the culpable negligence of Moden and Clarke, the guards of the goods-train; and they have been committed to Maidstone Gaol to take their trial at the Central Criminal Court on the charge of manslaughter.

METROPOLITAN NEWS.

The London Conservatoire of Music gave on Monday last the first of a series of four quartet concerts at Langham Hall.

The Guildford coach having been taken off the road for the season, the horses are announced to be sold at Tattersall's next Monday. They are nearly all young horses; there are two or three match pairs, and several young hunters.

As one of the river steamers, Citizen M, was drawing near the landing-stage at Westminster on Monday afternoon, a passenger, who was sitting on the rail of the gangway, lost his balance, and fell into the river between the boat and the pier. James Harper, one of the hands on board, plunged in, and saved the man's life at the imminent risk of his own.

Sir J. D. Hooker, in a report on the progress and condition of Kew Gardens during 1877, states that his experience of the management and working of the Royal Gardens, extending over upwards of thirty years, led him unhesitatingly to the belief that neither the collections nor the grounds could be maintained up to their present standard if the public were to be admitted in the mornings.

At a meeting of the council of the Royal Agricultural Society held yesterday week at the offices in Hanover-square, it was resolved that prizes shall be offered at the next show for the best breed of goats, and that additional prizes shall be given for the best harvesting machines. Considerable satisfaction was expressed at the steady influx of subscriptions, £425 having been received since the last report.

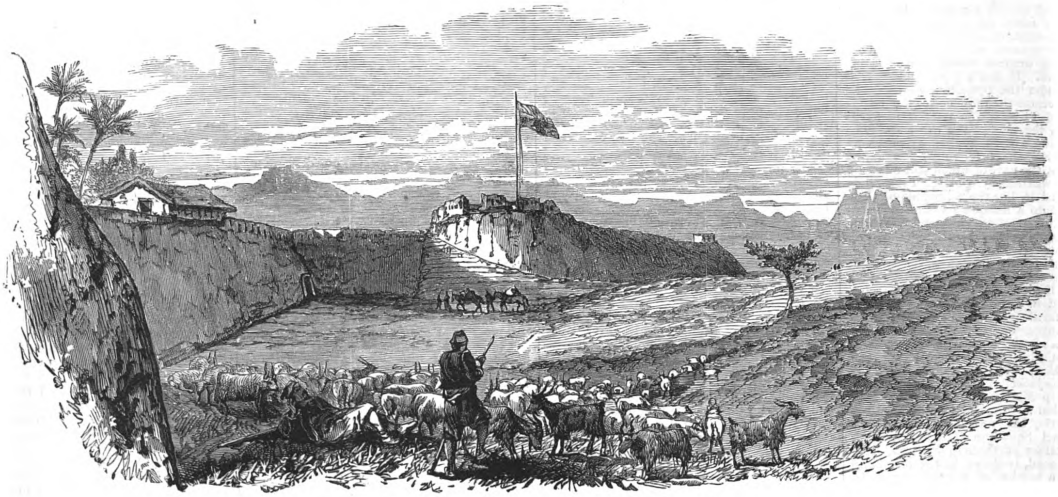
Next Sunday (to-morrow) the lists of persons liable to serve as jurymen for the year 1879 will be placed on church doors, and continue for some days. Persons who are sixty years of age can claim exemption by giving notice to the parochial officers and attending a petty session to make their claim both as to official position and as to age. Unless the names are removed from the lists the parties will be liable to serve.

The weekly return of metropolitan pauperism shows that the total number of paupers at the end of the fourth week in August was 76,733, of whom 38,618 were in workhouses and 38,115 received outdoor relief. Compared with the corresponding weeks in 1877, 1876, and 1875, these figures show a decrease of 296, 337, and 5893 respectively. The number of vagrants relieved on the last day of the week was 764, of whom 496 were men, 207 women, and 61 children.

Some Roman remains have recently been discovered during excavations at No. 9, Walbrook. The City Press says that one is a well, about 22 ft. in depth, the upper portion of the circle being constructed with Kentish rubble, and the lower, to the extent of about 10 ft., being lined with chalk, without cement or other material between the courses. A Roman jug, very light and curious; the lower portion of a wine or water cooler (the latter made of Purbeck stone), and some pieces of tesselated pavement were also discovered.

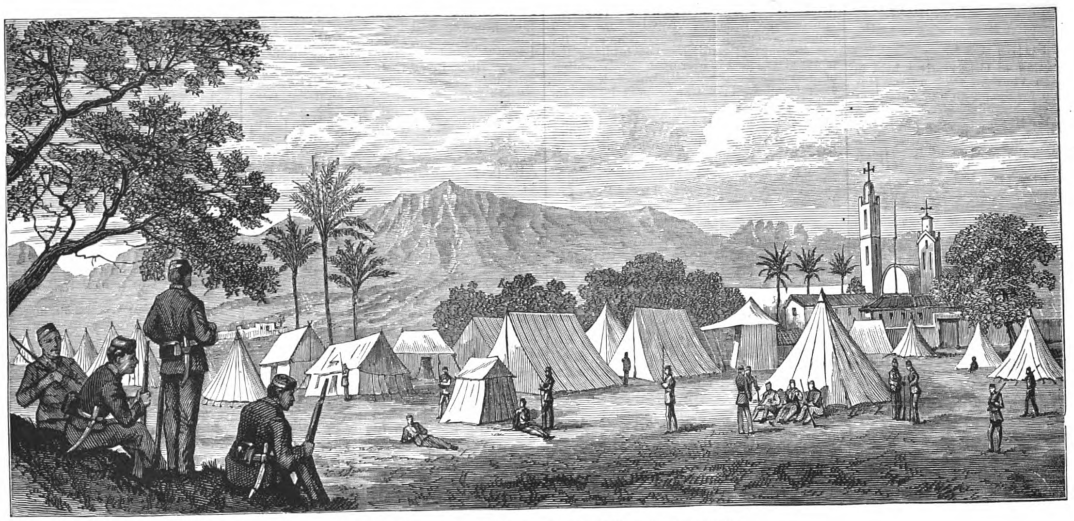
In the City of London Court on Wednesday Mr. Cleghorn, a merchant in the City, sought to recover £1 from the Great Eastern Railway Company, the amount of deposit left with the company as a guarantee of the return of a season ticket at its expiration. The contention of the defendants was that the deposit-money had been sacrificed on account of the ticket not having been returned till a few days after the proper time, the plaintiff being in the country. Mr. Besley found for the plaintiff for the sum claimed, with costs, and refused to allow any appeal.

A fire broke out on Tuesday at Castle Baynard Wharf, in Thames-street, Blackfriars, in the stores of Messrs. Price, oil merchants. From the inflammable nature of the contents of warehouse the fire spread very rapidly, and all efforts to subdue it were unavailing, though a number of steam fire-engines and two steam-floats poured immense quantities of water into the flames. The burning oil flowed alight into the Thames, and the craft upon the river had to be moved. The warehouse, about 45 ft. by 120 ft., was completely burned out and the roof destroyed, and great difficulty was found in saving the adjoining property. The fire was got under about seven o'clock.



A sentence of eight years' penal servitude was on Tuesday awarded, at the Surrey Sessions, to Frederick Payne, a tailor, for feloniously breaking and entering a dwelling-house and stealing various articles. On the apartment occupied by the prisoners at Acacia Cottage, Park-street, Camberwell, being searched, Detective Hunt found concealed under a loose board in the flooring of a cupboard 119 keys tied up in bundles, and apparently classified. Of these fifty-nine were skeleton and the remainder ordinary keys. The officers also found several files, a small hand vice, a knuckle-duster, a life-preserver, a thin piece of steel such as was used for pushing back window-catches, and £5 in gold and silver.

During the month of July the fish-meters appointed by the Court of the Fishmongers' Company seized, at or near Billingsgate and on board boats lying off that place, the enormous quantity of 117 tons 11 cwt. of fish as unfit for human food. Of this nearly 107 tons had come by land, and the remainder by water. The fish numbered 76,750, and included 24 bream, 14 brill, 938 cod, 159 crabs, 3200 dabs, 5 dorees, 81 grayling, 4500 gurnets, 4962 haddocks, 10 hake, 11,675 herrings, 6 ling, 2701 lobsters, 460 mackerel, 3601 plaice, 125 shads, 1 shark, 200 smelts, 430 soles, 7015 thornbacks, 190 trout, 53 turbot, and 39,400 whiting; and, in addition, there were seized 1720 bushels of periwinkles, 120 of whelks and 18 of mussels, 426 gallons of shrimps, 7741b. of eels, 256 quarts of whitebait, 5 lb. of prawns, 1 barrel of anchovies, and 3 casks of goldfish. The whole quantity was promptly destroyed.



SKETCHES OF CYPRUS, BY OUR SPECIAL ARTIST: ST. SOPHIA, NICOSIA.

SKETCHES FROM CYPRUS, BY OUR SPECIAL ARTIST.

WALLS OF NICOSIA, AT THE ENTRANCE FROM LARNACA.

SIR GARNET WOLSELEY'S HEAD-QUARTERS CAMP, NICOSIA.

EAST GATE, NICOSIA.

SKETCHES OF CYPRUS.

Our Special Artist and Correspondent "S. P. O." furnishes three sketches of Nicosia, the capital of Cyprus, and one of Sir Garnet Wolseley's head-quarters' camp, on the ground adjacent to a Greek monastery outside that town. It was formerly named Leucosia (pronounced Lefkosia), the original Greek name having been Leucotra. It was a place of high consideration under the Byzantine Empire, and afterwards became the residence of the Lusignan family of Princes, who reigned as Kings of Cyprus in the time of the Crusades. The Cathedral Church of St. Sophia, as shown by our Artist's Sketch of its ruins, was a fine Gothic edifice, the nave of which still remains; but the choir was destroyed by the Turks when they converted it, like the St. Sophia of Constantinople, into a mosque for Mohammedan worship, in token of which stand the lofty minarets rising high above the ancient Christian face. It contains several tombs of the Lusignans, and of later Venetian governors and nobles. There is little else in the town worthy of remark; the streets are narrow, squalid, and wretched in appearance; but the situation, in a fertile plain sheltered by noble mountain ranges, has some natural attractiveness when viewed from outside the walls. The east gate, which is that by which Admiral Lord John Hay, with his staff, escorted by a party of bluejackets and marines from her Majesty's ship Minotaur, made his entry to take possession of Cyprus for her Majesty Queen Victoria, has received the name of "The Channel Squadron Gate." Another gateway, or rather entrance to the town, from the Larnaca road, is shown in the remaining sketch, with a portion of the old city walls We may here notice that Mr. Stanford has published an excellent coloured map of Cyprus, showing its administrative districts, and the ancient sites which have been identified; with accompanying small maps of the geology and agricultural occupation of the island, and plans of its towns.

POLITICAL.

At a large meeting of Conservatives held in Port-Glasgow on Thursday week a Conservative Association for the burgh was formed, of which Mr. John Reid, shipbuilder, was elected president, and Sir Michael Shaw-Stewart vice-president.

Yesterday week the Marquis of Hartington presided at the annual meeting of the Craven Agricultural Society, held at Skipton, in Yorkshire. He said that it was a matter of pleasure and satisfaction to find himself, after an arduous and protracted Session, once more at Bolton Abbey, among the healthy hills and moors of Craven. In proposing the principal toast, he confined himself chiefly to agricultural matters, but at the same time justified the action of the Liberal party in discussing and ensuring the modification of the provisions of the Cattle Diseases Bill. He said the course which they took was for the interest of the agricultural classes as well as of the whole community. All they desired was to secure that no needless restriction was placed upon the importation of foreign cattle. If there arose a suspicion that the price of meat was raised unnecessarily for the benefit of a single class of the community, there would be an agitation throughout the country that would sweep away all protective restrictions against the spread of disease.

The Conservative Association of Oxford, to the number of about one thousand, dined together yesterday week. The speakers included the Earl of Jersey, Sir Charles Russell, V.C., M.P., Mr. Hanbury, M.P., Mr. A. W. Hall, M.P. for the city, and several leading Conservatives of the county and city. The meeting was most enthusiastic. Favourable references to the Earl of Beaconsfield and the foreign policy of the Government were received with much applause, and the determination was expressed to bring out Conservative candidates at the next election.

The Oxford North Ward Liberal Association entertained Mr. J. W. Chitty, Q.C., the future Liberal candidate for the second seat, at dinner last Saturday afternoon, at Cumnington Island, a few miles from Oxford. Mr. Buckwell, president of the Liberal Association, occupied the chair, and was supported by several members of the Corporation, and about three hundred of the various associations. Mr. Chitty met with an enthusiastic reception, and in responding to the toast of his health he censured the policy of the Conservative party and lauded the conduct of Mr. Gladstone.

On the same afternoon the members of the Oxford Working Men's Conservative Association, to the number of about one thousand, dined together in that city. The speakers included the Earl of Jersey, Sir Charles Russell, V.C., M.P., Mr. Hanbury, M.P., and Mr. A. W. Hall, M.P.

Sir Hardinge Giffard, the Solicitor-General, addressing a meeting of his constituents at Launceston on Saturday evening spoke principally on the Eastern Question. He denounced Russia as an unscrupulous Power bent on a career of aggrandisement, and condemned the conduct of Mr. Gladstone, which he said, he had reason to believe was disapproved of by the great bulk of the Liberal party.

Mr. Mundella made another attempt at addressing his constituents on Monday evening, and succeeded. In consequence of the opposition a week ago, the Liberal Association of Sheffield arranged that the address should be delivered at the Albert Hall, and that admission should be by ticket. This course was pursued, and the hon. gentleman was thereby secured an uninterrupted hearing. After disposing of various personal matters in connection with the unsuccessful meeting of last week, Mr. Mundella reviewed the work of the past Session, dwelling particularly upon the results of the Berlin Congress. He expressed the hope that the treaty would put an end to all the turmoil and political disturbance which had taken place during the last two years. It had been claimed for the English Plenipotentiaries that they had obtained peace with honour; but, judging from what was now going on in Bosnia, Herzegovina, Greece, Crete, and the Rhodope Mountains, it did not look very much like it.

The annual meeting of the Royal North Lancashire Agricultural Society was held on Tuesday at Lancaster, under the presidency of Lord Winmarleigh. Colonel Stanley, Secretary for War, replied to the toast of the Houses of Parliament. He avoided any reference to party politics, and expressed his satisfaction with the present attitude of the country, which, he believed, in this hour of repose gave full credit to the Government for the good efforts they had made for the preservation of the peace of Europe. Lord Winmarleigh spoke in approval of the action of the House of Lords in regard to the Cattle Bill, but admitted that it was unwise to array town against country upon a question in which the good of the people was concerned, and he expressed a hope that the modifications which the House of Commons had made in the measure would prove satisfactory and beneficial to all parties.

Mr. Cowper-Temple, M.P., speaking at a gathering of Liberals at Romsey on Tuesday evening, referring to the Eastern Question, said that there were two policies before the country, and asked which had been carried into effect. Certainly not that which aimed at the independence and integrity of the Turkish Empire—that had been completely abandoned; but the principle, though the details might be different, of the very bag-and-baggage policy of Mr. Gladstone, whom people were taking every opportunity of vilifying and misrepresenting. The bringing the power of England to bear upon the civilisation of Asia was a commendable object, if only it could be attained; but he believed the scheme would turn out to be all moonshine. The ruling races of Turkey in Asia would take care of that. Cyprus would never be worth what we should spend on it, much less the enmity and jealousy which its occupation had created.

Addressing his constituents at Hammersmith on Wednesday night, Sir Charles Dilke exhaustively reviewed the legislation of the past Session of Parliament, and, alluding to the Eastern Question, condemned her Majesty's Government for not having boldly adopted one of two intelligible policies—either supported the Turkish Empire, not for its own sake, but as a bulwark against Russia; or broken with the past, and made the Greeks the protegés of England in the same manner as Russia had the Sclavs.

A statement of the election expenses incurred on behalf of Mr. Albert H. G. Grey, the Liberal candidate at the late election for South Northumberland, has been delivered to the High Sheriff, the returning officer. The total is £8136. The chief items are:—Conveyances and railway passes, £3126; agency, £2114; committee-rooms and expenses incurred therein, including clerks, canvassers, and messengers, £1443; and printing, advertising, and stationery, £977. The remainder includes postage and telegrams, and the share of the Under-Sheriff's fees and expenses. The total is less by £1536 than the amount paid on behalf of the successful Conservative candidate.

THE VOLUNTEERS.

The annual prize-meeting of the Hon. Artillery Company of London was held at their range at Park, Tottenham, on Thursday and Friday last week, when the following competitions were decided:—The £10 10s. prize presented by the Hon. Mrs. Lindsay was won by Private T. Munn. Colonel Loyd-Lindsay, M.P., V.C., prize value £15 15s., was won by Private T. Wace. The prize presented by the Prince of Wales, Captain-General and Colonel of the regiment, value £20, was won by Private J. A. M'Kenzie. Major Defries's prize, value £5 5s., for the highest aggregate in the three above competitions, was won by Corporal C. E. Lewis. The long-range prize, value £8, was won by Private W. H. Webb (No. 1 company); and the President's prize, value £5 5s., by Private H. Hawkins.

At the City rifle-ranges at Rainham, Essex, last Saturday, upwards of one hundred competitors of the 2nd and 3rd London Rifles fired for a long list of prizes. Like the previous Saturday, when the Holms' Challenge Trophy was contested between the three principal East London rifle battalions, the weather was again most unfavourable, rain descending heavily throughout the morning, and being followed in the afternoon, just as the competitors reached the butts, by a severe thunderstorm, accompanied with torrents of rain. In A company of the 2nd London, Private Richardson made the highest score. He takes the silver medal, but was run pretty close by Lieutenant Hodgkin. In D company of the same regiment there were two series of prizes, one being specially arranged for recruits, one of whom made the top score of the company and took the most coveted prize of the meeting, the silver badge. Drill points were added to the shooting score, and in the first match, open to the veterans, Private Henderson and Lance-Corporal E. B. George were equal. In the recruits' series, Private Lawrence took the first prize and the company silver badge, Private S. H. Davies the second prize, and Private W. Letherem the third. Twenty competitors of H (Captain Marrass) company of the 3rd London fired at third-class distances for the company prizes, which were won as follow:—First and company silver badge, Sergeant Knight; and the remainder by Private King, Corporal Sturgess, Lance-Corporal Sharp, Private Pinckney, Private Smith, Corporal Seers, and Private Hills.

On Saturday also a large number of the best shots of the 2nd, or South Middlesex, proceeded to the ranges at Caterham Downs and competed for many valuable prizes, comprising the first series of the regimental, the challenge cup presented by the hon. chaplain of the regiment, and a prize of £20 given by Mr. George Goodwin. As at Rainham, the weather was very unfavourable on the Surrey downs, but some excellent shooting was made. The prize was won by Corporal T. Pullman.

In the monthly jewel competition of the South London Rifle Club, at the Nunhead ranges, some good shooting was made with the Snider. The club is composed of most of the best shots of the metropolis resident in South London. Captain W. Morris, of the 3rd Kent, was the winner of the gold jewel. Private J. Nathan, London Rifle Brigade, was second and won the club silver jewel; and Sergeant W. Tuke, Queen's (Westminster) Rifles, secured the third honour, the bronze jewel.

The annual prize-meeting of the A company (Lieutenant C. A. Thimm's), 2nd London, took place at Rainham last Saturday for a valuable series of prizes, including four cups won by the company for largest musters at special parades of the battalion. Private Richardson won the company silver medal and badge.

The Worcestershire County Association had their annual prize-meeting (the thirteenth) last week on Hurtlebury-common. The shooting occupied two days, seventeen companies entering the lists. The chief prizes were those given by Earl Beauchamp, called Lord Elmley's prizes. The prize-winners were Lance-Corporal W. Noake, fourteenth company, £10; Private J. Smith, thirteenth company, £7; and Corporal T. Whitehouse, seventh company, £4. The following were the winners of the prizes of £5 each for efficient members:—Private G. Dickson, fourth company; Private W. Walters, twenty-first company; and Corporal W. Middleton, second company. The prizes for the best shooting corps in the county, ten men from each corps, were won as follows:—Worcester, thirteenth company, £10; and Wolverley, first company, £5. The leading prize, £5, of the association, prize for members only, was won by Surgeon Parnell, of the fourteenth company. The other leading winners were Sergeant-Instructor C. Hall; Trooper T. B. Hobbes, Yeomanry Cavalry; and Sergeant J. F. Partington, Volunteer Artillery.

THUNDERSTORMS.

Yesterday week London experienced another thunderstorm, and there was a violent downpour of rain, with a high wind. In some parts of the country where the storm raged also people were struck with lightning, and much damage has been done to the crops. A storm passed over the North Riding of Yorkshire. A gentleman named S. S. Pocock, who resided near Windsor, while out in a boat in Scarborough Bay, was struck by the lightning and killed. In the afternoon a severe storm passed over Kendal, Westmorland, and the neighbourhood. A dwelling-house at Hawes Farm was struck, the lightning entering by the roof, and passing into a room occupied by three persons. One of them, a servant-man, was rendered insensible, and a servant-girl sustained serious injury in the right side, so that for a long time she was as one partly paralysed. A daughter of Mr. Lancaster, the occupant of the farm, was burned in various parts of the body. At sea a terrific gale blew, in which a French fishing-boat was capsized and her crew drowned, besides other fatalities.

During a thunderstorm last Saturday afternoon two labourers in the employ of Mr. Bennion, a farmer, near Leek, were killed by lightning while reaping wheat.

A well-dressed man, whose name, from papers found upon him, was discovered to be Lucas, and who is supposed to be a clerk in the Admiralty, was found by a shepherd's dog on Saturday evening in one of the defiles of Woolmer Forest. The deceased, who carried a knapsack, had evidently been killed by lightning. His clothes were nearly burned off, and his watch was melton into a shapeless mass. The contents of his knapsack were burned, and only the cane frame remained.

The Working Men's Club and Institute Union formally opened on Monday a "Seaside Home" which it has provided at Margate, to supply members of working men's clubs in London, and their families, with good and cheap lodgings at the seaside.—The Right Hon. G. Cavendish Bentinck, M.P., performed the ceremony yesterday week of opening at Lytham a handsome new Working Men's Institute, which has been erected by voluntary subscriptions at a cost of £3000. He referred to the great importance of such institutions to the country, and strongly urged on his hearers the necessity of thorough knowledge, and not that superficial knowledge a tendency to which was only too common in these days. Mr. Hodgson Pratt, of the Working Men's Club and Institute Union, London, also spoke on the utility of working men's institutions and on the necessity of working men taking a proper position in social, intellectual, and political life.

AGRICULTURAL SHOWS.

The annual show of the Royal Manchester, Liverpool, and North Lancashire Agricultural Society was held near Lancaster on Tuesday. According to the verdict of the judges the show was a great success, the animals and machinery exhibited being quite up to, if not beyond, the average. At the luncheon, which took place in a large marquee erected on the ground, there were more than 400 guests. Lord Winmarleigh, as president of the society, occupied the chair, and was supported right and left by Colonel Stanley (the Secretary for War), and Mr. W. Lowther, M.P.

The eighteenth annual show in connection with the Derbyshire Agricultural Society (under the presidency of the Duke of Devonshire) was held in the Cattle Market and Holmes's Ground, at Derby, on Wednesday, and was the most successful exhibition on record. The previous day's show was devoted to a grand display of horticulture and an exhibition of machinery in motion, implements, poultry, roots, &c., while Wednesday was set apart for cattle, horses, sheep, and pigs, as well as the jumping competition for hunters, which forms so important a feature in exhibitions of a similar character. The schedule of prizes had been prepared on an elaborate and liberal scale, amounting in round numbers to close on £900.

Viscount Valentia presided at the annual dinner of the Bicester Agricultural Association, held on Wednesday. Earl Jersey, Colonel North, M.P., and Mr. Harcourt, M.P., were present.

The finest exhibition of stock that ever took place under the auspices of the Fermanagh Agricultural Society was held in Enniskillen yesterday week, and there was a large attendance of farmers of the county. Lord Crichton, M.P., president of the society, Lord Cole. Mr. Archdale, M.P., Captain Archdale, Mr. J. G. V. Porter, and other gentlemen connected with the society, were present, and the secretary, Mr. Henry M. Richardson, was, as usual, at his post. Horses and horned cattle made an exceptionally fine show.

A new institution, called the St. Margaret's Club, for working men, which has been founded at Tyler's-green, Buckinghamshire, by Sir Philip Rose, Bart., was opened on Wednesday by Lord and Lady Carington.

The "gambling hells" question was again discussed by the Brighton Town Council on Wednesday. The result was a statement by the Town Clerk that the Watch Committee had never had sufficient information to act upon.

The Mark Lane Express of Monday night takes, upon the whole, a favourable review of the harvest prospects. Work in the north has been delayed by rain; but it is questionable whether very much damage has been done in the midland counties, although sprouting is to be feared. A large quantity of wheat has been secured under favourable conditions.

ROYAL DUBLIN SOCIETY.
TAYLOR ART SCHOLARSHIPS AND PRIZES.
The Trustees and Judges appointed for carrying into effect the Trusts of the Will of the late Captain George Archibald Taylor, in reference to the income arising from the sum bequeathed by him for the promotion of Art in Ireland, have fixed the terms upon which £120 will be awarded in the year 1879, in Two Scholarships and Two Prizes to Art Students.
Particulars will be furnished on application to RICHARD J. Moss, Registrar,
Royal Dublin Society.
Leinster House, Dublin, Aug. 10, 1878.

GREAT WESTERN RAILWAY.
TOURIST ARRANGEMENTS, 1878.—First, Second, and Third Class Tourist Tickets, available for Two Months, will be issued from May 1 to Oct. 31, 1878. For particulars, see time-tables and programmes issued by the Company.
Paddington Terminus. J. GRIERSON, General Manager.

COLOMBO, MADRAS, and CALCUTTA.
DUCAL LINE.—Exceptional and favourable terms of Passage for a limited number of First-Class Passengers only. Apply to GRINDLAY and CO., 55, Parliament-street, S.W.; to F. GREEN and CO., or to McDIARMID, GREENSHIELDS, and CO., 112, Fenchurch-street, E.C.

BANK OF NEW ZEALAND
(Incorporated by Act of General Assembly, July 29, 1861).
Bankers to the New Zealand Government.
Authorised Capital, £1,000,000. Paid-up Capital, £725,000.
Reserve Fund, £325,000.
DIRECTORS.
J. LOGAN CAMPBELL, Esq., President.
George B. Owen, Esq. | W. I. Taylor, Esq.
Alfred Cox, Esq., M.G.A. | J. C. Firth, Esq.
Samuel Browning, Esq. | Hon. Jas. Williamson, M.L.C.
LONDON BOARD.
The Right Hon. Sir James Fergusson, Bart., K.C.M.G. | Falconer Larkworthy, Esq.
Archd. Hamilton, Esq. | Robert Porter, Esq.
A. J. Mundella, Esq., M.P. | Thomas Russell, Esq., C.M.G.
Head Office—Auckland.
BRANCHES AND AGENCIES.
In Australia—Melbourne, Sydney, and Newcastle.
In Fiji—Levuka.
In New Zealand—Auckland, Blenheim, Christchurch, Dunedin, Invercargill, Napier, Nelson, New Plymouth, Picton, Wellington, and at eighty-two other towns and places throughout the Colony.
The Bank grants Drafts on all their Branches and Agencies, and transacts every description of banking business connected with New Zealand, Australia, and Fiji on the most favourable terms.
The London Office RECEIVES DEPOSITS of £50 and upwards for fixed periods of two to five years, bearing interest at 5 per cent per annum. The rate for shorter periods can be ascertained on application. F. LARKWORTHY, Managing Director.
No. 1, Queen Victoria-street, Mansion House, E.C.

CYPRUS.—THE IMPERIAL OTTOMAN BANK is prepared, through its LONDON and PARIS AGENCIES, to grant CREDITS, to receive and REMIT MONEY, and to act generally as Bankers in connection with Cyprus, where it has for many years past had a branch establishment.
London Agency, 26, Throgmorton-street, E.C. | Paris Agency, 7, Rue Meyerbeer.

BRIGHTON FURNISHED HOUSES for the SEASON.—For particulars of those in the best situations—Adelaide-crescent, Palmeira-square, Brunswick-square, Brunswick-terrace, West Brighton—apply to Messrs. CROUCH and STEVENS, 95, Western-road, Brighton.

ORDER EVERYTHING YOU REQUIRE THROUGH COCKBURN'S UNITED SERVICE AGENCY SOCIETY, 41, Haymarket, London, S.W., and save from 5 to 50 per cent and much time and trouble by so doing.

HOMŒOPATHIC HOSPITAL (SELECT) for LADIES, Bolton House, 192, Clapham-road, Surrey. Established 1861. A Private Home, where Patients suffering from serious disease, and requiring special supervision, can obtain the best Medical and Surgical Treatment without incurring anxiety in their own homes. Treatise of successful cases forwarded for twelve stamps. Physician, DAVID JONES, M.D. Consultations daily, Eleven to One (Tuesday and Friday excepted), at 15, Welbeck-street, London.

NEW BOOKS AND PUBLICATIONS.

NEW AND POPULAR NOVELS.
Now ready, at all the Libraries, in 3 vols.,

MRS. GRAY'S REMINISCENCES. By LADY BLAKE.
UNDER TEMPTATION. By the Author of 'Ursula's Love Story.' &c.
THE BUBBLE REPUTATION. By KATHARINE Author of "The Queen of the Regiment."
HIS LAST STAKE. By SHIRLEY SMITH.
THE PRIMROSE PATH. By Mrs. OLIPHANT.
WOOD ANEMONE. By Mrs. RANDOLPH.
HURST and BLACKETT, Publishers, 13, Great Marlborough-street.

MESSRS. BESANT AND RICE'S NEW NOVEL.
Now ready, in 3 vols.,

THE MONKS OF THELEMA: a Tale of the Day.
By the Authors of "Readymoney Mortiboy," "The Golden Butterfly," "By Celia's Arbour," &c.
CHATTO and WINDUS, and at every Library in the Kingdom.

NEW AND CHEAPER ILLUSTRATED EDITION OF THE COMPLETE WORKS OF W. M. THACKERAY.
Now ready, with Illustrations by the Author, Frederick Walker, and R. B. Wallace,

THE ADVENTURES OF PHILIP. Vol. I. Crown 8vo, 3s. 6d.
London: SMITH, ELDER, and Co., 15, Waterloo-place.

Now ready (One Shilling), No. 225,

THE CORNHILL MAGAZINE for SEPTEMBER. With Illustrations by George Du Maurier and Frank Dickses.

CONTENTS.
"For Percival" (with an Illustration). Chap. XLII.—Walking to St. Sylvester's. XLIII.—Faint Heart wins Fair Lady. XLIV.—The Last Music Lesson. XLV.—A Thunderbolt in Stanton-square.
The Centaurs. Part I. By S. Colvin.
Rose Cherrit: An Exile's Love Story.
Age of the Sun and Earth.
Como and Il Medeghino.
Child's Play.
Within the Precincts (with an Illustration). Chap. XXII.—A Chance for Law. XXIII.—Good Advice. XXIV.—A Crisis.
London: SMITH, ELDER, and Co., 15, Waterloo-place.

MARCUS WARD AND CO.'S SEPTEMBER LIST.

THE BLUE BELL SERIES of NEW NOVELS.—A SIMPLE MAIDEN. By LESLIE KEITH. Illustrated by W. J. Hennessy. The Fifth Monthly Volume is now ready, price 2s.
The BLUE BELL SERIES has been undertaken in opposition to the "Library" system of half-guinea volumes, and the Tales are selected for their healthy tone. Permanent price, 2s. each. Illustrated.

THE ILLUSTRATED WAVERLEY NOVELS. In half-crown (complete) volumes monthly. Clear type, well illustrated, and elegantly bound.
THE MONASTERY. With 37 Illustrations. Now ready. The Series is now being issued, half-bound extra, price 3s. 6d. per volume.

In Monthly Parts, price 1s., Part VI. now ready,

OUR NATIVE LAND: Its Scenes and Associations. Three Chromograph Views in each Part, with descriptive Letterpress. Part VI. contains Views of O'Sullivan's Cascade, Middle Lake, and Meeting of the Waters, Killarney.

Now ready, 8vo, cloth extra, price 6s.,

AMONG THE FLOWERS, and Other Poems. By FRANCIS W. BOURDILLON.
MARCUS WARD and Co., London, Belfast, and Philadelphia.

SOCIAL NOTES. Edited by S. C. HALL, F.S.A., &c. Weekly, One Penny; Monthly Parts, 6d.

SOCIAL NOTES. This Week, No. 27, contains:—
Portrait of Wilberforce.
Biographical Sketch of Wilberforce.
Fashionable Slang. Charles Mackay, LL.D.
Our Streets. No. 1. Now-cut and Lower Marsh. Leith Derwent.
The Corps of Commissionaires.
S. C. Hall, F.S.A.
The Pollution of Rivers. Urquhart A. Forbes, Barrister-at-Law.
Poisoned Boyhood. Ara.
Notes on Current Events, &c.

SOCIAL NOTES.—Each Weekly Number Sketches the Life, and gives the Portrait, of some Public Benefactor.
Office, 16, Southampton-street; and of all Booksellers and Newsagents, and Railway Bookstalls. Specimen copy free by post, 1½d.

POTTERY-PAINTING: a Handbook to the Practice. By JOHN C. L. SPARKES, Director of the Lambeth School of Art, &c. Second Edition. Post-free, 1s. 1d.
London: LECHERTIER, BARBE, and Co., 60, Regent-street, W. (Agents in England for Lacroix's Ceramic Colours).

VITREMANIE SUPERSEDING DIAPHANIE.—An easy and inexpensive Method of Decorating Windows in Churches, Public Buildings, and Private Dwellings, by which may be produced the Rich Colouring and Beautiful Designs of Real Stained Glass. Handbook of Designs and Instructions, 1s. 1d. Particulars post-free. Sole Inventors, J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-street, London, W.

Just published, in one volume, 8vo, with four litho graphic illustrations. Price 1s.; or, post-free, 1s. 3d.,

TRUTHS ABOUT WHISKY. Contents: Chap. I.—The Position of the Authors. Chap. II.—The Qualities and Popularity of Genuine Dublin Whisky. Chap. III.—The Peculiarities of the Dublin Manufacture: the Water supply. Chap. IV.—Patent Stills and Silent Spirits. Chap. V.—The Growth of Silent Spirit into Sham Whisky. Chap VI.—The Relative Wholesomeness of Whisky and of Silent Spirit. Chap. VII.—The Action of the Chancellor of the Exchequer and of Parliament. Chap. VIII.—The Action of the Commissioners of Inland Revenue. Chap. IX.—Backing in Bond.—The Grogging Question. Chap. X.—Whisky Frauds outside the Bonded Warehouse.
The Work is issued by the Whisky Distillers of Dublin, in order to impart to the public a kind of knowledge which has become necessary for the protection of consumers.
London: SUTTON, SHARPE, and Co., Queen Victoria-street, E.C.

Large 8vo, pp. 724, 8s. post-free; or, in half morocco, 10s. 6d.,

HOMŒOPATHIC DOMESTIC PHYSICIAN. By Drs. PULTE and EPPS.
CONTENTS:—General Diseases—Casual Diseases—Cutaneous Diseases—Fevers—Affections of the Mind—the Head—the Eyes—the Ears—the Nose—the Face, Lips, and Jaws—the Teeth, Gums, and Mouth—the Windpipe and Chest—the Stomach and Bowels—the Urinary and Genital Organs—Diseases of Women—Treatment of Children—Anatomy and Physiology—Hygiene and Hydropathy—Materia Medica—Domestic Surgery—Medical and Surgical Appliances—Dislocations and Luxations—Fractures.
A Chest of Medicines, Book inclosed, £3 10s. or £6 6s.
JAMES EPPS and Co., 48, Threadneedle-st.; and 170, Piccadilly.

CANCER AND TUMOURS, A Successful Mode of Treating Certain Forms of. By ALEX. MARSDEN, M.D., Senior Surgeon to the Cancer Hospital, London. Price 8s. 6d.—J. and A. CHURCHILL, New Burlington-street.

NOW READY,

THE ILLUSTRATED PENNY ALMANACK FOR 1879, containing Twenty-four Engravings from the ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS of our Ironclads, the Cleopatra, Ostrich Farming, and other Foreign and Domestic Subjects; Tables of Stamps, Taxes, and Licenses; Eclipses, Remarkable Events, Post-Office Regulations, and a great variety of Useful and Interesting Information. The Trade supplied by G. VICKERS, Angel-court (17D), Strand; and H. Williams, Warwick-lane, Paternoster-row, London.

BIRKET FOSTER'S CHROMOS.—GREAT BARGAIN.—Eight 10s. 6d. Chromos for 21s. The following subjects—Rustic Students, Minding Baby, Bird's Nest, Cottage Door, Hay-Field, Hedge-Side, Feeding Ducks, Seaweed Gatherers.—GEO. REES, 41, 42, 43, Russell-street, Covent-garden.

FOR ARMS and CREST, send Name and County to T. MORING, Inns of Court Heraldic Offices, 44, High Holborn, W.C. Plain sketch, 3s. 6d.; Coloured, 7s. 6d. Seals, Dies, and Diplomas. Illustrated Price-Lists post-free.

WHITE WOOD ARTICLES, for PAINTING, FERN PRINTING, and Decalcomanie. Hand Screens; Book Covers; Glove, Knitting, and Handkerchief Boxes; Paper Knives, Fans, &c.
Priced List on application.
WM. BARNARD, 119, Edgware-road, London.

WEDDING and BIRTHDAY PRESENTS at HENRY RODRIGUES', 42, Piccadilly, London.
Sets for the Boudoir and Writing Table, 21s. to £10.
Envelope Cases .. 10s. to £2 | Dressing Cases .. 21s. to £20
Inkstands .. .. 5s. to £5 | Jewel Cases .. .. 21s. to £5
Despatch Boxes .. 21s. to £5 | Work-Boxes .. 10s. 6d. to £3
Writing Cases .. 10s to £5 | Card Trays .. .. 21s. to £5
Travelling Bags, Candlesticks, Candelabra, Flower Vases, Jardinières, and a large and choice Assortment of English, Viennese, and Parisian Useful and Elegant Novelties, from 5s. to £5.

PORTRAIT ALBUMS at RODRIGUES', with Patent Leather Guards, 4s. 6d. to £5. Easel Albums, Scrap Albums, Presentation and Regimental Albums.
Albums of every description made to order.—42, Piccadilly.

MONOGRAMS.—RODRIGUES' Novelties in Monograms, Crests, and Addresses. Steel Dies engraved as gems. Note Paper and Envelopes illuminated in gold, silver, bronze, and colours. Coloured stamping, 1s. per 100. All the New and Fashionable Note Papers.—42, Piccadilly.

VISITING CARDS at H. RODRIGUES'. A Card-Plate elegantly engraved and 100 superfine Cards printed for 4s. 6d. Small Programmes, Bills of Fare, Guest Cards, and Invitations, in every variety.—42, Piccadilly.

MUSICAL-BOX DÉPOTS, 56, Cheapside, and 22, Ludgate-hill, London.—Nicole's celebrated Musical Snuff-boxes, from 18s. to 90s. Largest stock in London. Catalogue gratis and post-free. Apply to WALES & M'CULLOCH, as above.

GARDNERS' NEW DINNER and TABLE GLASS SERVICES are original in design, effective in appearance, and unequalled in price. Dinner Services from £3 3s., the Set for twelve persons, complete, with 15 per cent discount for cash on or before delivery. Table Glass Services from £3 5s. 6d. the Set for twelve persons complete.

DINNER SERVICES.
Coloured Lithographs post-free.

In Deep Blue.		In Blue and White.
The Lansdowne ..	£3 3 0	The Lansdowne ..	£3 3 0
The Laurel	3 13 6	The Indian	4 4 0
		The Danish	5 5 0

Discount 15 per cent.

In Enamelled Patterns.		In their unequalled Crown Ware.
The One Thousand and Two (A) ..	5 5 0	In Ruby	£5 5 0
The Japanese Bamboo	6 6 0	In Pink	5 5 0
The Humming-Bird ..	7 7 0	In Blue	5 5 0
The Sèvres	7 7 0

Discount 15 per cent.

TABLE GLASS SERVICES.

Plain light stem glass	£3 5 6	Light engraved glass ..	£5 15 6
Richly cut glass ..	5 5 0	Richly engraved glass	5 19 6

Discount 15 per cent.
Illustrated Glass Catalogue, which must be returned, sent post-free on application.
Gardners', Lamp, Glass, and China Manufacturers, 453 and 454, West Strand, Charing-cross.

£10. BENNETT'S WATCHES. In return for a £10 Note, free and safe per post, one of BENNETT'S LADY'S GOLD WATCHES, perfect for time, beauty, and workmanship, with keyless action, air-tight, dust-tight, and dust-tight.—65, Cheapside, London. Gold Chains at manufacturers' prices. P.O.O. to John Bennett.
BENNETT, 65 and 64, Cheapside.

WALKER'S CRYSTAL CASE WATCHES are superseding all others. Prize Medals—London, 1862, Paris, 1867. Silver Watches, from £4 4s.; Gold, from £6 6s. Price-Lists sent free.—68, Cornhill; 220, Regent-street; and 76, Strand.

THE BEST ENGLISH WATCHES. GOLDSMITHS' ALLIANCE, Limited, request the attention of Purchasers to their PATENT LEVER WATCHES, which, being manufactured on the Premises, are confidently recommended for accuracy and durability.
Prices of Silver Watches.
Patent Lever Watch, jewelled, enamel dial, and seconds £4 14 6
Ditto, jewelled in four holes, and inspect 5 5 0
Ditto, the finest quality, jewelled in six holes 6 6 0
Silver Watches in Hunting Cases, £6 6s. extra.
Gold Watches.—Size for Ladies.
Patent Lever Watches, jewelled, dial, jewelled 11 11 0
Ditto, with richly engraved case 12 12 0
Ditto, with very strong case, and jewelled in four holes 14 14 0
Gold Watches.—Size for Gentlemen.
Patent Lever Watches, jewelled, seconds, and capped .. 13 13 0
Ditto, jewelled in six holes, and gold balance 18 18 0
Gold Watches in Hunting Cases, £3 3s. extra.
Lists of all kinds of Watches sent free, gratis and post-free.
The Goldsmiths' Alliance (Limited), 11 and 12, Cornhill, London.

EAU DE CHYPRE.—PIESSE and LUBIN. This is an ancient perfume from Cyprus. During the national career of Egypt, Persia, Greece, and Rome, the Island of Cyprus was the resort of the elite, learned, and refined. It was at the time of the Crusades, when Richard I. of England assumed the title of King of Cyprus, that the famed Eau de Chypre was introduced into Europe, the composition of which is yet preserved in the archives of the Laboratory of Piesse and Lubin. Those who are curious in ancient perfumes can be gratified at 2, New Bond-street, London.

THE COURT HAIR DESTROYER.—This newly-discovered remedy completely removes superfluous hair. Quite harmless. 3s. 6d. per box. 10s. 6d. of Inventor, J. Leon, 19, Porteus-rd., London, W., or Chemists. Particulars, 1 stamp.

VALUABLE DISCOVERY for the HAIR. If your hair is turning grey, or white, or falling off, use "The Mexican Hair Renewer," for it will positively restore in every case Grey or White Hair to its original colour, without leaving the disagreeable smell of most "Hair Restorers." It makes the hair charmingly beautiful, as well as promoting the growth of the hair on bald spots where the roots are not decayed. Ask any Chemist for the "Mexican Hair Renewer," price 3s. 6d.
Prepared by HENRY C. GALLUP, 423, Oxford-street, London.

FLORILINE. For the Teeth and Breath. Is the best Liquid Dentifrice in the World; it thoroughly cleanses partially-decayed teeth from all parasites or living "animalculæ," leaving them pearly white, imparting a delightful fragrance to the breath. Price 2s. 6d. per Bottle. The Fragrant Floriline removes instantly all odours arising from a foul stomach or tobacco smoke, being partly composed of honey, soda, and extracts of sweet herbs and plants. It is perfectly harmless, and delicious as honey. Prepared by HENRY C. GALLUP, 423, Oxford-street, London. Retailed everywhere.

JOHN GOSNELL and CO.'S VIOLET and MILLEFLEUR POWDER, for the Toilet and Nursery. Universally admired for its purity and fragrance. Sold by all Chemists and Perfumers. Wholesale, 93, Upper Thames-street.

BREIDENBACH'S ABRONIA.—The New Scent for 1878. Delicate, refreshing, and durable, 2s. 6d. to 60s. per Bottle. Breidenbach's MACASSARINE, invaluable for preserving the Growth of the Hair, 1s., 2s. 6d., 5s. per Bottle.
Of all Chemists, and the Makers, 157B, New Bond-street, W.

CAUTION.—The MACASSAR OIL for nourishing the hair, and ODONTO for whitening the teeth, prepared by A. ROWLAND and SONS, of 20, Hatton-garden, London, are the only genuine articles sold under these or similar names. Avoid cheap imitations, and ask for Rowlands'.

GOLDEN HAIR.—ROBARE'S AUREOLINE produces the beautiful Golden Colour so much admired. Warranted perfectly harmless. Price 5s. 6d. and 10s. 6d., of all Perfumers. Wholesale, HOVENDEN and SONS, 5, Great Marlborough-street, W.; and 93 and 95, City-road, E.C. London; Finand and Meyer, 37, Boulevard de Strasbourg, Paris; 31, Graben, Vienna; 44, Rue des Longs Chariots, Brussels.

DOES YOUR HAIR TURN GREY? Then use HERRING'S PATENT MAGNETIC BRUSHES and COMBS. Brushes, 10s. and 15s. each. Combs, 2s. 6d., 3s., 7s. 6d., 10s., 15s., and 20s. each. Pamphlets upon application.—5, Great Marlborough-st., W.; 93 and 95, City-road; and of all Perfumers.

NUDA VERITAS.—GREY HAIR restored by this valuable specific to its original shade, after which it grows the natural colour, not grey. Used as a dressing, it causes growth and arrests falling. The most harmless and effectual restorer extant. One trial will convince it has no equal. Price 10s. 6d., of all Chemists and Hairdressers. Testimonials post-free.—H. HOVENDEN and SONS, London.

SPANISH FLY is the acting ingredient in ALEX. ROSS'S CANTHARIDES OIL, which speedily produces Whiskers and Thickens Hair. 3s. 6d.; sent in blank wrappers for 54 stamps.—Alex. Ross, 248, High Holborn.

NEW FABRICS AND FASHIONS FOR AUTUMN.
SILKS, DRESSES, MANTLES, COSTUMES.
Patterns and Illustrations free.
PETER ROBINSON, OXFORD-STREET, W.

TEN THOUSAND PIECES OF COLOURED, BLACK, AND FANCY SILKS at GREAT REDUCTIONS,
20,000 metres of rich Stripe and Check Silks, at 1s. 11½d. per yard.
400 pieces of rich Coloured Gros Grain Silks, every new shade, at 3s. 6½d. per yard.
1000 pieces of Black Silks, of special purchase, in four prices—viz., 2s. 6d., 3s. 6d., 3s. 11d., and 4s. 6d. per yard.
BROCADED SILKS,
of extreme richness, usual price, 8s. 6d. to 21s., will be sold at 4s. 6d. to 6s. 6d. per yard.
Damasets of the newest designs, usual price, 3s. 6d., at 1s. 11½d. per yard.
1000 PIECES OF SILK FONGEES,
in lengths of 20 yards,
with rich Embroidered Scarves for trimming, 38s. 6d. complete.
60 pieces Rich Silk Embroidered Cashmere, at 3s. 9d. per yard; usual price 6s. 6d.
500 PIECES INDIAN FONGEE WASHING SILKS, 16s. 9d. the piece of 20 yards.
Patterns post-free.

VERY FASHIONABLE THIS SEASON.
RICH VELVET VELVETEEN.
300 pieces fast Black, 2-ery wide, 2s. 3d. to 3s. 6d. per yard.
All the new Rich Shades of Colour, 2s. 6d. to 4s. 6d. per yard.

CASHMERES AND CASHMERE MERINOS, FOR AUTUMN DRESSES.
A special purchase, in Black and all the new colours, amounting to several thousand pieces.
Very wide, at 1s. 11d. to 3s. 6d. per yard.

TRAVELLING and SEASIDE DRESSES. Witney, Estamene, and Angola Serges, Fancy Cashmeres, and Rich Poplins, New Autumn Moss Cloths, and other Novelties, in endless variety, 10s. 6d. to 21s. 6d. the Dress.

A NEW FABRIC IN BLACK.
CRÊPE CASHMERE (Registered).
A most useful Material, in six designs, specially adapted for this season's Costumes.
Full width, 1s. 9d. per yard.

NEW FABRICS FOR PALETOTS, &c.
BLACK BEAVER CLOTH MATELASSE, Foil de Chameau, Diagonals, &c.
These elegant Fabrics can also be had in Choice Shades of Fawn, Grey, Coir Mode, &c.
From 5s. 6d. to 18s. 6d. the yard, 54 inches wide.
PETER ROBINSON, OXFORD-STREET, W.

HENRY GLAVE'S UNDERCLOTHING AND OUTFITTING.
Duchess Trimmed Chemise, 1s. 9½d. each; three for 5s. 3d.
Countess, Handsomely-Trimmed Chemise, Scotch Insertion and Work, 2s. 11½d.; or three for 8s. 9d.
Better quality, and more handsomely trimmed, 3s. 11½d. each; or three for 11s. 6d.
Mercedes Night-Dress, 2s. 11½d. each; or three for 8s. 9d.
La Reine Night-Dress, Trimmed Scotch Work and Frilling, 3s. 11½d each; or three for 11s 4d.
200 dozen Trimmed Drawers, 1s. 11½d. each; or three for 5s. 9d.
White Embroidered "Cuirass" Corset, with Spoonbill busk, 2s. 11½d. and 4s. 11d.; usual price, 3s. 11d. and 6s. 11d.
A lot of White French Wove Corsets at 3s. 11d., 5s. 11d., and 6s. 11d.; good shapes; all reduced in price.
Fashionable Swansbill Belt Corsets for Princess Costumes, in Black, Scarlet, and Grey, 4s. 11d.; and improved shapes, in scarlet, white, and grey, at 6s. 11d., in every size.
Illustrated Lists of Underclothing.
Patterns, Samples, and all information post-free.
534, 535, 536, and 537, New Oxford-street, London, W.C.

HENRY GLAVE'S SILK AND VELVET DEPARTMENT.
Black Silks, special prices for this month.
Black Silks, at 1s. 6½d., 1s. 11½d., 2s. 6d., and 2s. 11½d. yd.
Black Silks, Lyons Gros Grains, in the seasons, Gourd, Croizat, and Cie., special prices, 3s. 11½d. a yard.
Blue-Black Velveteens, 1s. 6½d. a yard, 23 in. wide.
7000 yards Rich Coloured Velveteens, 50 different shades, 27 in. wide, 2s. 3d. yard; former price, 2s. 11½d.
7030 yards Rich Coloured Velveteens, 50 different shades, 27 in. wide, 2s. 10½d. a yard; former price, 3s. 11½d.
The new "Louis" Velveteen. These Velveteens, dyed the new shade of blue-black by a special process, are guaranteed to retain their colour and brilliancy, and cannot be distinguished from Lyons Silk Velvets at half the price of such goods.
Special Parcels of 27 in. Silk Costume Velvets, 6s. 11d. the yard; former price, 10s.
Black Satins, 1s. 6½d., 1s. 6½d., 1s. 11½d., 2s. 6½d., and 2s. 11½d.
Black Satins, 3s. 6½d., 3s. 11½d., 4s. 11d., and 6s. 11d. a yd.
Coloured Satins, in 100 shades, 2s. 6½d. and 3s. 6½d.
Patterns of all kinds post-free.
534, 535, 536, and 537, New Oxford-street, London.

D. NICHOLSON and CO. send post-free Patterns of NEW SILKS,
DRESS FABRICS,
and Illustrations of MANTLES, and COSTUMES.
D. NICHOLSON and COMPANY,
50 to 53, ST. PAUL'S CHURCHYARD, LONDON.

DEEP MOURNING made to order by Perfect-fitting Practical and English Dressmakers at a few hours' notice.
WIDOW'S DRESS, A fully-trimmed Widow's Dress, complete, from 2 guineas.
MOURNING for Niece or Cousin, Dress complete, £3 3s. 6d.
HOUSEHOLD MOURNING.
Good Wearing Materials, cut from the piece, One Shilling per yard.
JAYS',
THE LONDON GENERAL MOURNING WAREHOUSE, Regent-street, W.

BAKER and CRISP'S SILKS and SATINS, 1s. 11½d. to 5s. 6d.
BAKER and CRISP'S VELVETEENS and CASHMERES, 1s. 11d. to 3s. 6d.
BAKER and CRISP'S SERGES and CYPRUS CLOTHS, 1s. 6½d.
BAKER and CRISP'S ULSTERINGS and SUITTINGS, from 1s. 11½d.
BAKER and CRISP'S AUTUMN COSTUMES, from 39s. 6d.
BAKER and CRISP'S NOTED LADIES' ULSTERS, 12s. 9d. to 35s.
Engravings and Patterns of all Goods free.
198, REGENT-STREET.

SWAN and EDGAR ARE NOW SHOWING a large STOCK of SEASIDE and TRAVELLING GARMENTS, Ulsters, Waterproofs, and Dust Cloaks.—Piccadilly and Regent-street.

NEW AUTUMN COSTUMES, CLOAKS, &c.—T. LITTLE and SON beg to announce that their buyers and dressmakers have returned from Paris with the latest NOVELTIES for the AUTUMN SEASON. During the repaving of Oxford-street carriages can set down in Newman-street, two doors from Oxford-street.
42 to 44, Oxford-street.

SHIRTS. — FORD'S EUREKA. — "The most perfect fitting made." — Observer. Gentlemen desirous of purchasing Shirts of the best quality should try Ford's Eureka. 39s., 40s., 42s. half dozen. Illustrations and self-measure post-free.—41, Poultry, London.

CHARLES GASK and CO. (Limited), 58 to 63, Oxford-street; 1 to 5, Wells-street, London.

NEW COSTUMES.
For Travelling and Seaside, made of the fashionable New Fabrics from Paris models, 2½ to 6 guineas each.
A large choice to select from.
Velour Serge Costumes, richly braided. Three guineas. Quite new styles.

AUTUMN DRESS FABRICS.
The Latest Fashions are now being daily received. Prices from 8d. to 2s. 6d. per yard. Fine French Cashmeres, new autumn tints, 1s. 11d., 2s. 6d., and 2s. 11d. per yard, double width.

SEALSKIN PALETOTS, ULSTERS, &c.
Several Hundred fine Sealskin Paletots, the new shape, 36 in. long, 94 guineas. Smaller sizes in proportion.
New Travelling Ulsters, 27 shades of colour, all wool, 21s. each.

MOURNING DEPARTMENT.
The latest modes in Costumes, Skirts, &c., as well as all the new textures for the autumn, at very moderate prices. New Costumes, trimmed with patent unpicking crape, for all grades of mourning, ready for immediate use, 2½ to 6 guineas.
Experienced Dressmakers sent to any distance, free of charge, to take orders.

NEW MANTLES.
Several thousand pounds' worth of Early Autumn Novelties. Sedan Beaver Paletots, 1 guinea; Extra Long Ditto, handsomely trimmed, 1½ and 2 guineas. An immense variety of richly braided and embroidered Mantles and Jackets, 2½ to 10 guineas.
Patterns and Samples of all goods free.

CHARLES GASK and CO. (Limited), 58, 59, 60, 61, 62, 63, Oxford-st-reet; 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, Wells-street, London,
CARRIAGE ENTRANCE, 5, Wells-street.

MYSTAXSTIMULO rapidly promotes GROWTH of WHISKERS, Moustaches, and Eyebrows, also Hair on Bald Heads. 66 stamps.—UNWIN and ALBERT, Perfumers to the Royal Family, 17, Regent-street.

LADIES' THIN HAIR.—New registered invisible foundation for covering ladies' thin partings and bald places, the hair appearing to grow on the head.—UNWIN and ALBERT, 17, Regent-street.

THE SKIN.—To give to it that Smoothness, Sweetness, and Lustrous Elegance indicative of Perfect Health use "THE ALBION MILK AND SULPHUR SOAP." It is elegantly white and purest of all soaps. It is the most agreeable and elegant preparation for the skin I know."—James Startin, M.R.C.S., Surgeon to St. John's Hospital, London. By all Chemists, in Tablets, 6d. and 1s. "THE ALBION SANATORY SOAP CO., 532, Oxford-street, London. Refuse all substitutes.

PEARS' TRANSPARENT SOAP. For the Toilet, the Nursery, and for Shaving. Refined, free from excess of alkali and from artificial colouring, delicately and wholesomely perfumed, it is soap in its purest form, and hence the most healthful in use; its great durability makes it also the most economical. For Ladies, Children, or anyone with delicate and sensitive skin it is invaluable, as it may be safely used where no other Soap is admissible. It has stood the test of eighty years' trial, received six prize medals, and the valued recommendations of many eminent medical practitioners. Sold by all Chemists, and by Pears, 91, Great Russell-street, London.

WRIGHT'S COAL-TAR SOAP ("SAPO CARBONIS DETERGENS").
Antiseptic, Detergent, Disinfectant. The most healthful, agreeable, and refreshing TOILET SOAP in the world. By its daily use, freedom from infectious diseases is secured; the complexion improved; pimples, blotches, and roughness removed; and the skin made clear, smooth, and lustrous.
"In our hands it has proved most effective in skin diseases."—The Lancet.
"It is the only true antiseptic soap."—British Medical Journal.
In tablets, 6d. and 1s. each, of all Chemists.
W. V. WRIGHT and CO., Southwark-street, London.

WHOOPING-COUGH.—ROCHE'S HERBAL EMBROCATION.—The celebrated Effectual Cure without internal medicine. Sole Wholesale Agent, EDWARDS and SON, 157, Queen Victoria-street (late of 38, Old Change), London. Sold retail by most Chemists. Price 4s. per Bottle.

INDIGESTION.
It is conclusively ascertained that LACTOPEPTINE will bring about the Digestion of Food in a manner perfectly identical to that obtained under the influence of the natural gastric juice.
"A glance at the Formula of LACTOPEPTINE would convince even the most sceptical of the valuable results that must ensue through its administration. Composed of ptyalin, pepsine, pancreatine, hydrochloric and lactic acids, it is a combination of all the digestive agents; consequently, can never be administered without giving the utmost satisfaction; for if there is a deficiency in the system of all or any of these agents, LACTOPEPTINE will supply it, and thus assist in digesting the food, enabling the organsthat produce these principles of digestion to rest and recuperate their relaxed energies."—From "Practical Medicine and Surgery," July, 1877. LACTOPEPTINE being presented in saccharated form, is most agreeable to the taste, and can be administered even to the youngest child. The price of the LACTOPEPTINE is 4s. 6d. per one oz. bottle. (An ounce bottle contains forty-eight ten-grain doses.) If any difficulty is experienced in obtaining LACTOPEPTINE from your Chemist, communicate direct, sending P.O.O. for 4s. 6d. Address—CARNRICK, KIDDER, and CO., 68, Russell-st., corner of Charlotte-st., London, W.C. Pamphlet to any address.

THROAT IRRITATION. EPPS'S GLYCERINE JUJUBES.
Sold only in Boxes, 6d. and 1s., labelled
JAMES EPPS and CO., HOMŒOPATHIC CHEMISTS, 48, Threadneedle-street; and 170, Piccadilly.

PILLS
WORSDELL'S
KAYE'S
PURIFY THE BLOOD, CLEANSE FROM DISEASE, IMPROVE DIGESTION, ESTABLISH THE HEALTH.
Sold everywhere.

BLAIR'S GOUT PILLS,
The Great English Remedy for Gout and Rheumatism. Sure, safe, and effectual. No restraint of diet required during their use, and are certain to prevent the disease attacking any vital part. Sold by all Chemists at 1s. 1½d. and 2s. 9d. per Box.

DINNEFORD'S MAGNESIA.
The best remedy for acidity of the Stomach, Heartburn, Headache, Gout, and Indigestion.

DINNEFORD'S MAGNESIA.
The safest and most gentle Aperient for delicate constitutions, Ladies, Children, and Infants.
OF ALL CHEMISTS.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS and OINTMENT. The Pills purify the blood, correct all disorders of the liver, stomach, kidneys, and bowels. The Ointment is unrivalled in the cure of bad legs, old wounds, gout, and rheumatism.

DR. LOCOCK'S PULMONIC WAFERS instantly relieve and rapidly cure Bronchitis, Asthma, Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Influenza, and all Nervous Complaints. Price 1s. 1½d. per Box.

FLEAS and other INSECTS in DOGS. NALDIRE'S TABLET (the Prize Medal Dog Soap) instantly destroys insects, cleanses the skin, and improves the coat. Price 1s., of all Chemists.

NEW MUSIC.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S IMPROVED AMERICAN ORGANS, COMBINING PIPES WITH REEDS, Manufactured by CLOUGH and WARREN, DETROIT, U.S.A.
The immense advantages these instruments possess over the Organs hitherto imported have induced Messrs. Chappell and Co. to undertake the sole Agency of this eminent Manufactory. A large variety on view, from 25 to 150 guineas. Price-Lists on application to 50, New Bond-street.

CLOUGH and WARREN'S "FAVOURITE ORGAN." Ten Stops, Four Sets of Reeds, Knee-Swell. Compass, Five Octaves. Elegant Carved Canadian Walnut Case. Price 23 Guineas. Illustrated Price-List free by post. Sole Agents, CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

SECONDHAND PIANOFORTES. TERMINATION OF THE LONDON SEASON. Now on view, an immense number of Pianofortes returned from Hire, to be sold, at greatly reduced prices, for cash. Pianinos from 18 guineas. Cottages from 20 guineas. Grands from 50 guineas. 50, New Bond-street.

SECONDHAND PIANOFORTES at 50, New Bond-street, may be hired, with option of purchase, or on the "Three-Years' System," at greatly reduced prices.

SECONDHAND PIANOFORTES now on View by the following eminent Makers:—
BROADWOOD. | ERARD.
COLLARD. | CHAPPELL.
LIPP. | ROSENKRANZ.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

SECONDHAND HARMONIUMS, for CHURCH, SCHOOL, or DRAWING-ROOM. Upwards of a hundred varieties now on View. From 3 guineas to 100 guineas. At CHAPPELL and CO.'S, 50, New Bond-street.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S SPECIALITIES in ORGAN HARMONIUMS.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S NEW ORGAN HARMONIUMS.—Five octaves, two pedals, suitable for cottage or school. Price 7 gs.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S NEW ORGAN MODEL by ALEXANDRE, two rows of keys, five stops and sub-bass, Venetian swell, two knee pedals. 28 guineas, or £2 10s. per quarter on Three-Years' System.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S SPECIALITIES in PIANOFORTES.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S SCHOOL PIANINOS, Canadian Walnut, 20 gs., or 2gs. per quarter on the Three-Years' System of Purchase.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S YACHT PIANINOS, 30 gs., or £3 per quarter on Three-Years' System of Purchase.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S BOUDOIR PIANINO, 35 gs., or £3 10s. per quarter on the Three-Years' System of Purchase.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S ENGLISH MODEL, 40 gs., or £4 per quarter, on the Three-Years' System of Purchase.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S MIGNON IRON GRAND, 80 gs., or £8 per quarter on the Three-Years' System of Purchase.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S BOUDOIR IRON 110 gs., or £11 per quarter on the Three-Years' System of Purchase. NEW BOND-STREET, W.

NEW DANCE MUSIC.

CHARLES D'ALBERT'S NOVELTIES.

CYPRUS POLKA	2s. 0d. net
CONGRESS LANCERS	2s. 0d. net
PAUL ET VIRGINIE WALTZ	2s. 0d. net
PAUL ET VIRGINIE QUADRILLE	2s. 0d. net
PAUL ET VIRGINIE GALOP	2s. 0d. net
THE ENGAGED WALTZ. On Sullivan's Song	2s. 0d. net
DISTANT SHORE WALTZ.	2s. 0d. net
SWEETHEARTS LANCERS	2s. 0d. net
CLEOPATRA GALOP	2s. 0d. net
THE LOVE-LETTER POLKA	2s. 0d. net
THE FANFARE POLKA	1s. 6d. net
MOLLY DARLING QUADRILLE	2s. 0d. net
SWEETHEARTS WALTZ	2s. 0d. net

N.B.—A Complete List of M. D'Albert's Popular Dance Music will be sent on application.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

NEW NUMBERS OF CHAPPELL'S MUSICAL MAGAZINE.

No. 118.—POPULAR MARCHES.

Marche Romaine	Ch. Gounod.
March of the Pashas	J. Pridham.
March in "Judas Maccabeus"	Handel.
March in "Scipio"	Handel.
March in the "Occasional Oratorio"	Handel.
March in "Rinaldo"	Handel.
March in "Hercules"	Handel.
The Wellington March	Chas. d'Albert.
Dead March in "Saul"	Handel.
March in "Judas Maccabeus" ("See the Conquering Hero comes.")	Handel.
March in "Die Zauberflöte"	Mozart.
March in "Alceste"	Glück.
March in "Idomeneo"	Mozart.

No. 117.—(MIXED SERIES, No. 3.)

Song (Tenor)	Elly Mavourneen	Sir J. Benedict.
Song (Contralto)	The lonely Harp	Miss Cowell.
Song (Soprano)	I'm alone	Sir J. Benedict.
Song (Baritone)	I never can forget	A. Mellon.
Duet (Sop. & Con.)	O ye voices gone	Zeta.
Duet (Sop. & Con.)	Two wandering Stars	R. Richards.
Pianoforte	Soldier's Prayer	A. Lindahl.
Pianoforte	Siren's Song	A. Lindahl.
Pianoforte	Blue Bells of Scotland	B. Richards.
Dance Music	West End Polka	Charles D'Albert.
Dance Music	Little Nell Waltz	Dan Godfrey.
Dance Music	Lord of Lorne Lancers	Dan Godfrey.
Dance Music	Express Galop	Charles D'Albert.

No. 116.—(MIXED SERIES, No. 2.)

Song (Baritone)	The Bell Ringer	W. Vincent Wallace.
Song (Soprano)	Tender and True	Arthur Sullivan.
Song (Contralto)	To Thee	Alberto Randegger.
Song (Tenor)	Oh! whisper what thou feelest	B. Richards.
Vocal Duet (Sop. and Con.)	When Birds are singing	H. Smart.
Duet (Sop. & Con.)	Two Merry Gipsies	G. A. Macfarren
Pianoforte	The Soldier's Chorus	B. Richards.
Pianoforte	Air by Louis XIII.	Henri Ghys.
Pianoforte	A Ray of Sunshine	Carl Leduc.
Dance Music	Dew Drop Waltz	Charles d'Albert.
Dance Music	The Sultan's Polka	Charles d'Albert.
Dance Music	Polo Lancers	Dan Godfrey.
Dance Music	The Mabel Galop	Dan Godfrey.

No. 115.—(MIXED SERIES, No. 1.)

Song (Contralto)	Juanita	Mrs. Norton.
Song (Soprano)	The Maiden's Story	A. Sullivan.
Song (Baritone)	The Stirrup Cup	Luigi Arditi.
Song (Tenor)	There's Sunlight in Heaven	M. Balfe.
Duet (Sop. & Con.)	Wind and the Harp	S. Glover.
Duet (Sop. & Con.)	Ave Sanctissima	Mrs. Hemans.
Pianoforte	Home, Sweet Home	B. Richards.
Pianoforte	The Silver Trumpets	F. Vinning.
Pianoforte	Prière d'une Vierge	T. Badarzewska.
Dance Music	The Rink Galop	Charles D'Albert.
Dance Music	The Hilda Waltz	Dan Godfrey.
Dance Music	Palermo Quadrilles	Charles D'Albert.
Dance Music	King Pippin Polka	Charles D'Albert.

ONE SHILLING EACH (post-free, 1s. 2d.).
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street, London, W.

REMINISCENCES OF ENGLAND.
REMINISCENCES OF IRELAND.
REMINISCENCES OF SCOTLAND.
REMINISCENCES OF WALES.
Arranged for the Pianoforte by FRED. GODFREY (B. M. Coldstream Guards). Played by all the Bands in her Majesty's Service. Price 2s. each net.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

NEW MUSIC.

Price 10s. 6d., bound in cloth,

SPOHR'S VIOLIN SCHOOL. Edited by HENRY HOLMES. BOOSEY and CO. beg to announce the publication of an entirely NEW Edition of Spohr's Great Violin School, translated into English by Florence Marshall; Edited, with Notes, by Henry Holmes. The numerous Notes are intended to elucidate the original text, and to assist the student in the course to be followed throughout in the practice of the School. Spohr's School is printed on the finest paper, and is published at the moderate price of half a guinea, with the view of placing it within the reach of all amateurs of the violin.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

This day, price 5s., paper; 7s. 6d., cloth, gilt edges,

THE CONTRALTO ALBUM. A Collection of 50 Songs for Mezzo-Soprano and Contralto Voices, extracted from the most celebrated Operas, with Italian and English words. All in the original keys (without abbreviation or alteration). This Collection includes many beautiful songs but little known in this country, besides all the most renowned of the last one hundred years. Also now ready, same prices as above,

THE PRIMA DONNA'S ALBUM. 40 great Operatic Songs for a Soprano Voice. In the press, THE TENOR and BARITONE ALBUMS, containing similar selections for these two voices.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

Price 2s. 6d., paper; 4s. 6d., cloth boards,

CALLCOTT'S HANDEL ALBUM. A collection of above one hundred of the best Oratorio and Operatic Airs by this great Composer. Arranged for the Pianoforte by W. H. CALLCOTT. With Memoir and three Illustrations.—BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

THE SONGS OF SCOTLAND. A New and Enlarged Edition is published this day, containing 100 Songs. Edited by Pittman, with a new and important introduction on Scotch Poetry and Music by Dr. Charles Mackay. Price 2s. 6d., paper; 4s., cloth, gilt edges; or, beautifully illustrated by the most eminent artists, price 7s. 6d. Boosey and Co.'s Edition must be ordered.—295, Regent-street.

THE MOUNTAIN SYLPH.—A New Edition of John Barnett's celebrated opera is published this day, revised by the composer; complete for voice and pianoforte, price 3s. 6d. paper covers, 5s. cloth, gilt edges. Also uniform with the above,
The Siege of Rochelle. | Satanella.
The Lily of Killarney. | The Bohemian Girl.
Boosey and Co., 295, Regent-street.

THE BLUE ALSATIANS WALTZ. By GEORGES LAMOTHE. On Stephen Adams's celebrated Song. Price 2s., Solo and Duet; Small Orchestra, 1s.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

BOOSEY, & CO.'S PIANOFORTE-ROOMS. GRAND and UPRIGHT PIANOFORTES, by all the great makers, both English and Foreign, for SALE or HIRE, subject to the largest discount obtainable in London. Pianettes, from £21. Short Grands, from £50. Sole Address, 295, REGENT-STREET.

BOOSEY and CO.'S Short Iron Grand PIANOFORTES, 60, 70, 80, and 85 guineas each, subject to a liberal discount for cash, or on the Three-Years' System, from £5 10s. per quarter. Special Instruments for India. Illustrated Price-Lists free.
Sole Address, 295, Regent-street (adjoining the Polytechnic).

SECONDHAND PIANOS.—BOOSEY and CO. have a large Stock of Instruments by all the great Makers, which they offer, according to their custom on the close of the season, at greatly reduced prices. The majority of these Pianos have been hired for one season only, and are as good as new.—295, Regent-street (adjoining the Polytechnic).

GEO. WOODS and CO.'S AMERICAN ORGANS.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street, Sole Agents for the United Kingdom.
Pipe, Reed, and Pedal Organs, from £17 to £200.
Illustrated Price-Lists post-free.

BOOSEY and CO.'S BRASS INSTRUMENTS FOR AMATEURS.
THE DISTIN CORNET, from £3 10s.
THE DISTIN CELEBRATED LIGHT VALVE CORNETS, 7 and 9 gs., are the best Cornets manufactured.
THE DISTIN MINIATURE CORNET-A-PISTONS, 9 gs.
THE DISTIN BALLAD HORN in C, 9 gs.
THE DISTIN DRAG AND POST HORNS AND BAND INSTRUMENTS at all prices.
THE DISTIN MONTHLY BRASS BAND JOURNAL, 10s. 6d. per annum.
Illustrated Price-Lists upon application to BOOSEY and CO., Manufacturers of Military Band Instruments of every description, 295, Regent-street, London. Manufactory, Stanhope-place, Hyde Park.

SPOHR'S GREAT SCHOOL for the VIOLIN (approved by Louis Spohr). Translated from the original by JOHN BISHOP. In one large vol., pp. 225, in cloth boards, 21s. 6d. "I have carefully looked over the English edition of my Violin School," published by Messrs. Cocks and Co., and have no hesitation in recommending it as a faithful translation of the original work.—London, Louis Spohr."
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co., New Burlington-street.

THE VIOLIN.—Gratis and postage-free, a CATALOGUE of STANDARD MUSIC for the Violin, tenor, violoncello, and contro-basso, including duets, trios, quartets, quintets, septets, symphonies, and overtures for a full orchestra, with studies, exercises, instruction books, and treatises on stringed instruments.
Published only by ROBERT COCKS and Co.

A FRAGMENT FROM MENDELSSOHN. Arranged for the Violin, Solo and Duet, by C. A. CASPAR. 4s. net; post-free, 24 stamps each.—London: ROBERT COCKS and Co., New Burlington-street; and of all Musicsellers.

ERE THE ROSES CEASE TO BLOOM. Song. Written by Mark Lemon; Music by ODOARDO BARRI. 3s.; post-free, 18 stamps.
London: Sole Publishers, ROBERT COCKS and Co.

SOFT STAR OF THE WEST. Song. Written by Mrs. Homans; the Music composed by CIRO PINSUTI. 4s.; post-free, 24 stamps.—London: Sole Publishers, ROBERT COCKS and Co., New Burlington-street.

WESTWARD HO! FOR ENGLAND. New Song. Written by Mrs. Henry Whitcombe; Music by ODOARDO BARRI. 3s.; post-free for 18 stamps.
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

SUNSET ON THE RIVER. Song. By CIRO PINSUTI. 4s.; post-free, 24 stamps. "The accompaniment is very graceful and appropriate, bringing vividly before us the dancing wavelets and the fresh evening breeze."—North British Daily Mail.—London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

AWAKE AND DREAM. A New Song. By JAQUES BLUMENTHAL. 4s.; post-free, 24 stamps. "This song will be surely seized upon with avidity."—Queen, Lady's Newspaper.—London: Sole Publishers, ROBERT COCKS and Co., New Burlington-street.

AIR DU DAUPHIN. Ancienne Danse de la Cour. By ROECKEL. For Piano Solo, Duet, Violin, Harmonium, Orchestra, Organ-Pianoforte. Each 1s. W. T. Best. Each 18 stamps.—AUGENER and Co., 86, Newgate-street, E.C.

GAVOTTE DE LOUIS QUINZE. By MAURICE LEE. Piano Solo, Duet, Violin, Orchestra, Organ Transcription by F. E. Gladstone. 18 stamps each.
AUGENER and Co., 86, Newgate-street; and Poubert's-place, W.

AUGENER and CO.'S UNIVERSAL CIRCULATING MUSICAL LIBRARY is the largest in Europe. It contains 100,000 distinct works. Annual Subscription, 2 guineas.—London, 81, Regent-street. Prospectuses gratis.

CHARLES HALLÉ'S PRACTICAL PIANOFORTE SCHOOL.
Section I.—No. 1. Pianoforte Tutor.
FORSYTH BROTHERS, London and Manchester.

HELLER'S FOURTH SONATA. Op. 143. 6s.
FORSYTH BROTHERS, 272A, Regent-circus, Oxford-street, London; and Cross-street, South Ring-street, Manchester.

NEW MUSIC.

Just published,

CARMEN. Fantasie Brillante for Pianoforte, by W. KUHE, on this popular Opera. Post-free, 30 stamps.
METZLER and Co., 37, Great Marlborough-street, London, W.

CARMEN. Fantasie Brillante for Pianoforte, by J. LEYBACH, on this popular Opera. Post-free, 24 stamps.
METZLER and Co., 37, Great Marlborough-street, London, W.

CARMEN. Bouquet de Melodies pour Piano. Par RENAUD DE VILBAC. In Two Books. Post-free, 24 stamps each.
METZLER and Co., 37, Great Marlborough-street, London, W.

Now ready,

GRACEFUL DANCE from the Incidental Music to Shakspeare's "HENRY VIII." Composed by ARTHUR SULLIVAN. Post-free, 24 stamps.
METZLER and Co., 37, Great Marlborough-street, London, W.

THREE GIFTS. New Song. By J. L. ROECKEL. Sung by Mr. Barton McGuckin with the greatest success. Post-free, 24 stamps.
METZLER and Co., 37, Great Marlborough-street, London, W.

A SAILOR'S WOOING. New Song. By J. L. ROECKEL. For Baritone or Contralto. Post-free, 24 stamps.
METZLER and Co., 37, Great Marlborough-street, London, W.

H.M.S. "PINAFORE." New Opera by W. S. GILBERT and ARTHUR SULLIVAN. Played nightly at the Opera Comique with the most genuine success. Song, for Voice and Piano, 4s. net, post-free.
METZLER and Co., 37, Great Marlborough-street, London, W.

GARDEN PARTY POLKA. C. GODFREY. Played nightly at the Promenade Concerts, Covent-Garden, with the greatest success. Post-free, 18 stamps.
METZLER and Co., 37, Great Marlborough-street, London, W.

PIANOFORTES for HIRE or for SALE, from 25 gs. upwards.—JOHN BROADWOOD and SONS, 33, Great Pulteney-street, Golden-square, W. Manufactory, 45, Horseferry-road, Westminster.

SONGS.—THE WANDERERS IN THE DESERT, by Hemans. 4s.; "No toccaran campanas" (with Chorus, English and Spanish), 3s.; "The Musical Wife," 4s.; "The Soldier's Farewell," by Signor Nappi, 4s.; "O the sweet contentment," by H. Phillips, 4s.
C. LONSDALE, Musicseller (and Circulating Library), 26, Old Bond-street. Music half price.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' GOLD-MEDAL PIANOS have been awarded First-Class Medals of Honour:—At London, 1862; Paris, 1867; Netherlands, 1868; Paris, 1878; Philadelphia, 1876; S. Africa, 1877, &c. Illustrated Lists free.—18, Wigmore-street, London.

MAPLE and CO., the largest and most convenient FURNISHING ESTABLISHMENT in the world. A House of any magnitude Furnished from Stock in three days. Purchasers should inspect the Stock before deciding elsewhere. All goods marked in plain figures. Estab. 30 years.

MAPLE and CO. supply every requisite for HOUSE FURNISHING, including Linens, Ironmongery, Glass, Crockeryware, Clocks, Bronzes, and every description of Ornaments, either for dining or drawing room, or for Christmas and Wedding Presents, in separate departments.

DINING-ROOM FURNITURE.

MAPLE and CO.—DINING-ROOM FURNITURE.—Sideboards in oak, mahogany, and other woods, from 2 guineas to 100 guineas. Fine oak and mediæval Dining-room Furniture; Tables from 3 guineas to 70 guineas. A large assortment of Clocks, Bronzes, and other Ornaments.

DINING-ROOM FURNITURE. — Forty very handsome Carved Oak Antique Sideboards, with Dining-Tables and Chairs to match. Thirty complete Dining-Rooms, suites in stock to select from, 14 guineas. Good strong Dining-room Chair, in mahogany or oak, stuffed all hair, and covered in leather, 24s. 6d.

MAPLE and CO.—DRAWING-ROOM FURNITURE. The Largest Assortment in London. An endless variety of Cabinets, from 2 to 60 guineas, many quite new in design; a large assortment of Buhl Furniture, as well as Black and Gold; 100 Easy-Chairs, from 1 to 10 guineas; a very extensive Stock of Bronzes, and Fancy Ornaments; 500 Chimney-Glasses, from 2 to 80 guineas; Console-Tables, as well as Girandoles, from 1 to 20 guineas.

MAPLE and CO., Importers.
TURKEY CARPETS,
INDIAN CARPETS,
PERSIAN CARPETS.

OVER 2000 DAGHESTAN and SOUMRACK CARPETS, also 500 Turkey Carpets, of extra fine quality and at marvellously low prices, just received from Constantinople. These Goods have been bought by Agents especially dispatched by Messrs. MAPLE and CO. for cash, are of great purity, some very handsome old prayer rugs, which have been made over a hundred years. The prices are wonderfully low—in fact, one third of that usually asked for these curiosities.—145, 146, 147, Tottenham-court-road, London.

MAPLE and CO. — SILK DAMASKS. The largest and most varied assortment of Satin, Silks, Cotellines, Silk Reps, all in Stock. To purchasers this is a great object, as not only do they get the silks at a lower price than if they were made, but they are not kept waiting.

MAPLE and CO.—CURTAINS, for Dining and Drawing Rooms. The largest and most varied stock of Curtain Materials in London. Good Wool Reps, double width, 2s. 6d. per yard. Stripe Reps, in all colours, all wool, and double width, from 3s. 3d. per yard.

MAPLE and CO.—CRETONNE CHINTZ. The French Chintz, which requires no lining when used for loose covers. The width is 32 inches, and the prices vary from 6½d. per yard to 3s. 11d. per yard. The largest assortment in England. Patterns sent.

POSTAL ORDER DEPARTMENT. Messrs. MAPLE and CO. beg respectfully to state that this Department is now so organised that they are fully prepared to execute and supply any Article that can possibly be required in Furnishing at the same price, if not less, than any other house in England. Patterns sent and quotations given free of charge.

MAPLE and CO.—BED-ROOM SUITES in EARLY ENGLISH, carried out to design by the best artists of the day. Some new and most elegant suites, designed by gentlemen especially engaged by Messrs. Maple. These suites, which are a specialty with this firm, should be seen. Machinery, &c., has been erected so as to produce this class of furniture at the lowest possible cost.
145, 146, 147, 148, 149, Tottenham-court-road, London.

NOTICE. — SPOONS and FORKS, in SILVER and in ELECTRO-PLATE. ELKINGTON and CO., as the result of important improvements in the above manufactures, are able to offer their guaranteed qualities at such prices as, while fully maintaining their acknowledged superiority, place them within the reach of all classes. Revised Illustrated Price-Lists free by post on application. Purchasers of Silver Spoons and Forks obtain the advantage of any fluctuations in the silver market.
Address—ELKINGTON and CO., 22, Regent-street, London; or 42, Moorgate-street, City.

CASELIERS, in Crystal, Glass, Ormoulu, or Bronze, Mediæval Fittings, &c. A large assortment always on view. Every article marked with plain figures. D. HULETT and CO., Manufacturers, 25 and 26, High Holborn.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' GOLD MEDAL PIANOS are lent on Hire for Three Years, after which time they become the property of the hirers.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' GOLD MEDAL PIANOFORTES were awarded
THE GRAND PRIZE MEDAL AND DIPLOMA OF HONOUR of the Philadelphia Exhibition, 1876.
THE GOLD MEDAL, Paris, 1868.
THE HIGHEST AWARD—THE GRAND DIPLOMA OF HONOUR, Paris, 1874.
LA MEDAILLE D'HONNEUR, Paris, 1867.
THE PRIZE MEDAL, London, 1862.
LE DIPLOME DE LA MENTION EXTRAORDINAIRE, Netherlands International Exhibition, 1869.
THE GOLD MEDAL AND DIPLOMA OF MERIT, South Africa, 1877, &c.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' PERFECT CHECK REPEATER ACTION PIANOS, Patented 1862, 1868, 1871, and 1875, in GREAT BRITAIN, PRUSSIA, FRANCE, AUSTRIA, ITALY, BELGIUM, and AMERICA.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' GOLD MEDAL PIANOS, With the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action.
"There most ingenious and valuable invention cannot fail to meet with success."—Sir Julius Benedict.
"The touch is absolute perfection."—Sydney Smith.
"A very clever and useful invention, and likely to be extensively adopted."—Brinley Richards.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' GOLD MEDAL PIANOS.
"The tone is full, melodious, and of extraordinary power. The touch is extremely delicate, and the repetition is excellent."—The Chevalier Antoine de Kontski, Court Pianist to the Emperor of Germany.

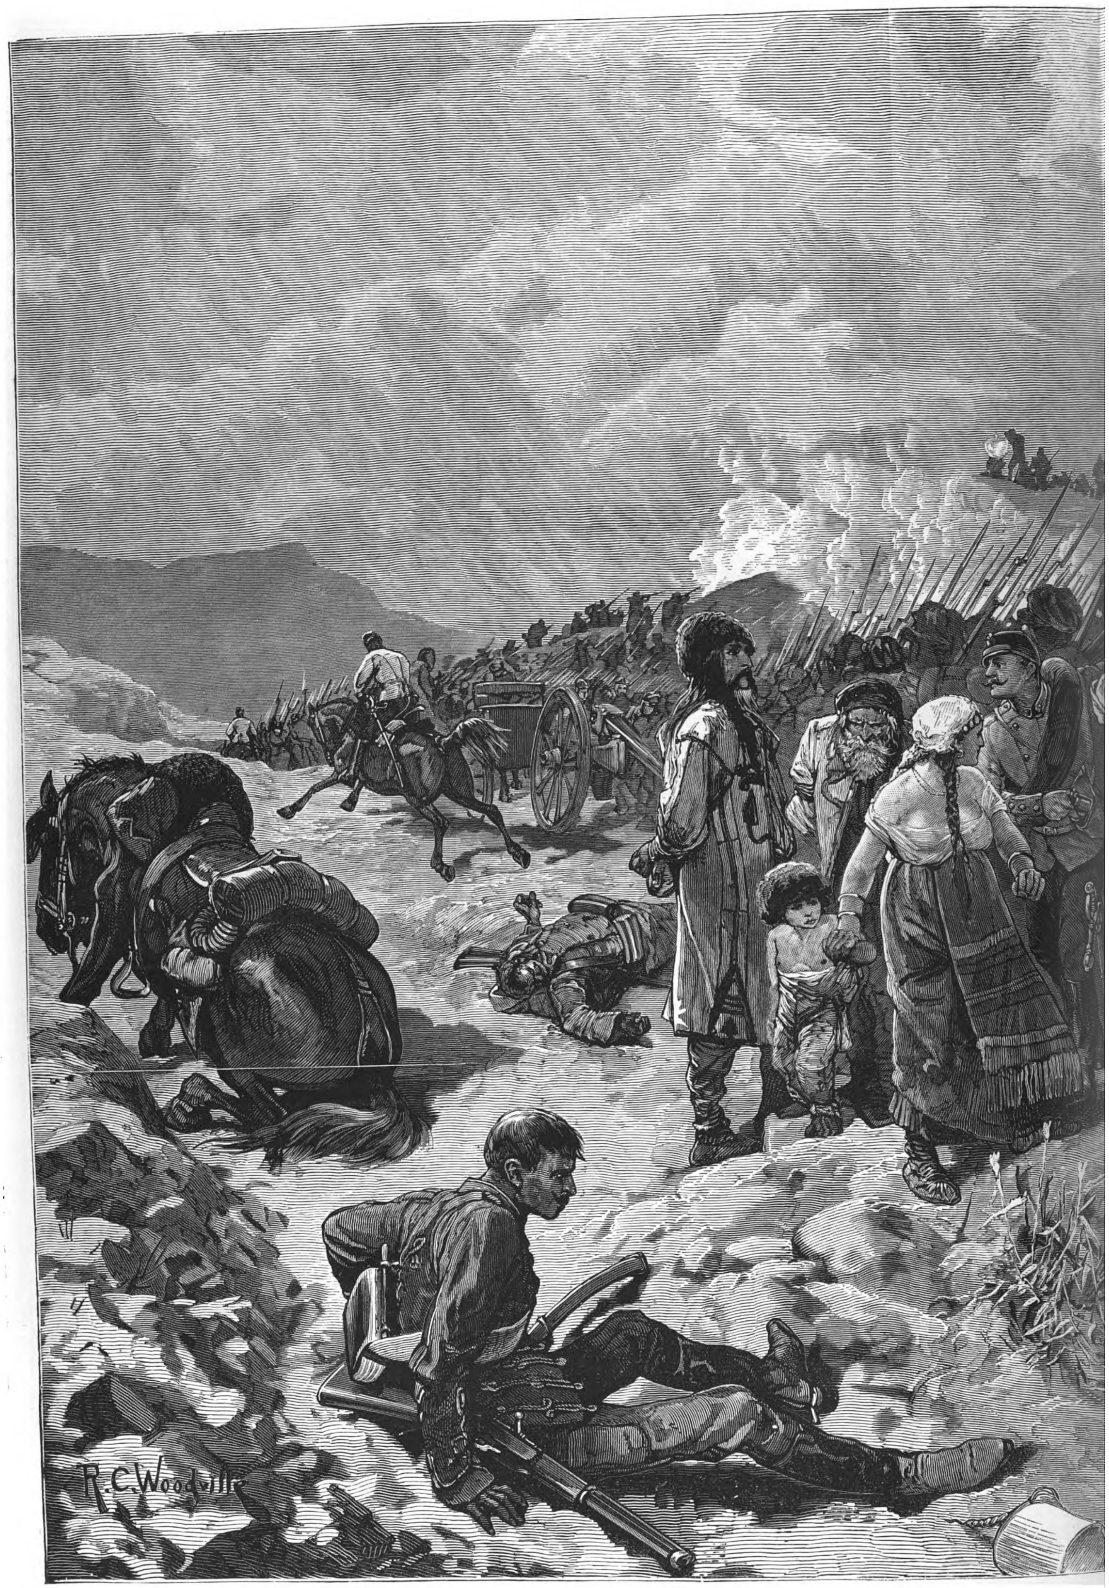
JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' GOLD MEDAL PIANOS, with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action.
"The nearest approach to perfection of 'musical expression' yet attained."—Examiner.
"The tone of the grand now referred to possessed all the qualities that a good piano ought to have, and in touch and action was perfect. The sweet and silvery quality of the upper octaves was worthy of special admiration."—The Era.
"Sir Julius Benedict played on one of Messrs. John Brinsmead and Sons' grand pianos, with the recently patented improvements, which enabled him to produce sustained tones with great variety of effect in the light and shade of tones, especially so when extreme delicacy of touch was required."—Court Journal.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' SHORT IRON GRAND PIANOS, with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action.
"An immense improvement in arpeggios. The rapid passages in the upper register, the beautiful flutelike tone, and quick and perfect repetition were very effective."—Figaro.
"Sir Julius Benedict, now seldom heard as a soloist, delighted the public once more. He played upon a new Patent Grand by Brinsmead, possessing a remarkably loud and clear tone."—Echo.
"The upright Iron Grand Piano, with sostenente sounding-board, produces the obvious results of a fuller and richer tone."—Morning Advertiser.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' SHORT IRON GRAND PIANOS.
"The improvements made in English pianos have caused this trade rapidly to increase, until one pianoforte manufactory after another has been built to supply the growing demand. One of the largest of these, lately erected by Messrs. John Brinsmead and Sons, of Wigmore-street, covers nearly an acre of ground in the Grafton-road, Kentish Town, and is intended to accommodate 300 workmen. These works alone can supply 2000 pianos annually."—Illustrated London News.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' GOLD MEDAL PIANOS, with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action.
"A metal bridge of a peculiar form is used to produce the treble, and a much finer tone is elicited than if a wooden bridge were used."—Morning Post.
"Beautifully light and elastic touch, and an instant repetition."—Globe.
"This invention is simplicity itself."—The Queen.
"Receive the greatest approbation everywhere of musicians and manufacturers."—The Standard.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' PATENT "PERFECT CHECK REPEATER ACTION." Pianofortes of every description manufactured expressly for India and extreme climates.



JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' GOLD MEDAL PIANOFORTES may be obtained from all the principal Musicsellers throughout the World.
Prices from 35 guineas to 330 guineas.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' GOLD MEDAL PIANOS are lent on Hire for Three Years, after which payments they become the property of the hirers.

GILBERT L. BAUER'S PRIZE MEDAL ORGAN-VOICED ENGLISH HARMONIUMS on the Three-Years' System.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS' PIANOFORTES.
Illustrated Price-Lists and Descriptions, with opinions of the London Press and Musical Profession, forwarded, post-free, upon application.
18, WIGMORE-STREET, LONDON, W.
MANUFACTORY:
THE "BRINSMEAD WORKS" GRAFTON-ROAD, KENTISH TOWN, N.W.

LONDON: Printed and Published at the Office, 198, Strand, in the Parish of St. Clement Danes, in the County of Middlesex, by GEORGE C. LEIGHTON, 198, Strand, aforesaid.—SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 7, 1878.

THE AUSTRIAN CAMPAIGN IN BOSNIA: GE

FROM A SKET

AL SZAPARY'S RETROGRADE MARCH TO DOBOJ.

OUR SPECIAL ARTIST.

THE AUSTRIAN ARMY IN BOSNIA: SKETCHES BY OUR SPECIAL ARTIST.

ATTACK ON THE INSURGENTS' POST AT ZEPCE.

GENERAL PHILIPPOVICH QUESTIONING THE INSURGENT OFFICERS TAKEN PRISONERS.

THE AUSTRIAN CAMPAIGN IN BOSNIA.

Our Special Artist with the main army of occupation sent by the Emperor of Austria into the province of Bosnia, under the command of General Philippovich, contributes several sketches, one of which he obtained from an Austrian officer who was present in the fighting at Zepce, on the 8th ult., where the post held by the Bosnian "insurgents," with the aid of some disbanded Turkish soldiery, was stormed by the 27th Jager Regiment and 47th Infantry Reserve. Upon this occasion, we are told, 367 Turkish soldiers, with eight Captains and one Major, were taken prisoners; but we are inclined to believe that they were not all Turks. The battle that day covered a large space, and nearly the whole right wing of the army was engaged, under Colonel Kinnart; the remainder of the forces took possession of the neighbouring town of Maglai. This place, which is in the valley of the Bosna river, had been the scene, three days before, of the sudden and murderous attack on a squadron of Hussars led by Captain Milinkovich, the Austrian Vice-Consul at Serajevo, before the outbreak of active hostilities, to reconnoitre the state of affairs up the country. The Austrians had then been taken quite by surprise, as it was by no means certainly ascertained that there would be any forcible resistance to their entry into Bosnia. After the conflict of the 8th, General Philippovich moved on to Vranduk; and, in halting by the way, examined the insurgent officers who had been taken prisoners at Zepce, questioning them about their intentions, and the forces of the confederacy to which they belonged. This is the scene which our Artist sketched on the spot, and of which he furnishes an Illustration. The events that followed have already been told; the battle of the 16th at Han Belalovac, and the storming of Serajevo on the 19th, with terrible slaughter among the infuriated defenders of that city. At the same time, the insurgents between Livno and Travnik, joined by the Turkish garrison of Livno, fought with an Austrian detachment under General Csikos, but were repulsed with some loss, and both those towns were afterwards taken into Austrian possession.

In the meanwhile, the Austrian left wing, consisting of the 20th Division, commanded by General Szapary, has not been so successful. Its task was to advance from Doboj, on the Bosna, in a south-east direction, by way of Tuzla, to Zvornik, a fortified town on the Servian frontier, which was held by a powerful hostile force. General Szapary has been compelled to fall back from Tuzla to Gracanica, and thence to Doboj, recrossing the river Bosna, and finding some difficulty in securing his retreat. Our large Engraving, which forms the Extra Supplement for this week, represents a scene that occurred during this retrograde movement, which was attended with some confusion. General Szapary's division on the 13th inst. was vigorously attacked. The assailants were repulsed, but on the following day the division nevertheless continued its march to Doboj on account of a lack of ammunition. The troops, who were worn out with fatigue, effected the march in excellent order, though they were constantly harassed by bands of insurgents. All the wounded officers and soldiers and the entire train were safely brought back, though in accomplishing this task the troops, with much labour and self-sacrifice, had themselves to drag or push the waggons along over very bad roads. We learn that on the 23rd ult. the enemy again attacked the position of the 20th Division on the right bank of the Bosna. The fighting lasted nine hours. They first assailed the left flank, and appear to have intended gaining the bridge across the Bosna, but they were repulsed at the point of the bayonet by two companies of Austrian troops. At the same time, an attack was made on a portion of the Austrian centre, but finally the insurgents were everywhere repulsed.

The conflict between Maglai and Zepce, on the 8th inst., which we have mentioned as the subject of another Illustration, took place at a point where the road cuts across a broad bend in the river and over an extremely wild and mountainous country, which the Turks defended inch by inch with valour and desperation. Their numbers are fixed by the Austrian staff at from 5000 to 6000, among whom was a large force of Turkish regulars, with several officers in full uniform. They also had several pieces of artillery and some cavalry. The first attack was made in the morning, near Maglai, and began with a furious and well-directed artillery fire, which covered the head-quarters, and for a time placed General Philippovich himself in great danger. Under an infantry charge the Turks fell back to their next position. In the meantime two flanking columns had been put in motion, one on the left of the valley of the Bosna; while the other, on the right, skirted along the ridge of hills overlooking the pass. Both were infantry. The second engagement was in the afternoon, and the musketry battle lasted over an hour. Here a detachment of Turkish regulars, nearly 400 strong, was cut off and captured. Two Turkish staff officers were severely wounded, and Adjutant Kurin, of the Hartung Regiment, was killed. The prisoners were escorted back to Maglai by a detachment of the 27th Jager battalion, which captured them. They are an unusually fine-looking body of men and intelligent, and explain that they were forced to fight by the insurrectionary Government of Serajevo. They were led by a Major, but Hadji Loja, the head of the Serajevo revolt, was on the field, and had the chief command. At the third attack, which took place on the heights above Zepce, the enemy were swept round the base of the mountain into the river, which they swam across, and escaped in the direction of Vranduk. Darkness and the nature of the country made pursuit impossible.

According to the Correspondencia de Espana, the late Queen Christina has left a fortune of eight millions of francs, which is exclusively inherited by the children born of her marriage with the Duke of Rianzares; her other daughters, Queen Isabella and the Duchess of Montpensier, having already received all that was due to them at her death.

It appears from the annual report of the Commissioners in Lunacy, recently issued, that the total number of registered lunatics, idiots, and persons of unsound mind in England and Wales on Jan. 1 last was 68,538, being an increase of 1902 on those returned for Jan. 1, 1877. The number of male lunatics was 31,024, and of female lunatics 37,514. The pauper lunatics numbered 60,846, and 7692 are described as "private patients." This last class includes the soldiers, sailors, and criminal and other lunatics maintained at the expense of the State.

The mortality returns for England and Wales in the year 1876 record the death of 183 men and 409 women registered as 95 years old and upwards when they died. Fourteen of the men had reached 100 or upwards, and one, who died at Mountain Ash, was 106. Forty-three of the women had completed a century of life or more, and one, who died at Sedgefield, in Durham, was 108 years old. Their respective ages were:—Four men and twenty-one women, 100 years; two men and seven women, 101; five men and four women, 102; two men and three women, 103; two women, 104; three women, 105; one man and two women, 106; and one woman, 108. Six of the persons, one male and five females, who had reached 100 or upwards, died in the London districts.

FRENCH PICTURES.

Everybody may be felicitated upon a second series of French Pictures in English Chalk, by the author of "The Member for Paris" (Smith, Elder, and Co.)—reader, author, publisher, printer, bookbinder, and especially the reader. There is but one volume, and it contains but nine short sketches; in each of those sketches, however, there is so much of actual incident and of pregnant suggestion, so much of originality and freshness, so much of fire and vigour, so much of worldly knowledge and ripe experience, so much of compact description, so much of picturesque possibilities, so much of the essential spirit whether of romance or of satire, of social, political, or historical information, that any one of them would almost suffice by expansion to fill the pages of a novel in three volumes. The first is a very spirited and touching story, ironically illustrative of the results which followed upon the proclamation of the Second Empire, with its lamb-like motto, "L'Empire c'est la paix," entailing long service, wounds, mutilation, a sense of injury and dishonour upon deserving soldiers; and upon their sweethearts, through the general laxity of morals and the general extravagance of living, the worst of all disgraces. Of course, one is not obliged to accept everything which the author insinuates for gospel, though it is impossible not to confess and admire the force of his delineation; and, indeed, there is one point on which the correctness of his drawing may be disputed. The "ferocious thrill" which he supposes to have "shot throughout the land" of France at the date of the Crimean War, the vengeful demon which he supposes to have possessed the whole people as one man, is difficult to reconcile with what we have lately read upon the subject in the "Life of the Prince Consort." From the latter we should rather conclude that the French, as a nation, were somewhat indifferent and languid about it; unless, indeed, which is unusual with the French, we are to believe that their indifference and languor came over them as soon as they had tasted blood and had gathered a few sheaves of glory. Under such circumstances they are wont to go on to the bitter end. However, all this matters little, so far as the story is concerned. The second story is based upon a real or fictitious incident of the Franco-German War: a German officer loves a daughter of France, who shoots him down for her country's sake; but in death they are not divided, she exposes herself to a shower of lead and falls in the arms of victory. The third is a story of a French marriage; and, though it is well told, it will make large demands upon the credulity of the reader, whom it will moreover impress in a manner unfavourable to Mademoiselle Viviane de Barre as regards her sanity and her intuition; and, as regards the same qualities, to women in general, when they happen to be under the influence of love the deluder. A tale of married life naturally follows, a tale of a disobedient wife, of a husband who is a sceptic in religion, of a flirtation, of a duel, of a reconciliation, of an implied conversion: it is of slighter texture and of weaker material than those which the author is accustomed to exhibit. Of the rest it is probable that most favour will be vouchsafed to the story called "Justin Vitali's Client," in which the proceedings connected with a French "cause célèbre" and the character of a French advocate, a Corsican by birth, are portrayed to the life, and an innocent woman is rescued from the jaws of death and from the clutches of so-called justice. The title of the last story is "A Romance by Rumlight," which has an unpleasant, slangy appearance and sound, so that it may be well to remark that it refers simply to the blazing rum around a plum-pudding, which had been prepared by some worthy French folk in honour of an equally worthy Englishman. Howbeit the story is by no means the best of the bunch.

Whether the author of "The Member for Paris" had or had not a hand in the composition of the articles which form the contents of Round About France, by E. C. Grenville Murray (Macmillan and Co.), does not much matter, but the author of one might very well be the author of the other, so closely do they resemble one another in point of spirit and style, and of intimate acquaintance with French life and French institutions. "Round About France" consists of a series of papers contributed, for the most part, to the Daily News and dealing with subjects upon which English readers should be eager to receive information, especially when it is conveyed in so agreeable and interesting a form, and rests, if there be no mistake, upon unusually trustworthy authority. The topics upon which the author discourses, in his light and airy but instructive fashion, are very many, and they are so treated that the study of his remarks will enable the ordinary English reader of newspapers to peruse the "French intelligence" with double interest and double understanding. Among the most interesting of the articles may be mentioned those relating to the French newspapers, to the prevalence and the customs of the duel in France, to the peculiarities of French legal procedure, and to matters connected with elections. In the course of remarks upon duelling in France it was almost inevitable that the name of the notorious M. Paul de Cassagnac should occur; and that irrepressible duellist's bloodthirsty propensities are traced through the hereditary channel to his maternal grandfather, M. de Beauvallon, a Creole of Guadaloupe, who transmitted his fighting propensities to his son. M. de Cassagnac, of the "Epoque," under the reign of Louis Philippe, and, through that worthy, to his grandson, the redoubtable M. Paul. It appears that M. Paul has fought at least fifteen duels (perhaps more); that he has, nevertheless, "refused more challenges than he has accepted;" that "he has not yet killed anybody;" and that among the well-known persons with whom he has declined to fight are Lieutenant Lullier, now in New Caledonia, who publicly slapped his face; and M. Clemenceau, one of the members for Paris, who is renowned as a swordsman, and is the more dangerous from being left-handed." He challenged M. Gambetta, who disdained even to reply. Such a career is eminently calculated to bring the practice of duelling into contempt, unless it can be explained how a "man of honour" can, without losing caste, pick and choose his antagonists, according, as it is insinuated, to their skill with their weapons, and sit down quietly under the disgrace of having received a public slap on the face and as having been treated as a creature beneath contempt. The case of M. Paul, as represented in the volume under consideration, is paradoxical to the verge of absurdity and grotesqueness. It is curious to find such a man included among the "French Orators;" but there he is, and it is declared of him that he "might from his nerve become a capital speaker, were he less inexperienced, bumptious, and aggressive." How long ago this estimate was written, there is no saying; but M Paul must by this time have had a tolerable amount of experience. There are some very acceptable "Recollections of M. Thiers;" and altogether the volume contains a great deal of excellent reading.

The type and the style fully bear out the description given of a Summer in Normandy with my Children: by Mrs. Charles Ellis (George Routledge and Sons), that it is a little work "originally intended for publication in a child's magazine," but illustrations, of which there are two or three scattered among the pages, are less liable to be affected by consideration for the age of those for whose gratification they are intended: whatever is picturesque, whether it be a building, or landscape, or human being or any other animal, or a collection of all these, is as well suited to the eye of the adult as of the child. Be it remembered, moreover, that trips, whether to Normandy or elsewhere, are often, if not generally, undertaken by the adult for the advantage of the child. Having thus vindicated the character of the book, one should lose no time in observing that "it was written soon after the war of 1870," lest misapprehension should lead to disappointment. The contents of the book are soon summed up; it is "the story of six months in the life of four children," whose mother "was especially anxious they should learn French," and who, with that and other ends in view, it may be supposed, left, one fine day, their home by the Thames and started, by way of Southampton, to St. Malo. Thence "to the curious old town of Dol, where they were to commence their diligence journey into Normandy." They reached a little Norman town and were soon domiciled in a little Norman house on the outskirts; and there, without any difficulty, they learned more French in a fortnight than they would have acquired in a year at home. They also made the acquaintance of Nanon, an old woman at a neighbouring farmhouse, and Batou, a dog, and other bipeds and quadrupeds; and they had a music-master and a governess, and they saw strange sights, and they played outlandish games; and, on the whole, they had a "good time," if not a very eventful one. However, it was an eventful period; Sedan was looming in the distance; and one François, a humble friend of theirs, found that his "number had been called" one day in August, and that he had to set out on the morrow for Brest. They heard "the man of Sedan" prayed for in the English church as "Napoleon the Third, now a prisoner in the hands of his enemies," but cursed, instead of prayed for, by his own people, inasmuch as "every one, high and low, united in abusing him as having betrayed and sold them;" and soon after this they returned, by way of St. Lo and Cherbourg, to their own country. And so ends the account of a summer in Normandy—an account simple and adventureless, but presenting a pretty picture likely to be appreciated by children and their mothers.

WORCESTER MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

The arrangements for this provincial music meeting are now complete, and the festival will open, as we have previously intimated, on Tuesday next.

The forthcoming occasion derives especial interest from the fact of the suspension of the usual oratorio performances in 1875, when the opposition of the Dean and Chapter and other powerful influences succeeded in bringing about a return to the primitive conditions from which the Three-Choir Festivals arose, more than a century and a half ago; the performances having consisted only of cathedral services and anthems, rendered merely by the choristers, with organ accompaniment. For many years efforts have been made at each of the three cathedral cities, but especially at Worcester, to suppress the oratorios, including the engagement of eminent solo singers and orchestral performers; and, as already intimated, these endeavours succeeded three years ago. Since then, however, a powerful counter-movement has been made by the civic authorities and other influential parties who were in favour of the festivals being given on the extended plan which had prevailed for the greater part of the period of their existence—and the result has been the restoration of the Worcester Festival to its wonted importance. The steps which have led to the acquiescence of the Dean and Chapter and the Bishop have been from time to time reported, and it now only remains for us to detail the arrangements that have been made for the ensuing performances.

The solo singers engaged are Mdlle. Albani, Misses Anna Williams, Mary Davies, and Bertha Griffiths, Madame Patey, Mr. E. Lloyd, Mr. Guy, Mr. Wadmore, and Signor Foli.

The nucleus of the chorus will be, as usual, supplied by the members of the three choirs, who will be largely reinforced by choristers from London, Birmingham, Oxford, Bradford, Leeds, and Huddersfield.

The orchestra will consist of about seventy of the most eminent performers, headed by M. Sainton as principal and solo violinist, and including other well-known members of our Opera and Philharmonic bands. In accordance with precedent, the cathedral organist of the city in which the festival is held will conduct the performances, the office in this case being filled, as heretofore, by Mr. Done. Mr. C. H. Lloyd (organist of Gloucester Cathedral) will preside at the organ, except at the early morning services, when Mr. Colborne (organist of Hereford Cathedral) will so officiate, besides acting as pianoforte accompanyist at the evening concerts.

Among the stipulations made by the Dean and Chapter in according to the revived importance of the festival, it was agreed that the celebration should open and close with special services in the cathedral, early morning and evening services being held therein in the intermediate days of the week, as heretofore.

The opening of the festival performances will accordingly be preceded by a grand choral service in the cathedral on Tuesday morning, when a sermon special to the occasion will be preached by the Bishop of Worcester, and the music will include Handel's Dettingen "Te Deum," Purcell's "Jubilate" in D, and an anthem, "Blessing, Glory, Wisdom, and Thanks," adapted from one of Bach's motets for double choir. On Tuesday evening the first part of Haydn's "Creation," Mozart's "Requiem," and Mendelssohn's "Lobgesang" ("Hymn of Praise") will be given in the cathedral; where on Wednesday morning, "Elijah" will be performed; on Thursday Dr. Armes's short oratorio, "Hezekiah." Mendelssohn's hymn "Hear my Prayer," and Sphor's oratorio "The Last Judgment;" and on Friday morning Handel's "Messiah;" the Festival closing in the evening with a special service, the musical portion thereof including a "Magnificat" and "Nunc Dimittis," by Sir F. Gore Ouseley, and an anthem by Dr. Stainer, both composed expressly for the Festival.

On the evenings of Wednesday and Thursday miscellaneous concerts will be given in the College Hall. The programme on the former occasion includes Sterndale Bennett's cantata "The May Queen" and the first movement of Beethoven's violin concerto, to be performed by M. Sainton. At the second concert Miss Done is to play Sterndale Bennett's pianoforte concerto in F minor. A list of 150 stewards, headed by the Bishop of Worcester (president of the festival), affords ample guarantee that the expenses of the performances will be met should the amount received for tickets fall short thereof—a very improbable result. It will be borne in mind that it is only by the collections made at the cathedral doors and donations that the benevolent object of these festivals is realised—the benefit of the widows and orphans of the poorer clergy of the three dioceses associated therein—Gloucester, Hereford, and Worcester.

The important restorations effected in the cathedral, and the many beautiful additions therein since the festival of 1872, give special interest to the present occasion.

THEATRES.

PRINCESS'S AND THE AQUARIUM.

Theatrical management in these days has become rather retrospective than progressive, and the past overbears the present. One might have supposed that the change that has taken place in American government since the publication of Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe's story of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" had rendered rather inexpedient a revival of the subject, whether in the shape of novel or drama. But what is the actual fact? A new version of the play, by Messrs. Jarrett and Palmer, as acted at Booth's Theatre, New York, is now placed simultaneously on the stage of two London theatres—at the Princess's and at the Aquarium. The same play and the same actors appear at the two theatres in succession on the same day. At both theatres we have Mr. Charles H. Morton in Uncle Tom, Mr. Charles Warner in George Harris, Mr. Harry Hawk in Lawyer Marks, Mr. J. H. Rowe in Simon Legree, Miss Dolores Drummond in Eliza, Miss Mary Bates in Topsy, Miss Edith Wilson in Cassy, Miss Fanny Denham in Aunt Ophelia, and Miss Carrie Coote in Eva. This altogether is a brilliant cast; nor are the inferior rôles less efficiently interpreted. Besides this, there are first-rate spectacular arrangements and artistic specialities, which, though they increase the length of the performance, also increase its popularity. In addition to a considerable number of European and American artistes, have been imported "a host of genuine freed slaves from the Southern States of America," who appear together in an original plantation festival scene. The plaintive songs of the slaves, to adopt the language of the programme, are "sung by carefully selected bands of Jubilee singers, including the unrivalled Louisiana Troubadour Quartette, the Four Jolly Coons, and the Richmond Camp Meeting Choir." To crown these extra arrangements, "the greatest banjo player in the world, Horace Weston," takes a conspicuous part in the entertainment. Realistic scenery, painted by William Perkins, combine, with other signal stage-illustrations, to augment the general attractions—the last and finest representing the apotheosis of Little Eva. One serious drawback necessarily attends the dialogue—namely, its semi-religious tone, which somehow does not suit well the moral air of the playhouse. One nigger melody, though a genuine example, we believe, is remarkably profane, as burlesquing a sacred topic, and causing indecorous laughter. In all other respects the getting-up at both houses is as effective as it is costly. The speculation is a bold one; but in all probability its success will equal its daring.

GLOBE.

On Saturday this house opened under the management of Mr. Alexander Henderson, already conductor of the Criterion and Folly Theatres. Planquette's opera of "Les Cloches de Corneville" was revived, with new scenic and spectacular accessories, and was received with great applause. A new two-act play by Mr. Joseph Mackay, entitled "Mayfair and Ragfair," preceded its representation. The signification of the plot or plan of the play is obvious enough, but the structure and treatment suffer from incoherence and incongruity to an extent which puzzles more than usual the mind even of an intelligent audience. There is in it an old Jew usurer, Emanuel Goria, who also passes under the name of Mopus Mo', and does business both in the West and East of London, in the latter as a marine-store dealer and receiver of stolen goods. He has a daughter, secretly married to the expectant Earl of Penmawr; a pretender to the earldom, Mr. Trefusis, being also a candidate for her hand, who contrives to take in the Jew in his character of Goria, and indeed to effect his ruin. But the cunning Hebrew finds compensation as marine-store dealer, as such receiving plate offered for sale by his own thief of a butler, as also £1200 for the support of his daughter's child. Mr. Fernandez ably sustained the burden of the performance in the part of the fraudulent hero; nevertheless, its success must be pronounced as rather equivocal.

Mrs. Bateman announces that her tenancy of the Lyceum terminated last Saturday, and that her lease has been transferred to Mr. Henry Irving, who she hopes may conduct the theatre to still higher distinction and a state of complete prosperity. We trust that Mr. Irving will correct some errors in management which have recently provoked severe remarks in more than one journal.

The proceeds of the first Gaiety matinée this season, on Saturday next, Sept. 14, will be devoted to the benefit of the Hospital for Sick Children. All the company have kindly given their services. The programme will include the Dampier children in "Helen's Babies" (first time in England), and all the Gaiety favourites in a farce and Byron's burlesque, "The Bohemian G'yurl."

The Duke's will be reopened this (Saturday) evening with a dramatic version of Victor Hugo's "Les Miserables," produced under the title of "The Barricade." The stalls have been abolished, and prices reduced to all parts of the house. Messrs. Charles Wilmot and Clarance Holt are the new lessees.

Messrs. Maskelyne and Cooke have increased the value and effect of their extraordinary exhibition by the addition of a new musical automaton, called "Labial." The figure is supported on a solid glass pillar to prove that electricity has nothing to do with its movements; but as to the real agency at work we have no knowledge at all. The fingers govern the keys in quite a natural way; and in this manner the airs Bishop's "Mynheer Van Dunck" and Braham's "Death of Nelson" are played in conjunction with the elder android "Fanfare." The tone and expression are marked with a precision not less wonderful than the invention itself. The public cannot fail to feel the greatest interest in the truly scientific phenomena.

Mr. Edward Augustus Bond has been appointed Principal Librarian of the British Museum. Mr. Bond (the Academy remarks) is a meritorious officer of long service. He succeeded Sir F. Madden as keeper of the manuscripts in 1866.

The Marquis of Ripon is inspecting the Catholic educational institutions. Yesterday week he visited the female training-college, whence is supplied most of the Catholic schoolmistresses. Lord Ripon, in addressing the pupils, said no error could be greater than separating religious from secular instruction. The two should go hand in hand; religious instruction should be the foundation of education.

Judgment was given on Monday by the court-martial upon the survivors from the wreck of the Eurydice. The two seamen were acquitted, and the Court found that the loss of the vessel was occasioned by pressure of wind during a sudden and exceptionally dense snowstorm; that no blame is attributable to anyone; that due consideration to stability was given when the Eurydice was built; and that when she was converted into a training-ship her stability was maintained.—Amidst the cheers of the officers and men, the work of the divers was brought to a successful result on Saturday, and next day the Eurydice was towed into Portsmouth harbour.

NEW BOOKS.

The idea of anachronism is suggested by the dedication prefixed to the History of the War of Frederick I. against the Communes of Lombardy, by Giovanni Battista Testa (Smith, Elder, and Co.), for the date of that dedication is 1853, it is inscribed to Mr. Gladstone, and it mentions the "great injustice" with which "so many Italians are kept shut up in the wretchedness of the Neapolitan prisons," a state of things which, so far as all Italians, save brigands and their like, are concerned, may be considered to have passed away for a while, if not for ever. The explanation probably is that the original work in the Italian language was dedicated to Mr. Gladstone, and that, when the translation, which has been "revised by the author," was undertaken (in 1877, apparently), the dedication was retained without any alteration. However that may be, the subject of the book is an interesting piece of history, which can never become anachronous or antiquated; and, lest the debt of gratitude be forgotten if its acknowledgment be deferred, let it at once be thankfully stated that the volume is provided with an index, than which nothing is more conducive to the completeness and usefulness of an historical monograph. The author begins with a "preliminary discourse," which occupies rather more than a hundred pages, and in which he hastily reviews various matters connected with the origin and progress of the power attained and the liberty enjoyed by the cities of Lombardy up to the time when they were called upon to defend their privileges against the mighty Barbarossa, for that was the name, in consequence of his red hair and beard, bestowed upon Frederick. Having thus paved the way, the author sets seriously to work upon his history proper at the date of Feb. 15, 1152, when Conrad III., King of Germany, having fallen sick at Bamberg, and being convinced in his own mind that he was poisoned, expired, after recommending for election as his successor his nephew, Frederick, Duke of Swabia, "a Prince who had already given signal proofs of wisdom and valour," and who to the fame of his prowess and the comeliness of his youth added the advantage, as the son of Frederick the Squinter, Duke of Swabia, and Judith, daughter of Henry the Black, Duke of Bavaria, of uniting in his person "the two leading families of the Guelfs and Ghibellines." The dying words of Conrad were respected, and Frederick was elected King on March 4, 1152. The new King lost no time in proclaiming that "it was his intention, as soon as he had regulated the affairs of Germany, to come down into Italy to receive the Imperial crown, and to compose by his authority all the discords and dissensions by which that beautiful part of the Empire was so much disturbed." It was not until October, 1154, that Frederick had sufficiently settled the affairs of Germany to turn his attention elsewhither; in that month, however, he "led his army through the Vale of Trent into Italy," and so began the first of the five expeditions he was to make against the Lombards. During this expedition he entered Rome, where, at St. Peter's, "he received from the Pope, after the customary prayers, the sacred chrism, the ring and the naked sword; the golden crown was placed upon his head and the imperial sceptre in his hand, and, with loud acclamations, all present hailed him Emperor." In the autumn of 1155 he re-entered Germany, and there he was detained during the years 1156 and 1157, which were chiefly occupied—the former in affairs connected with the marriage he contracted with Beatrice, daughter of the Count of Burgundy, and the latter "in taking possession of the States which she had brought him as her dowry." At Whitsuntide, 1158, he had assembled at Ulm so numerous a host that, "fearing, if he led them altogether, to create a famine by the way," he "divided them into four bodies, and moved them into Italy by different roads, part by Friuli, part by the St. Bernard, part by Chiavenna; whilst he himself," with his personal following, "proceeded by the vale of Trent, and arrived in Italy at the end of May." At the end of this expedition, "all the land from the Adige to Rome is subject to him," and in the summer of 1162 he, "taking with him the Antipope Victor, departed with the army for Besançon, in Burgundy." His third expedition, such as it was, took place in August, 1163, when he returned into Italy "with the Empress and many German barons;" and, having failed to obtain the army he had expected from home, he had to retire, much worsted, in November, 1164, to Germany, where he was detained for two long years by the discord and confusion prevailing among the princes and by the opposition he met with from the Church. In November, 1166, however, he commenced his fourth expedition by a descent "through the Valle Camonica into the territory of Brescia;" and the end of it was that "expelled by the people, exhausted by the climate, disowned by the Church, this Emperor again quitted Italy, leaving behind him the banners of the Empire, a buried army, and, on the Alps, the footprints of an ignominious flight." This was in the spring of 1168. His fifth and last expedition was postponed until the coming of October, 1174, and it resulted, after a narrow escape from death on the Emperor's part, in the conclusion of a truce with the Communes for six years, commencing from August, 1177, which truce, a few weeks before its expiration, took, in June, 1183, the more permanent form of the Peace of Constance, whereby, "after a contest which had lasted, with little intermission, for nine-and-twenty years, the peoples of Lombardy, in right both of victory and of justice, were at last permitted to settle down again in peace; in the possession of that liberty which had raised them, little by little, from the humble franchises of their municipalities to the order, form, and dignity of commonwealths." This strife between Frederick and the Lombards has one point of special interest for Englishmen, inasmuch as it introduces upon the scene the English Pope, Adrian IV., otherwise Nicholas Breakspear, who refused the King the kiss of peace until the ceremony of holding the Pope's stirrup had been performed by the haughty Frederick. Adrian IV., however, was not the only Pope whose stirrup was held by Frederick; for, as Emperor of long standing, in 1177, he both kissed the foot and held the stirrup of Alexander III. The monograph is, of course, deeply interesting and instructive; it shows signs of patient and honest research, it is pervaded by an unmistakably patriotic spirit, and it glows in parts with the fire of a simple but fervent, spontaneous eloquence.

Methuselah would have delighted in a book like The Life of John Milton, by David Masson, M.A., LL.D. (Macmillan and Co.), a book which would have enabled him to while away a lingering year or two; but mere ephemerals, such as mortals now are, grudge the time required for the study of a work which is not only voluminous in itself, but appears by instalments issued at such wide intervals that the memory cannot sustain the burden imposed upon it. The work, however, is a great one, performed with a research, an industry, a minuteness, a completeness, worthy of the longest-winded German professor. It must be remembered, moreover, that the volumes, when the sixth and last of them has been published, will contain not merely a biography but a history, political, ecclesiastical, and literary, of the momentous time at which Milton lived. The fourth and fifth volumes, which have here to be considered, refer respectively to the years comprised between 1649 and 1654, and between 1654 and 1660. Each volume is divided into three "books;" each book is subdivided into two portions, one historical and the other biographical, and the two portions, thus kept distinct, undergo further subdivisions calculated to prevent confusion and to assist the reader in tracing Milton's own career and appreciating his motives and feelings apart from the hurly-burly of public events. As regards the historical matter, we have "a history of the English Commonwealth, a history of Cromwell's Interim Dictatorship and of his first and second Protectorates, and a history of the Protectorate of Richard Cromwell and of the subsequent Anarchy to the Restoration;" as regards the biographical matter, we have the story of Milton's life during eleven anxious years, "with an account of his secretaryship and other relations to the successive Governments, and an elucidated inventory and abstract of his State Letters." When we commence the fourth volume England is a Republic; when we close the fifth, the English Commonwealth is no more, and Milton has been "conveyed furtively out of his house in Petty France to some obscure but suitable shelter." The volumes have but few, if any, literary graces; few, if any, charms of style, such as render some histories and some biographies more fascinating than the most brilliant romance, whether written in verse or in prose; their merit lies in their solidity, in their copiousness, in their exhaustiveness. They are a very storehouse of information, a source of permanent instruction, not of transitory delight.

Anybody who should be requested to mention a pleasant, vivacious, unpretentious book, calculated to recall agreeable recollections of past wanderings or to suggest a line of proceeding for a projected trip, might safely recommend a volume entitled Holiday Rambles in Ordinary Places by a Wife with her Husband (Daldy, Isbister, and Co.)—a collection of letters which originally appeared in the Spectator, commencing about ten years ago, and which, though they contain nothing very substantial, nothing very novel, nothing very interesting, nothing very exciting, are redeemed from the commonplace by a pervading spirit of cultivation, and by a lively, piquant style of composition. And there is just that interspersing of domestic chat which English people of the middle class seem to consider refreshing. One thing is necessary for perfect enjoyment of the letters: the reader must be familiar with Mr. Anthony Trollope's novels, to which frequent, not to say constant, reference is made by way of illustration, whether as regards personal characteristics or particular incidents. Wordsworth's poems also are largely drawn upon for a similar purpose; but as, in this case, the poet's own words are generally quoted, there is less need to have the memory stored with his multitudinous effusions. Howbeit, neither is Trollope the only novelist, nor is Wordsworth the only poet, whose works are subjected to a process of illustrative allusion and extraction; the pages are peppered liberally with such condiments, from German and from English cruets, and the flavour produced is far from disagreeable. The letters appear to have been a joint production; and neither the husband nor the wife, when they began their rambles in the year 1867, had apparently much experience of travelling either abroad or at home. They had never been even in Paris. Their letters, accordingly, record the effect produced upon them by what they saw, did, and suffered in a trip to the Engadin, to the Grand Chartreuse, to Ammergau, with its now hackneyed "passion play," during a holiday in Yorkshire, upon a driving-tour to Winchester, the New Forest, and Stonehenge, and on a drive in Devonshire, chiefly to Lyme Regis and Dartmoor. It is evident, therefore, that they can have little to relate which will come upon the reader as the revelation of a new world; the charm of their letters lies simply in the manner of relation.

Important subjects are generally, according to the law of compensation which seems to govern most affairs of life, proportionately dry, so that The Conflicts of Capital and Labour, by George Howell (Chatto and Windus), cannot be recommended to readers in search of amusement; but to those readers, a minority no doubt, but a numerous and a worshipful minority, who are earnestly desirous of understanding the most human, the most difficult, the most momentous question of the day, it is commended with a fervent hope that its contents may be carefully read and soberly, impartially, attentively considered. The very title of the book, a title perfectly justified by the condition of regretable but undeniable facts, is of itself enough to make a Democritus laugh and a Heraclitus weep. That there should be a conflict, as there undoubtedly is, between capital and labour; that there should be, as it were, a war to the knife between them, is no less unreasonable and absurd at bottom than if the members and faculties of a man should fight together, one saying to another: I have no need of thee. For what is capital but fructified labour, and what is labour but inchoate capital? However, it were idle to dilate upon this threadbare theme. The state of conflict unhappily exists; and the author, or compiler, of the book under consideration quietly accepts the position. He is human, and he is, therefore, pretty sure to be affected by some natural bias; but he has evidently endeavoured to be strictly impartial, he assumes the character rather of an expounder than of an advocate, he appears rather as "amicus curiæ" than as the champion of a cause. Let him set forth in his own words the main purpose of his book: it is, in the first place, "to supply the fullest information with regard to the history, organisation, constitution, and working of trade unions in all their multifarious details;" in the second, "to furnish an authoritative exposition of the leading features of those unions, their chief characteristics, their aims and ends, and also the methods or means by which they seek to attain them;" in the third and last, "to give a trustworthy explanation of some of the alleged restrictive rules by which they are said to be governed, together with a refutation of many of the utterly wild theories and reckless statements regarding them, which too often find a place even in the writings of those who are more or less friendly to their general objects, but whose opinions are founded on inadequate information, supplied often by one side only, with regard to the nature of those unions, the rules by which they are governed, their management, and the scope of their action." The most interesting chapters, so far as the ordinary reader is concerned, are probably the sixth, seventh, eighth, and ninth—the chapters in which the author deals with the questions of piece-work, hours of labour, overtime, coercion, intimidation, rattening, picketing, restrictive rules, strikes, and foreign competition, and labours to remove certain misconceptions which prevail concerning them. It were proof of a very sanguine temperament to express a belief that the book will do much towards improving the relations between labour and capital; but the author's pains will not be thrown away if he should succeed, as he may fairly hope to do, in helping the public to a clearer understanding of matters intimately connected with the general prosperity of the nation and, it is not too much to say, with the solidity and safety of the empire itself.

The electric light is about to be tried on the Copenhagen forts, and will light up a large expanse of the Sound.

THE CHAMPION CHESS-PLAYER.

Herr J. H. Zukertort, the winner of the first prize in the International Chess Tournament held in Paris during the months of June and July last, was born at Riga, on Sept. 7, 1842. He made his first public appearance in the chess arena in the year 1862, while a student at the University of Breslau, receiving the odds of a knight from Herr Anderssen, in which encounter he scored a large majority of the games. In 1867, having in the interval had the advantage of constant practice with the best players of North Germany, he was appointed editor of the Neue Berliner Schachzeitung, and during the next four years he published the "Leitfaden des Schachspiels," "A Collection of Chess Problems," "Studies and Endings," "A Short Synopsis of the Openings," and, jointly with Herr Dufresne, the "Grosses Handbuch des Schachspiels."

In the spring of 1871 he defeated Herr Anderssen in a match played at Berlin, and in 1872 he came to London to take part in the British Chess Association tournament of that year. In that joust he gained only the third prize; he was soon afterwards defeated in a short match with Herr Steinitz, won the second prize in the handicap tourney at the City Club, and in the Divan tourney of 1876 he was second to Mr. Blackburne. In the year 1875, however, he won a well-fought match against Mr. Potter, scoring four to two and eight drawn games. In a tourney held at Leipsic last year, under the auspices of the West German Chess Association, he gained the third prize, after a tie with Herr Anderssen for the second.

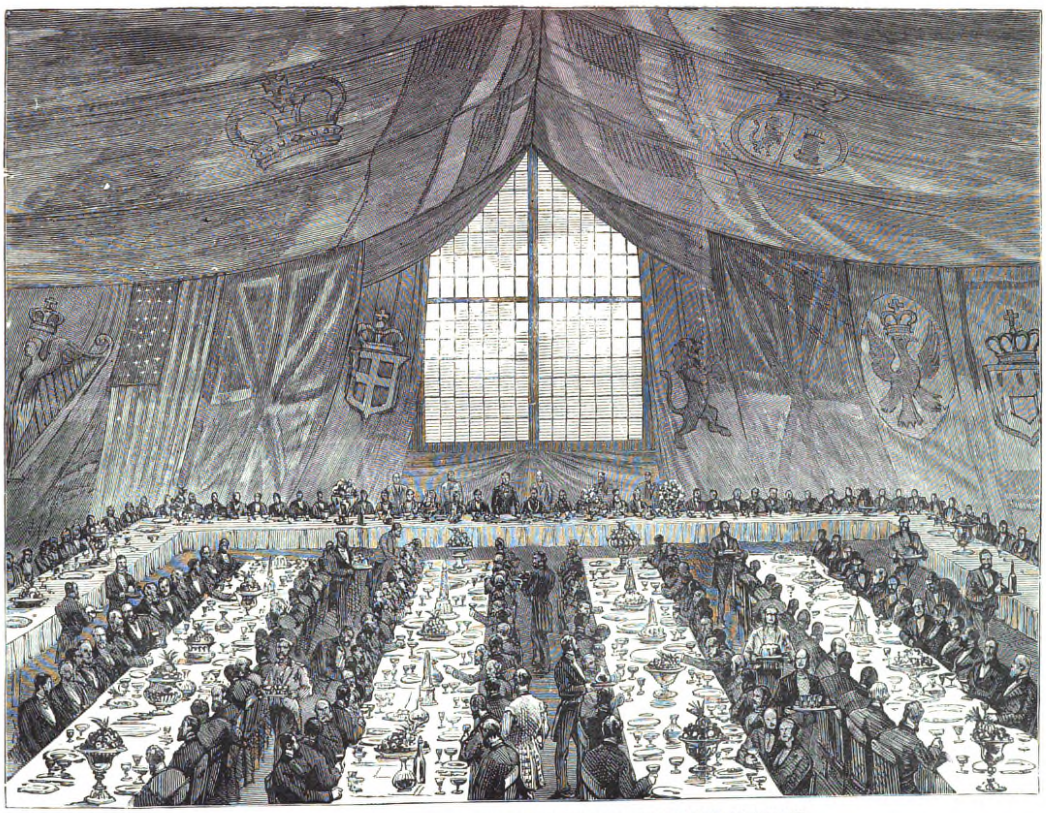
During his residence in this country Herr Zukertort has frequently performed the marvellous feat of conducting a large number of games simultaneously without seeing the boards and pieces, and he has contributed to several chess periodicals articles upon the openings as well as learned annotations upon the games of contemporary players.

The portrait is from a photograph by Mr. A. E. Fradelle, of Regent-street.

HERR ZUKERTORT, THE CHAMPION CHESS-PLAYER.

THE SHIRÉ AND LAKE NYASSA.

We present another of the sketches, by Mr. H. Thelwall, illustrating the scenery and appearance of the native tribes on the Shiré river, which is the outlet from Lake Nyassa to the Delta of the Zambesi, on the Mozambique coast of East Africa. It will be remembered that, three or four years ago, the Foreign Missions Committee of the Free Church of Scotland resolved to establish a missionary station on Lake Nyassa, to be named "Livingstonia," after the discoverer and explorer of the lake. The appointed leader of the expedition for this purpose was Mr. E. D. Young, R.N., who commanded the "Livingstone Search Expedition" in that region. The Scottish Free Church Mission first party, under Mr. Young's leadership, went out in May, 1875, taking with them a small steamer, in portable pieces, to be called the Ilala, after the place where Livingstone died. At the Kongoni mouth of the Zambesi these pieces, with the cheerfully proffered assistance of the natives, were put together, and the mission party steamed up through the malarious regions of the Lower Zambesi and Shiré to the Murchison cataracts. There the steamer had again to be taken in pieces and carried up the rugged heights, a distance of fifty or sixty miles, by 700 natives, to a point beyond the cataracts, about 1800 ft. above the sea. The pieces having been again put together, the mission party steamed up the river for upwards of a hundred miles, and thus entered the great lake, with the British flag gaily streaming in the breeze, about the middle of October, to the amazement and delight of the natives. Since then the mission settlement of "Livingstonia" has been established on the promontory of Cape Maclear, at the southern extremity of the lake; while the lake itself has been circumnavigated, the principal localities along its magnificent mountainous shores minutely surveyed, and friendly relationships formed with some of the leading native chiefs. In May, 1876, a second Free Church party, under the Rev. Dr. Black, was organised and sent out, accompanied by Mr. Thelwall, in the interests of art and natural science. At Port Elizabeth, Algoa Bay, these were joined by Dr. Stewart, of Lovedale, South Africa, who by pre-arrangement assumed the headship of the different parties combined, with the view of conducting them, under his experienced leadership, to their destination. This, after encountering and overcoming many difficulties by the way, he was enabled successfully to accomplish before the end of October that year. After all matters were adjusted and needful arrangements completed between Dr. Stewart and Mr. Young, the latter resigned his arduous and responsible charge into the hands of the former, and returned home. In the same year Livingstonia was visited by Mr. H. B. Cotterill, son of the Bishop of Edinburgh, whose special object was to check the internal slave trade by opening up legitimate and useful commerce with the natives. He was joined by the late Captain Elton, British Vice-Consul at Mozambique, who accompanied him in a journey overland from the north end of Lake Nyassa to reach the seacoast opposite Zanzibar; but Captain Elton was unfortunately taken ill, from exposure to wet and extreme fatigue, and died on the way. Mr. Cotterill succeeded in reaching Zanzibar after a most arduous journey of four months and a half. He gave an interesting account of his travels in a lecture to the Royal Geographical Society about six months ago. Mr. E. D. Young's narrative, entitled "The Nyassa Mission," was published last year.



A letter from Dr. Stewart conveys some interesting information. He describes a visit paid to Mapunda, the most powerful chief on the Upper Shiré. Dr. Stewart says:—"I found Mapunda a younger man than I expected, perhaps about forty. He was exceedingly friendly, but not quite sober, though it was only the third hour of the afternoon. He is, like many other African chiefs, a great beer-drinker. What disappointed me most in my visit to him was the many traces of Arab influence and Arab civilisation, such as it is. We cannot wonder that he has taken what they have brought, as it was better than anything he had. They have been his teachers; and so much the greater pity. He might ask why we have been so long in coming. There were several good, large, square houses in the village. His own house had high doors, the posts and lintels of which were carved with that debased style of ornament common everywhere among the Arabs. Degraded and very ugly negroes from the coast, with small straw fezes stuck on the crowns of their badly-shapen heads, and wearing greasy Arab dresses, were lounging about the entrance to Mapunda's house. They carried old flint muskets, the barrels of which were polished as bright as abundance of grease and much rubbing could make them; and they comported themselves with the air of armed men of a higher caste than those about them. There were many good faces in the crowd of villagers who stood and squatted round about us that they might stare to the full at their new visitors. I noticed also that the nose-ring or button peculiar to the Hindoo women was beginning to be worn, too, by the women here. This is new on the Shiré, and our Arab friends must have introduced it also. I was not much gratified with the result of our visit; but it would be wrong to represent Mapunda as otherwise than very friendly to us at present, despite, no doubt, of much which the dealers in flesh and blood must say to prejudice him against us. He is said to have been a heavy loser by the sort of half treaty or understanding between him and us that he will not sell slaves or allow them to pass the ferry close below his village."

MANGANJA VILLAGE ON THE SHIRÉ, AFRICA.

H.M.S. REVENGE AT QUEENSTOWN, FIRING A ROYAL SALUTE FOR THE LORD LIEUTENANT OF IRELAND.

BREAKFAST GIVEN BY THE MAYOR OF CORK TO THE LORD LIEUTENANT OF IRELAND.

THE LORD LIEUTENANT AT CORK.

The visit of the Duke of Marlborough, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, accompanied by the Duchess of Marlborough, to Cork and Queenstown, affords subjects for two Illustrations. His Excellency and her Grace arrived on Monday week, and were received by the Mayor of Cork, Mr. V. Gregg, and the other members and officers of the Corporation, with the customary honours due to the representative of Royalty. They went on to Bandon, where they were the guests of the Earl and Countess of Bandon, with a large party of distinguished friends. Next day they returned to inspect the public schools, hospitals, and charitable institutions of Cork, and in the afternoon went down the river, in a steam-boat named the City of Cork, accompanied by the Mayor, and by Lord Bandon, Lord Doneraile, and others, to the harbour and seaport town of Queenstown, formerly called Cove. At Haulbowline they were met by the Queenstown Commissioners, on board a steam-tug, and Mr. J. W. Scott, the chairman of that body, presented an address of welcome, after which they proceeded down the harbour. At Passage and on passing the guardship, H.M.S. Revenge, the Lord Lieutenant received the Royal salute. The steamer then passed up the Carrigaline river, a district which for its beautiful scenery deserves to be more widely known than it is. Returning to Haulbowline, the Viceregal party and excursionists were met by a guard of honour formed of military and police. Shortly after the company, with appetites sharpened by the fresh air, sat down to a sumptuous déjeûner, which was laid out in a large temporary pavilion on the island. The interior of the structure was decorated with flags and evergreens, and presented a very pleasing appearance. The Mayor of Cork, who was the host upon this occasion, presided at table, having at his right and left hand the Duke and Duchess of Marlborough, with the Mayoress, the Duke and Duchess of Leinster, the Earl and Countess of Bandon, Lord and Lady Carysfort, Lady Doneraile, and others of the Irish aristocracy: there were two or three hundred gentlemen besides. The health of the Lord Lieutenant, after that of the Queen and Royal family, was cordially responded to, and his Excellency returned thanks in a speech expressing his warm interest in the prosperity of Cork and of all Ireland. The Viceregal party returned to Queenstown in a steam-launch, on their way to Bandon. They have since visited Limerick and other places in the South of Ireland, and everywhere had a friendly reception.

GEOGRAPHY AND TRAVEL.

The very useful series of volumes published by Mr. Edward Stanford, of Charing-cross, entitled the "Compendium of Geography and Travel," was noticed by us on a former occasion. It is based on a German work of standard repute, "Die Erde und Ihre Völker," by Von Hellwald, each portion of which, corresponding to one of the main divisions of the globe, Europe, Asia, Africa, North America, Central and South America, and Australasia, is revised and completed by an English editor specially conversant with its subject. These editors are Professor Ramsay, the eminent official geologist, Colonel Henry Yule, Mr. Keith Johnston, Professor F. V. Hayden, of the United States' Survey, and two distinguished travellers and naturalists, Mr. H. W. Bates and Mr. Alfred Wallace. We have already commended the volume relating to Africa, edited by Mr. Keith Johnston; and in the present instance, having before us Central America, the West Indies, and South America, we must renew our testimony in favour of the series. This volume is adapted to the most recent and accurate knowledge by Mr. H. W. Bates, author of "The Naturalist on the River Amazons;" but the portion taken from Von Hellwald is translated by Mr. A. H. Keane, who has also supplied an ethnological appendix, with copious details of the native races and languages. The sections relating to natural history, and the distribution of the fauna and flora of every region, have been entirely recast by Mr. Bates; and he has introduced much new matter into the description of those parts of South America which were explored by himself. As for the general plan of this treatise, it falls into the threefold division of Central America, the West India Islands, and South America. The first-named part, including Mexico, the peninsula of Yucatan and Belize, Honduras, Guatemala, San Salvador, Nicaragua, and Costa Rica, occupies 140 pages of concise description. In each case it sets forth with methodical clearness and exactness all that the general reader, using the book for reference in the manner of a geographical encyclopædia, is likely to want to know. The same convenience and completeness of arrangement prevails in the second part, comprising "the Great Antilles"—namely, Cuba, Jamaica, Hayti, and Porto Rico; and the Lesser Antilles, being the Leeward and the Windward Isles, with Barbadoes and Trinidad. The third part, occupying nearly 250 pages, is a very thorough and systematic account of South America, nearly one hundred pages being devoted to the main physical features of that vast continental peninsula, as a whole, delineating each of its grand natural regions, with their vegetation and animal races; the remaining space being filled with special descriptions of Venezuela, Colombia, and Ecuador, Peru, Bolivia, and Chilé, the River Plate, Paraguay and Uruguay, the Empire of Brazil, and the British, French, and Dutch provinces of Guiana. The compact disposal of the matter, and a concise descriptive style, with the suppression of abstract discussions, allow the editor to set forth all that is useful or helpful towards correct views of the several countries and their inhabitants, and of their relations to each other. The judgment and memory are greatly assisted by this strict observance of due proportion in the amount of details permitted to respective sections of the work. A dozen coloured maps, designed precisely to show what is mentioned in the text, and placed exactly where they are wanted, are furnished to each volume, besides a couple of hundred wood engravings, views of scenery, of towns or buildings, costume figures of people, or illustrations of their manners and habits. We have great satisfaction in heartily recommending this excellent work to public favour.

At the opening ceremony of the Silverhill Church Schools, Hastings, yesterday week, Mr. T. Brassey, M.P., spoke upon the advantages of education, in the course of which he said that he was rejoiced to see in Hastings that the voluntary system and the school-board education principle went hand in hand, for he felt that each in its way fulfilled its own mission.

TOURISTS' GUIDE BOOKS.

The series of Practical Guides, by Mr. Henry Irwin Jenkinson, to the most interesting districts of Great Britain, which have been published by Mr. E. Stanford, of Charing-cross, are very superior to any previous works of this kind. Those hitherto produced are the Guides to the English Lake District, to the Isle of Man, to the Isle of Wight, to Carlisle, Gilsland, and the Roman Wall across Northumberland; and to these is now added the Practical Guide to North Wales. Mr. Jenkinson, who is an ardent and experienced tourist, residing at Keswick, personally visits every place to be mentioned in his books, and notes down his memoranda on the spot. He afterwards submits for revision, whenever he can, every passage of local description and history to the most competent authorities in each district; and he frankly invites his readers to correct, for the future editions, any errors or omissions they may perceive. A literary work of topographical research, it may almost be said, of exploration, has seldom been performed with more conscientious diligence. We have had occasion, in certain rambles of our own, carrying one of these "Practical Guides" in our pocket, to rejoice in the accuracy and completeness of Mr. Jenkinson's labours; and this Guide to North Wales, tested by our recollection of the localities we have visited, is as good as any of the preceding volumes. There is an entire absence of the tedious declamatory eulogies of scenery, and vague panegyric of romantic historical traditions, which are met with in the class of Guide-books compiled some twenty years ago. Exactness and minuteness of detail, with regard to all the features of each place, noticing every object, either close by or in the distant views, that would strike the observant eye in a walk or ride along the prescribed road, makes this book a most useful companion. If we take, for example, the walk from Dolgelley by the Foxes' Path to the ascent of Cader Idris, where we once happened to lose our way, Mr. Jenkinson is now ready to give us the most precise directions. "The path," says he, "descends a few feet and crosses a wall and rill. Avoiding a bridge which spans a streamlet and leads to a slate quarry, wind to the left and pass through a gate close by some sheepcotes and the remains of an outbuilding. The open fell is now entered, with rocky hillocks close by on the left. A strip of the sea appears in the direction of Barmouth, and the distant summit of Snowdon is seen. When over a little heath-clad ground, the last wall is passed through at a gate, and a few yards farther a rivulet is crossed, and then a second stream, just where it issues from Llyn Gafr, a small, uninteresting tarn, half covered with weeds. A steep climb has now to be made up a grassy slope to Llyn-y-Gader." We perfectly well remember, a few summers ago, visiting this spot and observing all these details. At that time we had with us Cathrall's "Guide through North Wales," published in 1860, which contains three pages of general description of Cader Idris, with the adjacent heights of Mynydd Moel and Mynydd Gader, the Foxes' Path between them, and Llyn Gwernan below them, on the road from Dolgelley. But all it tells us of the path we then sought is this:—"The ascent from Dolgelley follows the high road to Towyn for two miles, where it reaches Llyn Gwernan, and a course is then taken across the lower part of Mynydd Gader, direct to Llyn Gafr, and from thence to Llyn-y-Gader, above which the track to the summit slopes upwards over a bank of broken rubble." These directions, in the excursion to which we refer, proved quite unavailing, and so much time was lost in getting to the foot of the Foxes' Path, which was only done, after all, through finding the precise course now indicated by Mr. Jenkinson, that it became too late for the ascent of the mountain that day. So much by way of personal testimony; but the merits of his work, in respect to fulness and correctness of information, and clearness of arrangement, will be readily acknowledged. He divides the perambulation of North Wales into eight sections, named from the headquarters of each, Chester, Llandudno, Bettws-y-Coed, Snowdon, Dolgelley, Bala, Llangollen, and Aberystwyth, each complete in itself. Brief essays on the history, geology, botany, and mineralogy of North Wales, with a list and interpretation of the Welsh names of places, a catalogue of the mountains, lakes, and tarns, and instructions for angling, form part of the volume. It is furnished with a very good map, on the scale of four miles to the inch, and with an outline railway map, which serves for an index to the Ordnance Survey.

The small books, in flexible but durable binding, likewise published by Mr. Stanford, entitled the Tourist's Guide to each county of England, or division of a larger county, deserve not less commendation. Every one of these neat little volumes bears on its cover and titlepage the name of a trustworthy author. South Devon is described by Mr. R. N. Worth, who has written guide-books and histories of Plymouth, Devonport, and Falmouth. Its plan is to give, first, a general description; next, a variety of excursions, by railway, from Exeter, Newton Abbot, and Totnes; thirdly, river trips up the Tamar and the Dart; lastly, several road rambles over Dartmoor, also from Plymouth to Dartmouth, to Modbury, Kingsbridge, and other places in the southerly peninsula of "sunny Devon moist with rills." A map, of course, is inserted in this and every other volume. The Tourist's Guide to Cornwall, by Mr. Walter H. Tregellas, chief draughtsman of the War Office, also recognised as an archæologist and writer on geography, differs from and somewhat excels the other handbooks of this convenient series. It contains, besides the "Itinerary," concise and distinct reports upon the geology and physical geography, the climate, the people, the history, the ancient language, the local antiquities, the mines, the fisheries, and all the statistics of Cornwall. The name of Tregellas is a sufficient token that the writer is thoroughly familiar with his subject; it is, indeed, a name already known to literary students of Cornish legendary lore. The Itinerary, constituting two thirds of the thin volume, proceeds westward from the Tamar at Saltash to Liskeard, Bodmin, Truro, Falmouth, Helston, Penzance, and the Land's End, with a separate trip to the Scilly Isles; after which it returns along the north coast by St. Ives, Camborne, and Redruth, St. Columb, Padstow, Camelford and Tintagel (lingering awhile about the grand cliffs and Castle ruins there), to Bude and Stratton, finishing at Launceston. This is a most interesting tour for one week, and it may be undertaken much later in the autumn than a tour in any other part of England. Even the first week in November, if one's holiday comes so late, will be found very enjoyable in Cornwall, allowing for the shortness of the days. We next take up Stanford's Tourist's Guide to the North and East Ridings of Yorkshire, which is compiled by Mr. G. Phillips Bevan, following one of the West Riding, already published. The noble features of North Yorkshire scenery, the bold hills and dales of its gradual slope from the lofty region of Westmoreland, such as Teesdale, Swaledale, and Uredale, not to mention Wharfedale, in the West Riding, the fine country about Knaresborough, Harrogate, and Ripon, Fountains Abbey and Rievaulx, and other places of interest, are most refreshing to the visitor from town. Mr. Bevan's assistance will be acceptable to many such tourists. Equal merit belongs to the Guide to Derbyshire, by Mr. J. Charles Cox, another of Stanford's new series, in which is to be found all needful detail of the towns and villages, the halls and palatial mansions, the rivers, streams, rocks, and tors of that midland county, with its romantic Dovedale, its Peak, its Chatsworth, and Haddon Hall.

But, leaving here the examination of ordinary guide-books, we take occasion to notice a book of more original character, On Foot Through the Peak; or, "A Summer Saunter among the Hills and Dales of Derbyshire," by Mr. James Croston (published by John Heywood, Manchester, and by Simpkin, Marshall, and Co.). It may be read with advantage before or after an excursion to the highland northern part of that county, which is as good as any place in the United Kingdom for one seeking to get rid of those city nuisances called business, society, and entertainment, that wear out our lives in the slavery of civilisation. The attractions of Buxton and Matlock for invalids who would keep in the fashion have long been practically acknowledged; and it has been considered well worth while to see the natural curiosities of the limestone caverns, not only there but in the neighbourhood of Castleton, where they are far more wonderfully revealed. All these objects of interest and a great deal besides will be found amply described in Mr. James Croston's pleasant work; but the account of his sensations at escaping from Manchester to the moorland road beyond Chapel-en-le-Frith, leading by Bowden Edge, Mam Tor, and the Winnats into the heart of the High Peak district, has our most cordial sympathy. We are beginning to dread the picturesque as a sort of Great Exhibition, which means a vulgar fuss and bustle; it is some consolation to hear of quiet walks in the north of Derbyshire.

For the benefit of Londoners who cannot leave home a few days we would suggest that the Home Counties, within an hours' railway journey, afford much delightful rurality; and whichever line be chosen, north or south, east or west, at a distance of twelve or twenty miles from St. Paul's, there is some piece of really beautiful country, to be enjoyed and admired. Hertfordshire on the one hand, West Kent on the other, have such charms as cannot be excelled by anything within a rather long journey. Mr. Standford has provided a corresponding handbook, called Round About London, by a Fellow of the Society of Antiquaries, which is just the help required. It comprises "every place of interest within a circuit of twelve miles from the General Post Office, exclusive of those which are within a circle of four miles round Charing-cross;" but the map extends from beyond Watford, in one direction, down to near Shoreham, in the other, and from Epping down to Epsom. The places are alphabetically arranged, not as in a guide-book, along the roads. By dint of extreme conciseness of statement, a large quantity of topographical information is packed into this little pocket volume, and the distances and routes are carefully specified. For deliberate study at home, we must again recommend the excellent Handbook of the Environs of London, by Mr. James Thorne, F.S.A., which Mr. Murray published, in two volumes, the year before last. This is a more important work, of greater historical and literary merit, and worth its place on library shelves. Its range is twenty miles round London, but excluding, as in the small book just noticed, all within four miles, as properly belonging to town. The names of places are given alphabetically, and include, of course, a great many more than those described in the abridged work, "Round About London," with much fuller accounts of their history and present condition. We may here say another word, also, for Mr. Louis Jennings's interesting volume, Field Paths and Green Lanes (Murray), in which he narrates above twenty agreeable walks, chiefly in Surrey and Sussex, with plenty of lively anecdotes, passages of roadside or tap-room talk with natives or fellow-travellers, and good-natured reflections of his own. It takes more than one day, suppose we say, the Saturday and Sunday, to manage these expeditions over the Downs, into the pleasant Weald of southern England; but you return to your work on Monday morning all the better in health and spirits. Before dismissing the review of these books of home travel, we have to notice the series, in four parts, of British High Roads, Arranged for the Use of Tourists (Tinsley Brothers). This is a guide-book specially designed for people who travel, either on foot, on horseback, on a bicycle, or by fancy stage-coaches where they exist, or in a private phaeton, like Titania and her husband, wiht her sister Bell and the Prussian Lieutenant, in Mr. W. Black's delightful story, along the old turnpike roads. We have only seen the first part, which comprises the north and north-eastern routes, to Edinburgh, and to Hull, Whitby, and Scarborough; but it seems well calculated to serve its purpose. Some of the pages contain small maps of sections of the road, showing the places close by the roadside.

Having thus endeavoured to do justice to some of the guide-books for our own country, we now observe that Mr. C. B. Black has just brought out a second edition of one of his very complete and serviceable Continental Guides: that to the South of France, and Part of Italy and Spain (A. and C. Black, Edinburgh). He divides France beyond the Loire into an eastern and a western half; and he adds to the eastern half the Genoese Riviera, with Spezia, Lucca, Pisa, and Florence; while to the western half he annexes, beyond the Pyrenees, a run across Castile, from Burgos and Valladolid to Madrid and to Malaga. This seems practicable enough, without going too much out of the way, just as a visit to Milan, Verona, and Venice can easily be joined with a tour in Switzerland and the Tyrol. The volume is well furnished with maps and plans. Baedeker's Leipsic Handbooks for English travellers, which should have almost beaten Murray's out of the field, do not require any further general commendation. The one for "Switzerland, and the Adjacent Portions of Italy, Savoy, and the Tyrol," published last year, being the seventh edition, and then modelled anew, is still perfectly available, and it is the best Swiss Guide now extant. There is now, moreover, a Baedeker's Syria and Palestine, but this is not the time of year for travels in that direction; and Baedeker's Handbook for London will likewise do for next season. An excellent German Guide to the Upper Engadine, by M. Caviezel, has been translated into our language, and published by Mr. Stanford. It will be very useful to all those of our countrymen and countrywomen who seek repose and health at St. Moritz or Pontresina, places now in great favour during the summer months. The Visitor's Guide to Cannes and its Vicinity (Stanford, publisher), written by F. M. S. at Cannes, may be consulted on the approach of winter. So there is an abundance of literary advisers and instructors upon the important question, "Where shall we go?" and we hope nobody will be very much disappointed.

The widow of Mr. Alex. Moore, late Chief Constructor of the Navy at Devonport, has been granted £300 from the special service and Royal bounty funds in recognition of the valuable services rendered by Mr. Moore during a long series of years.

A fire brigade display and fête, in which the Brighton and several other corps took part, was held on Monday at the Swiss Gardens, Shoreham. The Brighton Brigade, who were allowed six minutes in consequence of using a large engine, won the whole of the three local competitions.

OBITUARY.

THE EARL OF LAUDERDALE.

The Right Hon. Sir Thomas Maitland, Earl of Lauderdale, Viscount of Lauderdale and Maitland, and Baron of Thirlestane and Boltoun, in the Peerage of Scotland, a Baronet of Nova Scotia, G.C.B., and Knight of King Charles III. of Spain, Admiral of the Fleet, and late Principal Naval A.D.C. to the Queen, died on the 31st ult., at Thirlestane Castle, Berwickshire. His Lordship was a representative peer and Hereditary Standard Bearer of Scotland. He was born, Feb. 3, 1803, the son of General the Hon. William Mordaunt Maitland, by his first wife, Mary, daughter of the Rev. Richard Orpen, of Killowen, and widow of John Travers, Esq., of Fir Grove, in the county of Cork, and succeeded to the peerage at the death of his cousin, Anthony, tenth Earl, Admiral R.N., G.C.B., and G.C.M.G. The nobleman whose death we record entered the Navy in 1816, attained the rank of Admiral in 1868, and that of Admiral of the Fleet very recently. He commanded H.M.S. Tweed on the coast of Spain during the Civil War 1836-7, for a period of thirty years was on active service in various parts of the globe, and from 1860 to 1863 was in command of the Pacific Squadron. His Lordship married, in 1828, Amelia, third daughter of William Young, Esq., of Rio de Janeiro, and leaves an only surviving child, Mary Jane, wife of Lord Brabazon, only son of the present Earl of Meath. The succession consequently devolves on the late Earl's kinsman, Charles Barclay Maitland, Esq., now twelfth Earl of Lauderdale.

MR. GEORGE PAYNE.

George Payne, Esq., late of Sulby Hall, Northamptonshire, D.L., so well known on the turf, died, after a long illness, on the 2nd inst. He was born April 3, 1804, the eldest son of the late George Payne, Esq., of Sulby Hall, by Mary Eleanor, his wife, second daughter of Ralph William Grey, Esq., of Backworth House, Northumberland, and was grandson of René Payne, Esq., an eminent banker, of London, of the firm of Smith, Payne, and Co. Mr. Payne served the office of High Sheriff of Northamptonshire in 1826.

MR. CLIFFE, OF BELLEVUE.

Anthony Cliffe, Esq., of Bellevue, in the county of Wexford, one of the chief landed gentlemen in that county and High Sheriff in 1823, died on the 27th ult. at Montagu-square, aged seventy-eight. He was last surviving son of Major Anthony Cliffe, of New Ross, by Frances, his wife, second daughter of Colonel Joseph Deane, of Terenure, in the county of Dublin, and represented a family that was established in Ireland by John Cliffe, of Westminster, Secretary-at-War of the Army sent by the Parliament to that country in 1649, under the command of Cromwell. He married, June 23, 1821, Isabella Frances, daughter of Charles Powell Leslie, Esq., of Glaslough, in the county of Monaghan, M.P., and by her (who died in 1873) had three sons and six daughters. The eldest of the former, Anthony John Cliffe, Esq., J.P. and D.L., is now of Bellevue.

Arthur White, Esq., F.G.S., F.R.G.S., barrister-at-law, on the 22nd ult., aged forty-eight.

The Rev. James Bedingfield, J.P., F.L.S., forty-five years Rector of Bedingfield, Suffolk, on the 22nd ult., aged sixty-nine.

Andrew Muskett Blomfield, Surgeon-Major Bombay Army, on the 30th ult., at 3, Verulam-buildings, aged forty-seven.

Richard Kepp, Esq., J.P., on the 30th ult., at Sussex-place, Regent's Park, aged eighty-nine.

Captain Francis Kellett Hawkins, son of late Major-General Hawkins, C.B., Bengal Army, on the 25th ult., aged forty-five.

Mr. C. H. Frewen, of Cold Overton Hall, Leicestershire, formerly M.P. for East Sussex, at the age of sixty-five.

Edward John Gayer, Surgeon-Major, Indian Army, and Professor of Anatomy, Medical College, Calcutta, on the 26th ult., at Calcutta, aged forty-four.

The Rev. William Gill, formerly missionary at Rarotonga, South Pacific, and nearly twelve years minister of Rectory-place Chapel, Woolwich, on the 14th ult., aged sixty-five.

Henrietta Weeks, Mrs. Wright, widow of the Rev. T. B. Wright, Vicar of Wraugh, Lincolnshire, and sister of the great Arctic navigator, Sir John Franklin and of Sir Willingham Franklin, Judge of the Supreme Court, Madras, on the 21st ult., at Wraugh vicarage.

Lieutenant-General Richard King Clavell, Royal Marine Light Infantry, on the 1st inst., at Gosport, aged fifty-eight. On several occasions his name was honourably mentioned in despatches. He had received the medal, with clasps, for his services in the Black Sea; the fifth class of the order of the Medjidie, and the Turkish medal. For some years he was Colonel-Commandant of the Royal Marines at Portsmouth.

The Hon. William Powell Powell-Rodney, J.P. and D.L., on the 27th ult., at Llanvihangel Court, Monmouthshire, aged eighty-four. He was the eighth and youngest son of George, second Lord Rodney (son of the great naval commander), by Anne, his wife, daughter and co-heir of the Right Hon. Thomas Harley, and was brother of the third, fourth, and fifth Lord Rodney. He served as High Sheriff in the county of Monmouth in 1860.

Jane, relict of the Rev. Cecil Crampton, Rector of Killucan, in the county of Westmeath, at Kingstown, Dublin, on Aug. 31, aged ninety-one. Mrs. Crampton was fifth daughter of Sir George Ribton, Bart., of Woodbrook, in the county of Dublin. Her brother Sir John (who predeceased her in 1877) served throughout the Peninsular War, in the Rifle Brigade, and was four times wounded. Three of her sisters were married—Louisa, first to Robert Carton, and secondly to Robert Reid, Esqrs.; Georgina, to John Ferguson, Esq., heir to his cousin, Sir Robert Ferguson, Bart.; and Sophia, to the Hon. and Very Rev. Dean Gore, son of Arthur, Earl of Arran. The Rev. Cecil Crampton (a first cousin of Sir Philip, Bart., Surgeon-General to her Majesty in Ireland) was a brother of the late Right Hon. Judge Crampton, and grandson of the Rev. John Crampton, Archdeacon of Tuam, and Charlotte, his wife, daughter of F. Twisleton, Esq., of Broughton Castle, Oxon; her nephew, Thomas Twisleton, having succeeded to the Barony of Saye and Sele through the female line in 1781.

CHESS.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

All communications relating to this department of the Paper should be addressed to the Editor, and have the word "Chess" written on the envelope.

F O N H (Liverpool).—We read your letter with great interest and shall be glad to aid you in your efforts in problem composition. You shall have a report on those submitted next week.

G R T (Highgate).—The diagram must be incorrect, inasmuch as both Kings are in check. The key-move to the solution of the Indian Problem is 1. B to Q 8 sq.

X Y Z.—It may be taken as a general rule that the use of one piece, no matter what its power may be, is better art in the construction of a chess problem than two or more pieces or Pawns. Your proposed emendation would not improve No. 1801.

F W (Bedford).—You are very wide of the mark as regards both Nos. 1799 and 1800.

J S W (Paul's-alley).—(1). At the commencement of a game each player should have a white square at the right-hand corner of the board. (2). In the "Staunton" chessmen the King is the large r piece. There may be other fashions.

T F H (Slabb's Hotel).—All correct solutions are acknowledged, but in the mass of correspondence received for this department we cannot recollect individual names. Your proposed solution of No. 1801 will not hold water.

Dr W (Clay-cross).—We have acknowledged your first card, which correctly described Problem No. 1801. Where is the mate if, in reply to 1. Q to Kt 3rd (ch) Black plays 1. K to Q 5th? You do not mean 2. B to Kt sq, leaving the Kt en prise?

C E M (Kennington).—Your examination of No. 1800 must have been superficial. See the solution below.

East Marden.—It is not to say "often," it is invariably so; but it is equally true that first-rate players are second-rate problem composers. To excel in either requires leisure as well as aptitude, and the two essentials are rarely found together in this age.

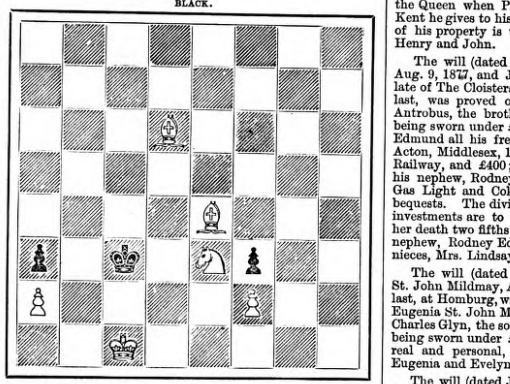
Œdipus.—Thanks. We have forwarded your card to the author of 1799.

J Wills (St. John, N.B.).—Altogether mistaken. Look again at No. 1797.

Correct Solutions of Problem No. 1799 received from E P Griffin and W Warren.

Correct Solutions of Problem No. 1800 received from Thorpe, Deansgate, (2)Ilipus, Emile Frau, C G Ellison, Belvedere, Tonks, Franklin Institute, M and G M F W, W Warren, An Old Hand, and A Seaside Party.

Correct Solutions of Problem No. 1801 received from J de Honstern, P le Page, W J Wilson, G H V, E H H V, H Ree, C G Ellison, Okehampton, T B Judson, Owlet, jun., Boroughbridge (Shepherd's-lane), C E Marr, Barrown Edges, A R, Deangate, East Marden, Dr F St, C Govett, T F F A Wood, E P Vallimey, N Bumbelow, W S B, Pretextat, C Meyer, M and G M B W, Woodfield, J Hunter, Orpington, B Fischer, Rev T Smith, E L G, Thorpe, L Sharswood, T Edgar, C S Cole, N Brock, Leonora and Leon, Amphitrion, D Leslie, E Worsley, M M Thayer, L of Truro, S H (Leeds), H Brewster, P Hampton, C Barragh, F W S, J S Wantone, R Roughead, Black Knight, J W Govett, T Greenbank, E Lewis, S Adams, Triton, C Johnson, Dorothy, W Lee, E Worsley, W Franklin, M Meredith, C J G, S J E, R Ingersoll, Joseph B, W Warren, and An Old Hand.



Solution of Problem No. 1800.

WHITE.	BLACK.
1. Kt to Q R 7th (dis ch)	P to Q B 4th (dis ch)
2. B to B 4th (dis ch)	B to Q 6th (dis ch)
3. Kt to K Kt 7th (dis ch)

PROBLEM No. 1803.

By A. Wladimiroff, Berlin.

BLACK.

WHITE.

White to play, and mate in three moves.

CHESS IN LONDON.

A Game played recently between Messrs. Fisher and Macdonnell.

(Scotch Gambit.)

WHITE (Mr. F.)	BLACK (Mr. M.)	WHITE (Mr. F.)	BLACK (Mr. M.)
1. P to K 4th	P to K 4th	he will secure a strong attack while the adversary is pursuing "the exchange."
2. Kt to K B 3rd	Kt to Q B 3rd	11. B to K Kt 5th	Q to Q 5th
3. P to Q 4th	P takes P	12. B takes R	Kt to B 5th
4. Kt takes P	B to B 4th	13. Q to Q 2nd	R takes B
5. Kt takes Kt	Q to B 3rd	14. Castles Q R
6. P to K B 3rd		Of course he cannot take the Kt with Queen, because of 14. Q to B 7th (ch) and 15. B to K 8th
The best move here is 6. Q to K B 3rd.		14.	Q to K 4th
6.	Q P takes Kt	15. P to R 3rd	P to Q Kt 4th
7. Kt to B 3rd	B to K 3rd	16. Kt to Kt sq	B to B 5th
8. B to Q 3rd		17. Q to B 3rd	R takes B
Somewhat accommodating, we are inclined to think, as it affords Black the opportunity of castling and bringing the Q R into play at once.		17. B to Q 4th seems also strong, but the move in the text suffices.
8.	Castles	18 P takes R	Kt to K 4th (ch)
9. Q to K 2nd	Kt to K 2nd	19. K to B 2nd	Kt takes Q
10. P to K R 4th	Kt to Kt 3rd	20. P takes Kt	B to R 7th
The purport of White's last move was obvious enough, but Black perceives that		21. P to Q 4th	B takes Kt (ch)
	and White resigned.	22. K takes B	Q to K 3rd,

CHESS IN HUNGARY.

We are indebted to a correspondent at Buda-Pesth for the following amusing Games played at the chess club in that city between Herren Bebe and A. Stern.—(Evans's Gambit.)

WHITE (Herr B.)	BLACK (Herr S.)	WHITE (Herr B.)	BLACK (Herr S.)
1. P to K 4th	P to K 4th	9. P to K 5th	P to Q 4th
2. Kt to K B 3rd	Kt to Q B 3rd	10. P takes Kt	P takes B
3. B to B 4th	B to B 4th	11. P to Q 5th	Q takes P (B 6th)
4. P to Q Kt 4th	B takes P	12. P takes Kt	Q takes R
5. P to B 3rd	B to B 4th	13. R to K sq (ch)	B to K 3rd
6. Castles	Kt to B 3rd	14. B takes B (ch)	P takes R
This is not a good defence after the Bishop has been played to the Bishop's file on the fifth move.		If he had played 14. K to B sq, White could continue with 15. Q to Q 7th, winning easily, although not so quickly.
7. P to Q 4th	P takes P	15. Q to Q 7th (ch)	K to B sq
8. P takes P	B to Kt 3rd	16. B to B 3rd (ch)	K to Kt sq
		17. Q takes P.	Checkmate.

Another Game between the same players.—(Giuoco Piano.)

WHITE (Herr S.)	BLACK (Herr B.)	WHITE (Herr T.)	BLACK (Herr B.
1. P to K 4th	P to K 4th	13. P to Q 6th	Kt to K 4th
2. Kt to B 3rd	Kt to Q B 3rd	14. B to Kt 3rd	B takes Kt
3. B to B 4th	B to B 4th	15. P takes B	Q to R 5th
4. P to B 3rd	Kt to K B 3rd	16. K to R sq	P to K B 4th
5. P to Q 4th	P takes P	17. Kt to Kt 3rd	Kt (from K 4th)
6. P takes P	B to Kt 5th (ch)		to Q 6th
7. B to Q 2nd	B takes B (ch)	The correct style. Intending to play 18. Q to R 4th, when White would find it impossible to avoid both the mates with which he would then be threatened.
8. Q Kt takes B	P to Q 4th
9. P takes P	K Kt takes P	18 P to Q 6th (ch)	K to R sq
10 Castles	Castles	19 R takes P
11. Kt to K 4th		Evidently overlooking the object of Black's seventeenth move.
11. Q to Kt 3rd secures an even game, which more than can be said of the move in the text.		19.	Q to R 6th, and wins.
11	B to Kt 5th
12 R to Q B sq	Kt to B 5th

CHESS INTELLIGENCE.

In the international match by correspondence between England and America, now in progress, the score stands as follows:—England: Messrs. Brewer, Copping, Monck, Nash, E Palmer, J. T. Palmer, R H. Phillip, one game each, and J. Parker two games: total, nine. On the side of America the score is six games, being one each to the following players: Messrs. Atkinson, Davis, Freek, Foster, Olcutt, and D. C. Rogers. It is expected that the match, the play in which has extended over the past two years, will be brought to a conclusion in the course of the next three months.

WILLS AND BEQUESTS.

The will (dated Aug. 16, 1876), with a codicil (dated Feb. 7, 1877) of the Right Hon. Georgiana Charlotte Mary, Baroness Dalling and Bulwer, late of Flemings Hotel, Clarges-street, who died on the 2nd ult. at Woodville, near Dover, was proved on the 22nd ult. by the Hon. and Very Rev. Gerald Wellesley and Lord Eustace Brownlow Henry Gascoyne Cecil, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £30,000. The testatrix bequeaths to Arthur Wellesley and to her nephew Gerald Wellesley £5000 each; between the five daughters of her late brother, William Henry George Wellesley, £3000; and legacies and bequests of jewellery to many relatives and friends. The residue of her estate she gives to the said Lord Eustace Cecil.

The will (dated June 25, 1872) with a codicil (dated Oct. 11, 1875) of Admiral Sir George Back, late of No. 109, Gloucester-place, Portman-square, who died on June 23 last, was proved on the 27th ult. by the Rev. Henry Back and the Rev. John Back, the nephews, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £50,000. The testator bequeaths to his brother, Charles Back, £5000; and legacies to nephews and nieces and other relatives, friends, and servants; £100 each to the Royal Naval School, New Cross, the Royal Naval Female School, Twickenham, the Royal National Life-Boat Institution, the Shipwrecked Fishermen and Mariners' Royal Benevolent Institution, and St. Mary's Hospital, Paddington; he gives £200, in addition, to the Royal National Life-Boat Institution, to be invested, and the income applied in providing a dinner annually for the crew of the Ramsgate life-boat; £100 to the Rector of the parish in which he shall be living and whose church he shall be in the habit of attending, to be distributed by him among the poor of the said parish; £600 to the Royal Geographical Society, the income to be paid annually to such scientific geographer or discoverer as the president and council of the society shall determine; he also leaves to the said society his portrait in oil by Brockendon. The plate presented to the deceased by the subscribers to the Arctic Land Discovery Fund, his case of medals, his Arctic medal, and the compass and small case of instruments presented to him by her Majesty the Queen when Princess Victoria and the late Duchess of Kent he gives to his nephew, the Rev. Henry Back. The residue of his property is to be divided between his said nephews, Henry and John.

The will (dated March 26, 1877) with two codicils (dated Aug. 9, 1877, and June 22, 1878) of the Rev. John Antrobus, late of The Cloisters, Westminster Abbey, who died on July 26 last, was proved on the 19th ult. by the Rev. Edmund Antrobus, the brother, the sole executor, the personal estate being sworn under £60,000. The testator leaves to his brother Edmund all his freehold, copyhold, and leasehold property at Acton, Middlesex, 1000 shares in the London and Blackwall Railway, and £400; to his cousin, William Rudd, £1050; to his nephew, Rodney Edward Munday, certain shares in the Gas Light and Coke Company; and there are some other bequests. The dividends and interest of the remainder of his investments are to be paid to his sister Charlotte for life; at her death two fifths of such investments are to go to his said nephew, Rodney Edward Munday, and one fifth each to his nieces, Mrs. Lindsay, Miss Munday, and Mrs. Johnstone.

The will (dated Jan. 6, 1878) of the Ven. Carew Anthony St. John Mildmay, Archdeacon of Essex, who died on July 14 last, at Homburg, was proved on the 17th ult. by Miss Caroline Eugenia St. John Mildmay, the daughter, and the Hon. Pascoe Charles Glyn, the son-in-law, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £25,000. All and everything he possesses, real and personal, he gives to his two daughters, Caroline Eugenia and Evelyn Mary.

The will (dated June 24, 1876) with a codicil (dated July 1 following) of Mrs. Lucy de Sainte Croix, late of Firbank, Guildford, who died on July 27 last, was proved on the 17th ult. by Sir Philip Rose, Bart., and Philip Frederick Rose, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £20,000. After giving some legacies, the testatrix leaves the remainder of her property to her friend Lady Margaret Rose.

The will (dated June 4, 1867) of Mr. Thomas Percival, late of Stibbington, Huntingdonshire, and of White's Club, St. James's, who died on July 12 last, was proved on the 22nd inst. by Mrs. Elizabeth Percival, the widow, the sole executrix, to whom he gives, devises, and bequeaths all his real and personal estate. The personalty is sworn under £18,000.

The Very Rev. William Pakenham Walsh, Dean of Cashel, has been elected Bishop of Ossory in the room of Dr. Samuel Gregg, who resigned the bishopric on his election to the see of Cork. The Archbishop of Dublin presided at the election, which was held at St. Canice's Cathedral, Kilkenny.

Mrs. Girling, the head of the Shaker community in Hampshire, appeared before the Lymington district magistrates last Saturday on the adjourned summons for obstructing the highway at Hordle. The police reported that there was now no obstruction, the goods having been removed to one side of the road. The magistrates allowed a fortnight longer for the road to be cleared.

The delegates attending the meeting of the Associated Chambers of Commerce at Sheffield on Thursday week visited the Cyclops Works, where they saw an armour-plate rolled, and other processes of manufacture. They afterwards went to the cutlery establishment of Messrs. Rodgers. In the afternoon they were entertained at luncheon by the Cutlers' Company. Mr. Sampson Lloyd, M.P., and Mr. Barran, M.P., were among the speakers. In the evening the delegates were entertained by the Sheffield Chamber of Commerce, followed by a ball.—The meeting was brought to a close next day. There was an excursion to Chatsworth, the seat of the Duke of Devonshire; and the delegates were afterwards entertained at luncheon by the Sheffield Chamber of Commerce. Mr. S. S. Lloyd, M.P., in reply to the toast of "The Associated Chambers," spoke of the meeting as having been most successful, and said he hoped for good results from the resolutions that had been passed.

A correspondence which has taken place between Mr. Welsh, the Minister of the United States, and the Marquis of Salisbury respecting the prisoner Condon, now undergoing sentence of penal servitude, has been published. Mr. Welsh says the belief in the United States is that Condon, an ardent Irishman, who had served most honourably in the American War, was the victim of circumstances in his wrongdoing, and that, having been eleven years in prison, he has learned wisdom, and may well be restored to his family in the United States. The Marquis of Salisbury, in reply, says that her Majesty's Government have been strongly moved to look upon this application in the most favourable light, finding that it is one to which the President and Congress of the United States attach great importance, and are glad to be able to think that the time has arrived when the clemency of the Crown may be exercised. The remainder of the sentence on Condon is accordingly remitted, and also of that passed upon Melody, who was convicted for the same offence.

CYPRUS.—Officers and others proceeding to Cyprus will effect an immense saving by supplying themselves from Messrs. OETZMANN and CO.'S. Their experience in supplying Officers of the Military, Naval, and Civil Service on Foreign Stations enables them to execute their orders with economy and dispatch. Packed in extra strong cases by experienced packers. Price-List of every requisite post-free. The "Daily News" says:—"Advice from Cyprus state that every thing is enormously dear there."—OETZMANN and CO.

FURNISH THROUGHOUT.
SUBSTANTIAL ARTISTIC FURNITURE.
OETZMANN & CO.,
HAMPSTEAD-ROAD,
NEAR TOTTENHAM-COURT-ROAD.

FURNISH THROUGHOUT.—OETZMANN and CO., 67, 69, 71, 73, 77 and 79, HAMPSTEAD-ROAD, near Tottenham-court-road. Cabinet Factory, Albion Works, Drummond-street; Bedding Factory, Eagle-place, London, N.W. CARPETS, Furniture, Bedding, Drapery, Furnishing Ironmongery, China, Glass, Paper Hangings, Pictures, Bronzes, Clocks, &c., and every other requisite for completely furnishing the house throughout.

THE IMMENSE RANGE of PREMISES formerly the EAGLE BREWERY having been REBUILT and ADDED to their SHOW-ROOMS, it is now one of the largest Furnishing Establishments in the world. Comparison of price and quality respectfully solicited before deciding elsewhere. OETZMANN and CO. are enabled to offer SPECIAL ADVANTAGES to Country Customers in delivery of Goods by their own large PANTECHNICON VANS, and fixing in position by competent persons. Descriptive Catalogue, the best Furnishing Guide extant, post-free.—OETZMANN and CO.

PAINTINGS, OLEOS, CHROMOS, PHOTOS, and ENGRAVINGS.—A choice assortment, in handsome frames. The paintings are by well-known artists, and the name guaranteed. Also, a large assortment of Bronzes, Statuettes, Vases, Clocks, Antique Furniture, and artistic furnishing items. A Catalogue of Art Department post-free.
OETZMANN and CO.

OETZMANN and CO.'S BED-ROOM SUITES.—One of the largest and best assortments in the kingdom to select from, displayed in Show-rooms 22ft. long, with Bedsteads and Bedding fitted up for inspection. Bed-room Suite, consisting of Wardrobe, Chest of Drawers, Washstand, Toilet Table and Glass, Towel Airer, Three Chairs, and Pedestal Cupboard, from 6½ guineas, complete. Some new and elegant designs at 15, 18, and 21 guineas. Large and handsomely decorated Bed-room Suites in ash, pitch pine, and other woods, at 28, 30, 50, and 75 guineas; also in black and gold, 50 guineas upwards.—OETZMANN and CO.

PAPERHANGINGS.—OETZMANN and CO.—PAPERHANGINGS at WHOLESALE PRICES. A great reduction in price. All the new patterns are now on view at the Show-Rooms.—OETZMANN and CO.

ARTISTIC FURNISHING.—OETZMANN and CO. are introducing a variety of Elegant Persian and Indian Designs in Rugs and Mats, to meet the requirement for Artistic Furnishing, at moderate cost. Large Rugs (excellent copies of real Persian and Indian) from 10s. each. A visit of inspection solicited.—OETZMANN and CO.

ELEGANT TAPESTRY CRETONNE CURTAINS, in various choice designs, adapted for Drawing-Rooms, Dining-Rooms, Parlours, Bed-Rooms, &c., lined throughout with the new Cretonne Lining, and bound all round with best Silk Paris Lace, or Cretonne Binding, 3 yards long by 50 inches wide, 10s. 6d. per pair; ditto, 45 inches wide, 12s.; ditto, 2½ yards long by 45 inches wide, 12s. 6d. per pair. Also every description of materials used for Curtains. One of the largest and best Assortments in London to select from.
OETZMANN and CO.

POSTAL ORDER DEPARTMENT. OETZMANN and CO.—Orders sent per post, whether large or small, receive prompt and careful attention. Those residing at a distance, or any to whom a personal visit would be inconvenient, desirous of leaving the selection to the firm, may rely upon a faithful attention to their wishes and interest in the selection. This department is personally supervised by a member of the firm. For further particulars please see page 287 in Catalogue, sent post-free on application.

OETZMANN and CO., COMPLETE HOUSE FURNISHERS, 67, 69, 71, 73, 77 and 79, Hamsteadroad (three minutes' walk from Tottenham-court-road and Gower-street Station, Metropolitan Railway). Lowest prices consistent with guaranteed quality. Close at Seven, and on Saturdays at Four. Descriptive Catalogue post-free.

DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE, post-free.
OETZMANN & CO.,
HAMPSTEAD-ROAD.

MORTLOCK'S CHINA.
202, 203, 204, OXFORD-STREET;
30, 31, 32, ORCHARD-STREET, LONDON, W.
Messrs. Mortlock beg to state that although the exterior of their premises is not palatial the rooms are the largest and most convenient in London. They are thirty in number, and a day may be spent in examining the various productions. All goods are marked in plain figures with 15 per cent for cash on or before delivery. The public are respectfully solicited to walk through the rooms and compare the prices and character of the designs with any of the smaller or more recently established houses.
JOHN MORTLOCK and CO.,
Oxford-street and Orchard-street, W.

LADIES ABOUT TO TRAVEL should see the "OSBORNE" DRESS-CASE, very light and handsome, with capable bonnet compartments. Price 10s. 6d.—HARRON, Manufacturer, 261, High Holborn (five doors west from Inns of Court Hotel). Illustrated List free.

PIANO, £35 (Civil Service cash price). Trichord Drawing-Room Model, repetition action, grand, rich, full tone, in very handsome Italian walnut-wood case, with elaborately carved and fretwork front, and cabriole truss legs. The usual price charged for this instrument is 50 guineas. Drawing of this beautiful Piano sent post-free on application.
THOMAS OETZMANN and CO., 27, Baker-st., Portman-square.

BROADWOOD and COLLARD COTTAGE PIANOFORTES, fullest compass of Seven Octaves. Two beautiful instruments, of rich and full tone, in the choicest Italian walnut-wood, nearly new. To be SOLD at unusually low prices. May be seen at OETZMANN'S, 27, Baker-street.

TWENTY-POUND SCHOOL-ROOM PIANO (Co-operative price for cash). Seven octaves, strong, sound, and substantial. Adapted for hard practice. Packed free. Illustrated Book of Designs gratis and post-free in the
THOMAS OETZMANN and CO., 27, Baker-street, W.

EBONY and GOLD PIANOS, 25 guineas, 35 guineas, and 45 guineas.—These charming and elegant Pianos, with ormolu embellishments, repetition action, and every recent improvement, may now be obtained at the above low prices for cash, or on the Three-Years' System, at 1 guinea per month. The new Illustrated Catalogue gratis and post-free.
THOMAS OETZMANN and CO., 27, Baker-street, W.

"THE WORLD has been endowed with with one of the greatest blessings in the manufacture of Macniven and Cameron's excellent pens."—Reading Herald.
"They come as a boon and a blessing to men.
The Pickwick, the Owl, and the Waverley Pen."
"They are a treasure."—Standard.
Just out, the HINDOO PEN, Nos. 1, 2, 3.
Patentees: MACNIVEN and CAMERON, 23 to 33, Blair-street, Edinburgh (established 1770), Penmakers to her Majesty's Government Offices.
Sample Box, assorted of all the kinds, 1s. 1d. by post.
Just out, No. 2 WAVERLEY PEN, Large Size.

JOSEPH GILLOTT'S
STEEL PENS.
Sold by all Stationers throughout the World.

CAUTION.—BOND'S CRYSTAL PALACE GOLD MEDAL MARKING INK.—Some Chemists and Stationers, for extra profit, deceive you. Genuine Label, "Prepared by the Daughter of the late John Bond."—Works, 75, Southgate-road, London. No heating required.

JUDSON'S DYES.—6d. each, of Chemists. Curtains, Tablecovers, Mantles, Scarves, Jackets dyed in ten minutes in a pail of hot water.
Judson's Dyes—Crimson, Green, and Twenty-four Colours.

MOURNING ORDERS SENT AT ONCE UPON RECEIPT OF LETTER OR TELEGRAM.
A large Staff of very competent Dressmakers and ASSISTANTS are kept purposely to TRAVEL to all parts of the country—no matter the distance—
(free of any extra charge whatever to the Customer) with all assortment of Made-up Goods of the most fashionable and suitable description.
FOR A FAMILY MOURNING,
and also Mourning for Servants,
Orders, however large, can be completed at very short notice by the Dressmakers of the greatest proficiency.
(either French, German, or English).
Observe the only one Address—
PETER ROBINSON'S,
COURT AND GENERAL MOURNING WAREHOUSE,
256 to 262, REGENT-STREET, LONDON.
One of the most important Houses of its kind in England. Established as a Mourning Warehouse Thirty Years.

THE NEW CRAPE.
The Pure Silk Gordian Crape,
FOR WIDOWS AND FAMILIES.
Its advantages are—that it is made of Silk so pure that it will not crease when sat upon, nor spot with rain.
It is a richer black, free from dress and the gummed appearance so objectionable in other Crape. The wear of every yard is guaranteed.
THE GORDIAN CRAPE
is a Specialité, only to be obtained at
PETER ROBINSON'S, of REGENT-STREET.
The MOURNING WAREHOUSE, Nos. 256 to 262.
Excellent qualities at 4s. 9d., 5s. 6d., 7s. 6d., 9s. 6d. Patterns free.

AT PETER ROBINSON'S, of REGENT-STREET.
BLACK DRESS SATINS, all pure Silk, at 5s. 9d., 6s. 6d., 7s. 6d., 8s. 9d., and 10s. 9d., made by Messrs. Bonnets.
The DUCHESSE SATIN, at 12s. 9d. (26 inches wide), a magnificent quality, for richness and for durability cannot be surpassed.
BLACK SATINS, for Trimming purposes, at 2s. 9d., 2s. 11d., 3s. 6d., and 4s. 6d. per yard.

BLACK SILKS—Specially Cheap,
Manufactured by Messrs. Bonnet et Cie, at .. 5s. 6d.
Manufactured by Messrs. Tapissier et Cie, at .. 5s. 3d.
Manufactured by Messrs. Jaubert et Cie, at .. 4s. 6d.
Manufactured by Messrs. Bonnet et Cie, at .. 4s. 11d.
Also, BLACK SILKS, in very serviceable qualities, at 2s. 6d., 2s. 11½d., 3s. 6d., 4s. 6d., and 4s. 9d.
CHINA WASHING SILKS, 21s. the Piece of 20 yards.
PETER ROBINSON is a Wholesale as well as a Retail Dealer in Black Silks.
As he buys direct from the Manufacturer, all intermediate profits are saved.
Address only for Patterns as follows:—
PETER ROBINSON, 256 to 262, REGENT-STREET.
THE COURT AND GENERAL MOURNING WAREHOUSE.

AT PETER ROBINSON'S, of REGENT-STREET,
COSTUMES IN BLACK SILK, Exquisitely fashioned, at 4½, 5½, 7½, 9½, and 10½ guineas.
COSTUMES IN BLACK SATIN, the Purest and Richest Qualities, at 10½ guineas.
COSTUMES FOR YOUNG LADIES, in pretty Checked and Striped Silks, at 5½ guineas.
COSTUMES FOR DINNER AND EVENING DRESS, in Grenadine, trimmed Satin and Silk, a large variety, from 3½ to 7½ guineas.
COSTUMES IN BLACK BRUSSELS NET, at 29s. 6d.
COSTUMES IN BLACK GRENADINE, at 2 guineas.
COSTUMES IN WHITE MUSLIN FOR GARDEN PARTIES, at 25s. 6d. to 3½ guineas, with Material for Bodice.
COSTUMES IN WHITE CAMBRIC FOR MORNING DRESS at 15s. 6d. to 27s. 6d.
COSTUMES IN BLACK MATERIAL (New Summer Fabrics), at 2 guineas, and up to 7 guineas.
Observe—The only Address for the above is
PETER ROBINSON, of REGENT-STREET,
THE COURT AND GENERAL MOURNING WAREHOUSE.
Nos. 256 to 262.

FURS at SUMMER PRICES.
REAL RUSSIAN SEAL PALETOTS,
33 inches long .. .. 9½ guineas.
36 inches long .. .. 11½ guineas.
39 inches long .. .. 13 guineas.
New and Perfect Shapes,
and of the most enduring qualities.

NOTICE.—In reference to the above advertisements, it is important that letters should be clearly addressed to
256 to 262, REGENT-STREET.

THE LOUIS VELVETEEN.
The "Morning Post" of Aug. 15, 1878, says:—
Probably in no city in the world is all that pertains to dress and personal adornment submitted to a keener criticism than in Paris, which has long enjoyed the reputation of being the centre of fashion. One of the most recent examples of articles of attire of English manufacture satisfactorily passing such an ordeal is afforded by the favour with which the introduction of
THE LOUIS VELVETEEN
has been received in that city. This BEAUTIFUL FABRIC, which, in texture, appearance, and durability, bears the closest possible resemblance to the best Lyons Silk Velvet, has completely won the suffrages of the most severe PARISIAN critics, and deservedly so too. The Louis Velveteen, which is now universally sold, possesses several advantages over other Velveteens, amongst which may be specially mentioned that it neither changes colour, fades, crockles, nor spots with rain, one and all considerations of great importance. It is, moreover, dyed by a new process in the FASHIONABLE PERMANENT ORIENTAL BLUE-BLACK,
and made in various qualities and thicknesses suitable for either Millinery, Dressmaking, or Trimming purposes. With so many good points to recommend it, it is not surprising that the LOUIS VELVETEEN should have become very fashionable, a fact which has rendered it necessary to stamp it on the reverse side every seven yards with a Trade Mark representing a Griffin's Head, and the motto, "Nos aspera juvant."
THE LOUIS VELVETEEN IS NOT DEARER THAN INFERIOR DYES AND MAKES.
BE CAREFUL TO SEE THE VELVETEEN BEARS THIS TRADE MARK.
Agents for Wholesale only—
J. H. FULLER, 92, Watling-street, London;
WM. FIFE, 62, Dissot-street, Glasgow;
JOHN FREEMAN, 20, Nicklow-street, Dublin.

FOR ALL SEASONS AND ALL CLIMATES.
UNDER THE PATRONAGE OF THE
ENGLISH AND FOREIGN COURTS.
EGERTON BURNETT'S
WELLINGTON SERGES,
AND VARIOUS OTHER APPROVED WOOLLEN FABRICS.
EGERTON BURNETT has repeatedly had the honour of supplying "these admirable serges" to the ROYAL FAMILY, and executes Orders daily FROM ALL PARTS.
Neither rain nor salt water can affect their permanent dye. Prices from 1s. 2½d. to the finest at 4s. 6d. per yard. PATTERN-BOOKS sent free by post and carriage paid to Bristol or London on parcels over £2. GOODS PACKED FOR EXPORTATION.
A Special Strong Make for BOYS' and GENTLEMEN'S SUITS, 54 inches, from 3s. 6d. per yard.
EGERTON BURNETT,
SERGE WAREHOUSES,
WELLINGTON, SOMERSET.

IMPORTANT TO ALL,
ESPECIALLY TO CONSULS, SHIP CAPTAINS, EMIGRANTS, AND EUROPEANS GENERALLY, who are visiting or residing in HOT OR FOREIGN CLIMATES.
As a means of keeping the system clear, and thus taking away the ground work of Malarious Diseases and all Liver Complaints, or as a Health-giving, Refreshing, Cooling and Invigorating Beverage, or as a Gentle Laxative and Tonic in the various forms of Indigestion, use
ENO'S FRUIT SALT
(PREPARED FROM SOUND RIPE FRUIT).
THE TOPIC OF TO-DAY.
THE OCCUPATION OF CYPRUS.
INCREASE OF FEVER AT NICOSIA.

JEOPARDY OF LIFE.—GREAT DANGER OF DELAY.
After suffering from FEVER FOUR TIMES, in each attack with very great severity—in fact, three of them could not have been stronger—I contracted, from a very extensive and careful observation, extending over a period of forty years, I am perfectly satisfied the "true cause" of fever is a disordered condition of the liver. The office of the liver is to cleanse the blood as a scavenger might sweep the streets. When the liver is not working properly an accumulity of effete matter is left floating in the blood. Under these circumstances, should the poison germ of fever be absorbed then the disease results; on the contrary, anyone whose liver and other organs are in a normal condition may be subjected to precisely the same conditions as to contagious influences and yet escape the fever. This, I consider, explains the seeming mystery that some persons who are placed in circumstances peculiarly favourable for the development of fever, who, in fact, live in the very midst of it, escape unscathed. This being the case, the importance of KEEPING THE LIVER IN ORDER CANNOT BE OVER-ESTIMATED; and I have pleasure in directing attention to my FRUIT SALT, which, in the form of a pleasant beverage, will correct the action of the liver, and thus prevent the many DISASTROUS CONSEQUENCES; not only as an efficient means of WARDING OFF FEVERS and MALARIOUS DISEASES, but as a REMEDY FOR AND PREVENTIVE OF BILIOUSNESS or SICK HEADACHES, CONSTIPATION, VOMITING, THIRST, ERRORS of EATING and DRINKING, SKIN ERUPTIONS, GIDDINESS, HEARTBURN, &c. If its great value in keeping the body in health were UNIVERSALLY KNOWN, NO FAMILY WOULD BE WITHOUT A SUPPLY. In many forms of fever, or at the COMMENCEMENT of ANY FEVER, ENO'S FRUIT SALT ACTS as a SPECIFIC No one can have a simpler or more efficient remedy; by its use the POISON IS THROWN OFF and the BLOOD RESTORED TO ITS HEALTHY CONDITION. I used my FRUIT SALT freely in my last attack of fever, and I have every reason to say it saved my life.
J. C. ENO, Hatcham Fruit Salt Works, S.E.

WHAT EVERYBODY SHOULD KNOW.
HOW IMPORTANT IT IS to every individual to have at hand some simple, effective, and palatable remedy, such as ENO'S FRUIT SALT, to check disease at the onset! For this is the time. With very little trouble you can change the course of the trickling mountain stream, but not the rolling river. It will defy all your efforts. I feel I cannot sufficiently impress this important information upon all Householders or ship Captains, or Europeans generally who are visiting or residing in any hot or Foreign Climate. Whenever there is contemplated, unhealthy to disturb the condition of health, let ENO'S FRUIT SALT be your companion, for, under any circumstances, its use is beneficial and never can do harm. When you feel out of sorts, yet unable to say why, frequently without any warning you are suddenly seized with lassitude, disinclination for bodily or mental exertion, loss of appetite, sickness, pain in the forehead, dull aching of back and limbs, coldness of the surface, and shivering, &c., then your whole body is out of order, the spirit of danger has been kindled, but you do not know where it may end; it is a real necessity to have a simple remedy at hand, that will always answer the very best end, with a positive assurance of doing good in every case, and in no case any harm. The Pilot can steer and direct so as to bring the ship into safety, but he cannot quell the raging storm. The common idea when not feeling well is—I will wait and see; perhaps I shall be better to-morrow; whereas, had a supply of ENO'S FRUIT SALT been at hand, and use made of it at the onset, all calamitous results might have been avoided. What dashes to the earth so many hopes, breaks so many sweet alliances, blasts so many auspicious enterprises as untimely death? It is not exaggeration, but simple fact, when I state that my little pecuniary benefit I may derive from the sale of this preparation is absolutely nothing as compared with the immense benefit by those who use it.

ENO'S FRUIT SALT
is particularly valuable. No traveller should leave home without a supply, for by its use the most dangerous forms of Fever, Blood Poisoning, &c., are Prevented and Cured. It is, in truth, a Family Medicine Chest in the simplest yet most potent form. Instead of being lowering to the system, this preparation is in the highest degree invigorating. Its effect is powerful, whilst, giving tone to the system, and aiding digestion is most striking.

ENO'S FRUIT SALT (one of Nature's own products) keeps the blood pure, and is thus of itself one of the most valuable means of keeping the blood free from fevers, skin diseases, liver complaints, &c., ever discovered. As a means of preserving and restoring health it is unequalled; and it is, moreover, a pleasant, refreshing, and invigorating beverage. After a patient and careful consideration of its effects when used, I have no hesitation in stating that if its great value in keeping the body healthy were universally known, not a household in the land would be without it nor a single travelling trunk or portmanteau but would contain it.—J. C. Eno.

ENO'S FRUIT SALT.—IMPORTANT to ALL TRAVELLERS.
"Please send me half a dozen bottles of ENO'S FRUIT SALT. I have tried ENO'S FRUIT SALT in America, India, Egypt, and on the Continent for almost every kind of climate, and have decided it is the most satisfactory results. I can strongly recommend it to all travellers; in fact, I am never without it.—Yours, faithfully, AN ENGLISHMAN, F.R.G.S., M.R.A.S., &c., Executive Engineer, P.W.D., Government of India, June 26, 1878."

A BLESSING IN EVERY HOUSE.
ENO'S FRUIT SALT.
A Lady writes:—"Everything, medicine or food, ceased to act properly for at least three months before I commenced taking it. The little food I could take caused me much pain and distress. My life was one of great suffering, so that I must have succumbed before long. Now no one in our family it has been a great earthly blessing."

HOW TO AVOID THE INJURIOUS EFFECTS OF STIMULANTS.—The present system of living—partaking of too rich foods, as pastry, saccharine and fatty substances, alcoholic drinks, and an insufficient exercise of the exercise—frequently deranges the liver. I would advise all bilious people, unless they are careful to keep the liver acting freely, to exercise great care in the use of alcoholic drinks, avoid sugar, and always dilute largely with water. Experience shows that porter, mild ales, port wine, dark sherries, sweet champagnes, liqueurs, and brandies are all very apt to disagree; while light white wines, and gin or whisky largely diluted with soda-water, will be found the least objectionable. ENO'S FRUIT SALT is peculiarly adapted for any constitutional weakness of the liver; it possesses the power of reparation when digestion has been disturbed or lost, and places the invalid on the right track to health. A world of woes is avoided by those who keep and use ENO'S FRUIT SALT; therefore no family should ever be without it.

CAUTION.—Examine each Bottle and see the Capsule is marked "ENO'S FRUIT SALT." Without it you have been imposed on by a worthless imitation. SOLD BY ALL CHEMISTS. Price 2s. 6d. and 4s. 6d.
FRUIT SALT WORKS, HATCHAM, LONDON, S.E.

WILLS' "There is no sweeter Tobacco comes from Virginia, and no better brand than the 'THREE CASTLES.'"—Vide "The Virginians."
"THREE CASTLES."
Sold only in Packets and Cigarettes, protected by the Name and Trade-Mark of W. D. and H. O. WILLS, Bristol and London.

PALOMINO. A Pure Spanish SHERRY of dry character, produced from the finest grape in the Xeres district. Recommended with complete confidence. 30s. per dozen, railway carriage paid. Sole Importers, HENRY BRETT and CO., 26 and 27, High Holborn, W.C. Established 1820.

ORANGE CHAMPAGNE is a light, pleasant drink, made simply from Oranges. It is effervescent, but entirely free from spirit, and perfectly wholesome. Price 7s. per Dozen. Quarts; 4s., Pints. Bottles 2s. and Cases 1s. per Dozen until returned. Made only by CHAS. CODD and CO., 79, Copenhagen-street, London, N.

KINAHAN'S LL WHISKY.
THE CREAM OF OLD IRISH WHISKIES.
Pure, mild, mellow, delicious, and most wholesome. Universally recommended by the medical profession. Dr. Hassall says:—"The whisky is soft, mellow, and pure, well-matured, and of very excellent quality."—20, Great Titchfield-street, W.

ELLIS'S RUTHIN WATERS.
ELLIS'S PURE AERATED RUTHIN WATERS.
ELLIS'S RUTHIN SPRINGS. "Absolutely Pure."—See analyses, sent free on application.
ELLIS'S RUTHIN WATERS.—Soda, Potass, Seltzer, Lemonade, and also Water without Alkali.
ELLIS'S RUTHIN WATERS.—For Gout, Lithia Water, and Lithia and Potass Water.
ELLIS'S RUTHIN WATERS.—Crystal Springs. Corks branded "R. Ellis and Son, Ruthin." Every label bears Trade Mark
ELLIS'S RUTHIN WATERS.—Sold everywhere. Wholesale, R. Ellis and Son, Ruthin, North Wales. London Agents, W. BEST and SONS, Henrietta-street, Cavendish-square.

CHOCOLAT MENIER, in ½lb. and ¼lb. Packets.
For BREAKFAST and SUPPER.

CHOCOLAT MENIER.—Awarded Twenty-Three PRIZE MEDALS.
Consumption annually exceeds 17,000,000 lbs.

CHOCOLAT MENIER. Paris, London, New York.
Sold Everywhere.

AMERICAN CENTENNIAL PRIZE MEDAL.
FRY'S CARACAS COCOA.
Its pure flavour, delicate aroma, and invigorating qualities have established its position as a first-class dietetic article.

FRY'S CARACAS COCOA.
"The Caracas Cocoa of such choice quality."—Food, Water, and Air (Dr. Hassall).
"A most delicious and valuable article."—Standard.

FRY'S EXTRACT OF COCOA,
"than which, if properly prepared, there is no nicer or more wholesome preparation of Cocoa."—Food, Water, and Air. Edited by Dr. Hassall.
TENTH INTERNATIONAL MEDAL awarded to J. S. FRY and SON.

SCHWEITZER'S COCOATINA.
Anti-Dyspeptic Cocoa or Chocolate Powder.
Guaranteed Pure Soluble Cocoa, with excess of Fat extracted. Four times the strength of Cocoas Thickened yet Weakened with Arrowroot, Starch, &c.
The faculty pronounce it the most nutritious, perfectly digestive Beverage for "BREAKFAST, LUNCHEON, or SUPPER." Keeps in all Climates. Requires no Cooking. A teaspoonful to breakfast Cup, costing less than a halfpenny. Samples gratis. In Air-Tight Tins, at 1s. 6d., 3s., &c., by Chemists and Grocers. H. SCHWEITZER and CO., 10, Adam-street, London, W.C.

LIEBIG COMPANY'S EXTRACT OF MEAT.
FINEST MEAT-FLAVOURING STOCK FOR SOUPS, MADE DISHES, AND SAUCES.

LIEBIG COMPANY'S EXTRACT OF MEAT.
CAUTION.—Genuine only with the facsimile of Baron Liebig's signature in Blue Ink across label.

LIEBIG COMPANY'S EXTRACT OF MEAT.
SAVORY & MOORE, 143, New Bond-street, Prepare

THE BEST FOOD for INFANTS.
Supplied to the Royal Families Of England and Russia.
To be had of Chemists, &c., everywhere.

THE BEST FOOD for INFANTS.
The most digestible; contains the Highest Amount of Nourishment, In the most convenient form.

THE BEST FOOD for INFANTS.
Malted on Liebig's principle, is Sweet and Wholesome in itself. Entirely free from Bedrotot Sugar.

SAVORY and MOORE, 143, NEW BOND-STREET, LONDON; and Sold by Chemists, &c., everywhere.

DR. RIDGE'S FOOD
Gives Health, Strength, Comfort, and Quiet Nights to Mothers, Nurses, Infants, and Invalids.
Sold by all Chemists and Grocers.

CORPULENCE.—YATE HOLLAND'S EMACERATING POWDERS (or Pills) speedily and safely absorb superfluous fat and reduce corpulency, however long standing. Price 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. per Box.—MARTIN and CO., 3, Paradise-road, London, S.W.; or through any Chemist.

"FOR THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE."
CLARKE'S WORLD-FAMED BLOOD MIXTURE is warranted to cleanse the Blood from all impurities, from whatever cause arising. For Scrofula, Scurvy, Skin and Blood Diseases its effects are marvellous. In Bottles, 2s. 9d. each, and in Cases containing six times the quantity, 11s. each, of all Chemists. Sent to any address for 30 or 132 stamps, of the Proprietor, F. J. CLARKE, Chemist, Lincoln.

ELECTRICITY IS LIFE.
PULVERMACHER'S "GALVANISM, NATURE'S CHIEF RESTORER OF EXHAUSTED VITAL ENERGY."
In this Pamphlet the most reliable proofs are given of the vast and wonderful curative powers of Pulvermacher's Patent Galvanic Chain-Bands, Belts, &c., in Rheumatism, Nervousness, and Functional Disorders. Post-free for three stamps, on application to
J. L. PULVERMACHER'S GALVANIC ESTABLISHMENT, 194, REGENT-STREET, LONDON, W.; AND 33, RUE ST. MARC, PARIS.

TO PERSONS AFFLICTED WITH RUPTURE.—PRATT'S WATER-PAD TRUSSES are the most effectual Cure.—Apply to J. F. Pratt, Surgical Mechanician to St. Bartholomew's Hospital, 420, Oxford-street, London.

MR. STREETER,
18 NEW BOND-STREET, W.
GOLDSMITH AND JEWELLER.
The only Jeweller in England whose Stock consists of one uniform standard quality—viz., 18 carats.
LONDON-MADE JEWELLERY of Exquisite Design and Workmanship.
DIAMOND ORNAMENTS
in great variety, at prices relative to their intrinsic value.
SPECIALITIES IN BRIDESMAIDS' LOCKETS, WEDDING PRESENTS, &c.
THE "TALISMAN" BRACELET
(Patented), a Novelty for the Season, from £5.

LONDON: Printed and Published at the Office, 198, Strand, in the Parish of St. Clement Danes, in the County of Middlesex, by GEORGE C. LEIGHTON, 198, Strand, aforesaid.—SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 7, 1878.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS

REGISTERED AT THE GENERAL POST-OFFICE FOR TRANSMISSION ABROAD.

No. 2046.—VOL. LXXIII. SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 14, 1878. WITH TWO SUPPLEMENTS SIXPENCE. By Post, 6½d.

THE GREAT DISASTER ON THE THAMES: BRINGING THE DEAD ON SHORE AT WOOLWICH PIER.

BIRTHS.

On the 9th inst., at Thickhollins Hall, Yorkshire, the wife of Edward Hildred Carlile, of a daughter.

On the 10th inst., at 51, Bedford-square, the wife of Borlase Hill Adams, Esq., of a daughter.

On the 4th inst., at Highgate, the wife of the Hon. Mr. Justice Fry, of a daughter.

On the 9th inst., at Holkham, the Countess of Leicester, of a daughter.

On the 10th inst., at 8, Hereford-gardens, Lady Gilford, of a son.

MARRIAGES.

On the 10th inst., at St. Nicholas' Church, Blundellsands, by the Rev. B. S. Darbyshire, M.A., Incumbent, John Bromfield Williams, of Gateshead, Grassendale, Liverpool, to Tamzen, eldest daughter of the late Samuel Barr, of Liverpool.

On the 3rd inst., at St. Margaret's Church, Mountain Ash, the Rev. J. W. Wynne Jones, Vicar of Aberdare, and son of the Ven. the Archdeacon of Bangor, to the Hon. Jessie F. Bruce, daughter of Lord Aberdare.

On the 5th inst., at St. George's Church, Hanover-square, Major Henry C. Dugdale, Rifle Brigade, of Bordesley Park, Worcestershire, to Edith Cicilia, second daughter of Mr. and Lady Charlotte Montgomery, of Grey Abbey.

DEATHS.

On the 7th inst., Mary, wife of John Molesworth, of Town House, Littleborough, Lancashire, aged 51.

On the 1st inst., at The Firs, Esher, John William Brotherton, late 11th Hussars, only son of General Sir Thomas W. Brotherton, G.C.B., aged 57.

On the 3rd inst., at Agra, N.W.P., Charles Currie, B.C.S., fourth son of the late Sir Frederick Currie, Bart., aged 49.

On the 8th ult., at King William's Town, Cape of Good Hope, Alice Owen, wife of George B. Christian, and daughter of the late John Owen Smith.

 The charge for the insertion of Births, Marriages, or Deaths is Five Shillings for each announcement.

CALENDAR FOR THE WEEK ENDING SEPT. 21.

SUNDAY, SEPT. 15.

Thirteenth Sunday after Trinity. Morning Lessons: 2 Kings v.; 2 Cor. vii. 2. Evening Lessons: 2 Kings vi to 24 or viii.; Mark xii. 35 to xiii. 14. St. Paul's Cathedral, 10.30 a.m., Rev. Prebendary Evans; 3.15 p.m., the Bishop of Barbadoes; 7 p.m., Rev. J. J. Hannah, Vicar of St. Nicholas, Brighton. Westminster Abbey, 10 a.m. Rev. Edwin Price; 3 p.m., Rev. Canon Duckworth. St. James's, noon, Rev. Stopford Brooke. Whitehall, 11 a.m. and 3 p.m., Rev. William Hulton. Savoy, 11.30 a.m., Rev. W. M. Sinclair, Chaplain to the Bishop of London; 7 p.m., Rev. Joseph Wallis, Vicar of St. Andrew's, Stockwell.

MONDAY, SEPT. 16.

Bicester and Exmouth Athletic Sports. Iron and Steel Institute, meeting at Paris (three days): introductory address by Dr. C. William Siemens, president.

TUESDAY, SEPT. 17.

Horticultural Society, fruit and floral committees, 11 a.m.; scientific, 1 p.m.; general meeting, 3 p.m. Humane Society, committee, 4 p.m. Lichfield Races.

WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 18.

Accession of Oscar II., King of Sweden, 1872. Long Sutton Agricultural Society Annual Show. Staffordshire Agricultural Society Show, Leek (two days). Worcester Poultry and Pigeon Show (two days).

THURSDAY, SEPT. 19.

Moon's last quarter, 6.30 p.m. Farnworth Agricultural Society Show (near Warrington). Barnard Castle Cattle, Horse, and Sheep Show. Races: Hampton, Manchester.

FRIDAY, SEPT. 20.

Thames Yacht Club. Alexandra Park Races.

SATURDAY, SEPT. 21.

St. Matthew, evangelist and apostle. Prince Ernest Augustus of Hanover, Duke of Cumberland, born, 1845. Yachting: Thames Sailing Club, Junior Thames Yacht Club.

THE WEATHER.

RESULTS OF METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS AT THE KEW OBSERVATORY OF THE ROYAL SOCIETY.

Lat. 51° 28′ 6″ N.; Long. 0° 19′ 47″ W.; Height above Sea, 34 feet.

DAY.	DAILY MEANS OF Barometer Corrected	Temperature of the Air.	Dew Point.	Relative Humidity.	Amount of Cloud.	THERMOM. Maximum, read at 10 P.M.	Minimum, read at 10 P.M.	WIND. General Direction.	Movement in miles at 10 A.M. next morning.	Rain in 24 hours, read at 10 A.M. next morning.
	Inches.	°	°	°	0-10	°	°		Miles.	In.
September 4	30·076	61·5	55·1	·80	7	71·1	50·3	SW. E.	199	0·010
5	29·963	63·9	61·2	·92	8	71·5	58·9	E. SSW.	85	0·000
6	30·089	61·1	56·5	·86	6	71·8	56·3	SSW. WSW. W.	114	0·000
7	30·093	61·6	56·7	·85	7	71·5	49·9	W. SW. WSW.	59	0·000
8	29·934	60·6	56·8	·88	—	67·6	55·9	WSW. NW. NNW.	67	0·235
9	30·032	60·5	54·9	·82	10	68·9	53·6	NNW. W.	121	0·000
10	30·195	58·1	50·6*	·77	4	67·5	50·9	NW. N. NNE.	101	0·010*

* Dew.

The following are the readings of the meteorological instruments for the above days, in order, at ten o'clock a.m.:—

Barometer (in inches) corrected	30·134	29·961	30·098	30·118	30·000	30·023	30·199
Temperature of Air	64·6°	65·7°	69·4°	64·9°	61·7°	61·9°	59·8°
Temperature of Evaporation	61·4°	63·7°	58·3°	60·3°	60·1°	58·8°	54·8°
Direction of Wind	sw.	E.	WSW.	SW.	WSW.	WSW.	NW.

TIMES OF HIGH WATER AT LONDON BRIDGE FOR THE WEEK ENDING SEPTEMBER 21.

Sunday.		Monday.		Tuesday.		Wednesday.		Thursday.		Friday.		Saturday.
M	A	M	A	M	A	M	A	M	A	M	A	M	A
h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m
3 45	4 0	4 15	4 30	4 45	5	5 13	5 30	5 50	6 13	6 38	7 10	7 45	8 3

ST. JAMES'S HALL, PICCADILLY.
INAUGURATION OF THE FOURTEENTH YEAR OF THE
MOORE and BURGESS MINSTRELS
UNINTERRUPTED SEASON AT THE ST. JAMES'S HALL,
WEDNESDAY NEXT, SEPT. 18.
IMPORTANT CHANGES. ENTIRELY NEW AND MOST EXCELLENT PROGRAMME.
Tickets and places for the opening night of the Fourteenth Year can be obtained at Austin's Office, St. James's Hall, Daily, from Nine a.m. till Six p.m. No charge for booking.

OPENING NIGHT OF THE FOURTEENTH CONSECUTIVE YEAR of the MOORE and BURGESS MINSTRELS' SEASON at the
ST. JAMES'S HALL, PICCADILLY.
WEDNESDAY NEXT, SEPT. 18.
New and Special Attractions for the Inaugural Night.
Places can be secured at Austin's Office, St. James's Hall, without extra charge.

THE MOORE and BURGESS MINSTRELS will give their SIX THOUSAND FOUR HUNDRED AND FORTY-FIFTH CONSECUTIVE ENTERTAINMENT AT THE ST. JAMES'S HALL,
WEDNESDAY NEXT, SEPTEMBER 18.

THE LONGEST AND THE MOST EXTRAORDINARILY SUCCESSFUL SEASON UPON RECORD has been attained by the MOORE and BURGESS MINSTRELS, at the ST. JAMES'S HALL.
Despite the exceptionally lengthened runs which have been obtained for one or two successful dramatic entertainments in London within the past few years, all must pale before the MARVELLOUS ACHIEVEMENT gained by the management of the world-famed company of artistes, who have given no less than SIX THOUSAND FOUR HUNDRED AND FORTY-FIVE CONSECUTIVE PERFORMANCES without the break of a lawful night.

THE ILLUSTRATED
PARIS UNIVERSAL EXHIBITION.

An English Edition of
L'EXPOSITION UNIVERSELLE DE 1878 ILLUSTRÉE,
in continuation of the Illustrated Journal issued in 1867 under the authority of the Imperial Commission, is issued every Tuesday,
PRICE THREEPENCE.
PUBLISHED AT THE OFFICE OF
THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS,
198, STRAND, LONDON.
All Country Orders to be supplied through the London Agents.

DORÉ'S GREAT WORK, "THE BRAZEN SERPENT," "CHRIST LEAVING THE PRÆTORIUM," and "CHRIST ENTERING THE TEMPLE," each 33 ft. by 22 ft.; with "Dream of Pilate's Wife," "Soldiers of the Cross," &c., at the DORÉ GALLERY, 35, New Bond-street, W. Daily, 10 to 6. 1s.

ELIJAH WALTON.—EXHIBITION of ISLE OF WIGHT and other WATER-COLOUR DRAWINGS, chiefly Alpine and Eastern, NOW OPEN at BURLINGTON GALLERY, 191, Piccadilly. Ten till SIX. Admission, including Catalogue, 1s.

CRYSTAL PALACE PICTURE-GALLERY.
The GALLERY is now REOPENED for the Season with a NEW COLLECTION of BRITISH and FOREIGN PICTURES for SALE.—For Particulars, apply to Mr. C. W. Wass, Crystal Palace.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

LONDON: SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 14, 1878.

On Monday last the newly-elected German Parliament was opened at Berlin, in the White Hall of the Royal Palace. The Speech from the Throne was read by Count Stolberg to about one hundred and fifty members, who cheered with enthusiasm, at both the beginning and the end of the ceremony, the name of the Emperor. There is no lack of the sentiment of loyalty in the Federation. To pay something approaching to reverential homage to his Imperial Majesty is a welcome task to the immense majority of his subjects. In political affairs, however, and especially in those comprising their domestic interests, Germans are governed, and they know it, by the Chancellor of the Empire, Prince Bismarck. The same allegiance is not felt to be due to him, nor is it paid. The Speech from the Throne was an embodiment of his internal policy, revealing his ideas, declaring his purpose, and making demands, not, indeed, in his own name, but under cover of that of his Imperial Master; the chief, we may almost say the exclusive, object of the Emperor's speech was to enforce upon the Parliament a policy of repression, substantially identical with that for the rejection of which the last Parliament was dissolved. The Constituent Bodies, however, declined at the General Election to endorse the proposals repudiated by their representatives, and it remains a question whether, without allying with himself the Ultramontane Party, to which, on that supposition, he would be compelled to make very serious concessions, Prince Bismarck will be able to carry through his legislative designs.

In the Speech from the Throne the attempted assassinations of the Emperor are placed in the fore front. This is natural enough, and cannot, perhaps, be fairly described as a logical, or even a rhetorical, artifice. But the fact, no doubt, greatly aided Prince Bismarck's purpose. In presence of the double attempt to take the life of the Emperor, so nearly successful in the last instance, and of the political inconveniences to which it had given rise, there was an obvious opening for rallying the personal loyalty of the members present, in support of that policy of Administrative repression which the preceding Parliament had refused to sanction. Nor was the opportunity missed. "The Federal Governments," it is urged in the Imperial Speech, "are of opinion now, as in the past, that extraordinary measures are required to prevent a further extension of the already widespread evil, and pave the way for its gradual extinction." The "widespread evil" referred to is "the prevalence, not to say increase, of Socialistic doctrines, the pernicious agitation of which threatens the foundations of the life of the State and all culture." The Government presided over by the Chancellor is not to be diverted from its purpose by what occurred before the dissolution of Parliament, nor by what happened since. It still adheres to its first anti-Socialist Bill, and with little modification it intends, if possible, to push that Bill through the Reichstag. This constitutes the sum and substance of the Speech from the Throne. The will of Prince Bismarck, concentrated into a brief succession of vivid phrases, and expressive of a "no-surrender" policy on the part of the Chancellor, intimates to Germany and to Europe his determination to put his foot upon Socialism in every part of the Empire, and to claim for this purpose, and doubtless (if he gets them) to use with his accustomed vigour, powers so despotic that, save in case of the last necessity, no ruler over an intelligent people ought to be allowed to possess. In fact, Prince Bismarck seems intent to employ the whole machinery of the State in trampling under foot, and thereby checking and ultimately extinguishing, all agitation in Germany of what is commonly regarded as a pestilent anti-social theory.

The Chancellor's enterprise does not bear upon its surface, at least to any enlightened student of history, a promise of success. Whence has arisen this Socialism which plagues most of the Continental States? The sentiment, or doctrine, or theory, is not one that would spontaneously commend itself to human reason. It smacks rather of desperation than of benevolent aspiration. It resembles an ignis fatuus over a pool of corruption. It is the protest of man against the tyranny which outlies his patience. It is a foul weed which grows only in soils specially favourable to its nurture. One would think that the readiest way to get rid of it would be, not to pull up "the tares with the wheat," but to ascertain and counteract the causes which give life to them. Here, in Great Britain, for example, the doctrine of Socialism does not take root. It need not be repressed by law; it is sufficiently repressed by opinion. Persecution, or prosecution, might infuse into it an unnatural vitality. Let alone, it very soon dies away. But, then, in the British Empire there is not the same overwhelming pressure of military and administrative machinery as there is in Germany, and it is a problem asking to be patiently worked out how far Socialism on the Continent results from the immense armaments, which burden and tend to paralyse individual energy among the people.

It ought not at this time of day to be a matter of political speculation whether ideas can be effectually put down by force. The worst of theories will be comparatively popularised by repressive legislation. You may cut off all known means of intercommunication between mind and mind; but there will always remain unknown facilities, or, at all events, invisible and intangible, by which sentiment may diffuse itself amongst men. There is only one instrument by which opinion can be regulated, and that instrument is counter-opinion. Look, for example, at the present state of France. The Duc de Broglie and the Bonapartists together, who undertook to initiate "moral order" by political authority, have only succeeded in spreading everywhere, or confirming where they previously existed, Republican principles. In this country, we have gone through a sufficiently long and significant experience to convince most of us that the repression of even the worst order of ideas by the application of law is utterly impracticable. Not only does it not secure the end at which it aims, but, even if it could secure it, the process would be too costly to admit of its being resorted to. If repression of mischievous opinions could be fully effected by forcible means it would destroy much of the manliness of the nation subjected to the experiment. Over government always deteriorates the moral tone of the peoples to whom it is applied. Prince Bismarck, we fear, is entering upon a crusade which will far more than task his strength, however irresistible he may seem to feel it. It does not follow that because his foreign policy—a policy which he himself described as one "of iron and blood"—has hitherto been successful that the domestic affairs of the Empire can be managed upon the same principle. He will soon have enough upon his hands to test his will and his sagacity to the very utmost; for, after all, he needs to be taught that the fixed laws of human nature cannot be set aside—permanently, at any rate—by the most relentless determination which passionate authority can bring to bear upon them.

THE COURT.

The Queen, accompanied by Princess Beatrice, on Saturday last went to Craig Daighu, on which a cairn has been erected to commemorate the recent purchase by her Majesty of the Ballochbuie Forest. Prince Leopold drove to the Linn of Dee with Sir William Jenner and the Hon. Alexander Yorke. The Rev. Dr. Donald M'Leod dined with the Queen.

Her Majesty, Princess Beatrice, and Prince Leopold attended Divine service on Sunday, performed by the Rev. Dr. M'Leod. Dr. M'Leod dined with the Royal family.

Princess Louise of Lorne and the Marquis of Lorne arrived at Balmoral on Tuesday.

The Queen, accompanied by the members of the Royal family, has walked and driven out daily, and visited Castletown, Loch Callater, and other places around the neighbourhood. Her Majesty has also paid a visit to Mrs. Campbell, at the Manse.

Prince Christian Victor has lunched with the Queen, and Mr. John Athole Farquharson has dined with her Majesty. The Right Hon. R. A. Cross has generally joined the Royal dinner circle.

THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES.

The Prince of Wales was present at the funeral of Mr. George Payne at Kensal-green Cemetery yesterday week. The Grand Duke and Grand Duchess of Hesse, accompanied by Princesses Victoria and Ella, visited the Prince and Princess of Wales and the King and Queen of Denmark at Marlborough House, and remained to luncheon. The Prince, accompanied by the King of Denmark and Prince William of Glücksburg, took leave of their Royal Highnesses at Charing-cross station on their departure from England. The Prince and Princess, with Princes Albert Victor and George, accompanied by the King and Queen of Denmark, went to the Princess's Theatre in the evening. Prince Albert Victor and Prince George of Wales left Marlborough House on Saturday last for Dartmouth, to resume their studies on board her Majesty's ship Britannia. The Grand Duchess of Mecklenburg-Strelitz, Princess Louise, and the Marquis of Lorne visited the Prince and Princess and the King and Queen of Denmark at Marlborough House. The Prince and Princess, accompanied by their Majesties and Princess Thyra of Denmark, went to the Haymarket Theatre in the evening. The Prince left Marlborough House on Monday, on a visit to Mr. Christopher Sykes, at Brantingham Thorpe, Brough, during the Doncaster races. The Princess, with Princesses Louise Victoria and Maud of Wales, left en route for Rumpenheim. The Prince and Princess have consented to open the new buildings of the Hunstanton Convalescent Home, just erected as a memorial of gratitude for the restoration to health of his Royal Highness.

Colonel Teesdale has succeeded Captain Stephenson as Equerry in Waiting to the Prince.

DEPARTURE OF THE KING AND QUEEN OF DENMARK.

The King and Queen of Denmark, with Princess Thyra and Prince William of Glücksburg, accompanied by the Princess of Wales and her daughters, left Marlborough House on Monday for Rumpenheim, the residence of the Landgrave of Hesse, en route for Copenhagen. Their Majesties were received at Charing-cross station by Colonel Byng, attending on behalf of the Queen; the Danish Minister, and Major-General Sir Dighton Probyn. The special train was under the control of Mr. John Shaw, and proceeded to the Admiralty Pier, Dover, whence the Royal party embarked on board the special boat, Maid of Kent, Captain Dane, and crossed to Calais, travelling thence by the Northern Railway to Brussels, where they arrived at half-past six on Tuesday morning, and were received by the King and Queen of the Belgians at the station. The Royal travellers left in the evening for Cologne, and passed the night at the Hôtel du Nord, proceeding on Wednesday, viâ Frankfort, to Rumpenheim.

DEPARTURE OF THE GRAND DUKE AND GRAND DUCHESS OF HESSE.

The Grand Duke and Grand Duchess, the Hereditary Grand Duke, and the Princesses of Hesse left Buckingham Palace yesterday week for Antwerp. Their Royal Highnesses, attended by Colonel Du Plat, left the Charing-cross station of the South-Eastern Railway by special train, and embarked at Gravesend on board her Majesty's yacht Victoria and Albert, Captain F. T. Thomson, R.N. Earl Sydney, Lord Lieutenant of Kent, was present at their embarkation.

Princess Louise of Lorne and the Marquis of Lorne arrived at Queenborough on Saturday last, in the steam-ship Princess Marie, from Flushing. They travelled by the London, Chatham, and Dover Railway to London, and proceeded to Kensington Palace. The Princess and the Marquis passed three days last week on a visit to the Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh at Coburg. During their stay they went, with the Duke of Edinburgh, to the Opera at Coburg. The Princess and the Marquis paid visits to their various Royal relatives in town, and left on Monday evening by the Midland Railway for Scotland on a visit to the Queen previous to their departure for Canada.

The Duke of Connaught and Prince Leopold have been constituted honorary members of the Grand Lodge of Scotland, on the nomination of the Grand Master Mason, Sir Michael R. Shaw Stewart, Bart.

The Duke of Cambridge has left Kissingen for Basle, travelling through Switzerland to Paris on his return to town.

The Duke and Duchess of Teck have arrived at Rumpenheim.

Prince and Princess Lynar have left town for Spa.

Prince Doria de Pamphili has arrived at the Bristol Hotel from Norway.

Prince and Princess Rospigliosi have left Claridge's Hotel for Paris.

The Duke of Rutland has arrived at Longshaw Lodge, Derbyshire, from Cowes.

FASHIONABLE MARRIAGES.

Sir Francis Stapleton, Bart., of Grey's Court, Oxfordshire, was married to Miss May Gladstone, youngest daughter of the late Mr. Adam Steuart Gladstone, on the 5th inst., at St. Mary's Church, Shortlands, Kent. The marriage ceremony was performed by the Rev. H. Stapleton, M.A., Rector of Mereworth, brother of the bridegroom, assisted by the Rev. J. Walker, M.A., Rector of Averham-cum-Kelham, uncle of the bride. The bride, who was given away by her brother, Mr. Henry Gladstone, was dressed in white satin duchesse, trimmed with d'Alençon orange-blossom and white heather, with ruffles of the same lace. Her ornaments were diamonds. Her bridesmaids were the Misses Annie, Helen, and Fanny Gladstone, Miss Richmond Jones, and Miss Maud Walker (cousins of the bride), the Hon. Miss Boscawen, Miss Stapleton, Miss Nellie Lennard, and Miss Drummond. They were attired in pale blue cashmere princesse dresses, slashed with moss-coloured satin, the dresses being artistically embroidered with pale yellow china asters by the ladies of the Decorative Work Society of George-street, Portman-square; beefeater hats of moss-coloured satin, and pale blue feathers. Each wore a silver serpent bracelet, the gift of the bridegroom. Lieutenant-Colonel Frederick Palmer, Scots Guards, was Sir Francis's best man. After breakfast at Langley Farm, Beckenham, Sir Francis and his bride left for Dover, on their way to Paris for their wedding tour.

The marriage of Major Henry Charles G. Dugdale, Rifle Brigade, of Bordesley Park, Worcester, fourth son of the late Mr. William Stratford Dugdale, of Merevale Hall and Blyth Hall, in the county of Warwick, and Miss Edith Montgomery, second daughter of Mr. Hugh and Lady Charlotte Montgomery, of Grey Abbey, in the county of Down, was celebrated at St. George's Church, Hanover-square, on the 5th inst. The bridesmaids were Miss Montgomery and Miss Evelyn Montgomery, Miss Florentia Herbert, Miss Bertha Turner, Miss Hussey, and Miss Peel. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a dress of cream-white satin, trimmed with Brussels lace and orange-blossoms, and a wreath of orange-blossoms and lace veil. Her jewels were diamond earrings and pearl necklace. The bridesmaids' dresses were of pink cashmere, trimmed with pink satin and cream lace, pink hat, trimmed with cream lace, cream feathers and flowers. Major W. H. Deedes, Rifle Brigade, was the best man. The ceremony was performed by the Hon. and Very Rev. George Herbert Dean of Hereford, uncle, and the Hon. and Rev. Algernon Parker, Rector of Bix, cousin of the bride. The relatives and and friends met to breakfast at the Earl Powis's (the bride's uncle) residence in Berkeley-square. The newly-married couple left town for Sherborne Castle, Mr. Wingfield Digby's seat in Dorsetshire, to spend the honeymoon.

Mr. Frederick Gustavus Fowke, eldest son of Sir F. T. Fowke, Bart., of Lowesby Hall, Leicestershire, was married on Saturday last to Cecilia Eva, a daughter of Mr. E. N. Conant, of Lyndon Hall, Rutlandshire, in the parish church of Lyndon. The Rev. H. Berners Upsher, Rector of Dingley, officiated, assisted by the Rev. F. Orme, M.A., Rector of Lyndon. The bride wore a white satin dress with cuirasse bodice and slashed sleeves, trimmed with Brussels lace and orange-flowers, a wreath of orange-flowers and tulle veil, and in her hair a diamond, the gift of Lady Fowke. She also wore a pendant of diamonds, the gift of her father. The bridesmaids—her six sisters and the two Misses Fowke—were attired in cream-coloured cashmere dresses, with puffed sleeves and ruffs of lace ornamented with old gold brocades.

The marriage of Earl Beauchamp and Lady Emily Pierrepont will take place at Thoresby Park, Notts, on Tuesday, the 24th inst.

Marriages are arranged between Lord Lyttelton and the Hon. Mary Susan Cavendish, second daughter of Lord and Lady Chesham; and between Mr. Frederic Molyneux Montgomerie and Miss Isabella Lindsay, eldest daughter of the Hon. Colin and Lady Frances Lindsay.

THE CHURCH.

PREFERMENTS AND APPOINTMENTS.

Atkinson, Arthur H.; to the Sole Charge of Spernall, Warwickshire.
Blomfield, Canon, Vicar of Barking; Archdeacon of Essex.
Byrde, Charles Edward; Curate of Shirenewton.
Corbett, W. A.; Clerical Deputation Secretary to the Church of England Sunday-School Institute.
Falconer, D. R.; Honorary Canon of Durham Cathedral.
Hodgson, Henry Wade; Rural Dean of Watford.
Johnson, John; Vicar of Rudby, near Yarm, Yorkshire.
Jones, Joseph Frederick; Rector of Tintern Parva, Monmouthshire.
MacGregor, William; Vicar of Tamworth.
Pollock, William James; Curate of St. Paul's, Newport.
Rogers, Percy; Honorary Canon of Durham Cathedral.
Ridgeway, F. E.; Incumbent of St. Mary's Episcopal Church, Glasgow.
Robins, Arthur; Honorary Chaplain to her Majesty.
Stanton, J. John; Rector of North and Vicar of South Barrow, Somerset.
Schofield, J.; Vicar of Westgate, near Stanhope.—Guardian.

The Countess of Ellesmere opened on Saturday last a new school in connection with the new Church of St. John the Baptist, Little Hulton.

Mr. Hardcastle, M.P., opened a bazaar at Farnworth-with-Kersley on Wednesday in aid of the building fund of St. Thomas's Church, Dixon-green, now in course of completion.

The executive committee of the memorial to Lord Lyttelton have, with the concurrence of the Dean and Chapter of Worcester Cathedral, decided to change the site from the nave of the cathedral to the open space in the north transept.

The golden wedding of Dr. Ollivant, Bishop of Llandaff, was celebrated on the 5th inst. His Lordship was married in 1828 to Alicia, daughter of Lieutenant George Spencer, of Bramley Grange, Yorkshire, by whom he has had four sons and two daughters.

The foundation-stone of a new church was laid on Wednesday at Water Orton. Mr. G. W. Digby, of Sherborne Castle, Dorsetshire, who owns a great part of the land in the district, has given the site and £600 towards the expenses. The cost is estimated to be £3000, and about £1820 has been subscribed.

Among the many restorations of old churches and abbeys now going on throughout England, that of the Priory church of Leominster has almost escaped notice. As far back as 1863 a committee was formed to consult the late Sir Gilbert Scott, R.A., upon the subject, and ever since the work has been going on gradually as funds were at hand. The stone-work of the noble window of the west side has lately been completely restored by Mr. Edwards, of Leominster, and the centre portion has been filled with magnificent stained glass by Messrs. Mayer and Co., of Munich and London.

Dr. Campbell, the Bishop of Bangor, delivered his seventh triennial charge on Tuesday at Llangefni church. He warmly commended the activity of the Diocesan Church Extension Society, and approved the architectural character of the churches rebuilt or in course of restoration—such as Aber, Holyhead, Penegoes, and Llangurig. He urged the propriety of greater attention being paid to the religious teaching of the young, to counteract the secular education given in board schools, the preparation of candidates for confirmation, and the maintenance of a closer spiritual communion between the pastor and the adult members of his flock.

It was announced in our Court news last week that the Prince of Wales had subscribed a hundred guineas to the fund for rebuilding the Marbeuf Chapel in Paris. Down to 1824 the only Church of England services in Paris had been held in the ball-room of the British Embassy. In that year the Rev. Lewis Way, at his own expense, built a small but beautiful chapel in the Rue Chaillot, attached to the Hôtel Marbeuf. The larger chapel, erected in 1844 in the Avenue Marbeuf, by the Rev. Lewis Way's only son, Mr. Albert Way, is dilapidated and must soon be pulled down. Hence the effort now being made to rebuild it in more creditable style and in a better position. On account of its present surroundings (so different from those of thirty years ago), it is facetiously called "the Church of England in the Mews." The Archbishop of Canterbury and the Bishop of London are most desirous to see it replaced by a suitable edifice. Messrs. Coutts and Co., 59, Strand, receive subscriptions.

An event of considerable importance to the English colony of Rouen took place last Saturday in the dedication by the Bishop of London of an English church for the community. For more than forty years there have been every Sunday two English services in the city; but it had long been felt that one central place for English service should be erected, and many attempts have been made, but all have ended in failure till the present occasion. About two years ago the Rev. Dr. Greenfield was appointed Chaplain by the Colonial and Continental Church Society; and, having gained the goodwill of the community, he urged upon the people the importance of erecting a suitable church. On June 30, 1877, the Bishop of Bathurst laid the first stone at All Saints' Church, Ile la Croix, Rouen; and on the 7th inst., in presence of a large congregation, the work was completed. The Bishop of London preached on Sunday morning and held a confirmation in the afternoon. A sum of £500 is required to pay off liabilities connected with the church.

THE UNIVERSITIES AND PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

Lord Hartington has arranged to deliver his inaugural address as Lord Rector of the University of Edinburgh some time in November.

Mr. W. E. Forster, M.P., has declined to accede to a request by the students of Aberdeen University that he would stand for re-election as Lord Rector. Mr. Grant Duff, M.P., has refused consent to his nomination as a candidate for the Lord Rectorship, and has recommended the students to support Lord Rosebery, stating that they will be extremely fortunate in their selection if they place his Lordship in the rectorial chair. The Glasgow News says that the Earl of Aberdeen has consented to become a candidate, on condition that the candidature is regarded as non-political.

The late Mr. P. Ellis Eyton, M.P., has left by his will £2000 to found a scholarship for a North Wales boy, tenable at the University College of Wales. This bequest quickly follows that of the late Mr. Henry Parnall, of Bishopsgate, who has left £5000 for the general purposes of the college.

Mr. Hardcastle, M.P., distributed the prizes to the successful students of the Church Institute, Bolton, on Tuesday evening. In his address he said he thought it a very good feature in a school of that kind that a certain amount of classical instruction was insisted upon. It was an advantage to study Latin and Greek, if only in a slight degree. The institution, though founded upon Church principles, was attended by all denominations. That was as it ought to be, and must tend to create kindly feeling among those who differ upon certain points.

The list of successful students in the certificate department of the work of the joint board of the Oxford and Cambridge Schools Examination Board for the past year has been issued:—

This board not only examines schools which have regularly constituted governing bodies, or which prepare a fair proportion of their boys for the Universities, but also examines individual students for certificates, the possession of which exempts from the necessity of examinations of various public bodies, including the previous examination, or "little go," at Cambridge, and the responsions at Oxford. This scheme, after various conferences with head masters and University authorities, was matured in 1873. The present is the fifth year of the scheme being in operation, and it is conducted under a board constituted from the leading men engaged in tuition at both Universities, Mr. E. J. Gross, M.A., of Caius College, being the Cambridge secretary, and Mr. W. W. Jackson, M.A., of Exeter College, filling a similar position for Oxford. This board exerts a similar influence on the public schools that the Local Examination Syndicate and Delegacy do on the middle-class schools of England. During the five years that the board has been in existence the number of candidates has increased from 299 in 1874 to 747 in 1878. Of the candidates this year 419 have obtained certificates. Analysing the results as regards subjects, we find that of the 700 who offered in Latin, 504 passed, 60 with distinction; 662 offered for Greek, 479 of whom passed, 51 with distinction; 187 offered in French, 114 of whom passed, 34 with distinction; 65 offered in German, 49 of whom passed, 14 with distinction; 736 offered in elementary mathematics, and 514 passed; 325 offered in additional mathematics, 224 of whom passed, 46 with distinction; 603 offered in Scripture knowledge, 476 of whom passed, 57 with distinction; 151 offered in English, of whom 88 succeeded, and 13 gained distinction; 548 offered in history, 246 passing, and 113 with distinction; 28 were examined in the mechanical division of natural philosophy, ten of whom passed, two with distinction; 60 offered in the chemical division of natural philosophy, 39 of whom passed, 11 with distinction; 7 offered in botany, 4 passing, 2 with distinction; 33 offered in physical geography and elementary geology, 22 of whom passed, 3 with distinction; 1 offered in music and passed. Of those who obtained certificates 21 passed in seven subjects.

The secretary of the Oxford Local Examinations, the Rev. S. Edwardes, has issued the division lists containing the names of the senior and junior candidates who have received certificates in the late examinations. The following is the First Division of the senior candidates:—

H. Leward, Liverpool Institute; R. H. Pigott, T. S. Simpson, F. W. Kellet, and E. P. Gaskin, Kingswood and Woodhouse School, Bath; A. W. Targett, Warminster; W. P. Workman and S. Jackson, Kingswood; J. J. Findlay, New College, Eastbourne; A. E. Blagrave, High School, Oxford; W. F. Dingwall, Boston Grammar School; P. Z. Round, Wolverhampton Grammar School; H. B. Workman, Kingswood; W. Hallworth, Chariton, Manchester; E. F. J. Love, Wolverhampton; A. L. Gaskin, Kingswood; P. Robinson and C. Holton, Manchester; W. J. Ward, Wesleyan College, Taunton; C. Brown, Waterloo; A. E. Restarick, Camden Town; E. S. Wheeler, High School, Oxford.

The candidates recommended for the medals offered by the Royal Geographical Society are—for the silver medal, A. E. Restarick; for the bronze medal, F. W. Kellet.

The following candidates have shown sufficient merit to be excused from Responsions:—W. F. Dingwell, E. P. Gaskin, A. G. Grant, F. W. Kellet, E. F. J. Lowe, A. C. Neely, F. J. Newhaven, P. Robinson, F. S. Simpson, A. W. Targett, W. G. Ward, H. B. Workman, and W. P. Workman.

Total number examined, 2330, including 350 junior girls, 1315 junior boys, 326 senior girls and 339 senior boys; 199 junior girls and 787 junior boys satisfied the examiners, and will receive certificates; while in the senior department 213 girls and 221 boys qualified themselves for the title of "Associate in Arts."

THE WESLEYAN METHODISTS.

The Minutes of the last Wesleyan Methodist Conference have been issued. The book is official, and gives a large amount of statistical and other information about Wesleyan matters.

In Great Britain there are 380,876 church members, 24,090 on trial for church membership; 1412 ministers, and 208 on trial for the ministry; supernumeraries, 249. In Ireland and Irish missions there are 19,950 members, and 506 on trial for church membership; 186 ministers, and 36 on trial for the ministry; supernumeraries, 41. In foreign missions, 83,969 church members, 10,227 on trial for church membership; 288 ministers, and on trial for the ministry, 150; supernumeraries, 13. In the French Conference, 1888 church members, on trial, 63; ministers, 24, on trial, 3; supernumeraries, 2. Totals: 486,083 church members, 34,892 on trial; 1910 ministers, 397 on trial; supernumeraries, 305.

A committee has been appointed to consider the proposal to hold an ecumenical Methodist conference. Various regulations are for the pastoral oversight of the young, under the designation of junior society classes, which shall be under the care of leaders. Special notes will be given to the members of such classes when they are met once a quarter by the ministers. General directions are also given for what amounts to the establishment of a new public recognition service for new members joining the Church.

The Committee for the Revision of the Liturgy and Book of Offices has been reappointed, and another committee has been appointed to consider the question of an educational standard for candidates for the ministry. This has long been under consideration and in dispute; but it is expected that the next Conference will settle it upon the committee's report.

The Conference has authorised the Scotch Relief and Extension Fund Committee to begin their work of relieving debts on Wesleyan trust property by loans without interest. It is expected that the fund will in the course of time increase sufficiently to enable the administrators to make gifts to various Wesleyan projects in Scotland.

The various British districts are to have more local administrative power in various home mission matters, and there are a number of new regulations for the employment of district lay agents.

The Theological Institution Committee are directed to take into their early consideration the best means of providing a new branch of the institution in the Birmingham district for the training of young men for the ministry.

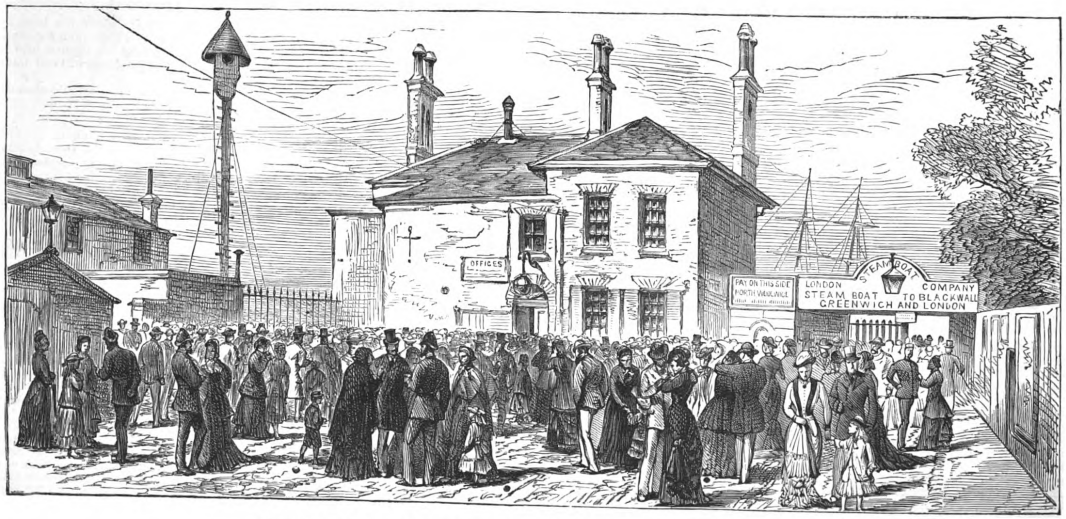
The sum of £7991 has been voted for the extension of Methodism in Great Britain.

A committee for connectional finance has been appointed to consider the proposal to raise a large fund for many objects as a memorial of the admission of the laymen into the Conference, and, if necessary, the president will call meetings for the purpose during the year.

There is to be a committee upon middle-class education, and one upon the work of class leaders.—Times.

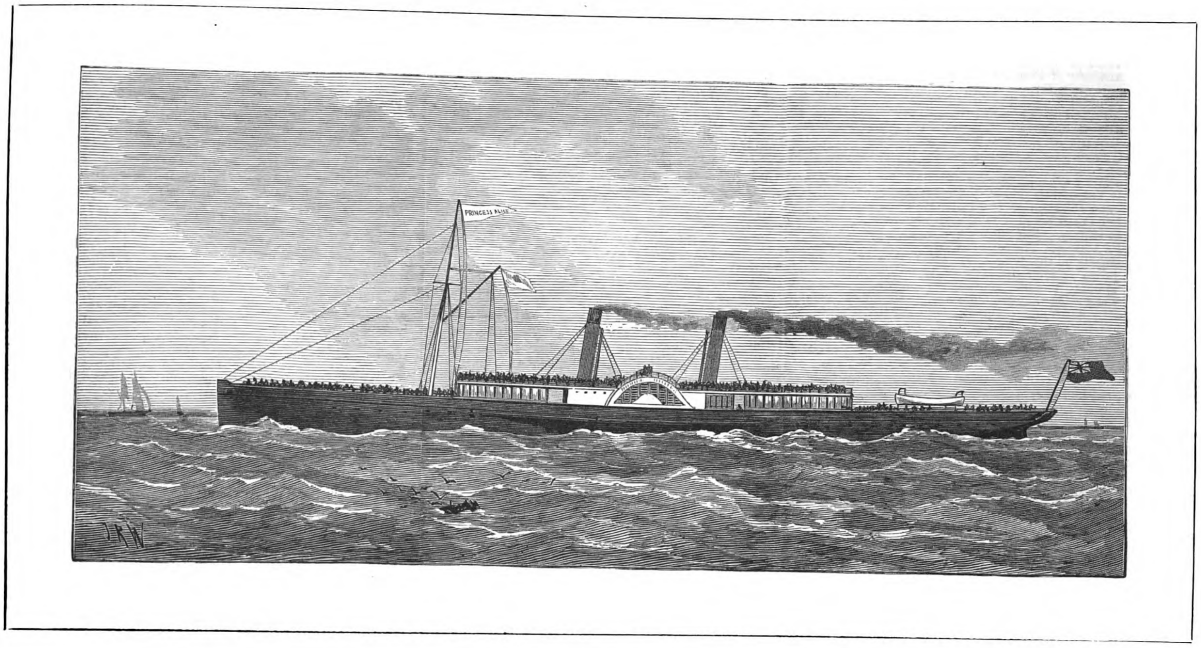
A Diocesan Missionary Conference, under the auspices of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, was held at Liverpool on Monday. The proceedings opened at eight o'clock by the celebration of holy communion at St. Peter's parish church, which was followed by a breakfast at the Compton Hotel, at which the Rev. Chancellor Espin presided. A service at St. Peter's took place at 10.30, the sermon being preached by the Dean of Lichfield; and at noon the Conference began in the small concert-room, St. George's Hall, under the presidency of the Bishop of Chester. Having been initiated in order to take advantage of the presence in the country of a number of the colonial and other bishops who attended the Lambeth Conference, the meetings were of a more widely representative character than usual. The right rev. chairman gave an address, in the course of which he reviewed the progress of missionary work from the formation of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in 1701. The Rev. J. H. Jowitt, organising secretary for the archdeaconry of Lincoln, followed with a paper on the same subject. Bishop Ryan having also spoken upon the subject, the Rev. Dr. Kay was called upon to read a paper upon Christianity and Islam, with special reference to India. The time, however, being short, Dr. Kay gave place to the Rev. R. R. Winter, who delivered an address on the same topic. After this the Conference adjourned until the evening, when papers were read by Bishop Claughton, Archdeacon of London, upon a Native Ministry and Self-Supporting Churches, and by the Bishop of Missouri on the Condition and Progress of the Church in the United States, in India, and in our Colonies.

THE GREAT DISASTER ON THE THAMES.



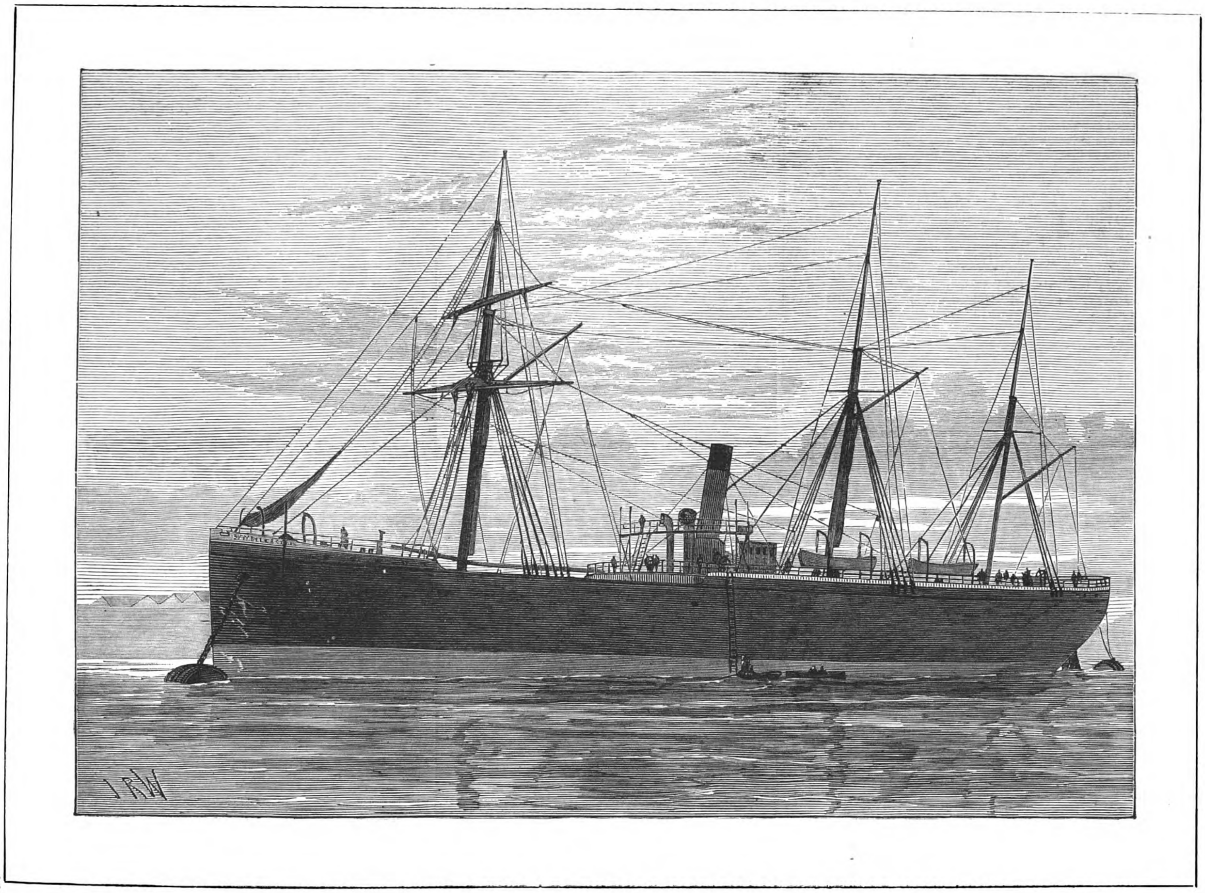
OFFICES OF THE LONDON STEAM-BOAT COMPANY, BENNET'S-HILL, CITY: INQUIRING FOR LOST RELATIVES ON THE NIGHT OF THE DISASTER.

Thames Conservancy Tug, directly over the Wreck.



OPERATIONS AT THE SCENE OF THE DISASTER.

Funnel of Princess Alice in Barge.



CROWD OUTSIDE THE LONDON STEAM-BOAT COMPANY'S OFFICE AT WOOLWICH.

THE GREAT DISASTER ON THE THAMES.

THE SALOON STEAM-BOAT PRINCESS ALICE.

THE BYWELL CASTLE, SCREW-STEAM COLLIER, AS SHE LAY AT DEPTFORD AFTER THE COLLISION.

FOREIGN AND COLONIAL NEWS.

FRANCE.

The President of the Republic, accompanied by several Generals, went to Dourdan early on Tuesday morning to witness the manœuvres of the 4th Army Corps. He returned to the Elysée in the evening. Marshal MacMahon will to-morrow (Sunday) pass in review at Vincennes the 4th Corps-d'Armée, the Paris troops, and the 4th Division of Cavalry.

The Grand Duke Constantine, who has been at Biarritz during the last fortnight, arrived in Paris on Monday; and Prince Frederick William of Hesse arrived there last Saturday.

The Academy of Fine Arts has elected Sir R. Wallace a corresponding member.

Last Saturday the great trotting international matches, for which the French Chambers had voted 60,000f., took place at the Hippodrome of Maisons Laffitte, Marshal MacMahon and a large number of Senators and Deputies being present. On Sunday the first of the autumn race-meetings took place at Longchamps.

At the Horse Show on Monday afternoon the prize-winners were marched before Marshal MacMahon, the Archdukes Nicholas and Constantine of Russia, M. Teisserenc de Bort, the Foreign Commissioners to the Exhibition, and other distinguished visitors. English animals figured prominently in this défilé d'honneur. The prize-list shows that, notwithstanding the severity of the judges, who withheld thirteen out of the 250 prizes at their disposal, thirty-four have fallen to English animals, being a much larger proportion than that gained by any other foreign nation. England, indeed, though distanced by Belgium in the number of exhibits, competed in a larger number of classes than Belgium or any of the other foreign States.

The Grand Dukes of Russia now in Paris paid Marshal MacMahon an official visit on Wednesday.

M. de Marcère's Tuesday evening entertainments have been resumed. They began last Tuesday with a dinner, at which country Mayors and provincial magnates preponderated. At half-past nine the reception began. Every room on the ground floor of the Ministry was thrown open, and the garden was lighted up and turned into an open-air salon.

Two days' fêtes in honour of the recent passing of a law and a vote of 17,000,000f. for the construction of a new harbour began at Boulogne on Sunday. There was a great influx of excursionists from London, Folkestone, Paris, Amiens, Calais, St. Omer, Lille, and Belgium. Mr. Alderman Staples, Sheriff of London and Middlesex, arrived on Saturday to represent the Corporation of London. Twelve English Mayors were present by invitation, also the Burgomaster of Liége and other Belgian notabilities. The ceremony of laying the foundation-stone of the deep-sea harbour was performed on Monday by M. de Freycinet, the Minister of Public Works, accompanied by M. Léon Say, the Minister of Finance. A benediction, usually a feature of such proceedings in France, was not included in the programme. At the banquet held in the evening at the Casino, covers were laid for 400. M. Huguet, the Mayor, occupied the chair, and, in proposing the health of the two Ministers, took the opportunity to thank the English visitors for coming to Boulogne to attend the banquet. M. Léon Say made a finance speech, in which he referred to the Three per Cent Redeemable Loan, saying that from the admirable way in which it had been taken up it had placed French credit on a level with that of England. M. de Freycinet proposed a joint toast to Marshal MacMahon and Queen Victoria, while M. Say drank to English friends, particularly mentioning the name of Mr. Alderman Staples, who returned thanks. M. Léon Say, after visiting Calais and Dunkirk, is coming on to England to study, with M. Cochery, Under-Secretary of Finance, the British postal and telegraph system, these two departments having recently been fused together in France.

M. Berger, Director of the Foreign Sections of the Exhibition, has received a letter from the Prince of Wales, who declares his intention to witness the distribution of prizes, and adds that the Princess will, perhaps, accompany him.

Winners of prizes and honourable mention in the British sections of the Paris Exhibition have heard of their success through the courtesy of Mr. Cunliffe Owen, though the official awards have not yet been published. To Messrs. Jackson and Graham have been awarded the "Grand Prix" for excellence in class 17, that of furniture. The exhibition of English pottery having elicited general admiration, it will interest many to learn that the firm of Doulton, of Lambeth, has gained the "Grand Prix," two gold and two silver medals—George Jinworth, one of Mr. Doulton's skilful artists, having also been rewarded with a silver medal for his terra-cotta group; whilst Minton won a Grand Prix, and Wedgwood a gold medal. In the agricultural machinery section Messrs. George Buchanan and Co., of Bucklersbury, have been awarded a gold medal for their sugar-mills; and in the food department Messrs. J. S. Fry and Sons have gained a gold medal as manufacturers of chocolate and cocoa.

The Patent Congress has affirmed copyright and trade marks to be a form of property not created but simply regulated by law. It also resolved that foreigners should be placed on the same footing as natives.

M. Bardoux, Minister of Public Instruction, was present at the opening last Saturday of the municipal schools at Dreux. He dwelt on the importance of education in a democratic self-governing nation, and stated that, as schools were now being erected everywhere, even in the villages, the Government reckoned on speedily laying down the principle of compulsion. Whoever did not like the school was no patriot. Speaking again at a dinner given by the municipality, he eulogised the prudence and firmness of the Republican party during the last few years. He attributed to that policy the moral, financial, and military reorganisation of the country and the success of the Exhibition. It was based, he said, on industry, education, and patriotism, and insured peace and prosperity.

The police made a descent last Thursday week on a Socialist gathering, the "International Working Men's Congress," which, though ostensibly convened at a private house, had assembled in a hired hall, described as capable of seating 200 persons. They arrested five of the leaders, as also a German, the correspondent of a Leipsic Socialist organ. The prisoners' apartments were searched, and numerous papers seized.

Barré and Lebiez, who enticed a widow into their lodgings on the pretence of exchanging some bonds for her and then murdered her, were guillotined last Saturday morning in the square opposite La Roquette Prison.

SPAIN.

A Royal decree has been promulgated approving the convention between the Minister for the Colonies and the Spanish Bank at Havannah for the conclusion of a loan of 25,000,000 pesetas. It is to be issued in bonds to bearer of 500 pesetas each in Paris, London, Madrid, and Havannah, and is guaranteed on the Cuban customs revenue. The interest is 6 per cent, and the loan is to be redeemed by quarterly drawings to the extent of 537,000 pesetas per annum.

ITALY.

King Humbert was present last Saturday at the manœuvres of the 1st Army Corps, near the river Mella. Further manœuvres were executed on Monday and Thursday.

Approval having been given by the Provincial Council of Florence to a credit for the maintenance of the schools conducted by the Scolopist Fathers, which had been suppressed by the Government Commissioners, a demonstration was made the same evening by about 200 persons, who paraded the streets, shouting "Down with clerical instruction!"

SWITZERLAND.

The Grand Council of the Canton of Berne has granted an amnesty to the Catholic priests of the Jura who were deprived of their livings in 1873 for refusing to acknowledge the authority of the State.

The Phylloxera Congress began its sitting on Monday. France, Spain, Germany, Austria, Italy, Portugal, and Turkey are represented.

BELGIUM.

The Triennial Exhibition of Fine Arts, which is held alternately at Brussels, Antwerp, and Ghent, is held this year at Brussels. It was opened on the 5th inst. The King and Queen, attended by the members of the Royal household, visited the Exhibition, and were escorted through the suite of rooms by the president and members of the committee. It comprises 1078 oil paintings, 198 drawings, paintings in water colour, and engravings; 180 pieces of sculpture and models, and 20 plans of architecture. Sir J. Savile Lumley, K.C.B., our Minister at Brussels, has contributed a picture representing a storm on the coast of Cornwall. The Exhibition is established this time in the great building on the Boulevard du Midi (the Marché du Midi). The permanent exhibition building in the Rue de la Régence, in course of construction, will not be completed before 1880.

The prize of 25,000f. offered by the King will be bestowed, in 1879, on the best work on architecture. The competition will be confined to Belgian authors.

HOLLAND.

The Colonial Minister presented on Monday the East Indian Budget for 1879, which shows a deficit of 10,000,000 fl., caused by the expenses of the war in Atchin and the expenditure for the construction of new railways. The Minister proposes to cover the deficit temporarily by advances from the Treasury to the Indian Finance Department, and ultimately by a loan. The expense attending the occupation of Atchin is estimated at 9,000,000 fl. The Minister estimates the coffee crop at 820,000 piculs at the price of 48c. per half kilogramme.

GERMANY.

The German Reichstag was opened on Monday afternoon in the White Hall of the Royal Palace, Berlin. The Speech from the Throne was read by Count Stolberg, Prince Bismarck's substitute. It related principally to references to the attempts made upon the Emperor William's life and the Anti-Socialist Bill which is to be laid before the House. A confident hope was expressed that the newly-elected deputies will not refuse to grant the means of giving the peaceful development of the Empire the same security against attacks from within as it enjoys against those from without; that the spread of the pernicious Socialist movement will be arrested; and that those who have been led away by it may be brought back to the right path.

Herr von Forkenbeck was on Wednesday elected President by 240 votes out of a total of 359 recorded. Herr Frankenstein received 114 votes. The election for the post of first Vice-President necessitated a second ballot, the candidates being Herr von Stauffenberg (National Liberal), Herr Frankenstein (Centre), and Herr Semdewitz (German Conservative party). Herr von Stauffenberg obtained 175 votes, against 142 received by Herr Frankenstein, and was elected first Vice-President. Prince Hohenlohe-Langenberg (German Imperial party) was chosen second Vice-President by 212 votes out of 335.

General Grant arrived at Gastein on Wednesday, and immediately proceeded to pay a visit to Prince Bismarck.

It is reported from Berlin that a circular despatch has been sent by the German Government to the signatary Powers of the Treaty of Berlin calling upon them to take a common step, with the view of bringing the Porte to execute the stipulations of the Treaty. To this proposal the Austrian, French, and Russian Governments are stated to have given their adhesion, to be followed, it is expected, by those of England and Italy.

Dr. Nobiling, who fired at the Emperor William a few months since and wounded his Majesty in the hands and face, and who was recently removed to an asylum that the authorities might ascertain if he was simulating madness, died on Tuesday from the wounds inflicted by himself. The immediate cause of death was paralysis of the lungs.

AUSTRIA-HUNGARY.

The golden wedding of the Austrian Empress's parents, the Duke and Duchess Max, in Bavaria, was celebrated on Monday at Tegernsee, in the presence of the Empress, Princess Sophie d'Alençon, and Dukes Louis, Charles Theodore, and Max Emanuel. The Duke having declined any public festivities, the celebration was confined to the family circle.

The Austrian troops entered Trebinje at noon on Saturday last, without opposition. The Turkish troops surrendered the citadel to the Austrians, and left the town the same evening. The Commander of the 36th Division reports that the Austrian troops occupied Priedor also on Saturday, meeting with a friendly reception from the inhabitants. The process of disarming Novi and the surrounding district had previously been accomplished without resistance. On the 6th inst. Major-General Sametz attacked the insurgents in a strong position before the town of Klijuc, and drove them back to the left bank of the Sana, and ultimately, after a hotly-contested engagement, which lasted until nightfall, the Austrians captured two of the enemy's intrenchments, the town of Klijuc, and also a number of houses grouped on the southern acclivity of the citadel. It is announced that General Zach sustained a serious defeat near Bihacs, on the Unne. The town of Bihacs is said to be defended by Turkish regulars, who have constructed strongly fortified intrenchments outside the town on a hill commanding the plain. The Commandant declares that he has no orders from the Porte to surrender the town, and that, on the contrary, he was instructed by Hafiz Pasha to defend it to the last extremity. The Austrian army in Bosnia and Herzegovina numbers 208,000 men, 36,000 horses, and 480 guns.

TURKEY.

A short time ago Mehemet Ali Pasha proceeded upon a special mission to Albania with the object of preparing the population for the cession of territory to the Montenegrins, in accordance with the decisions of the Congress, and to endeavour to calm the public mind, which was unfortunately most excited. The Pasha, however, was murdered on the 6th inst. Some particulars, received from Constantinople, of the way he met his death are telegraphed by the Vienna correspondent of the Times. It seems clear that at Gusinje, Plava, and Kolasin, even before the arrival of Mehemet Ali, the most complete anarchy had gained the upper hand. On arriving in Jakova Mehemet found the greatest excitement prevailing. He was violently upbraided with having come up to hand over the land to the Servians. The agitation went on increasing, and the house selected by Mehemet Ali for a lodging was set on fire by the Albanians of Jakova and Ipek. This done, there arose between the incendiaries and Mehemet Ali's escort a regular fight, in the course of which twenty men of the latter fell. Towards evening, through the intervention of some Ulemas, the conflict was appeased, the insurgents promising to observe a peaceful attitude. About six in the evening, however, in Jakova, where Mehemet Ali still remained, the struggle broke out afresh, resulting in the death of Mehemet's adjutant, Abdullah Pasha, with several officers, and the house in which they had taken refuge was fired. Mehemet Ali escaped from the burning building, and concealed himself in a small erection close by, but his hiding-place was soon discovered, and he was put to death.

Batoum was peacefully occupied by the Russian troops on the 6th inst. At eleven o'clock in the morning Dervish Pasha, at the head of a deputation of the inhabitants of the Christian and Mussulman clergy, received Adjutant-General Mirsky, who was in command of the Russian troops. Complete tranquillity prevailed in the district.

GREECE.

A note has been addressed by the Government to the signatary Powers soliciting their mediation for the execution of the stipulations of the Treaty of Berlin in regard to the Turko-Greek frontier.

The Minister of War has issued an order summoning the officers and men absent on leave, to the number of upwards of 2500, to join their regiments immediately. The Government explains that this measure is simply precautionary, while the semi-official journals say that it is necessitated by "important reasons."

SERVIA.

Last Saturday, being the anniversary of the birthday of Princess Nathalie, was observed as a general holiday at Belgrade. A gala parade of the garrison was held, and there was a reception at the palace. The town was decorated with flags, and illuminated at night. Wednesday, being the fête of the Emperor of Russia and also of the Crown Prince of Servia, the infant son of Prince Milan, was also kept as a holiday.

ROUMANIA.

A decree of Prince Charles fixes the reopening of the Roumanian Chambers for the 27th inst.

Twenty-five thousand Russian medals have been sent to Bucharest for the Roumanian troops who were around Plevna.

AMERICA.

President Hayes, speaking last week at St. Paul, where he is said to have had an enthusiastic popular reception, dwelt on the progressive improvement in the financial condition of the country, showing that in thirteen years the public debt had been reduced by one third and the annual interest diminished to the extent of 56,000,000 dols. paid monthly in America, owing to the return of bonds from abroad. The annual taxation of the country had been reduced to 247,000,000 dols., and the expenses to 120,000,000 dols. The paper currency was nearly at par, showing an increase in the coin value of 175,000,000 dols. The excess of exports over imports during the past year amounted to 258,000,000 dols. The President proceeded to declare that the balance of trade was in favour of the United States, remarking that American enterprise and the most important American products sought every land. "We cannot," said the President, "isolate ourselves from the rest of the commercial world. Our increasing foreign trade requires our financial system to be based upon principles whose soundness has been sanctioned by universal experience and by the general judgment of mankind. We are on the threshold of better times, and the surest foundations for prosperity are a sound and honest currency and unstained national credit." The President concluded his speech with an eloquent appeal on behalf of the people of the Southern States now suffering from the yellow fever epidemic.

Subsequently President Hayes has been well received at Dakotah and Milwaukie, where he addressed immense crowds, and made effective appeals on behalf of the distressed population of the South.

Most terrible accounts of the ravages and spread of yellow fever in the Southern States are contained in the latest telegrams. The number of deaths from yellow fever on Wednesday was ninety at New Orleans and 104 at Memphis. Out of a thousand nurses in Memphis eight hundred are ill with the fever. It is stated that in the fever-stricken districts there are now 90,000 people without employment and destitute, for whose subsistence alone within the next fifty days a million of dollars will be required. A famine, it is believed, will certainly follow the fever. A telegram of Tuesday's date from Washington reports that the Secretary for War is stated to have declared that the means at the disposal of the Government for relieving the distress in the Southern States are now almost exhausted. The principal Southern Congressmen and other leading members of Congress have issued an appeal for the immediate organisation of a national relief system, to anticipate the famine which it is believed will certainly follow the fever. The Governor of Ohio has proclaimed a day of prayer to avert the pestilence from that State.

The King of the Samoan Islands has ratified the treaty recently concluded with the United States.

CANADA.

Lord Dufferin, in reply to an address of the municipal authorities of Ontario on the 6th inst., congratulated the Canadians generally upon the appointment of the Marquis of Lorne to the Governorship of the Dominion as a mark of confidence and affection from the mother country. His Lordship also referred in terms of warm eulogy to the Marquis of Lorne and her Royal Highness Princess Louise.

The British Columbian Legislature, having passed an Act disfranchising the Dominion officials, the latter propose taking action to test the validity of the measure. A meeting has been held at New Westminster, at which resolutions were passed condemning the policy of separation pursued by the Provincial Government.

THE CAPE COLONIES.

We have news from Cape Town by telegram from Madeira to Aug. 20. Reuter's summary says:—"Major Lanyon has returned to Kimberley. The chief Mankaroane has been sentenced to pay an indemnity to the family of the late Mr. Francis Thompson. The 80th Regiment has left Natal for the Transvaal. The Admiral's flag-ship is surveying at St. Lucia Bay, Natal, to select a suitable landing-place for troops in the event of the dispatch of a British force to Natal being rendered necessary by a rising of the Zulus. Mr. Gordon Sprigg, the Premier, in a speech at Grahamstown, declared that the confederation of the South African colonies would be the test question at the next general election for the Cape Parliament.

INDIA.

The Calcutta correspondent of the Times telegraphed on Sunday last as follows:—

All those to whom the history of Indian politics is familiar are agreed that active means must at once be taken to countervail the Russian advance into Afghanistan. At the beginning of last century the Russian advanced forts were 2500 miles distant from those of the English. At the close of the century the distance was lessened to 2000, and at the commencement of the present century the distances were reduced to 1000 miles. Since the end of the Crimean War that distance has been further reduced to 400 miles. There is, therefore, every possible reason for arguing from the past that this distance will at some time or other before long be completely annihilated and British and Russian frontiers become conterminous. In face of these extreme probabilities it will be wise policy for the Government to endeavour to determine beforehand the line of contact of the two Powers. The present frontier line is stated by most military authorities to be indefensible. It extends over 1000 miles, and can be penetrated at all points by forces in the possession of tribes most hostile. Under these conditions, to allow Russia to establish herself in security at Cabul would be suicidal policy. She would command all the passes into British territory, and at the same time obtain recruiting-ground with resources almost inexhaustible. The Indian Government are most anxious to avoid adopting any policy which would bear even the semblance of hostility towards Russia, but the extreme probability of a collision sooner or later cannot be overlooked. It is necessary, therefore, to provide for a strong stategic defensive position to guard against eventualities. From this point of view it is indispensable that we should possess a commanding influence over the triangle of territory formed on the map by Cabul, Ghuznee, and Jellalabad, together with power over the Hindoo Koosh. This would command the central routes of approach to India, indirectly cover the eastern and western routes, and at the same time enable us to threaten, if necessary, the whole line of Russian frontier. This triangle we may hope to command with Afghan concurrence if the Ameer is friendly. The strongest frontier line which could be adopted would be along the Hindoo Koosh, from Pamir to Bamian, thence to the south by the Helmund Girish and Candahar to the Arabian Sea. It is possible, therefore, that by friendly negotiations some such defensive boundary may be adopted. The means by which this can be brought about are either directly by diplomatic arrangement with Russia or by entering into an alliance of guarantee and protection with Afghanistan. The present Mission will be essentially friendly and conciliatory. Its objects are to insure the prospects of a lasting peace, both with Afghanistan and Russia; but in no circumstances will an alliance between Russia and the Ameer hostile to the British Government be tolerated. The latest news in reference to the Mission states that Major St. John had gone in advance to Peshawur to make final arrangements for the Mission. Sir N. Chamberlain and his staff left Simla to-day for Peshawur. The Mission will be formed there. Gholam Hussein Khan, the Viceroy's messenger to Cabul, is expected to return about the 17th, and the Mission is to start immediately. He has met with courteous treatment en route. Applications from Indian nobles of high rank, offering their services for the Mission, have been received by the Government. The Viceroy has selected Maharajah Partaub Sing, of Jodhpore, brother of the Maharajah of Jodhpore, and Sirdah Abdulla Khan, of Tonby, uncle of the present Nawab, as being representatives of Hindoo and Mohammedan families of the highest rank, to accompany the Mission. This is a wise act of policy, in so far that it will enlist the sympathies and the interests of the Hindoos and Mohammedans in the success of the Mission.

NEW ZEALAND.

A telegram of the 6th inst. reports that a banquet has been held at Christchurch to celebrate the completion of the railway between Christchurch and Dunedin. The Governor, Lord Normanby, and a number of members of Parliament were present. At the conclusion of the proceedings the Mayors of Christchurch and Dunedin sent Sir Julius Vogel a telegram congratulating him, "on behalf of the Governor and representatives present, on the completion of the great work for which New Zealand is so largely indebted to his exertions."

The Junon, now on her voyage round the world, arrived at Rio Janeiro on the 4th inst.

To the report that cholera had broken out in Sweden a second authoritative denial has been given.

A telegram from Cyprus states that the English troops continue to suffer from fever. Sir Garnet Wolseley is about to take a tour round the island on board the Raleigh.

Tuesday's Gazette contains the announcement that the Queen has appointed Colonel Robert Home, C.B., R.E., to be Commissioner for the delimitation of the frontiers of Bulgaria, under article 2 of the Treaty of Berlin.

It is telegraphed from Alexandria that the reforms advocated by Nubar Pasha are steadily advancing, and that the official announcement of Mr. Rivers Wilson as Minister of Finance is impatiently awaited.

According to the latest intelligence from Yokohama, the draught of a new law for the regulation and control of the opium trade has been published, from which it appears that opium may only be sold by licensed druggists.

According to news from the West Coast, dated Lagos, Aug. 10, the King of Dahomey was still inclined to defy England, and had positively refused to pay the indemnity. The European factories of Lagos are occasionally being broken into and plundered by natives, the King sharing the spoil.

The Egyptian Government has received telegrams from Khartoum reporting an unusual rising of the White and Blue Niles. Incessant rains continued, and an inundation was apprehended, in view of which precautionary measures were being taken.

The Agent-General for Queensland has been advised by telegram that the following vessels, conveying emigrants to Queensland, have arrived safe at their destination:—The Lammershagen, from Hamburg; the Southesk and Windsor Castle, from London; and the Rodell Bay, from Glasgow.

The Chinese population of San Francisco numbers 32,000, classified as follows:—Merchants and professional men, 1000; cigar-makers, 5000; laundrymen, 1500; servants, 7000; boot and shoe makers, 2000; slipper-makers, 800; gamblers, 1400; makers of clothing, 3000; pedlars, 2500; fishermen, 1000; labourers, 1000; other occupations, 3800; women, 2000.

The new iron Aberdeen built barque Scottish Prince, of 894 tons register, Captain Moore, sailed from Gravesend on the 6th inst., and had on board the following number of emigrants bound for Townsville, Queensland—viz., 41 married men, 42 married women, 111 single men, 69 single women, 40 children between the ages of twelve and one, and 14 infants, making a total of 317 souls.

The small eruption of Vesuvius, which has now been in progress for some time, is slowly increasing. The new crater, which opened at the bottom of that of 1872, has gradually filled with lava, which is now beginning to flow over into the large one. With the new molten materials medals are being produced, with the effigy of the director of the observatory, for sale to the curious.

At Coblentz and Saarlouis the police recently prohibited smoking in the streets by youths under sixteen; and at Treves a by-law of 1857 has been brought into force, which imposes a fine of from three to nine marks, or imprisonment in default, on boys under sixteen who smoke in the streets and in places of amusement. A similar police regulation would not be amiss at places nearer home.

The Chamber of Commerce of Foochow, having called the attention of the foreign Consuls to the contemplated mixture of dried and prepared willow-leaves with tea-leaves, the Governor of Foochow has issued a proclamation threatening delinquents with severe punishment. Those at the head of the scheme, he says, are numerous, and any person who proves the guilt of one of them will receive 100 piastres. "Let all," he adds, "tremble and obey."

Letters have been received at Dundee from Captain Adams, of the well-known Dundee whaler Arctic, up to July 12, stating that not one vessel of the fleet had caught a single fish, and the expectation is that the fishing will be a complete failure. None of the vessels had been able to pass through Melville Bay, a circumstance which has not happened during any previous season. As seen from the highest mountains, the bay appeared hopelessly blocked by ice, and all efforts to penetrate it had to be abandoned.

It is announced by the Governor of New Caledonia to the Minister of French Marine that, although all the insurgent natives have not yet made their submission, he believes the suppression of the insurrection to be only a matter of time.

The Danish Inspector of North Greenland, resident at Godhaven, Disco, writing on July 18, says that in no year has he seen the west ice approaching so near the Greenland coast as this season, nor has it ever been seen in such a quantity. It was lying to the northward, stretching beyond the reach of the eye in vast packs and masses close against the seashore. No such year for ice is remembered. Owing to expected failure of whale-fishing, oil has risen £3 a tun, and bone has advanced to £1200 a ton.

The Japan Mail says:—The members of the Imperial family of Japan evince a sincere desire to promote the industries of this country. A short time ago we had the pleasure of pointing out the interest taken by the Empress in silk-spinning; and now we learn from the native papers that the tea-shrubs growing in the garden of the Imperial palace at Akasaka were picked in the presence of her Majesty the Empress Dowager by one hundred girls on the 26th inst., all of whom were for the occasion dressed alike in holiday clothes, and were further regaled with cakes and tea at the conclusion of their labours.

The Daily News' correspondent in the Rhodope district writes:—"I have frequently heard merchants and others in England express a desire to find some point on the face of the earth where they could enjoy perfect repose for a week or two. Let them try Kirkova. There is no post here, no telegraph; and if you speak to a native of this little village about a newspaper he will probably think it is something to eat. But ask him for melons, grapes, plums, apples, pears, or blackberries, and he will overwhelm you with them, at about half a farthing a pound."

A notice from the Colonial Office appears in Tuesday's Gazette stating that the Queen has appointed the King of Siam to be an Honorary Member of the First Class or Knights Grand Cross of the Distinguished Order of St. Michael and St. George. Her Majesty has also appointed Sir Arthur Hamilton Gordon, K.C.M.G., Governor and Commander-in-Chief of the colony of Fiji and High Commissioner for the Western Pacific, to be an Ordinary Member of the First Class of the said order. In this latter case her Majesty's warrant of appointment bears date Feb. 6, 1878.

The Straits Times reports that the head gardener in the Botanical Gardens at Singapore had rather a dangerous adventure recently with the python presented to the gardens by the Maharajah of Johore. The creature is sluggish in his habits, and allows liberties to be taken with him. One day the gardener entered the python's cage and was showing to a friend that he could do as he pleased with him, when suddenly, irritated by a kick on the head, the python coiled himself quickly round the gardener's body, and had wellnigh succeeded in squeezing the life out of him before assistance arrived in the shape of Private John Adolphus, of her Majesty's 28th Regiment, who very pluckily seized the snake, and by sheer strength forced him to let go.

Lieutenant Kitchener, R.E., handed over to the committee of the Palestine Exploration Fund on Tuesday the whole of the memoir, special plans and lists connected with the great map of Western Palestine. These materials, now in the hands of the committee, consist of a map of twenty-six sheets, on the scale of one-inch to the mile, a map in three sheets on the scale of three-eighths of the large map, and an immense collection of memoirs from the note-books of Lieutenant Conder and himself. The committee have already taken steps for the publication of the maps, and will at once proceed to consider the publication of the memoirs—a part of the work as important as the map. Lieutenant Kitchener exchanges the service of the Palestine Fund for the important charge of the survey of Cyprus, to which he has been appointed.

The Bluebook of Natal for 1877 shows in that year a population amounting 325,512, consisting of 157,929 males and 167,583 females. There were 22,654 whites, 290,035 natives, and 12,823 coolies. There were 46,577 acres of crops reaped by the white inhabitants—there being in this number 25,500 acres of maize, 9023 acres of sugar-cane, and 3712 acres of oats. The yield of sugar is set down at 10,473 tons, of maize at 140,700 muids (not quite six to the acre), of coffee at 222,727 lb. The Europeans cultivated at the rate of two acres per head. The natives are said to have reaped 162,741 acres—or, say, half an acre per head. The proportion, of course, is low; but the aggregate shows that the natives represent a substantial industrial element in the community. The crop of mealies was estimated at 417,116 muids, of Kaffir corn at 27,861 muids, and of sweet potatoes at 96,270 muids, while a partial guess is hazarded at an out-turn of 2926 tons of pumpkins. It must be noted, however, that the number of acres actually cultivated by Europeans was, at the end of December, much in excess of the acreage reaped. It is set down roughly at 69,270, which would give an average of over three acres per head. The Europeans number in their possession 16,320 horses, 765 mules, 145,128 horned cattle, 451,110 sheep, 44,328 Angora goats, 33,002 other goats, 11,213 pigs, 360 donkeys, and 1489 unwoolled sheep. The natives are said to hold 7874 horses, 254,579 horned cattle, 32,196 sheep, 44,844 goats, and 4922 pigs.

A correspondent writes to the Pall Mall Gazette from Bayeux as follows:—"Through the kindness of Monsignor Hugenin, Bishop of Bayeux, I was shown this morning the famous casket which, much to the general disappointment, was not sent to the Paris Exhibition this year. This casket, which may be more correctly described as a large ivory box bound with bronze, was captured from the Saracens by Louis XI., and an inscription in Arabic (of which the following is the translation: "In the name of a gracious merciful good blessing and goodness") may be taken as a confirmation of this legend. It is said that Louis XI. presented it to the Cathedral of Bayeux out of gratitude for his daughter's recovery from an illness which had exhausted the resources of the local faculty, but which yielded to a touch of the chasuble which had belonged to St. Regnobert, the second Bishop of Bayeux. The casket was sent to hold the miracle-working chasuble, and both have been jealously guarded ever since. This casket, which is a wonderful piece of alto-relievo work, was sent to the Paris Exhibitions of 1855 and 1867, the Government guaranteeing to pay a certain sum in the event of any harm coming to it. The Bishop offered to let it be exhibited this year, but the Commissioners declined to guarantee its safety, and the Bishop very wisely would not part with it. The casket is not shown to the ordinary visitors, for one or two attempts have been made to make away with it.

A public meeting, at which Lord Penrhyn, Lord Lieutenant of Carnarvonshire, presided, was held yesterday week at Bangor, in connection with the proposed memorial to the late Sir Richard Bulkeley. A sum of nearly £1500 has been subscribed. It was decided that the form of the memorial should be left to the family.

METROPOLITAN NEWS.

The new schools, affording accommodation for 1200 pupils, which have been erected by the school board in Wordsworth-road, South Hornsey, have been thrown open for the reception of children. The building was begun in June, 1877, and the total cost will slightly exceed £15,000.

From the new report issued by the Victoria (Philosophical) Institute, of 7, Adelphi-terrace, it appears that a considerable number of American and colonial members have joined this year: out of twenty-four elected last month, twenty were country or foreign members.

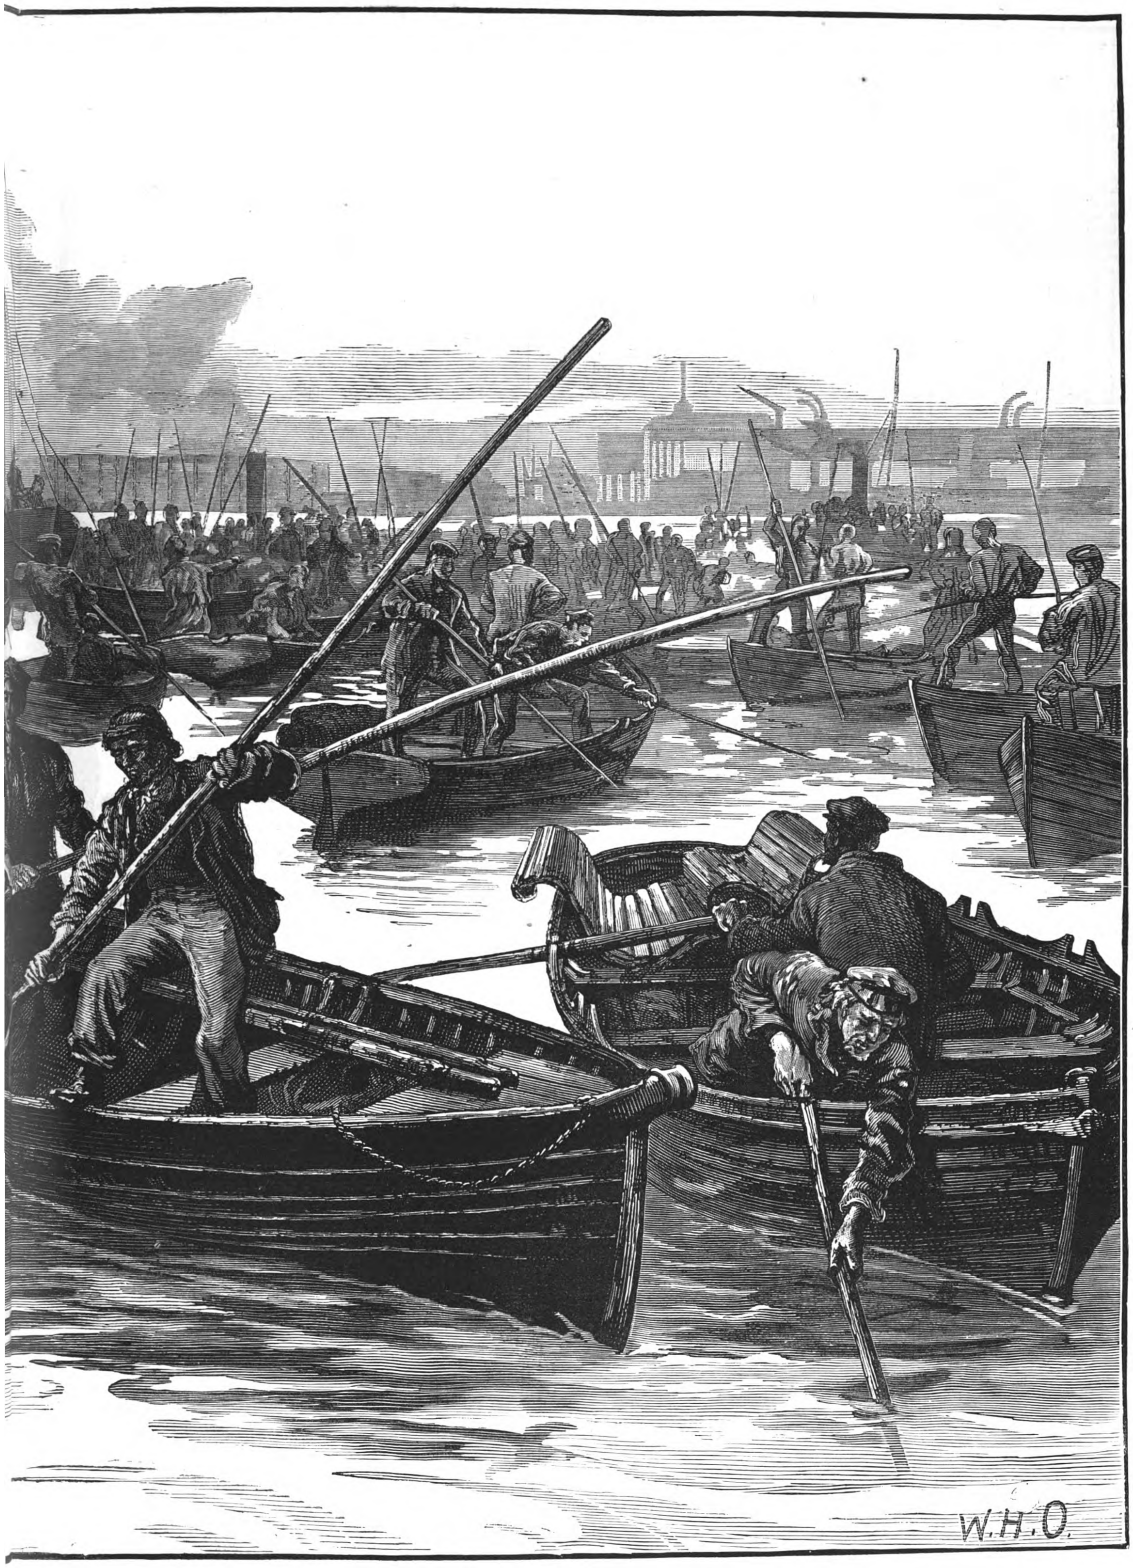
Mr. Thomas William Saunders, who has been appointed a metropolitan police magistrate in succession to Mr. Knox, took the oaths on Wednesday before Mr. Justice Hawkins, sitting as Vacation Judge. Mr. Saunders, who was called to the Bar in 1837, practised on the Western Circuit, and holds the position of Recorder of Bath.

Colonel Henderson reports that last year 14,410 new houses, 270 new streets, and two new squares, covering a length of 39 miles and 1623 yards, were added to the metropolis. The average yearly number of new houses during the last twenty-nine years has been 10,610, so that this year is above the average; but the average length of new streets opened yearly during that period has been forty-four miles.

Some boys were charged last Saturday, at the Marylebone Police Court, with breaking into Trinity Presbyterian Church, Kentish Town, and doing a great deal of damage there. After the boys had made their way in they broke a valuable harmonium to pieces, and made a bonfire on the floor with such Bibles and hymn-books as they could find. They drank the sacramental wine and carried off some property. The magistrate remanded them.

The weekly return of metropolitan pauperism shows that the total number of paupers at the end of the first week in September was 76,306, of whom 38,648 were in workhouses and 37,658 received outdoor relief. Compared with the corresponding weeks in 1877, 1876, and 1875 these figures show a decrease of 484, 1029, and 5917 respectively. The number of vagrants relieved on the last day of the week was 625, of whom 437 were men, 146 women, and 41 children under sixteen.

The Liverymen of London will meet on the 28th inst. at Guildhall for the election of the Lord Mayor for the ensuing civic year. The Aldermen eligible are Sir Charles Whetham, Sir Francis Wyatt Truscott, Mr. Alderman M'Arthur, M.P., Mr. Alderman Ellis, Mr. Alderman Figgins, Mr. Alderman Knight, Mr. Alderman Hadley, Mr. Alderman Nottage, and Mr. Alderman Staples. It is customary for the Livery to select the two senior Aldermen, and then for the Court of Aldermen to make from them the final choice. Should that course be followed this year, the Lord Mayor elect will probably be Sir Charles Whetham, the Alderman of Bridge ward. The new Sheriffs, Mr. George Burt and Mr. Thomas Bevan, will be sworn in on the 28th also.



The Cleopatra Needle, after its many vicissitudes, was on Thursday placed in its position on the Thames Embankment, between Charing-cross and Waterloo Bridges. A large number of ladies and gentlemen were conveyed from Westminster Pier to a saloon-steamer moored opposite the monolith. Under the obelisk, in addition to the standard measures authorised by the Government officials, and copies of the coins of the realm and of the newspapers of the day, were placed, from the Bible Society, copies of the Bible in the English and French languages, the Hebrew Pentateuch, the Arabic Genesis, and a specimen published by the Bible Society showing the 16th verse of the 3rd chapter of St. John in 215 languages. On board the saloon-ship Professor Wilson addressed those present, traced the history of the monolith, and paid a tribute of gratitude to Sir J. Alexander, who first suggested, and to Mr. J. Dixon, who has so successfully carried out, the design of bringing the Needle to this country. The monolith was then lowered into its present position, the operation occupying one hour; after which loud cheers were given for the Queen, for the Khedive of of Egypt, for Professor Wilson, and for Mr. Dixon and his assistants. We shall illustrate the ceremony next week.

The annual collections held under the name of Hospital Saturday for the benefit of the London hospitals and dispensaries were made last Saturday, when collecting-boxes were placed at suitable spots throughout the metropolis. On Monday night at twelve o'clock the task of counting the money collected at the street stations was concluded. For this work ten gentlemen engaged in London banking-houses volunteered their services, all of whom were on Monday night at their posts, busily engaged in arranging the £260 in copper found in the boxes. As far as is at present known, this year's collection has exceeded that of any previous year. The amount collected by street boxes in 1874 was £258, in 1875 £489, in 1876 £825, in 1877 £777, while the amount taken to the Bank last night exceeded £1000. The largest amount deposited in any single box was £26 11s. 9d. found in that stationed at the Peabody statue, of which £6 10s. was gold; and the smallest amount any box contained was 7s. 7½d. This year the E.C. district contributed the largest amount, the smallest being that collected in the northern district. One of the collectors, the lady appointed to the station in Monument-yard, was lost in the Princess Alice, as were also two of the fund's boxes. The collections on the London Steam-Boat Company's boats have been very good, that on Citizen H, commanded by Captain Cuff, amounting to £5 11s. 3d.

There were 2416 births and 1260 deaths registered in London last week. Allowing for increase of population, the births exceeded by 90, while the deaths were 166 below, the average. There were 54 fatal cases of whooping-cough, which showed a further decline of 2 from the numbers in recent weeks, but exceeded the corrected weekly average by 18. The deaths referred to fever, which had been but 16 and 23 in the two preceding weeks, further rose to 25 last week, but were 7 below the corrected average weekly number: 18 fatal cases were certified as enteric or typhoid, 2 as typhus, and 5 as simple continued fever. There were 30 deaths from scarlet fever, and 10 from diphtheria. The deaths referred to diarrhœa and simple cholera, which had been 494, 351, 268, 201, and 154 in the five preceding weeks, further declined last week to 124, and were 55 below the corrected average number. The fatal cases of smallpox, which had been 10 and 6 in the two previous weeks, further declined to 3 last week, a lower number than in any previous week since the beginning of August, 1876. The Metropolitan Asylum hospitals contained 178 smallpox patients on Saturday last, showing a further decline of 16 from the numbers at the end of recent weeks; 18 new cases were admitted during the week, against 36, 22, and 18 in the three preceding weeks. The Highgate Smallpox Hospital contained but 7 patients on Saturday last. In the Greater London 2972 births and 1475 deaths were registered. The mean temperature of the air was 61·2 deg., and 2·3 deg. above the average in the corresponding week of the sixty years 1814—73. The duration of registered bright sunshine in the week was 31·2 hours, the sun being above the horizon during 93·1 hours.

THE GREAT DISASTER ON THE THAMES: RECOVER

G BODIES FROM THE WRECK OF THE PRINCESS ALICE.

ECHOES OF THE WEEK.

On Saturday morning last five murderers suffered the penalty of death by the guillotine within the territory of the French Republic. Three of these criminals were Arabs, and were executed at Philippeville in Algeria. The remaining two were Frenchmen, named respectively Barré and Lebiez. They were quite young men; one had been a medical student, the other a clerk; and they had been convicted on the clearest evidence of the murder of an old woman named Gillet. The deed was an exceptionally deliberate and atrocious one. The motive was that greed of gain which, under a hundred different aspects, seems to be driving the French people mad.

If capital punishment is, under any circumstances, to be inflicted, it is certain that no two detestable caitiffs ever deserved their punishment so richly as did Barré and Lebiez. Their execution has, nevertheless, filled society in Paris with a universal sentiment of horror and disgust; and it is probable that the butchery which took place at dawn last Saturday in front of the prison of La Roquette will find its place in history as the last public execution in France. The question remains whether it will be thought expedient to retain the guillotine as an instrument of death. Looking at home, we have an equal right to ask ourselves whether it is worth while to retain that remarkably venerable apparatus, the gallows; and whether a dose of prussic acid or an overwhelming electric shock might not be found as effectual a means of carrying out the ends of justice as Marwood's halter and drop.

But the example, the advocates of capital punishment may urge. Touching examples, I may be permitted to relate a little apologue. I have heard of an austere French lady who was accustomed to correct her little granddaughter when she was naughty. "Et ne croyez pas," she would gravely say, prior to inflicting punishment, "que c'est pour mon plaisir que je vous corrige." "Pour le plaisir de qui, alors?" piteously asked the small logician. Who is to profit by the example set forth by the solemn strangulation of an assassin in a prison yard? The solemn assassin himself? Scarcely. He has read—and read too much in detail, perhaps—the accounts of other men being hanged; but those highly-spiced narratives have not deterred him from the commission of murder. The mob outside? Why it is the same mob that in the old days used to look on an Easter-Monday hanging in the Old Bailey as a joyous preliminary to the subsequent Saturnalia of Greenwich Fair, and who even now, when they have been deprived of the spectacle of a public strangling, hang in dingy groups outside the gaol while the hanging is going on, and waiting for the black flag to be hoisted. It strikes me that the persons most immediately brought in contact with the "example" are the High Sheriff, the governor of the prison, the chaplain, and the warders, who are made sick by the horrible transaction.

Some two-and-twenty years ago I published a long letter in the Times newspaper protesting against the scenes of infamy which were then common when executions took place in front of Newgate. In writing the letter I had before my eyes the "example" of some dashing young men about town of my acquaintance, who, in order to witness the execution of a batch of peculiarly notorious murderers, hired the first-floor front of a tavern in the Old Bailey, and played loo all night. They were more fortunate in the morning than My Lord Tomnoddy, for they did see the men hanged. I read in the French papers that similarly gay parties were made up on Friday, at the great boulevard restaurants, to "make a night of it" prior to the butchery of Barré and Lebiez, which took place at five thirty a.m. By four the cabinets particuliers of the restaurants were evacuated; and the dashing young men about town and their lady friends, smoking cigarettes and singing merry songs, drove down to the Place de la Roquette. By some means or another no less than fifteen hundred persons obtained billets de circulation from the Prefecture of Police, enabling them to approach the scaffold.

Mem: In quiting an ugly subject I may mention that I witnessed, as the correspondent of a newspaper, the first private execution that took place in England. It was in September or October, 1867, at Maidstone Gaol; and my companions were Mr. J. C. Parkinson, then representing the Daily News, and Mr. Edmund Yates, representing the now defunct Morning Star. Looking upon a private hanging as a very important experiment in criminal science I wrote, in the most guarded and measured terms at my command, an account of the transaction. The accounts written by my companions were as cautiously worded as my own narrative was. Our reward was to be dubbed "ghoules" and "vampires" by the Saturday Review.

Alarming accounts continue to be current touching the mental health of Victor Hugo. One section of the Paris press stoutly declare that the illustrious poet is in possession of all his faculties, while other journals as authoritatively assert that the news from Guernsey is of the most serious character, and that Victor Hugo is on the very verge of insanity. He has a mania, it is stated, for having himself photographed; he will stand for hours before a glass pouring forth furious diatribes against the Bonaparte family; and sometimes he will lie at full length on the ground, and then slowly raise himself, keeping his arms folded all the while. Well; "great wits are sure to madness near allied." For the rest, every distinguished man of letters must expect to hear from time to time that he has gone out of his mind; that he has taken to eating opium or drinking chloral, that the bailiffs are in his house, that he has run away from his wife and family, and that his last novel was written, not by himself, but by Miss Sophonisba O'Bleek, of Ballymulligan, Ireland.

The World has propounded sundry "puzzles" to its readers in the shape of sundry phrases in French which are written in incorrect grammar, and which the puzzle-loving public are invited to correct. I shall have something to say concerning these "puzzles" next week. Meanwhile "M. le Rebouteur" continues to put his own countrymen to the blush in his "Entorses de la Grammaire," published in the Paris Figaro. This terrible purist has found out that it is wrong to say "Allumez le feu." Analogously we commit quite as grave a solecism when we say "Light the fire." It is the coal or the wood that we set on fire; and to be strictly correct we should say "Kindle a fire," or "Set light to the fuel in the fire-place."

G. A. S.

The works of the Tynemouth Aquarium, of which we gave an Illustration last week, were executed by Messrs. Aldin and Bray, of Adelphi-terrace, London.

As Mr. Silas Pomeroy, a justice of the peace, was walking over his estate at Blandy, Hampshire, last Wednesday morning, he was attacked by a bull. He retreated into a hedge, and endeavoured to defend himself with his stick, but in vain, and he was gored to death. The day was the anniversary of Mr. Pomeroy's birthday, and a large party had been invited to dinner.

NATIONAL SPORTS.

It cannot be said that the Doncaster Meeting began very auspiciously. The yearling sales on Tuesday morning, to which we shall allude again presently, were a sad failure; and the first day's race-card was the weakest that we have seen for years. Looking back on the number of flyers that have contested the Fitzwilliam Stakes, it was really melancholy to see Ecossais walking over for the forfeits; nor did the Filly Stakes mend matters much, as Jessie Agnes had only to canter in front of the Charlotte Russe filly. This was succeeded by the Doncaster Plate, also reduced to a match; and even the Great Yorkshire Handicap displayed a marked falling-off, as the field only numbered eight. A good deal of interest was felt in the running of Advance (9 st. 3 lb.) as he was the trial horse of Master Kildare and Boniface, Captain Machell's Leger candidates, and he performed sufficiently well to satisfy their supporters. At the finish Rylstone (8 st. 10 lb.) was promoted to the post of favourite, and Lord Hartington's mare managed to beat everything except Flotsam (6 st. 9 lb.), who had the race in hand quite half a mile from home, and added one more to the long list of victories achieved by the stock of Speculum this season. All Fordham's exertions could only get Jagellon (7 st. 5 lb.) into third place, and we fancy that the horse is not always inclined to do his best. Another small field of five ran for the Champagne Stakes, though Rayon d'Or, Charibert, and Claudius were fair representatives of quality. Charibert was in trouble a long way from home, and Rayon d'Or appeared likely to win easily; but Count Lagrange has lately experienced the most provoking luck in running second for valuable stakes, and Lord Falmouth's colt, who is half-brother to Childeric, struggled on with great gameness, and, fairly wearing down the French youngster, won cleverly at the finish. Rayon d'Or still presents a raw, unfurnished appearance, and is quite likely to develop into a better three-year-old than his conqueror, who, though very neat, is a trifle on the small side.

Magnificent weather and the apparently open character of the race attracted an enormous crowd to witness the decision of the St. Leger. The Prince of Wales, who was the guest of Mr. Christopher Sykes, was in the Royal Stand, few of the aristocratic patrons of the turf were absent, and all the surrounding towns contributed more than their usual quota to the immense mob that occupied every advantageous spot on the famous moor. Little interest was exhibited in the opening events, in one of which Dresden China could make no fight against Witchery, while in the other Ecossais, who seems inclined to emulate Mr. Tennyson's "Brook," and "go on for ever," made nothing of his 9 st. 10 lb. The saddling-paddock seemed the general object of attraction, and it was some relief to the backers of Beauclerc, who were "hoping against hope," to see James Snowden lifted into the saddle before any other jockey had mounted, and be thus assured that they would have the forlorn consolation of a run for their money. Little Insulaire, looking wonderfully fresh and well, was the first to appear upon the course, and he was quickly followed by most of the others, though Lord Falmouth's pair did not join the rest for some little time. At a casual glance, Childeric is decidedly better looking than Jannette; but the filly seemed more quiet and business-like, while the immemorable followers of Archer unhesitatingly declared for the one that their champion had elected to ride. Lord Lonsdale and Mr. Houldsworth each followed Lord Falmouth's example and started a couple of representatives, the former nobleman having purchased Master Kildare and Boniface a few hours before the race. Just as the lot were pulling up after the preliminary canter, Castlereagh kicked F. Sharp, the lad who was riding Yagar, and broke his leg. The horse was, therefore, withdrawn, and the starters were thus reduced to fourteen, which is exactly the same number that took part in the race last year. A capital start was effected at the first attempt, and when they had fairly settled down to their work Glengarry carried his colours to the front, and went on, followed by Master Kildare, Potentate, and Boniface, the last named being just clear of Mappleton and Jannette. As they commenced ascending the hill after going about three furlongs Potentate, on the outside, increased the pace, and drew away with a clear lead of a couple of lengths, his nearest attendants now being Boniface, Glengarry, and Mappleton, who went away in a cluster from Master Kildare and Attalus, Lord Falmouth's pair being most prominent of the remainder, of whom Castlereagh had now emerged from the ruck, which was whipped in by Beauclerc and Eau de Vie. Potentate maintained a clear lead to the Red House, where Boniface still lay second, while a couple of lengths from Lord Lonsdale's horse succeeded Glengarry and Master Kildare, just in advance of Attalus and Insulaire, Red Archer at the same time taking a more prominent place on the outside, Childeric making a bold show in the centre, and the favourite coming up on the rails, while of the others Mappleton was now tailed off many lengths behind everything. Immediately after passing the above-named landmark Potentate was hopelessly beaten, and, with Boniface and Glengarry in trouble in the next few strides, Master Kildare assumed the command coming round the bend into the straight, when Red Archer and Insulaire gave way to Lord Falmouth's pair. At the distance Master Kildare was well beaten, and Jannette, coming through next the rails, drew clear away from Childeric, and won with the utmost ease by four lengths. Master Kildare was third, half a length behind Childeric. Clocher passed Insulaire half up the distance, and finished fourth, clear of Count Lagrange's colt, fifth. Attalus was sixth, Beauclerc seventh, Boniface eighth, Castlereagh ninth, Eau de Vie next, in front of Red Archer and Potentate, with Glengarry last, excepting Mappleton, who came in with the crowd. Thus, for two years in succession, Lord Falmouth has supplied the first and second for the great race in the north; and on each occasion Archer's judgment of the merits of the pair has been amply vindicated. Master Kildare presented such a bold front until reaching the distance that, with only 7 st. 4 lb. on his back, he must have an immense chance for the Cesarewitch; and Beauclerc, all untrained as he was, performed more than respectably. Red Archer proved the imposter of the race; and Clocher fully confirmed his Goodwood form with Insulaire, who, in spite of his stout breeding, did not run like a stayer. The remaining races of the day may be dismissed very briefly. White Poppy (8 st. 4 lb) had no trouble in giving weight to seven of her eight opponents in the Corporation Stakes, and Boulouf made a thorough example of Julius Cæsar over two miles.

Doubtless, as Mr. Edmund Tattersall remarked in his recent letter on the formation of a racing company, the depreciation in the price of yearlings is only temporary; but there can be no doubt that it is very pronounced, and on Tuesday and Wednesday breeders had a very bad time of it. On the former day lot after lot was sent back unsold; but matters improved a little on Wednesday, when a few fair prices were realised. Two of Lord Bateman's five were sold pretty well, a filly by Saunterer—Miss Livingstone making 620 gs. A dozen from the Stanton stud did not do very well, as the top price obtained—for an own brother to Picnic—was only 550 gs. Mr. Bromwich's quartette averaged 358 gs., a grand success as times go; but few of the others did any good, and we can only hope that we may have to chronicle brisker competition during the remainder of the week.

The Australians are winding up their tour in this country almost more successfully than they began it, and last week achieved a grand victory over Gloucestershire by ten wickets. Several of the team scored pretty freely; but the feature of the match was the grand bowling of Spofforth, who took twelve wickets for 90 runs. The Australians v. Gentlemen of England, at Scarborough, ended in a draw, greatly in favour of our visitors, for whom C. Bannerman (54) and Mr. Murdoch (not out, 44 and 49) batted very successfully. In a match between Yorkshire and I Zingari Mr. A. J. Webbe played a fine innings of 100 on behalf of the club, which, however, was beaten by nine wickets.

To-day (Saturday) the sculling-match between Sadler and Howden will take place; and on Monday and Tuesday next Higgins, Blackman, Elliott, and Boyd will compete for the challenge cup presented by the proprietors of the Sportsman.

THE VOLUNTEERS.

On Tuesday the annual rifle contest between the Central London Rangers (40th Middlesex) and the London and Westminster (46th Middlesex), ten men a side, at 200, 500, and 600 yards ranges, came off at the Tottenham Park range. At the first distance the 46th headed the Rangers by 11 points, the respective totals being 242 against 231. At 500 yards the London and Westminster team increased their lead by another 11 points—213 against 202. It was now plain that the match was in the hands of the 46th, who at 600 yards increased their lead, and eventually won by 63 points.

The B, or Railway, company of the 20th Middlesex competed at the Stanmore ranges for a long list of prizes. In the first series the first prize, presented by Captain Partington, was won by Colour-Sergeant J. W. Morgan; Corporal Maffey took the second prize, a marble timepiece, presented by Lieutenant Hill; the third prize (Lieutenant Long's) went to Private Curtis; and the fourth, fifth, and sixth prizes, presented by Messrs. M'Corquodale, Colour-Sergeant Morgan, and Captain Partington, were won by Lieutenant Long, Sergeant Wright, and Private Boreham. In the second series Private Miles won the first prize. The fourth series was open to all volunteers in the service of the London and North-Western Railway Company at Euston-square, many of whom were necessarily handicapped. The principal prize was a silver cup, value 10 guineas, presented by Mr. F. Taplin, which was won by Colour-Sergeant Morgan. The second prize fell to Private Curtis, and the third to Lieutenant Long.

A contest for prizes, presented by Mr. Alderman Ellis, the Broad-street and Aldersgate-street Wards of the City, the Worshipful Company of Drapers, and others, was held on Wednesday at the Rainham ranges, Essex, the competitors being the K and O companies of the London Rifle Brigade. The winners were declared as follow:—First prize, the Company's Challenge Vase and eight guineas, presented by the Ward of Aldersgate, was won by Private Sanderson; Corporal Haines was second, and took a prize of six guineas, also presented by the ward; Sergeant Kitchingman took the third prize of five guineas, given by Mr. G. Sims, Common Council; the fourth prize, five guineas, presented by Mr. H. Holland, Common Council, went to Sergeant Brachi; the fifth, also value five guineas, and presented by Private Chant, was awarded to Sergeant Tayton; and Private Richardson won the sixth prize (Ward of Aldersgate), four guineas; Private White, Captain Poulter's prize of four guineas; Sergeant Ellett, the Sergeants' prize of £2 10s.; and others of two guineas and one guinea each (presented by Mr. D. Norton, Mr. H. Piper, Messrs. Wrightson and Co., Lieutenant Marshall, and Private Sanderson) were won by Corporal Wrightson, Corporal Linstead, Private Neeley, Lieutenant Young, and Private Westrup. In the series open to those only who had never won a prize, Private Faulkner was awarded Lieutenant Young's prize of three guineas, Private Debenham the Ward of Aldersgate prize of one guinea, and Corporal Paxton the third prize, also one guinea. For recruits who had joined the company since Oct. 31, 1877, and who had never won a shooting-prize in any other regiment, two prizes were given, one being won by Private Martin and the other by Private Briscoe.

The prize-list of the O (Broad-street Ward) company displayed evidence in its conditions of care that only the men who were as efficient in drill as in shooting could obtain a chance of the rewards. No member was allowed to compete unless efficient by the annual official inspection and who had attended six commanding-officer's parades, one point being added, for every such attendance, to the second, fourth, and sixth prizes. One prize (the third) was also restricted to those only who had attended the regimental camp at Mitcham, the march to Brighton, or the camp of exercise at Aldershott. Captain H. C. Wadd was in command, with Lieutenant Piggott. The first prize, of five guineas, presented by Mr. Alderman Ellis, was won by Lieutenant Piggott; the second, also of five guineas, presented by the Broad-street Ward, was won by Quartermaster-Sergeant Stuckey; the third, four guineas (Worshipful Company of Drapers'), by Corporal Hall; the fourth, four guineas (Captain Wadd's), by Private Nash; the fifth, five guineas (Lieutenant Piggott's), by Private Runtz; the sixth (Broad-street Ward's), three guineas, by Colour-Sergeant Lowe; the seventh (Broad-street Ward's), two guineas, by Private Schultz; the eighth (Sergeant's), two guineas, by Private Prior; and the ninth (the Corporal's), two guineas, by Private Taylor.

The purveyors of Christmas cards and New-Year greetings have this year a new and formidable rival in Messrs. Eyre and Spottiswoode, her Majesty's printers, who are at the fore with a complete series of these elegant trifles, their own design and printing. Among the variety of dainty devices issued by this firm are floral designs, poetical gleanings, Shaksperian gems, Scripture text cards, and Christmas greetings in verse, all gracefully embellished. Then there are large scripture texts, the designs of which are masterpieces of floral illumination, beautifully printed in gold and colours, and adapted for the decoration of churches, school-rooms, and private houses.

The year's public accounts show that the following annuities are payable out of the public purse:—£4000 a year to the heirs and descendants of William Penn for ever; £1080 to the heirs of the Duke of Schomberg; £1200 hereditary pension to the Earl of Bath; £5000 to the person to whom the title of Earl Nelson shall descend; £4000 to whom the title of the Duke of Marlborough shall descend; £3000 to the representatives of Jeffery, Earl Amherst; £2000 to the heirs male on whom the title of Viscount Exmouth shall descend; £2000 to all and every the heirs male on whom the title of Lord Rodney shall descend; £676 hereditary pension to the Earl of Kinnoul. The following are not among the perpetual pensions, but are payable during the life of the present holder of the title mentioned and his next successor:—The Duke of Wellington, £4000 a year; Viscount Hardinge, £3000; Viscount Combermere, Lord Seaton, Lord Keane, Lord Gough, Lord Raglan, and Lord Napier of Magdala, £2000 each.

POLITICAL.

During the past week many members of Parliament, chiefly on the Liberal side, have given their opinions on State affairs.

The Marquis of Hartington, speaking yesterday week at the Radnorshire Agricultural Show, said some of his audience might think that he had come there under suspicious circumstances. They did not very often see him there, except when election matters were stirred. He was not in possession of any secrets. He had no idea himself that we were on the eve of a general election. If we were he was as much in the dark as any one. He had hoped to speak on political topics about this time, but, considering the protracted and agitated Session, he thought a month or two might well elapse before renewing the fight, or he must find some new subject to fight over. He was not equal to emulating the heroic exertions of some members of the Government, who had begun a political campaign immediately the Session was over; and, with their kind permission, he would postpone his speech to his constituents for a month or two.

Mr. Grant Duff addressed his constituents at Peterhead the same day. He said a general election could not fail to come before very long, at any rate within two years of the present time, and that election would be one of the greatest importance, for the question put to the country would be, "Do you want to be managed by the Liberal party and on Liberal principles, or do you want to be managed by the party now in power on its principles or no principles?" The election would be a fierce struggle between the progressive and the retrograde elements of our society embodied in the names of particular merit. When the proper time arrived he would again present himself as a candidate for the suffrages of his constituents.

Mr. Plimsoll, in giving a farewell address to his constituents at Derby on Monday night, condemned the Treaty of Berlin as not having brought honour, and as not likely in the future to bring peace. He considered Cyprus to be useless as a base of operations against Russia, and believed it was only acquired, in the general defeat of the Government's policy at Berlin, for the sake of bringing something home. The acquisition had served its purpose when the cheers which greeted the Plenipotentiaries died away; and, if the Ministry could find a decent excuse, it was his opinion that they would be glad to be rid of Cyprus. He stated that his special work with respect to the protection of merchant seamen having been accomplished, he felt entitled to ask those who had given him his position in Parliament to excuse him from duty after the close of the present Parliament. He felt that nothing more could be done, except by the President of the Board of Trade, in the direction of making effective the measure which had been accepted at his instigation by Parliament.

Mr. Fortescue Harrison spoke to a large meeting of the electors of Kilmarnock the same evening, in the Corn Exchange, which was crowded. He reviewed the home and foreign policy of the Government, and said that domestic legislation had suffered, and would continue to be neglected, so long as the foreign policy of the Ministry continued to engage the attention of the country. He disapproved of the Anglo-Turkish Convention, and said that the Berlin Treaty had brought neither peace nor honour; but, on the contrary, it had sown the seeds of future trouble for this country, and that the treatment of Greece and the assent to the Austrians took from the transactions all claim to be called honourable. He contrasted the expenditure of the country with that which obtained under a Liberal Government, and warned the electors against political apathy.

Mr. Ernest Noel, speaking to his constituents at Dumfries the same night, reviewed the policy of the Government and justified the opposition of the Liberals. The Plenipotentiaries, he contended, had not brought peace with honour, for no country but Great Britain could have declared war.

Five Warwickshire members made speeches at an agricultural society's dinner at Coventry on Tuesday; the principal subject named was the Contagious Diseases (Animals) Bill.

At Carlisle Mr. C. Howard and Sir W. Lawson addressed the Liberal Association. The former gentleman devoted himself to the foreign policy of the Government, which he denounced; and the latter remarked, referring to the rewards given to the British Plenipotentiaries, that what they had obtained might be best described as peace with honours.

Lord Stanley of Alderley, speaking on Wednesday night at the annual dinner of the Anglesea County Agricultural Society, declined to concur in the opinion that peace in Europe was now fully ensured, and that there was now no present prospect of active employment for the naval and military forces of the country. On the contrary, he feared that the country was in danger now, and that the peace negotiations were a failure.

At the Wayland Agricultural Society's dinner, on Wednesday, Lord Walsingham said he was sure that all would agree that the position in which the Government was lately placed by advocates of the sentimental school of politics was one of extreme difficulty, and that nothing but great coolness and foresight, combined with unexampled forbearance, had extricated the country from the critical dilemma in which it was placed. He trusted that the foreign policy of the Government would be vigorously maintained, and followed and supported by the growing approval and conviction of all parties.

Mr. Gladstone, in declining, with great regret, an invitation to attend a dinner of the Liberal party in Newcastle-under-Lyme, congratulates the Liberals of that borough on their recent victory, and commends "that representative organisation which the Tories and the weak-hearted Liberals are now endeavouring to cry down." He concludes his letter as follows:—"Should your example, as I hope, be followed elsewhere, it will do much to check the Administration in a career alike injurious to prosperity at home and to honour and tranquillity abroad."

Mr. E. Bridges-Willyams, who formerly represented Truro, having consented to stand in the Liberal interest for that borough, has issued his address; it states:—"My political opinions remain unchanged, and, though I am a firm and consistent Liberal, I should never offer a factious opposition to measures which in themselves I considered for the public good, from whomsoever they might emanate. I am not at present prepared to condemn the whole of the foreign policy of the Government, but I do look with great apprehension and alarm at the continued enormous increase in the national expenditure, and which, unless checked by a strong hand, can only lead to the imposition of heavy burdens on the people. I shall be found ready to support all sound measures having for their object the prosperity of my fellow-creatures in all parts of the Queen's dominions."—Colonel Tremayne was on Monday night accepted as the Conservative candidate. Mr. Protheroe Smith, brother of Mr. Justice Smith, has declined to contest the seat. Both parties are working energetically.

Sir Stafford Northcote, Chancellor of the Exchequer, will next month visit the midland counties, under the auspices of various local Conservative associations. For a Conservative gathering to be held in Birmingham on the 19th and on the 21st of that month, he will arrive in that district on the 18th, when he will be the guest of Lord Norton, at Hams. He will attend similar meetings at Wolverhampton on the 22nd, and at Dudley on the 23rd of that month. During that time he will be the guest of the Earl of Dartmouth, at Patshull.

The Kilkenny Moderator is informed that the Hon. Henry Edmund Butler, eldest son of Lord Mountgarret, will offer himself for the county of Kilkenny at the next election.

TRADES' UNION CONGRESS.

The eleventh annual congress of representatives of the various trades' unions of the country was begun at Bristol, on Monday, in the Lecture Hall of the Athenæum. There were delegates present representing every branch of industry.

Mr. Bailey (Preston), chairman of the Parliamentary Committee, presided at the opening sitting of the congress. He said that, taking into consideration the depression in all branches of industry, he thought the attendance at that assembly showed that the working men of the country had every confidence in the usefulness and benefits of the trades' unions. Though they had sustained defeats in Lancashire, London, Northumberland, and other places, they had not become wholly demoralised, but retained a nucleus by which they could improve their position at no distant period. They had now to contend with a strong federation of employers, and he thought the day was not far distant when they, as trades' unionists, would have to extend their lines, and have a strong federation, instead of existing simply as isolated societies.

Mr. G. F. Jones, Secretary of the Bristol Trades' Council, was elected President, and other officers having been chosen.

Mr. Broadhurst (London), secretary of the Parliamentary Committee, presented the report of the committee, which characterised the past Session of Parliament as a most exciting one. It referred at length to all the measures bearing upon the labour question which were introduced into Parliament last Session, expressing pleasure that the Employers' Liability for Injury Bill had made so much progress in public esteem and confidence, and believing that great advantages would result from the operation of the new Factory Act. The committee attributed the universal depression of trade to reckless speculation and the Eastern Question, but hoped for a revival of trade next spring. Alluding to the defeat of unionists in Manchester and London, the committee urged unionists to place their societies on the soundest foundations.

The congress reassembled on Tuesday to hear the opening address of Mr. G. F. Jones, the President, which dealt excellently with matters of interest to their organisation. The principal business was the discussion and adoption of the Parliamentary Committee's report. Mr. Macdonald, M.P., spoke in defence of the Compensation for Injuries Bill, and also condemned the isolated action of the railway servants in trying for a bill of their own. A vote of thanks was passed to him. The Standing Orders Committee reported 136 delegates to be present, representing 623,957 members of trade societies.

At the third sitting of the congress, held on Wednesday, there were present Mr. Macdonald, M.P., Mr. John Morley, Mr. Henry Crompton, and a large number of delegates, including Dr. Eliza Dunbar, Mrs. Paterson, Miss Merrick, Miss Simcox, and Miss Brown. Mr. Morley, who was warmly received, read a paper on over-production. He said the situation of trade at the present moment made the discussions of that congress more than ordinarily serious. The industrial world had been overcast with the gloom of falling markets, silent factories, idle furnaces, closed pits, scanty profits, often crossing the line to losses that were not scanty, and lowered wages. Let them beware of exaggerating the amount and intensity of the existing depression. They were told in the sombreness of suppressed panic that the exports had fallen off. Considering that both steel and iron rails had been at prices 120 per cent higher than they were now, that coal had been 200 per cent higher, and that within the last two years many large classes of cotton goods were 40 per cent above the prices to day, it would, of course, be nothing short of a miracle if the volume of expenses had maintained their money value. Employers should be less ready to treat reduction of wages as the first and only possible remedy. When trade was bad, a temporary limitation of supply for the purpose of relieving over-production was the natural remedy; whilst a permanent limitation of supply for raising prices was an artificial device. He denied that foreign competition existed to any great extent, and showed that foreign countries, said to be in competition with England, also suffered in trade, particularly where they had adopted the policy of protection. The Criminal Jurisdiction Bill was discussed, Mr. Crompton reviewing at considerable length the bill, which, in his opinion, was sound and thorough. Mr. Knight (Liverpool) moved a resolution supporting the bill, which was seconded by Mr. Turner (Sheffield), and was carried unanimously. Some other business having been disposed of, the congress adjourned. In the evening the delegates were entertained by members of the Bristol Trades' Council at the Grand Hotel. The president of the congress presided, and there were nearly 200 guests present.

On Thursday the President referred to the fearful colliery accident in South Wales, and suggested that the Standing Orders Committee should bring the matter before the congress in some tangible form. The chairman of the Standing Orders Committee said they would frame a resolution to meet the case. A letter was read from the Council of the International Labour Union, calling the attention of the congress to the necessity of international organisation.

The congress lasted the whole week, and the subjects for discussion included—Compensation for Accidents, Reform of the Magistracy, Codification of the Law, Redirection of Jurymen's Qualification, Reform of the Patent Laws, Co-operation, Representation of Labour in Parliament, Overtime, and Apprenticeships.

The old colours of the 23rd Royal Scots Fusiliers were on Monday sent from Dublin in charge of several officers to be deposited in the Greyfriars Church, Dumfries. The Duchess of Marlborough recently presented new colours to the regiment.

A meeting of the subscription committee in connection with the proposal to send Liverpool artisan representative reporters to the Paris Exhibition was held on Tuesday in the Townhall, Liverpool. The Mayor presided, and said it would be understood that the committee would select and nominate those who were to be sent to Paris, and any report the artisan made should be made to the committee. It was resolved that £6 be allotted each representative to meet all charges from the time of leaving Liverpool to the time of his return. It was also resolved that representatives be sent from the following trades:—Cabinet-makers, sugar-refiners, printers, engineers, pattern-makers, rope-makers, boot and shoe makers, rice-millers, and coopers; and, if funds permitted, for the watch-makers, jewellers, bakers and confectioners, upholsterers, and seed-crushers. Mr. Cunliffe Owen had written from Paris that the representatives would receive every assistance in accordance with the instructions he had received from the Prince of Wales respecting visits of artisans. The committee is to meet again next week to select the representatives.

THE WORCESTER MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

The one hundred and fifty-fifth meeting of the three cathedral choirs of this city, Gloucester, and Hereford began on Tuesday morning. Full details of all the arrangements having been given last week, it will now only be necessary to speak of the performances so far as they have gone at the time of writing.

The inaugural service in the cathedral took place at half-past eleven on Tuesday morning, in lieu of the oratorio performance by which, at a similar period, the festival had hitherto been opened. This, as explained last week, was one of the stipulations insisted on by the Dean and Chapter when consenting to the recurrence of the celebration this year, under the same conditions of musical importance as heretofore, the meeting in 1875 having, as already stated, been reduced to the primitive form of services and anthems rendered merely by the associated choirs with organ accompaniment. Tuesday's service included a sermon, special to the occasion, preached by the Bishop of Worcester, who took for his text the fourteenth verse of the ninth chapter of the first Epistle to the Corinthians, on which the right reverend prelate founded a discourse in which he referred to the benevolent purposes of the festival and the modifications in the arrangements for the present occasion.

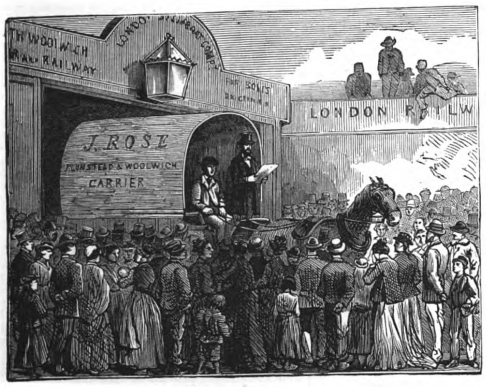
The musical portion of the service comprised the fine "Te Deum" which Handel composed in celebration of the victory of Dettingen; Purcell's noble Jubilate in D; and an arrangement by Mr. Alfred Angel—as an anthem, "Blessing, Glory, Wisdom, and Thanks"—of one of Bach's motets for double choir. The work has been transposed from the key of F to that of E flat, and the notation altered, with a view of facilitating its practice. These grand works produced a profound impression, heard amidst the solemn surroundings of the fine cathedral of Worcester. The vocal solos of the "Te Deum" and "Jubilate" were distributed among Misses Mary Davies and Bertha Griffiths, Madame Patey, Mr. Guy, Mr. Wadmore, and Mr. Santley. Mr. Lloyd (of Gloucester) presided at the organ and played, as an introductory voluntary, Handel's concerto in B flat, with orchestral accompaniments, the co-operation of the band having been a special feature in the performance of the "Te Deum" and "Jubilate."

The oratorio performances began on Tuesday evening, when the first part of Haydn's "Creation," Mozart's "Requiem," and Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise" ("Lobgesang") were given in the cathedral. A special feature was the superb singing of Madame Albani in the soprano solo music of the first and last of the works just named. That the other solo music was worthily rendered may be inferred from the names of the vocalists concerned therein—Mr. Guy and Mr. Santley in the selection from "The Creation;" Miss Anna Williams, Madame Patey, Mr. E. Lloyd, and Mr. Santley in the "Requiem;" and Miss A. Williams and Mr. E. Lloyd in the "Hymn of Praise."

Wednesday morning was appropriated to a performance, in the cathedral, of Mendelssohn's "Elijah," which has long since been almost as invariably associated with festival arrangements as Handel's "Messiah." Again on this occasion the exquisite quality of voice, and refined and expressive style for which Madame Albani is celebrated, were finely manifested in the solo soprano music of the second part of the oratorio, especially in the important air, "Hear ye, Israel," and the leading part of the trio, "Lift thine eyes," in which the co-operation of Miss Mary Davies and Madame Patey secured a good ensemble. The two ladies last named were also heard in other portions of the music, the fine delivery by Madame Patey of the air "O, rest in the Lord," having been as usual, one of the special effects. Miss A. Williams, who was the principal soprano in the first part of the oratorio, was well seconded in the duet (with chorus), "Lord, bow Thine ear," by Miss Bertha Griffiths, to whom was assigned the air, "Woe unto them." Mr. Guy sang the tenor solos of the first part, and Mr. E. Lloyd those of the second part, with much effect; and Mr. Santley gave the all-important music of the Prophet with fine declamation, as on innumerable previous occasions. Here we may take occasion to mention that Signor Foli was prevented by indisposition from fulfilling his engagement, and the valuable services of Mr. Santley were secured instead. The oratorio performances were preceded by a short form of prayer, as prescribed by the Bishop.

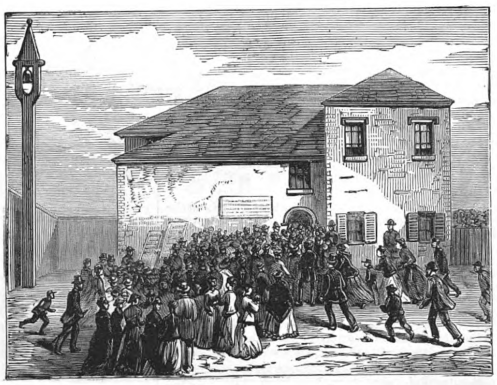
The chief specialty at Wednesday evening's concert, in the college hall, was Sir W. S. Bennett's cantata, "The May Queen," which occupied nearly the whole of the first part of the programme; this having also included the first movement of Beethoven's violin concerto, played by Mr. Sainton—a miscellaneous selection having concluded the concert.

On Thursday morning "Hezekiah," a "short oratorio," by Dr. Armes, was to be given in the cathedral, followed by Mendelssohn's hymn, "Hear my prayer," and Spohr's "Last Judgment." A second miscellaneous concert was to take place in the college hall on Thursday evening; "The Messiah" was to be performed yesterday (Friday) morning in the cathedral—a special closing service therein, in the evening, bringing the festival to a conclusion. For this service a "Magnificat" and "Nunc Dimittis" by Sir F. G. Ouseley, and an anthem) or, rather, cantata) by Dr. Stainer have been expressly composed. Of the later festival performances we must speak next week.



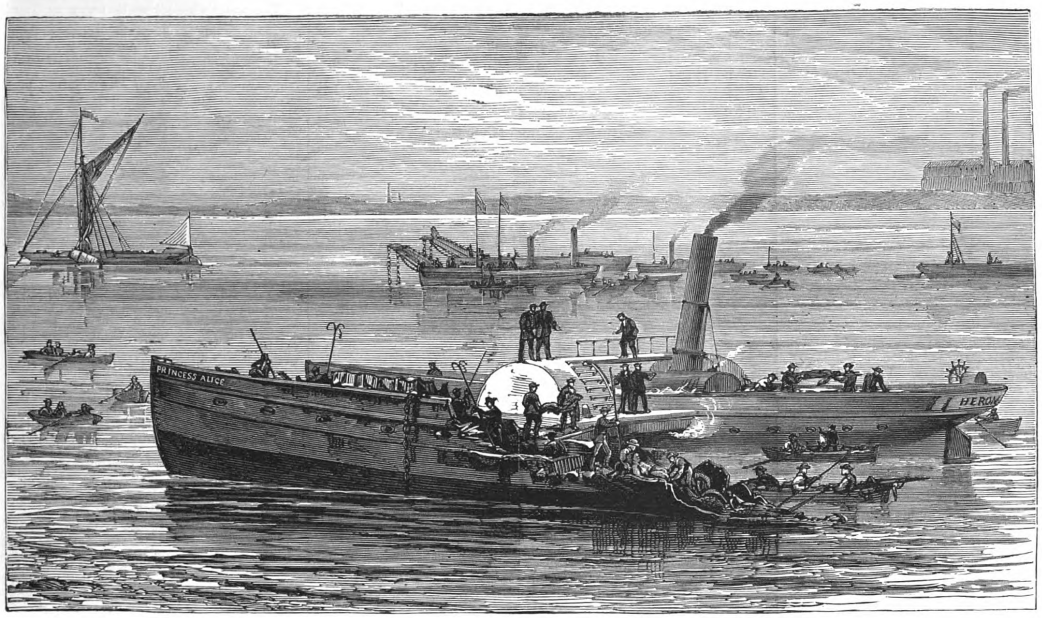
POST-OFFICE NOTICES.

Orders payable at Cyprus can be obtained at any money-order office in the United Kingdom. The rates of commission are uniform with those charged for money-orders issued on Gibraltar and Malta—viz., for sums not exceeding £2, 9d.; above £2 and not exceeding £5, 1s. 6d.; above £5 and not exceeding £7, 2s. 3d.; above £7 and not exceeding £10, 3s. No order can be drawn for a sum exceeding £10.

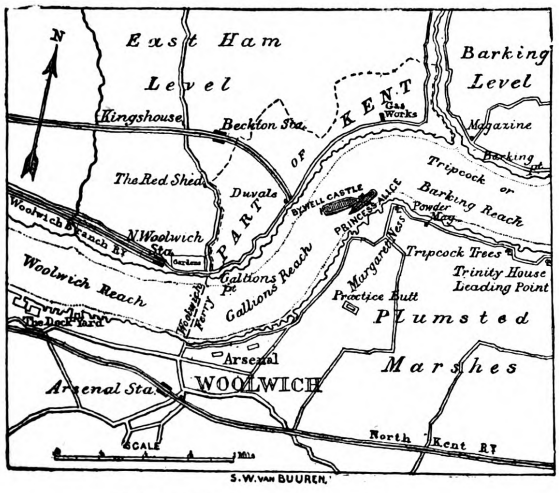


Newspaper wrappers bearing penny postage-stamps will shortly be issued for sale to the public. They may be purchased singly or in any number according to the under-mentioned scale of prices—viz., one for 1½d., two for 2½d., three for 3½d., four for 4½d., five for 5½d., six for 6½d., seven for 7½d., eight for 8½d., and so on. The public can also obtain these wrappers uncut in quarter reams, containing 120 sheets of fourteen wrappers on each sheet, by making special application for them at the post office at which they wish to obtain them. The price for the quarter ream is £7 8s.

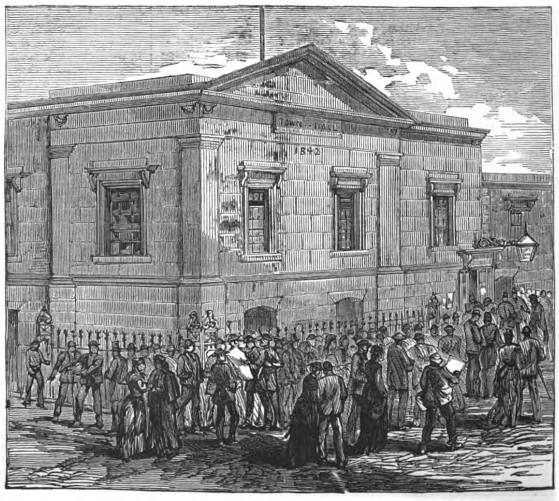
One of the most acceptable of our annual official returns is that which shows the progress of the savings-banks of the United Kingdom. At the end of the year 1867 the trustee savings-banks held above 36½ millions sterling, and the Post-Office savings-banks 9¾ millions. At the end of the year 1877 the trustee savings-banks held nearly 44¼ millions, and the Post-Office savings-banks nearly 28⅝ millions. The amount in both classes of savings-banks increased from £46,283,132 in 1867 to no less than £72,979,443 in 1877. But it has to be observed that the trustee savings-banks are showing year by year "payments out" to a larger amount than the sums received in the year—in 1877 to the extent of nearly £300,000—and the increase in the total amount due to depositors is caused by placing to their credit the interest due on their deposits.



THE GREAT DISASTER ON THE THAMES.

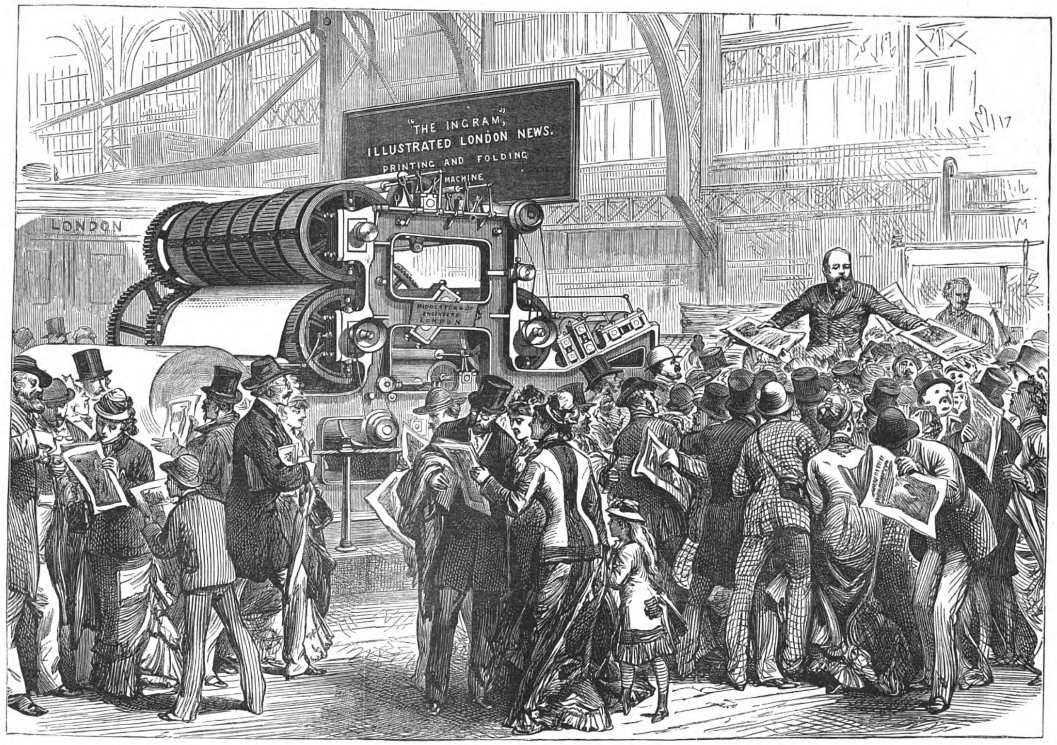


IN THE COURTYARD OF NORTH WOOLWICH PIER—READING OUT THE NAMES OF THOSE SAVED.



TEMPORARY MORTUARY, ROFF'S STEAM-BOAT WHARF, WOOLWICH.

THE FORWARD PART OF THE PRINCESS ALICE LYING ON THE SOUTH SIDE OF THE THAMES: REMOVING BODIES FROM THE WRECK.



PLAN SHOWING THE LOCALITY OF THE COLLISION.

THE TOWNHALL, WOOLWICH, WHERE THE INQUEST IS HELD.

"THE DEER-STALKER." BY E. B. STEPHENS, A.R.A.
PRESENTED TO THE CITY OF EXETER.

PARIS EXHIBITION: THE INGRAM ROTARY MACHINE FOR PRINTING ILLUSTRATED NEWSPAPERS.

SCULPTURE AT EXETER.

The capital of Devonshire, for a city of modest size, with some 40,000 inhabitants, is fairly well adorned with modern works of fine art, besides the glories of its noble Cathedral and many relics of architectural antiquity. Devonshire painters, of landscape and of portrait, have vied with those of Suffolk, and have, perhaps, the advantage over all English shires in the variety of grand and lovely scenery and the graces of personal appearance bestowed on the rustic native people. A Devonshire sculptor long resident in London, Mr. Edward Bowring Stephens, A.R.A., enjoys not only a high reputation, but much friendly regard in his own county. He has been commissioned again and again to design and execute the memorial statues of local worthies that have been erected by public subscription in the city of his own birth. These are the statues of the late Earl Fortescue, in the Castle-yard; that of the late Sir Thomas Dyke Acland, M.P. for the county, on the beautiful terrace of Northernhay, which is a grove of elms overhanging the deep moat beneath the walls of the ancient Castle of Rougemont; and the statue of Mr. John Dinham, a benevolent tradesman of Exeter, who bequeathed large sums for charitable uses. This western city is nearly as much ornamented with the works of one favourite sculptor as is the city of Edinburgh with those of Sir John Steell, which meet the eye at short intervals along Princes'-street and George-street.

But the Exonian taste for such works to be set up and admired in their chief places has not yet been satiated. Mr. Stephens, it may be remembered, had in the Royal Academy Exhibition of 1876 a fine colossal group of a Highland deerstalker with a deer-hound, gazing forward at the deer which he has stealthily approached; the man is holding in the dog with one hand, and with the left hand shading his eyes from the sun. This piece of the sculptor's art was noticed and praised by many competent judges; but, somehow, it more vehemently took the fancy of a few of the west-country men living in London. The subject, one would suppose, belongs rather to North Britain; for, though it is only on Exmoor, we believe, that the Red Deer is still extant in the southern parts of the United Kingdom, it is customary there to ride after him with a pack of staghounds. "The Deer-Stalker" of Mr. Stephens, which reminds us, by its theme, of some of Landseer's or Ansdell's pictures, was coveted, at any rate, by some Exeter lovers of nature and art for the decoration of their beloved home city. A committee of Devonian Londoners was formed, its most active promoter and honorary secretary being Mr. George Haydon, one of the officers of Bethlem Hospital, and a loyal member of the Grand Lodge of Freemasons. The Earl of Devon, Earl Fortescue, the Bishop of Exeter, and many other persons of rank and social influence cordially assisted in the scheme; a local committee was formed, in which the Mayor of Exeter, then Mr. W. Cuthbertson, and Mr. J. Drew, then High Sheriff, bore part; and the required sum for the purchase of the work, and for other expenses, was subscribed. The site upon which it has been erected is, as nearly as possible, the exact centre of that compact little city. Bedford-circus, which occupies the ground of old Bedford House, the residence of Queen Henrietta Maria during the Civil War of Charles I., is situated a little south of High-street, with the gardens of Southernhay just beyond. A wider opening has recently been made from High-street, opposite Queen-street, to approach Bedford-circus, giving better access to the Exeter Theatre, the Athenæum, and other institutions there. "The Deer-Stalker," upon a Cornish granite pedestal with railing about it, now stands in the Circus facing High-street. The inscription, on a bronze plate in front of the pedestal, records that it has been "presented, by friends and admirers of the sculptor, to his native city." This kind of public gift, dealing with a work of purely ideal art, is comparatively rare in England, but was frequent enough in ancient Greece.

The ceremony of unveiling "The Deer-Stalker," and formally presenting it to the Mayor and Corporation of Exeter, was performed on Friday, the 30th ult., by the Earl of Devon, on behalf of the subscribers. The Mayor, Mr. H. D. Thomas, the High Sheriff, Aldermen, Town Councillors, and civic officers, walked in state from the Guildhall, which is but a few hundred yards distant. In the absence of Earl Fortescue—who appeared, nevertheless, at the subsequent public luncheon, Mr. J. C. Moore-Stevens, Sir John Kennaway, M.P., and Sir T. D. Acland, M.P., represented the county gentlemen. The speeches at the luncheon afterwards were interesting; Lord Devon was in the chair, and proposed the health of the sculptor, who was, indeed, the honoured guest of the company at table. Mr. Stephens, in returning thanks to all, especially named his friends Mr. G. H. Haydon, Mr. Samuel Cousins, R.A., the engraver, and Mr. Phelps, the eminent actor, by whom this dedication of his work to the city of Exeter was zealously promoted. Earl Fortescue, who was formerly an active political man as Lord Ebrington, and whose father was one of the great Whig leaders of the Reform Bill party, spoke upon this occasion. There were ladies at table, one of whom, the widow of the late well-known Sir John Bowring, a native and resident of Exeter, responded for her sex when their collective health was toasted. It was a pleasant business, altogether, and of sufficient local importance to be worth our Illustration of "The Deer-Stalker" in this week's Number. The sculptor's work needs no further praise.

THE PARIS EXHIBITION.

Class 60 of the Exhibition consists of "Apparatus and processes used in paper-making, dyeing, and printing." The British Section contains, among other printing-machines, the one which we described last October as having been invented by Mr. W. J. Ingram, M.P., proprietor of the Illustrated London News, for the most rapid production of perfected copies of this Journal. "The Ingram Patent Rotary Printing-Machine," as it is called in the official catalogue, is the object of much notice among visitors to the Exhibition who care for mechanical appliances. It is the second of its kind that has been made, and has received certain improvements; the printing and impression cylinders are here all of equal size, enabling three whole sheets to be printed at each revolution; or two copies of the half-sheet, with a duplicate of the type, may be printed simultaneously by one of the cylinders. Attached to the printing-machine is the folding-machine, which can be worked either in company with it or separately, cutting off and folding the sheets as fast as they are printed. The difficulty formerly experienced in printing, by the action of a cylinder, sheets to be impressed with engravings has been completely overcome; the diameter of the cylinder is so greatly increased that the plates of engravings require to have but a slight degree of curvature; while two, three, or more duplicate plates may be placed on the same printing-cylinder. The "impression-cylinder," which carries the paper from a roll of immense length, is made of corresponding size; this brings the paper in contact with the inked type on the "printing cylinder," rotating at the same speed. Another improvement has been made in the inking apparatus of distributing-rollers, or cylinders to supply the engravings with ink, which is done so amply and evenly as to render the most perfect impressions on the paper. This machine can deliver 6500 perfect copies an hour of the Illustrated London News, with its Supplements, every sheet well printed on both sides, cut off, and neatly folded. It has been manufactured by Messrs. Middleton and Co., engineers, of Southwark. Mr. James Brister, manager of the machine department in the office of this Journal, was intrusted by Mr. Ingram with the practical execution of his design, and superintended the construction of the new machine. We have this week received an official announcement that the Gold Medal has been awarded to Mr. Ingram for the "Ingram Patent Rotary Printing Machine." A more detailed description of its mechanism, with special Illustrations, will be found in our publication of Oct. 7, last year.

AGRICULTURAL SHOWS.

On Tuesday the annual exhibition of the Warwickshire Agricultural Society was held at Coventry. The weather was highly favourable, and there was a large and fashionable attendance. The show was most successful, the entries being unusually numerous. A public dinner was held in a pavilion, Lord Leigh presiding. Among the company were Lord Yarmouth, Lord Ernest Seymour, Sir H. M. Jackson, M.P., Mr. C. Newdegate, M.P., Mr. Bromley Davenport, M.P., and Mr. H. W. Eaton, M.P.

The annual meeting of the Royal and Central Bucks Agricultural Association was held on Wednesday in Lord Carington's park, at Wycombe Abbey, Bucks. Favoured by fine weather, the exhibition was a success in every point, the entries in the various classes being large and choice, and the band of the Royal Horse Guards, which played beneath a fine walnut-tree in the centre of the ground, added greatly to the attractiveness of the gathering. In the evening the members of the association and their guests dined at the Townhall, High Wycombe, under the presidency of Lord Carington.

The thirty-sixth annual show of the Birkenhead and Wirall Agricultural Society was opened on Wednesday at Birkenhead, and is considered the most successful ever held. The entries numbered 1220, which is nearly one hundred in excess of the largest previous entries. The increase is principally in horses and cattle. Prizes to the amount of £900 were offered.

The annual exhibition of the Wayland Agricultural Society took place on Wednesday at Walton, Norfolk. Lord Walsingham presided at the dinner in the evening.

A number of farmers and others from Caithness have visited by invitation the Duke of Sutherland's reclamation works, near Kinbrace. Mr. Greig, of Leeds, who has charge of the machinery, conducted the party over the newly ploughed land, and showed how the various operations were conducted. The Duke of Sutherland and a large party from Dunrobin Castle were present at luncheon. His Grace intimated his intention of dividing the reclaimed ground into farms of from eighty to one hundred acres, so that a farmer with a capital of from £500 to £600 could profitably work them. He said he wished to see the place repopulated.

A subscription at Liverpool in aid of the Fund for Relieving the Distress from Yellow Fever in New Orleans has resulted in £2400 being collected, which has been remitted to New Orleans.

The Maharajah of Johore, who is at present on a visit to this country, has commissioned Mr. Tavernor Knott, of Edinburgh, to paint a head-size portrait of the Queen. Some time ago his Highness had a full-length portrait of her Majesty painted by the same artist.

TERRIBLE COLLIERY EXPLOSION.

The worst colliery accident that has ever occurred in South Wales took place about noon on Wednesday at the Ebbw Vale Company's Prince of Wales Colliery, Abercarne, about twelve miles from Newport, Monmouthshire. Three hundred and seventy-one men had gone down the pit, and at eleven o'clock twenty-one came up and delivered their lamps. The pit, which is situated a few hundred yards from the Abercarne station, in the Western Valley section of the Monmouthshire Railway, is 330 yards deep, and the seam of coal worked is that popularly termed the Black Vein Seam. The pit had been deemed as safe as the character of the coal would lead one to expect, and every precaution was used to prevent accident. The machinery was of the most perfect kind, and the use of safety-lamps was enforced among the colliers. The present shaft was sunk in the year 1862, on the day of the marriage of the Prince of Wales, and in consequence of this incident it was named the Prince of Wales Colliery. The explosion occurred at ten minutes past twelve, when a loud, rumbling sound, a flash of flame, and a column of black smoke ascending high into the air told too plainly what had occurred. The discovery was immediately made that the winding gear was damaged, and communication with the bottom of the pit destroyed. Efforts were first made to make this complete, and working parties were speedily sent down. Eighty-two men and boys, who were working within a few hundred yards of the shaft, were rescued but it became evident as attempts were made to advance into the workings that little hope could be entertained of any life surviving the catastrophe. About 400 yards from the bottom of the shaft are situated the stables, and here fourteen horses were found, all dead. Beyond this point the explorers could not go on account of the prevalence of chokedamp. The volunteers succeeded in bringing out ten or twelve men very much burnt, and seven dead bodies were brought to the bank. Mr. Cadman, inspector of collieries, and Mr. Donald Bain, assistant-inspector, were in the immediate neighbourhood, and were among the first to arrive at the pit after the explosion. These gentlemen at once took counsel with Mr. Pond, the general manager of the colliery, the underground manager, the foreman, and other managers and engineers, who speedily arrived from other collieries in the district. The pit's mouth was surrounded with crowds of anxious spectators, and the utmost excitement prevailed. Up to six o'clock seven dead bodies were brought up, and of these four were identified, one being the overman, named Rees. Two men, named James and Jenkins, who were brought up alive, died soon afterwards from the serious nature of the burns and the effects of the afterdamp. There is no reasonable hope that any further lives will be saved; for at six o'clock on Wednesday evening the explorers were compelled to leave the pit in consequence of the fire reaching within three hundred yards of the bottom of the pit shaft; and early on Thursday morning the water from a canal near the pit's mouth was turned into the down-cast shaft, in order to flood the mine and extinguish the fire.

The Great Seal was on Tuesday affixed to the Royal pardon of the Fenians Patrick Melody and Edward O'Meara Condon.

The result of the poll of the owners of property and the ratepayers of Manchester on the question whether the Thirlmere water scheme should be again brought before Parliament was made known on Wednesday. The votes in favour of the scheme numbered 43,362 given by 35,431 voters, against 3530 votes given by 2592 voters.

The large cotton-spinning mill at Annan, Dumfriesshire, belonging to Messrs. Forster and Co., was destroyed by fire yesterday week. The mill contained 16,000 spindles, and employed 110 hands. Its value was about £15,000. The fire originated in the fifth story, from some machinery becoming heated, and in an hour and a half the building was gutted.

CLASSES for the SONS of GENTLEMEN, 64, Kensington-gardens-square, Hyde Park, W. The AUTUMN TERM begins on SEPT. 24. Principals—Miss M. E. Bailey and Fraulein Neuhofer.

BRIGHTON. FURNISHED HOUSES for the SEASON.—For particulars of those in the best situations—Adelaide-crescent, Palmeira-square, Brunswick-square, Brunswick-terrace, West Brighton—apply to Messrs. CHOUCH and STEVENS, 95, Western-road, Brighton.

PARIS EXHIBITION. Special Arrangements for Visitors to the Exhibition have been made by the RAILWAY PASSENGERS' ASSURANCE COMPANY, for providing against ACCIDENT BY RAILWAY OR STEAM-BOAT during the journey to PARIS and back. A Premium of One Shilling Insures £1000 if Killed, or £6 per week if laid up by Injury during the Double Journey. POLICIES AGAINST ACCIDENTS OF ALL KINDS may also be effected for One, Three, or Twelve Months, on moderate terms. Apply at the Booking-Offices of the Southern Railways, or at the Head Office, 64, Cornhill, London. WILLIAM J. VIAN, Secretary.

ORDER EVERYTHING YOU REQUIRE THROUGH COCKBURN'S UNITED SERVICE AGENCY SOCIETY, 41, Haymarket, London, S.W., and save from 5 to 50 per cent and much time and trouble by so doing.

HOMŒOPATHIC HOSPITAL (SELECT) for LADIES, Bolton House, 192, Clapham-road, Surrey. Established 1867. A Private Home, where Patients suffering from serious diseases, and requiring special supervision, can obtain the best Medical and Surgical Treatment without incurring anxiety in their own homes. Treatise of success ful cases forwarded for twelve stamps. Physician, DAVID JONES, M.D. Consultations daily, Eleven to One (Tuesday and Friday excepted), at 15, Welbeck-street, London.

LOANS PRIVATELY NEGOTIATED. Confidential communications to Mr. MORRIS, 28, Red Lion-square, W.C., will receive immediate attention.

NEW BOOKS AND PUBLICATIONS.

Now ready, 18mo, 2s. 6d., cloth; gilt edges, 3s. (postage, 3d.),

SELECT POETRY for CHILDREN. With Brief Explanatory Notes. By JOSEPH PAYNE, Professor of the Science and Art of Education to the College of Preceptors. Twentieth Edition, considerably enlarged by the addition of Poems, by permission of Miss Ingelow, Alfred Tennyson, Robert Browning, and others. Specimen Copy forwarded to Schools on receipt of half the selling price. CROSBY LOCKWOOD and Co., 7, Stationers' Hall-ct., London, E.C.

POPULAR NOVELS AT ALL LIBRARIES.

YOU PLAY ME FALSE. By MORTIMER and FRANCES COLLINS. 3 vols.
LOVE'S CROSSES. By the Author of "Olive Varcoe." 3 vols.
STRANGE WATERS. By R. E. FRANCILLON, Author of "Olympia." 3 vols.
SALVIA RICHMOND. In 3 vols. RICHARD BENTLEY and SON, New Burlington-street.

Just published, 18mo, cloth, 2s. (postage 2d.),

LECONS pour des ENFANTS de l'Age de Deux Ans jusqu'à Cinq: avec HYMNES en PROSE pour les Enfants, traduites de l'Anglais de Mme. BARBAULD. Nouvelle édition, le tout revu par CLOTILDE NORRIS. CROSBY LOCKWOOD and Co., 7, Stationers' Hall-court, E.C.

Just published, in one volume, 8vo, with four litho graphic illustrations. Price 1s.; or, post-free, 1s. 3d.,

TRUTHS ABOUT WHISKY. Contents: Chap. I.—The Position of the Authors. Chap. II.—The Qualities and Popularity of Genuine Dublin Whisky. Chap. III.—The Peculiarities of the Dublin Manufacture: the Water Supply. Chap. IV.—Patent Stills and Silent Spirits. Chap. V.—The Growth of Silent Spirit into Sham Whisky. Chap. VI.—The Relative Wholesomeness of Whisky and of Silent Spirit. Chap. VII.—The Action of the Chancellor of the Exchequer and of Parliament. Chap. VIII.—The Action of the Commissioners of Inland Revenue. Chap. IX.—Racking in Bond—The Grogging Question. Chap. X.—Whisky Frauds outside the Bonded Warehouses. "The Work is issued by the Whisky Distillers of Dublin, in order to impart to the public a kind of knowledge which has become necessary for the protection of consumers. London: SUTTON, SHARPE, and Co., Queen Victoria-street, E.C.

POTTERY-PAINTING: a Handbook to the Practice. By JOHN C. L. SPARKES, Director of the Lambeth School of Art, &c. Second Edition. Post-free, 1s. 1d.—London: LECHERTIER, BARBE, and Co., 60, Regent-street, W. (Agents in England for Lacroix's Ceramic Colours).

VITREMANIE SUPERSEDING DIAPHANIE.—An easy and inexpensive Method of Decorating Windows in Churches, Public Buildings, and Private Dwellings, by which may be produced the Rich Colouring and Beautiful Designs of Real Stained Glass. Handbook of Designs and Instructions, 1s. 1d. Particulars post-free. Sole Inventors, J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-street, London, W.

CANCER and TUMOURS, A Successful Mode of Treating Certain Forms of. By ALEX. MARSDEN, M.D., Senior Surgeon to the Cancer Hospital, London. Price 8s. 6d.—J. and A. CHURCHILL, New Burlington-street.

25th Edition. 8vo, cloth, pp. 1102, 16s.,

HOMŒOPATHIC DOMESTIC MEDICINE. By J. LAURIE, M.D. Completely rearranged and revised by H. S. Gutteridge, M.D. The most comprehensive Guide published for the use of families, emigrants, and missionaries, being free of all technicalities. The present edition contains, in addition to the symptoms and treatment of all general diseases, including those of Females and Children, many important new chapters, comprising, among others, the specific characteristic effects of all the new American remedies, plain Directions for the treatment of Accidents, and Illustrations delineating the minor operations in surgery. Hydropathic Appliances, Affection of the Eyes (with a description of the Eyes and their Appendages, and Illustrations showing the various parts of the eye). Full directions are also given for the treatment of Diseases prevalent in Tropical Climates. A new and concise Dictionary of Medical Terms and Treatment, with leading indications of Treatment prefixed to the various chapters and divisions. An Epitome of the above, 32nd Edition, price 6s. A Case of Medicines adapted to the former Work, in tinctures or pilules, price £4 4s.; in globules, £5. To the latter, tinctures or pilules, price £2 2s.; globules, £1 10s. LEATH and ROSS, 5, St. Paul's-churchyard; and 9, Vere-street, W.

Third Edition, Sixth Thousand, gratis and post-free, CANCER and EXTERNAL TUMOURS; their Successful Dispersion by the Miehel and other Processes without the knife. By H. ROBINSON, R.A., L.R.C.S.I., Senior Surgeon to St. Saviour's Cancer Hospital, North-end, Fulham, S.W. London: J. D. LANCASTER, 2, Osnaburgh-street, S.W.

NOW READY,

THE ILLUSTRATED PENNY ALMANACK FOR 1879, containing Twenty-four Engravings from the ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS of our Ironclads, the Cleopatra, Ostrich Farming, and other Foreign and Domestic Subjects; Tables of Stamps, Taxes, and Licenses; Eclipses, Remarkable Events, Post-Office Regulations, and a great variety of Useful and Interesting Information. The Trade supplied by G. VICKERS, Angel-court (172), Strand; and H. Williams, Warwick-lane, Paternoster-row, London.

£100 REWARD.

TO STEEL PEN MAKERS, STEEL PEN DIE CUTTERS AND STAMPERS, AND DEALERS IN STEEL PENS.

It having come to our knowledge that imitations of our pens are being manufactured and sold, we are prepared to pay the above amount for such information as may be sufficient to ensure the conviction of any person making, in violation of our rights, imitations of our Steel Pens, stamped with any of the undermentioned names or titles, or colourable imitations of the same:—

THE WAVERLEY PEN.	THE OWL PEN.
THE PICKWICK PEN.	THE NILE PEN.
THE HINDOO PEN.	THE PHAETON PEN.

Or our name—MACNIVEN and CAMERON. Communications, which will be treated as in strict confidence, may be addressed to J. F. Mann, jun., Solicitor, 37, Essex-street, Strand, London, or to ourselves, MACNIVEN and CAMERON (Estab. 1770), PEN MAKERS TO HER MAJESTY'S GOVERNMENT OFFICES, 23—33, BLAIR-STREET, EDINBURGH, the Registered Proprietors. Dated this 2nd Sept., 1878.

SCRAPS FOR SCREENS AND SCRAP BOOKS, COLOURED. A large assortment. Specimen Sheet, from 1s.; one dozen assorted, 10s. 6d. W. BARNARD, 119, Edgware-road, London.

BIRKET FOSTER'S CHROMOS.—GREAT BARGAIN.—Eight 10s. 6d. Chromos for 21s. The following subjects—Rustic Students, Minding Baby, Bird's Nest, Cottage Door, Hay-Field, Hedge-Side, Feeding Ducks, Seaweed Gatherers.—GEO. REES, 41, 42, 43, Russell-street, Covent-garden.

THE LUMINOUS CLOCK. A MOST WONDERFUL INVENTION, by which the Time can be SEEN in the DARK without the aid of any artificial light. Every home should possess one. See opinions of Press. Price 42s. each. ASSER and SHERWIN, 80 and 81, Strand, W.

£10. BENNETT'S WATCHES. In return for a £10 Note, free and safe per post, one of BENNETT'S LADY'S GOLD WATCHES, perfect for time, beauty, and workmanship, with keyless action, air-tight, dust-tight, and dust-tight.—65, Cheapside, London. Gold Chains at manufacturers' prices. P.O.O. to John Bennett. BENNETT, 65 and 64, Cheapside.

WALKER'S CRYSTAL CASE WATCHES are superseding all others. Prize Medals—London, 1862, Paris, 1867. Silver Watches, from £4 4s.; Gold, from £6 6s. Price-Lists sent free.—68, Cornhill; 220, Regent-street; and 76, Strand.

MR. STREETER, 18 NEW BOND-STREET, W. GOLDSMITH AND JEWELLER. The only Jeweller in England whose Stock consists of one uniform standard quality—viz., 18 carats. LONDON-MADE JEWELLERY of Exquisite Design and Workmanship. DIAMOND ORNAMENTS in great variety, at prices relative to their intrinsic value. SPECIALITIES IN BRIDESMAIDS' LOCKETS, WEDDING PRESENTS, &c. THE "TALISMAN" BRACELET (Patented), a Novelty for the Season, from £5.

MAPLE and CO., the largest and most convenient FURNISHING ESTABLISHMENT in the world. A House of any magnitude Furnished from Stock in three days. Purchasers should inspect the Stock before deciding elsewhere. All goods marked in plain figures. Estab. 38 years.

MAPLE and CO. supply every requisite for HOUSE FURNISHING, including Linens, Ironmongery, Glass, Crockeryware, Clocks, Bronzes, and every description of Ornaments, either for dining or drawing room, or for Christmas and Wedding Presents, in separate departments.

DINING-ROOM FURNITURE.

MAPLE and CO.—DINING-ROOM FURNITURE.—Sideboards in oak, mahogany, and other woods, from 8 guineas to 100 guineas. Fine oak and mediæval Dining-room Furniture; Tables from 3 guineas to 70 guineas. A large assortment of Clocks, Bronzes, and other Ornaments.

DINING-ROOM FURNITURE. — Forty very handsome Carved Oak Antique Sideboards, with Dining-Tables and Chairs to match. Thirty complete Dining-room Suites in stock to select from, 14 guineas. Good strong Dining-room Chair, in mahogany or oak, stuffed all hair, and covered in leather, 28s. 6d.

MAPLE and CO.—DRAWING-ROOM FURNITURE. The Largest Assortment in London. An endless variety of Cabinets, from 2 to 60 guineas, many quite new in design; a large assortment of Buhl Furniture, as well as Black and Gold; 100 Easy-Chairs, from 1 to 10 guineas; a very extensive Stock of Clocks, Bronzes, and Fancy Ornaments; 500 Chimney-Glasses, from 2 to 80 guineas; Console-Tables, as well as Girandoles, from 1 to 20 guineas.

MAPLE and CO., Importers.

TURKEY CARPETS,

INDIAN CARPETS,

PERSIAN CARPETS.

OVER 2000 DAGHESTAN and SOWRNACK CARPETS, also 500 Turkey Carpets, of extra fine quality and at marvellously low prices, just received from Constantinople. These Goods have been bought by Agents especially dispatched by Messrs. MAPLE and CO. for cash, are of great rarity, some being very handsome old prayer rugs, which have been made over a hundred years. The prices are wonderfully low—in fact, one third of that usually asked for these curiosities.—145, 146, 147, Tottenham-court-road, London.

MAPLE and CO. — SILK DAMASKS. The largest and most varied assortment of Satin, Silks, Cotelines, Silk Reps, all in stock. To purchasers this is a great object, as not only do they get the silks at a lower price than if they were made, but they are not kept waiting.

MAPLE and CO.—CURTAINS, for Dining and Drawing Rooms. The largest and most varied stock of Curtain Materials in London. Good Wool Reps, double width, 2s. 6d. per yard. Stripe Reps, in all colours, all wool, and double width, from 3s. 3d. per yard.

MAPLE and CO.—CRETONNE CHINTZ. The French Chintz, which requires no lining when used for loose covers. The width is 32 inches, and the prices vary from 6½d. per yard to 3s. 11d. per yard. The largest assortment in England. Patterns sent.

POSTAL ORDER DEPARTMENT. Messrs. MAPLE and CO. beg respectfully to state that this Department is now so organised that they are fully prepared to execute and supply any Article that can possibly be required in Furnishing at the same price, if not less, than any other house in England. Patterns sent and quotations given free of charge.

MAPLE and CO.—BED-ROOM SUITES in EARLY ENGLISH, carried out to design by the best artists of the day. Some new and most elegant suites, designed by gentlemen especially engaged by Messrs. Maple. These suites, which are a specialty with this firm, should be seen. Machinery, &c., has been erected so as to produce this class of furniture at the lowest possible cost.
145, 146, 147, 148, 149, Tottenham-court-road, London.

MORTLOCK'S CHINA.—Messrs. MORTLOCK, having completed Stocktaking, have now ON VIEW the finest Collection of NOVELTIES and inexpensive ART-DESIGNS in POTTERY, PORCELAIN, and GLASS ever brought together.—202, 203, 204, Oxford-street; 30, 31, 32, Orchard-street, W. Established 1746. 15 per cent allowed on all Cash payments.

NOTICE.—SILVER and ELECTRO-PLATE.—ELKINGTON and CO., Manufacturing Silversmiths and Patentees of the Electro-Plate, Revised Illustrated Pattern-Book of New Designs in Table Plate of all kinds, and new qualities in Spoons and Forks forwarded free by post on application. Testimonial Plate in Solid Silver, in great variety, always in stock; and Committees provided with Designs and Photographs to suit all occasions.
Address—Elkington and Co., 22, Regent-street, London; or 42, Moorgate-street, City.

SILVER WAITERS.—The GOLDSMITHS' ALLIANCE (Limited) have always ready a large Stock of SILVER WAITERS and TEATRAYS of the newest and most elegant designs:—

Size and Weight.	King's. Plain centres. 9s. per oz.	King's. Neatly chased. 9s. 6d. per oz.	Beaded. Richly engraved. 11s. 6d. per oz.
8 inch 12 ounces	£5 8 0	£5 14 0	£6 18 0
9 inch 17 ounces	7 13 0	8 1 6	9 15 0
10 inch 20 ounces	9 0 0	9 10 0	11 10 0
12 inch 30 ounces	13 10 0	14 5 0	17 5 0
14 inch 43 ounces	19 7 0	20 8 6	24 14 6
16 inch 58 ounces	26 2 0	27 11 6	33 7 6
18 inch 80 ounces	36 0 0	38 0 0	46 0 0
20 inch 124 ounces	55 16 0	59 18 0	71 6 0
22 inch 158 ounces	67 10 0	71 5 0	86 5 0
25 inch 200 ounces	90 0 0	95 0 0	115 0 0

A Pamphlet of Prices, Illustrated with Engravings, will be forwarded, gratis and post-free, on application.
11 and 12, Cornhill, London.

FURNISH YOUR HOUSE at DEANE'S, Catalogue, with priced Furnishing Estimates, post-free.
1. Table Knives, Ivory, per doz., 10s., 25s., 35s., 40s.
2. Electro Forks—Table, 24s. to 68s.; Spoons, 24s. to 66s.
3. Papier-Mache Tea-Trays, in sets, 21s., 50s., 95s.
4. Electro Tea and Coffee Sets, £3 7s., £7 10s., to £24.
5. Dish-Covers in Sets—Tin, 22s.; Metal, 65s.; Electro £11 11s.
6. Electro Cruets, from 12s. 6d. to £6 6s.
7. Electro Liqueur Frames, 40s. to £7 7s.
8. Lamps—Patent Duplex Rock Oil, Colza, &c.
9. Fenders—Bright, 45s. to £12; Bronze, 3s. to £6.
10. Baths—Hot and Cold Water, Gas, Travelling, &c.
11. Bedsteads—Brass and Iron, with Bedding.
12. Gaseliers—2-light, 17s.; 3-do., 30s.; 5-do., £4 4s.
13. Kitcheners, from 3 ft., £3, to 6 ft., £33.
14. Kitchen Utensils—Copper, Tin, and Iron.
Deane and Co., 46, King William-st., London Bridge. A.D. 1700

JEWEL ROBBERIES PREVENTED.—J. TANN'S RELIANCE SAFES have never failed to resist the attempts of the most determined burglars. Fire-Resisting Safes, £5 5s. Lists free.—11, Newgate-street, E.C.

CHUBBS' PATENT SAFES.—Chubb's Cash, Deed, Paper, and Writing Boxes, all fitted with the Detector Locks. Complete Illustrated Price-Lists sent gratis and post-free to any part of the world.—Chubb and Son, Makers to the Queen and Bank of England, 128, Queen Victoria-street, St. Paul's; and 68, St. James's-street, Pall-mall, London.

SUMMER DELICACIES.

BROWN and POLSON'S
CORN FLOUR
AS BLANCMANGE WITH STEWED FRUIT

BROWN and POLSON'S
CORN FLOUR
AS BAKED PUDDING WITH STEWED FRUIT

BROWN and POLSON'S
CORN FLOUR
AS CUSTARD PUDDING WITH STEWED FRUIT

CYPRUS.—THE IMPERIAL OTTOMAN BANK is prepared, through its LONDON and PARIS AGENCIES, to grant CREDITS, to receive and REMIT MONEY, and to act generally as Bankers in connection with Cyprus, where it has for many years past had a branch establishment.
London Agency, 26, Throgmorton-street, E.C. Paris Agency, 7, Rue Meyerbeer.

COLOMBO, MADRAS, and CALCUTTA. DUCAL LINE.—Exceptional and favourable terms of passage for a limited number of first-class passengers only. Apply to Grindlay and Co., No. 55, Parliament-street, S.W.; to McHarmid, Greenshields, and Co.; or to F. Green and Co., 112, Fenchurch-street, E.C.

PIANO, £35 (Civil Service cash price). Trichord Drawing-Room Model, repetition action, grand, rich, full tone, in very handsome Italian walnut-wood case, with elaborately carved and fretwork front, and cabriole truss legs. The usual price charged for this instrument is 50 guineas. Drawings of this beautiful Piano sent post-free on application. THOMAS OETZMANN and CO., 27, Baker-st., Portman-square.

BROADWOOD and COLLARD COTTAGE PIANOFORTES, fullest compass of Seven Octaves. Two beautiful instruments, of rich and full tone, in the choicest Italian walnut-wood, nearly new. To be SOLD at unusually low prices. May be seen at OETZMANN'S, 27, Baker-street.

TWENTY-POUND SCHOOL-ROOM PIANO (Co-operative price for cash). Seven octaves, strong, sound, and substantial. Adapted for hard practice. Packed free. Illustrated Book of Designs gratis and post-free.
THOMAS OETZMANN and CO., 27, Baker-street, W.

EBONY and GOLD PIANOS, 25 guineas, 35 guineas, and 45 guineas.—These charming and elegant Pianos, with ormolu embellishments, repetition action, and every recent improvement, may now be obtained at the above low prices for cash, or on the Three-Years' System, at 1 guinea per month. The new Illustrated Catalogue gratis and post-free.
THOMAS OETZMANN and CO., 27, Baker-street, W.

ERARDS' PIANOS.—Messrs. ERARD, of 18, Great Marlborough-street, London, and 13, Rue de Mail, Paris, Makers to her Majesty and the Prince and Princess of Wales, CAUTION the public that Pianofortes are being sold bearing the name of "ERARD" which are not of their manufacturing. For information as to authenticity apply at 18, Great Marlborough-street, where New Pianos can be obtained from 90 guineas.

ERARDS' PIANOS.—COTTAGES, from 50 guineas.
OBLIQUES, from 85 guineas.
GRANDS, from 125 guineas.

MUSICAL-BOX DÉPOTS, 56, Cheapside, and 22, Ludgate-hill, London.—Nicole's celebrated Musical Boxes, playing best secular and sacred music. Prices, £4 to £120. Snuffboxes, from 18s. to 60s. Largest stock in London. Catalogue gratis and post-free. Apply to WALES & M'CULLOCH, as above.

LADIES ABOUT TO TRAVEL should see the "OSBORNE" DRESS-CASE, very light and handsome, with collapsible bonnet compartment. Price 10s. 6d.
HARRON, Manufacturer, 20, High Holborn (five doors west from Inns of Court Hotel). Illustrated List free.

FASHIONS.

MESSRS. JAY have the honour to inform their patrons and the public that their buyers of Costumes, Mantles, and Millinery have returned from Paris with all the novelties of the season.
JAYS',
245, 247, 249, 251, Regent-street.

PATTERNS FREE.

BLACK SILKS,
manufactured by Bonnet, of Lyons.

Messrs. JAY beg to inform their Patrons and the Public generally that they are now selling these well-known Pure Lighter Silks at a reduction of from 33 to 40 per cent off prices that were charged previous to the display in the Jays' Silk Market.
Present price, 6s. 6d.; former price, 8s. 9d.
" " 6s. 11d.; " 9s. 6d.
" " 6s. 9d.; " 10s. 6d.
Messrs. JAY are also selling Alberti's good wearing Black SILKS, at the following reduced rates:—
Present price, 3s. 3d.; former price, 5s. 9d.
" " 4s. 3d.; " 6s. 9d.
" " 5s. 3d.; " 7s. 6d.
" " 6s. 9d.; " 9s. 6d.
As these low prices are not at all likely to continue, and as Silks wear much better when not used fresh from the loom, Messrs. JAY strongly advise their Customers to take advantage of this occasion to make purchases of that always fashionable and useful article, a good Black Silk.
BONNETS BLACK SATINS, all pure silk, 22 inches wide, from 5s. 3d. per yard.
JAYS',
THE LONDON GENERAL MOURNING WAREHOUSE, Regent-street, W.

CHARLES GASK and CO. (Limited), 58 to 63, Oxford-street;
1 to 5, Wells-street, London.
CARRIAGE ENTRANCE, 5, Wells-street.

RICH SILK and other COSTUMES. A grand display of rich Silk, Broché Velvet, and Silken Fabric Costumes for the Autumn and Winter, a collection of recherché Novelties as is rarely seen out of Paris, at most moderate prices.
A large variety of novel Costumes of Fashionable New Fabrics in Serges, Linen Cloths, Cyprus Cloths, Camel's Hair, &c., 2, 3, and 4 guineas each.

MANTLES, ULSTERS, and SEALSKINS. A large importation of the Latest Novelties.
The Sedan Beaver Paletot, 1, 2, and 3 guineas, handsomely trimmed.
New Travelling Ulsters, all wool, in 27 shades, at 1 guinea, unequalled.
Fine Sealskin Paletots, 36 in. in length, 9½ guineas each. Smaller sizes in proportion.
Fur-lined Mantles and Paletots, 31s. 6d. to 5 guineas.

DRESS MATERIALS in all the Newest Textures. New Lichen Cloth, 11½d. per yard. Camel's-Hair Cloth, 1s. 6d. Tartans, Rampoor Cloth, and the new Broché Cashmeres, so much used in combination, 2s. 6d. to 5s. 6d. per yard.
Fine French Cashmeres, in new shades, 1s. 11½d., 2s. 7½d., and 2s. 11½d. per yard, double width.

MOURNING GOODS of every description at most moderate prices.
Black Serge Costumes, all wool, 2 guineas. Black and White Broché Costumes, 1 guinea; handsome Costumes, trimmed with patent unpicelling crape, for all grades of mourning, 3½ to 8 guineas. The Dressmaking Department is under new and superior management. A successful fit and the best style may be relied upon, at moderate charges.
Patterns and Samples of all goods free.

SILKS.—SPECIAL NOTICE.
On MONDAY NEXT and during the week we shall offer 40,000 yards of Black and Coloured Silks, in all the new shades, at fully 15 to 20 per cent under last year's prices—2s. 11½d. to 6s. 11½d. per yard.
An Inspection is solicited.
Patterns to the country free.

CHARLES GASK and CO. (Limited), 58, 59, 60, 61, 62, 63, Oxford-street; 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, Wells-street, London.
CARRIAGE ENTRANCE, 5, Wells-street.

WOOLLEN CLOTHS for LADIES' JACKETS, CLOAKS, ULSTERS, &c., in great variety, at very moderate prices. We also keep a very large Stock available for Gentlemen's and Youths' wear. Livery Cloths, &c., equally cheap. Patterns, ready money only.
C. MEEKING and CO., Woollen Warehouse, corner of Hatton-garden, Holborn-circus.

NEW AUTUMN COSTUMES, CLOAKS, &c.—T. LITTLE and SON beg to announce that their buyers and dressmakers have returned from Paris with the latest NOVELTIES for the AUTUMN SEASON. During the repaving of Oxford-street carriages can set down in Newman-street, two doors from Oxford-street.
42 to 44, Oxford-street.

MANUFACTURER'S STOCK of LADIES' AUTUMN DRESSES Selling Off at Half the Cost. Consisting of Moss Cachemires in the new dark plain colours. Price 4½d. per yard.—JOHN HOOPER, 52, Oxford-street W. Patterns free.

MOURNING ORDERS SENT AT ONCE UPON RECEIPT OF LETTER OR TELEGRAM.
A large Staff of very competent Dressmakers and ASSISTANTS are kept purposely to TRAVEL to all parts of the country—no matter the distance—
(free of any extra charge whatever to the Customer)
with a full assortment of Made-up Goods of the most fashionable and suitable description.

FOR A FAMILY MOURNING,
and also Mourning for Servants,
Orders, however large, can be completed at very short notice by Dressmakers of the greatest proficiency.
(either French, German, or English).

Observe the only one Address—
PETER ROBINSON'S,
COURT AND GENERAL MOURNING WAREHOUSE,
256 to 262, REGENT-STREET, LONDON.

One of the most important Houses of its kind in England. Established as a Mourning Warehouse Thirty Years.

AT PETER ROBINSON'S, of REGENT-STREET.
BLACK DRESS SATINS, all pure Silk, at 5s. 9d., 6s. 6d., 7s. 6d., 8s. 9d., and 10s. 9d., made by Messrs. Bonnet.
The DUCHESSE SATIN, at 12s. 9d. (26 inches wide),
a magnificent quality,
for richness and for durability cannot be surpassed.
BLACK SATINS, for Trimming purposes, at 2s. 6½d., 2s. 11d., 3s. 6d., and 4s. 6d. per yard.

BLACK SILKS—Specially Cheap,
Manufactured by Messrs. Bonnet et Cie, at .. 5s. 6d.
Manufactured by Messrs. Tapisserie et Cie, at 5s. 3d.
Manufactured by Messrs. Jaubert et Cie .. 4s. 6d.
Manufactured by Messrs. Dégove et Cie, at .. 4s. 11d.
Also, BLACK SILKS, in very serviceable qualities, at 2s. 6d., 2s. 11½d., 3s. 6d., and 4s. 9d.

CHINA WASHING SILKS, 21s. the Piece of 20 yards,
PETER ROBINSON is a Wholesale as well as a Retail Dealer in Black Silks.
As he buys direct from the Manufacturer, all intermediate profits are saved.
Address only as follows:—
PETER ROBINSON, 256 to 262, REGENT-STREET.
THE COURT AND GENERAL MOURNING WAREHOUSE.

BLACK SILK COSTUMES.
From pure and good-wearing Silks, at 5½, 6, 6½, and 8 guineas.
Copies of expensive French Models.
THE MYRA SILK COSTUME, complete, for 8 guineas.
"Photographs of the Costumes" sent on application to PETER ROBINSON'S, 256 to 262, REGENT-STREET.

EVENING DRESSES at One Guinea.
Black Brussels Net, at 29s. 6d.
Tulle (coquition keeping), 30s.
Grenadine, 22s. 6d.
New Styles, well cut, and elegantly trimmed.
Illustrations free.

COSTUMES.—Richly Embroidered.
THE FASHION FOR THE AUTUMN.
In Black, Navy, and neutral shades, from 5 to 10 guineas complete.
Our Buyers have returned from Paris with great novelties in all departments.
For Samples please address only to PETER ROBINSON, Regent-street, Nos. 256 to 262.

FURS at SUMMER PRICES.
REAL RUSSIAN SEAL PALETOTS.
33 inches long .. .. 9½ guineas.
36 inches long .. .. 11 guineas.
39 inches long .. .. 13 guineas.
New and Perfect Shapes,
and of the most enduring qualities.

FUR-LINED CLOAKS,
Lined Real Russian Squirrel, 45 inches long, 34s., 42s., 55s. 6d., and 3 guineas.
Also a special lot,
Lined with Plain Grey Squirrel, 47 inches long, at 6 guineas.
For Samples—Address ONLY as follows:—
PETER ROBINSON, REGENT-STREET,
Nos. 256 to 262.

NOTICE.—In reference to the above advertisements, it is important that letters should be carefully addressed to 256 to 262, REGENT-STREET.

ROYAL DEVONSHIRE SERGES, woven from pure wool, for LADIES' DRESSES, in Navy or Dark Indigo Blue, Invisible Check, Black Brownie, Prune, and other solid colours, price 1s. 11½d., 2s. 6d., 2s. 11d. per yard.
For CHILDREN a lower quality is made, very strong, at 1s. 6½d. per yard.
For BOYS' HARD WEAR it is extra milled, price 54 in. wide, 3s. 6d. per yard.
Books of Patterns sent post-free by
SPEARMAN and SPEARMAN,
Devonshire Serge Factors, Plymouth.
The ROYAL DEVONSHIRE SERGE is the only true Yachting Serge.
Sea Water cannot injure it.
Any Length is Cut by the Factors, who arrange to pay the carriage of all Parcels above Two Pounds in value to and as far as London.

SILKS and SATINS, 1s. 11½d. to 5s. 6d.
BAKER and CRISP'S.

VELVETEENS and CASHMERES, 1s. 11d. to 3s. 6d.
BAKER and CRISP'S.

SERGES and CYPRUS CLOTHS, 1s. 0½d.
BAKER and CRISP'S.

ULSTERINGS and SUITINGS, from 1s. 11½d.
BAKER and CRISP'S.

AUTUMN COSTUMES, from 39s. 6d.
BAKER and CRISP'S.

NOTED LADIES' ULSTERS, 12s. 9d. to 35s.
BAKER and CRISP'S.
Engravings and Patterns of all goods free.
198, REGENT-STREET.

D. NICHOLSON and CO. send post-free Patterns of
NEW SILKS,
DRESS FABRICS,
and Illustrations of
MANTLES, and COSTUMES.
D. NICHOLSON and COMPANY,
50 to 53, ST. PAUL'S CHURCHYARD, LONDON.

SHIRTS. — FORD'S EUREKA. — "The most perfect fitting made."—Observer. Gentlemen desirous of purchasing Shirts of the best quality should try Ford's Eureka. 30s., 40s., 45s. half dozen. Illustrations and self-measure post-free.—41, Poultry, London.

NEW FABRICS AND FASHIONS FOR AUTUMN.
SILKS, DRESSES, MANTLES, COSTUMES.
Patterns and Illustrations free.
PETER ROBINSON, OXFORD-STREET, W.

TEN THOUSAND PIECES OF COLOURED, BLACK, AND FANCY SILKS at GREAT REDUCTIONS, including 20,000 mètres of rich Stripe and Check Silks, at 1s. 11½d. per yard.
400 pieces of rich Coloured Gros Grain Silks, every new shade, at 3s. 9½d. per yard.
1000 pieces of Black Silks, of special pureness, in four prices—viz., 2s. 6d., 3s. 6d., 3s. 11d., and 4s. 6d. per yard.
BROCADED SILKS,
of extreme richness, usual prices, 8s. 6d. to 21s., will be sold at 4s. 6d. to 6s. 6d. per yard.
Damassés of the newest designs, usual price, 3s. 6d., at 1s. 11½d. per yard.
1000 PIECES OF SILK PONGEES, in lengths of 20 yards, with rich Embroidered Scarves for trimming, 39s. 6d. complete.
60 pieces Rich Silk Embroidered Cashmere, at 3s. 9d. per yard; usual price 6s. 6d.
500 PIECES INDIAN PONGEE WASHING SILKS, 16s. 9d. the piece of 20 yards.
Patterns post-free.

VERY FASHIONABLE THIS SEASON.
RICH VELVET VELVETEEN.
300 pieces fast Black, very wide,
2s. 3d. to 3s. 6d. per yard.
All the new Rich Shades of Colour, 2s. 6d. to 4s. 6d. per yard.

CASHMERES AND CASHMERE MERINOS,
FOR AUTUMN DRESSES.
A special purchase, in Black and all the new colours, amounting to several thousand pieces.
Very wide, at 1s. 11d. to 3s. 6d. per yard.

TRAVELLING and SEASIDE DRESSES.
Witney, Estamene, and Angola Serges,
Fancy Cassimirs, Rich Poplins,
New Autumn Moss Cloths, and other Novelties,
in endless variety, 10s. 6d. to 31s. 6d. the Dress.

A NEW FABRIC IN BLACK.
CRÊPE CASHMERE (Registered).
A most useful Material, in six designs, specially adapted for this season's Costumes.
Full width, 1s. 9d. per yard.

NEW FABRICS FOR PALETOTS, &c.
BLACK BEAVER CLOTH MATELASSE,
Foil de Chameau, Diagonals, &c.
These elegant Fabrics can also be had in Choice Shades of Fawn, Grey, Cuir Mode, &c.
From 5s. 6d. to 18s. 6d. the yard, 54 inches wide.
PETER ROBINSON, OXFORD-STREET, W.

HENRY GLAVE'S
UNDERCLOTHING AND OUTFITTING.
Duchess Trimmed Chemise, 1s. 9½d. each; three for 5s. 3d.
Countess, Handsomely-Trimmed Chemise, Scotch Insertion and Work, 2s. 11½d.; or three for 8s. 9d.
Better quality, and more handsomely trimmed, 3s. 11½d. each; or three for 11s. 6d.
Mercedes Night-Dress, 2s. 11½d. each; or three for 8s. 9d.
La Reine Night-Dress, Trimmed Scotch Work and Frilling, 3s. 11½d. each; or three for 11s. 6d.
200 dozen Trimmed Drawers, 1s. 11½d. each; or three for 5s. 9d.
White Embroidered "Cuirass" Corset, with Spoonbill busk, 2s. 11½d. and 4s. 11d.; usual price, 3s. 11d. and 6s. 11d.
A lot of White French Wove Corsets, at 3s. 11d., 5s. 11d., and 6s. 11d., good shapes; all reduced in price.
Fashionable Deep Corsets for Princess Costumes, in Black, Scarlet, and Grey, 4s. 11d.; and improved shapes, in scarlet, white, and grey, at 6s. 11d., in every size.
Illustrated Lists of Underclothing.
Patterns, Samples, and all information post-free.
534, 535, 536, and 537, New Oxford-street, London, W.C.

HENRY GLAVE'S
SILK AND VELVET DEPARTMENT.
Black Silks, special prices for this month.
Black Silks, at 1s. 6½d., 1s. 11½d., 2s. 6½d., and 2s. 11½d. yd.
Black Silks, Lyons Gros Grains, by Messrs. Gourd Croizat, and Cie., special prices, 3s. 11½d. a yard.
Blue-Black Velveteens, 1s. 6½d. a yard, 25 in. wide.
7000 yards Rich Coloured Velveteens, 50 different shades, 27 in. wide, 1s. 6½d. yard; former price, 2s. 11½d.
7000 yards Rich Coloured Velveteens, 50 different shades, 27 in. wide, 2s. 10½d. a yard; former price, 3s. 11½d.
The new "Louis" Velveteens, Gros Grains, dyed the new shade of blue-black by a special process, are guaranteed to retain their colour and brilliancy, and cannot be distinguished from Lyons Silk Velvets at four or five times the price.
Special Parcels of 27 in. Silk Costume Velvets, 6s. 11d. the yard; former price, 10s.
Black Satins, 1s. 0½d., 1s. 6½d., 1s. 11½d., 2s. 6½d., and 2s. 11½d.
Black satins, 3s. 6½d., 3s. 11½d., 4s. 11d., and 6s. 11d. a yd.
Coloured Satins, in 100 shades, 2s. 6½d. and 3s. 6d.
Patterns of all kinds post-free.
534, 535, 536, and 537, New Oxford-street, London.

THE COURT HAIR DESTROYER.—This newly-discovered remedy removes superfluous hair, quite harmless, 3s. 6d.; post 3d. extra, 10d., of Inventor, J. Leon, 19, Porteus-rd., London, W., or Chemists. Particulars, 1 stamp.

GOLDEN HAIR.—ROBARE'S AUREOLINE produces the beautiful Golden Colour so much admired. Warranted perfectly harmless. Price 5s. 6d. and 10s. 6d., of all Perfumers. Wholesale, HOVENDEN and SONS, 5, Great Marlborough-street, W.; and 91 and 93, City-road, E.C. London; Pinaud and Meyer, 37, Boulevard de Strasbourg, Paris; 31, Graben, Vienna; 44, Rue des Longs Chariots, Brussels.

DOES YOUR HAIR TURN GREY? Then use HERRING'S PATENT MAGNETIC BRUSHES and COMBS. Brushes, 10s. and 15s. each. Combs, 2s. 6d., 5s., 7s. 6d., 10s., 15s., and 20s. each. Pamphlets upon application.—5, Great Marlborough-st., W.; 93 and 95, City-road; and of all Perfumers.

SPANISH FLY is the acting ingredient in ALEX. ROSS'S CANTHARIDES OIL, which speedily produces Whiskers and Thickens Hair. 3s. 6d.; sent in blank wrappers for 54 stamps.—Alex. Ross, 248, High Holborn.

BLAIR'S GOUT PILLS,
The Great English Remedy for Gout and Rheumatism. Sure, safe, and effectual. No restraint of diet required during their use, and are certain to prevent the disease attacking any vital part. Sold by all Chemists at 1s. 1½d. and 2s. 9d. per Box.

TO PERSONS AFFLICTED WITH RUPTURE.—PRATT'S WATER-PAD TRUSSES are the most effectual Cure.—Apply to J. F. Pratt, Surgical Mechanician to St. Bartholomew's Hospital, 420, Oxford-street, London.

ELECTRICITY IS LIFE.
PULVERMACHER'S "GALVANISM," NATURE'S CHIEF RESTORER OF EXHAUSTED VITAL ENERGY.
In this Pamphlet the most reliable proofs are given of the vast and wonderful curative power of Pulvermacher's Patent Galvanic Chain-Bands, Belts, &c., in Rheumatic, Nervous, and Functional Disorders. Sent post-free for three stamps, on application to
J. L. PULVERMACHER'S GALVANIC ESTABLISHMENT, 194, REGENT-STREET, LONDON, W.; AND 39, RUE ST. MARC, PARIS.

WHOOPING-COUGH.—ROCHE'S HERBAL EMBROCATION.—The celebrated Effectual Cure without internal medicine. Sole Wholesale Agents, EDWARDS and SON, 157, Queen Victoria-street (late of 38, Old Change), London. Sold retail by most Chemists. Price 1s. per Bottle.

INVALUABLE TO ALL WHO SUFFER from BILIOUS COMPLAINTS, Indigestion, Wind, Spasms, Giddiness, Dizziness of the Eyes, Habitual Costiveness, &c. Dr. SCOTT'S BILIOUS and LIVER PILLS (without mercury) are unequalled. Mild in their operation, they create appetite, and strengthen the whole nervous system. Sold by W. LAMBERT, 1a, Vere-street, London, W., and all Druggists, in Boxes, 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d. The Genuine are in a Square Green Packet.

TOOTH-ACHE.
INSTANT CURE.
FORMS A STOPPING.
SAVES THE TOOTH.
J. Hounsell, Esq., Surgeon, Bridport, writes:—"I consider HUNTER'S NERVINE a specific for Toothache. Very severe cases under my care have found instantaneous and permanent relief."
Of all Chemists, at 1s. 1½d. per Packet

NEW MUSIC.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S IMPROVED AMERICAN ORGANS, COMBINING PIPES WITH REEDS, Manufactured by CLOUGH and WARREN, DETROIT, U.S.A.

The immense advantages these instruments possess over the Organs hitherto imported have induced Messrs. Chappell and Co. to undertake the sole Agency of this eminent Manufactory.

A large variety on view, from 25 to 150 guineas.

Price-Lists on application to 50, New Bond-street.

CLOUGH and WARREN'S "FAVOURITE ORGAN."

Ten Stops, Four Sets of Reeds, Knee-Swell.

Compass, Five Octaves.

Elegant Carved Canadian Walnut Case.

Price 25 Guineas.

Illustrated Price-List free by post.

Sole Agents, CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

SECONDHAND PIANOFORTES.

TERMINATION OF THE LONDON SEASON.

Now on view, an immense number of Pianofortes returned from Hire, to be sold, at greatly reduced prices, for cash.

Pianinos from 18 guineas.
Cottages from 20 guineas.
Grands from 50 guineas.
50, New Bond-street.

SECONDHAND PIANOFORTES at 50, New Bond-street,

may be hired, with option of purchase, or on the "Three-Years' System," at greatly reduced prices.

SECONDHAND PIANOFORTES now on View by the following eminent Makers:—

BROADWOOD. | ERARD.
COLLARD. | CHAPPELL.
LIPP. | ROSENKRANZ.

CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

SECONDHAND HARMONIUMS, for CHURCH, SCHOOL, or DRAWING-ROOM.

Upwards of a hundred varieties now on View.

From 3 guineas to 100 guineas.

At CHAPPELL and CO.'S, 50, New Bond-street.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S SPECIALITIES in ORGAN HARMONIUMS.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S NEW ORGAN HARMONIUMS.—Five octaves, two pedals, suitable for cottage or school. Price 7 gs.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S NEW ORGAN MODEL by ALEXANDRE, two rows of keys, five stops and sub-bass, Venetian swell, two knee pedals. 28 guineas, or £3 10s. per quarter on Three-Years' System.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S SPECIALITIES in PIANOFORTES.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S SCHOOL PIANINOS, Canadian Walnut, 20 gs., or 2 gs. per quarter on the Three-Years' System of Purchase.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S YACHT PIANINOS, 30 gs., or £3 per quarter on Three-Years' System of Purchase.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S BOUDOIR PIANINO, 35 gs., or £3 10s. per quarter on the Three-Years' System of Purchase.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S ENGLISH MODEL, 40 gs., or £4 per quarter, on the Three-Years' System of Purchase.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S MIGNON IRON GRAND, 80 gs., or £8 per quarter on the Three-Years' System of Purchase.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S BOUDOIR IRON 110 gs., or £11 per quarter on the Three-Years' System of Purchase.

NEW BOND-STREET, W.

NEW DANCE MUSIC.

CHARLES D'ALBERT'S NOVELTIES.

CYPRUS POLKA	2s. 0d. net
CONGRESS LANCERS	2s. 0d. net
PAUL ET VIRGINIE WALTZ	2s. 0d. net
PAUL ET VIRGINIE QUADRILLE	2s. 0d. net
PAUL ET VIRGINIE GALOP	2s. 0d. net
THE ENGAGED WALTZ	2s. 0d. net
DISTANT SHORE WALTZ. On Sullivan's Song	2s. 0d. net
SWEETHEARTS LANCERS	2s. 0d. net
CLEOPATRA GALOP	2s. 0d. net
THE LOVE-LETTER POLKA	1s. 6d. net
THE FANFARE POLKA	2s. 0d. net
MOLLY HARLING QUADRILLE	2s. 0d. net
SWEETHEARTS WALTZ	2s. 0d. net

N.B.—A Complete List of M. D'Albert's Popular Dance Music will be sent on application.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

NEW NUMBERS OF

CHAPPELL'S MUSICAL MAGAZINE.

No. 118.—POPULAR MARCHES.

Marche Romaine	Ch. Gounod.
March of the Pashas	J. Pridham.
March in "Judas Maccabeus"	Handel.
March in "Scipio"	Handel.
March in the "Occasional Oratorio"	Handel.
March in "Rinaldo"	Handel.
March in "Hercules"	Handel.
The Wellington March	Chas. d'Albert.
Dead March in "Saul"	Handel.
March in "Judas Maccabeus" ("See the Conquering Hero comes.")	Handel.
March in "Die Zauberflote"	Mozart.
March in "Alceste"	Gluck.
March in "Idomeneo"	Mozart.

No. 117.—(MIXED SERIES, No. 3.)

Song (Tenor)	Ely Mavourneen	Sir J. Benedict.
Song (Contralto)	The lonely Harp	Miss Cowell.
Song (Soprano)	I'm alone	Sir J. Benedict.
Song (Baritone)	I never can forget	A. Mellon.
Duet (Sop. & Con.)	O ye voices gone	Zeta.
Duet (Sop. & Con.)	Two wandering Stars	B. Richards.
Pianoforte	Soldier's Prayer	A. Lindahl.
Pianoforte	Siren's Song	A. Lindahl.
Pianoforte	Blue Bells of Scotland	B. Richards.
Dance Music	West End Polka	Charles D'Albert.
Dance Music	Little Nell Waltz	Dan Godfrey.
Dance Music	Lord of Lorne Lancers	Dan Godfrey.
Dance Music	Express Galop	Charles D'Albert.

No. 116.—(MIXED SERIES, No. 2.)

Song (Baritone)	The Bell Ringer	W. Vincent Wallace.
Song (Soprano)	Tender and True	Arthur Sullivan.
Song (Contralto)	To Thee	Alberto Randegger.
Song (Tenor)	Oh! whisper what thou feelest	B. Richards.
Vocal Duet (Sop. and Con.)	When Birds are singing	H. Smart.
Duet (Sop. & Con.)	Two Merry Gipsies	G. A. Macfarren
Pianoforte	The Soldier's Chorus	B. Richards.
Pianoforte	Air by Louis XIII.	Henri Ghys.
Pianoforte	A Ray of Sunshine	Carl Ledue.
Dance Music	Dew Drop Waltz	Charles d'Albert.
Dance Music	The Sultan's Polka	Charles d'Albert.
Dance Music	Polo Lancers	Dan Godfrey.
Dance Music	The Mabel Galop	Dan Godfrey.

No. 115.—(MIXED SERIES, No. 1.)

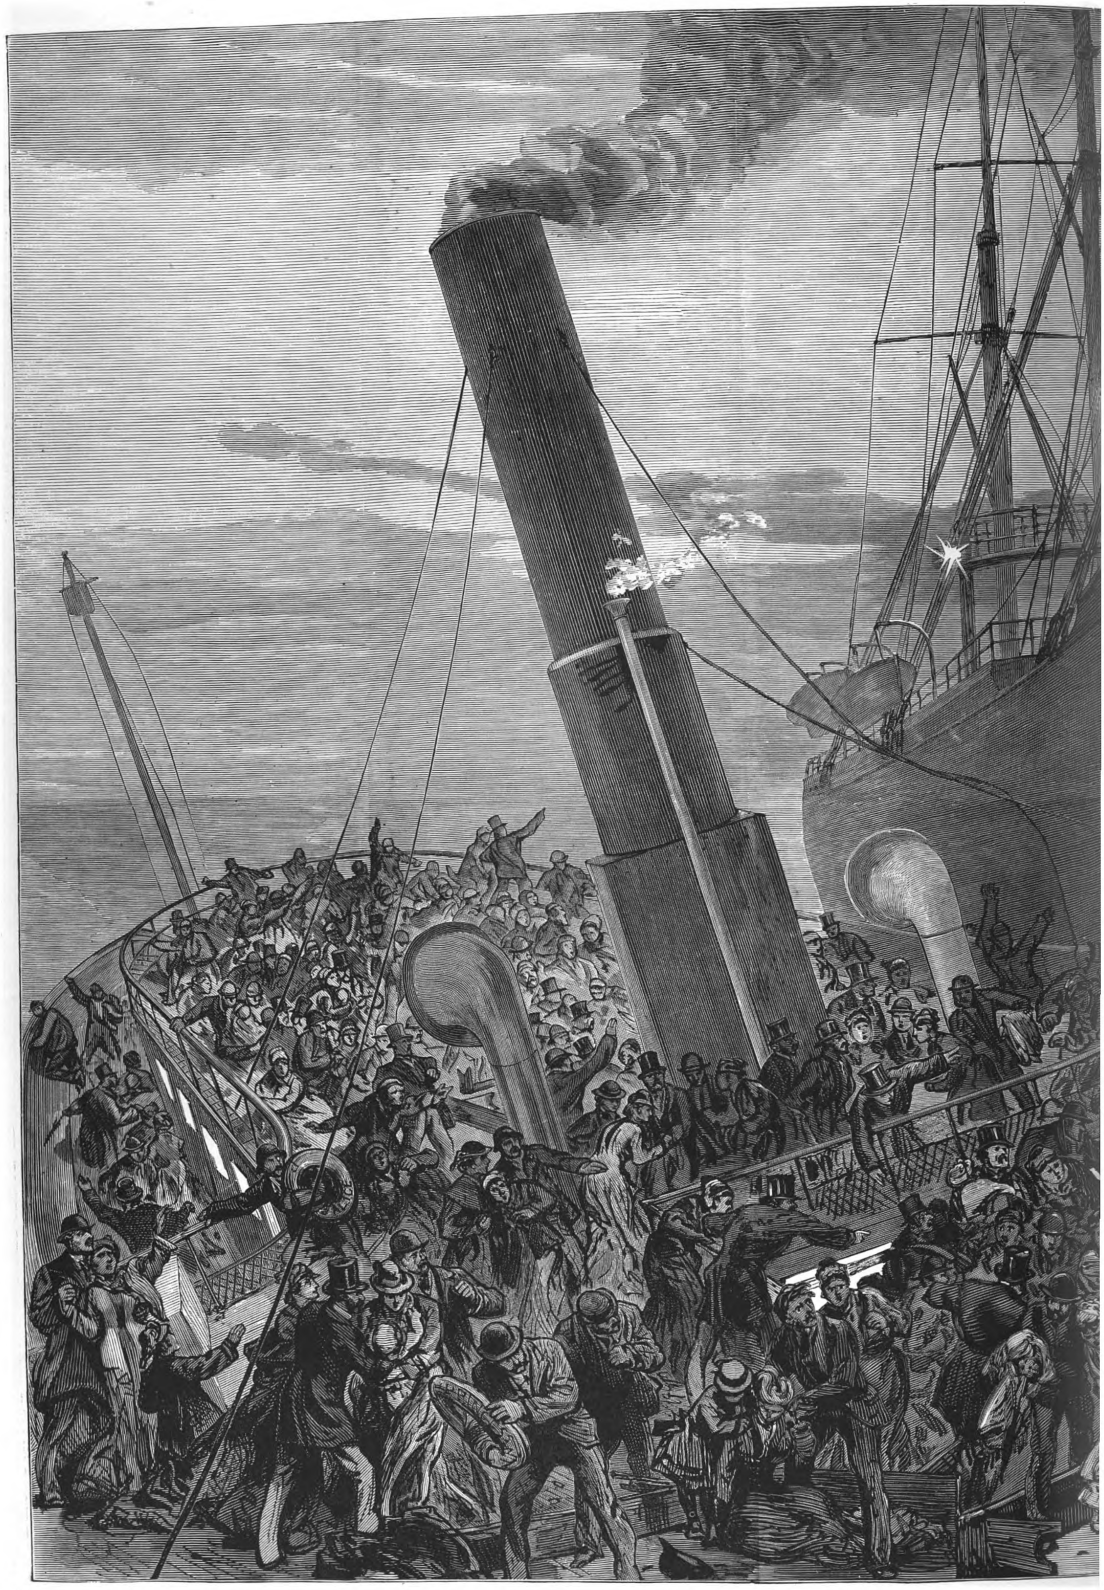
Song (Contralto)	Juanita	Mrs. Norton.
Song (Soprano)	The Maiden's Story	A. Sullivan.
Song (Baritone)	The Stirrup Cup	Luigi Arditi.
Song (Tenor)	There's Sunlight in Heaven	M. Balfe.
Duet (Sop. & Con.)	Wind and the Harp	S. Glover.
Duet (Sop. & Con.)	Ave Sanctissima	Mrs. Hemans.
Pianoforte	Home, Sweet Home	B. Richards.
Pianoforte	The Silver Trumpets	F. Vivianti.
Pianoforte	Priere d'une Vierge	T. Badarzewska.
Dance Music	The Rink Galop	Charles D'Albert.
Dance Music	The Hilda Waltz	Dan Godfrey.
Dance Music	Palermo Quadrilles	Charles D'Albert.
Dance Music	King Pippin Polka	Charles D'Albert.

ONE SHILLING EACH (post-free, 1s. 2d.).

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street, London, W.

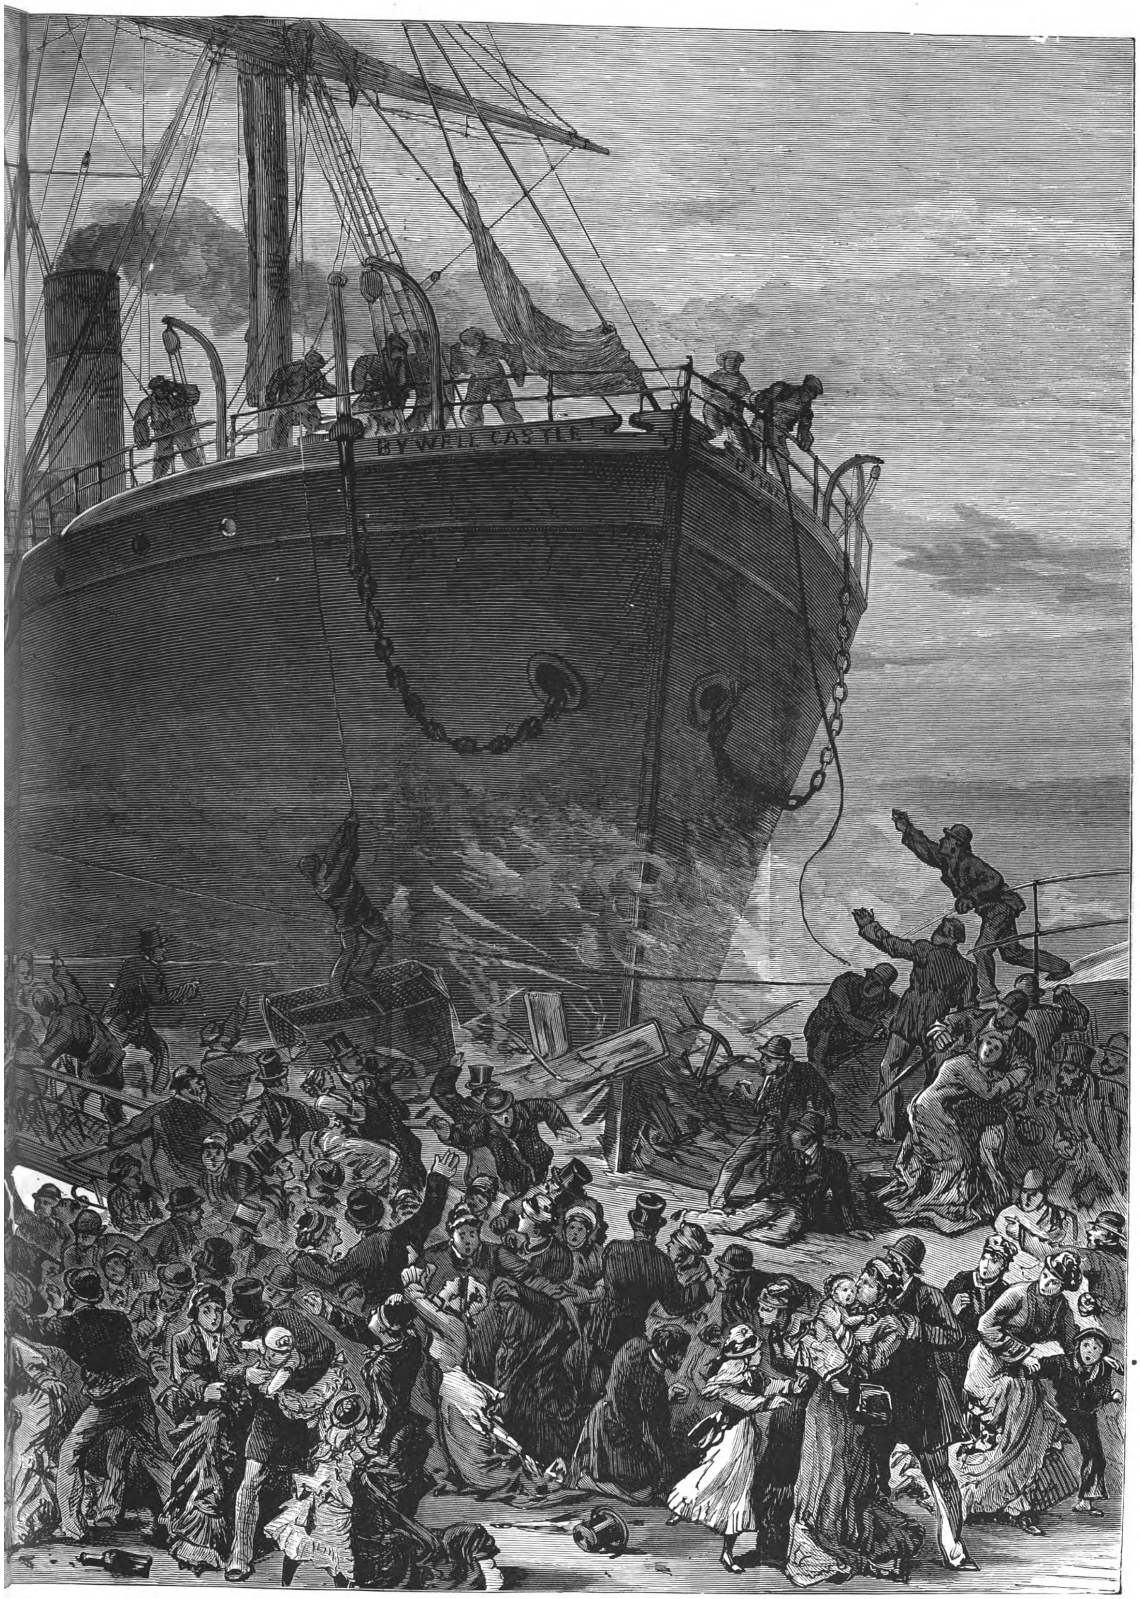
REMINISCENCES OF ENGLAND.

REMINISCENCES OF IRELAND.
REMINISCENCES OF SCOTLAND.
REMINISCENCES OF WALES.



Arranged for the Pianoforte by FRED. GODFREY (B. M. Coldstream Guards). Played by all the Bands in her Majesty's Service. Price 2s. each net.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.



NEW MUSIC.

Price 10s. 6d., bound in cloth,

SPOHR'S VIOLIN SCHOOL, Complete. Edited by HENRY HOLMES. BOOSEY and CO. beg to announce the publication of an entirely new Edition of Spohr's great Violin School, translated into English by Florence Marshall; revised, with Notes, by Henry Holmes. The numerous and edited, with Notes, by Henry Holmes. and edited

THE GREAT DISASTER ON THE THAMES: COLLISION BETWEEN THE PRINCESS ALICE AND THE BYWELL CASTLE, NEAR WOOLWICH.

THE GREAT DISASTER ON THE THAMES: SCENE IN WOOLWICH DOCKYARD.

THE DISASTER ON THE THAMES.

Another week has been spent in public lamentations for the greatest loss of life ever caused by a single momentary accident in the neighbourhood of London. Thousands of mourners have been condoled with, each family in the circle of its private acquaintance, and in the neighbourhood of its residence, while every voice has daily repeated the expression of sympathy, and almost every pulpit of church or chapel, as well as every newspaper, has joined in uttering the general sorrow, and in commenting upon this terrible event. Although our last week's publication gave, for the time, a sufficient account of the disaster on Tuesday week, and of the discovery and reception of dead bodies till the Thursday afternoon, we have now to relate many important particulars. Every morning and evening since then has brought to our knowledge additional facts and circumstantial details of the manifold calamity; the identification of drowned persons, the bereavement of many households in all parts of London, the painful anxiety of those whose friends were still missing, and the progress of inquiries and discussions upon this dismal subject. It has been the main topic of conversation in town, and probably in most places throughout the country; and it necessarily occupies the greater portion of our space filled with Engravings from more than a dozen sketches made during the past week. These are now in the hands of our readers, and will require some notice of the several incidents delineated; besides which a few of the most remarkable passages in the narratives of survivors may be found worthy of perusal.

The Princess Alice was a paddle-steamer belonging to the London Steam-Boat Company (Limited), of Bennet's-hill, Doctors'-commons, London. Her official number was 52,614. She was built of iron, and was of 158 tons net tonnage, and 251 gross tonnage. Her length was 219 ft. 4 in.; her breadth, 20 ft. 2 in.; her depth, 8 ft. 4 in. Her engines were by Caird and Co., of Greenock. They were of 140-horse power. The vessel was built by Messrs. Caird, of Greenock, in 1865, and belonged to the port of London. She passed, with the rest of the fleet, into the possession of the London Steam-Boat Company when this undertaking, of which the chairman is Captain Pelly, R.N., and the principal promoter was Mr. John Orrell Lever, absorbed the minor associations for the river passenger traffic.

The Bywell Castle is an iron screw-steamer, having the official number 63,546. She is known by the signal letters J. K. P. W. Her registered tonnage is 892 tons net, 1376 tons gross, and 1168 tons under the deck. Her length is 254 ft. 3 in.; her breadth, 32 ft. 1 in.; her depth, 19 ft. 6 in. She has compound inverted engines with two cylinders, diameter 27 in., and length of stroke 54-33 in. They are of 120-horse power, and by Palmer's Company, Newcastle. She was built by Palmer, Newcastle, in the year 1870. Her owners are Hall Brothers, of London.

After a day's excursion trip for pleasure, the Princess Alice was on her return up the river from Sheerness and Gravesend. It was at twenty minutes to eight in the evening, with full moonlight, that she was met and run down by the Bywell Castle off Tripcock Point, or Margaret Ness, a mile below Woolwich Arsenal, and opposite to the Beckton Gasworks on the north shore. The fragile saloon steam-boat was actually cut in two, and she sank within five minutes. Of the multitude of men, women, and children left struggling for life in the water, about one hundred escaped by swimming or clinging to the ropes and floating articles thrown out from the Bywell Castle, or were immediately picked up by the boats of that vessel and others. There was a strong ebb tide, which carried many away down the river. Six hundred lives and more have been lost; there were 558 dead bodies found up to last Wednesday evening.

The place where the two vessels came into collision with each other is shown in a small plan of that part of the river below Woolwich presented, with other Engravings, on page 252 of this week's Number of our Journal. It is in Gallion's Reach, about one mile below Woolwich Arsenal, and the same distance above the mouth of Barking Creek, on the Essex shore. The Princess Alice, after coming up Barking Reach, had rounded the point of Margaret Ness, on the southern shore above Tripcock, and just opposite the Beckton Gasworks. The Bywell Castle was coming down Gallion's Reach with the ebb tide, and with her screw working at a rate equivalent to four knots an hour, so that her speed, with the tide, may be estimated at seven or eight knots. It is probable that the intention of the commanders of both vessels, when they caught sight of each other approaching in opposite directions, was to pass on the south side of the channel, as near as they could to the Woolwich Marsh shore; each supposing that the other was about to pass along the north side. With this view, the helm on board the Bywell Castle was put on the port side, or to the left hand, causing the vessel's head to turn to the starboard—that is to say, to her right-hand side. At the same time, the Princess Alice put her helm to the starboard, and thereby turned her head to her port or left-hand side, instead of crossing over, as the Bywell Castle had expected she would do, to the north side of the river. The Princess Alice, in fact, continued to follow the bend of the south bank, while the Bywell Castle made for the point just below. The consequence was that the Bywell Castle ran into the starboard side of the Princess Alice, striking her just forward of the paddle-box, and crushing her frail side like an egg-shell.

The most valuable testimony which can be obtained to explain this lamentable occurrence should be that of surviving officers and seamen. The commander of the Princess Alice, Captain William Grinstead, is among the drowned, and cannot speak for himself. Captain Thomas Harrison, commander of the Bywell Castle, in his log published last week, states that as the two vessels neared each other he observed that the Princess Alice had "ported," as if to cross over to the north side of the river, while his own ship had already ported her helm to go over to the south side. This would have been all right and safe; but he adds that he saw immediately afterwards that the Princess Alice "had starboarded, and was trying to cross our bows." In other words, he alleges that the Princess Alice, having first shown an intention to take the right-hand side of the channel—that is to say, the north side—capriciously and most rashly changed her course to the left-hand side, endeavouring to regain the inside position at the southerly bend of the river. This is the most serious question that has been raised, affecting the conduct and seamanship of the deceased Captain Grinstead, and the veracity of Captain Harrison is equally at stake upon it. The men belonging to the two vessels, whose evidence has been taken by the Receiver of Wrecks for the Port of London, are Mr. Christopher Dix, of Stepney, pilot of the Bywell Castle on this occasion; William Charles Haynes, helmsman of the Bywell Castle; John Hardy, lookout man on the forecastle of that ship; and, on the other hand, Mr. George Thomas Long, of Woolwich, the first mate, and Mr. Ralph Wilkinson, of Gravesend, second mate of the Princess Alice, John Eyers, the helmsman, John Rand and Henry Young, two seamen, keeping the look out. The pilot of the Bywell Castle was on her bridge with Captain Harrison; and he states that their vessel was going down Gallion's Reach in mid-channel, when they saw, looking over Tripcock Point, the red and masthead lights of the Princess Alice, three quarters of a mile distant. The Princess Alice rounded the Point, being then nearly half a mile from the Bywell Castle. It should be understood that the Princess Alice carried a red light on her port or left-hand side, and a green light on her starboard or right hand-side. Dix, the pilot of the Bywell Castle, says that he saw, half a mile off, the red light, with the white masthead light, of the Princess Alice come round the Point, bearing two points on the port bow of his own ship. This may be understood to have caused him and Captain Harrison to believe that the Princess Alice was making for the north side of the channel, and would pass the Bywell Castle on their port side. Hence it was that the Bywell Castle pilot ordered his helm, which up to this moment had been steady, to be slightly ported, which caused the vessel to veer slightly towards the south shore. When the vessels approached within about a quarter of a mile of each other he ordered the engines to be stopped, and sounded his whistle. The Princess Alice was still showing her red and white lights, inclining, he says, slightly towards the north shore, the Bywell Castle slightly inclining towards the south shore. The Bywell Castle had still way on her. When the Princess Alice came to about 300 or 400 yards' distance she showed her red and green lights bearing two points on the port bow of the Bywell Castle. The Bywell Castle pilot ordered his helm hard aport, and put the engines full speed astern. Loud shouts were heard from the Princess Alice, and she was hailed to port her helm. Suddenly the Princess Alice's red light disappeared and the green only was visible. A collision became inevitable, the Bywell Castle's stem striking the Princess Alice on the starboard side. This is the account given by Mr. Christopher Dix, and confirmed, to some extent, by Haynes, the helmsman of the Bywell Castle, who states that he saw the red and masthead lights of the Princess Alice, apparently about a third of a mile distant. He had been ordered, three minutes before, to port his helm a little, which had been done, and this order was given by the pilot upon a report from the look-out man that he saw a red light ahead. Haynes further declares, that "when the Princess Alice approached within a quarter of a mile, she suddenly shut in her light," meaning that she turned so as to hide from view the red light on her port side, "and the green light," on her starboard side, "became visible;" upon which the master or pilot of the Bywell Castle ordered his own helm to be put hard aport, and the collision took place. It does not seem clear how the Bywell Castle could hope to escape the collision by putting its helm hard aport, when the immediate danger, as we are told, arose from the Princess Alice improperly starboarding her helm. Two vessels approaching one another, the first with her helm put to starboard, and the second with her helm aport, would seem all the more likely to encounter each other. If the Bywell Castle, on perceiving that the Princess Alice had changed her course to the south side of the channel, as is alleged, had then taken the north side, by putting her own helm starboard, the collision would have been avoided, supposing there was time for the Princess Alice to get across clear of her bows. The other witness from the Bywell Castle is John Hardy, the forecastle look-out man, who agrees with Dix and Haynes in their statement that the red or port side light of the Princess Alice was first seen, but that "in a few minutes the red light was shut out, and the green light came in view," about a point and a half on the port bow of the Bywell Castle. The two vessels, he says, were in this position within two hundred yards of one another; the Bywell Castle was then in mid-stream, but slightly inclining to the south shore. Is it so plainly apparent that she could not, by altering her course within that distance of two hundred yards, have passed astern of the Princess Alice? The answer to this question is fully as important as that which may be given to the former question—namely, whether the Princess Alice did or did not improperly change her course from the starboard to the port side. We have now to consider the evidence of the first mate of the Princess Alice, Mr. George Thomas Long, who was on the top of the fore saloon. He tells us that, "on rounding Tripcock Point, the vessel's helm had been starboarded to pass a screw-steamer, name unknown, which was going down the river. The engines were going easy, and he next observed the green and masthead lights of the screw-steamer, which proved to be the Bywell Castle, coming down the river. The Princess Alice's helm at that moment was starboarded; the engines were stopped. The Bywell Castle appeared to have ported her helm, and was coming stem on against the Princess Alice, being about 150 yards distant. The Princess Alice sounded her whistle, and loud shouts were made to the Bywell Castle, but the collision then inevitably took place. The same account is given by the second mate of the Princess Alice, Mr. Ralph Wilkinson, and by Henry Young, her look-out man, and is supported by that of Mr. Abraham Dennis, master of the barge Bonetta, of Rochester, and Joseph Smith Burnitt, of Goole, master of the Ann Elizabeth, schooner, who were near enough to see all that happened. Mr. Wilkinson says that, when the Princess Alice arrived in Gallion's Reach abreast of the Beckton Gasworks, she was "on the starboard helm and steering about mid-stream." She would need, we may observe, to have her helm put starboard, in order to keep in mid-stream at that part of the river, which there takes a bend to the port side, or left-hand side, of a vessel ascending the stream. He states that he was standing on the starboard side of the after sponson, from which part of the vessel, crowded as the deck was, he could scarcely have seen the Bywell Castle approaching till the moment before the collision. He was occupied in coiling the rope to be thrown ashore for landing at the North Woolwich pier, when, glancing over the bulwark, he saw the Bywell Castle, stem on, coming down upon his vessel. The testimony of the look-out man, Henry Young, is more circumstantial with regard to the Bywell Castle, as he was in a position to see much more of her. He says that he, after rounding the Point, observed the green light (starboard side) of the Bywell Castle a mile distant. The Princess Alice was then about mid-channel, inclining slightly towards the south side of the river, and on the starboard helm, as she must be in order to follow the bend of the river. If this be true, it is not true, as Captain Harrison and others say, that the Princess Alice first had her helm aport, and then suddenly put it starboard. Again, Henry Young declares that the Bywell Castle, as she came on, still showed her green light, and he never saw her red light at all until after the collision, when he climbed on board of her. He then noticed that she was standing in to the south shore, having suddenly ported her helm; and he is of opinion that it was this which caused the collision, which might have been avoided "if the Bywell Castle had kept her starboard helm." It is certainly obvious that this would have avoided it, supposing the fact to be, as he says, that the Princess Alice had kept her own starboard helm without alteration. Two persons walking towards each other in one path will not jostle one another if both keep to the left hand, respectively, and the channel of the Thames is wide enough. But the expression, "if the Bywell Castle had kept her starboard helm," does not seem accurately to fit the state of the case. The Bywell Castle appears not to have been actually put on the starboard helm, but to have held straight on in mid-stream till she approached Tripcock Point, and then to have ported her helm, in order to pass near the south shore at that point; unless we are to understand Henry Young's statement about her green light as implying that her course was directed so as to present her starboard side to the Princess Alice meeting her; and in estimating this, we should require to notice the precise curve of the river bend. The master of the Bonetta, Mr. Abraham Dennis, states that he saw the Princess Alice "rounding Tripcock Point and hugging the south shore," right abreast of his own vessel. He could not well be mistaken about this fact, and he says that "she appeared to shape her course straight up Gallion's Reach along the south shore." It is not true, therefore, according to this witness, that she put her helm aport. He heard her steam-whistle, and her master shout, "Where are you coming to?" as the Bywell Castle met her, coming down the river on the south side of mid-stream. This witness was half a mile behind the Princess Alice. In half a minute he heard the order given on board the Bywell Castle to "port." He states again, quite positively, that the Princess Alice was still pursuing her course up the south shore. The Bywell Castle kept port helm, and he again heard the order given on board of her, "Port! port!" Then, almost immediately, she struck the Princess Alice on the starboard side. This statement would fully justify the opinion of Mr. Dennis, that "the cause of the casualty was the Bywell Castle porting helm as she approached the Princess Alice, and that it might have been avoided if the Bywell Castle had kept her course straight down stream a little south of mid-stream." The statement of Mr. Joseph Burnitt, master of the Goole schooner, is that the Bywell Castle appeared to be on her port helm at the moment when the captain of the Princess Alice called out, "Where are you coming to?" when the two vessels were a hundred and fifty yards from each other. The Princess Alice, which was coming up along the south shore, had eased her engines, in passing the Powder Magazine, and then stopped and whistled, after which she hailed the Bywell Castle. This witness, therefore, is likewise of opinion that the disaster was occasioned by the Bywell Castle keeping on with helm aport when a collision became imminent, instead of keeping a straight course down the river and passing the Princess Alice on the starboard side. We have further to record the evidence of John Eyers, the surviving helmsman of the Princess Alice, one of two men at the wheel, the other being William Creed, his brother-in-law, who refused to jump overboard with Eyers after the collision, and who was drowned. John Eyers states that on arriving at the top of Halfway Reach, as he calls the Barking Reach marked on our Plan, helm was ordered by the master to be starboarded, and it was done. He presently observed the Bywell Castle coming down on starboard helm, and then bearing about two points and a quarter on the starboard bow of the Princess Alice; but "suddenly the Bywell Castle appeared to port helm, and a collision seemed imminent. The Princess Alice, which had her helm kept starboarded, stopped and reversed her engines, but the Bywell Castle, coming on apparently at half speed, struck her on the fore sponson of the starboard side, and cut with her stem into the Princess Alice. The statement of John Rand, who kept the look-out forward on the lower deck, is that, before arriving at the top of the lower reach, he saw, over the point, the lights of the Bywell Castle, and reported to the chief mate, "Steamer right ahead!" The engines of the Princess Alice were stopped for a minute or two, but then were set ahead, helm was hard starboarded, and a caution was given by the master "Mind the helm on account of set of ebb tide." The Princess Alice answered her helm quickly and rounded the point close to the Powder Magazine on the south shore. The Bywell Castle was then a little to the north of his vessel, coming on with port helm. The master hailed the coming steamer to starboard helm, stopped and reversed engines, but the Bywell Castle coming on with stem struck the Princess Alice, cutting her through nearly to the boiler. The Princess Alice commenced to fill; there was great confusion.

It will be perceived by the reader of these depositions that there is an essential conflict of evidence upon the matter of fact involved in Captain Harrison's assertion, first made in his log, and repeated by him on oath before the Receiver of Wrecks. He declares that, when the Princess Alice had rounded Tripcock Point, he "observed that she was paying off to the port helm," her red light being visible to him. His own helm was already ported, and his vessel was "paying off quickly towards the Tripcock shore." He kept his own helm hard aport, but "when the vessels approached within about one hundred yards of each other, the Princess Alice was suddenly observed to starboard her helm, showing her green light close under the Bywell Castle. To this act Captain Harrison attributes the collision that instantly followed. The question is, whether or not she was, as he states, previously keeping a course under port helm. His statement is flatly denied by every one of the surviving officers and seamen of the Princess Alice, and by several witnesses who are nautical men. We must await the decision of the Board of Trade official inquiry, and that of the Admiralty Court, which will have to deal with the case as between the two vessels. As for Captain Grinstead, who always bore the highest character, he refused to quit his post on the bridge of the Princess Alice, though entreated by the helmsman Eyers to do so, and he perished in this great disaster. Public feeling is not disposed just now to find fault with him upon slight evidence of any mistake on his part.

We pass on to the interesting personal experiences of some of the survivors, whose statements have been reported in the daily newspapers.

One of the passengers' narratives is this, given by Mr. Henry Reed, stationer, of 57, Oxford-street, who says:—"My wife and I had been down at Gravesend spending the day. We did not go down by the Princess Alice, and our returning by her was quite accidental. We were during the voyage on the upper fore-deck, where there were other first-class passengers—men, women, and children; but the deck was not crowded. The other portion of the ship seemed to me to be very much crowded, chiefly by pleasure-seekers. I never before saw so many children on board a Thames steamer, and the proportion of women on board seemed to me very large; but throughout the passage from Gravesend there was perfect order. I did not see one person under the influence of liquor on board. Up to within a few moments of the collision a band was playing, and its last tune was 'Nancy Lee.' All went well and quietly until about twenty-five minutes to eight o'clock, when it was anything but dark. You might not have been able to read small print, but you could distinctly see the picture on a photograph. We were near North Woolwich, and had seen the powder-magazine. The captain was standing on the paddle-box, looking ahead, and giving directions to the hands. I am perfectly certain we were slackening speed, and going very slowly. Some of the people around us were straining their eyes, and looking ahead in the same direction as the captain. My wife and I turned to look as the others did; we were then standing at the extreme point of the deck, looking up the Thames. I saw a large vessel, a screw-steamer, several lengths ahead, and coming directly towards us. It appeared to me that our vessel had then altogether stopped, and was standing still in the water. Everyone around us was anxious, and inquired one from the other what was the matter, but two or three of the men belonging to the Princess Alice who were on the deck looking out told us not to fear, for we would go by all right, and that there was no danger. My wife expressed a fear that the great vessel towering so much above us would come into collision. She was some lengths off, but coming nearer in a direct line. I am quite sure she was coming straight on. I looked, but could see no lights on the large vessel, nor could I see any man in the fore part of her facing towards us. I jumped up on the seat, still looking towards the vessel approaching us, but one of the hands called upon me to come down, by the captain's orders. I observed that the captain of the Princess Alice was still on the paddle-box and that our lights were hung out. As the large vessel came nearer to us, while I believe we were standing still, I distinctly heard the captain shouting to her in a loud voice, 'Where are you coming to?' I came down from the seat, as ordered, when I found my wife and I were the only passengers on the upper fore-deck. The large vessel was then close upon us. My wife, who had not lost her self-possession, said, 'Do not leave me;' and I took her hands to keep her by me. I looked up at the vessel close upon us, but could see no persons in her fore part, nor could I hear any cries from her; but her great height above us would probably prevent our doing so. The collision must have occurred at that moment; for, although there was no crash, we felt the Princess Alice tremble under us—a kind of strong shivering motion. We turned, looking aft, seeking for means of safety, and I observed the captain was no longer on the paddle-box. I never saw him again. Screaming had then begun; and I saw a lot of people, quite a thick and excited crowd, rush, as I believe, across the gangway. I fancied there might have been a ladder there, for I saw several people, women with children, and men with women, drop over the side, but whether on to a ladder or not I do not know; but, perceiving that there was a fierce rushing of steam up the side at that point, I feared approaching it, lest we might be scalded to death. Without any apparent shock, we found ourselves, my wife and I still holding together, in the water, and rose again; we sank again, I believe drawn down by the suction of the Princess Alice. When we rose my wife was black in the face and nearly insensible; I could not swim, and could scarcely hold my wife up. She told me to keep quiet, and to hold up. A plank was close by us, and going past I seized it, and, holding on to it, it carried us right behind the vessel which had come into collision with us; the Princess Alice must then have been behind us. All around were people struggling in the water, screaming and calling to the men whom we could then see looking over the bulwarks of the other vessel. My wife and I also shouted, and ropes, I believe several, were thrown over us by the men. I distinctly saw three ropes thrown, and I believe there were more. I grasped one of the ropes, my wife still holding on to me. Some four or five others took hold of the same rope, but I could not see how many took hold of the other ropes, as they were thrown behind us. The vessel moved on, and, holding by the ropes, we floated down the river along with her; one of those clinging, a woman, screaming all the while. I believe she had lost a child. We must have floated in this way for more than half an hour, going down the river with the ebb. We were shouting to the men above, and could hear them shouting, but could not hear what they said. Many vessels passed us at a distance, and we could see a good many boats moving about us. A small boat hailed us, and took us on board. It was a two-oared boat, with three men in it. We were taken on board, with all those hanging on to our rope. Some of those clinging to the other rope must also have been taken on board, as there were twelve or thirteen of us altogether. I do not know the names of our rescuers, but, from the fact that they were hailed by a passing vessel, I believe they belonged to her. They rowed us to Greenwich, where we landed. My wife and I, after procuring refreshment, took train to London, arriving home a few minutes before eleven. The men in the boat told us we were picked up two miles from the scene of the collision. We neither of us lost consciousness during the whole time. My watch stopped at twenty minutes to eight o'clock."

Another of the surviving passengers, Mr. George Alexander Haynes, of 113, Bow-road, gives the following account:—"On the return journey there were about 800 souls on board, counting the great number of children with the adults. The fore part of the vessel was filled; so also was the saloon deck, but not so much the aft part, where I happened to be. After quitting Gravesend, and when nearly abreast of the beacon light at Grays, our vessel nearly collided with a large brig, and a serious accident was only averted by our captain reversing the wheels full on. This incident caused no small amount of consternation among the passengers. After righting ourselves, all went well till we arrived opposite North Woolwich. We had just passed the powder magazine on our left, and the Beckton Gasworks on our right; we were pretty nearly in mid-stream; it was rather dark and hazy at the time. Suddenly there was a bustle aboard, and low murmurs were audible amongst the passengers, which gradually rose into loud exclamations. At this time our signal-whistle blew tremendously loud and shrill; the wheels of the boat were momentarily reversed and speed slackened. I heard the captain of our vessel and other people shout out as if warning some approaching ship. Being at the after part of the boat, I went to look on the starboard side, when the air was suddenly filled with the terrible tumult of human voices, and within a second afterwards the big ship crashed into the Princess Alice on the starboard side and split our vessel right in half. I cannot describe the scene of confusion and maddening perplexity which seized upon everybody. In a minute or so I could see distinctly the fore part of our vessel sink, the middle going down like a plummet, raising the head of the vessel into the air, and as it sank the poor people seemed to be shot out as if down a shaft into the gulf below. Then our part of the vessel speedily went down from the paddle-box aft, the people from the saloon and after deck being also shot into the water like those at the fore. I held on to the stern above the rudder, as did a few others, and we were the last to leave the vessel. Before this the cries of the women and children were piteous beyond description. One of the crew rushed up to the stern and tried to loosen the ropes connecting one of the davits on the port bow, in order to utilise the boat, but he could not get the ropes unfastened, and said, 'Who's got a knife? Have you one, Sir?' I replied that I had, and handed it to him, when he cut the rope, and, after shouting out 'Below!' let the boat down into the water without a single person in it, although by proper management people could have been got in. I might have seated myself in it easily enough, but I thought it was intended for the ladies and children. After being let down it must have drifted away with the tide. I relied upon my good nerves and swimming powers to save myself. I don't think three minutes elapsed between the collision and the sinking of the Princess Alice. Events went speedily on, and at last the portion of the vessel on which I stood slipped away from my feet, and I found myself struggling in the water. I seized hold of a lady next to me who was drowning, and supported her in the tide. As well as I was able I trod the water, and was thus better able to keep both of us afloat. Nevertheless, I went under several times, for there was a great surge on then, caused in great part by the screw of the big ship near us. After buffeting the waves for some minutes, I was gradually getting exhausted, but I held on as best I could, still buoying up the lady. I could not see a body near us, nor was there any appearance of drowning persons. After a while a little boat hove in sight, commanded by Mr. Trewby, the manager of the Beckton Gas Works, whom I have to thank sincerely for the great kindness shown to me at his house after landing. Just as this little craft came up I called out 'Help, help!' and Mr. Trewby put out an oar, which I seized. Mr. Trewby took the lady in first and I followed. At this critical and desperate moment mournful cries of distress were heard a little way off from us, where a lady and gentleman were seen to be violently struggling. Without a moment's delay the boat put off to their rescue, and saved them. After this Mr. Trewby rowed up and down, but only picked up a lifebelt and a woman's shawl. The big ship which cut into us did not go on, but remained stationary, for Mr. Trewby and we rowed right round her to try and ascertain her name; but, owing to the darkness of the night, we were unable to find it out. Having been landed at the Gasworks, every kindness was shown to us by Mr. Trewby, his wife, and servants. Fires were instantly lighted. We were then more dead than alive. The ladies were invited to change their attire, and did so, Mrs. Trewby supplying them with an entire change. The men were generously offered suits of clothes, but respectfully declined, as we were all very anxious to reach home. Brandy-and-water and every procurable nourishment were provided, and even a cab was sent for to take me to my home. When on the boat I saw a young fellow pull off his boats and coat and waistcoat, and make a plunge in. One difficulty I suffered from in the water was my gloves, which I had not had time to take off ere the vessel disappeared. I believe that the people were so thickly mixed up in the water that they must have pulled one another under. The upper saloon of the vessel was crowded with people, and the only persons with the captain, who was in his usual place over the saloon, were three little boys, who must have been privileged to be where they were, and I presume they were the children of Mr. Towse, the superintendent of the company. It was high tide at the time, and our ship was going against the stream. I do not think our ship, considering her size and the number of passengers she was licensed to carry, could be said to be overcrowded. There were vast numbers aboard, but there seemed sufficient moving room."

Many other personal narratives have appeared in print, which have a general resemblance, but often with some particular circumstance, not mentioned by others, of the individual experience while struggling with a crowd of fellow-sufferers in the water, and of the accidental means of escape. The Bywell Castle, after backing a minute or two from the Princess Alice upon the collision, stopped and rendered all the help she could, lowering one boat on the starboard and two on the port side, to pick up the drowning people, and casting out ropes, life-buoys, ladders, planks, and a carpenter's bench, to which many of them clung and were saved. The masters of the Bonetta and Ann Elizabeth instantly lowered their boats, and one picked up ten persons, the other eleven, landing them safely at Beckton and Barking. One or two shore-boats, as we have seen, put forth and helped to rescue some of those in the water. Two of the London Steam-Boat Company's vessels, coming up soon after the Princess Alice, gave some assistance. It does not appear that anyone who had an opportunity of helping neglected that duty, and there was no want of kind attention to the survivors landing wet and chilled at Barking or at Woolwich; indeed, some were put ashore at Erith and elsewhere down the river.

The news of this terrible calamity reached London at a late hour in the evening, and spread quickly all over town. The families and friends of persons known to have gone with the Princess Alice to Gravesend and Rosherville, or to Sheerness, for an intended day of pleasure, soon learnt the terrible tidings. A crowd of agonised inquirers beset the doorway of the London Steam-Boat Company's offices on Bennet's-hill, City, vainly asking if the names of those drowned, or of those saved, had been reported from Woolwich. At the office of the steam-boat pier, adjacent to Woolwich Dockyard, a multitude of similar grieving victims of passionate anxiety, who came down from London by every train and boat, might be observed day after day. The steam-boat pier at North Woolwich, on the opposite bank of the river, which is accessible by a branch of the North London Railway from the distant northern suburbs of London, was also thronged with people intent on the same melancholy errand; and here, upon the arrival of a frequent messenger from Woolwich by the subway or the ferry across the Thames, the names of persons saved from the Princess Alice were read aloud to an eager audience. The doleful and shocking task of groping in the bed of the river by means of poles and grapnels, and of divers searching the wreck for dead bodies, has been continued daily from morn till eve, bringing up an average number of one hundred each day, including those washed ashore by the tide. Our large Engraving, which occupies the two middle pages of this week's Number, represents the scene during this melancholy operation. Another view, from a sketch taken on the next day, shows the exact place where the Princess Alice sank, with one of the Thames Conservancy tugs moored directly over the wreck, and two barges of the Thames Conservancy keeping guard at a short distance above and below, all three displaying the blue flag inscribed with the word "wreck" in white letters. Another barge, nearer the north shore, appears in this sketch laden with the funnel of the Princess Alice, which was broken off in the collision, and was soon picked up; many boats hover about the wreck, casting out their drags and grapnels, and divers have gone under water, continuing their laborious and dangerous task. This was on Wednesday week, by which time already, at the Woolwich Arsenal pier, at the Dockyard, at the chemical manure works of Messrs. Lawes, on Barking Creek, also at the Creek Mouth school-house, at the Yacht Hotel, Erith, and at the Ferry-Boat public-house, at Rainham, on the Essex shore, a large number of the dead had been laid out for inspection by visitors seeking to identify those whom they knew. The Townhall at Woolwich, the buildings in Woolwich Dockyard, and a temporary mortuary at Roff's Steam-boat Wharf in that town, were principally made the appointed depositary of this sad public charge. A great variety of articles of clothing, washed off from the corpses, was collected for exhibition at the Dockyard, with trinkets and other small things placed in boxes glazed at the top, to be examined by those whose lost friends had not yet been discovered. It may well be imagined that this proved a very distressing business; yet incomparably more dreadful was the inspection of the dead bodies, commonly much disfigured by the water and slime in which they had lain for many hours, or even during several days and nights. We will spare our readers the description of these revolting incidents.

The Coroner for West Kent, Mr. C. J. Carttar, has been holding, from day to day, an adjourned inquest at the Woolwich Townhall, merely for the purpose of receiving evidence to identify the bodies, in order that he might issue his warrants for their burial. The reports of these proceedings have been published in minute detail by the daily journals, so that the names, ages, residences, and occupations of most of those who have perished are known to the public. The majority seem to be middle-class and working-class people of the London suburbs, Camden Town, Brixton, and other districts remote from the Thames contributing a good number. There are several instances in which parties of school children, with their teachers, or members of a Bible Class, had been taken out for a holiday trip on the river. Two thirds at least of the whole number are women and children.

Subscriptions for the relief of bereaved and destitute families have been opened in many quarters, beginning with a proposal to the Lord Mayor from Mr. J. Orrell Lever, a director of the London Steam-Boat Company, himself giving a hundred guineas. Her Majesty the Queen has made a gift of that amount, having first, through Lord Sydney, expressed to the Coroner her sincere grief for this calamity. The Prince and Princess of Wales have sent to the Lord Mayor a message of condolence and a gift of fifty guineas. The managers and lessees of several London theatres, and the company of the Comédie Française, which played in London some time ago, have charitably offered their aid—the latter in the shape of a £50 subscription, the former by means of benefit performances. The Charity Organisation Society has volunteered its services in ascertaining where relief is needed.

The funerals of many of the dead, buried together, have been conducted, in the Woolwich Cemetery, with great solemnity, by the Hon. and Rev. Mr. Anson, the Rector of Woolwich, and in other places by several clergymen and Dissenting ministers.

The Bywell Castle has been allowed, after a short detention, to proceed to Shields, where she arrived on Saturday night. The London Steam-Boat Company have made a claim against her owners for £14,000, the value of the Princess Alice. This will be tried by the Admiralty Division of the High Court of Justice. The official inquiry instituted by the Board of Trade will be opened at Poplar on Tuesday week, the 24th inst., before Mr. Balguy, the Greenwich stipendiary magistrate, and two nautical assessors.

Lord Sandon, President of the Board of Trade, has announced, in a letter to the Lord Mayor, that, after the Board of Inquiry into the circumstances attending the loss of the Princess Alice, a committee will be appointed to consider the rules now in force with respect to the navigation of the Thames, and to report to Government whether any fresh rules are necessary with a view to prevent collisions and to regulate the traffic. The committee is to be thus constituted:—One member from the Thames Conservancy Board, one from the Trinity House, one from the Admiralty, one from the Steam-Ship Owners' Association of London, and three members from the Board of Trade.

UNVEILING THE FALKLAND MEMORIAL AT NEWBURY.

Last Monday the Falkland Memorial on the battle-field of Newbury was unveiled by the Earl of Carnarvon. The memorial was suggested some time ago by Mr. Walter Money, F.S.A., a local antiquary, who presented a site on Wash-common, within a short distance of the spot where Lord Falkland fell, and it has been erected by Messrs. W. and T. R. Freeman, of Westminster, from his design. It takes the form of an obelisk, and is built of Cornish grey granite. On the four sides of it are inscriptions, the chief of which is:—

In memory of those who, on the twentieth September, 1643, fell fighting in the army of King Charles the First on the field of Newbury, and especially of Lucius Cary, Viscount Falkland, who died here, in the 32nd year of his age, this monument is set up by those to whom the majesty of the Crown and the liberty of their country are dear.

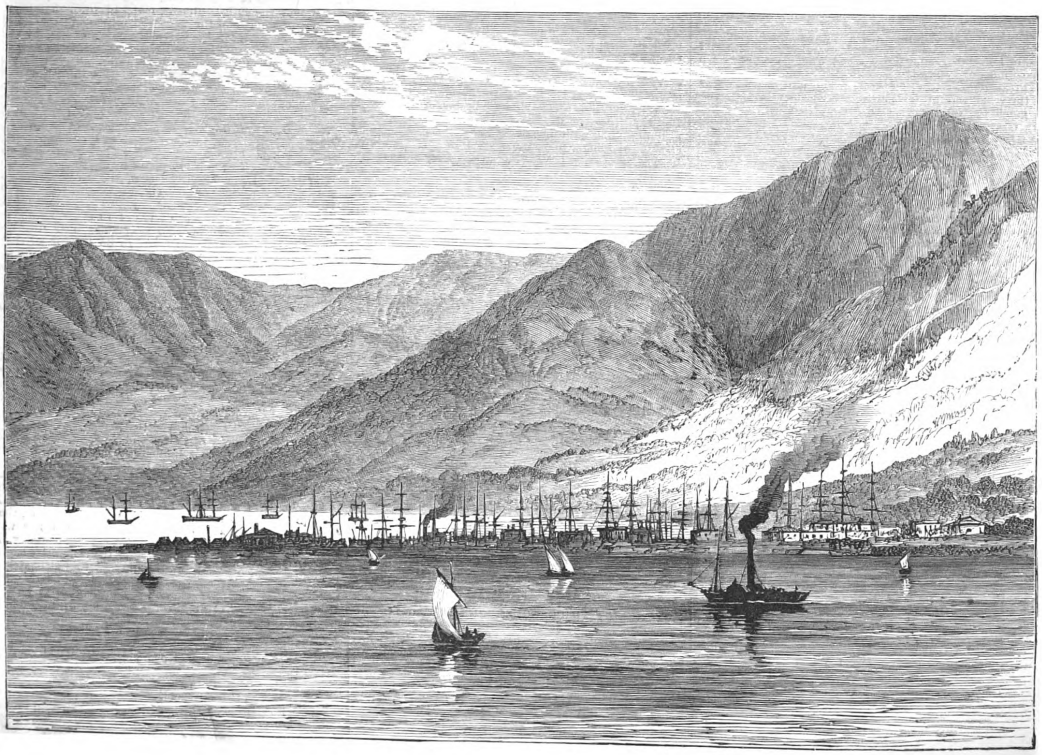
The day's programme included a procession of the Mayor and Corporation, Yeomanry, Volunteers, Oddfellows, Foresters, lodges of Freemasons, and others, which, headed by the band of the 49th Regiment, marched through the principal streets to the site of the memorial, where the ceremony of unveiling was performed, amid enthusiastic cheers, by the Earl of Carnarvon, who said:—Mr. Mayor, Mr. High Sheriff, Ladies, and Gentlemen,—I have to congratulate you, first of all, on the completion of the work on which we have been so long engaged, next upon the beauty of the day which smiles upon our proceedings; and, thirdly, upon the great concourse of people gathered around us this afternoon. I trust, as the Mayor has said, that this may be an ornament to this place and town, and handed down to our children's children. The legal trust is vested in me and another gentleman; but we look to you to watch over it, to guard it, to preserve it. On this field, as the Mayor has truly said, the battle of Newbury was once fought, and Lord Falkland fell. And why do we now erect this monument? We erect it not to perpetuate the memory of by-gone feuds—we erect it not to exalt any one party or set of opinions—but in order to commemorate great events in which we are all interested, and to do honour to the memory of a man of singular purity, unselfishness, and honour. Lord Falkland was a gentleman, a scholar, a statesman, a reformer of political abuses, and yet a lover of the Crown. Living in troubled and painful times, he reconciled, as far as was given man to reconcile, the complicated duties of his age, and, dying, he died without fear and without reproach. It only remains for me now to unveil this memorial, and make it public (Prolonged cheers).

At two o'clock luncheon was provided in the Corn Exchange, and was partaken of by about 600 or 700 persons. Mr. C. S. Slocock, J.P., the Mayor, occupied the chair, being supported by the Earl of Carnarvon, the Countess of Portsmouth, Lady Winifred Herbert, and Sir Robert Phillimore. The loyal toasts having been drunk, the chairman proposed "The Houses of Parliament," coupled with the health of Lord Carnarvon. His Lordship, who was enthusiastically received, replied at considerable length. He said it was impossible to find words to express his thanks for the chairman's kind words and for the kindly feeling and overflowing goodness which he always met with in the town of Newbury. His Lordship then gave a long and interesting address on the life of Lord Falkland, and concluded by adding a few words as to the memorial which had been inaugurated that day. He referred to the various recommendations the committee had received as to the form the memorial should take, they ultimately deciding upon the monument they had seen. It stood nearly on the spot where Lord Falkland fell, and it harmonised, as he believed, in its simplicity of architectural outline, with the noble character it was designed to commemorate.

A number of other speeches followed, and Lord Carnarvon, on leaving the Exchange, was loudly cheered.

We intend to give an engraving of the obelisk next week.

The Countess of Dufferin arrived on Monday at Belfast, via Londonderry, from Canada, and proceeded at once to the seat of the Earl of Dufferin, Clandeboye, County Down.



THE GREAT DISASTER ON THE THAMES: IDENTIFYING THE CLOTHES OF THE DEAD AT WOOLWICH DOCKYARD.

BATOUM.

The Russians took possession of Batoum yesterday week, by the cession which Turkey agreed to at the Berlin Congress; there was no resistance, as a large part of the Mussulman townsfolk, along with the neighbouring Laze population, leave the district for other territories of the Sultan's Asiatic dominion. Batoum, a view of which is here given, from a sketch by Mr. W. Simpson, is a small seaport town on the Armenian coast of the Euxine, the nearest to Kars, from which fortress it is distant a hundred miles. The harbour of Batoum is the only one that exists along that coast eastward of Trebizond. Its capacity has notoriously been a subject of dispute; and Lord Beaconsfield's statement, that not more than three or four large ships could lie close to the shore, though confirmed by the Hydrographer to the Admiralty, does not meet with universal concurrence. There is some idea of connecting it by railway with the existing Russian line of railroad crossing Circassia from Poti to Tiflis, and so making it the marine dépôt for trade with the Caspian, as well as with Georgia and Persia. The town of Batoum occupies the southern shore of a well-sheltered bay running far inland. High hills, clothed with luxuriant forest growth, hem it in; and, save from north-westerly winds, its waters are perfectly sheltered. Even when such winds prevail vessels, lying as close to the town as they can, are unaffected by them. Batoum itself is not a considerable place; its population cannot much exceed three thousand at present. It is clean and cheerful-looking. Along the shore are the principal restaurants and cafés, such as they are in Asia. Behind and parallel to the sea front runs the bazaar street, where shops for the sale of printed calicoes or stuffs of the country, the workshops of tailors, and three or four jewellers, are to be found. Here and there is an armourer's shop, where primitive flintlock rifles and leaf-shaped sword-daggers are to be bought. Behind are open grass-grown spaces, with a few official residences—the Government office or konak, the telegraph and post office, the chief of staff's residence, and the gloomy decaying mansion, with semi-European gate and courtyard, where the Turkish Pasha lately resided. Across the shores, where rock and forest alternate with picturesque effect, the dim outlines of the snow-streaked Caucasus are faintly visible. Here and there some cottager's red-tiled roof gleams amid the dark foliage, and long valleys reach away into the interior, veiled with a perennial haze. In the calm lake-like waters of the bay, close in by the shore, coasting craft of diverse tonnage lie securely, and their crews cover the beach in many a picturesque group. Such is Batoum, now belonging to the Russian Empire.

THE AUSTRIAN CAMPAIGN IN BOSNIA.

Our Special Artist with the army of General Philippovich, employed in forcibly occupying Bosnia and overcoming the resistance of the Mussulman insurgents, with the sanction of the Berlin Congress, supplies a sketch of the bombardment of Serajevo, on the 19th ult., preparatory to the capture of that

THE PORT OF BATOUM, SURRENDERED BY TURKEY TO RUSSIA.

1. Austrian Guns. 2. Turkish Hospital on Fire. 3. General Philipporich. 4. Colonel Pope, Chief of the Staff. 5. Mr. J. Bell, our Special Artist. 6. Yellow Redoubt.

THE AUSTRIAN CAMPAIGN IN BOSNIA: BOMBARDMENT OF SERAJEVO.
FROM A SKETCH BY OUR SPECIAL ARTIST.

city by assault. The main body of troops engaged in this action was placed under the orders of General Kaiffel, with instructions to ascend the slopes of the Jaran and the Jasarina, and then take the direction of Debelo Brdo and Serajevo. Another column, under Colonel Villotz, was dispatched along the road towards Krodinselo; while General Tegetthoff was intrusted with the task of gaining the heights of Pasan Brdo. A thick fog favoured the march of the columns, which reached the points assigned to them without loss. At half-past six in the morning, General Tegetthoff opened fire upon the castle, which was surrounded by a wall, and in which the insurgents had placed several guns in position. An hour later, the batteries of heavy guns which had been brought up near Bufail joined in the attack upon the castle. At the same time Colonel Villotz attacked the insurgents' position near Krodinselo, which had been strengthened by artillery and intrenchments. Finally, at ten o'clock, General Kaiffel, who had only been able slowly and with difficulty to drive before him the strongly posted forces he encountered, made his appearance on the heights of Debelo Brdo; and thereupon the enemy's guns were silenced. The Austrian infantry then advanced in swarms to the town. Fighting of the most desperate kind ensued; the Austrian troops were fired upon from every house, doorway, and window. Even women and the sick and wounded insurgents in the military hospital took part in the fighting, which lasted until half-past one in the afternoon. It was only owing to the good discipline of the Austrian troops that the town was not more seriously damaged; nevertheless, a few houses were plundered and set on fire. The Austrian losses were not inconsiderable. The insurgents dispersed in all directions, especially towards Gorasda and Rogatica. After the close of the fighting, upon the complete occupation of the town, the Imperial flag was hoisted over the castle and saluted with 101 guns, amid the singing of the National Anthem and unceasing acclamations, in which the troops were joined by some part of the Christian inhabitants.

The Sultan immediately afterwards sent a telegram to the Emperor Francis Joseph requesting his Majesty to instruct the Austrian commanders to use all possible leniency towards the inhabitants of Serajevo. The Emperor at once expressed his compliance with the Sultan's wish.

THEATRES.

DUKE'S.

This hitherto rather unfortunate house has passed under new management, and seems likely at last to have commenced a career of prosperity. Messrs. Clarance Holt and Charles Wilmot appear to have determined to conduct it upon the basis of a shilling pit and sixpenny gallery, and the experiment seems likely to succeed. From its position we have always thought that this theatre might profitably prove the substitute for the late Sadler's Wells, and command very much the same class-audience as that to which Mr. Phelps and Mrs. Warner originally appealed. We think so still; and the manner in which Mr. Holt's initial adventure has been received by a large audience goes far certainly to prove the proposition. The new manager shows remarkable boldness in the selection of his subject, and enlists in his favour a strong politic interest. He presents his own version of Victor Hugo's elaborate romance, "Les Misérables," a work which has been previously dramatised but not with very great success. Mr. Holt's version depends more upon the original work than any previous version that we have witnessed: the benefit thereby secured is evident. The salient scenes of the novel are preserved, and the incidents reproduced with remarkable fidelity. This result has not been obtained without the sacrifice of many links needful for ensuring the connection of the parts; these, however, may be supplied by the memory or fancy of the audience, who may be supposed to have read the magnificent novel from which the drama has been derived. The latter is divided into five parts—that is, a prologue and four acts. The first enacts the transaction between the discharged convict Jean Valjean (Mr. Clarance Holt), and the Bishop of St. Germain, Mons. Myriel (Mr. D. Evans), in which the poor hopeless convict yields to the temptation of his baser nature, and steals the bishop's plate, and the pious ecclesiastic gently reproves the delinquent, by presenting him with not only the plate but a pair of silver candlesticks in addition. Such pardon and such bounty have the effect of instantaneously converting the poor sinner, and leads to the various incidents of his well-doing which are represented in the succeeding scenes. Valjean's efforts at reformation are impeded by the vigilance of Javert, inspector of police (Mr. Jones Finch), whose creed is, "once a convict always a convict," and who pursues our hero with an unwearied enmity, until he finally effects his arrest. Here the benefit of the good bishop's example comes into play, and Valjean (having the custody of the inspector who has been placed in his keeping by the Communist mob that had delivered himself from the grasp of his persecuting adversary) nobly pardons the man who so long had been seeking his life and provides for his freedom and safety. By this time, the revolution is ripe, and the scene of the barricades is enacted. The play is named after this situation, "The Barricade." It includes, besides what we have stated, the episodes of Cosette and Eponine, both in their infancy at the commencement of the action, and afterwards shown as adults during its progress, represented by Miss Rose Dale and Miss May Holt with much grace, and in the latter with abundant agility. Of the general acting our opinion must be favourable; that of Mr. Clarance Holt is uniformly powerful, distinct, and intelligible, and that of his daughter is sprightly and pleasing, as well as eccentric. New and appropriate scenery has been provided, as also a new act-drop by F. C. Ellerman, which must be enumerated in the embellishments of the house. The costumes are taken from sketches of the period. Nothing towards securing success seems to have been omitted by the new managers, whose prosperity will be henceforth identified with that of the house.

The Sussex Advertiser says a visitor residing on The Steyne at Worthing has had her jewel-case (containing between £200 and £300 worth of jewellery, besides some valuable old family relics) stolen from her bedroom. The empty case was found in the neighbourhood on Sunday.

The Archbishop of Canterbury has conferred the degree of Doctor of Medicine on Mr. Robert Druitt, F.R.C.P. Lond., and F.R.C.S. Eng., author of "The Surgeon's Vade Mecum;" the degree of Bachelor in Divinity on the Ven. Francis James Wyatt, Rector of St. George's, Georgetown, and Archdeacon of Demerara; and the degree of Bachelor in Divinity on the Rev. William Henry Brett, Rector of Holy Trinity, Essequibo.

The detailed agricultural returns for Ireland for the year are published, showing that one half the whole cultivatable land is in pasture, and that wheat cultivation has been substituted very considerably this year for that of oats. Hay has yielded two fifths of a ton more, and is the best of the Irish crops. In 1877 the yield of all the crops was from two to three per cent below the previous year. There are 4,000,000 head of cattle in Ireland, and about the same of sheep.

THE MAGAZINES.

"Within the Precincts" preserves this month the quiet tone which has so long soothed rather than enthralled the readers of the Cornhill, but "For Percival" thrills them with an incident interesting to all tender hearts in the shape of an elopement. This great event is skilfully introduced, and artistically made suggestive of still more interesting complications in the further development of the story. There is some resemblance between this episode and the leading situation of "Rose Cherril," a pretty tale with an unexpectedly comic dénoûment. The miscellaneous papers are less attractive than usual. The best are some graceful thoughts on "Child's Play," subscribed "R. L. S.;" and an ingenious essay by Professor Colvin on the probable derivation of the myth of the Centaurs, who are explained as symbols of "the force of storm-fed torrents and cataracts."

The most important contribution to Macmillan is the concluding portion of Mr. Lang's account of Cyprus, which treats principally of the important question of the finances of the island. It is satisfactory to find that in Mr. Lang's opinion these can be so managed as to leave a handsome surplus, provided that we abstain from rash experiments, and foster the natural development of our new possession without attempting to precipitately Anglicise it. His description of the climate is also very favourable, and comes with especial weight from so old and experienced a resident. "Two Sides to a Saint," by Professor Bacon, is a brilliant and well-merited exposure of the cold-blooded fanaticism and easy morality of the paragon of modern Roman Catholic saints, St. Francis de Sales. Professor Mahaffy discusses recent theories respecting the Iliad and Odyssey, and declares his own adherence to the view which regards them as the work of a plurality of writers. Among the other papers may be mentioned a slight but elegant and judicious criticism of Bryant's poetry, and a summary of the general spirit of Schumann's musical writings.

Mr. M'Coan's valuable article in Fraser on the resources of Asiatic Turkey shows how immense are the elements of prosperity only awaiting good government and the influx of capital for their development. Not one single branch of private industry or public revenue yields anything like what it might do, and some of the most important, such as mines, forests, and fisheries, yield hardly anything. Roads and the readjustment of taxation are the principal conditions of regeneration in Mr. M'Coan's opinion; but both must be carried out under European supervision. Turkey cannot be trusted. The third part of "Among the Burmese" also deals chiefly with the natural productions of a region of exceeding richness. While English capital is thus solicited for the development of these Eastern regions, it may not be unseasonable to direct attention to another paper in the number on the employment of such capital in foreign countries, by Mr. Conder, an engineer, who has evidently had considerable experience of the subject. The deduction from his facts and arguments would seem to be that Englishmen cannot be too careful in their negotiations with foreign Governments, and that, consequently, the application of British capital to Asia Minor must be conditional on the administration being thoroughly under British control. Miss Betham Edwards's description of the French department of the Seine and Marne is a delightful picture of a region of exuberant fertility and general industry and content, and indirectly a powerful testimony to the benefits effected by the Revolution. "Studies of Italian Musical Life" is a most lively sketch of the Italian musical world of the latter part of the eighteenth century, based partly on Dr. Burney's travels, and including a powerful defence of the style of Church music prevalent at the time.

Blackwood offers an interesting, if not a particularly important, contribution to the question of the day by publishing a journal of a visit to Cyprus by Lady Franklin, made in May, 1832. The actual information contained in it has been mostly superseded, but the freshness of the notes and the power of observation they display render them agreeable reading. "Gordon Baldwin" is concluded, and must take rank with the most striking and powerful of the numerous admirable novelettes which have appeared in this magazine. "A Fetish City" is also a striking conception, although the idea might have admitted of further development.

Mr. Gladstone's important manifesto in the Nineteenth Century has already received full notice from the press. It is reinforced by two minor contributions of considerable ability from the same point of view, Mr. Greg's warning against the perils of an "imperial policy," and Mr. Grant Duff's summary of the late debate. All three writers concur in admonishing the country against "the lust of territorial aggrandisement," which, considering the hesitating and apologetic manner in which such acquisitions are made under the stress of circumstances, and with a distinct perception of their pecuniary unprofitableness, we should have thought one of the last dangers to which English foreign policy was exposed. Mr. Dicey's paper on "Nubar Pasha and our Asian Protectorate" is valuable as embodying the opinion of Nubar Pasha himself. The Egyptian statesman looks for the solution of the problem to the organisation of a trustworthy civil service, in which he evidently hopes that his own Armenian countrymen may play a distinguished part. The non-political articles are of comparatively slight interest, if we except Miss Agnes Lambert's erudite and yet very readable essay on the ceremonial use of flowers, principally in antiquity: and Mr. Ralston's pleasant account of the French delineator of Russian life, Henri Gréville. This, it appears, is the pseudonym of a young lady, Madame Durand, who, having resided several years in St. Petersburg, is putting her experience to account in a series of novels, attractive in story and composition, and depicting various phases of Russian society with fidelity.

The Contemporary Review has no very remarkable contribution, but most of the contents possess a qualified interest. The paper of most practical importance is, perhaps, Prebendary Brereton's account of Cavendish College, the new foundation established at Cambridge with the laudable object of diminishing the expense of a University education. Professor Monier Williams's essay on Indian religious thought is also valuable; and M. de Pressensé's outline of the questions at issue between Church and State in France is the work of one of the few Frenchmen qualified by position and temper to view the case with impartiality. M. de Pressensé shows very clearly how utterly the encroachments of Ultramontanism contravene the letter as well as the spirit of French law, and what weapons French Liberals may legitimately employ without incurring the charge of persecution. At the same time, he discountenances extreme measures, and tenders the wise advice to conciliate the parochial clergy by protecting them against the oppressions of their Bishops. Mr. R. H. Horne discusses some of the more remarkable phases of the myth of a compact with the Evil One; and Mr. Buchanan handles a kindred tradition in his "Julia Cytherea" with more cleverness and fluency than genuine poetical imagination.

The Fortnightly Review presents a variety of interesting papers on important subjects, the most powerful and effective of which is Mr. Leslie Stephen's review of the controversy excited by Canon Farrar's sermons on future punishment. Mr. Morley's retrospect of the Berlin negotiations is also telling, especially his free criticism of the proposal to establish the Greeks at Constantinople. Mr. Cotton's essay on "the prospects of moral progress in India" indicates the reaction against excessive reliance on education as a universal panacea. "The Doctrine of Metempsychosis," by Professor Knight, is a collection of the principal arguments that have been alleged in support of a theory whose weakest point it is to be inevitably destitute of all support from experience, but to which the writer himself obviously inclines. Dr. Maudsley's essay on hallucinations is full of interesting anecdotes and judicious observations, which might be of great service if delusions could be expelled by reasoning. Mr. Minto's notice of Mrs. Gaskell is a piece of refined and delicate criticism; and if the same cannot be altogether said of Mr. Barnett Smith's review of the life and works of the American Brockden Brown, he has at all events the advantage of greater freshness of subject. Brown, once popular, is now little known, but his works will always be favourites with those who can appreciate the peculiar power which works logically from premises allied to the supernatural. Few imaginative writers have carried their conceptions so far beyond the bounds of ordinary probability without actually lapsing into the impossible.

Mr. H. James's very clever and original story of "The Europeans" is continued in the Atlantic Monthly, which also has a retrospective review of United States finance up to the year 1835; and an historical sketch of General Pope's unfortunate Virginian campaign, in which the bold attempt is made to justify not only General Pope but General Porter, the two officers having hitherto cast the blame on each other. Scribner's Monthly is, as usual, full of entertaining and capitally illustrated papers. There is nothing very noteworthy in The Month. In Belgravia we have to remark a pretty Tyrolese sketch by Mrs. Linton, and "A Mayfair Mystery," an irresistible piece of absurdity by Mr. James Payn.

The Gentleman's Magazine provides abundant amusement for its readers in Mr. Sala's "Cupid: an Episode in the Career of Professor MacPelvis," written in Mr. Sala's best manner that is to say, a very light and discursive one, but exhibiting a real power of genial portraiture in the graphic sketch of the worthy Professor himself. The most remarkable of the other contributions is Mr. Mew's scholarly and agreeable analysis of the minor tales of Cervantes. Judging from Mr. Procter's article on the recent solar eclipse, the "first fruits of the eclipse observations" would seem likely to be a deluge of controversies.

Temple Bar adds another to the numerous notes of travel in Cyprus, and has a really charming article on the apparently unattractive subject of "Sickness in Spain." "The First Violin" is continued with no diminution in power.

Mr. Black's and Miss Thomas's novels continue to be the chief reliance of Good Words and London Society respectively, each magazine, nevertheless, has a fair proportion of very readable contributions.

No. 33 of "Men of Mark" contains photographic portraits of Lord Napier of Magdala, W. Calder Marshall, R.A., and the Rev. Dr. Goodford, with biographical notices; and in Part 6 of "Distinguished London Men" there are portraits of Sir Sydney Hedley Waterlow, Bart., M.P., and Mr. William Black, novelist, with brief memoirs—that of the latter gentleman being rather oddly worded in parts. Part 6 of "Our Native Land" is adorned with three water-colour sketches of the Killarney Lake district.

We have also received Part 4 of The Cheveley Novels: Samuel Weir, St. James's Magazine, the Magazine of Art, Geographical Magazine, Lippincott's Magazine, St. Nicholas, Charing-cross Magazine, Mirth, Science for All, Science Gossip, Familiar Wild Flowers, Pantiles Papers, Cassell's Family Magazine, Poet's Magazine, Church Sunday-School Magazine, Mission Life, Daisy, Golden Childhood, Christian Age, Myra's Journal of Dress and Fashion and Myra's Mid-Monthly Journal and Children's Dress, Englishwoman's Domestic Magazine, Sylvia's Home Journal, Milliner and Dressmaker; and monthly parts of All the Year Round, Once a Week, Weekly Welcome, Golden Hours, Day of Rest, Sunday at Home, Sunday Magazine, Leisure Hour, Garden, Gardener's Chronicle and Gardener's Magazine.

THUNDERSTORM.

A thunderstorm passed over Birmingham on Sunday morning. Rain fell heavily from between six and seven o'clock until towards eleven, and during the first three hours there were frequent flashes of lightning, with loud peals of thunder. The weather on Saturday was very close, and there was sheet lightning from shortly after midnight until the storm arrived. The suddenness and volume of the rainfall caused the sewer gratings in many instances to be choked and the roadways to be temporarily flooded. In some cases the water found its way into the cellars and ground-floor rooms of houses, causing considerable inconvenience to the occupiers. At the house of Mr. Burton, surgeon, of Spring-hill, a chimney was struck by lightning, and the roof was partially torn away. A chimney was knocked down in Great Colmore-street.

At Dudley the storm was also severe. At Lower Gornal a horse took fright at the lightning, and a milkman who was driving it was thrown a considerable distance and sustained some serious injuries. At Stourbridge the lightning knocked down a chimney; and at West Bromwich some damage was done.

Mr. T. L. Plant, of Moseley, wrote on Sunday night:—"The storm of lightning, thunder, and rain commenced here about 6 30 this morning, and lasted nearly four hours and a half. The rainfall was 1·29 in. This is the heaviest depth of rain registered at Moseley in any thunderstorm since 1872. In the last seventeen years only three thunderstorms gave a larger depth of rain than that of this morning. The rainfall on June 18, 1872, was the heaviest registered here or in Birmingham since June 14, 1858. The storm of this morning came from W.S.W. The barometer was high and steady throughout Saturday, but declined fully 1-10th of an inch during the night. The long duration of the storm finds no equal in my records."

The Lords of the Admiralty have forwarded a communication to Admiral E. G. Fanshawe, the Commander-in-Chief at Portsmouth, stating that their Lordships have received the commands of the Queen to express to him and to Rear-Admiral the Hon. F. A. C. Foley and the officers and men under their command her Majesty's satisfaction at the success of their exertions in bringing the Eurydice into harbour.

A happy termination of a bankruptcy is reported from Glasgow. The firm of Stevenson and Coats, grain millers, of Glasgow, was sequestrated, and the estates of the company and individual partners were sufficient to pay a dividend of 10s. 4d. in the pound to the creditors, the claims amounting to over £100,000. Sir Peter Coats, father of Mr. George Coats, one of the partners, has paid the company's debts in full, with interest at five per cent.

OBITUARY.

SIR FREDERICK WILLIAMS, BART, M.P.

Sir Frederick Martin Williams, second Baronet, of Tregullow, in the county of Cornwall, D.L., Deputy Warden of the Stannaries and M.P. for Truro, died at his seat, Heanton Court, near Barnstaple, on the 3rd inst. He was born Jan. 25, 1830, the second son of Sir William Williams (who was created a Baronet in 1866), by Caroline, his wife, younger daughter of Richard Eales, Esq., of Eastdon, near Exeter, and succeeded to the title at his father's death, March 24, 1870. He received his education at Winchester, and had represented Truro in Parliament in the Conservative interest since 1865. Sir Frederick married, June 10, 1858, Mary Christian, daughter of the Rev. R. V. Law, Prebendary of Wells (son of the late Bishop of Bath and Wells), and leaves seven sons and five daughters. His eldest son and successor, Sir William Robert Williams, third Baronet, now at Sandhurst, was born Feb. 21, 1860.

MAJOR-GENERAL SIMPSON.

Major-General John Simpson, C.B., died on the 8th inst. at Fyning, near Petersfield. The deceased, who obtained his commission in March, 1835, was one of the officers receiving rewards for "distinguished and meritorious services." He served with the 34th Regiment in the Crimean campaign from Dec. 9, 1854, including the siege and fall of Sebastopol, and commanded a party in the assault and capture of the Quarries. He was also present at the assault of the Redan on Sept. 8. He served in the Indian campaigns in 1857-9, and was present in the actions at Cawnpore on Nov. 26, 27, and 28, 1857, capture of Meeangunge, siege and capture of Lucknow, relief of Azimghur, and commanded a column of Colonel Kelly's force at the defeat of the rebels under Bala Rao, near Bootwul, on the Nepaul frontier. For his services in the Crimea he was promoted to Brevet Lieutenant-Colonel, and received the medal with clasp, Sardinian medal, the fifth class of the Order of the Medjidie and the Turkish medal, and was made a Knight of the Legion of Honour. His name was honourably mentioned in despatches, and in recognition of his gallantry in the field he was nominated a Companion of the Order of the Bath.

MR. PERSSE, OF ROXBOROUGH.

Dudley Persse, Esq., of Roxborough, in the county of Galway, J.P. and D.L., one of the most influential of the landed proprietors of that county, died on the 7th inst. He was born in 1802, the eldest son of the late Robert Persse, Esq., of Roxborough, by Maria, his wife, daughter of A. Wade, Esq., of Fairfield, in the county of Galway, and succeeded to the estates at his father's death, in 1850. He married, first, in 1826, Katherine, daughter of Standish, first Viscount Guillamore, and by her (who died in 1829) had one son, Dudley Persse, Esq., now of Roxborough, late Captain 7th Fusiliers, and two daughters; secondly, in 1833, Frances, only daughter of Colonel Richard Barry, by Elizabeth, his wife, sister of the first Viscount Guillamore, and by her had eight sons and five daughters.

The deaths have also been announced of—

Rev. John Metcalfe, M.A., on the 31st ult., at York-road, Tunbridge Wells, aged 70.

Richard Gulston Wollaston, M.D., on the 1st inst., at Lyme Regis, Dorset, aged 64.

John William Brotherton, late 11th Hussars, only son of General Sir Thomas W. Brotherton, G.C.B., on the 1st inst., at The Firs, Esher, aged 57.

George Ruddle, Esq., of The Mythe, Tewkesbury, J.P. and D.L. for Gloucestershire, on the 29th ult., at Hinderton Lodge, Cheshire, his nephew's residence.

The Rev. Edward Fanshawe Glanville, M.A., late Fellow of Exeter College, Oxford, and Rector of Yelford, near Witney, on the 9th ult., at Oxford. Mr. Glanville was the fourth son of the late Francis Glanville, Esq., of Catchfrench Park, Cornwall. He was born April 6, 1807. This gentleman was descended from the celebrated Sir John Glanville, the Judge of Common Pleas, temp. Queen Elizabeth; and Sir John Glanville, of Broadhinton, Wilts, Speaker of the House of Commons in 1640, and Serjeant-at-Law to Charles II.; and likewise in direct descent from the famous Randulphus de Glanville, Count de Glanville, Normandy, and Baron de Bromholm, in Yorkshire, who entered England with the Conqueror in 1066.

The Rev. William Linwood, M.A., at Birchfield, Handsworth, near Birmingham, where for the last thirty-five years he had lived in comparative seclusion. Mr. Linwood's University career at Oxford was one of singular brilliancy. While in his freshman's year he competed for and carried off the Ireland, the Craven, and the Hertford Scholarships. In May, 1839, he graduated B.A., and obtained a first class in Literis humanioribus, and in the same year he won the Boden scholarship for Sanskrit. Amongst his best-known works are his "Lexicon to Æschylus," the "Anthologia Oxoniensis," "Sophocles, with Notes for Students;" and his latest work, recently published, "The Theban Trilogy of Sophocles."

An interesting scene took place yesterday week on board the Marine Society's training-ship Warspite, at Woolwich. The officers and boys having been mustered in the schoolroom, Mr. George Ward, on behalf of the committee, presented the Royal Humane Society's testimonial on vellum to Thomas Baker, aged fourteen, who plunged into the water from one of the Warspite's boats in June last and succeeded in rescuing a drowning child named Alfred Taylor. The boys greeted their brave shipmate with three ringing cheers.

By a railway accident near Cork, on Sunday evening, four lives were lost, and several passengers received very serious injuries. At Carraheen a coupling-iron broke, the engine left the rails and turned to the right, the carriages ran on a short distance and fell on the left in such a way that one carriage was broken to pieces, and the passengers sustained severe fractures. The driver and stoker, a boy who was with them, and one other man were killed.—Peter Jones, a signalman at Chester, was committed on Monday, on a coroner's warrant, to take his trial at the Assizes on a charge of manslaughter, a train having gone off the metals, killing two passengers, while it was crossing the points which the prisoner was working.—A landslip occurred last Monday afternoon on the Leeds and Wetherby line on the North-Eastern system. Shortly after a passenger-train had passed Thorner station a vast mass of clayey earth and shingle, weighing probably 4000 or 5000 tons, slipped from the dip side of the Scarcroft cutting, about a quarter of a mile in the direction of Wetherby. The line was covered for a distance of nearly 50 yards and to a depth of about 30 ft. A similar slip occurred within a few yards of the spot last February.

CHESS.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

All communications relating to this department of the Paper should be addressed to the Editor, and have the word "Chess" written on the envelope.

LIEUT 3OTH H (Bombay).—In Problem No. 1791, after White's move 1. R to K B 4th, shon 2 Black play 1. P takes R. the answer is 2. P to Q 4th mate, and there follows to 1. K takes R, 2. Q to Q 6th. Mate. You will find the position worthy of further examination.

DELTA.—The problem is not impossible of solution. See below.

E S (Ashton).—When a chess problem admits of more than one solution it does matter whether the number is two or two dozen.

R L (Paris).—The "Westminster Papers," 8, Salisbury-court, Fleet-street.

J G F (Ramsgate).—In Problem No. 1798, after the moves 1. B to Kt 5th, R to Q 8th, White continues, 2. R takes R, and mates next move. The answer to 1. Q takes Kt at R 3rd is 1. B takes Kt, after which there is no mate in two moves.

S (Athens).—Your solutions are usually accurate, but your examination of No. 1800 must have been made hastily. It cannot be solved by 1. Rt takes Q (ch).

LULU (Dundee).—Please refer to the Solution published on the 31st ult.

H L J (Mayfair).—When a player gains a Rook for one of his own Bishops or Knights he has won "the exchange." We do not recommend teachers of chess.

W H S (Monmouth).—We have many problems to examine, and have not yet come to yours. It shall not be forgotten.

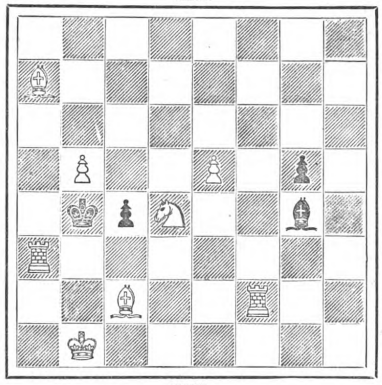
Y (Canterbury).—The term "Gambit" is derived from an Italian phrase applied to wrestling, and signifies a feint, by which an adversary is tripped up. You will find all such technical terms explained in Staunton's "Handbook," published by Bohn, Covent-garden.

PROBLEMS received from J Bordas (Paris), J S T (Scarborough), J S Thoms (Scarborough), S Stripe (Barnsbury), and M Harris (Plymouth).

CORRECT SOLUTIONS OF PROBLEM No. 1800 received from J G Finch, Chessophile, J W W, W B, F W, Bishop's Pawn.

CORRECT SOLUTIONS OF PROBLEM No. 1801 received from D L Arthur, J W W, Carlos, Isaac Ashe, Polichinelle, W Scott, Jane Nepven (Utrecht), Emile Fran, A Pohlman, Lulu, J K, P W, Constance E, Dabbehill, H C M S, Waldenburg, Franklin Institute, F S Shenele, J S Hough, Hero, and Abdul Kocchlin.

CORRECT SOLUTIONS OF PROBLEM No. 1802 received from T Edgar, D Leslie, N Brock, W Warren, L Sharswood, J S Wontone, P. Hampton, W Cowell, C Darragh, F Worsley, Americaine, Dorothy, C S Coxe, L of Truro, J W Cooper, C J G, O Johnson, Joseph B, Leonora and Leon, R Roughead, St J. E. T Greenbank, M Meredith, S R of Leeds, E Lewis, F W S, Triton, W Alston, H Brewster, Black Knight, W Franklin, J G Finch, R T K, R H Brooks, C E, W Leeson, F le Page, W S B, Dora, Alpha, Lulu, East Marden, B Phelan, Borough (Shepherd's-bush), W Mellor, R M A, Cojiapino, E. L. G, J de Honstevn, Dr F St, Thorpe, J Sargent, S Stripe, C E Marr, T P F, E P Vuilliamy, Prefextat, L S D, P S Shenele, W Hall, H M Prideaux, Tom, N Rumbelow, G Reeves, S Adam, W Nelson, H Stansfield, S Threlfall, J Lyndford, N Powell, R Gray, T W Hope, Walter, A R G, M Whiteley, Simplex, J Williams, Mechanic, E Esmonde, R Schofield, J W W, J F S, S Western, and F Vincent.



SOLUTION OF PROBLEM No. 1801.

WHITE.	BLACK.
1. Kt to Q B 6th	Any move.
2. Mates accordingly.

PROBLEM No. 1804.

By JOHN CRUM, Glasgow.

BLACK.

WHITE.

White to play, and mate in three moves.

ENGLAND v. AMERICA.

The following Games were played in this Correspondence Match between Mr. J. PARKER, of Grimsby, and Mr. J. E. ORCHARD, of Columbia, South Carolina.—(Irregular Opening.)

WHITE (Mr. P.)	BLACK (Mr. O.)
1. P to K B 4th	P to Q B 4th
2. Kt to K B 3rd	Kt to Q B 3rd
3. P to K 3rd	P to Q R 3rd
4. B to K 2nd	P to K Kt 3rd
5. Castles	P to Q 4th
6. P to Q 4th	P to K 3rd
7. P to B 3rd	Kt to B 3rd
8. Q Kt to Q 2nd	P to Kt 3rd
9. Kt to K 5th	Kt takes Kt
10. B P takes Kt	Kt to Q 2nd
11. P to K Kt 4th	B to K Kt 2nd
12. P takes Q P	P takes P

The foregoing moves are all "book," and are in accordance with the lines laid down by the best known authorities on the subject of this excessively dull opening.

13. B to B 3rd	B to Kt 2nd
14. Kt to Q B 4th	Castles
15. Kt to Q 6th	B to Q B 3rd
16. P takes P	B takes P

The Pawn cannot be saved, but we should have preferred 16. Kt takes P at B 4th.

17. Kt takes K B P	K takes Kt

17. R takes Kt is better, although White in any case comes out of the melée with a good attacking game.

18. B tks P (double ch)	K to Kt 2nd
19. B takes B	R takes R (ch)
20. Q takes R	R to Q B sq
21. B takes Kt	Q takes B
22. B to B 4th	Resigns.

Between the same Players.—(Irregular Opening.)

WHITE (Mr. P.)	BLACK (Mr. O.)
1. P to K B 4th	P to Q 4th

This and the preceding game were played concurrently, and Black, naturally enough, desires to avoid running on the same lines in both. There is nothing to choose between the distinct defences adopted, one being quite as good as the other.

2. Kt to K B 3rd	Kt to Q B 3rd
3. P to K 3rd	Kt to B 3rd
4. P to Q Kt 3rd	B to Kt 5th
5. B to K 2nd	B takes Kt
6. B takes B	P to K 3rd
7. P to B 3rd	B to Q 3rd
8. P to Q 4th	Kt to K 2nd
9. Kt to B 3rd	P to Q R 3rd
10. Castles	P to B 3rd
11. Kt to B 2nd	Q to B 2nd
12. B to Q Kt 2nd	P to K Kt 4th

We have seen many better specimens of Mr. Orchard's skill than he displays in these games. His Southern temperament appears to be too impatient for such an opening as this, and the attack he now attempts results in loss.

13. P to Q B 4th	Kt to K B 4th
14. P to Q B 5th	B to K 2nd
15. P takes Kt P	Kt to Q 2nd
16. B to K Kt 4th	Kt to R 5th
17. B to R 5th	R to K B sq
18. B takes P (ch)

White promptly avails himself of the adversary's weakness. Black should have played 17. Kt to Kt 3rd.

18.	R takes B
19. R takes R	K takes R
20. Q to R 5th (ch)	K to Kt 2nd
21. Q takes Kt	K to R sq
22. Kt to K sq	R to K Kt sq
23. Q to B 4th	Q to R 4th

23. Q to Q sq would have been more to the purpose.

24. Kt to B 3rd	Resigns.

CHESS INTELLIGENCE.

The twenty-seventh annual meeting of the City Chess Club will be held at Mouflet's Hotel, Newgate-street, on the 25th inst., when proposals for the inauguration of a series of consultation matches will be discussed, and arrangements will be made for a handicap tournament upon the colossal scale to which this popular association has accustomed the chess world.

A meeting of the chess club in connection with the Ladies' College, Little Queen-street, was held on the 6th inst. for the purpose of opening the winter session. It was announced that the winner in the handicap tourney of last season was Mr. W. T. Hearn, the unsuccessful competitors next in rotation being Mrs. Down and Misses Florence and Nellie Down.

The score in the correspondence match between England and the United States of America now stands—England 11, America 9. In view of the great interest in this match expressed by a large number of our correspondents, we purpose publishing, from time to time, a selection of the best games occurring in it. Chess by correspondence is a much more arduous undertaking than is generally supposed, and the tax it imposes upon the time and patience of the player is rarely borne with cheerfulness to the end. The loser of the two games given above, Mr Orchard, is reputed to be the best player in the Southern States of America; but it must be confessed that he does not appear to advantage on this occasion. His play in these games is so far below his public form, over the board, that its weakness must be ascribed to a special inaptitude for chess by correspondence.

We are informed that Mr. Mackenzie, the American chess champion, who returns to New York next week, will be entertained at a dinner at the City of London Chess Club before his departure from England.

WILLS AND BEQUESTS.

The will (dated March 10, 1876) of Mr. Thomas James Hall, formerly of No. 21, Queensborough-terrace, Hyde Park, but late of No. 20, Leamington-road Villas, Westbourne Park, who died on March 20, 1876, was proved on the 28th ult. by William James Hall, the son, the sole executor, the personal estate being sworn under £140,000. The testator gives railway stocks to the amount of £12,000 to his grandchildren being the children of his deceased daughter Lady Atherton; railway stocks to the amount of £10,000 to his daughter Mrs. Ironside for life, and then to his said grandchildren. There are bequests for mourning-rings for several of his friends, and £50 to the London Police Orphan Fund. The rest of his property he gives to his said son.

The will (dated March 27, 1872) with two codicils (dated May 9, 1874, and July 6, 1877) of Mr. William Ball, late of Bruce Grove, Tottenham, who died, on July 30 last, at Aberdeen, was proved on the 21st ult. by Francis Edward Fox and Robert Nicholas Fowler, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £60,000. The testator bequeaths numerous legacies to his own and his late wife's relations and to friends, and there are substantial bequests to his servants. To the British and Foreign Bible Society and the British and Foreign School Society he gives £500 each; and to the Invalid Society, Stoke Newington, £100. All his real estate is directed to be sold, and the net proceeds, with the residue of his personalty, is to be divided between his nephews and nieces.

The will (dated Nov. 3, 1877) of Mr. Charles Chichele Plowden, late of Chiselhurst, Kent, who died on July 27 last, was proved on the 26th ult. by Frederic William Steward and Alfred Chichele Plowden, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £40,000. The testator leaves to his sister Harriet £5000 and all his furniture, pictures, and plate, except certain plate which he wishes to be held as a heirloom in the family; to his executors, £500 each; and the residue of his real and personal estate upon trust for his said sister for life, and at her death to her children, if any; in default of her leaving children numerous other legacies become payable, and the remainder of his property is to go to the said Alfred Chichele Plowden.

The will (dated Oct. 5, 1875) with a codicil (dated Sept. 28, 1876) of Mrs. Katharine Bickerstеth, late of Casteylon Hall, Westmorland, and of No. 31, Warrior-square, St. Leonards-on-Sea, who died on the 7th ult., was proved on the 29th ult. by John Pares Bickerstеth, the son, the acting executor, the personal estate being sworn under £25,000. The testatrix, after leaving legacies to various members of her family, leaves the residue of her property to such of her daughters as at the time of her death shall never have been married.

The will (dated July 29, 1878) of Dr. Abraham Benisch, late of No. 13, Brownswood Park, who died on July 31 last, was proved on the 22nd ult. by Isaac Seligman, Ellis Abraham Franklin, and Daniel Castello, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £18,000. The testator after giving some legacies gives the remainder of his property, real and personal, upon trust for his brother, Dr. Moritz Benisch, of Vienna, for life, and then to his sister, Frau Anna Stein. The deceased was the proprietor of the Jewish Chronicle.

The Greenwich Hospital Pension of £80 a year, vacant by the death of Captain Sir George Biddlecombe on July 20 last, has been conferred on Captain Robert C. Allen.

The show of the Royal Manchester, Liverpool, and North Lancashire Agricultural Society at Lancaster terminated yesterday week. The receipts amounted to £1602, as compared with £1980 received at Southport in 1876.

The inspectors of Irish fisheries state, through their secretary, that the export of salmon from Ireland to England has of late years largely increased, and that the quantity sent to London forms only a very small portion indeed of the gross exports to England.

The Duke of Westminster distributed the prizes on the 15th inst. at the annual flower show of the Woburn Improvement Association. His Grace spoke of the importance of these exhibitions in advancing the well-being and happiness of the community. He felt convinced there was no better counter-attraction to a public-house than a clean comfortable home. Lady Grosvenor was present at the distribution.

BOOKS RECEIVED.

The Student's Guide to the Bar. By Walter W. R. Ball, M.A. (Macmillan.)
The Principle of a Time Policy; for Settling Disputes between Employers and Labourers. By R. S. Moffat. (Kegan Paul and Co.)
German Classics: Lessing's Laokoon. Edited by A. Hamann, P.D. (The Clarendon Press, Oxford.)
Chips from Many Blocks. By Elihu Burritt. (Sampson Low and Co.)
Home Culture of the Water-Cress. By Shirley Hibberd. (E. W. Allen.)
Illustrated Waverley Novels: The Heart of Mid-Lothian. By Sir Walter Scott, Bart. (Marcus Ward and Co.)
The Cheveley Novels: Saul Weir. Part 4. (Blackwood and Sons.)
Christie Brownlie's Ordeal. By Mary Patrick. 3 vols. (Smith and Elder.)
Minds and Moods. Gossiping Papers on Mind-Arrangement and Morals. By Dr. J. M. Granville. (Renshaw.)
Aids to the Study of the Books of Samuel. By E. Hobson, M.A. Book II. (W. Wells Gardner.)
Arthur Jessieson. A Novel. By Joseph Crawford Scott. 2 vols. (Chapman and Hall.)
The Iceni. A Tragedy. By Henry James Snell. (The Author, 20, Broad-street, Bloomsbury.)
Tales from Blackwood. No. 5. (Blackwood and Sons.)
The Rose Library: In the Wilderness. By C. D. Warner. (Sampson Low)
The Atlantic Islands as Resorts of Health and Pleasure. By S. G. W. Benjamin. Illustrated. (Sampson Low and Co.)
On the Seaboard; and Other Poems. By Susan K. Phillips. (Macmillan)
Selections from the Poetical Works of Heinrich Heine. Translated into English. (Macmillan and Co.)
Low's Illustrated Edition of Jules Verne's Works: The Survivors of the "Chancellor." Parts I. and II. (Sampson Low)
Duty and Doctrine: Sermons by Samuel B. James, M.A. Fourth Edition. (Bemrose and Son.)
Love's Crosses. A Novel. By F. E. M. Notley. 3 vols. (Bentley and Son.)
Select Poetry for Children. By Joseph Payne. Twentieth Edition. (Crosby, Lockwood, and Co.)
The Cossacks: A Tale of the Caucasus in 1852. By Count Leo Tolstoy. 2 vols. (Sampson Low.)
The Wreck of the Grosvenor. By W. Clark Russell. Third and Cheaper Edition. (Sampson, Low, and Co.)
The Monks of Thelema. By Walter Besant and James Rice. 3 vols. (Chatto and Windus.)
The Famine Campaign in Southern India (Madras and Bombay Presidencies and Province of Mysore), 1876-1878. By William Digby. 2 vols. (Longmans and Co.)
Roxy. By Edward Eggleston. 2 vols. (Chatto and Windus.)
Sketches for Cottages and other Buildings, in Lascelles Patent Cement Slab System. By E. Norman Shaw, R.A. (W. H. Lascelles, Bunhill-row.)
The Holbein Society's Facsimile Reprints: The Golden Legend. A Reproduction from the Copy in the Manchester Free Library (Wyman and Sons, Great Queen-street.)
The Daisy: A Journal of Pure Literature. Vol. III. (Dickinson and Lobb.)
The Arts of Writing, Reading, and Speaking. Letters to a Law Student. By Edward W. Cox, Serjeant-at-Law, Recorder of Portsmouth. Third Edition. (Horace Cox, 10, Wellington-street.)
Testimonials to the Efficacy of Hydropathy. (Tweedie and Co.)
Hymns and Songs, with Tunes; for Church of England Temperance Meetings. (W. Wells Gardner.)
Cathedra Petri: A Brief Summary of the Chief Titles and Prerogatives Ascribed to St. Peter and his See and Successors, by the Early Fathers and Councils of the Church. By C. F. Allnatt. (Burns and Oates.)
Health Lectures for the People. Delivered in Manchester. Vol. I. (Heywood, 18, Paternoster-square.)
Blue Bell Series: A Simple Maiden. By Leslie Keith. (Marcus Ward.)

FURNISH THROUGHOUT.
SUBSTANTIAL ARTISTIC FURNITURE.
OETZMANN & CO.,
HAMPSTEAD-ROAD,
NEAR TOTTENHAM-COURT-ROAD.

FURNISH THROUGHOUT.—OETZMANN and CO., 67, 69, 71, 73, 77 and 79, HAMPSTEAD-ROAD, near Tottenham-court-road. Cabinet Factory, Albion Works, Drummond-street; Bedding Factory, Eagle-place, London, N.W. CARPETS, Furniture, Bedding, Drapery, Furnishing Ironmongery, China, Glass, Paper Hangings, Pictures, Bronzes, Clocks, &c., and every other requisite for completely furnishing a house throughout.

BESIDES THE RECENT ADDITION of the immense range of Premises previously known as the Eagle Brewery, which have been rebuilt and added to the Show-Rooms,

EIGHT LARGE SHOW-ROOMS
HAVE JUST BEEN ADDED
TO THE DISPLAY OF
ARTISTIC FURNITURE, &c.

IT IS NOW ONE OF THE LARGEST FURNISHING ESTABLISHMENTS in the World. Comparison of price and quality respectfully solicited before deciding elsewhere. OETZMANN and CO. are enabled to offer special advantages to country customers in delivery of goods by their own large PANTECHNICON VANS, and fixing in position by competent persons. Descriptive Catalogue, the best furnishing guide extant, post-free.

DRAWING-ROOM SUITES.
OETZMANN and CO.—Elegant Drawing-Room Suite, richly-carved Italian Walnut Wood; upholstered very soft and comfortable, in best Rep, consisting of a Couch, two Easy-Chairs, and six Chairs, price 15 guineas; ditto, very handsome design, upholstered in rich Tekinade, made and finished in superior style, 20 guineas; ditto, very elegant design, richly upholstered in finest Satin, and finished in the best possible manner, 31 guineas. Also a variety of other Drawing-Room Suites, in Black and Gold, Early English, and other designs.
OETZMANN and CO.

ANGLO-TURKEY CARPETS.
OETZMANN and CO.—These superior Carpets, of which Messrs. OETZMANN and CO. have the exclusive sale, are of first-class British manufacture, have all the style and appearance of real Turkey Carpets, at little more than the price of good Brussels, and are very durable. Price-List, post-free, on application. The "Art Journal" says:—Messrs. Oetzmann have made a better article than the Indians, Persians, and Turks, and at less than half the cost, without sacrificing aught of the grace of design and harmony of colours." For the convenience of those residing at a distance, a large piece, showing the border and centre of Carpet, sent on receipt of 3s., which will be deducted from price of Carpet or refunded upon return of pattern; or by sending 15s. three pieces—viz., Anglo-Turkey, Anglo-Persian, and Anglo-Indian—will be sent on the same terms. Hearth Rugs to match, 6ft. long by 2 ft. 8in. wide, £1 5s. 6d. A large stock of real Turkey Carpets at reduced prices.—OETZMANN and CO.

CRETONNES. — OETZMANN and CO.
CRETONNES.—An immense assortment of all the choicest designs in this fashionable material, in every variety of style and colouring; excellent imitations of rare Tapestries, some being exact copies of the finest Gobelin Tapestry. Prices varying from 6d. per yard. Some at 1s. 6d., usually sold at 2s. 9d.; Super ditto, at 1s. 2½d., usual price, 2s. Patterns sent into the country by stating kind required.

CLEOPATRA TOILET SERVICE.
Messrs. OETZMANN and CO. have just received a large consignment of the Oriental pattern—a handsome new registered design manufactured exclusively for OETZMANN and CO. This and a variety of other patterns can be had on view at OETZMANN and Co.'s new special design, the Cleopatra Shape, in any colour, including the fashionable deep blue, at prices from 8s. 6d. per set. Descriptive Price-List post-free.

PARIS EXHIBITION.—Messrs.
OETZMANN and CO. invite an inspection of their large display of Royal Worcester Porcelain, Japanese and Chinese China. Nankin Blue and White China, the new Swiss Decorated Faience, French and English Terra-Cotta and Parian China Statuettes, Busts, &c.; Dresden China Ware, Vallauris Pottery, Venetian and Iridescent Glass; also, a large Assortment of both English and Foreign Table and Ornamental Glass of every description; the latest Parisian designs in Clocks, Bronzes, and both ornamental and useful China, many of which are Duplicates of Goods exhibited at the Paris Exhibition. The prices will be found considerably lower than charged in Paris, besides saving the expense and annoyance of carriage and Custom House. Catalogue forwarded post-free.—OETZMANN and CO.

THE "Art Journal" says:—"We were conducted through the crowded rooms and long galleries of Messrs. OETZMANN and CO.'S Establishment, irresistibly to admire productions of good and true and useful art, but more often to see how every need was met that ministered to convenience and comfort."—OETZMANN and CO., Complete House Furnishers, 67, 69, 71, 73, 77 and 79, Hampstead-road; 146 and 148, Drummond-street; 9, Frederick-street; and Nos. 1 to 34, Eagle-place, London, N.W.

POSTAL ORDER DEPARTMENT.
OETZMANN and CO.—Orders sent per post, whether large or small, receive prompt and careful attention. Those residing at a distance, or any to whom a personal visit would be inconvenient, desirous of leaving the selection in the firm, may rely upon a faithful attention to their wishes and interest in the selection. This department is personally supervised by a member of the firm. For further particulars please see page 287 in Catalogue, sent free on application.

OETZMANN and CO., COMPLETE HOUSE FURNISHERS, 67, 69, 71, 73, 77 and 79, Hampstead-road (three minutes' walk from Tottenham-court-road and Gower-street Station, Metropolitan Railway). Lowest prices consistent with guaranteed quality. Close at Seven, and on Saturdays at Four. Descriptive Catalogue post-free.

DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE, post-free.
OETZMANN & CO.,
HAMPSTEAD-ROAD.

STORY'S FURNITURE.
HALL and OFFICE
STORY'S FURNITURE.
DINING-ROOM and LIBRARY
STORY'S FURNITURE.
DRAWING-ROOM and BOUDOIR
STORY'S FURNITURE.
BED-ROOM
STORY'S FURNITURE.
PATENT COUCH BED (31s. 6d.)
STORY'S 2, COLEMAN-ST., CITY.
SHOW-ROOMS.

GARDNERS' NEW DINNER and TABLE GLASS SERVICES are original in design, effective in appearance, and unequalled in price. Dinner Services from £3 3s. the Set for twelve persons, complete, with 15 per cent discount for cash on or before delivery. Table Glass Services from £3 5s. 6d. the Set for twelve persons complete.

DINNER SERVICES.
Coloured Lithographs post-free.

In Deep Blue.		In Blue and White.
The Lansdowne ..	£3 3 0	The Lansdowne ..	£3 3 0
The Laurel	3 13 6	The Indiana	4 4 0
		The Danish	5 0 0

Discount 15 per cent.

In Enamelled Patterns. The One Thousand and Two		In their unequalled Crown Ware.
Two (A)	5 5 0	In Ruby	£5 5 0
The Japanese Bamboo	6 6 0	In Pink	5 5 0
The Humming-Bird ..	7 7 0	In Black	5 5 0
The Sèvres	7 7 0

Discount 15 per cent.

TABLE GLASS SERVICES.

Plain light stem glass	£3 5 6	Light engraved glass ..	5 15 6
Richly cut glass ..	5 5 0	Richly engraved glass	5 19 6

Discount 15 per cent.
Illustrated Glass Catalogue, which must be returned, sent post-free on application.
Gardners', Lamp, Glass, and China Manufacturers, 453 and 454, West Strand, Charing-cross.

MRS. S. A. ALLEN'S
WORLD'S HAIR RESTORER.
IT CANNOT FAIL TO RESTORE GREY HAIR TO ITS YOUTHFUL COLOUR, GLOSS, AND BEAUTY. WHEN THE HAIR TURNS GREY, LOSES ITS LUSTRE, AND FALLS OUT, IT SIMPLY REQUIRES NOURISHMENT. MRS. S. A. ALLEN'S WORLD'S HAIR RESTORER, BY ITS GENTLE TONIC ACTION, STRENGTHENS AND INVIGORATES THE HAIR, AND, BY THE OPERATION OF NATURAL CAUSES, GREY OR WHITE HAIR IS QUICKLY RESTORED TO ITS YOUTHFUL COLOUR, GLOSS, AND BEAUTY. IT WILL STOP ITS FALLING, AND INDUCE A HEALTHY AND MOST LUXURIANT GROWTH. USE NO OTHER PREPARATION WITH IT, NOT EVEN OIL OR POMADE, OR ZYLO-BALSAMUM.
CAUTION!!—The Genuine only in Pink Wrappers.
Sold by all Chemists, Perfumers, and Dealers in Toilet Articles.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.
Mrs. S. A. ALLEN manufactures two entirely distinct Preparations for the Hair. One or the other is suited to every condition of the Human Hair. Both are never required at one time. For details as to each preparation, kindly read above and below this paragraph. Readers can easily determine which of the two they require.

MRS. S. A. ALLEN'S
ZYLO-BALSAMUM,
For the Growth and Preservation of the Hair.
A cooling transparent liquid, entirely vegetable, without sediment.
A SIMPLE TONIC AND DRESSING OF INESTIMABLE VALUE TO BOTH SEXES, THE FAVOURITE WITH THE YOUNG AND ALL THOSE WHO HAVE NO GREY HAIR. PREMATURE LOSS OF THE HAIR, SO COMMON IN THESE DAYS, MAY BE ENTIRELY PREVENTED BY THE USE OF ZYLO-BALSAMUM. PROMPT RELIEF IN THOUSANDS OF CASES HAS BEEN AFFORDED WHERE THE HAIR HAS BEEN COMING OUT IN HANDFULS. IT PROMOTES A HEALTHY AND VIGOROUS GROWTH. HAIR DRESSED WITH ZYLO-BALSAMUM IS ALWAYS CLEAN, FREE FROM DANDRUFF, AND WITH THAT BEAUTIFUL GLOSS ONLY SEEN IN HEALTHY HAIR. IT IS DELIGHTFULLY FRAGRANT. NO OIL OR POMADE SHOULD BE USED WITH IT.
CAUTION!!—The Genuine only in Bluish Grey Wrappers.
Sold by all Chemists, Perfumers, and Dealers in Toilet Articles.

GOLDEN STAR
BAY-LEAF WATER.
Triple distilled from the fresh leaves of the Bay Tree (Myrcia Acris).
For the TOILET, NURSERY, and BATH.
A few drops on a sponge or towel moistened with water, and the face and hands bathed with it, is very beneficial to the skin, removing all roughness. Most highly recommended to apply after shaving. A small quantity in the bath gives a delightful aroma, and it has most remarkable cleansing properties. Particularly adapted for the bathing of infants and young children. Most grateful to invalids and all who suffer from headache from mental labour or fatigue. Buy only the genuine Golden Star Bay-Leaf Water, sold in three sizes Toilet Bottles, 2s. 6d., 5s., 9s., by Chemists and Perfumers, or on receipt of stamps from the Wholesale Depôt, 114 and 116, Southampton-row, London.

VALUABLE DISCOVERY for the HAIR.
If your hair is turning grey, or white, or falling off, use "the Mexican Hair Renewer," for it will positively restore in every case Grey or White Hair to its original colour, without leaving the disagreeable smell of most "Hair Restores." It makes the hair charmingly beautiful, as well as promoting the growth of the hair on bald spots where the roots are not decayed. Ask any Chemist for the "Mexican Hair Renewer," price 3s. 6d.
Prepared by HENRY C. GALLUP, 493, Oxford-street, London.

FLORILINE. For the Teeth and Breath.
Is the best Liquid Dentifrice in the World; it thoroughly cleanses partially-decayed teeth from all parasites or living "animalculæ," leaving them pearly white, imparting a delightful fragrance to the breath. Price 2s. 6d. per Bottle. The Fragrant Floriline removes instantly all odours arising from a foul stomach or tobacco smoke, being partly composed of honey, soda, and extracts of sweet herbs and plants. It is perfectly harmless, and delicious to use. Sold by HENRY C. GALLUP, 493, Oxford-street, London. Retailed everywhere.

JOHN GOSNELL and CO.'S VIOLET and MILLEFLEUR POWDER, for the Toilet and Nursery, Universally admired for its purity and fragrance. Sold by all Chemists and Perfumers. Wholesale, 55, Upper Thames-street.

BREIDENBACH'S ABRONIA.—The Now Scent for 1878. Delicate, refreshing, and durable. 2s. 6d. to 40s. per Bottle. Breidenbach's MACASSARINE, invaluable for preserving the Growth of the Hair, 1s., 2s. 6d., 5s. per Bottle.
Of all Chemists, and the Manufactory, 157a, New Bond-street, W.

EAU DE CHYPRE.—PIESSE and LUBIN.
This is an ancient perfume from Cyprus. During the national career of Egypt, Persia, Greece, and Rome, the Island of Cyprus was the resort of the elite, learned, and refined. It was at the time of the Crusades, that Richard I. of England assumed the title of King of Cyprus, that the famed Eau de Chypre was introduced into Europe, the composition of which is yet preserved in the archives of the Laboratory of Piesse and Lubin. Those who are curious in ancient perfumes can be gratified at 2, New Bond-street, London.

CAUTION.—The MACASSAR OIL for nourishing the hair, and ODONTO for whitening the teeth, prepared by A. ROWLAND and SONS, of 20, Hatton-garden, London, are the only genuine articles sold under these or similar names. Avoid cheap imitations, and ask for Rowlands'.

THOMPSON AND CAPPER'S
DENTIFRICE WATER arrests decay in the Teeth and sweetens the Breath.—5s. Bold-street, Liverpool; and at 39, Fenchurch-street.—Sold in 1s. 6d., 2s. 6d., 4s. 6d., and 8s. 6d. Bottles, by all Chemists.

CAUTION.—BOND'S CRYSTAL PALACE GOLD MEDAL MARKING INK.—Some Chemists and Stationers, for extra profit, deceive you. Genuine Label, "Prepared by the Daughter of the late John Bond."—Works, 75, Southgate-road, London. No heating required.

JUDSON'S DYES.—6d. each, of Chemists. Curtains, Tablecovers, Mantles, Scarves, Jackets dyed in ten minutes in a pail of hot water.
Judson's Dyes—Crimson, Green, and Twenty-four Colours.

WEDDING TROUSSEAUX,
£20, £50, and £100.
Indian Outfit, £20, £30, £40. Lists free.
Mrs. ADDLEY BOURNE, 37, Piccadilly.

BABY LINEN.
LAYETTES, £5, £10, and £20.
List post-free.
Mrs. ADDLEY BOURNE, 37, Piccadilly.

SWANBILL CORSET (Registered), especially for ladies inclined to embonpoint. The Swanbill is most effective in reducing the figure and keeping the form flat. Price 14s. 6d.; with Jean d'Arc Belt, 21s.
Send size of waist, with Post-office order.
Mrs. ADDLEY BOURNE,
37, Piccadilly; and 76, Rue St. Lazare, Paris.

TO LADIES.—THE SHREWSBURY WATERPROOF TWEED CLOAKS, SKIRTS, and JACKETS, in every variety of shape and colour, are supplied by the original Makers, E. W. and W. PHILLIPS, 37, High-street, Shrewsbury. Patterns and Prices on application.

ORANGE CHAMPAGNE is a light, pleasant drink, made simply from Oranges. It is effervescent, but entirely free from spirit, and perfectly wholesome. Price 7s. per Dozen, Quarts; 4s., Pints. Bottles 2s. and Cases 1s. per Dozen until returned. Made only by CHAS. CODD and CO., 79, Copenhagen-street, London, N.

CHOCOLAT MENIER, in ½lb. and ¼lb. Packets.
For BREAKFAST and SUPPER.

CHOCOLAT MENIER.—Awarded Twenty-Three PRIZE MEDALS. Consumption annually exceeds 17,000,000lbs.

CHOCOLAT MENIER. Paris, London, New York.
Sold Everywhere.

JOSEPH GILLOTT'S STEEL PENS.
Sold by all Stationers throughout the World.

SCHWEITZER'S COCOATINA.
Anti-Dyspeptic Cocoa or Chocolate Powder.
Guaranteed Pure Soluble Cocoa, with excess of Fat extracted. Four times the strength of Cocoa Thickened yet Weakened with Arrowroot, Starch, &c.
The faculty pronounce it the most nutritious, perfectly digestive Beverage for "BREAKFAST, LUNCHEON, or SUPPER." Keeps in all Climates. Requires no Cooking. A teaspoonful to Breakfast Cup, costing less than a halfpenny. Samples gratis. In Air-Tight Tins, at 1s. 6d., 3s., &c., by Chemists and Grocers.
H. SCHWEITZER and CO., 10, Adam-street, London, W.C.

THE ESSEX FLOUR and GRAIN COMPANY, Liverpool-road, London, N., supply the BEST GOODS ONLY. Whites, for Pastry, 8s. 4d. per bushel; Households, for Bread, 8s. 8d. Wheat Meal, for Brown Bread, 8s. Coarse Scotch Oatmeal, 3s. 2d. per stone; fine, 3s. 4d. American Hominy, 4s. Barley Maize, Buckwheat, Pearl Barley Meal, 5s. per bushel, or 19s. per sack. Oats, 4s. per bushel; 10s. 6d. per sack. Peas, 7s. 6d. per bushel; Tick Beans, 7s. 6d.; Middlings, 2s. 6d.; Ground Pollard, 1s. 8d. Meat Biscuits, 20s. per cwt. Split Peas, 3s. per peck. Lentil Flour, for Invalids, in Tins, 1 lb. size, 1s.; 7 lb., 5s. All other kinds of Grain and Seed. Special prices for larger quantities. P.O. Orders and Cheques payable to G. YOUNG.

DR. DE JONGH'S
(KNIGHT OF THE LEGION OF HONOUR, KNIGHT OF THE ORDER OF LEOPOLD OF BELGIUM)
LIGHT-BROWN COD-LIVER OIL.
THE PUREST.
THE MOST PALATABLE.
THE MOST DIGESTIBLE.
THE MOST EFFICACIOUS.

DR. DE JONGH'S
LIGHT-BROWN COD-LIVER OIL,
proved by twenty-five years' medical experience to be
THE ONLY COD-LIVER OIL
which produces the full curative effects in
CONSUMPTION AND DISEASES OF THE CHEST, THROAT AFFECTIONS, GENERAL DEBILITY, WASTING DISEASES OF CHILDREN, RICKETS, AND ALL SCROFULOUS DISORDERS.

SELECT MEDICAL OPINIONS.
SIR G. DUNCAN GIBB, Bart., M.D.,
Physician to the Westminster Hospital.
"The value of Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD-LIVER OIL as a therapeutic agent in a number of diseases, chiefly of an exhaustive character, has been admitted by the world of medicine; but, in addition, I have found it a remedy of great power in the treatment of many Affections of the Throat and Larynx, especially in Consumption of the latter, where it will sustain life when everything else fails."

DR. SINCLAIR COGHILL,
Physician Royal National Hospital for Consumption, Ventnor.
"I have convinced myself that in Tubercular and the various forms of Strumous Disease, Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD-LIVER OIL possesses greater therapeutic efficacy than any other Cod-Liver Oil with which I am acquainted. It was especially in the large doses necessary that with the patients protested they had never been able to retain or digest other Cod-Liver Oil, that Dr. DE JONGH'S OIL was not only tolerated, but taken readily, and with marked benefit."

LENNOX BROWNE, Esq., F.R.C.S.E.,
Senior Surgeon Central London Throat and Ear Hospital.
"The action of Dr. de Jongh's Light-Brown Cod-Liver Oil has proved, in my own experience, particularly valuable, not only in those diseases for which it was originally employed, but also in many cases of weakness of the Sinuing and Speaking Voice, dependent on Bronchial and Laryngeal Irritation, and in all forms of Strumous Enlargement of Glands, and Discharges from the Ear."

DR. PROSSER JAMES,
Lecturer on Materia Medica, London Hospital.
"DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD-LIVER OIL contains the whole of the active ingredients of the remedy, and is easily digested. Hence its value, not only in Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, but in a great number of cases to which the Profession is extending its use."

DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD-LIVER OIL is sold ONLY in capsuled IMPERIAL Half-Pints, 2s. 6d.; Pints, 4s. 9d.; Quarts, 9s.; by all respectable Chemists and Druggists throughout the world.
SOLE CONSIGNEES,
ANSAR, HARFORD, and CO., 77, STRAND, LONDON.

HOW TO AVOID THE INJURIOUS EFFECTS OF STIMULANTS.—The present system of living—partaking of rich foods, as pastry, saccharine and fatty substances, alcoholic drinks, and an insufficient amount of exercise—frequently deranges the liver. It would be well if all bilious people, unless they are careful to keep the liver acting freely, to exercise great care in the use of alcoholic drinks, avoid sugar, and always dilute largely with water. Experience shows that porter, mild ales, port wine, dark sherries, sweet champagne, liqueurs, and brandy are all very apt to disagree; while light white wines, and gin or whisky largely diluted with soda-water, will be found the least objectionable. ENO'S FRUIT SALT is peculiarly adapted for any constitutional weakness of the liver; it possesses the power of reparation when the digestion has been disturbed or lost, and places the invalid on the right track to health. A world of woes is avoided by all who keep and use ENO'S FRUIT SALT; therefore no family should ever be without it. "All our customers for ENO'S FRUIT SALT would not be without it upon any consideration, they having received so much benefit from it.—Wood Brothers, Chemists, Jersey." Sold by all Chemists at 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d. Examine each bottle and see the capsule is marked "ENO'S FRUIT SALT." Without it you have been imposed on by a worthless imitation.

PILLS
WORSDELL'S
KAYE'S PURIFY THE BLOOD, CLEANSE FROM DISEASE, IMPROVE DIGESTION, ESTABLISH THE HEALTH.
Sold everywhere.

LAXORA MEDICATED FRUIT LOZENGES for CONSTIPATION, SLUGGISHNESS OF THE STOMACH, BILE, HEADACHE.
The "Lancet:"—"It is a great improvement on the preparations in common use for the same purpose."
"Medical Press":—"Laxora Lozenges can be safely recommended."
C. R. C. Tichborne, Ph.D.:—"Laxora Lozenges are efficacious, and nicely made."
Sold, 1s. 1½d., by all Chemists and Druggists; Wholesale, 62, Southwark-street.

EPPS'S GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.
COCOA. JAMES EPPS AND CO., HOMŒOPATHIC CHEMISTS.

THE "Civil Service Gazette" says:—
"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast-tables with a delicately-flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly-nourished frame."

THE "Naval and Military Gazette" says:—
"The nutritive qualities of cocoa over either those of tea or coffee are now so generally acknowledged that the steady increase shown by official statistics in its consumption during recent years ceases to be a matter of surprise. One of the first firms to popularise this now indispensable adjunct to our breakfast-table was Messrs. Epps and Co., whose name, since 1839, has been so continuously before the public, and whose Homœopathic Cocoa is as familiar in our homes as the proverbial 'household words.' Those whose business it has been to watch at Messrs. Epps's works the elaborate and complex processes, and to note the care and labour bestowed before the crude cocoa bean is considered ready for consumption, cannot but admit that the popularity Messrs. Epps's productions have secured is fully deserved. The vastness of these works may be imagined when it is stated that four millions of pounds of prepared cocoa alone are prepared there yearly. This reputation gained, now many years since, for Mr. James Epps's preparation, both for its purity and its value as a dietetic, has been more than maintained. A constant increasing demand fully testifies to this—which must be as gratifying to Messrs. Epps as it is certainly flattering to the good faith they have kept with the public to secure so gratifying a result."

"All the Year Round" says:—
"Having now disposed of fancy chocolate, let us stroll to the Euston-road, hard by the Regent's Park, to Epps's cocoa manufactory, where may be studied the making of cocoa on a stupendous scale, giving a just idea of the value of these articles, not as luxuries, but as actual food."

THE "Court Journal" says:—
"In a climate so varying and trying as our own, to maintain sound and uniform health, our daily diet cannot be too carefully and attentively studied. Advancing science and recent discoveries have within the last few years been instrumental in adding several most valuable additions to our comparatively short list of dietetic foods. Foremost among these should be ranged cocoa, which, although known here several centuries previously, had no place in general use within the last forty years. One of the first to popularise this now indispensable adjunct to our table was Mr. James Epps, whose 'Prepared Cocoa' has gained such just repute for its excellent and nutritious character. Prepared originally on homœopathic principles, in a soluble and convenient form, and easy of digestion, it met a public demand, speedily became popular, until now Messrs. Epps produce over four millions of pounds of their cocoa a year, and their manufactory is the largest of its kind in this country."

"Cassell's Household Guide" says:—
"We will now give an account of the process adopted by Messrs. James Epps and Co., manufacturers of dietetic articles, at their works in the Euston-road, London."

THE "Morning Advertiser" says:—
"In the middle of the seventeenth century an announcement appeared in one of the few journals of that period, to the effect that 'out of Bishopsgate-street, at a Frenchman's house, is an excellent West India drink, called chocolate, to be sold at reasonable rates.' This is the first record we have of the introduction of cocoa into England. For a time it flourished as a fashionable drink, and then, like all fashions, subsided. Nearly two centuries after, in 1832, the duties, which had been almost prohibitive, were greatly reduced, and one of the first to take advantage of re-establishing the popularity of cocoa was Messrs. James Epps and Co., the Homœopathic Chemists. Under the name of 'Prepared Cocoa' they introduced a soluble and convenient preparation, which required no boiling, and was palatable and highly nutritious. It met a public want, speedily became popular, and year by year has increased in demand, till the consumption now exceeds four millions of pounds yearly."

THE "Christian World" says:—
"'If I am to take cocoa,' said I, 'I must know what it is made of.' I must examine the process; I must dive into the mystery of its manufacture; I must see and judge for myself what are the ingredients of which it is composed. With this view I made my way to the manufactory of James Epps and Co., in the Euston-road."

"John Bull" says:—
"In no branches of industry are recent scientific and chemical discoveries more generally applied than in those upon which our food supply is so largely dependent. The luxuries of the last generation are in many cases become the daily necessaries of the present. A forcible illustration of this is to be found in the enormous increase in the consumption of cocoa year by year—in exact proportion to the increased facilities for its manufacture. An idea of the vast extent of this industry may be gained from the fact that one firm alone—that of Messrs. Epps and Co.—now sell over four millions of pounds annually. The 'Homœopathic Cocoa' of Messrs. Epps has, during the many years it has been before the public, gained great and just repute, which its excellent quality and careful preparation eminently entitle it to. Cocoa in soluble form, and combining what are technically known as 'flesh-forming' and 'heat-giving' properties, is clearly an invaluable addition to our scanty list of dietetic foods. Such Messrs. Epps claim for their prepared cocoa, and such analysis and—most valuable of all—experience has proved it to be."

THE "Church Review" says:—
"Although we cannot yet boast of a free breakfast-table, still the active legislation in furtherance of that object during the last half century leaves us much to be thankful for. A striking instance of the general good resulting from the removal of heavy imposts upon articles of food supply is afforded by the marvellous increase in the consumption of cocoa since 1833, up to which period an almost prohibitive duty was levied. In 1830 the total amount consumed in this country was less than half a million pounds yearly. At the present time one firm alone, that of Messrs. James Epps and Co., the Homœopathic Chemists, sell annually four million pounds."

THE "Civilian" says:—
"In the seventeenth century, before either tea or coffee had found their way into the English markets, chocolate was a favourite beverage with the luxurious classes at that period; it then fetched an almost fabulous price per pound. To-day, when modern science and enterprise have placed it within the reach of every class, cocoa is not only still regarded as a palatable and refreshing drink, but is valued for its nutritive and dietetic qualities. One of the first, we believe, who may be credited with introducing cocoa in its present form is Mr. James Epps. Prepared on sound dietetic principles, Epps's Homœopathic cocoa contains all the nutritive properties of the native product in such a form that they are rendered thoroughly soluble, and, therefore, much more easy of digestion. The natural superabundance of fat present in raw cocoa is, moreover, not only counteracted, but made to serve one of the most essential functions of sound diet. Messrs. Epps's works are now, perhaps, the largest in the country, the cocoa produced there amounting to many million pounds a year."

"Land and Water" says:—
"Through the kindness of Messrs. Epps, I recently had an opportunity of seeing the many complicated and varied processes the cacao bean passes through ere it is sold for public use, and being interested and highly pleased with what I saw during the visit to the manufactory, I thought a brief account of the cacao and the way it is manufactured by Messrs. Epps to fit it for a wholesome and nutritious beverage, might be likewise of interest to the readers of 'Land and Water.'"

EPPS'S GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.
COCOA. JAMES EPPS AND CO., HOMŒOPATHIC CHEMISTS.

London: Printed and Published at the Office, 198, Strand, in the Parish of St. Clement Danes, in the County of Middlesex, by GEORGE C. LANGHTON, 198, Strand, aforesaid.—Saturday, SEPTEMBER 14, 1878.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

REGISTERED AT THE GENERAL POST-OFFICE FOR TRANSMISSION ABROAD.

No. 2047.—VOL. LXXIII. SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 21, 1878. WITH TWO SUPPLEMENTS SIXPENCE. By Post, 6½p.

THE AUSTRIAN CAPTURE OF SERAJEVO: THE 46TH INFANTRY STORMING THE SALUTING OR YELLOW BATTERY.
FROM A SKETCH BY OUR SPECIAL ARTIST.

BIRTHS.

On the 13th inst., at Clivcden, Maidenhead, the Lady Beatrice Cavendish, of a son.

On the 12th inst., at Bromley, Middlesex, the wife of Sir Edmund Hay Currie, of a son.

On the 12th inst., at 25, Belgrave-square, the Lady Edwin Hill Trevor, of a daughter.

MARRIAGES.

On the 12th inst., at Thorney Abbey, Cambridgeshire, by the Rev. J. Cautley, Vicar, John Swaine Scales, of Higher Broughton, Manchester, to Frances Elizabeth (Lilla), eldest child of Thomas Fullard, of Thorney, Cambridgeshire.

On the 12th inst., at St. Mary's Church, Shrewsbury, by the Rev. J. W. Bromley, assisted by the Rev. W. Bromley, Vicar of Sibton, father and brother of the bridegroom, and the Rev. Canon Lloyd, Vicar of St. Mary's, Henry, youngest son of the Rev. J. W. Bromley, of The Warders, Tonbridge, Kent, to Tryphena Maud, youngest daughter of the late W. J. Clement, M.P., of the Council House, Shrewsbury, and grand-daughter of the late W. P. Freme, of Wepre Hall, Flint.

On the 11th inst., at St. John's Church, Goole, by the Rev. Dr. Bell, Geo. England, jun., solicitor, Goole, to Harriett, relict of the late William Willett, C.E., and eldest daughter of Thomas Clegg, Stone House, Goole.

On the 11th inst., at the Church of the Servite Fathers, Fulham-road, Herr J. M. Kemp, of Braunsfeld, Cologne, Germany, to Frances Anne, youngest daughter of B. H. Hickey, of 397, Fulham-road, London.

On the 5th inst., at Erskine church, Montreal, Canada, by the Rev. J. S. Black, assisted by the Rev. J. M. Gibson, D.D., of Chicago, Frederic James Claxton, eldest son of T. James Claxton, Esq., to Christina Macdonald, third daughter of Andrew Robertson, Esq.

DEATHS.

On the 7th inst., at Island Cottage, Handsworth, Birmingham, of congestion of the lungs, Emily Jane, the wife of E. L. Bullock, and eldest daughter of T. Holyoake, surgeon, Kinver, aged 38.

On the 14th inst., at Glasgow, Daniel Walker, of Broughty Ferry, Assistant Inspector of Factories.

On July 23, at Arequipa, Peru, Rachel, daughter of the late John Ogilvie, Dundee, and wife of James R. Balfour, Valparaiso, aged 31 years.

On the 12th inst., at Ardchattan Priory, Argyleshire, Jane Elizabeth Mary, widow of Strachan Irving Popham, Esq., and daughter of the late Colonel Campbell, of Ardchattan.

On the 16th inst., at Dalston, London, of paralysis, Sarah, wife of Benjamin Puckridge, in her 84th year. Friends will kindly accept this announcement.

On the 16th inst., at 10, Eaton-place, the Dowager Lady Cooper, in her 77th year.

On the 19th ult., at Simla, Florianne Margaret, wife of C. Clayton, Esq., Royal Artillery, and eldest daughter of the late Sir John Campbell, Bart., of Ardnamurchan, Argyleshire.

 The charge for the insertion of Births, Marriages, or Deaths is Five Shillings for each announcement.

CALENDAR FOR THE WEEK ENDING SEPT. 28.

SUNDAY, SEPT. 22.

Fourteenth Sunday after Trinity.
Abdul-Hamid, Sultan of Turkey, born, 1842.
Morning Lessons: 2 Kings ix., Galatians i. Evening Lessons: 2 Kings x. to 32, or xiii; Luke i. to 26.
Whitehall, 11 a.m. and 3 p.m., Rev. William Hulton.
St. James's, noon, Rev. A. Sitwell.
St. Paul's Cathedral, 10.30, Rev. J. V. Povah. Minor Canon; 3.15 p.m., the Bishop of Rupert's Land; 7 p.m., Rev. J. W. Bennett, Vicar of St. Paul's, Hampstead.
Westminster Abbey, 10 a.m., Rev. A. Plummer, Master of University College, Durham; 3 p.m., Rev. Canon Duckworth.
Savoy, closed till Oct. 13.

MONDAY, SEPT. 23.

The Planet Neptune discovered by Galle (in conformity with the calculations of Adams and Leverrier), 1846.

TUESDAY, SEPT. 24.

Board of Trade inquiry at Poplar respecting the wreck of the Princess Alice saloon-steamer, noon.
Equal day and night.
Races: Newmarket, Lanark.

WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 25.

Royal Toxophilite Society (West Berks Handicap).

THURSDAY, SEPT. 26.

New Moon, 2.10 p.m.
Hemel Hempstead Poultry and Pigeon Show (two days).
Royal Toxophilite Society (extra target).

FRIDAY, SEPT. 27.

Quekett Microscopical Club, 8 p.m.
Oswestry Poultry and Dog Show.

SATURDAY, SEPT. 28.

Jewish year 5639 begins.
Royal Academy of Music: annual opening address by the Principal, Professor Macfarren, 3 p.m.
Election of Lord Mayor of London; the new Sheriffs sworn in.
Royal Alfred Yacht Club: closing cruise.

THE WEATHER.

RESULTS OF METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS AT THE KEW OBSERVATORY OF THE ROYAL SOCIETY.

Lat. 51° 28′ 6″ N.; Long. 0° 10′ 47″ W.; Height above Sea, 34 feet.

DAY.	DAILY MEANS OF Barometer Corrected.	Temperature of the Air.	Dew Point.	Relative Humidity.	Amount of Cloud.	THERMOM. Maximum read at 10 P.M.	Minimum read at 10 P.M.	WIND. General Direction.	Movement in 24 hours ending at 10 A.M.	Highest Reading in hours read at 10 A.M. next morning.
	Inches.	°	°	0-10		°	°		Miles.	In.
September 11	30·207	57·7	54·3	·69	2	71·1	46·9	NE. S. SW.	50	0·000
12	30·057	54·7	48·9	·82	6	68·3	45·7	SW. W. NW.	171	0·010
13	29·094	54·2	44·7	·72	2	64·3	44·4	WNW. NW.	119	0·000
14	29·977	56·2	51·5	·85	6	68·1	44·6	NW. W. WSW.	103	0·010
15	29·668	59·0	52·1	·73	—	65·0	44·3	SW.	463	0·100
16	29·887	55·1	39·6	·59	7	61·1	49·5	SW. W. WSW.	367	0·000
17	29·939	59·3	54·6	·86	9	65·7	50·9	SW.	353	0·250

The following are the readings of the meteorological instruments for the above days, in order, at ten o'clock a.m.:—

Barometer (in inches) corrected ..	30·254	30·036	30·106	30·015	29·814	29·776	29·981
Temperature of Air ..	56·5°	63·5°	56·6°	56·5°	62·3°	57·8°	60·2°
Tension of Evaporation ..	55·3°	57·9°	50·3°	53·2°	57·7°	50·9°	55·7
Direction of Wind ..	NE.	W.	NNW.	WSW.	SW.	W.	SW.

TIMES OF HIGH WATER AT LONDON BRIDGE
FOR THE WEEK ENDING SEPTEMBER 28.

Sunday.	Monday.	Tuesday.	Wednesday.	Thursday.	Friday.	Saturday.
M h m 9 20	A h m 10 9	M h m 10 51	A h m 11 30	M h m —	A h m 0 10	M h m 1 0	A h m 1 37	M h m 2 0	A h m 2 18	M h m 2 33	A h m 2 53	M h m 3 12	A h m 3 38	M h m 3 58	A h m 4 28	M h m 5 5

MR. and Mrs. GERMAN REED'S ENTERTAINMENT will RECOPEN on MONDAY, SEPT. 30, with DOUBLEDAY'S WILL, THE LABIS EXHIBITION, and AN ARTFUL AUTOMATON.—ST. GEORGE'S HALL, Langham-place.

FOURTEENTH CONSECUTIVE YEAR IN ONE UNBROKEN SEASON.
ST. JAMES'S HALL, PICCADILLY.
THE
MOORE and BURGESS MINSTRELS.
All the year round.
Every Night at Eight, and on every Monday, Wednesday, and Saturday at Three and Eight also.

THIS COMPANY NOW BEARS THE PROUD DISTINCTION OF BEING THE OLDEST ESTABLISHED AND MOST SUCCESSFUL UPON THE EARTH.

It is also the source whence all imitators obtain the salient features of the charming and popular Entertainment now universally associated with the names of Moore and Burgess.

THE NEW AND EXCELLENT PROGRAMME performed for the first time last week will be repeated until notification of another change is given.

Private Boxes, £6.; Sofa Stalls, 3s.; Area, 2s.; Gallery, 1s. No fees. Places can be secured at Austin's Office, St. James's Hall, daily, from Nine a.m., without extra charge.

MASKELYNE and COOKE, EGYPTIAN HALL, EVERY EVENING at Eight; TUESDAY, THURSDAY, and SATURDAY Afternoons at Three. A Programme of inexplicable Illusions and Mechanical Wonders. Music by Mechanism is Mr. Maskelyne's latest and greatest achievement. The performances of Fantuzzi, the Cornet-Player, and Labial on the Euphonium, are just now the attraction and talk of the entire kingdom, the Press having spoken in terms of unqualified praise. Private Boxes, from £1s. to £2 guineas; Stalls, 5s. and 3s.; Admission, 2s. and 1s.—W. MORTON, Manager.

THE ILLUSTRATED PARIS UNIVERSAL EXHIBITION.

An English Edition of

L'EXPOSITION UNIVERSELLE DE 1878 ILLUSTRÉE,

in continuation of the Illustrated Journal issued in 1867 under the authority of the Imperial Commission, is issued every Tuesday,

PRICE THREEPENCE.

PUBLISHED AT THE OFFICE OF

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS,

198, STRAND, LONDON.

All Country Orders to be supplied through the London Agents.

THEATRE ROYAL, DRURY-LANE.—Sole Lessee and Manager, F. B. Chatterton.—This Theatre, redecorated, will OPEN for the SEASON SATURDAY, SEPT. 28, when will be presented Shakespeare's romantic Play A WINTER'S TALE. Scenery by William Beverley. Leontes, Mr. Charles Dillon; Hermione, Miss Wallis; Perdita, Miss Fowler; and Paulina, Mrs. Hermann Vezin. Preceded, at seven o'clock, by Lecocq's Operetta ANGELA; or, A Woman's Wit. Conclude with the Comic Ballet LORD DUNDREARY. Box-Office open Ten till Five daily.

THE TWO ORPHANS, with all the Original Effects and Powerful Cast, on MONDAY NEXT, SEPT. 23, and Every Evening at Eight. Box-office open daily from Eleven to Five. No booking fees.

DORÉ'S GREAT WORK, "THE BRAZEN SERPENT," "CHRIST LEAVING THE PRÆTORIUM," and "CHRIST ENTERING THE TEMPLE," each 35 ft. by 22 ft.; with "Dream of Pilate's Wife," "Soldiers of the Cross," &c., at the DORÉ GALLERY, 35, New Bond-street, W. Daily, 10 to 6. 1s.

ELIJAH WALTON.—EXHIBITION of ISLE OF WIGHT and other WATER-COLOUR DRAWINGS, chiefly Alpine and Eastern, NOW OPEN at BURLINGTON GALLERY, 191, Piccadilly. Ten till Six. Admission, including Catalogue, 1s.

CRYSTAL PALACE PICTURE-GALLERY. The GALLERY is now REOPENED for the Season with a NEW COLLECTION of BRITISH and FOREIGN PICTURES for SALE.—For Particulars, apply to Mr C. W. Wass, Crystal Palace.

PROFESSOR TENNANT'S LECTURES on MINERALOGY, APPLIED TO GEOLOGY AND THE ARTS, at KING'S COLLEGE. Two Courses are given, one on Wednesday and Friday Mornings, from Nine to Ten, and the other on Thursday Evenings, from Eight to Nine. The public are admitted on paying the College fees. The Lectures begin Friday, Oct. 4, and terminate at Easter. They are illustrated by a large series of specimens, chiefly from his private collection. Persons unable to attend public lectures can have private instruction in Mineralogy and Geology at Professor Tennant's residence, 149, Strand, W.C.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

LONDON: SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 21, 1878.

As a contrast to a dark, lowering, and storm-threatening sky, one may feel a grateful sense of relief in gazing upon a misty canopy of dull, monotonous, leaden grey. It is not what would be generally chosen for its own sake. Sunshine is better, and much to be preferred. But we must take what comes where no efforts of ours can do much to alter the scene. The political firmament, just now, over almost the whole of the Eastern Hemisphere, is of a sombre hue; it is not stormy; it indicates no immediate danger; it may, perhaps, gradually become brighter; but it is not what—from an English standpoint, at least—it was expected to have become before now. We are driven to the conclusion by the constantly recurring facts, that there has been no permanent settlement of the Eastern Question. Even if we could look forward to a solid pacification in the territories of the Ottoman Empire—of which we will speak a word or two anon—there would appear to be, still farther East, a cropping-up above the surface of a new but yet similar cause of disturbance. The spirit of militarism has got into the ascendant. In India it overbears the civilian sentiment. It sees dangers of almost every kind in rest, in letting things be as they are. It yearns to anticipate future possibilities by immediate enterprise. Such men as Lords Canning, Lawrence, Mayo, Northbrook, prosecuting as they did in harmonic succession a policy of abstinence from restless intermeddling beyond our Indian Frontier, are now regarded as of little authority. Apprehensions of Russian ambition, stirred by the late Mission to Cabul and by its ostentatiously friendly reception by Shere Ali, have resulted in a state of feeling among the governing class in Hindostan not altogether dissimilar from that which pervaded France under the Second Empire—a desire, namely, to break bounds and to take possession beyond the existing frontier. The proposed mission of Sir Neville Chamberlain to the Ruler of Afghanistan is a departure from the traditional policy of the Government at Calcutta since the mutiny, and it is, perhaps, as fully characterised by danger as by novelty. It may prove successful, or it may not. The most threatening feature of it is that, however successful in respect of its immediate object, it cannot be final. Annexation will again become the order of the Empire, and will gradually move westward towards Persia, Armenia, and Asia Minor.

Nor do matters look much more pleasant nearer home. The Constantinople Convention does not promise to result in the advantages which its authors doubtless designed. As yet, it must be admitted, no sufficient time has elapsed since its signature for its practical development. The Sultan, perhaps, means honestly, so far as he understands the scope of his undertaking. We are told that he and his Grand Council have decided upon accepting the sketch of Reform presented to him some time since by the English Ambassador, and there would seem to be a probability that Midhat Pasha will eventually be appointed as Governor-General of the Ottoman Asiatic Territories for a term of years. But the system of rule needing to be displaced is old, and administrative purity is objected to by greedy Pashas, and is scarcely demanded with anything approaching to zeal by the suffering inhabitants. The work of transformation, if ever it is begun, will necessarily proceed at a very slow pace, if it be allowed to proceed at all; and it is not unlikely that upon this United Kingdom will devolve, in some form or other, sooner or later, no small share of the expense which will be demanded by the experiment.

We come now to Europe. The rôle assumed by Turkey, as it regards those stipulations of the Treaty of Berlin which affect European Provinces, or, at any rate, the part actually played by her, is one with which she has been long familiar. Perhaps, no Government on earth is so well qualified as is the Sublime Porte to enact a scheme of passive obstruction while professing its agreement to active co-operation. Take the case of the Austrian occupation of Bosnia. Ostensibly the Porte is desirous of smoothing the way for the advance of the Austrian troops. Really, the Mohammedan landowners in the province dispute the advance step by step, and take no notice of the remonstrances they receive from Constantinople. But the most curious part of the affair is that the "insurgents," as they are called, are found everywhere to be in possession of ample and even profuse stores of arms of the most improved pattern, and of abundant ammunition. Who has supplied them? It would perhaps be difficult to say. Not Austria, it may be supposed; not Russia; certainly not France, or Italy, or England. All the circumstances of the case being taken into consideration, it is doing no injustice to Turkey to conclude that she has, somehow or other, made herself responsible for this provision to her recalcitrant subjects. Look, again, at Greece. By the Treaty of Berlin the Sultan was "invited" to agree with the Government of that little Kingdom in the rectification of its frontier, or, in case of failure in negotiation, to submit to mediation. Nothing of the kind is done. The Sultan is said to be unwilling to part with an inch of territory; and, what is even more serious, the Powers, influenced thereto, it is said, by the British Government, evince a disinclination to take part in giving effect to the Berlin Treaty, so far as Greece is concerned. Albania is in insurrection to prevent any portion of what she regards as her own territory from coming into the hands of Montenegro; and, on the whole, it is true that no part of the late treaty is being carried out without disturbance, or threats of disturbance.

Such is the situation at the present moment. It is discouraging, but there is no sufficient ground for inferring that it is hopeless. Meanwhile, however, it calls for the most cautious treatment; and it is doubtful whether violent remedies do not tend rather to complicate than to remove difficulties. Of one thing, however, we could wish to be able to speak in terms of full assurance. It is that England may preserve untarnished her national reputation for uprightness. Great allowance, we are aware, should be made to those who have the conduct of Foreign Affairs for the perplexing nature of the obstacles thrown in their way, as well as for the political miscalculations for which it is quite possible they have made themselves responsible. But honour is not necessarily associated with success. It is in our own hands. It is within our own command. It is not subject to caprices and chances beyond our own control. If that be preserved immaculate, the country can afford to bear the fading away of many illusory prospects touching its merely material interests. The Government is not wholly free from peril in this direction. But of all the disturbing elements in conflict arising out of the Eastern Question this, we earnestly hope, is the least likely to be eventually embodied in palpable results.

THE COURT.

The Queen, with Princess Beatrice and Prince Leopold, continues at Balmoral Castle. Princess Louise of Lorne and the Marquis of Lorne have passed upwards of a week on a visit to her Majesty. On Saturday last the Queen, accompanied by Princess Louise of Lorne and Prince Leopold, drove round the Lion's Face. Subsequently her Majesty held a Council, at which were present Prince Leopold, the Marquis of Lorne, the Right Hon. R. A. Cross, and the Right Hon. Sir T. Biddulph. Mr. Charles Lennox Peel was Clerk of the Council. At the Council it was ordered that Parliament be further prorogued to Saturday, Nov. 30 next. The Right Hon. R. A. Cross and Mr. Peel left the castle. The Queen went out on Tuesday morning, accompanied by Princess Louise (Marchioness of Lorne). Her Majesty in the afternoon, with Princess Beatrice and the Dowager Marchioness of Ely, drove to Abergeldie Castle to visit the Prince of Wales, and was there joined by Princess Louise, who drove to Abergeldie with Prince Leopold. The Prince of Wales arrived at Abergeldie Castle, and dined with her Majesty in the evening. The Queen invested the Marquis of Lorne, K.T., as Knight Grand Cross of the Most Distinguished Order of St. Michael and St. George. The Marquis of Lorne and Princess Louise left Balmoral for Inverary, the seat of the Duke of Argyll, on Wednesday morning. The Queen, accompanied by the members of the Royal family, has made various excursions in the neighbourhood of Balmoral.

The Right Hon. Sir Thomas and the Hon. Lady Biddulph, the Right Hon. R. A. Cross, the Rev. Archibald Campbell, and Lieutenant-Colonel Clarke have dined with her Majesty.

Her Majesty has subscribed 100 guineas to the Mansion House Fund for the relief of the sufferers by the Abercarne mine disaster.

THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES.

The Prince of Wales left Marlborough House on Monday en route for the Highlands. His Royal Highness arrived at Perth on Tuesday morning, and after breakfasting at the railway station resumed his journey northwards, arriving at Ballater at a quarter past three. A guard of honour of a detachment of the 79th Highlanders, under the command of Captain Gordon, was in attendance. The Prince himself drove along the south of the Dee to Abergeldie Castle. The Princess, with her daughters, will join his Royal Highness at Abergeldie upon her return from Rumpenheim.

The Duke of Connaught arrived in town on Tuesday from Potsdam.

Lord Cochrane, the eldest son of the Earl of Dundonald, was married at Llandulas church on Wednesday to Miss Bamford Hesketh, of Gwyrch Castle, Denbighshire. Lord and Lady Cochrane left Abergele by the afternoon train for Cefn Park, Sir Roger Palmer's seat, en route for the Continent. Included in the wedding presents were a silver candelabrum from the Denbighshire tenantry, and gifts from Sir Stafford and Lady Northcote, the Marquis and Marchioness of Exeter, the Countess of Longford, Sir Harvey and Lady Bruce, and Earl Beauchamp.

The marriage of Captain Alfred Egerton and the Hon. Mary Ormsby Gore, eldest daughter of Lord and Lady Harlech, will take place early in October at Oswestry. In consequence of recent bereavements in both families the marriage will be strictly private.

METROPOLITAN NEWS.

The Lady Mayoress resumed her receptions at the Mansion House on Tuesday afternoon, and will continue them on Tuesdays, Oct. 1 and 15, and Nov. 5, from three to five o'clock.

In pursuance of an old annual custom, the wardens and court of the Fruiterers' Company waited last Tuesday on the Lord Mayor and the Lady Mayoress at the Mansion House and presented them with a gift of fruit.

Mr. Stubington has been chosen a Common Councilman for Cripplegate Ward, in the place of the late Mr. Turner; and Mr. Wood for Coleman-street Ward, in the room of Mr. Colls, deceased.

The teams of horses belonging to Mr. Carleton V. Blyth, which have worked the coach between London and Oxford this summer, were sold at Tattersall's on Monday. They realised a total of 3305 guineas, and brought an average of 68½ guineas.

The Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress entertained on the 12th inst. at luncheon M. Léon Say, the distinguished French Minister of Finance, who has been on a brief visit to the metropolis to study the telegraph and postal system.

At a meeting of the creditors of Mr. William Tinsley (Tinsley Brothers, publishers, Catherine-street), held on Tuesday, it was resolved that the terms proposed by Mr. Tinsley—a dividend of 2s. 6d. in the pound, extending in respect of payment over a certain time—be accepted.

The weekly return of metropolitan pauperism shows that the total number of paupers at the end of the second week in September was 76,358, of whom 38,783 were in workhouses, and 37,575 received outdoor relief. Compared with the corresponding weeks in 1877, 1876, and 1875, these figures show a decrease of 47, 725, and 5199 respectively. The vagrants relieved on the last day of the week numbered 447, of whom 369 were men, 105 women, and 33 children under sixteen.

At the meeting of the Paddington Vestry on Tuesday a letter was read from Dr. Hinckes Bird, formerly surgeon of the Paddington Rifle Volunteers, calling attention to the salubrious effects of planting plane-trees along the public thoroughfares, irrespective of the pleasant shade they afforded in summer heat, and offering to head a subscription-list with £100 to start the movement of planting trees in some of the public thoroughfares of Paddington. The subject was referred to the works committee to report thereon.

The City Press states that Mr. John Morris Saunders, an old commercial traveller, who travelled in recent years for Messrs. Jones and Co., of 100, Wood-street, has, in the absence of any near relatives, divided his property, about £12,000, between three institutions in the prosperity of which he had long evinced much interest—namely, the Linen and Woollen Drapers, Silk Mercers, Lacemen, Haberdashers, and Hosiers' Institution; the Commercial Travellers' Benevolent Institution; and the Commercial Travellers' Schools.

The ninth establishment of the Coffee Tavern Company has been opened at 119, High-street, Stoke Newington. The house is handsomely fitted up, and well supplied with the usual accommodation. It has quite as smart an appearance outside as an ordinary gin palace. The formal opening was presided over on the 12th inst. by Mr. B. Lucraft; and there were also present Mr. Pope, chairman of the company, the other directors, and Mr. E. C. Barnard, hon. sec. Several ladies were present. A great portion of the success of the undertaking is due to the support given to it by Mrs. Stewart and other ladies.

On Monday afternoon the Rev. Dr. Rigg, President of the Wesleyan Conference, presided at an inaugural service in connection with the transfer of the two schools for the daughters of Wesleyan ministers to a new establishment in Clapham Park-road. The service was held at Clapham Chapel, in the presence of a large number of Wesleyan ministers, as well as a numerous congregation. The new school consists of two mansions thrown into one, and contains between fifty and and sixty apartments, surrounded by spacious grounds. It is intended to accommodate seventy-five young ladies, who will be supplied with a first-class education. A scheme for the education of the female children of the ministers originated in 1869, when two schools were established for that purpose. These have now been amalgamated into one institution, which has been called Queenswood School.

Last week 2373 births and 1259 deaths were registered in London. Allowing for increase of population, the births exceeded by 35, while the deaths were 106 below, the average numbers in the corresponding week of the last ten years. There were 37 fatal cases of whooping-cough, which showed a further considerable decline from the numbers returned in recent weeks, and only exceeded the corrected average by 3. The fatal cases of scarlet fever, 27, were 52 below the corrected average. The deaths from diphtheria, 13, again showed a marked excess. The deaths referred to fever, which had been 16, 23, and 25 in the three preceding weeks, further rose to 32 last week, although they were 6 below the average. The deaths referred to diarrhœa and simple cholera, which had declined steadily from 494 to 124 in the six preceding weeks, further fell to 90 last week, and were 45 below the corrected average. The fatal cases of smallpox, which had been but 6 and 3 in the two previous weeks, rose again to 7 last week. In the Greater London 2908 births and 1519 deaths were registered, equal to annual rates of 34·1 and 17·8 per 1000 of the population. The mean temperature of the air was 59·1 deg., being 1·3 deg. above the average in the corresponding week of the sixty years 1814-73. The duration of registered sunshine during the week was 40·1 hours, the sun being above the horizon 90·0 hours.

The Extra Supplement.

"THE HEIGHT OF THE SEASON."

From May to July is the breeding season for those myriads of sea-fowl, gulls and guillemots, kittiwakes, puffins, and razor-bills, that sit on their eggs along the shelves and ridges, and upon every peak and point, of the lofty and precipitous cliffs on the northern coasts of Scotland. Mr. S. Read, as our readers know, is an Artist not less familiar with those scenes of wild sublimity than with the picturesque mediæval architecture of old towns and churches throughout all Western Europe, which he has so often delineated for our admiration; and we may rely upon the truth of his view of a magnificent swarming-place for the multitude of birds in "The Height of the Season." One might fancy this wonderful recess of the seashore, with its countless feathered inhabitants, to be a peculiar stronghold of their kind, which a vast army, keeping its numerous sentinels ever on the alert, has occupied for seasonable protection; as the poet has described it, in a passage which may here be quoted:—

A million guards this fortress keep,
That rises from the ocean deep;
Its walls, sheer up, are built so high,
That but a narrow strip of sky
Looks through a roofless space above,
From which, if once the clouds remove,
Few rays of sunshine ever light
So far beneath that awful height,
Touching the floor of water green
With but a moment's brighter sheen;
Outside those walls, incessant rave
The forces of the wind and wave,
And wide expands the Northern Sea
With heaven's wide circle, full and free;
But there within, the swarming crowd
Of winged people, screaming loud,
Thronging, in many a thick-packed flock,
The jutting margins of the rock,
Find scarcely room to flit through air,
And seem, in huddled conclave there,
With mustered weapons, claw and beak,
In numbers, close-arrayed, to seek
Defence against some passing harm;
As human cities, in alarm,
When fiercely comes their nation's foe,
And trumpeters the signal blow,
Collect, in castle keep and tower,
The serried ranks of martial power.

This interesting scene may often be witnessed, in summer, along those romantic shores round by Cape Wrath, which another poet has called "the Wild West Coast of the North Countree."

THE AUSTRIAN CONQUEST OF BOSNIA.

The capture of Serajevo, the capital of Bosnia, by the army of General Philippovich, on the 19th ult., is the subject of our front-page Engraving, from a Sketch by Mr. J. Bell, our Special Artist. This represents the incident of the storming of the Yellow Battery, sometimes called the Saluting Battery, the position of which was shown in our Artist's more general view of the Bombardment of Serajevo, engraved for our last week's publication. Some accounts of the conflict, and of the military operations preceding it, have already been given to our readers. The city of Serajevo, or Bosna Serai, on the river Bosna, is the capital of both Bosnia and Herzegovina, and is the seat of the civil and military government of those provinces. It has above 30,000 inhabitants, the majority of whom are Mohammedans; there are about 5000 Greek Catholics, 1000 Roman Catholics, 3500 Jews, 1000 gipsies, and 3000 foreign colonists of various religions. It is situated on three rivers, and its numerous bridges, islands, gardens, mosques, and minarets give it a very picturesque appearance. Serajevo was founded in 1465 by the Bosnian nobles Sokolovic and Zlatarovic, who were the first to accept Mohammedanism. The palace (called Serai, whence the name of Serajevo) was built by the Vizier Usrenbeg. In 1480 Serajevo was captured and burnt by the army of the Hungarian King Matthias, and in 1698 it was again captured by the Austrian troops under Prince Eugene of Savoy. From a commercial point of view, Serajevo is the centre of the Bosnian trade; most of the goods which are destined for Bosnia from Roumelia, or from Central and Western Europe, come to Serajevo, and are thence dispatched to all parts of the country.

News from Bosnia states that the Austrian reinforcements have commenced the offensive against the enemy's intrenchments on the banks of the Save, without any decisive results at present. Bjelina is provisioned and fortified to stand a siege. It is said that the Austrian losses from Sept. 4 to Sept. 9 exceed one hundred officers and 3000 men. The main strength of the insurgents is known to be within the parallelogram comprised between Doboj, Serajevo, Zwornik, and Bjelina. The Austrian operations on that side will be conducted from Brod, and not from Serajevo. The Austrian advance will be resumed towards the 26th, and will be conducted with the utmost vigour. The Bosnian town of Novi Brcka, on the Save was bombarded last Saturday.

According to advices from the Drina received at Pesth, there are still 40,000 insurgents in Eastern Bosnia alone. The main force musters 25,000, with twelve guns, and is in the Spretcha valley. At Zwornik, on the Servian frontier, there are 4500, with four guns; at Doljna Tuzla 5000, with six guns; and at Gratchanin 4000, with four guns. Amongst these 40,000 men there are about 18,000 Redifs and a large number of Albanians. The insurgent positions between Kotorsko and Doboj are strongly fortified. At Sienitza there are several thousand men well provisioned.

The whole Austrian force in Bosnia and Herzegovina and on the frontier is now 200,000 men. The insurgents in the Possavina district, in the vicinity of the Servian frontier, will be taken in the rear by the Austrian troops from three points—namely, by General Szapary, who has been strongly reinforced, marching from Doboj; by a detachment from Briska, where a strong corps is stationed; and by a force under General Philippovich. It is expected that Behacs and the Krajina district, to the west, will also be occupied, notwithstanding the repulse suffered by Major-General Zach, who lost 400 men at Behacs.

According to reports from Turkish sources, the Albanian forces are divided into three branches—the first, with headquarters at Kossovo, intends acting with the Bosnians and defending the pass of Mitrovitza; the second, with headquarters at Janina, aims at resisting incursions from Greece; the third, with head-quarters at Uskub, proposes to march on Kustendil and co-operate with the Rhodope insurgents.

Waterloo Bridge is to be free to the public in the second week in October next.

The Globe understands that the dignity of an earldom is to be conferred upon the Lord Chancellor, who will take the title of Earl Cairns.

On Monday the first stone of a new workhouse at Sheffield, to cost £180,000, was laid by Alderman Searle, chairman of board of guardians.

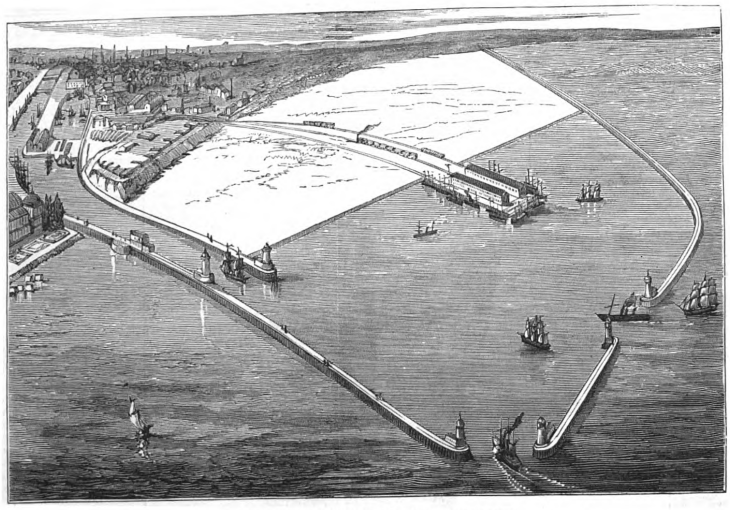
THE EISTEDDFOD AT BIRKENHEAD.

On Tuesday morning the Royal National Eisteddfod and Musical Festival, Choir of Arthur, and Gorsedd of Bards of the Isle of Britain, was opened at Birkenhead in a pavilion specially erected—the preliminary ceremony of the Gorsedd taking place in Birkenhead Park on the previous day. Mr. J. Osborne Morgan, Q.C., M.P., presided on the first day; Mr. David MacIver, M.P., on the second day; Sir Watkin W. Wynne, M.P., on the third day; and Lord Aberdare on the fourth and closing day of the Eisteddfod. The competitions were of the customary varied character. A large number of prizes were offered, including £50 and a medal for the conductor for a competition of Welsh choirs of not less than sixty voices, £100 for the best English essay on the Present State of the Welsh Nation, and £150 and a gold medal to the conductor for an all-comer competition of choirs of between 100 and 150 voices.

Owing probably to the wet weather, there was not a numerous company on Tuesday. The National Anthem having been sung, Mr. Osborne Morgan gave his address, which was a vindication of the Welsh people and of Eisteddfodai from the sneers and criticisms of English speakers and writers. A number of competitions in singing and pianoforte-playing followed, Professor Macfarren, Dr. Parry, of the University College of Wales, Mr. John Thomas, and Mr. Brinley Richards being the principal adjudicators. Prizes were also awarded for literary compositions. The following were some of the awards:—Best translation into Welsh of Macaulay's "Essay on Addison," the Rev. Dr. Pan Jones, Mostyn, fine guineas; best elegy upon Welsh celebrities, Thomas E. Davies, Pontypridd, 15 guineas; best ballad, David Rees, Swansea, three guineas; best historical song, W. H. Prince, Birkenhead, five guineas; performance of Beethoven's sonata appassionata, R. W. Davies, Birkenhead, four guineas; Miss Lewis, Birkenhead, one guinea; best translation of Welsh into English, Griffith Jones, Carnarvon, 10 guineas; best anthem on Psalm cvii., W. T. Rees, Llanelly, 10 guineas; best Welsh dictionary of philosophical and scientific terms, E. T. Lloyd, University College of Wales, £6 and medal; best vocal rendering of Macfarren's air, "I rejoice in my youth," Miss Lily Price, Birkenhead, three guineas. The competitions included, as a "special subject," a prize for the best English essay on "the present state of the Welsh nation, more especially in its industrial, literary, and social aspects, together with the best means of securing its progress in those respects." Several essays were contributed, but the Rev. John Rhys, M.A., of Oxford, one of the adjudicators, having reported that all were of inferior merit, no award was given, and the prize of £100 was offered for competition next year.

In the evening an Eisteddfod concert was given in the pavilion, the leading artistes being Madame Edith Wynne, Madame Patey, Mr. Sims Reeves, and Signor Foli. The principal feature was the production of the new cantata, "The Fairy Tribe," by D. Emlyn Evans, which gained the prize at Carnarvon last year.

After the concert was concluded an alarming accident, fortunately unattended by loss of life, occurred. The floor of the ladies' cloak-room gave way with the rush of people in it, and about twenty ladies fell through to a distance of eight or ten feet. Medical aid was promptly rendered, and the injured persons were conveyed home in cabs.

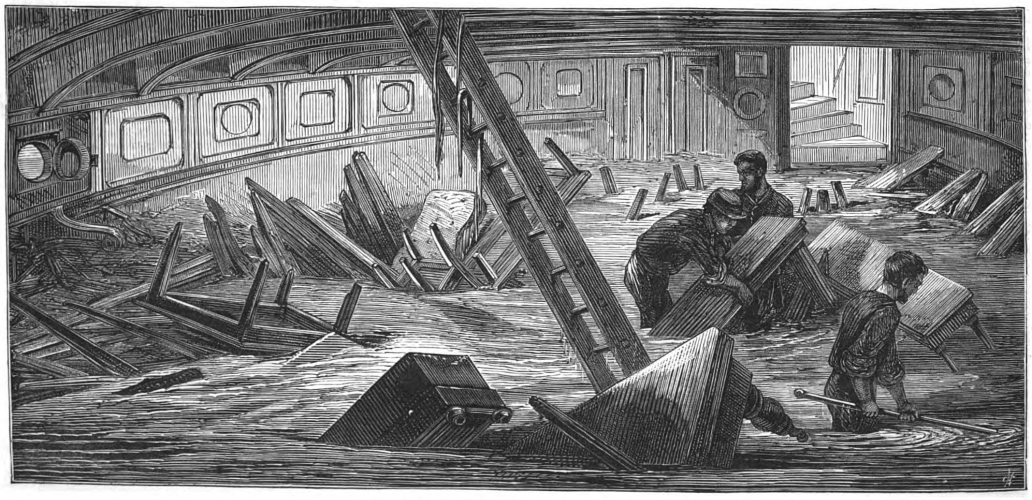


The proceedings were resumed on Wednesday morning, the business of the day being preceded by a Gorsedd in the park. Mr. David MacIver, M.P., presided. Before the proceedings began Mr. Brinley Richards announced that during the day the audience would have an opportunity of contributing to a fund for the relief of the sufferers by the Abercarne explosion, boxes being placed in various parts of the building. The meeting opened with the singing of the air "God Bless the Prince of Wales" by the choir and audience, after which an address to the chairman was read by Mr. Ellis Davies, of Liscard. The chairman then gave a brief address on the value of Eisteddfodau in cultivating the musical tastes and national spirit of the people. The Eisteddfod song having been sung by Llen Llwyfo, various awards were made—amongst them being a prize of five guineas to H. T. Davies, Pwlheli, for the best essay on bravery; 25 guineas and a good medal to William R. Davies, Carnarvon, for the best critical essay on "Locke's Philosophy;" seven guineas to T. S. Roberts, of the University College, Wales, for a translation into Welsh of "The Raven." Among the prizes offered was one of 20 guineas and a medal for the best oil painting—subject, "The Interior of a Welsh Cottage, with Blind Harper playing before a group of figures." Mr. Philip H. Rathbone, one of the adjudicators, announced that of the three works sent in none was of sufficient merit to justify them in awarding the prize. The prize of 10 guineas and a medal for the best pianoforte sonata in three movements was awarded to W. R. Reece, of Huntingdon. In a spirited competition on the Welsh harp the prize of five guineas was awarded to John Elias Davies, of Bethesda. Dr. Macfarren, in awarding the prize of four guineas for quartet singing, said he rejoiced very much in the great musical talent which he recognised in this part of the country. The principal competition was that by the choirs for £100, and a gold medal to the conductor. The prize was open to all comers, conditional upon their being not less than one hundred voices and not more than 150. The pieces for competition were, "To man God's universal law" ("Samson"), Handel; "O Lord, are thy decrees" ("Jephtha"), Handel; and "As the hart pants" (Psalm xlii.), Mendelssohn. The adjudicators were Dr. Macfarren, Dr. Parry, and Mr. John Thomas. Five choirs—one from Aberdare, the Rhondda choir, Merthyr Tydvil, the North End Liverpool Philharmonic Society, the Eryri Choral Union, Maesfawr, Carnarvon, and the Newtown Choral Union, Montgomeryshire. They all competed in the order given, and the Eryri Choral Union, Mr. Owen Griffith (Eryri Eryri) conductor, was awarded the prize.

In a few copies of our Paper this week the death of the Dowager Countess Cowper is recorded in the Obituary column. We are happy to state that the announcement is incorrect. The Countess is at Wrest Park, Beds, in her usual health.

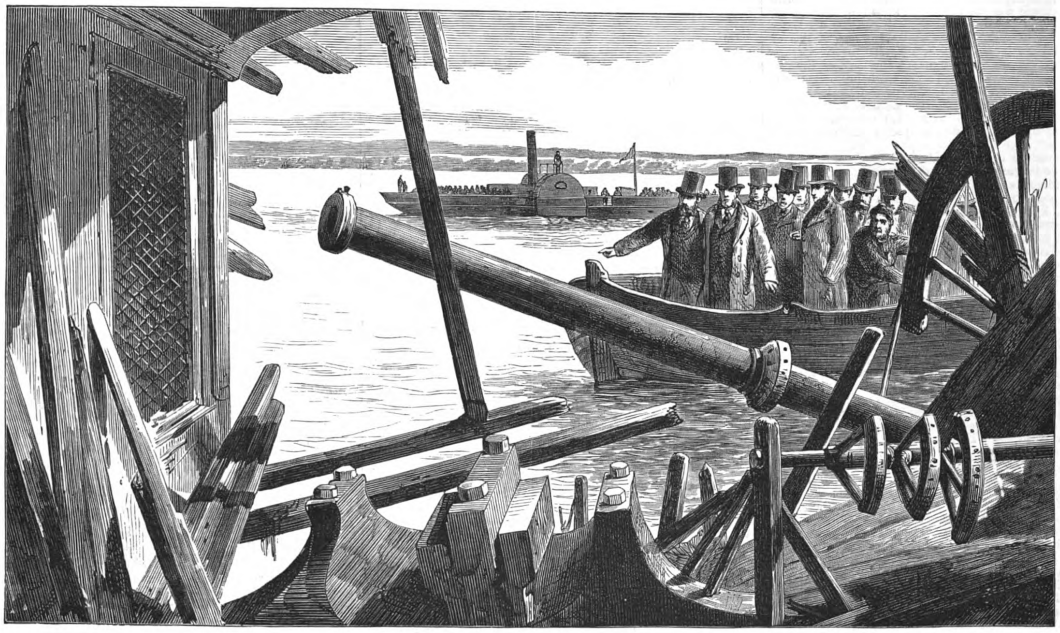
F. and C. Osler, of London and Birmingham, have been awarded a gold medal for their exhibits in glass at the Paris Exposition Universelle; and Messrs. F. Buchanan and Co. a gold medal for their steam cane-crushing machinery.

The troops at Aldershott, under the command of Lieutenant-General R. Wardlaw, C.B., on Tuesday marched out to Old Dean-common and Colony, the latter place about ten miles from the camp, and were exercised in the movements of a sham fight.

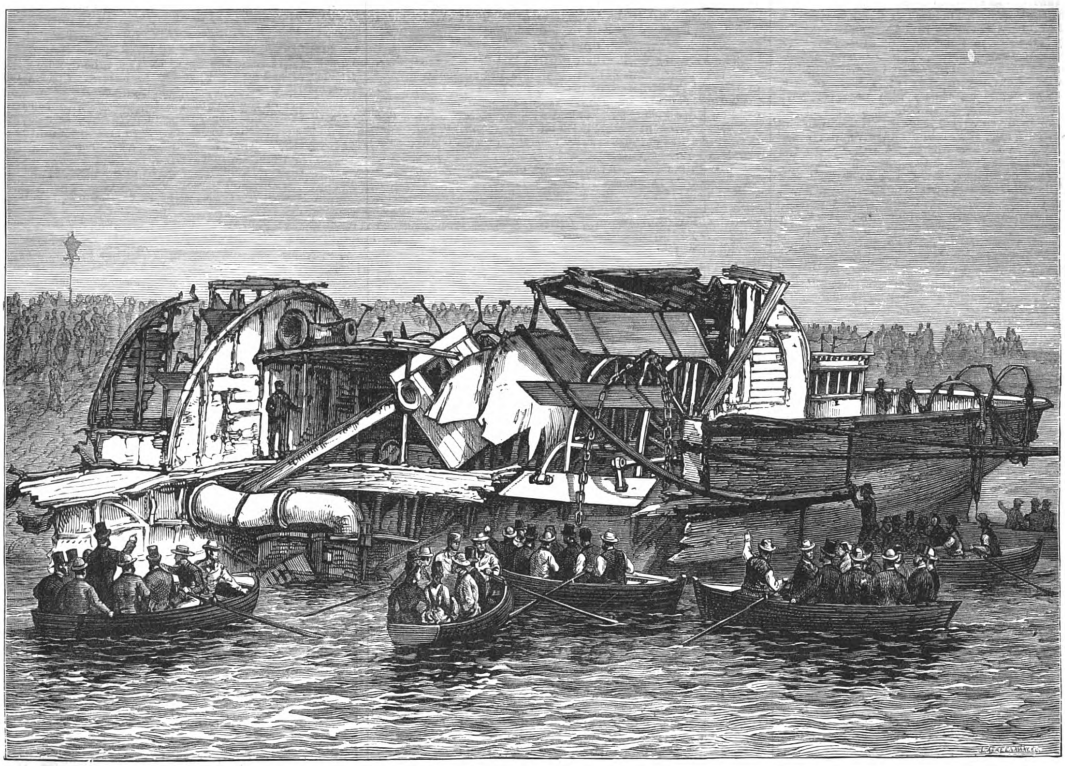


The Duchess of Norfolk will on Wednesday next, the 25th inst., lay the foundation-stone of a drill-hall at Sheffield. Towards the cost the Duke has contributed £3000. A like sum has been subscribed by the officers and honorary members of the Artillery Volunteer Corps, and the balance of £4000 will be raised by the public.

THE PROPOSED NEW HARBOUR AT BOULOGNE.



THE GREAT DISASTER ON THE THAMES: RELICS OF THE DEAD EXPOSED FOR IDENTIFICATION AT WOOLWICH DOCKYARD.



SALOON OF THE PRINCESS ALICE.

THE GREAT DISASTER ON THE THAMES.

THE CORONER'S JURY VISITING THE WRECK.—SKETCHED FROM THE ENGINE-ROOM.

THE AFTER-PART OF THE PRINCESS ALICE ON SHORE BELOW WOOLWICH.

FOREIGN AND COLONIAL NEWS.

FRANCE.

The Duke of Cambridge was received by Marshal MacMahon at the Elysée last Saturday morning, and in the afternoon the Marshal returned the Duke's visit at the Hôtel Bristol. On Monday the Duke dined at the Elysée. Marshal MacMahon invited the Grand Dukes Alexis and Constantine, the general officers of the 4th Army Corps, and the foreign officers who have been attending the manœuvres, to meet his Royal Highness.

Marshal MacMahon reviewed about 55,000 troops at Vincennes on Sunday afternoon. In consequence of the fineness of the weather there was an enormous crowd of spectators. The President of the Republic was accompanied by the Duke of Cambridge, the Grand Dukes Constantine and Alexis of Russia, and all the foreign military attachés.

M. Gambetta is making a tour through the south of France, and delivering on his way short speeches to the municipalities who offer him a welcome. He has assured them that the Republican flag has now been planted so high that nobody would be audacious enough to try to pull it down. At Valence he was welcomed by a deputation of young ladies, and the town was en fête.

The annual meeting of the members of the Iron and Steel Institute was held in Paris on Monday. Six hundred members were present. Mr. Edward Williams, of Middlesborough, the president, having given his opening address, a most interesting address was read by Dr. Siemens, F.R.S., on scientific training in France. A paper was then read in French by M. Jordan, Professor at the École des Mines, on the resources of iron manufacture in France. A long and technical discussion followed, which was chiefly confined to the best process of making coke, and the relative merits of the Belgian oven used in France and the beehive oven used in England. The speakers were M. Frémy, Mr. Lowthian Bell, M.P., Mr. Samuelson, M.P., Messrs. Reilly, Windsor, Richards, Grüner, and Lancaster. On Tuesday the proceedings were opened with a speech by M. Tresca, in which he said that combustibles for smelting purposes would never fail while the sun existed. Three papers were read. The first, by Professor Akerman, of Stockholm, treated of the most recent advances in the manufacture of iron and and steel, as shown by the exhibits in the Paris Exhibition. The second, and by far the most remarkable, by Mr. Adamson, dealt with the mechanical and other properties of iron and mild steel. The third, by a Frenchman, M. Marche, treated of some recent aspects of the steel manufacture. In the discussion that ensued on Mr. Adamson's paper, M. Frémy, M. Grüner, Dr. Siemens, and Mr. Barnaby, Chief Constructor of the British Navy, took a prominent part. Mr. Barnaby said he did not believe steel plates suffered more than iron ones from oxydization, and that the British Government had been induced to use them in future. M. Frémy, on the contrary, said the chief French naval constructor had told him that steel plates gave no satisfaction at all. They were subject to excessive oxydization, and sometimes cracked like bad glass. The members and their friends, to the number of about 250, dined together in the evening at the Continental Hotel. The chair was occupied by the president, Dr. Siemens, who was supported on his right by M. Tresca and on his left by M. Frémy. The toasts of "The Queen," "The President of the French Republic," and of "The Prince and Princess of Wales," were given from the chair, and warmly received. Others of a complimentary character followed, and among the speakers on the occasion were M. Henri Schneider, Professor Jordan, Mr. Holley, Mr. E. Williams, Mr. Samuelson, M.P., Mr. P. Cunliffe Owen, C.B., M. Grüner, and Mr. Henry Chapman. The institute closed its meeting on Wednesday. At the outset of the proceedings M. Jourdan paid a tribute to Mr. Whitell, who had died since the last meeting, and the feeling terms in which he expressed the appreciation of his labours by French engineers elicited a very sympathetic response. Mr. Head then rose, and after expressing the regret of the institute that it was about to lose the services in the chair of Dr. Siemens, whose year of office expired that day, moved that Mr. Edward Williams be elected in his stead. The motion was seconded by Mr. Price, and unanimously agreed to. Mr. Edward Williams, in returning thanks, remarked that the institute could not expect to find in him such a chairman as Dr. Siemens, who was essentially a man of theory, or Mr. Lowthian Bell, who combined theory with practice. He (Mr. Williams) was essentially a practical man, and his year would be a practical year. He trusted that the members of the institution would rally round him and give him every support. The discussion on Mr. Adamson's paper "On the Relative Merits of Steel and Iron for the Sheathing of Ships and the Manufacture of Boilers, Rails, and so forth," was then resumed. The speakers were Messrs. Mitchell, Kitson, Richardson, Greg, Grüner, Crampton, Hollis (United States), Lowthian Bell, and Adamson. A paper on Ponsard's "Fourno-Convertisseur" was read in French by M. Perisse. Owing to the time allotted for the meeting having expired, two papers on "The Lowe Strong Water Gas Processes," by Mr. R. P. Rothwell, of New York, and another on "The Elimination of Phosphorus in Bessemer Converters," by Messrs. Sidney G. Thomas and Percy C. Gilchrist, had to be postponed till the next meeting. Votes of thanks were then passed to the French Mining and Scientific Institutions for their invitation; to the Prince of Wales for his liberality in obtaining for the members free admissions to the Exhibition; to Mr. Cunliffe Owen; to the local French committee; and to Dr. Siemens, for his able conduct in the chair.

Prince Napoleon has been elected President of the Conseil Général of Corsica.

A telegram from Sydney last week says that the revolted natives in New Caledonia having made an unsuccessful attack upon the French troops and the natives friendly to them, the French in their turn attacked the insurgents and completely defeated them, with a loss of 130 in killed and wounded, including the chiefs Attai, Baptiste, and Killik. Another telegram says that Attai and Baptiste have been beheaded, and adds that the punishment of the insurgents continues with the utmost severity.

SPAIN.

The elections for the Provincial Deputations in Spain, which were finished on Thursday week, have resulted in the return of nearly 200 supporters of the Government, against the election of fifty or sixty Opposition candidates.

SWITZERLAND.

The Swiss military manœuvres began on Monday. On Sunday there was a review near Outerwyl, Canton Fribourg, at which many foreign officers and 30,000 spectators were present.

The Federal Council has adopted an ordinance making instruction in gymnastics obligatory for boys in public schools.

A convention was signed at Berne on Tuesday by the representatives of Germany, Austria, Spain, France, Italy, Portugal, and Switzerland relative to the adoption of common measures to protect the vine-growing districts of those countries against the phylloxera vastatrix.

HOLLAND.

The Parliament was opened by the King on Monday. His Majesty, in the Speech from the Throne, expressed his appreciation of the cordial affection manifested towards the Royal family on the occasion of the marriage of Prince and Princess Henry. The speech went on to say that the relations of the Netherlands with foreign Powers were most friendly, and that the national industry, particularly agriculture, was in a generally satisfactory condition. The state of the finances called urgently for attention, and his Majesty recommended to the consideration of the Legislature the question of the reform of taxation. The Government promised to present to the Chambers the draught of a new penal code. The speech stated that the condition of affairs in the Dutch East Indian possessions was satisfactory, although the maintenance of the Dutch authority in the north of Sumatra required fresh extraordinary measures. His Majesty, in conclusion, eulogised the services of the army in Sumatra.

ITALY.

The King, accompanied by the Queen, reviewed two army corps on Thursday, the 12th inst., numbering 25,000 men, at Ghedi, in the province of Brescia. The Ministers of War and the Interior, Signor Bruzzo and Zanardelli, were present, as well as several foreign officers. The latter subsequently were presented to their Majesties, and the King shook hands with them. The King and Queen and the Ministers afterwards took their departure, amid the cheers of the spectators. With this review the Italian autumn manœuvres came to an end. The King and Queen arrived at Mantua on Saturday on their way to Verona, and inaugurated the Mantua Exhibition. On Sunday they visited each department, inspecting them minutely. The King bought four horses. The Exposition in the magnificent Piazza Virgiliana demonstrates the decided progress agriculture is making in Italy. Their Majesties, after attending high mass at the cathedral, returned to Monza, thus ending their northern tour. They were present on Monday at the inauguration of a monument erected in memory of King Victor Emmanuel at Monza.

Prince Amadeus opened the fourth International Congress of Orientalists in the Senate Hall, Florence, on Thursday week. A banquet was given in the evening by the Duke of Aosta, in the Petti Palace, in honour of the congress. Signor Amari sat on his Royal Highness's right hand, and M. Rénan on his left. On Friday morning Signor De Sanctis, the Minister of Public Instruction, communicated to the congress a telegram received by Signor Cairoli, the Italian Premier, from the King, in which his Majesty greeted the congress, and expressed his gratification on its meeting in Florence. Signor de Sanctis supplemented the Royal message, which was received by the congress with loud cheers, by a few complimentary remarks. In the evening the members were entertained by Signor Rossi, the famous Italian actor, at his private residence. On Sunday night Signor De Sanctis entertained at dinner the members. Speeches were made by Signori De Sanctis, Amari, and M. Lenormant. The toast, "May the advance of science bring peace," proposed by M. Rénan, was received with great applause. The congress closed on Wednesday with a speech from Signor Amari, who concluded by announcing that the fifth meeting of the congress would be held in Germany in 1881, and it would be left to the German Oriental Society to select the president, the committee, and the place of meeting. Signor Amari also announced that the Government prize of 2500f. had been awarded to Dr. Immer, a German, for the objects shown by him at the Oriental Exhibition, while encouragement awards had been presented to three Indian gentlemen, one of them being Dr. Dacunha. Signor de Gubernatis then said a few words, which were received with applause, and the congress separated.

The Pope has been slightly indisposed, in consequence of which his usual audiences have been suspended; but he is reported to be better. His Holiness has raised his brother, Don Giuseppe Pecci, to the prelacy, numbering him among his domestic prelates and conferring upon him the office of Under-Librarian of the Vatican Library.

Telegrams from Naples describe the continuance of great activity in Vesuvius, above the new crater of which volumes of lava are reported to be thrown to a height of one hundred yards, accompanied by loud explosions.

GERMANY.

The Emperor William left Gastein last Saturday morning, amid the acclamations of the inhabitants and enthusiastic cries of "Hoch!" The cure of his Majesty has surpassed all expectations, and his strength has visibly increased. His Majesty can now write with the right hand without inconvenience. The Emperor arrived at Cassel early on Sunday morning in good health, and was enthusiastically received by a great number of people, who had congregated at the railway station and at the road leading thence to the Palace of Wilhelmshohe. His Majesty drove in an open carriage to the palace, and was warmly cheered along the route. He replied to the salutes with his left hand, his right being still in a sling. The Empress Augusta had arrived on Saturday evening to receive his Majesty. For the first time since he was wounded by Nobiling, the Emperor mounted on horseback last Tuesday and rode for twenty minutes.

The Duke of Connaught left Potsdam on Monday for Balmoral. The Crown Prince and Crown Princess accompanied him to the railway station.

Prince Bismarck returned to Berlin on Monday from Gastein, apparently in good health; but on Wednesday he was laid up with an attack of nettle-rash, caused, it is supposed, by a change in the weather.

A proposition made in the sitting of the German Parliament yesterday week by Herr von Forckenbeck, the President, to present a congratulatory address to the Emperor upon the continued improvement of his health was carried by acclamation. The German Parliament began on Monday the debate on the bill for the repression of the Social Democrats. It was opened by Count Stolberg, who explained that the measure alone was not regarded by the Government as sufficient, and suggested that their action should be supported by associations, corporations, and individuals. Half measures, he added, would only do harm, and he asked the House to furnish the Government with sharp and effectual weapons. The bill was opposed by the representatives of the Ultramontane party, who proposed that it should be referred to a Committee to determine what amendments were necessary in the penal code. Amongst the speakers was Herr Bebel, a Socialist, who denied that there was any connection between Social Democracy and the crimes of Hödel and Nobiling. Count Eulenberg, Minister of the Interior, replied to Herr Bebel, after which Herr Bamberger, of the National party, said he should support the bill. The Anti-Socialist Bill was again under discussion on Tuesday. Prince Bismarck spoke at length, with the object of vindicating himself from the reproach, addressed to him the previous day by Herr Bebel, of having formerly courted the Socialists. The Prince admitted his intimacy with Lassalle, who, he said, was deeply imbued with national and even with monarchical principles. The House ultimately resolved by a large majority to refer the bill to a Committee of twenty-one members.

RUSSIA AND TURKEY.

The Czar arrived at Jalta last Saturday afternoon. His Majesty had passed in the morning through Sebastopol, where he inspected the troops who had returned from Turkey.

The Official Messenger of Monday publishes the text of the reply of the Emperor of Russia, dated Aug. 30, to the telegram of the Sultan of the previous day complaining of the atrocities committed by Bulgarians on the Mussulman inhabitants, and requesting the Czar to take efficient steps for the protection of the life, honour, and property of the Mussulmans. The Emperor says:—"Your Majesty's telegram has made a painful impression upon me, and I trust that the reports made to your Majesty respecting the sufferings of the Mussulman population of Bulgaria and Eastern Roumelia have been exaggerated. Your Majesty is right in expressing the hope that I shall not tolerate such a state of affairs. I am assured that the Commander-in-Chief of my Army, as well as the Russian Commissioner in Bulgaria, will severely punish any act of injustice that may be committed against the inhabitants whom they have been charged to protect."

The Russian troops are evacuating Erzeroum, and Moussa Pasha has arrived to take possession of the town. He is authorised to proceed against all disturbers of the peace by martial law. Ali Pasha has issued a proclamation exhorting the Mussulman population to use tolerance towards their Christian fellow-subjects. Turkish troops have been dispatched to Alaschgerd to maintain order in that district.

In the course of a few days the Russian troops now stationed at San Stefano will evacuate that place and proceed to Tchataldja.

The representatives of the National Assembly in Crete propose (according to a telegram from Athens) that the Porte should grant to the Cretans administrative autonomy, with civil and political equality, and that the Assembly should make laws which it would be beyond the power of the Sultan to modify. Ahmed Mukhtar Pasha, on the other hand, offers the Cretans civil equality, the plebiscite, and the establishment of a police force and gendarmerie composed jointly of Mohammedans and Christians. He also proposes that the Turkish troops shall be stationed only in the fortresses. These proposals, it is added, have been rejected by the Cretans.

Midhat Pasha has been informed by the Turkish Minister in Paris that the Sultan has granted him permission to reside in Crete with his family. The Sultan's letter adds that a special vessel will be at the disposal of Midhat's family to convey them to Crete, and announces that a high functionary of the palace will be sent thither to accord a fitting reception to Midhat Pasha himself, who will embark at Marseilles in the course of the present week and go directly to his destination. From Constantinople we are told that instructions have been sent to the Ottoman Bank in London to pay Midhat Pasha the sum of £1000.

Admiral Hobart Pasha left London on Tuesday night for Constantinople, having been somewhat unexpectedly ordered to return to his duties as Inspector-General of the Turkish fleet immediately. The Pasha dined with the Prince of Wales the night previous to his departure from London.

The Daily News hears that the Turkish authorities are stopping cargoes of arms and ammunition for the Rhodope insurgents, "under severe Russian pressure."

An envoy from the Ameer of Afghanistan to the Sultan has arrived at Constantinople.

INDIA.

By a Bombay telegram, dated Sept. 18, received through Reuter's agency, we learn that Gholam Hussein Khan, the Envoy of the Indian Government, arrived at Cabul on Sept. 10, and has been hospitably received. At a private audience of Shere Ali he delivered to the Ameer the letters with which he was intrusted from the Viceroy of India. Mir Akhor, who is believed to be the bearer of despatches from the Ameer respecting the Mission, is expected hourly at Alimusjed. The mission, in the mean time, remains at Peshawur, awaiting Mir Akhor's communication. A headman of the Khyberi has arrived at Peshawur in accordance with the arrangements concluded for the safe conduct of the Mission through the Khyber Pass.

A long telegram relating to the Cabul Mission sent by the Times' correspondent at Calcutta, is given at page 286.

AMERICA.

President Hayes arrived at Chicago last Saturday. In a speech addressed to the Board of Trade, he declared that the course pursued by Mr. Sherman in regard to the finances of the country was fair, open, and honest. He deprecated any interference on the part of the Legislature with the currency or with the resumption of specie payments, as calculated to shake the confidence of business men and to retard the revival of prosperity. The President held a reception in the evening, which was numerously attended.

The Oregon Legislature have elected Mr. J. H. Slater, a Democrat, as Senator for that State in Congress.

The order of the Treasury Department for the free exchange of silver for greenbacks, which was to have come into effect on Sept. 16, has been postponed for legal reasons.

There was a return of warm weather on Tuesday at New Orleans, but its effect in regard to the yellow fever has not been stated. At Memphis on Monday 111 deaths occurred, and at Vicksburg on the same day twenty-three.

CANADA.

By a telegram from Toronto we learn that the elections to the Dominion Parliament were held on Tuesday, and resulted in the complete defeat of the supporters of the Mackenzie Administration.

The elections to the Nova Scotian Legislature have resulted in the return of twenty-eight Conservatives and ten Reformers.

Destructive storms have visited the middle and western States of Canada, causing considerable interruption to railway communication. Last Saturday the streets of Toronto were flooded, and great damage was done to property.

Lord Dufferin will, it is understood, remain at Ottawa, in order to receive the Marquis of Lorne and her Royal Highness Princess Louise on their arrival in Canada, for which event great preparations are being made.

The Toronto Mail contains the reply by Lord Dufferin to a farewell address presented to him at Quebec on the 5th inst., by the municipal corporations of Ontario. His Excellency, who, in the course of his remarks, was frequently and heartily cheered, said:—

I hardly know in what terms I am to reply to the address I have just listened to. Quite apart from the personal gratification I experience, you are teaching all future administrators of your affairs a lesson which you may be sure they will gladly lay to heart, since it will show them with how rich a reward you are ready to repay whatever slight exertions it may be within their power to make on your behalf (Cheers). And when, in the history of your Dominion, could such a proof of your generosity be more opportunely shown? A few weeks ago the heart of every man and woman in Canada was profoundly moved by the intelligence, not only that the Government of Great Britain was about to send out as England's representative to this country one of the most promising amongst the younger generation of our public men, but that the Queen herself was about to intrust to the keeping of Canada one of her own daughters (Cheers). If you desired any illustration of the respect, the affection, the confidence with which you are regarded by your fellow-subjects and by your Sovereign at home, what greater proof could you require than this, or what more gratifying, more delicate, more touching recognition could have rewarded your never-failing love and devotion for the mother country and its ruler? (Cheers.) But though the Parliament and the citizens of Canada may well be proud of the confidence thus reposed in them, believe me when I tell you that, quite apart from these especial considerations, you may well be congratulated on the happy choice which has been made in the person of Lord Lorne for the future Governor-General of Canada. It has been my good fortune to be connected all my life long with his family by ties of the closest personal friendship. Himself I have known, I may say, from his boyhood, and a more conscientious, high-minded, or better qualified Viceroy could not have been selected (Loud cheers). He comes of a family whose prominence in history is founded upon those sacrifices they have made in the cause of Constitutional liberty. When a couple of a man's ancestors have perished on the scaffold as martyrs to the cause of political and religious freedom, you may be sure there is little likelihood of their descendants seeking to encroach, when acting as the representatives of the Crown, upon the privileges of Parliament or the independence of the people (Loud cheers). As for your future Princess, it would not become me to enlarge upon her merits. She will soon be amongst you, taking all hearts by storm by the grace, the suavity, the sweet simplicity of her manners, life, and conversation (Great cheering). Gentlemen, if ever there was a lady who in her earliest youth had formed a high ideal of what a noble life should be; if ever there was a human being who tried to make the most of the opportunities within her reach and to create for herself, in spite of every possible trammel and impediment, a useful career and occasions of benefiting her fellow-creatures, it is the Princess Louise, whose unpretending exertions in a hundred different directions, to be of service to her country and generation, have already won for her an extraordinary amount of popularity at home (Cheers). When to this you add an artistic genius of the highest order, and innumerable other personal gifts and accomplishments, all combined with manners and address so gentle, so unpretending, as to put everyone who comes within reach of her influence at perfect ease, you cannot fail to understand that England is not only sending you a Royal Princess of majestic lineage, but a good and noble woman in whom the humblest settler or mechanic in Canada will find an intelligent and sympathetic friend (Cheers). So that, gentlemen, I hardly know which pleases me most—the thought that the superintendence of your destinies is to be confided to persons so worthy of the trust, or that so dear a friend of mine as Lord Lorne, and a personage for whom I entertain so much respectful admiration as I do for the Princess Louise, should commence their future labours in the midst of a community so indulgent, so friendly, so ready to take the will for the deed, so generous in their recognition of any efforts to serve them as you have proved yourselves. And yet alas! pleasant and agreeable as is the prospect for you and them, we must acknowledge there is one drawback to the picture. Lord Lorne has, as I have said, a multitude of merits. But even spots will be discovered on the sun, and unfortunately an irreparable, and, as I may call it, a congenital, defect attaches to this appointment. Lord Lorne is not an Irishman (Laughter). It is not his fault. He did the best he could for himself (renewed laughter). He came as near the right thing as possible by being born a Celtic Highlander (Continued laughter). There is no doubt the world is best administered by Irishmen (Hear, hear). Things never went better with us, either at home or abroad, than when Lord Palmerston ruled Great Britain—(cheers)—Lord Mayo governed India—(cheers)—Lord Monck directed the destinies of Canada—(cheers)—and the Robinsons, the Kennedys, the Lathams, the Callaghans, the Gores, the Hennessys administered the affairs of our Australian colonies and West Indian possessions. Have not even the French made the same discovery in the person of MacMahon? (Laughter and cheers.) But we must still be generous, and it is right Scotchmen should have a turn (Laughter). Though you have been a little spoilt by having been given three Irish Governor-Generals in succession, I am sure you will find your new Viceroy's personal and acquired qualifications will more than counterbalance his ethnological disadvantages. Now I must bid you farewell. I cannot tell you how deeply I regret that Lady Dufferin should not be present to share the gratification I have experienced by your presence. Tell your friends at home how deeply I have been moved by this last and signal proof of their goodwill, that their kindness shall never be forgotten, and that as long as I live it will be one of the chief ambitions of my life to render them faithful and effectual service (Cheers).

THE CAPE COLONIES.

We have a week's later news from the Cape; the date is Aug. 27. Intelligence had been received from the Transvaal that a mutiny had broken out in Zululand in the native police. The Swazies, who were supposed to be friendly, were now considered untrustworthy. There had been some fighting at Fort Weber, which had been attacked by Kaffirs, who were, however, compelled to retreat. Troops had been dispatched against Secocoeni. The Kaffirs have completely invested Leydenburg. Sir Theophilus Shepstone had incurred unpopularity by his policy with regard to the volunteers, who have tendered their resignation in large numbers. An appeal had been made to Colonel Rowlands to settle the matter.

Intelligence from Capetown two days later, received by telegram from Madeira, says it is officially announced that Major Lanyon will succeed Sir Theophilus Shepstone as Governor of the Transvaal, and that Mr. Maasdorp succeeds Mr. Jorissen as Attorney-General. Colonel Bailey left this morning (Aug. 20) for the theatre of military operations on the northern border. Mr. Dewes, formerly Solicitor-General, has been appointed Recorder of Kimberley.

AUSTRALIA.

A telegram from Sydney informs us that Sir Hercules Robinson, the Governor of New South Wales, opened the Parliament of that colony on Wednesday, Sept. 11, and announced that the issue of a new loan has been postponed. Amongst the measures to be introduced by the Government is a scheme for the construction of a thousand miles of railway.

The General Swedish Synod, which meets every fifth year, was opened on the 3rd inst. at Stockholm.

It is announced from Belgrade that the Princess Nathalie was on Sunday delivered of a son.

Mr. Rivers Wilson has, according to a telegram from Alexandria, been definitively appointed Egyptian Minister of Finance, with the permission of the British Government.

The King and Queen of the Belgians, following the example of several of the ancient rulers of the country, have presented to the cathedral of Antwerp a stained-glass window.

We are informed by Nature that M. Bischofsheim, the well-known Parisian banker, has sent a sum of 10,000f. to the French Bureau Central Météorologique, to help in the construction of the intended Mont Ventoux Observatory. We may remind our readers that he, at the suggestion of his friend M. Leverrier, helped in the same manner the construction of the Puy-de-Dome and Pic-du-Midi establishment. M. Bischofsheim has also agreed to pay M. Eichens £1000 to complete within a year the construction of the great refractor begun in Leverrier's time, in 1870.

A CENTENARIAN.

The Dublin Daily Express of Saturday last records an instance of a gentleman having completed his hundredth year, and being in good health and possessing a clear intellect. This "hero of a hundred fights" with disease and death is Mr. Henry Baldwin Foott, J.P., of Carrigacunna Castle, near Mallow, in the county of Cork. The books of the parish of Kilshannig show that he was born on Sept. 11, 1778. The anniversary of Mr. Foott's birthday on Wednesday week was signalised by the firing of cannon, hoisting of flags, and a general merrymaking at Carrigacunna. The tradesmen and labourers employed on his property got a holiday and a day's pay, and were entertained at dinner. Mr. Foott received the visits of several of his friends, who congratulated him on his good state of health on his hundredth birthday; and the magistrates at the petty sessions of Castletownroche, in which court Mr. Foott presided for nearly sixty-two years, presented him with an address. Mr. Foott is the oldest magistrate in the county of Cork, having been appointed in 1816. Mr. Foott was brought up as an attorney, but gave up the profession on his coming into possession of his large estate. He was a capital sportsman, ran well with hounds, was a crack shot with the gun, and a very expert angler. Mr. Foott is presented each week with his farm accounts, which he checks. He has had several brothers and sisters, all of whom attained great ages, and his brother, Mr. Edward Foott, J.P., of Gortmore, is now in his ninety-first year.

THE CHURCH.

PREFERMENTS AND APPOINTMENTS.

Adams, C. E., to be Perpetual Curate of St. Mary the Virgin, Ellel Grange.
Bennet, E. K.; Rector of Breitenham with Rushford.
Bourke, G. W.; Rector of Pulborough.
Chatham, Joseph; Perpetual Curate of Cury and Gunmalloe.
Collin, John; Vicar of Great Ayton, Yorkshire.
Corrie, Edgar Sirtit; Rural Dean of Hedingham Deanery.
Day, Henry Josiah; Vicar of Cheshunt.
Dealtry, Archdeacon; Vicar of Maidstone.
Douglas, Brown John; Vicar of Loversal.
Fletcher, G. H.; Chaplain of her Majesty's Prison, Gloucester.
Golling, W., Rector of Kirklington; Vicar of Thursby.
Grantham, T., Vicar of Lower Halstow, Kent; Rector of Irthlingborough.
Henning, Stilon; Perpetual Curate of St. James's, Plumstead.
Hilyard, W., late Curate of Nantwich; Incumbent of Doddington, Cheshire.
Hoole, William Spooner; Rector of Thornton-le-Moors, Chester.
Huddart, G. A. W.; Rector of Kirklington.
Hyde, John Thomas; Rector of Wallington.
James, W. E.; Prebendary of Caerfarchell, in St. David's Cathedral.
Jones, Thomas; Vicar of Llywell with Rhydybriw, Breconshire.
Kingsford, Septimus; Perpetual Curate of Lower Shuckburgh, Warwick.
Kirby, William Walter; Rector of St. Mary's, Barnsley.
Mabe, John Stroud; Curate of Woking, Surrey.
Martyn, Richard James; Vicar of St. Paul's, Penzance.
Menio, Horace George; Rector of Strathfieldsaye.
Norris, William Burrell; Rector of Warblington, Hants.
Parker, James Dunne; Vicar of St. Mary the Virgin, Nuneaton.
Price, Lewis; Perpetual Curate of Llandefeisant, Carmarthenshire.
Richardson, Thomas; Vicar of Flint.
Rogers, Charles Henry; Perpetual Curate of Little Dunmow.
Savanté, Charles William; Perpetual Curate of Christ Church, Stratford.
Totteham, Edward; Vicar of Helperthorpe.
Townend, Edward; Rector of Lesnewth.
Walsh, William; Sinecure Rector of Shorwell, Isle of Wight.
Weale, Robert Morey; Vicar of Priors Marston.
White, Henry Gratton; Vicar of Manghold.
Williams, Garnons; Second Cursal Prebendary in St. David's Cathedral.
Williams, G. G., Vicar of Llanfynydd; Vicar of Pembryn, Cardiganshire.
Wood, A. M., Senior Curate of Wallasey; Vicar of St. Mary's, Liscard.
Wooding, W. J., Perpetual Curate of Egiwysfach, Cardiganshire.—Guardian.

Convocation has been prorogued to Dec. 2.

The Bishop of Manchester consecrated last Saturday a new church (St. Clement's) at Salford.

Miss Majendie laid the memorial-stone of the new church at St. Mary's, Newbury, on the 11th inst.

The sixteenth annual festival of the Parochial Choir Association of Nantwich and Middlewich, in the diocese of Chester, was held on the 11th, in Nantwich church.

The Hon. Mrs. King-Harman will carry out the desire of her late husband in contributing £1000 to the Episcopal Fund of the diocese of Kilmore, Elphin, and Ardagh.

Last Saturday the foundation-stone was laid of a new church at Wribbenhall, near Kidderminster. The building will cost £6000, of which Mrs. Hemming, of Spring-grove, contributes £2000.

A musical festival service was held last Saturday at Tewkesbury Abbey in aid of the restoration fund, when several vocalists who had attended the Worcester Musical Festival gave their services.

At the picturesque little village of Carlton, in the North Riding of Yorkshire, the foundation-stone of a new church, to be built on the site of the old one, has been laid by Mrs. Marwood, of Busby Hall.

The Rev. E. J. Barnes, Vicar of Christ's Church, Lowestoft, was last week presented, on his leaving that town, with a purse of gold and other presents from his congregation and friends, in recognition of his much esteemed labours amongst them during the past twelve years.

The Bishops of Exeter and Oxford preached at Ottery St. Mary's Church last Sunday, on the completion of the work of restoration which Lord Coleridge has there carried out in memory of his father, the late Sir John Taylor Coleridge, and his mother, and also in memory of Lady Coleridge, who died a few months ago. The work has cost £2000.

A movement is on foot for the erection of a memorial to the late Rev. F. A. Bartlett, for upwards of twenty years Vicar of St. Olave's Church, Marygate, York, by the addition of a chancel to the present structure, the foundation of which is, according to tradition, probably the most ancient of the York churches, being ascribed to Earl Siward, of Northumberland, who died eleven years prior to the Norman conquest. The subscriptions already amount to £700.

A stained window has been placed in St. John's Church, Leicester, in memory of the late Rev. William Barber, M.A., who was for seventeen years Vicar of the parish, and whose skill and taste as a musician did much to improve the rendering of church music in the district. The parochial choral festivals now so general in the diocese were originated by him, the first festival having been held in 1860 at St. John's. It is executed by Messrs. Wailes and Strang, of Newcastle-on-Tyne, and is the sixteenth memorial window in the church by this firm.

The Prince of Wales has erected a monument in Sandringham churchyard in memory of the late Rector. It bears the following inscription:—"William Lake Onslow, M.A., R.N., F.R.A.S. Born 10th May, 1820. Died 30th August, 1877. Eleven years Rector of Sandringham. Domestic Chaplain to H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, and late Naval Instructor to H.R.H. the Duke of Edinburgh. Albertus Edouardus P. In memoriam posuit." It was designed by Mr. A. W. Blomfield, and executed by Mr. J. Forsyth.

The four temporary churches which it has been resolved to provide at Barrow, in pursuance of a scheme to which the Duke of Devonshire contributed £12,000, the Duke of Buccleuch, £6000, and the Mayor (Mr. H. W. Schneider), Sir James Ramsden, and other gentlemen, £6000, will be opened next Thursday. The following clergymen have been appointed to the new districts:—St. Matthew's, the Rev. G. K. Meaby, M.A., Cambridge; St. Mark's, the Rev. J. M. Laycock, M.A., Cambridge; St. Luke's, the Rev. E. W. Oak, B.A., Cambridge; and St. John's, the Rev. A. Warren, M.A.

Harvest festivals are now being held all over the country. At several of the Manchester churches Sunday was chosen as the day of harvest thanksgiving, and one church (St. Paul's, Brunswick-street) was reopened after restoration. At St. Columba's, Haggerston, the services on Sunday were very hearty, as they were also in the fine old church of Kelvedon, Essex, at St. Paul's, Colchester, where the offertory was devoted to the sufferers by the accident in the Thames; St. Peter's, Chalvey, and Hurstpierpoint. At St. Paul's, Bunhill-row, on Tuesday, Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise" was sung with full organ accompaniment at the harvest festival in the evening. The new Archdeacon of Essex preached at the harvest festival at Camden Town church on Thursday evening.

THE UNIVERSITIES AND PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

Another headship in Oxford is vacant through the resignation of the President of Trinity, the Rev. S. W. Wayte, D.D.

At Cambridge the Clothworkers' Exhibition of £50 a year, offered to non-collegiate students for proficiency in physical science, has been awarded to John Ryan, of Newport, Monmouthshire, late Whitworth scholar.

A new supplemental charter having been granted to the University of London a few months since, on the joint application of the Senate and of Convocation, empowering the Senate to admit women to graduate in its several faculties (arts, science, law, medicine, and music), on such conditions as the Senate, with the concurrence of the Home Secretary, should deem expedient, the Senate lost no time in passing a resolution which made all the existing regulations, relating not only to graduation, but also to the various honours and rewards granted at the several examinations, open to female as well as to male candidates. This resolution having been now approved by the Home Secretary, female candidates will be admitted forthwith to the matriculation examination; and all such as have already passed the general examination for women will be considered as having matriculated, and will be admissible (after the required interval) to the first degree examination in either of the faculties. Further, with a view to the special encouragement of female candidates desiring to go through a regular academical course, the trustees of the Gilchrist Educational Trust have instituted two exhibitions, one of £30, the other of £20, per annum, tenable for two years, to the female candidates who pass highest at the honours division at the matriculation examination; and two exhibitions, one of £40, the other of £30, per annum, tenable for two years, to the female candidates who pass highest at the first B.A. examination (provided that they obtain in the first case two thirds, and in the second three fifths, of the total number of marks), to assist them in pursuing their studies at some collegiate institution approved by the trustees; with the further reward of a gold medal of the value of £20 (or of a book prize of the same value) to the female candidate who passes highest at the second B.A. examination, if she obtains not less than two thirds of the total number of marks.

The Earl of Rosebery, in accepting the invitation to become a candidate for the Lord Rectorship of Aberdeen University, says the invitation is one which it would be as unbecoming in him to refuse as to seek. The contest will now be between the Earl of Aberdeen, the Conservative candidate, and Lord Rosebery, who is the nominee of the Liberal students.

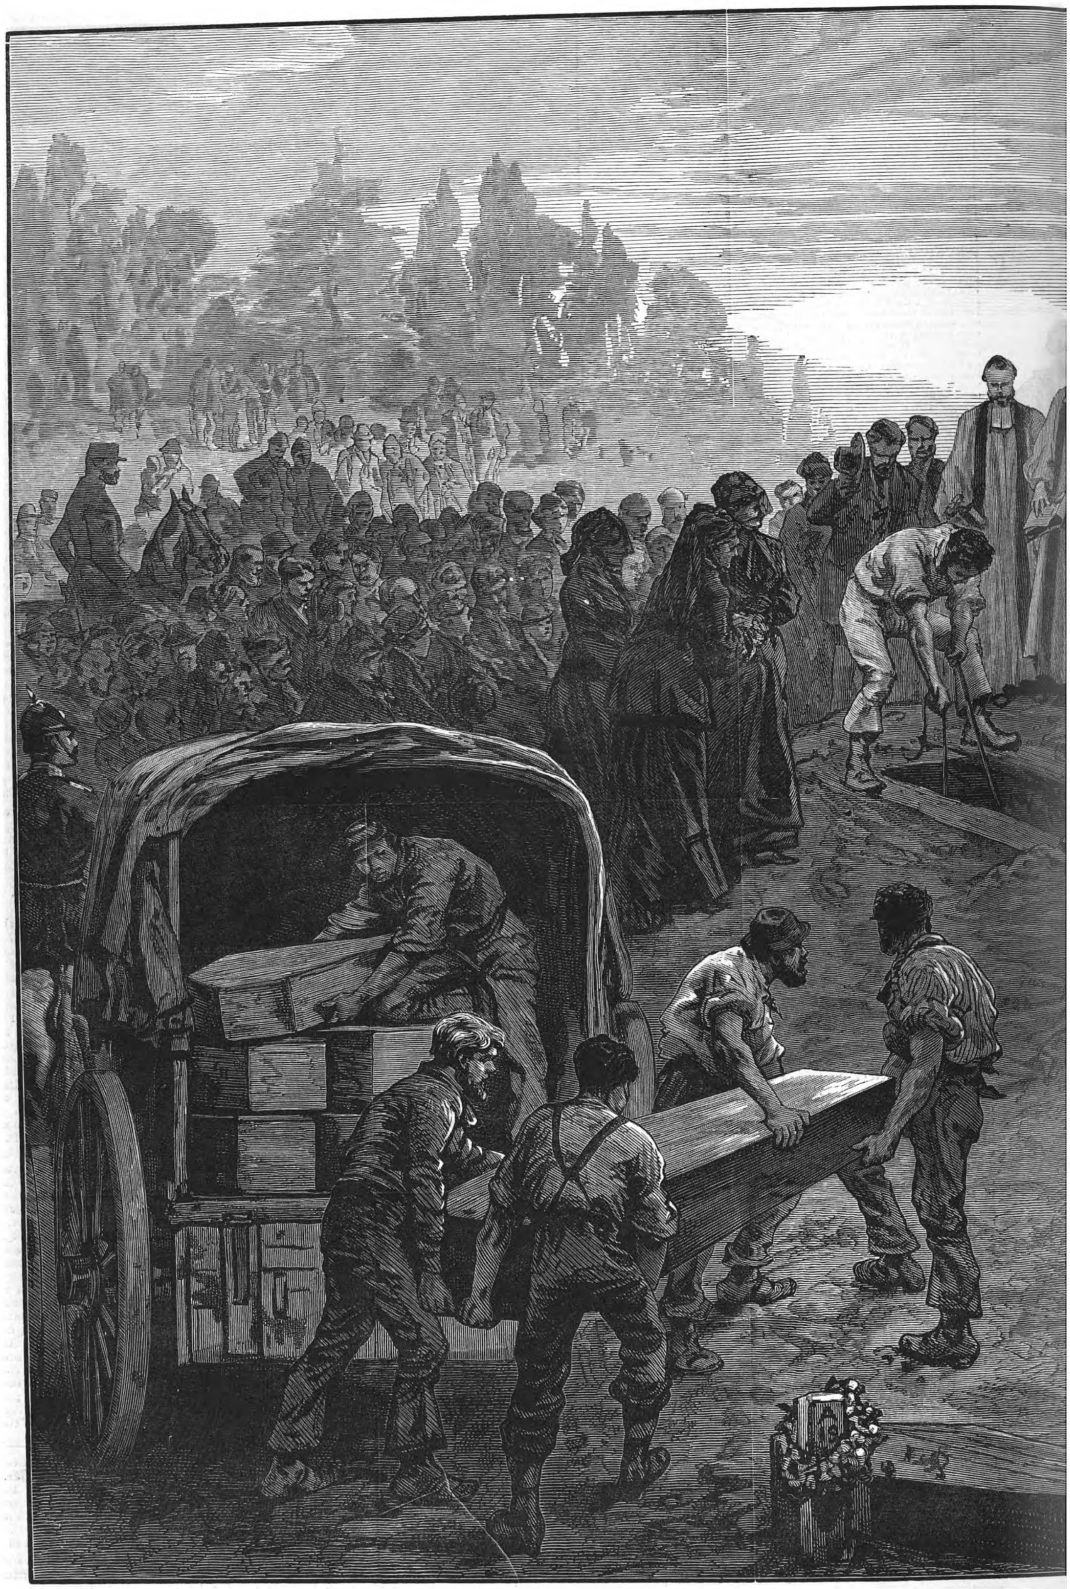
Eton College reopened on Wednesday after the long summer vacation with the return of the lower boys; the students of the fifth and sixth forms assembling on Thursday and Friday.

The gentlemen cadets reassembled on Wednesday after the summer vacation at the Royal Military Academy, Woolwich. Amongst the new cadets is the second son of the Khedive of Egypt, who will reside with his suite at Champion-terrace, Woolwich-common.

The Rev. Professor Porter, of the Presbyterian General Assembly's College, Belfast, has been appointed one of the two Assistant Commissioners of the new Board of Intermediate Education for Ireland, at a salary of £1000 a year; and Mr. J. P. Corry, M.P., has been appointed to the Presbyterian Commissionership on the board vacated by Dr. Porter.

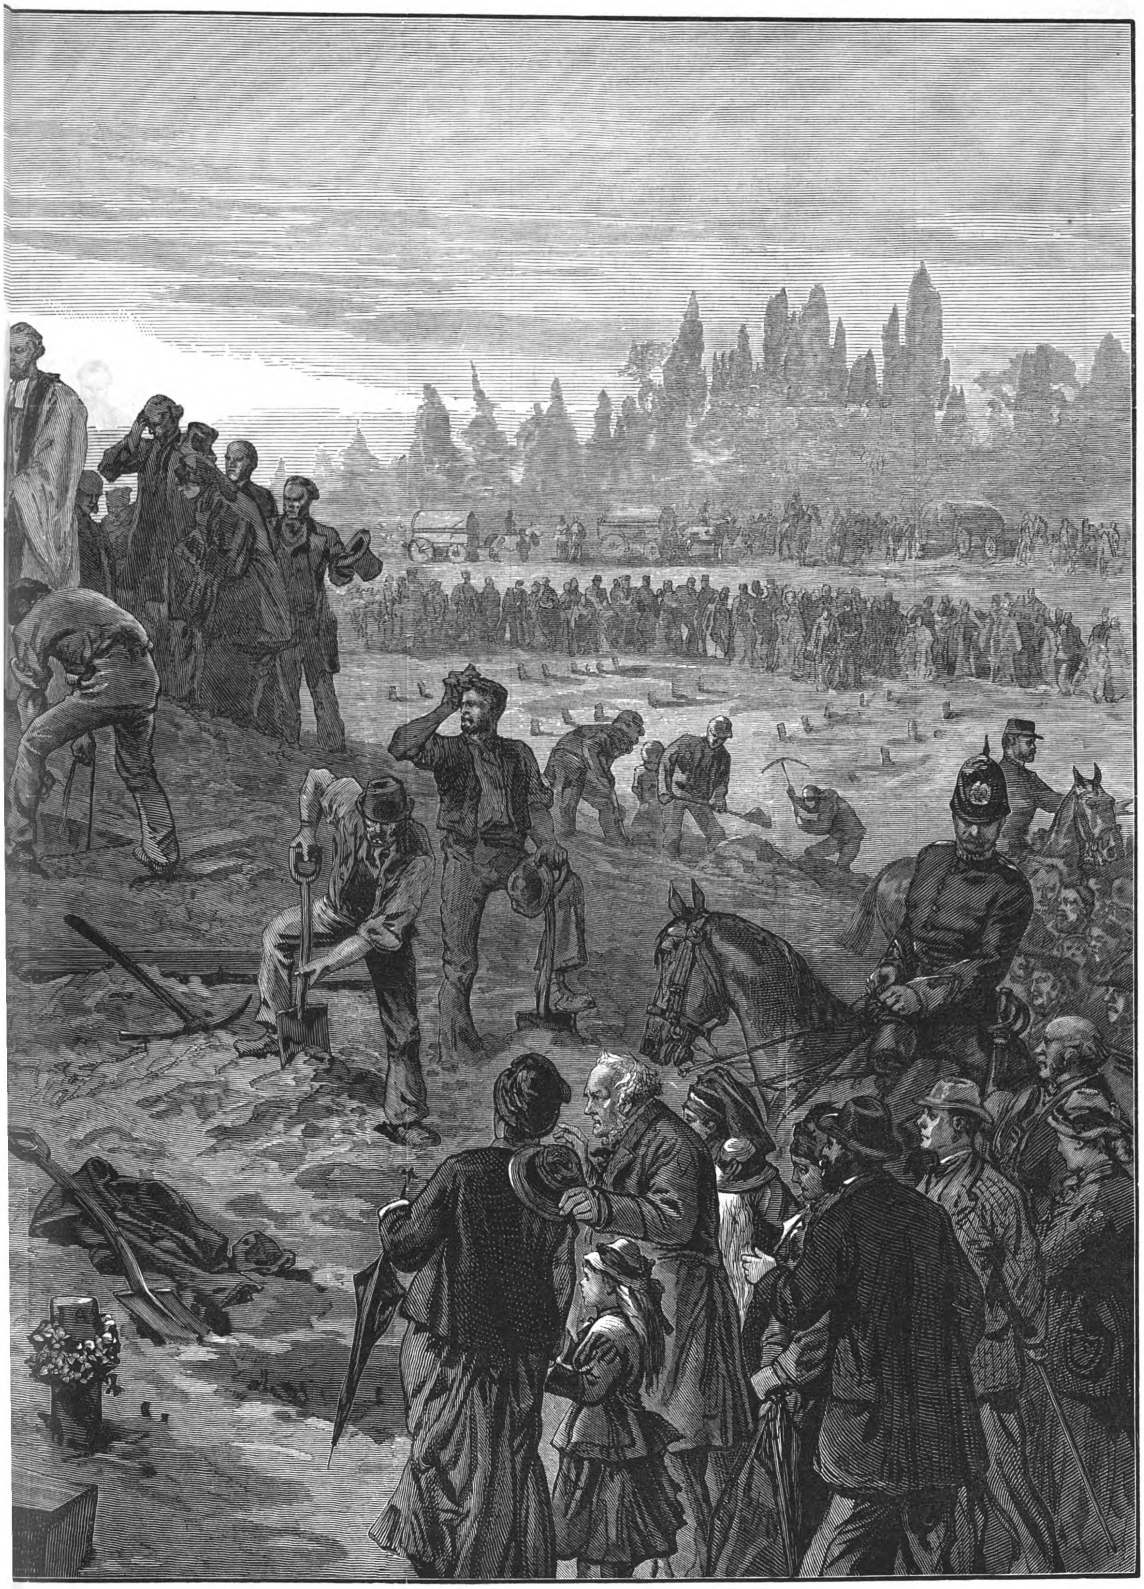
The two Forest School scholarships, £45 and £35, have been awarded, the former to Trayton Charles Pagden, the latter to Charles Collison. At the same time, Laurence, from Durham House, Folkestone (the Rev. A. L. Hussey); Webb, already in the school; and Mather, from Cleveland School (the Rev. S. Cornish), were recommended for the three nominations. There were eleven candidates.

The Council of the City of London College—evening classes—have appointed Dr. Heinemann, F.R.G.S., F.R.H.S., Professor of Political Economy and Logic.



In distributing the prizes at Worcester Grammar School, Lord Hampton said the Legislature had now provided ample elementary education for the working classes, and there already existed public schools for the education of the wealthy; but the great want had been schools for the middle classes. This want such schools as the Worcester Grammar School were calculated to supply, and it must be a great boon to the neighbourhood.

The ancient grammar school at Dorchester has now been shut up for about six months; and the Charity Commissioners, having effected a commutation with the late Head Master (the Rev. T. R. Maskew), who was awarded nearly £600, have just drawn up a scheme for the management of the newly-modelled school. Under this scheme there are to be eleven governors, the list being headed by the Mayor of Dorchester for the time being, and including five representative and five co-optative. The fees of the boys are to range from £6 to £12 per annum. Mathematics and one foreign language are to be included in the course of instruction, and an extra charge of not less than £3 per annum is to be made for teaching Greek. The Head Master—a graduate of a University—is to have the annual stipend of £120, besides a capitation grant of from £2 to £5 for the boys. In order to meet a difficulty experienced in regard to Mr. Maskew, the new Head Master is to enter into an agreement to acquiesce in his removal if this be decreed by the governors.



Lady Holles' middle-class schools for girls, which are situate in Mare-street, Hackney, were opened yesterday week by the Lord Mayor, in the presence of the Lady Mayoress, Mr. Alderman Nottage (Sheriff of London), Mrs. Nottage, Mr. Alderman Knight, the Rev. W. Gilbert, Rector of Cripplegate, and a large number of ladies and gentlemen interested in the charity. From a statement made by Mr. Alderman Knight, who is the chairman of the board of governors, it appears that the endowment was bestowed originally by Lady Holles, second daughter of the Earl of Clare, in 1710; and though the bequest amounted to only £62, yet by careful management on the part of the trustees, as well as by other legacies since received, the board of direction of the Charity Commissioners are now enabled to provide a middle-class school for girls. The new schools are spacious and furnished with every requisite. The site has cost £3000, the structure itself £7000, making in all about £10,000. Accommodation is provided for 250 girls, who must not be under eight years of age nor over sixteen. A very liberal curriculum is offered, but special subjects will be charged extra.

A burglary was committed early on Friday morning, the 13th inst., at the house of Mr. Ford, chairman of the Enfield bench of magistrates, Old Park, about a mile from Enfield. The thieves effected an entrance through the conservatory, and carried off a gold watch and silver plate to the value of several hundreds of pounds. Several robberies of the kind have lately been committed in the neighbourhood.

The Hon. Hugh Gough and Mr. F. C. E. Denys have been appointed Second Secretaries in her Majesty's diplomatic service. The Queen has approved of Mr. W. C. Christopherson as Consul-General for Scotland for the King of Sweden and Norway; of Mr. Eugene Schuyler as Consul at Birmingham for the United States of America; of Mr. Juan H. Evans as Consul at Brighton; and of Mr. Gabriel Samuel Brandon as Vice-Consul for Shoreham, Brighton, and Worthing for the Republic of Peru.

THE GREAT DISASTER ON THE THAMES: BURIAL OF TH

NKNOWN DEAD AT THE WOOLWICH CEMETERY, EAST WICKHAM.

ECHOES OF THE WEEK.

The Great Lottery of the Exhibition bids fair to become a very considerable nuisance in Paris. You cannot enter a débit de tabac to buy a cigar or a postage-stamp without being pestered to purchase lottery-tickets. Fortunately, I am not a direct taxpayer in France; or, in addition to my other woes, I should be importuned by the local rate-collector to invest in this omnipresent lottery. The Minister of Finance has issued circulars to all the percepteurs, or tax-gatherers, ordering them to exercise all their influence over their contribuables to induce them to take tickets.

I am glad to notice that the French press are almost unanimous in blaming a scheme which is fast attaining the proportions of a scandal. A raffle for a gold watch or a silver teapot (the Catholic lotteries in Ireland sometimes offer a horse and gig as a prize), or a Derby "sweep" at a club or on the course, may do no very great harm, now and again; but as to the folly and immorality of a National Lottery there can be, I apprehend, no manner of doubt. The Banco di Lotto has kept Italy poor these many years past; and the same may be said of Spain; while the Royal Havana Lottery—which is drawn once a month, and the first prize in which is 100,000 dols., or £20,000—not only keeps the Island of Cuba in a constant state of ferment, but extends its maleficent influence to the United States.

Perhaps I should speak of the Havana Lottery in the past tense. Changes of all kinds may have taken place in the island during the insurrection; but I remember very well fifteen years ago how all the cafés and public promenades of the Pearl of the Antilles used to be infested by ragged men and boys hawking halves, quarters, eighths, and even sixteenths of lottery tickets. I need scarcely say that it is one thing to preach against the immorality of lotteries, and another to practise abstention from that very fascinating form of gaming: thus I do not hesitate to avow that in 1863 I went shares with a friend in the purchase of an "entero," a whole ticket. It cost us an "onza," or doubloon, otherwise three pounds ten shillings sterling. My friend was going to England; I was returning to the States; and he left me the custodian of the precious chance. How many sleepless nights did I pass before the day of drawing arrived! At length the list of prizes was published in the New York Herald. It was the number 16,303 that won the £20,000 prize. Our ticket was 16,305! Only two removes from felicity!

The gros lot in the Paris Exhibition lottery is to be a "rivière" of diamonds, worth ever so many thousands of francs; and among the remaining prizes plate, bronzes, porcelain, and the nicknacks generally classed by the French as bibelots seem to predominate. In addition to these, a number of patriotic manufacturers and tradespeople have come forward (of course, without the slighest idea of advertising their wares) to offer gratuitous contributions to the list of prizes. These eleemosynary tributes are published with due solemnity in the Journal Officiel, and an extraordinary catalogue do they make. What do you think of a dinner for twenty persons at a well-known Palais Royal restaurant, a barrel of coal-tar, a box of scented soap, a case of blacking, a model of the Place Vendôme Column in chocolate, a series of photographs representing fossil human skulls discovered in the department of the Sarthe, an electrical hairbrush, and a collection of pamphlets published by the Society for Discountenancing the Abuse of Tobacco?

The society in question has just presented a memorial to M. Albert Gigot, Prefect of Police, pointing out that the Paris cab-drivers persist in smoking while on duty, in defiance of the disciplinary regulations forbidding the practice in question. The fumes emitted from the pipes and cigars of the cabbies are, it seems, particularly offensive to ladies. This reminds me of an anecdote related of the late excellent Queen of Holland. Her Majesty was taking a solitary stroll in the Wood at Loo one summer's evening when she became aware of a sentinel who was indulging in a few forbidden whiffs inside his box. The poor fellow, with no end of courts-martial before his eyes, threw away his pipe, and, in broken accents, piteously begged the Queen not to denounce him to the authorities. "Don't be afraid," answered the kindly Sovereign; "and here is a ducat for you to buy some good tobacco. I wonder you can smoke such nasty smelling stuff." If the Parisian Jehus would only smoke a tolerably decent preparation of the Indian weed the ladies might be more tolerant of their infringement of the cab laws.

Mem: One anecdote may be reckoned upon, as a rule, to suggest another. The story about the Queen of Holland reminds me of one told of Frederick the Great, who, wandering in disguise through the camp one bitterly cold winter's night, tried to tempt a sentry into the commission of the illicit act of smoking. "It's forbidden," replied the soldier, doggedly. "But I'll give you permission," persisted Frederick. "You give me permission," cried the grenadier, disdainfully; "who are you, I should like to know?" "I am the King." "The King be hanged!" exclaimed the incorruptible sentinel; "what would my Captain say?" The Great Fritz was immensely pleased to learn how strictly discipline was preserved among his troops; and I fancy that it was not long before that incorruptible sentinel was promoted to be a sergeant. Perhaps he was wise in his generation, and had known very well to whom he was speaking. There is a way of flattering the Great, even while appearing to be rude to them. Did not Mr. Pye get his poet laureateship through anathematising the wig of George III. to his Majesty's face?

I am about deliberately and aforethought to puff a new book—at least, if to call attention to its conspicuous merits can be called puffing. It is not a new novel, book of travels, poem, or collection of essays, published by Messrs. Anybody of England. I don't know the author from Adam, and I am equally a stranger to the publishers. Having premised thus much, I may state that the work in question (which I am perusing with as much interest as though it were a tale from the Arabian Nights) is the "Grammaire Grecque Moderne," by M. Emile Legrand, published by Messrs. Maisonneuve and Co., of the Quai Voltaire, Paris. The only Romaic grammar in English which I have come across is one published in 1851 by Mr. Henry Corpe, M.C.P., and translator of that strange Levantine novel, "The Devil in Turkey." There is likewise a little neo-Hellenic grammar in French by M. Masson, published at the British Governmental printing office, Corfu, in 1822; while at Leghorn, in 1825, there was put forth by the Athenian Professor Giorgio Kutuffa a Romaic grammar in Italian. This last is dedicated to the Earl of Guilford, Lord High Commissioner of the Ionian Islands: "To endoxotato kai paneugenestato Komti Ghilphortio akademiarche tes ionekes akademias. The Earl was also Lord Rector of the Ionian Academies.

Why am I not satisfied with these grammars? Because the modern Greek of fifty years ago was, comparatively speaking, a barbarous jargon debased by a multitude of Turkish, Sclavonic, and Italian words. The Ionian dialect was, in particular, adulterated with Italian of Venetian mintage. Now, ever since Greece attained her independence it has been the constant endeavour of her scholars and journalists to purify and elevate the national speech, so that it might no longer deserve the reproach levelled at it by Cardinal Mezzofanti, Rex Linguarum, who contemptuously observed that Modern Greek resembled Ancient Greek about as much as a monkey resembles a man. I question, however, whether his polyglot Eminence had ever read the Panorama tes Elladon of Alexander Soutsot, published in 1833, a poem which is in many parts as sonorous in diction and as noble in sentiment as "Childe Harold." M. Soutsot's poem was, however, in 1833 only as caviare to the general. In 1878 all Greeks who run may read it; and the chief charm of M. Legrand's work is that it gives a definite scheme and exposition of the scheme of Romaic or Modern Greek as that flowing, melodious, eloquent, and far from difficult tongue is at present written and spoken.

I am not in the least afraid of boring my indulgent readers by devoting three long paragraphs in these Echoes (they were all too short last week) to a topic ostensibly so dreary as that of a Greek grammar. There are those who read me who are not disinclined to take serious things into consideration; and I hold that the education of English boys is a very serious thing indeed. I hold that, in nine cases out of ten, the time spent in learning ancient Greek in our public schools and universities is so much time thrown away; and that our academical method of teaching Greek is an imposture, a snare, and a sham. Not that I disparage the study of ancient Greek; but I would have boys taught to speak Romaic first, and then to compare the living with the dead language; just as when a boy had acquired a fair knowledge of English and French I would introduce him to Chaucer. As for M. Legrand's "Grammaire Moderne Grecque," which has only just made its appearance, I hope that Professor Blackie will lose no time in procuring it. We have had enough and to spare of the academical Greek which renders our young men, when they are travelling in Greece, powerless to ask for a bootjack, or a corkscrew, a bottle of pale ale, or a first-class railway ticket from the Piræus to Athens. And, I repeat, Romaic is not by any means difficult. Read M. Legrand's grammar from beginning to end (and with a pen in your hand). Then try the translation of the first three chapters of the "Pictorial Papers" into Romaic. Then try a similar experiment with a portion of a novel by Alexander Dumas in French. Then advertise for a modern Greek master, who will tell you how many mistakes you have made in your translations, and will set you right as to your pronunciation. When you can translate a column of the police reports in the Times vivâ voce to the satisfaction of your preceptor, dismiss him; and then, if you like, you can read Homer or Xenophon, Pindar or Anacreon, with the Rev. Xylokephale Logopratis, B.A., and with the Erasmian pronunciation which that Batavian pedant was so clearly entitled to settle, in defiance of the illustrious Byzantine scholars who were harboured and protected by Lorenzo de' Medici.

I read in the Paris Gaulois that the Right Honourable Lord Cairns is to be straightway created an Earl. I am delighted to hear it. "A present," adds the Gaulois, "Sa Seigneurie est simplement Baron de l'Echiquier." What! what! The Lord High Chancellor of England a Baron of the Exchequer? As well might one say that Marshal MacMahon is a Maréchal-des-Logis.

One cannot, however, quarrel with the French paper for its blunder, when we consider the anomalies and the mysteries with which our Table of Legal Titles bristles, even to Englishmen. I spoke last week of the French puzzles propounded to the readers of the World. But a few Anglo-French puzzles of a legal nature might be with equal advantage offered for solution. What, for instance, is the difference between a French notaire and an English notary public? Define the respective functions of an avocat and an avoué in France and an attorney and a solicitor, a conveyancer and a special pleader, in England. What is the distinction between la magistrature debout and la magistrature assise in France? Finally, specify the divergence, if any, which exists between a French juge de paix and an English justice of the peace.

G. A. S.

THE MOORE AND BURGESS MINSTRELS.

This company inaugurated their fourteenth consecutive year at the St. James's Hall on Wednesday with a new programme, which is likely to prove as popular as its predecessors. Many entirely new ballads and melodies of great merit were sung, and met with applause. The comic element prevailed. Mr. T. Sully produced much mirth by a song entitled "Augustus Daisy Beau," and Mr. Lew Simmons sang for the first time a song called "Love, 'tis a funny thing," which was not deficient in broad humour. But the principal thing in this way was a new comic song expressly written for Mr. Charles Sutton on "Emancipation Day," which was capitally acted. Mr. Walter Howard lamented in verse the mishaps of a man born on a Friday, commencing with "I'm such an unfortunate man." The other pieces were chiefly pathetic. Among these may be distinguished "Good Night," by Mr. Charles Ernest; "The night have been," by Signor Germanio; "The mother to her child," by Mr. Sydney Herbert; "The little word, Yes," by Mr. Alfred Brenner; and "The Sailor Boy," by Mr. Vernon Reed. A new bass song by Mr. John Romer, called "Song of the God Vulcan," was creditable to the fancy of Mr. Henry S. Leigh and the musical talent of Mr. John Hobson. A new ballad, "My Lovely Star," was well sung by Mr. H. De Brenner. What followed was rather grotesque than musical—the burlesque of an operatic scena by Mr. Frank Pieri, an educational harangue by Mr. Charles Sutton, and a banjo solo by Mr. Walter Howard. Messrs. T. Sully, Albert Moynham, and M. Rene showed wonderful agility in a burlesque on the Grards, called "The Marvellous Gee-Hards;" and the whole concluded with a farcical melodrama entitled "The Adventurers." The hall was crowded with an appreciative audience.

In view of the epidemic of yellow fever now prevailing in certain parts of North America, the President of the Local Government Board has issued a notice drawing the attention of port authorities to the necessity of taking precautionary measures for the purpose of preventing its introduction by means of shipping to any English port. He points out the measures which should be taken in the event of an outbreak.

Lord Gilford, C.B., and Rear-Admiral R. Hall, C.B., naval secretary, transact business at the Admiralty, Whitehall, during the absence of the First Lord and Board on their official tour of inspection. The Lords of the Admiralty made their annual official visit of inspection to Pembroke Dockyard on Wednesday.—The Whitehall Review states that the Right Hon. W. H. Smith will start on his tour of inspection to Gibraltar, Malta, and Cyprus in the Enchantress on Oct. 15.

NATIONAL SPORTS.

Dull weather and poor sport kept many intending visitors away from Doncaster on the Thursday, and the course presented quite a deserted appearance. Lord Rosebery's recent purchase, Kaleidoscope, secured the first race in very easy style, and he is likely to prove a far more profitable investment than Bonnie Scotland has done. A six-furlong sweepstakes for two-year-olds has frequently produced a complete reversal of previous form, and this year there was once more a most remarkable case of in-and-out running. It will be remembered that in the Champagne Stakes, on the Tuesday, Charibert beat Raymond Or cleverly by a length. They met again on exactly the same terms, except that the course was some seventy yards longer, and the French colt won without an effort. Truly, poor backers have much to contend with! A field of sixteen was by no means what we have been accustomed to in a Portland Plate, though it was an improvement on last year, when Rosbach only had ten opponents. Hackthorpe (7 st. 3 lb.) started a very hot favourite, though he was ridden by a jockey quite unknown to fame; but Athol Lad (7 st. 4 lb.) kicked him severely just prior to the start and quite destroyed his chance. Redwing (7 st. 6 lb.) ran the best of the younger horses, though nothing had much chance against old Telescope (8 st. 5 lb.), who seems returning to his two-year-old form, which was uncommonly smart. In the Park Hall Stakes, on the Friday, Jannette had a very easy task, though Sonsie Queen ran sufficiently well to suggest the idea that her defeat of Attalus at Ascot was not quite such a fluke as was imagined at the time. For the second year in succession Lord Falmouth lost his annual match with Lord Fitzwilliam, as the disappointing Ringleader, on whom odds of 4 to 1 were laid, succumbed by a head to The Dean, a dark Lecturer colt. At the last moment Silvio declined the Doncaster Cup, which was thus reduced to a virtual match between Pageant and Hampton. Thanks to Kingsclere, the race was run at a strong pace throughout, and when the last-named was beaten, which occurred at the Red House, Pageant carried on the running at his best pace. As they rounded the last bend Hampton made a grand effort, and drew up nearly level; but 10 lb. was a little more than he could give away, and a most exciting finish ended in his defeat by three parts of a length. Still, he ran wonderfully well, and secured many fresh supporters for the Cambridgeshire, in which his weight is 9 st. 3 lb. The Doncaster Stakes proved another triumph for Lord Falmouth, who was in wonderful form during the week, as Caerau could not live with Childeric when it came to racing.

There was a great improvement in the prices realised for yearlings on the Thursday and Friday. In the Moorlands Stud a son of Speculum and Produce made 750 guineas; and, a little later on, Blue Rose, a half-sister to Doncaster, fetched 500 guineas, a sum that would probably have been doubled but for sad memories of All Heart. Mr. Cookson's lot did not reach their usual average, though Mr. Perkins gave 1300 guineas for an own sister to Palmflower. It was reserved, however, for Mr. W. I'Anson to distance all rival breeders, on the last day, when his eight were knocked down for the magnificent average of 708 guineas, the list being headed by a half-sister to Beauclerc, by The Palmer—Bonny Bell (1500 guineas), and a colt by Adventurer—Bonny Leith (1050 guineas).

Though the cricket season should have been over some little time ago, we still have two or three matches to chronicle each week. The Australians beat the West of Scotland in a single innings with 84 runs to spare, Spofforth taking eleven wickets, and making 48 runs, the top score. In the Colonists' last match in England, against Eighteen of Sunderland, neither he, Horan, nor Bailey played, and the Eighteen won by 71 runs. The return contest between Notts and Leicestershire, which has taken place this week, is the last of the county matches. As might have been anticipated, the Notts team, for which Wild (74), Barnes (98), and Flowers (58), all scored freely, won with ridiculous ease.

The match between Sadler and Hawdon, and the competition for the challenge cup presented by the proprietors of the Sportsman, have given the admirers of sculling a great treat. We need say little of the match, for Sadler, though once a really high-class sculler, has long since seen his best day, and could make no fight with the Delaval lad. The latter, we believe, has not yet been beaten, and is a very likely aspirant for championship honours at no very distant date. The race between Elliott and Higgins, in the first heat for the cup, was a magnificent one from start to finish, and the champion, who had all the worst of the stations, was defeated by a couple of lengths. Then Boyd made a fearful exhibition of Blackman, who, we fear, is rather an imposter as a sculler, and thus the final heat was left to the two North countrymen. They had a most curious race, as when Boyd held a good lead, and odds of 20 to 1 had been betted upon him, he was interfered with by one or two skiffs getting in his way, and Elliott, making a grand spurt, caught him out of his course, and won on the foul. Of course, Boyd's supporters were by no means satisfied with this result, and Elliott is not likely to keep his honours in peace, as Higgins and Boyd have already challenged him.

The released Fenians, Condon and Melody, sailed from Southampton for New York on Wednesday in the North German Lloyd's steamer Mosel.

Colonel J. H. Hudson, superintendent of the Royal Army clothing establishment at Pimlico, is about to take his retirement. He was appointed to the clothing factory on its establishment in 1856.

The Glasgow News says it is proposed to revive the idea of constructing an underground railway through Glasgow, and the plans are being prepared by Mr. Elder, C.E., St. Vincent-street, under the direction of Mr. J. H. Tolmie, C.E.

A fire broke out about six o'clock on Wednesday evening in the locomotive department of the Bricklayers' Arms goods station of the South-Eastern Railway. The fire was got under about seven o'clock, but the fitters' shop was severely damaged.

A company is being formed for the erection of an opera-house in Glasgow. The plans also provide for an aquarium, a Polytechnic similar to the London institution of that name, and galleries in which it is proposed to form a permanent industrial exhibition.

The post-office at Wangford, near Southwold, Suffolk, was on Wednesday destroyed by fire. The premises, which are also used as a grocery store, were entirely destroyed, and the telegraph wires injured, but the mails were saved. The origin of the fire is unknown.

The Orphan Cottage Homes of Scotland, situated about midway between Glasgow and Greenock, were opened on Tuesday—Sir Peter Coats presiding. The ground upon which the cottages are built consists of forty acres, and already a large main building and three cottage homes have been erected. It is intended to erect seven other cottage homes for orphan children of Glasgow and the West of Scotland.

POLITICAL.

A report has been agreed to by the Select Committee appointed to consider whether any extension should be made in the number of hours for polling at Parliamentary and municipal elections in boroughs other than the metropolitan boroughs, in which it is stated that the Committee, whilst believing that in some instances advantage would be gained by an extension of hours, did not feel it desirable to make any recommendation in that direction owing to the difficulties which would beset such a proposal. They thought the question might very well stand over till the time came for considering the Ballot Act, when some experience would have been gained by the extension of hours in the metropolitan constituencies.

Mr. Gladstone, the Marquis of Hartington, and Mr. Lowe have sent to the West Ham Liberal Association acknowledgments of a resolution lately passed by that association thanking them for the course they had taken with respect to the Anglo-Turkish Convention. The Marquis of Hartington's reply is a formal letter of thanks. Mr. Gladstone expresses satisfaction that the association has noticed the dangerous character of the present financial policy. Mr. Lowe says, with reference to the straining of the Royal prerogative:—"If every part of the Constitution were to strain its powers to the utmost, if the principle which is now laid down with regard to majorities were to be extended to the different branches of the Legislature, the whole machinery of our Government would soon be brought to a deadlock."

The Hon. Algernon Egerton, Secretary to the Admiralty, speaking at the opening of a Conservative Club at Little Lever, near Bolton, on the 12th inst., responded to a vote of confidence in the Government, eulogising both its home and foreign policy. The protection of the route to India and the demand that Constantinople should not be occupied by any foreign Power had been the keynotes of their policy throughout. Speaking as to the occupation of Cyprus, he said the Navy had always desired an establishment in that quarter of the Mediterranean. It must, he thought, be considered unhealthy at present, but it had once contained over a million inhabitants, and could be made healthy.

Lord Dalrymple, eldest son of the Earl of Stair, in reply to a deputation which waited upon him at Lochinch Castle on Monday, consented to contest the county of Wigtown in the Liberal interest at the next election.

The Hon. Cecil Ashley, the fourth son of the Earl of Shaftesbury, was unanimously selected at a Liberal meeting at Berwick-on-Tweed last Monday night as the candidate to contest the borough, in conjunction with the present Liberal member, Sir D. C. Marjoribanks, at the next general election. Mr. Ashley has expressed his willingness to come forward.

Colonel Sir James M'Garel Hogg, M.P. for Truro and Chairman of the Metropolitan Board of Works, addressed a crowded meeting of the electors of Truro held in support of Colonel Tremayne's nomination for that city in the Conservative interest on the 12th inst. In the course of his remarks the gallant Colonel, who was enthusiastically received, said he felt certain that the electors of Truro would by their voices and votes show their confidence in and appreciation of the services of that far-seeing and sagacious Minister Lord Beaconsfield and his trusty colleagues, who in times of unwonted peril had steered the ship of our country safely into port. One of the greatest and most masterly strokes of policy of Lord Beaconsfield was the calling out of the Indian troops when the Russians did not seem disposed to submit the whole of the San Stefano Treaty to the Congress. Those 7000 Indian troops represented 70,000 or even a very much greater number who were willing to fight; and not only was this the case, but Colonel Stanley had told them that hundreds of offers of help for England reached the Foreign Office from all quarters of the globe.

Viscount Newport, in replying to the toast of the county members at the dinner of the North Shropshire Agricultural Society, said that one reason why a very great amount of domestic legislation could not have been accomplished last Session was because a large proportion of the time at the disposal of Parliament was absorbed by the all-important subject of Eastern affairs. He was old-fashioned enough to consider that the best way of obtaining a lasting and durable peace would be to make Turkey strong and well governed, and he very much regretted the carving up of the Turkish Empire. He regretted the cession of the port of Batoum, as it was very undesirable that the naval power of Russia should have an opportunity of increasing in the Black Sea. He yet felt, in the circumstances, it would be possible to strengthen Turkey under the Treaty of Berlin; and therefore he thought that the signing of that treaty was preferable to war.

A testimonial, in the shape of silver plate to the value of nearly £300, was presented on Wednesday evening at York to Mr. W. D. Husband, a local Conservative leader in that city; and the Right Hon. J. Lowther, Chief Secretary for Ireland, responded to the toast of "Her Majesty's Ministers." In the course of his speech he said he thought Europe would scarcely be prepared to look with equanimity on any revival of the Eastern Question.

Colonel North, M.P., presiding at the annual dinner of the Banbury Agricultural Association on Wednesday, touched on political matters, and expressed his disapproval of the frivolous objections raised to the acquisition of Cyprus. He believed the country had never stood higher since the days of Waterloo than it did at the present moment.

The first municipal election for Burslem under the new charter of incorporation has resulted in the return of seventeen Liberals out of the twenty-four members elected, including the Mayor and five out of six of the Aldermen.

THE VOLUNTEERS.

The ninth competition of the South London Rifle Club was held on Tuesday. A strong wind prevailed, but some good scores were made. The following are the winners:—Captain Morris, 3rd Kent; Captain Sweeting, 23rd Surrey; Private C. Brown, 19th Surrey; Private Hay, Artists'. Range prizes: 200 yards—Private L. H. Thomas, 19th Middlesex; Captain Despard, London Irish; Major Farrell, 26th Kent. 500 yards—Private C. Brown, 19th Surrey; Major Farrell, 26th Kent; Private Fraser, London R.B. 600 yards—Private S. P. Beeton, L.R.B.; Major Farrell, 26th Kent; Private L. H. Thomas, 19th Middlesex.

The annual prize-meeting of the 10th Shropshire Rifle Volunteers was held at Whitbach on the 12th, when the shooting was carried on under great disadvantages owing to a violent gale. The silver challenge Cup was won by Corporal Biggs, who, having won the cup two years in succession, becomes the absolute owner.

The Volunteer Service Gazette states that one captain and nine subalterns of volunteers resigned last week. There have been six new appointments, so that there is a net loss of four. Seven of the retiring officers held certificates of proficiency.

The General Baptist Assembly has held this week at Dover its 225th annual meeting.

AS OTHERS SEE US.

English critics have lately been making merry over the faults found with modern London by an Italian critic—one Signor Petruccelli della Gattina, who seems to combine advanced Radicalism in politics with a curious Toryism in domestic matters, and whose principal objection to the English of to-day would appear to be that they are too like the French.

Of all possible accusations this must be surely the most groundless. We have adopted some French improvements, it is true; and the French have to a certain extent returned the compliment—as, for example, in the manlier tone of their politics during the last year or two; but it is hardly possible to exaggerate the essential difference betwen the two nations. To see ourselves as others see us is generally a thing much to be desired; but, of all recent foreign observers, Signor della Gattina would seem to be the one whose views are least worthy of our attention—they are likely to do good only as showing to what absurd lengths a prejudiced praiser of the past may go.

But Signor della Gattina is, in his uselessness, an exception; as a rule, the criticism of strangers, whether partial or impartial, is of the greatest value. They repeat themselves to a certain extent, it is true; but even this is useful, for it shows which features of our insular manners and customs are really the most striking and invariable.

To begin with: "manners," say the French, "they have none." Critic after critic repeats the remark; and of its truth there can be surely no doubt. We are the most ill-bred nation upon earth—except, some travellers tell us, the Americans; but the exception is doubtful. It is not bearing nor, in some senses, refinement that we want; there is a remarkable air of distinction about the better sort of English men and women; it is mere genuine civility. One often hesitates to make a remark to an Englishman, simply because one does not know whether one will get a civil answer: a Frenchman will reply courteously even to the least interesting truism one may hazard. More than this, it is absolutely certain that he will say something; many Britons are so ignorant of the most elementary laws of good-breeding that they will merely stare in a way only to be excused on the supposition that they are stone-deaf.

In a hundred details the foreigner notices our want of civility, our want of thoughtfulness in small matters which affect the comfort or pleasures of others. There is a reverse to the picture, but this he is not so likely to notice—one remembers a single thing that incommodes one far more keenly than half a dozen which add to one's pleasure; and a Frenchman very probably does not remark how much less ready he is than an average Englishman to put himself to bodily inconvenience to oblige others, to give up what is strictly his due—in such matters, for example, as his seat in a train, an omnibus, or a theatre. It may be said that the French are better bred than the English, but more selfish; though discourtesy is, as a rule, only a minor form of selfishness.

One thing, however, all foreigners notice, with pleasure and even with surprise, in England; and this is the great civility of our official people—policemen, attendants at public places, railway guards, and so forth. The overbearing insolence of the German minor official, the brutality of the French, are replaced in England by a quiet and friendly helpfulness thoroughly appreciated by the stranger who is travelling or sightseeing. Here every man feels himself more or less a member of the Government; abroad, where the traditions of despotism have not had time to die out, a ruler and a bully are still thought to be terms almost synonymous.

Closely related to the subject of manners is that of caste; few foreigners fail to observe the great difference between the classes in "aristocratic England," as the freest of countries is (not unjustly) called. In France, if a Duke were talking to a dairyman, he would call him Monsieur: the dairyman would return it—and no more. But in England—! Let us give an example of the English politeness which addresses a man according to the value of his coat.

There was brought out, a short time ago, at one of the principal London theatres, a play (written by an author of some distinction, a University man) wherein one of the chief characters was a young man, quite a "gentleman"—he was, I think, supposed to be fresh from college, and was at all events not intended to be in any way boorish or vulgar. This person wanted to attract the attention of a man standing at some distance, shabbily dressed, and of an appearance generally rather disreputable; and the only remark which the youth's courtesy suggested to him was "Hi! you fellow!" (or "Hi! you there!" I will not be certain which). Nobody in the audience seemed to think this rude; they apparently took it for granted as the way in which a "gentleman" would be likely to speak to one who was not a gentleman.

This a Frenchman would notice at once—and the French are our most constant critics, and our best. To have read Taine's Notes on England is almost a liberal education; the censure is, with very few exceptions, so unanswerably just—the praise such a noble stimulus to further effort. He has theories, it is true; and we in England are suspicious of theories—but this is only another of the points on which we differ, possibly another in which we are not in the right!

Perhaps of all our English customs, that of cleanliness is the one to which the French do least justice: they have not learnt the need of it, and do not really care for it—and, besides, there is in France much more apparent cleanliness than here. The streets of Paris are beautifully kept (though the gutters are malodorous), and the houses are not black with smoke: the lowest class is not so filthy as ours: and their public places—notably, eating-houses—are far more decent. But within ——! There are horrors in French homes, even of the better class, which the pen refuses to describe.

One thing there is, finally, which fills all foreigners with amazement and with woe: no description suffices to prepare them for it, no length of time makes it more endurable to them, they never understand it—nor does, one may confess, anybody else. This is the British Sunday—and above all the British Sunday of large towns. Whether the French entirely fail to see the advantage of a weekly day of rest, I do not know; but they protest constantly against what they call the stagnation of the British Sabbath. They hold it an opportunity for mental culture and refinement wasted by the closing of all museums, picture-galleries, and libraries, which are on that day most universally open in France.

People say that the Continental Sunday is impossible in England, even if it were in every way desirable; that the lower classes, if left to amuse themselves unrestrained, would simply get drunk. This may or may not be so; and, at all events, however unwillingly, one must confess that drunkenness is the great national vice that first strikes every foreigner. I never met a Frenchman or a German who had seen a tipsy woman in the streets till he came to England. It may be partly, as M. Taine thinks, the result of our climate; it may arise from what Mr. Matthew Arnold calls the "immense ennui" of our middle classes. At any rate, it has been our characteristic since the days of Shakspeare; others see it, and are horrified; we see it—and do nothing. Whether it is diminishing in any way, one hardly knows; but until it shall disappear almost entirely, the Continental critic will feel that between his country and England there is a great gulf.

THE BRITISH FLAG IN CYPRUS.

Our Special Artist in Cyprus, "S. P. O.," contributes a sketch of the scene at the door of the Greek Monastery Church at Kiko, two miles from Nicosia, adjacent to the head-quarters' camp of General Sir Garnet Wolseley, on Sunday, the 18th ult., when the Most Reverend Archimandrite, with other Greek clergy, blessed the British flag. This ceremony was preceded by the performance of a high mass within the church. Outside the main door, between the two towers of the sacred edifice, a carpeting of rugs and cloths, variously coloured, was laid down; a gilt chair of state was placed for the English Governor, and a table, with a pair of tall candlesticks, for the clergy. Sir Garnet Wolseley declined to sit in the chair, which looked too much like a throne; but he stood beside it, while Colonel Brackenbury, Captain McCalmont, and Lord Gifford, members of his staff, were behind the chair. The monks and priests, with acolytes bearing the crucifix and censer and vessel of holy water, came out in procession, attired in gorgeous vestments, and chanting a solemn hymn. The flag was hallowed by the Archimandrite with a particular benediction, and was then hoisted, rather clumsily, by one of the church attendants. Three cheers were given for Queen Victoria, for Sir Garnet Wolseley, and for the British nation. There was no parade of military force; indeed, most of the British Indian troops have now departed, and Turkish soldiers are still employed to mount guard, though under British officers, in the capital of Cyprus.

AGRICULTURAL ITEMS.

The Northamptonshire Agricultural Society held its annual exhibition of horses, stock, and implements last week in a spacious show-ground on the racecourse, Northampton. The show was a good one, the number of entries being greater than in any previous years, and the quality of the exhibits leaving nothing to be desired. A horticultural show was held in connection with the county agricultural exhibition.

The Thame Agricultural Society had its annual meeting last week; the Woodstock Agricultural Society's Show was held on Tuesday in Blenheim Park; and on Wednesday the annual dinner of the Banbury Agricultural Association was held—Colonel North, M.P., in the chair.

The thirty-third annual show of the Staffordshire Agricultural Society was opened at Leek on Wednesday. The prize list amounted to £1000. The show was very successful, the number of entries being far in excess of previous years.

The annual sale of the Duke of Devonshire's shorthorns took place on Wednesday at Holkar-in-Furness, when about thirty head of cattle were sold, realising £20,000.

Kingsdown great cross-bred sheep fair was held at Box, near Bath, on Wednesday. Nearly 3000 sheep were penned. Superior lambs fetched £3 each, whilst best ewes brought £3 10s.

Howden horse fair has been held this week. On the whole, whilst the fair was a good one for better class horses, the supply of middle class animals was in excess of the demand.

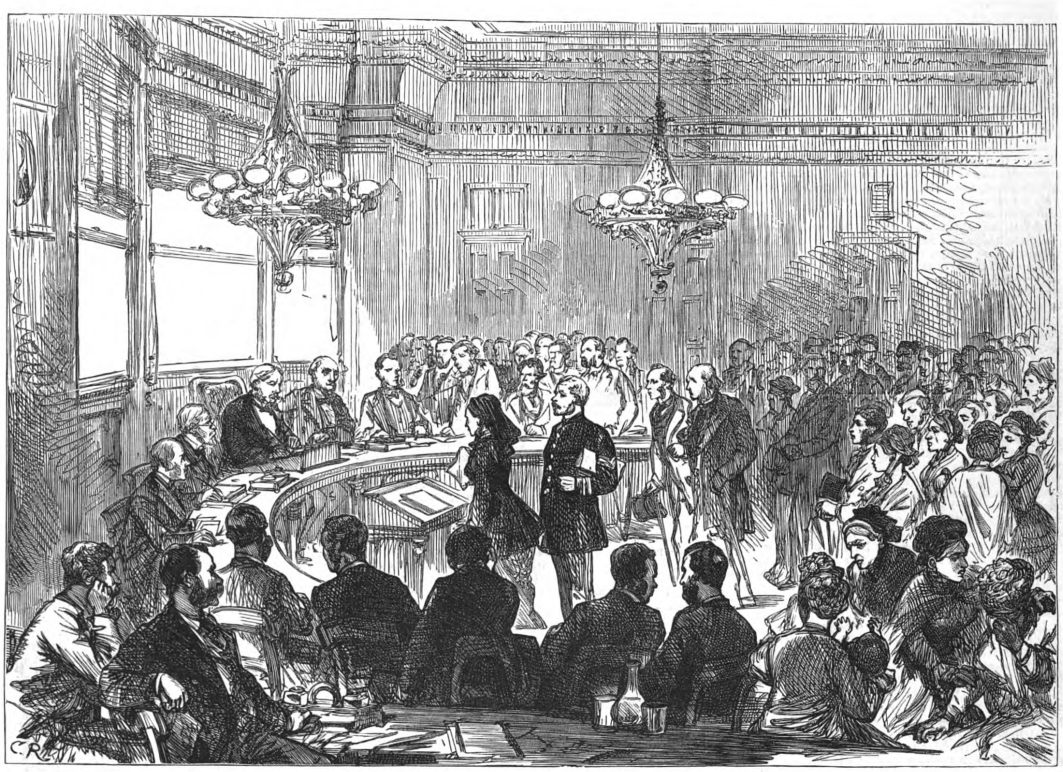
The twenty-second annual festival in commemoration of the safe in-gathering of the crops in the district of East Brent was commemorated on the 12th inst. The day's proceedings began with an early celebration at the parish church at eight o'clock, a second celebration taking place an hour later. The thanksgiving service began at half-past eleven, by which hour the sacred edifice was crowded. The sermon was preached by the Rev. Canon Baynes, of Coventry, who concluded an excellent discourse by making an urgent appeal on behalf of the sufferers from the late direful accident in the Thames. The offertory amounted to £9. At the conclusion of the service a procession was formed, and, headed by Archdeacon Denison and other clergymen, it proceeded to the vicarage-field, the band playing "The Roast Beef of Old England," and there a monster marquee had been erected, the interior of which had been lavishly decorated by ladies of the parish. The Venerable Archdeacon, who appeared to be in excellent health and spirits, presided. The company numbered upwards of 400. Ample justice was done to the roast and boiled beef and mutton, of which six hundredweight was cooked. Subsequently nearly 1000 women and children took tea, after which dancing and other amusements were indulged in.

At the Glynde Cottagers' Show on the 12th inst. the Right Honourable the Speaker, as president of the society, distributed the prizes. In his address he drew a contrast between the condition of the dwellers in London and that of the dwellers in Glynde—much in favour of the latter—in respect of gardens, water, sunshine, and air. There were, he said, hundreds of thousands of persons in London who had never seen a garden, and who were to be pitied. He passed half his life in the greatest city in the world, and, by the favour of the nation, he lived in the finest palace in that great city; but yet he had no garden.—The harvest-home feast at Glynde Park took place last Saturday, and Mr. Brand, in responding to the toast of his health, referred to the proposal which he made five years ago to the labourers on his farm to take, on certain conditions, a share in the profits. Those profits, he said, were then about 5 per cent; but since that time they had not been so large, and therefore he had not pressed on the labourers the expediency of accepting that offer. He traced the decline of profits to the diminished yield, owing to wet weather, of some heavy land under tillage, and stated that he should lay that land down in pasture, looking forward to raising in future more meat and less corn. It was turned from grass-land when wheat was much dearer and meat much cheaper than now, and he therefore expected a favourable result.

Mr. Walter S. Britten, of the Clarence Bicycle Club, has ridden from London to Bath and back, a distance of 212 miles, in one day.

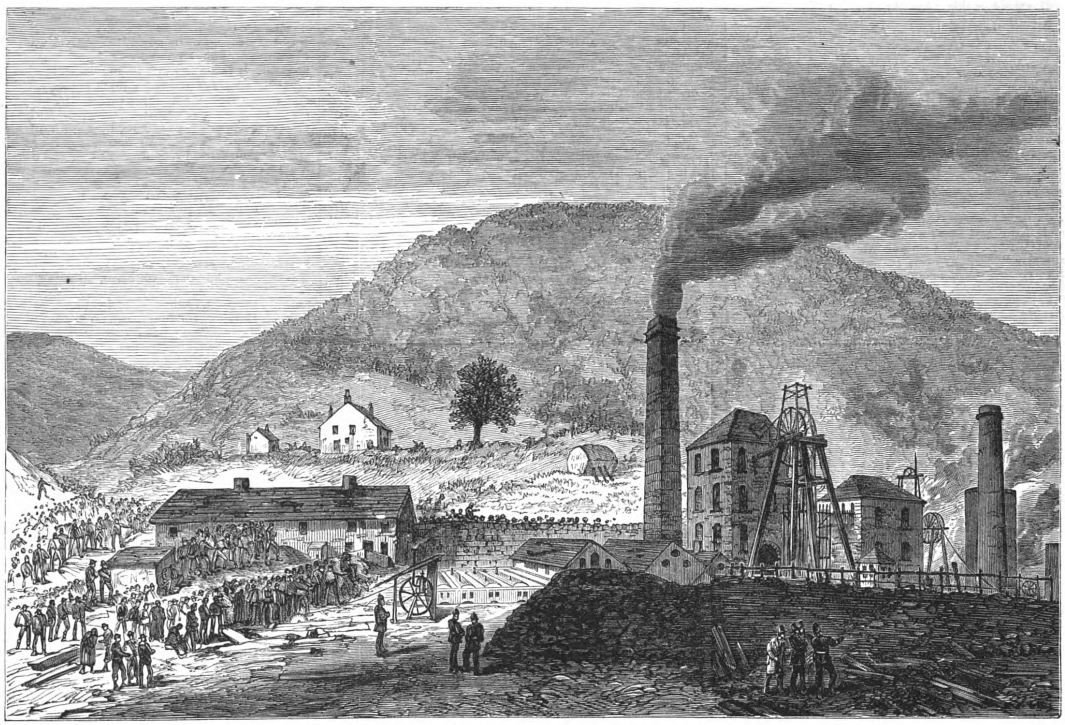
Consequent upon an intimation from New Orleans that no more aid is required, the American Yellow Fever Relief Fund in Liverpool is closed, over £3000 having been remitted.

A specimen of that very rare tortoise the Trionyx Argus has lately been presented to the Brighton Aquarium by C. Phipps Lucas, Esq. It is a native of the rivers on the Western Coast of Africa, and belongs to the soft-shelled tortoises.



Mrs. Soames, of Tramore Lodge, Kemptown, Brighton, has offered to invest £1000 for the purpose of providing prizes for the senior children of the local school boards who distinguish themselves in religious knowledge.

At the meeting of the Brighton Town Council on Wednesday the plans for the rearrangement and improvement of the water supply were brought under consideration, when the plan of Mr. Edward Easton, involving an estimated cost of £13,500, was agreed to without discussion.



An extraordinary bed of snakes was discovered on a farm at Werrallt, Carmarthenshire, a few days ago. A slaughter was commenced, and 352 snakes were killed. Three of the snakes were of great size, and one hundred of them were from nine to twelve inches in length.

THE OCCUPATION OF CYPRUS: GREEK PRIESTS BLESSING THE BRITISH FLAG AT NICOSIA.
FROM A SKETCH BY OUR SPECIAL ARTIST.

THE GREAT DISASTER ON THE THAMES: THE INQUEST AT WOOLWICH TOWNHALL.

THE ABERCARNE COLLIERY, MONMOUTHSHIRE, WHERE THE EXPLOSION TOOK PLACE.

NEW BOOKS.

SIR GARNET WOLSELEY.

Avidity is scarcely too strong a term to apply to the feeling with which the majority of readers are likely to fall upon A Memoir of Lieutenant-General Sir Garnet J. Wolseley, K.C.B., G.C.M.G., D.C.L., LL.D., by Charles Rathbone Low, I.N., F.R.G.S. (Richard Bentley and Son); for the two volumes so entitled are devoted to the task of telling all that the writer could ascertain about the career of that distinguished General who seems to be regarded by common consent as the "coming man," should England be again in need of a commander like Marlborough or Wellington. Nor would it be surprising, so saintly are the accidents from which happy omens are drawn, if a lucky portent were detected in the similarity of sound between Wolseley and Wellesley, and in the Irish extraction, or at any rate connection, of both the hero of Ashantee and the hero of Waterloo. The enthusiastic may hold that the coming man has already come; but Sir Garnet, if his character be properly understood, would be the first to repudiate the idea that, for all the service he has seen, for all the gallantry he has displayed as a soldier, for all the skill he has exhibited as a leader, for all the talent and ability he has developed as a diplomatist and as an administrator, he has ever yet accomplished—anything never, in fact, had the chance of accomplishing—anything that elevates him from the regions of high promise to the level of men who have achieved greatness. Unless report have done him flattering injustice, it was he himself who, after the conclusion of his brilliant campaign on the Gold Coast, moderated the exuberance which would have thrust upon him a greatness to which he made no pretension. Moreover, common consent is not always trustworthy, and general expectation is frequently disappointed, as was illustrated in the case of General McLellan, who commanded the Northern against the Southern hosts in the early part of the War of Secession, and whom, to his own disgust, no doubt, and certainly to subsequent depreciation and obscuration of the abilities he really showed and the reputation to which he was fairly entitled, Transatlantic swaggger had paraded before the world under the arrogant style and title of "the young Napoleon." But then McLellan had never proved himself, as Sir Wolseley has; had never found so many opportunities to be turned to such excellent account. If ever common consent and general expectation were justified, being based upon actual performance, upon positives and comparatives mounting up towards superlatives, one would say that they are in the case of Sir Garnet. But, should it be his destiny to win one of "the decisive battles of the world," there will be, as there now is, probably, to some extent, dismay among the believers in public schools, who plume themselves upon the saying that "the battle of Waterloo was won in the playing-fields of Eton:" for Sir Garnet was not educated at a public school.

"The family of Wolseley," says the memoir, "is one of the most ancient in the county of Stafford, the manor of Wolseley having been in their possession before the Conquest;" and Sir Garnet, who was born at Golden Bridge House, County Dublin, on June 4, 1833, is the eldest son of the late Major E. J. Wolseley, of the 25th King's Own Borderers, who was the son of the Rev. William Wolseley, formerly a captain of hussars, who was the younger son of Sir Richard Wolseley, "who, in 1744, was created Baronet of 'Mount Wolseley, Carlow,' in Ireland." At the risk of shocking the believers in nothing but public schools and the young subalterns who boast that they "read nothing but the Army List," it must now be mentioned, still on the authority of the memoir, that "Sir Garnet Wolseley was educated at a day school near Dublin, and later had private tutors;" that "as a boy he was remarkable for his studious habits, and, when a mere child, had read all the chief works on military history;" that "his predilection for study was not confined to a liking for one branch of learning;" that "he was remarkable for aptitude in mathematical studies, and used regularly to go out four or five times a week surveying and acquiring a knowledge of the art of military engineering;" that "he was also versed in fortification and astronomical science, and exhibited his versatility by the proficiency he acquired in such practical pursuits as carpentering and the use of the lathe." This, unfortunately, is about all that can be gleaned from the memoir touching those early years which, in the case of such men of Sir Garnet Wolseley, are generally considered especially interesting; the years during which the child is begetting the man, and the life at home is bringing out characteristics to be hereafter intensified or modified in the life beyond the family circle. We have scarcely a glimpse of the internal economy of the household in which he was brought up, scarcely a hint of the way in which he may have been affected by domestic influences, no history of boyish adventures, not a single anecdote, unless it have been missed, like that which we have all read about Nelson and "Mr." Fear. Perhaps there was no story to tell; and, if there were any story to tell, there is a full and sufficient explanation why it has not been told. All Sir Garnet's papers and journals have been lost—partly stolen during the Indian mutiny, and partly "burnt at the great fire at the Pantechnicon, where," as many of us must well remember, "all his furniture and effects were consumed." Moreover, such is the modesty of the man, he is a very difficult person to "pump," so that the writer of the memoir had not a very promising subject to perform upon when personal details had to be extracted. On the other hand, the book was written under the very eye, as it were, of Sir Garnet, who, "after perusal, testified to its absolute veracity." So that, however meagre the work may appear in some respects, imagination or hearsay has not been drawn upon for facts. Moreover, the author of the memoir had already shown by his "History of the Indian Navy" that he was eminently qualified to appreciate such a man and such a career as he has undertaken to describe.

The memoir, then, is confined almost entirely to a record of public services in the field and in the closet, the services of an officer who takes high, if not the highest, rank "not only as a soldier and administrator, but as an author, artist, and surveyor." It is, therefore, to a very considerable extent a compilation; but it has been compiled from the very best and most trustworthy sources. It entailed upon the writer the necessity of dealing with many of the most momentous events in which this country has been concerned, from the Second Burmese War in 1852, to the occupation of Cyprus, in 1878. We find Ensign Wolseley distinguishing himself, a few months after he had joined, in that Burmese campaign; and Captain Wolseley, once more severely wounded, gaining golden opinions in the Crimean War and in the Indian Mutiny. Next, we have Colonel Wolseley a Brevet Lieutenant-Colonel at the early age of twenty-six, taking his part in the War in China, "in the thick of the fire at the capture of the Taku Forts," doing good work as a surveyor, and present at but scorning to take a part in the sack of the famous Yuen-Ming-Yuen. In 1861 we follow him, promoted to a substantive majority, to England and then to Paris, where he "employed his leisure in painting in oils and water colours;" and anon, at the time of the scare about the "Trent," in the winter of 1861, we see him interrupted in the midst of his hunting in County Cork and sent away to Canada. Here Colonel Wolseley performed with success long and arduous duties, and, having married during his short leave in 1868, returned with his wife from England to the Dominion. In 1870 Colonel Wolseley was appointed to the command of the Red River Expedition, of which a most noteworthy account is given, and in which, more perhaps than in any other business in which he has been employed, he showed the variety as well as the excellence of his faculties. He was now rewarded with a knighthood, and became Sir Garnet Joseph Wolseley, K.C.M.G. During the Autumn Manœuvres of 1871 Sir Garnet was Chief of the Staff to Sir Charles Staveley; and, in 1873, when it was resolved to send an expedition to Coomassie, the command was, with the universal approval of the country, conferred upon Sir Garnet. How amply he justified the confidence placed in him know all men; and how well he was rewarded may be inferred from the fact that he refused to take all that was offered him—declining, in fact, the G.C.B. His substantive rank, though he had held the local rank of Major-General on the Gold Coast, was still that of Major; and he was forthwith promoted by special general order to the grade of Major-General, an honour which was accompanied by the bestowal of the K.C.B., the G.C.M.G., and a grant of £25,000. In 1875 Sir Garnet "was called upon by the Government to proceed to Natal, and assume temporarily the supreme direction of military and civil affairs in the colony," whence he returned with fresh, but peaceful, laurels to the duties which he had previously discharged in England, and which he relinquished, in November, 1876, for "a seat at the Council of India." He is now, as we all know, her Majesty's High Commissioner and Commander-in-Chief at Cyprus, where he will not be called upon to occupy that bed of roses which has never been good for his constitution. His character is summed up by "one who knows him well" in the following terms:—"I have had the best opportunity of judging of the man, and I say he is the most perfect character I have ever met; no one can see much of him without being the better for a regard which becomes perfect affection; no one could be more unspoilt by his rise; I know no difference in him now from the time when he was a very young Captain—no franker, more magnanimous, fearless man, morally and physically, I think, ever lived."

Such a man, so successful and so praised, might well think of employing somebody to remind him of what the slave said to Philip of Macedon several times during the day, and of what Solon said to Crœsus. As for the tone of the memoir, it is for the most part highly creditable to the writer, but it occasionally betrays, not as regards Sir Garnet, but as regards other people who have the bestowal of honours and compliments, a little of that querulous and sneering spirit which, with more excuse, was discernible in the "History of the Indian Navy."

The prominent part played and the share of glory won in the late war by those gallant allies to whom Russia owed some thanks for help in time of trouble, and whom she repaid by an act of spoliation, are quite sufficient to account for the appearance of Three Years in Roumania, by J. W. Ozanne (Chapman and Hall), a volume in which the author, who had already awakened some interest in his subject by articles contributed to magazines, has set himself the task of drawing "a sketch of the land and its inhabitants, their customs, and history," derived principally from personal experience acquired during an actual residence of three years in the country. He refers "the more ardent student of politics and commerce" to other sources of information, which he specifies by name; and, though he professes to "wish the Roumanians well," he claims to have written in the spirit of strict impartiality. His book, then, is not to be regarded as exhaustive; but it probably contains as much as most people will desire to know about Roumania; and it will certainly be read by the majority of inquirers with great interest and with no little profit and pleasure. We start with him from London for Cologne, Vienna, Basiasch, and so down the blue Danube to Giurgiu, at which we disembark for Bucharest, or "the city of pleasure," of which a description is given so uninviting in many respects as to lead to a belief that the name was bestowed upon the delusive principle whereon an English slum is so often known as "Paradise Row" and an English hovel as "Elysium Cottage." Then follow some remarks upon "society," the "middle class," the "common herd," the "gipsy race;" upon the "government," the "church," the "country;" upon "agriculture and commerce;" upon the "origin of the people, language and literature, education;" and upon the "manners and customs." After this, there is a short account of a trip on "raid" made by the author into Transylvania. This is followed by some historical and romantic fragments touching "the early heroes," the "rule of the Phanariotes," and the "restoration of native Princes," to be succeeded, in course of time, by "a scion of the House of Hohenzollern." And so we arrive at the last chapter, containing a "review of the political situation." When it is stated that the whole volume contains fewer than two hundred and fifty pages, it will be evident that, though "Roumania is not a first-class State," the work can only be regarded as a slight and somewhat superficial one. However, from the ordinary reader's point of view, "'t will serve," and serve amply. If it be true that "there are two hundred churches in Bucharest," where there are but two hundred and forty-four thousand inhabitants, the proportion is creditable to their ecclesiastical proclivities, but, regarded in connection with what we are told about their manner of life, recalls to mind the saying about "the nearer the church," &c. The social institutions of the Roumanians seem to lead sometimes to curious complications. For instance, we read of "children who have their mother in one family, their father in another" (though, perhaps, we might not have much difficulty in finding the parallel of that even in our own country), and of "women who at a soirée meet two or three former husbands, lean on the arm of a fourth, and blush at the compliments of a fifth"—a state of things with which we cannot as yet pretend to compete, and which probably arises to a considerable extent from the fact, if it be a fact, that "the Roumanian women are famed for their beauty, and their whole existence is devoted to loving and being loved." The author seems to be possessed of a spirit of exaggeration when he says that, in the hour of danger at Plevna, "foiled and beaten, the Czar, who had often before declined with contempt the offers of Prince Charles, fell on his knees and besought the Roumanians to save him;" and "it is clear that, but for their hearty co-operation, the troops of the Czar could never have held their own, but must have been driven back until they took refuge on friendly soil." Moderation would prompt one to say that the Roumanians helped the Czar out of a predicament, from which he would not otherwise have extricated himself without great temporary loss and disgrace, and that he only "fell on his knees" in a very shadowy, figurative sense. However, for all this, we may cheerfully allow that the Roumanians "are, without exception, the most promising of the Christian races of the East;" and yet they may not be very promising after all.

In the category of really useful, admonitory, and deeply-moving books may be included Letters from Muskoka: by an Emigrant Lady (Richard Bentley and Son); for it certainly is deeply moving to read such an account of a lady's experience of emigration as is summed up in the following pathetic paragraph:—"I went into the Bush of Muskoka strong and healthy, full of life and energy, and fully as enthusiastic as the youngest of our party: I left it with hopes completely crushed, and with health so hopelessly shattered from hard work, increasing anxiety and trouble of all kinds, that I am now a helpless invalid, entirely confined, by the doctor's orders, to my bed and sofa, with not the remotest chance of ever leaving them for a more active life during the remainder of my days on earth." And all this deterioration was effected by about four years' endurance of an emigrant's life. It is impossible not to sympathise with the sufferer, though it is equally impossible not to see that the unfortunate lady, whether we judge of her case from her own candid confession or from the evidence of artless revelations, which disclose her natural tendencies, her normal state of mind, her prejudices, her prepossessions, and her "notions," was about as unpromising an emigrant as ever crossed the seas. The Franco-German war was at the bottom of her misadventure, for she was resident in France at that date, and, what with "virulent smallpox and other epidemics, the result of effluvia from the battle-fields," and what with "reduced income" (a very prevalent complaint), whilst "provisions rose to an enormous price, taxation greatly increased, and the country bid fair to be long in an unsettled condition," she, with certain members of her family, "began to think of emigration." So they "read up a few books on emigration, which invariably paint it in the brightest colours, and being quite ignorant of the expense of so long a journey, of the hardships of the 'Bush,' and of the absolute necessity for a sum of money to begin with," they left home, believing in the innocence of ignorance and with sanguine disregard of common-sense "that strong hearts, willing hands, and the pension of an officer's widow would be inexhaustible riches in the wilderness." It is all very well to throw the blame upon "books on emigration," which, if memory may be trusted, do not by any means "invariably" paint the emigrant's prospects in rosy colours, but it is far more likely that the blame, if any, might be more justly laid at the door of the lady's own son, who, it appears, "had settled on the 'free-grant lands' of Muskoka, and who wrote frequently to urge other members of the family to come out before all the good land near his location was taken up." At this time, it is pertinent to observe, "he was himself thriving, but immediately after suffered great reverses." At any rate, the lady's own book is not open to the reproach of painting things in such colours as to send emigrants thronging to the wilds of Muskoka, Ontario, Canada; it is, on the other hand, eminently calculated, as it is professedly intended, to "deter others of the genteel class, and especially elderly people, from breaking up their comfortable homes and following an ignis fatuus in the shape of emigration to a distant land." People, indeed, before they emigrate, would do well to reflect that man was created male and female, but was not created "genteel;" and that the emigrant, in the sense in which the word is generally understood—that of a first settler, in fact, in an uncleared region—has as little to do with gentility as Adam and Eve had at the date of their creation. The "genteel class" is out of place in a wilderness, where before all things it is necessary to brave in naked, rude reality the unpleasant consequences of the "primal curse." The "letters" of the emigrant lady are few, and the information they contain is somewhat scanty, but they are interesting and quite enough for the purpose; they are followed—that a decent number of pages, presumably, might go to the volume—by various papers having more or less connection with Muskoka, and including a batch of "anecdotes of the Canadian Bush." These anecdotes refer to "thirty years ago," and were told to the "lady" by "the wife of an old settler." The most remarkable of them should be worth many a bun to the brown bears at the Zoological Society's Gardens; for a brown bear it was, if the anecdote and the conclusions based upon it be trustworthy, that slept every night for a week or so beside a poor lost little boy, and "was so kind and good-natured that it let him creep quite close to it, and put his arms round it, and that in this way he slept quite warm." And yet we say, "as savage as a bear." But, no doubt, there are bears, and bears; the difficulty is that one never knows which is which.

It is pleasant to find an old purveyor of light literature still to the front; and there will, no doubt, be a kindly welcome at many a club and elsewhere for the two volumes entitled Fashion Then and Now, by Lord William Pitt Lennox (Chapman and Hall), who once more comes forward with a collection of vivacious gossip, such as one can dip into at any idle moment with the certainty of fastening upon something curious or entertaining. The "then" of the title applies apparently to any time within the period which has elapsed since the Deluge, but chiefly to the last century or so; the "now" explains itself; and the contents of the volumes form a far from disagreeable mixture of personal reminiscences, hearsay, and extracts from printed records. There are "anecdotes, social, political, military, dramatic, and sporting," together with "remarks on dress, elections, duelling, amateur theatricals, racing, hunting, shooting, fishing, skating, golfing, curling, deep-sea fishing, and yachting." Readers of a certain kind never tire of such fare, and do not at all object to a touch of antiquity, or even a flavour of repetition about it; perhaps they like it all the better. Such a book, moreover, is not only amusing in itself, but may be as useful as a second memory, as a convenient work of reference, though there is, unfortunately, no index for the consultor's assistance.

The Whitehall Review this week gives to its subscribers a portrait of Princess Thyra of Denmark.

POSTAGE OF THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

AT HOME.

The cost of transmission by post within the United Kingdom, including the Channel Islands, is one halfpenny.

ABROAD.

Africa, West Coast of	...	...	2d	Gibraltar	... 2½
Alexandria	...	...	2d	Greece	... 2½
Australia, viâ Brindisi	...	...	4d	Holland	... 1½
" viâ Southampton	...		2d	India, viâ Brindisi ...	... 2½
Austria	...	...	2d	" viâ Southampton...	... 2½
Belgium	...	...	2d	Italy	... 2½
Brazil	...	...	2d	Mauritius	... 2½
Canada	...	...	2d	New Zealand	... 2½
Cape of Good Hope ...	...	...	2d	Norway	... 2½
China, viâ Brindisi ...	...		4d	Russia	... 2½
" viâ Southampton...	...		2d	Spain...	... 2½
Constantinople	...	...	2d	Sweden	... 2½
Denmark	...	...	2d	Switzerland...	... 2½
France	...	...	2d	United States	... 2½
Germany	...	...	2d	West Indies	... 2½

Copies printed on thin paper may be sent to the Colonies and Foreign Countries at half the rates stated above; but their use is not recommended, the appearance of the Engravings being greatly injured by the print at the back showing through.

Newspapers for foreign parts must be posted within eight days of the time of publication.

EDUCATION OF POOR CHILDREN.

A report by Dr. F. J. Mouat, Local Government Board Inspector, and Captain J. D. Bowly, R.E., on the home and cottage system of training and educating the children of the poor has been issued as a Parliamentary paper.

The system of education and training at the following Institutions is described:—Princess Mary's Village Home, Addlestone; Home for Little Boys, Farningham, Kent; Dr. Barnardo's Village Home for Orphan, Destitute, and Neglected Girls, Ilford; Philanthropic Society's Farm School, Redhill; the Stockwell Orphanage; the Children's Home in the Bonner-road, Victoria Park.

Dr. Mouat and Captain Bowly then enter into the question how far the home or family system is applicable to the education and training of pauper children, and upon this subject they come to the following general conclusions:—"1. That the moral and physical characteristics of pauper children as a class render it imperative that they should receive special care in education and training, to correct the original defects of mind and body which are more or less inseparable from the circumstances of their birth, parentage, and bringing up. 2. That in the education and training of such children the primary condition to be obtained is improvement of their physical state, next to which should come moral and industrial training, and, lastly, mental culture to the point necessary for their future position in life. 3. That these conditions are most likely to be best secured in schools constructed and managed on the separate cottage, home, or farm-school system. 4. That in all such schools boys and girls should, as a rule, be brought up together in mixed families until the boys attain the age of ten years, after which the boys should be moved to separate families, as also should any girls whom for any special reason it may seem undesirable to retain in a mixed family. 5. That the family unit should be as near an approach to the natural family as is consistent with a due regard to economy. That the mixed families, and also the separate families of girls, should not contain more than twelve to twenty children under a house mother, and that the separate families of boys should be limited to twenty-five or thirty children under a house father and house mother. 6. That the mental education should be carried on in a central establishment corresponding to an ordinary village school, and that boys and girls should be taught together. 7. That the industrial training should be as varied and comprehensive as possible; similar, in fact, to that long in use in the farm and reformatory schools of Germany and the Continent generally, so as not only to fit the boys for any handicraft in which there may be a demand for trained hands, and the girls for such as are suitable for their sex, in addition to those needed for domestic service; but also to fit both to become the healthy heads of families and the progenitors of children free from the hereditary taints now common to their class. 8. That, provided that in designing the buildings efficiency, combined with economy, be the first considerations rather than architectural effect, a school constructed on the family system ought not to cost much, if any, more than one on the aggregate or barrack system; and that, as regards management, the extra expense, if any, will be wisely and profitably incurred."

THE FEMALE SCHOOL of ART.—Under the patronage of the Queen.—Instruction in Drawing, Painting, Modelling, &c. Competition for Gilchrist Scholarship and others. School REOPENS on TUESDAY, Oct. 1. For prospectuses and forms of admission apply at 43, Queen-square, Bloomsbury, W.C.

MAPLE and CO.,
TOTTENHAM-COURT-ROAD.
FURNITURE.
FURNITURE.
FURNITURE.

MAPLE and CO. supply every requisite for HOUSE FURNISHING, including Linens, Ironmongery, Glass, Crockeryware, Clocks, Bronzes, and every description of Ornaments, either for dining or drawing room, or for Christmas and Wedding Presents, in separate departments.

MAPLE and CO., the largest and most convenient FURNISHING ESTABLISHMENT in the world. A House of any magnitude Furnished from Stock in three days. Purchasers should inspect the Stock before deciding elsewhere. All goods marked in plain figures. Estab. 83 years. An Illustrated Catalogue post-free.

MAPLE and CO., Importers.
TURKEY CARPETS,
INDIAN CARPETS,
PERSIAN CARPETS.

OVER 2000 DAGHESTAN and SOWRNACK CARPETS, also 200 Turkey Carpets, of extra fine quality and at marvellously low prices, just received from Constantinople. These Goods have been bought by Agents especially dispatched by Messrs. MAPLE and CO. for cash, are of great rarity, some being very handsome old prayer rugs, which have been made over a hundred years. The prices are wonderfully low—in fact, one third of that usually asked for these curiosities.—145, 146, 147, Tottenham-court-road, London.

DUPLEX TABLE LAMP, with instantaneous extinguisher.—The Patent Duplex Lamp, burning petroleum or rock oil, gives an intense, pure, and beautiful light, equal to that of twenty-four sperm candles, at a cost of about one farthing per hour. Deane and Co. invite inspection of their new season's stock in Crystal, China, Ormonlu, and Bronze. Prices from 15s. to £6.
Illustrated Priced List for 1878 post-free.
DEANE and CO., 46, King William-street, London Bridge.

EVERY MAN HIS OWN PRINTER. The People's Printing Press, for Authors, Amateurs, the Army and Navy, &c. Prospectuses forwarded on application to D. G. BERRI, 36, High Holborn, London, W.C.

NEW BOOKS AND PUBLICATIONS.

NEW AND POPULAR NOVELS.
Now ready, at all the Libraries, in 3 vols.,
A CHEQUERED LIFE. By Mrs. DAY. Author of "From Birth to Bridal," &c.
MRS. GREY'S REMINISCENCES. By LADY BLAKE.
UNDER TEMPTATION. By the Author of "Ursula's Love Story," &c.
THE BUBBLE REPUTATION. By KATHARINE, Author of "The Queen of the Regiment."
THE PRIMROSE PATH. By Mrs. OLIPHANT.
MICHELLE AND LITTLE JACK. By FRANCES MARTIN. 1 vol. [Next week.
HURST and BLACKETT, Publishers, 13, Great Marlborough-street.

NEW SERIAL WORK.
Part 1 ready Sept. 25, price 7d.,
HEROES OF BRITAIN IN PEACE AND WAR. "This new and most interesting work will be descriptive of GOOD and HEROIC WORK done by our countrymen AT HOME and ABROAD. It will embrace an account of the struggles and the victories of the Illustrious and noble sons of England, Scotland, and Ireland, whose lives have been devoted to the good of others, and whose deeds are held in universal honour."
Prospectuses at all Booksellers.
CASSELL, PETTER, and GALPIN, Ludgate-hill, London.

NEW SHAKSPERE.—Complete in Nineteen Parts, at Sixpence. Part 1. ready Sept. 25, price 6d.
THE LEOPOLD SHAKSPERE. Illustrated with 400 Engravings. Dedicated, by permission, to H.R.H. Prince Leopold. With a Life of Shakspere and Critical and Explanatory Introduction by F. J. FURNIVALL. "The handsomest one-volume edition of the poet's works yet published."—Daily News.
Prospectuses at all Booksellers.
CASSELL, PETTER, and GALPIN, Ludgate-hill, London.

Just published, 18mo, cloth, 2s. (postage 2d.),
LEÇONS pour des ENFANTS de l'Age de Deux Ans par Joseph's Cœur; avec HYMNES en PROSE pour les Enfants, traduites de l'Anglais de Mme. BARBAULD. Nouvelle édition, le tout revu par CLOTILDE NORRIS.
CHOSEY LOCKWOOD and Co., 7, Stationers' Hall-court, E.C.

Just published, in one volume, 8vo, with four lithographic Illustrations. Price 16s.; or, post-free, 16s. 3d.,
TRUTHS ABOUT WHISKY. Contents: Chap. I.—The Position of the Author. Chap. II.—The Qualities and Popularity of Genuine Dublin Whisky. Chap. III.—The Peculiarities of the Dublin Manufacture: the Water Supply. Chap. IV.—Patent Stills and Silent Spirits. Chap. V.—The Growth of Silent Spirit into Sham Whisky. Chap. VI.—The Detection of Mixed Whiskies and of Whisky and of Silent Spirit. Chap. VII.—The Action of the Chancellor of the Exchequer and of Parliament. Chap. VIII.—The Action of the Commissioners of Inland Revenue. Chap. IX.—Backing in Bond—The Grog Question. Chap. X.—Whisky Fraud, outside the Bonded Warehouses.
The Work is issued by the Whisky Distillers of Dublin, in order to impart to the public a kind of knowledge which has become necessary for the protection of consumers.
London: SUTTON, SHARPE, and Co., Queen Victoria-street, E.C.

POTTERY-PAINTING: a Handbook to the Practice. By JOHN C. L. SPARKES, Director of the Lambeth School of Art, &c. Second Edition. Post-free, 1s. 1d.—London: LECHERTIER, BARBE, and Co., 59, Regent-street, W. (Agents in England for Lacroix's Ceramic Colours).

VITREMANIE SUPERSEDING DIAPHANIE.—An easy and inexpensive Method of Decorating Windows in Churches, Public Buildings, and Private Dwellings, by which may be produced the Rich Colouring and Beautiful Designs of Real Stained Glass. Handbook of Designs and Instructions, 1s. 1d. Particulars post-free. Sole Inventors, J. BARNARD and Son, 339, Oxford-street, London, W.

CANCER AND TUMOURS, A Successful Mode of Treating Certain Forms of. By ALEX. MARSDEN, M.D., Senior Surgeon to the Cancer Hospital, London. Price 8s. 6d.—J. and A. CHURCHILL, New Burlington-street.

NOSE AND THROAT DISEASES, and their Local Treatment by Medicated Sprays. By GEORGE MOORE, M.D. 8vo, 1s., or 12 stamps.
JAMES EPPS and Co., 170, Piccadilly; and 48, Threadneedle-street.

By Dr. BARR MEADOWS, Physician to the National Institution for Diseases of the Skin. Seventh Edition, post-free, 12 stamps,
ERUPTIONS; their Rational Treatment, Remarks on the abuse of arsenic, mercury, and other reputed specifics.—London: G. HILL, 151, Westminster Bridge-rd.

NOW READY,
THE ILLUSTRATED
PENNY ALMANACK FOR 1879,
containing Twenty-four Engravings from the ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS of our Ironclads, the Cleopatra, Ostrich Farming, and other Foreign and Domestic Subjects; Tables of Stamps, Taxes, and Interest; Eclipses, Remarkable Events, Post-Office Regulations, and a great variety of Useful and Interesting Information. The Trade supplied by G. VICKERS, Angel-court (172), Strand; and H. Williams, Warwick-lane, Paternoster-row, London.

ONE THOUSAND SPORTING PICTURES for SALE—great bargains. The Guines Prize Parcel consists of the finely winner, Saffon; City and suburban winner, Julius Cæsar; Waterloo Cup winner—the Master Magrath, Donald, Honeymoon. The above price is for this month only, as the engravings are destroyed. 178, 181, 42, 43, Russell-street, Covent-garden. Established quarter of a century. P.S.—Jannette can be had in place of either of the above horses when published.

FOR ARMS and CREST, send Name and County to T. MORING, Inns of Court Heraldic Offices, 44, High Holborn. Estimates Free. Remarkable Events, Post-Office Seals, Dies, and Diplomas. Illustrated Price-List post-free.

P. J. SMITH AND SONS'
IRON-STRUTTED PIANOS.
"The best and most substantial Instrument produced."
9, CONDUIT-STREET, REGENT-STREET, W.

MUSICAL-BOX DÉPOTS, 56, Cheapside, and 22, Ludgate-hill, London.—Nicole's celebrated Musical Boxes, playing best sacred and secular music. Prices, £4 to £120. Snuff-boxes, from 18s. to 90s. Largest stock in London. Catalogue gratis and post-free. Apply to WALES & M'CULLOCH, as above.

£10. BENNETT'S WATCHES.
In return for a £10 Note, free and safe per post, one of BENNETT'S LADY'S GOLD WATCHES, perfect for time, beauty, and workmanship, with keyless action, air-tight, damp-tight, and dust-tight.—65, Cheapside, London. Gold Chains at manufacturers' prices. P.O.O. to John Bennett.
BENNETT, 65 and 64, Cheapside.

WALKER'S CRYSTAL CASE WATCHES are superseding all others. Prize Medals—London, 1862. Paris, 1867. Silver Watches, from £4 4s.; Gold, from £6 6s. Price-Lists sent free.—77, Cornhill; 220, Regent-street; and 76, Strand.

OROIDE GOLD WATCHES, 21s., 25s., 30s.; free by registered post 6d. extra. Facsimile of costly gold watches; exact time and unique keyless action. Price-lists free.—C. C. ROWE, 88, Brompton-road, London, S.W.

THE LUMINOUS CLOCK.
A MOST WONDERFUL INVENTION,
by which the Time can be SEEN in the DARK without the aid of any artificial light. Every house should possess one. See opinions of Press. Price 42s. each.
ASSER and SHERWIN, 80 and 81, Strand, W.

MR. STREETER,
18 NEW BOND-STREET, W.
GOLDSMITH AND JEWELLER.
The only Jeweller in England whose Stock consists of one uniform standard quality—viz., 18 carats.
LONDON-MADE JEWELLERY
of Exquisite Design and Workmanship.
DIAMOND ORNAMENTS
in great variety, at prices relative to their intrinsic value.
SPECIALITIES IN BRIDESMAIDS' LOCKETS, WEDDING PRESENTS, &c.
THE "TALISMAN" BRACELET
(Patented), a Novelty for the Season, from £5.

FAMILY MOURNING.

Widow's Dress, made complete, trimmed Cyprus Crape, from ..	£3 13 6
Widow's Dress, made complete, trimmed English Crape, from ..	£3 18 6
Parent's Mourning Dress, made complete, trimmed Cyprus Crape, from ..	£3 13 6
Parent's Mourning Dress, made complete, trimmed English Crape, from ..	£3 18 6
Sister's or Brother's Mourning Dress, made complete, trimmed Cyprus Crape, from ..	£3 18 6
Sister's or Brother's Mourning Dress, made complete, trimmed English Crape, from ..	£4 4 0
Mourning for Near Relatives, made complete, trimmed Cyprus Crape, from ..	£3 13 6
Mourning for Near Relatives, made complete, trimmed English Crape, from ..	£3 18 6

Material at One Shilling per Yard.
JAY'S,
245, 247, 249, 251, Regent-street.

TRAVELLING ASSISTANTS.
Messrs. JAY have a Staff of Assistants specially engaged to wait upon Ladies at their houses either in Town or Country, to submit Goods for inspection, all of which are marked in plain figures, and sold at the same price as if purchased at the Warehouse in Regent-street.
JAY'S,
THE LONDON GENERAL MOURNING WAREHOUSE, Regent-street, W.

CHARLES GASK and CO. (Limited), 58 to 63, Oxford-street; 1 to 5, Wells-street, London.
CARRIAGE ENTRANCE, 5, Wells-street.

RICH SILK and other COSTUMES.
A grand display of rich Silk, Broche Velvet, and Silken Fabric Costumes for the Autumn, forming such a collection of recherché Novelties as is rarely seen out of Paris, at most moderate prices.
A large variety of novel Costumes of Fashionable New Fabrics in Serges, Lodens, Cheviots, Cyprus Cloths, Camel's Hair, &c., 2, 3, and 4 guineas each.

MANTLES, ULSTERS, and SEALSKINS.
A large importation of the Latest Novelties.
The Sedan Beaver Paletot, 1 and 2 guineas, handsomely trimmed.
New Travelling Ulsters, all wool, in 27 shades, at 1 guinea, unequalled.
Fine Sealskin Paletots, 36 in. in length, 9½ guineas each. Smaller sizes in proportion.
Fur-lined Mantles and Paletots, 31s. 6d. to 5 guineas.

DRESS MATERIALS in all the Newest Textures. New Lichen Cloth, 11½d. per yard. Camel's-Hair Cloth, 1s. 6d. Tartans, Rainproofs, Cloth, and the new Broché Cashmeres, so much used in combination, 2s. 9d. to 3s. 6d. per yard.
Fine French Cashmeres, in new shades, 1s. 11d., 2s. 7½d., and 2s. 11d. per yard, double width.

MOURNING GOODS
of every description at most moderate prices.
Black Serge Costumes, all wool, 2 guineas. Black and White Broché Costumes, 1 guinea; handsome Costumes, trimmed with patent unspotting crape, for all grades of mourning, 3½ to 8 guineas. The Dressmaking Department is under new and superior management. A successful fit and the best style may be relied upon, at moderate charges.
Patterns and Samples of all goods free.

SILKS.—SPECIAL NOTICE.
We are now offering 40,000 yards of Black and Coloured Silks, in all the new shades, at fully 15 to 20 per cent under last year's prices—2s. 11½d. to 6s. 11d. per yard.
An inspection is solicited.
Patterns to the country free.

CHARLES GASK and CO. (Limited), 58, 59, 60, 61, 62, 63, Oxford-street; 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, Wells-street, London.
CARRIAGE ENTRANCE, 5, Wells-street.

HENRY GLAVE'S
SILK AND VELVET DEPARTMENT.
Black Silks, at 1s. 6d., 1s. 9½d., 2s. 6d., and 2s. 11½d. yd.
Black Silks, Lyons Gros Grains, by Messrs. Gourd, Crolizet, and Co., special prices, 3s. 11½d. a yard.
Blue-Black Velvetcens, 1s. 0½d. a yard, 25 in. wide.
7000 yards Rich Coloured Velvetcens, 50 different shades, 27 in. wide, 2s. 6d. a yard; former price, 2s. 11½d.
7000 yards Rich Coloured Velvetcens, 50 different shades, 27 in. wide, 2s. 10½d. a yard; former price, 3s. 11½d.
The new "Louis" Velveteen. These Velveteens, dyed the new shade of blue-black by a special process, are guaranteed to retain their colour and brilliancy, and cannot be distinguished from Lyons Silk Velvets at four or five times the price.
Special Parcels of 27 in. Silk Costume Velvets, 6s. 11d. the yard; former price, 10s.
Black Satins, 1s. 0½d., 1s. 6½d., 1s. 11½d., 2s. 6½d., and 2s. 11½d.
Black Satins, 3s. 6½d., 3s. 11½d., 4s. 11d., and 6s. 11d. a yd.
Coloured Satins, in 100 shades, 2s. 6½d. and 3s. 6½d.
Patterns of all kinds post-free.
534, 535, 536, and 537, New Oxford-street, London.

HENRY GLAVE'S
NEW AUTUMN DRESS FABRICS.
Rough-and-Ready Serges at 8½d. and 10½d., in fine choice shades; 26 in. to 28 in. wide.
8000 yards remarkably cheap New Dress Fabric, at 6½d.
5000 yards Douglas Brilliantine, new autumn shades, 8½d.
The Estamene Serge, newest colours, 1s. 6½d. a yard.
Heather Mixtures, something quite new for Autumn, 26 in. wide, 1s. 6½d. a yard.
Cashmere Estimé, 9½d. a yard, 25 in. wide.
French Bège Foulé, 1s. 4½d., 26 in. wide.
The Scarborough Twill, 50 new Autumn Colours, 10½d.
Scotch Cashmere Foulé, 1s. 6½d., width 26 in.
Satin Cloths and Wool Poplines, dyed by the best French houses, various prices and endless shades.
Cashmere Estimé, width 27 in., price 1s. 6½d.
Scotch Cashmere Estimé, 27 in., price 1s. 9½d.
Special prices of double-width Navy Blue Serges, 48 in. to 56 in. wide, 1s. 0½d., 1s. 2½d., and 1s. 8½d. a yard.
534, 535, 536, and 537, New Oxford-street, London.

HENRY GLAVE'S
MOURNING DEPARTMENT.
Black Duchess Cloth, made exclusively for us, 1s. 11½d. and 2s. 6½d., 30 in. wide.
Black Cashmeres, of English and French production.
Black Cashmeres, of the very best value.
Black Cashmeres, at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 11½d., 3s. 11½d., and 4s. 11½d. the yard, 44 in. to 48 in. wide.
Any Pattern free on application.
534, 535, 536, and 537, New Oxford-street, London.

WOOLLEN CLOTHS for LADIES' JACKETS, CLOAKS, ULSTERS, &c., in great variety, at very moderate prices. We also keep a very large Stock available for Gentlemen's and Youths' wear. Livery Cloths, &c., equally cheap. Terms, ready money only.
C. HEEKING and CO., Woollen Warehouse, corner of Hatton-garden, Holborn-circus.

BAKER and CRISP'S.
The cheapest and best Silks of every description, from 1s. 11½d. per yard. Patterns free. Richest Black Satins, 2s. 6d.; Coloured, every shade, 3s. 6d.

VELVETEENS EXTRAORDINARY.
1000 Boxes richest Lyons Silk Moleskin Velveteens, in Black, from 1s. 3d. yard; all the New Colours, from 2s. 11d. Patterns free.—BAKER and CRISP, 198, Regent-street.

CASHMERES EXTRAORDINARY.
Patterns free. 1250 Pieces of all the new Early English and School of Art Colours, 1s. 11½d. yard.
BAKER and CRISP, Regent-street.

DRESSES EXTRAORDINARY.
1000 Pieces of all the New Autumn Suitings, Ulsterings, Serges, Soft Cloths, Saxony, Foule, Cashmere, from 8s. 6d. Full Dress. Patterns free.—198, Regent-street, London.

TROCADÉRO COSTUME (a Speciality). Engravings free. 1000 New Costumes, Cashmere and Satin, 2½s. 6d. All other New Fabrics from 35s. 6d.
BAKER and CRISP'S, 198, Regent-street.

SHIRTS. — FORD'S EUREKA. — "The most perfect fitting made."—Observer. Gentlemen desirous of purchasing Shirts of the best quality should try Ford's Eureka. 38s., 40s, 45s. half-dozen. Illustrations and self-measure post-free.—41, Poultry, London.

COLOMBO, MADRAS, and CALCUTTA.
DUCAL LINE. Exceptional and favourable terms of passage for a limited number of first-class passengers only. Apply to the Agents, F. Green and Co., or McDiarmid Greenfield, and Co., No. 112, Fenchurch-street, E.C.

LOANS PRIVATELY NEGOTIATED. Confidential communications to Mr. MORRIS, 28, Red Lion-square, W.C., will receive immediate attention. Reversions, Life Interests, and Legacies purchased.

ORDER EVERYTHING YOU REQUIRE THROUGH COCKBURN'S UNITED SERVICE AGENCY SOCIETY, 45, Haymarket, London, S.W., and save from 5 to 50 per cent and much time and trouble by so doing.

D. NICHOLSON and CO. send post-free Patterns of
NEW SILKS,
DRESS FABRICS,
and Illustrations of
MANTLES, and COSTUMES.
D. NICHOLSON and COMPANY,
50 to 53, ST. PAUL'S CHURCHYARD, LONDON.

CAUTION.—BOND'S CRYSTAL PALACE GOLD MEDAL MARKING INK.—Some Chemists and Stationers, for extra profit, deceive you. Genuine Label "Prepared by the Daughter of the late John Bond."—Works, 75, Southgate-road, London. No heating required.

JUDSON'S DYES.—6d. each, of Chemists. Curtains, Tablecovers, Mantles, Scarves, Jackets dyed in ten minutes in a pail of hot water.
Judson's Dyes—Crimson, Green, and Twenty-four Colours.

THE COURT HAIR DESTROYER.—This newly-discovered remedy completely removes superfluous hair. Quite harmless. 3s. 6d.; post 3s. 10½d., of Inventor, J. Leon, 10, Portens-rd., London, W., or Chemists. Particulars, 1 stamp.

GOLDEN HAIR.—ROBARE'S AUREOLINE produces the beautiful Golden Colour so much admired. Warranted perfectly harmless. Price 5s. 6d. and 10s. 6d., of all Perfumers. Wholesale, HOVENDEN and SONS, 5, Great Marlborough-street, W.; and 93 and 95, City-road, E.C. London; Picard and Meyer, 27, Boulevard de Strasbourg, Paris; 21, Graben, Vienna; 44, Rue des Longs Chariots, Brussels.

DOES YOUR HAIR TURN GREY? Then use HERRING'S PATENT MAGNETIC BRUSHES and COMBS. Brushes, 10s. and 15s. each. Combs, 2s. 6d., 3s., 7s. 6d., 10s., 15s., and 20s. each. Pamphlets upon application.—5, Great Marlborough-st., W.; 93 and 95, City-road; and of all Perfumers.

NUDA VERITAS.—GREY HAIR restored by this valuable specific to its original shade, after which it grows the natural colour, not grey. Used as a dressing it causes growth and arrests falling. The most harmless and effectual restorer extant. One trial will convince it has no equal. Price 10s. 6d., of all Chemists and Hairdressers. Testimonials post-free.—R. HOVENDEN and SONS, London.

SPANISH FLY is the acting ingredient in ALEX. ROSS'S CANTHARIDES OIL, which speedily produces Whiskers and Thickens Hair. 3s. 6d.; sent in blank wrappers for 54 stamps.—Alex. Ross, 248, High Holborn.

CAUTION.—The MACASSAR OIL for nourishing the hair, and ODONTO for whitening the teeth, prepared by A. ROWLAND and SONS, of 20, Hatton-garden, London, are the only genuine articles sold under these or similar names. Avoid cheap imitations.

EAU DE CHYPRE.—PIESSE and LUBIN. This is an ancient perfume from Cyprus. During the national career of Egypt, Persia, Greece, and Rome, the Island of Cyprus was the resort of the elite, learned, and refined. It was at the time of the Crusades, when Richard I. of England assumed the title of King of Cyprus, that the famed Eau de Chypre was introduced into Europe, the composition of which is yet preserved in the archives of the Laboratory of Piesse and Lubin. Those who are curious in ancient perfumes can be gratified at 2, New Bond-street, London.

VALUABLE DISCOVERY for the HAIR. If your hair is turning grey, or white, or falling off, use "The Mexican Hair Renewer," for it will positively restore in every case Grey or White Hair to its original colour, without leaving the disagreeable smell of most "Restorers." It makes the hair charmingly beautiful, as well as promoting the growth of the hair on bald spots where the glands are not decayed. Ask any Chemist for the "Mexican Hair Renewer." Price 3s. 6d. Prepared by HENRY C. GALLUP, 493, Oxford-street, London.

FLORILINE. For the Teeth and Breath. Is the best Liquid Dentifrice in the World: it thoroughly cleanses partially-decayed teeth from all parasites or living animalculæ, leaving them pearly white, imparting a delightful fragrance to the breath. Price 2s. 6d. per bottle. The Fragrant Floriline removes instantly all odours arising from a foul stomach or tobacco smoke, being partly composed of honey, soda, and extracts of sweet herbs and plants. It is perfectly harmless, and delicious as sherry. Prepared by HENRY C. GALLUP, 493, Oxford-street, London. Retailed everywhere.

JOHN GOSNELL and CO.'S VIOLET and MILLEFLEUR POWDER, for the Toilet and Nursery. Universally admired for its purity and fragrance. Sold by all Chemists and Perfumers. Wholesale, 23, Upper Thames-street.

BREIDENBACH'S ABRONIA.—The New Scent for 1878. Delicate, refreshing, and durable, 2s. 6d. to 40s. per Bottle. Breidenbach's MACASSARINE, invaluable for preserving the Growth of the Hair, 1s., 2s. 6d., 5s. per Bottle. Of all Chemists, and the Makers, 157a, New Bond-street, W.

THE ONLY SOAP FOR THE COMPLEXION,
Making the skin clear, smooth, and lustrous.
WRIGHT'S COAL-TAR SOAP
(SAPO CARBONIS DETERGENS).
Highly and extensively recommended for the toilet and in all cases of cutaneous disease by Mr. Jas. Startin, M.R.C.S., Surgeon to St. John's Hospital for Diseases of the Skin, the late Mr. James Startin, M.D., F.R.C.S., of Savile-row, Mr. McCall Anderson, M.D., F.F.P.S., of Woodside-crescent, Glasgow, and the other leading members of the profession. In Tablets, 6d. and 1s., in elegant Toilet-Boxes, of all Chemists.
W. V. WRIGHT and CO. London.

THE SKIN.—To give to it that Smoothness, Sweetness, and Lustrous Elegance indicative of Perfect Health use "THE ALBION MILK AND SULPHUR SOAP." It is elegantly white and purest of all soaps. "It is the most agreeable and elegant preparation for the skin I know."—James Startin, M.R.C.S., Surgeon to St. John's Hospital, London. By all Chemists, in Tablets, 6d. and 1s.—THE ALBION SANATORY SOAP CO., 532, Oxford-street, London. Refuse all substitutes.

PEARS' TRANSPARENT SOAP.—Pure, Fragrant, and Durable. Established 80 years. The "Journal of Cutaneous Medicine," edited by Mr. Erasmus Wilson, says:—"Pears is a name engraven on the memory of the oldest inhabitant, and Pears' Transparent Soap is an article of the nicest and most careful manufacture, and the most refreshing and refreshing balm to the skin." Sold by all Chemists; and by Pears, 91, Great Russell-street, London.

WILLS' In consequence of the disturbed state of the Retail Tobacco Trade, through the recent advance in the duty, W. D. and H. O. WILLS
"HONEY "Honey Cut," a Ounce Packets, at Fourpence, and Half-Ounce Packets, at Twopence, which they recommend as CUT."
the best possible value at the price.
May be had of all the principal Tobacconists.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS and OINTMENT. The Pills purify the blood, correct all disorders of the liver, stomach, kidneys, and bowels. The Ointment is unrivalled in the cure of bad legs, old wounds, gout, and rheumatism.

NEW MUSIC.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S IMPROVED AMERICAN ORGANS, COMBINING PIPES WITH REEDS, Manufactured by CLOUGH and WARREN, DETROIT, U.S.A.

The immense advantages these instruments possess over the Organs hitherto imported have induced Messrs. Chappell and Co. to undertake the sole Agency of this eminent Manufactory.

A large variety on view, from 25 to 150 guineas.
Price-Lists on application to 50, New Bond-street.

CLOUGH and WARREN'S "FAVOURITE ORGAN."
Ten Stops, Four Sets of Reeds, Knee-Swell.
Compass, Five Octaves.
Elegant Carved Canadian Walnut Case.
Price 25 Guineas.
Illustrated Price-List free by post.
Sole Agents, CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

SECONDHAND PIANOFORTES.
TERMINATION OF THE LONDON SEASON.
Now on view, an immense number of Pianofortes returned from Hire, to be sold, at greatly reduced prices, for cash.
Pianinos from 18 guineas.
Cottages from 20 guineas.
Grands from 30 guineas.
50, New Bond-street.

SECONDHAND PIANOFORTES at 50, New Bond-street,
may be hired, with option of purchase, or on the "Three-Years' System," at greatly reduced prices.

SECONDHAND PIANOFORTES now on View by the following eminent Makers:—
BROADWOOD. | ERARD.
COLLARD. | CHAPPELL.
LIPP. | ROSENKRANZ.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

SECONDHAND HARMONIUMS, for CHURCH, SCHOOL, or DRAWING-ROOM.
Upwards of a hundred varieties now on View.
From 3 guineas to 100 guineas.
At CHAPPELL and CO.'S, 50, New Bond-street.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S SPECIALITIES in ORGAN HARMONIUMS.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S NEW ORGAN HARMONIUMS.—Five octaves, two pedals, suitable for cottage or school. Price 7 gs.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S NEW ORGAN MODEL by ALEXANDRE, two rows of keys, five stops and sub-bass, Venetian swell, two knee pedals. 28 guineas, or £2 16s. per quarter on Three-Years' System.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S SPECIALITIES in PIANOFORTES.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S SCHOOL PIANINOS, Canadian Walnut, 20 gs., or 2 gs. per quarter on the Three-Years' System of Purchase.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S YACHT PIANINOS, 30 gs., or £3 per quarter on Three-Years' System of Purchase.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S BOUDOIR PIANINO, 35 gs., or £3 10s. per quarter on the Three-Years' System of Purchase.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S ENGLISH MODEL, 40 gs., or £4 per quarter, on the Three-Years' System of Purchase.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S MIGNON IRON GRAND, 80 gs., or £8 per quarter on the Three-Years' System of Purchase.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S BOUDOIR IRON 110 gs., or £11 per quarter on the Three-Years' System of Purchase.
NEW BOND-STREET, W.

NEW DANCE MUSIC.

CHARLES D'ALBERT'S NOVELTIES.

CYPRUS POLKA	2s. 0d. net
CONGRESS LANCERS	2s. 0d. net
PAUL ET VIRGINIE WALTZ	2s. 0d. net
PAUL ET VIRGINIE QUADRILLE	2s. 0d. net
PAUL ET VIRGINIE GALOP	2s. 0d. net
THE ENGAGEM WALTZ	2s. 0d. net
DISTANT SHORE WALTZ. On Sullivan's Song	2s. 0d. net
SWEETHEARTS LANCERS	2s. 0d. net
CLEOPATRA GALOP	2s. 0d. net
THE LOVE-LETTER POLKA	2s. 0d. net
THE FANFARE POLKA	2s. 0d. net
MOLLY DARLING QUADRILLE	2s. 0d. net
SWEETHEARTS WALTZ	2s. 0d. net

N.B.—A Complete List of M. D'Albert's Popular Dance Music will be sent on application.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

NEW NUMBERS OF CHAPPELL'S MUSICAL MAGAZINE.
No. 118.—POPULAR MARCHES.
Marche Romaine .. .. Ch. Gounod.
And twelve other Popular Marches by Handel, Mozart, Gluck, &c. 1s.; post-free, 1s. 2d.

No. 117.—(MIXED SERIES, No. 3.)

Song (Tenor)	..	Elly Mavourneen	.. Sir J. Benedict.
Song (Contralto)	..	The lonely Harp	.. Miss Cowell.
Song (Soprano)	..	I'm alone	.. Sir J. Benedict.
Song (Baritone)	..	I never can forget	.. A. Mellon.
Duet (Sop. & Con.)	..	O ye voices gone	.. Zeta.
Duet (Sop. & Con.)	..	Two wandering Stars	.. B. Richards.
Pianoforte	..	Soldier's Prayer	.. A. Lindahl.
Pianoforte	..	Biren's Song	.. A. Lindahl.
Pianoforte	..	Blue Bells of Scotland	.. B. Richards.
Dance Music	..	West End Polka	.. Charles D'Albert.
Dance Music	..	Little Nell Waltz	.. Dan Godfrey.
Dance Music	..	Lord of Lorne Lancers	Dan Godfrey.
Dance Music	..	Express Galop	.. Charles D'Albert.

No. 116.—(MIXED SERIES, No. 2.)

Song (Baritone)	..	The Bell Ringer	.. W. Vincent Wallace.
Song (Soprano)	..	Tender and True	.. Arthur Sullivan.
Song (Contralto)	..	To Thee	.. Alberto Randegger.
Song (Tenor)	..	(Oh) whisper what thou feelest	.. B. Richards.
Vocal Duet (Sop. and Con.)	..	When Birds are singing	.. H. Smart.
Duet (Sop. & Con.)	..	Two Merry Gipsies	.. G. A. Macfarren
Pianoforte	..	The Soldier's Chorus	.. B. Richards.
Pianoforte	..	Air by Louis XIII.	.. Henri Ghys.
Pianoforte	..	A Ray of Sunshine	.. Carl Leduc.
Dance Music	..	Dew Drop Waltz	.. Charles d'Albert.
Dance Music	..	The Sultan's Polka	.. Charles d'Albert.
Dance Music	..	Polo Lancers	.. Dan Godfrey.
Dance Music	..	The Mabel Galop	.. Dan Godfrey.

No. 115.—(MIXED SERIES, No. 1.)

Song (Contralto)	..	Jaanita	.. Mrs. Norton.
Song (Soprano)	..	The Maiden's Story	.. A. Sullivan.
Song (Baritone)	..	The Stirrup Cup	.. Luigi Arditi.
Song (Tenor)	..	There's Sunlight in Heaven	.. M. Balfe.
Duet (Sop. & Con.)	..	Wind and the Harp	.. B. Glover.
Duet (Sop. & Con.)	..	Ave Sanctissima	.. Mrs. Hemans.
Pianoforte	..	Home, Sweet Home	.. B. Richards.
Pianoforte	..	The Silver Trumpets	.. F. Viviani.
Pianoforte	..	Prière d'une Vierge	.. T. Badarzewska.
Dance Music	..	The Rink Galop	.. Charles D'Albert.
Dance Music	..	The Hilda Waltz	.. Dan Godfrey.
Dance Music	..	Palermo Quadrilles	.. Charles D'Albert.
Dance Music	..	King Pippin Polka	.. Charles D'Albert.

ONE SHILLING EACH (post-free, 1s. 2d.).
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street, London, W.

REMINISCENCES OF ENGLAND.
REMINISCENCES OF IRELAND.
REMINISCENCES OF SCOTLAND.
REMINISCENCES OF WALES.
Arranged for the Pianoforte by FRED. GODFREY (B. M. Coldstream Guards). Played by all the Bands in her Majesty's Service. Price 2s. each net.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

PIANOFORTES for HIRE or for SALE, from 25 gs. upwards.—JOHN BROADWOOD and SONS, 33, Great Pulteney-street, Golden-square, W. Manufactory, 46, Horseferry-road, Westminster.

NEW MUSIC

Price 10s. 6d., bound in cloth,

SPOHR'S VIOLIN SCHOOL, Complete.
Edited by HENRY HOLMES. BOOSEY and CO. beg to announce the publication of an entirely new Edition of Spohr's great Violin School, translated into English by Florence Marshall; and revised, with Notes, by Henry Holmes. The numerous and important alterations elucidate the original text, and to assist Notes are intended to elucidate the original text, and to assist the student in the course to be followed throughout in the practice of the School. Spohr's School is printed on the finest paper, and is published at the low price of half a guinea, with the view of placing it within the reach of all amateurs of the violin.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

This day, price 5s., paper; 7s. 6d., cloth, gilt edges,

THE CONTRALTO ALBUM. A Collection of 20 Songs for Mezzo-Soprano and Contralto Voices, extracted from the most celebrated Operas, with Italian and English words. All in the original keys (without abbreviation or alteration). This Collection includes many beautiful songs but little known in this country, besides all the most renowned of the last one hundred years. Also now ready, same prices as above.

THE PRIMA DONNA'S ALBUM. 40 great Operatic Songs for a Soprano Voice. In the press, THE TENOR and BARITONE ALBUMS, containing similar selections for these two voices.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

Price 2s. 6d., paper; 4s. 6d., cloth boards,

CALLCOTT'S HANDEL ALBUM. A collection of above one hundred of the best Oratorio and Operatic Airs by this great Composer. Arranged for the Pianoforte by W. H. CALLCOTT. With Memoir and three Illustrations.—BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

THE SONGS OF SCOTLAND. A New and Enlarged Edition is published this day, containing 190 Songs. Edited by Pittman, with a new and important introduction on Scotch Poetry and Music by Dr. Charles Mackay. Price 2s. 6d.; paper; 4s., cloth, gilt edges; or, beautifully illustrated by the most eminent artists, price 7s. 6d. Boosey and Co.'s Edition must be ordered.—295, Regent-street.

THE MOUNTAIN SYLPH.—A New Edition of John Barnett's celebrated opera is published this day, revised by the composer; complete for voice and pianoforte, price 3s. 6d. paper covers, 5s. cloth, gilt edges. Also uniform with the above—

The Siege of Rochelle.	Satanella.
The Lily of Killarney.	The Bohemian Girl.

BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

THE BLUE ALSATIANS WALTZ. By GEORGES LAMOTHE. On Stephen Adams's celebrated Song. Price 2s. Solo and Duet; Small Orchestra, 1s.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

BOOSEY & CO.'S PIANOFORTE-ROOMS.
GRAND and UPRIGHT PIANOFORTES,
by all the great makers, both English and Foreign,
for SALE or HIRE,
subject to the largest discount obtainable in London.
Pianettes, from £21. Short Grands, from £50.
Sole Address, 295, REGENT-STREET.

BOOSEY and CO.'S Short Iron Grand PIANOFORTES, 60, 70, 80, and 85 guineas each, subject to a liberal discount for cash, or on the Three-Years' System, from £5 10s. per quarter. Special Instruments for India. Illustrated Price-Lists free.
Sole Address, 295, Regent-street (adjoining the Polytechnic).

SECONDHAND PIANOS.—BOOSEY and CO. have a large Stock of Instruments by all the great Makers, which they offer, according to their custom on the close of the season, at greatly reduced prices. The majority of these Pianos have been hired for one season only, and are as good as new.—295, Regent-street (adjoining the Polytechnic).

BOOSEY and CO.'S BRASS INSTRUMENTS FOR AMATEURS.
THE DISTIN CORNET, from £3 10s.
THE DISTIN CELEBRATED LIGHT VALVE CORNETS, 7 and 9 gs., are the best Cornets manufactured.
THE DISTIN MINIATURE CORNET-A-PISTONS, 9 gs.
THE DISTIN BALLAD HORN in G, 9 gs.
THE DISTIN DRAG AND POST HORNS AND BAND INSTRUMENTS at all prices.
THE DISTIN MONTHLY BRASS BAND JOURNAL, 10s. 6d. per annum.
Illustrated Price-Lists upon application to BOOSEY and CO., Manufacturers of Military Band Instruments of every description, 295, Regent-street, London. Manufactory, Stanhope-place, Hyde Park.

PIANO, £35 (Civil Service cash price). Trichord Drawing-Room Model, repetition action, grand, rich, full tone, in very handsome Italian walnut-wood case, with elaborately carved and fretwork front, and cabriole truss legs. The usual price charged for this Instrument is 50 guineas. Drawings of this beautiful Piano sent post-free on application. THOMAS OETZMANN and CO., 27, Baker-street, Portman-square.

BROADWOOD and COLLARD COTTAGE PIANOFORTES, full-toned compass of Seven Octaves. Two beautiful instruments, of rich and full tone, in the choicest Italian walnut-wood, nearly new. To be SOLD at unusually low prices. May be seen at OETZMANN'S, 27, Baker-street.

TWENTY-POUND SCHOOL-ROOM PIANO (Co-operative price for cash). Seven octaves, strong, sound, and substantial. Adapted for hard practice. Packed free. Illustrated Book of Designs gratis and post-free.
THOMAS OETZMANN and CO., 27, Baker-street, W.

EBONY and GOLD PIANOS, 25 guineas, 35 guineas, and 45 guineas.—These charming and elegant Pianos, with ormolu embellishments, repetition action, and every recent improvement, may now be obtained at the above low prices for cash, or on the Three-Years' System, at 1 guinea per month. The new Illustrated Catalogue gratis and post-free.
THOMAS OETZMANN and CO., 27, Baker-street, W.

CLASSES FOR SONS OF GENTLEMEN, 64, Kensington Gardens-square, Hyde Park, W. The AUTUMN TERM will BEGIN on SEPT. 24. Principals, Miss M. E. Bailey and Fraulein Neuhofer.

CYPRUS.—THE IMPERIAL OTTOMAN BANK is prepared, through its LONDON and PARIS AGENCIES, to grant CREDITS, to receive and REMIT MONEY, and to act generally as Bankers in connection with Cyprus, where it has for many years past had a branch establishment.

London Agency, 26, Throgmorton-street, E.C.	Paris Agency, 7, Rue Meyerbeer.

BANK OF NEW ZEALAND
(Incorporated by Act of General Assembly, July 29, 1861).
Bankers to the New Zealand Government.
Authorised Capital, £1,000,000. Paid-up Capital, £725,000.
Reserve Fund, £325,000.
DIRECTORS.
J. LOGAN CAMPBELL, Esq., President.

George B. Owen, Esq.	W. J. Taylor, Esq.
Alfred Cox, Esq., M.G.A.	J. C. Firth, Esq.
Samuel Browning, Esq.	Hon. Jas. Williamson, M.L.C.

LONDON BOARD.

The Right Hon. Sir James Fergusson, Bart., K.C.M.G.	Falconer Larkworthy, Esq.
Archd. Hamilton, Esq.	Robert Porter, Esq.
A. J. Mundella, Esq., M.P.	Thomas Russell, Esq., C.M.G.

Head Office—Auckland.
BRANCHES AND AGENCIES.
In Australia—Melbourne, Sydney, and Newcastle.
In Fiji—Levuka.
In New Zealand—Auckland, Blenheim, Christchurch, Dunedin, Invercargill, Napier, Nelson, New Plymouth, Picton, Wellington, and at eighty-two other towns and places throughout the Colony.
The Bank grants Drafts on all their Branches and Agencies, and transacts every description of banking business connected with New Zealand, Australia, and Fiji on the most favourable terms.
The London Office RECEIVES DEPOSITS of £50 and upwards for fixed periods of two to five years, bearing interest at 5 per cent. per annum. The rate for shorter periods can be ascertained on application.
No. 1, Queen Victoria-street, Mansion House, E.C. F. LARKWORTHY, Managing Director.

BRIGHTON. FURNISHED HOUSES for the SEASON.—For particulars of those in the best situations—Adelaide-square, Palmeira-square, Brunswick-square, Brunswick-terrace, West Brighton—apply to Messrs. CROUCH and STEVENS, 30, Western-road, Brighton.

HOMŒOPATHIC HOSPITAL (SELECT) for LADIES, Bolton House, 192, Clapham-road, Surrey. Established 1867. A Private Home, where Patients suffering from serious diseases, and requiring special supervision, can obtain the best Medical and Surgical Treatment without incurring anxiety in their own homes. Treatise of success-ful cases forwarded for twelve stamps. Physician, DAVID JONES, M.D. Consultations daily, Eleven to One (Tuesday and Friday excepted), at 15, Welbeck-street, London.

NEW MUSIC.

Just published,

CARMEN. Fantasie Brillante for Pianoforte, by W. KUHE, on this popular Opera. Post-free, 30 stamps.
METZLER and Co., 37, Great Marlborough-street, London, W.

CARMEN. Fantasie Brillante for Pianoforte, by J. LEYBACH, on this popular Opera. Post-free, 24 stamps.
METZLER and Co., 37, Great Marlborough-street, London, W.

CARMEN. Bouquet de Melodies pour Piano. Par RENAUD DE VILBAC. In Two Books. Post-free, 24 stamps each.
METZLER and Co., 37, Great Marlborough-street, London, W.

Now ready,

GRACEFUL DANCE from the Incidental Music to Shakespeare's "Henry VIII." Composed by ARTHUR SULLIVAN. Post-free, 24 stamps.
METZLER and Co., 37, Great Marlborough-street, London, W.

THREE GIFTS. New Song. By J. L. ROECKEL.
Sung by Mr. Barton McGuckin with the greatest success. Post-free, 24 stamps.
METZLER and Co., 37, Great Marlborough-street, London, W.

A SAILOR'S WOOING. New Song. By J. L. ROECKEL.
Sung by Mr. Thurley Beale with the greatest success. For Baritone or Contralto. Post-free, 24 stamps.
METZLER and Co., 37, Great Marlborough-street, London, W.

H.M.S. "PINAFORE." New Opera by W. S. GILBERT and ARTHUR SULLIVAN. Played nightly at the Opera Comique with the most genuine success. Song, for Voice and Pianoforte, 4s. net, post-free.
METZLER and Co., 37, Great Marlborough-street, London, W.

GARDEN PARTY POLKA. C. GODFREY. Played nightly at the Promenade Concerts, Covent-Garden, with the greatest success. Post-free, 18 stamps.
METZLER and Co., 37, Great Marlborough-street, London, W.

BEETHOVEN'S SIX FAVOURITE WALTZES for the PIANOFORTE. Edited and Fingered by GEORGE FREDERICK WEST. 3s. each. MOZART'S THREE FAVOURITE WALTZES (Nos. 1, 2, and 3), carefully and effectively Arranged by GEO. F. WEST. 3s. each; post-free at half price.—ROBERT COCKS and Co.

ASSAULT OF ARMS. New March for the Pianoforte. Composed by CLAUDE DAVENPORT. (Illustrated Title). 2s. Also, by the same Composer, THE LOVE BIRD'S POLKA, for the Pianoforte. 3s. (Illustrated Title). Both post-free at half price in stamps.
London: Sole Publishers, ROBERT COCKS and Co.

THE HOLY FAMILY. Sacred Melodies. Arranged by W. H. CALLCOTT for the Pianoforte. Solos complete in Twelve Books, 5s. each; Duets, 6s. each; ad lib. accompaniment for flute, violin, and violoncello, 1s. each. Each Book free at half-price in stamps.—N.B. This Work may also be had in four vols. as Solos, cloth, gilt edges, price 12s. each net.
London: Sole Publishers, ROBERT COCKS and Co.

HALF-HOURS AT THE ORGAN. Arranged by JOHN BISHOP. Twenty-four Books, 3s. each; or, in two vols., 21s. each.
THE AMATEUR ORGANIST. Consisting of a Selection of the most favourite Movements from the Great Masters. By J. WARREN. Twelve Books, 3s. each; or, in one vol., 21s.
London: Sole Publishers, ROBERT COCKS and Co.

FRITZ SPINDLER'S NEW MUSIC for the PIANOFORTE. A brilliant piece, "Die Fahnen Weh'n," Op. 311, and his "Am Neckar am Rhein," another brilliant piece, Op. 311. 3s. each, post-free half-price.
London: S. le Publishers, ROBERT COCKS and Co., New Burlington-street. Order everywhere.

PALOMINO. A Pure Spanish SHERRY of dry character, produced from the finest grape in the Xeres district. Recommended with complete confidence. 30s. per dozen, railway carriage paid. Sole Importers, HENRY BRETT and CO., 26 and 27, High Holborn, W.C. Established 1829.

ORANGE CHAMPAGNE is a light, pleasant drink, made simply from Oranges. It is effervescent, but entirely free from spirit, and perfectly wholesome. Price 7s. per Dozen. Quarts: 4s., Pints. Bottles 2s. and Cases 1s. per Dozen until returned. Made only by CHAS. COLDD and CO., 79, Copenhagen-street, Islington, London, N.

KINAHAN'S LL WHISKY. THE CREAM OF OLD IRISH WHISKIES.
Pure, mild, mellow, delicious, and most wholesome. Universally recommended by the medical profession. "Hassall says:—"The whisky is soft, mellow, and pure, well-matured, and of very excellent quality."—20, Great Titchfield-street, W.

ELLIS'S RUTHIN WATERS.
ELLIS'S PURE AERATED RUTHIN WATERS.
ELLIS'S RUTHIN WATERS.—Crystal Springs. "Absolutely Pure."—See analyses, sent free on application.
ELLIS'S RUTHIN WATERS.—Soda, Potass, Seltzer, Lemonade, and also Water without Alkali.
ELLIS'S RUTHIN WATERS.—For Gout, Lithia Water, and Lithia and Potass Water.
ELLIS'S RUTHIN WATERS.—Crystal Springs. Corks branded "R. Ellis and Son, Ruthin." Every label bears Trade Mark "R. Ellis and Son, Ruthin."
ELLIS'S RUTHIN WATERS.—Sold everywhere. Wholesale, R. Ellis and Son, Ruthin, North Wales. London Agents, W. BEST and SONS, Henrietta-street, Cavendish-square.

AMERICAN CENTENNIAL PRIZE MEDAL.
FRY'S CARACAS COCOA.
Its pure flavour, delicate aroma, and invigorating qualities have established its position as a first-class dietetic article.

FRY'S CARACAS COCOA.
"The Caracas Cocoa of such choice quality."—Food, Water, and Air Reporter.
"A most delicious and valuable article."—Standard.

FRY'S EXTRACT OF COCOA,
"than which, if properly prepared, there is no nicer or more wholesome preparation of Cocoa."—Food, Water, and Air. Edited by Dr. Hassall.
TENTH INTERNATIONAL MEDAL awarded to J. S. FRY and SON.

LIEBIG COMPANY'S EXTRACT OF MEAT.
FINEST MEAT-FLAVOURING STOCK FOR SOUPS, MADE DISHES, AND SAUCES.

LIEBIG COMPANY'S EXTRACT OF MEAT.
CAUTION.—Genuine only with the facsimile of Baron Liebig's Signature in Blue Ink across label.

LIEBIG COMPANY'S EXTRACT OF MEAT.

THE ESSEX FLOUR and GRAIN COMPANY, Liverpool-road, London, N., supply the BEST GOODS ONLY. Whites, for Pastry, 2s. 4d. per bushel; Households, for Bread, 2s. 8d. Wheat Meal, for Brown Bread, 2s. Coarse Scotch Oatmeal, 2s. 2d. per stone; fine, 2s. 4d. American Hominy, 4s. Barley Maize, Buckwheat, and Barley Meal, 5s. per bushel, or 10s. per sack. Oats, 4s. per bushel; 10s. 6d. per sack. Peas, 7s. 6d. per bushel; Tick Beans, 7s. 6d.; Middlings, 2s. 4d.; Ground Pollard, 1s. 8d. Meat Biscuits, 20s. per cwt. Split Peas, 2s. per peck. Lentil Flour, for Invalids, in Tins, 1 lb. size, 1s.; 2 lb., 2s. All other kinds of Grain and Seed. Special prices for larger quantities. P.O. Orders and Cheques payable to G. YOUNG.

SAVORY & MOORE, 143, New Bond-street, Prepare

THE BEST FOOD for INFANTS.
A thoroughly cooked food, always ready, effects An important saving of time and trouble To Mothers and Nurses, by its use.

THE BEST FOOD for INFANTS.
Contains all the elements Necessary for the Growth, Health, and Vigour of the Child.

SAVORY and MOORE, 143, NEW BOND-STREET, LONDON; and Sold by Chemists, &c., everywhere.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS'
GOLD MEDAL PIANOS
are lent on Hire for Three Years, after which time they become the property of the hirers.
AT ALL THE PRINCIPAL MUSIC WAREHOUSES.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS'
GOLD MEDAL
PIANOFORTES were awarded
THE GRAND PRIZE MEDAL AND DIPLOMA OF HONOUR of the Philadelphia Exhibition, 1876.
THE GOLD MEDAL, Paris, 1869.
THE HIGHEST AWARD—THE GRAND DIPLOMA OF HONOUR, Paris, 1878.
LA MEDAILLE D'HONNEUR, Paris, 1867.
THE PRIZE MEDAL, London, 1862.
LE DIPLOME DE LA MENTION EXTRAORDINAIRE, Netherlands International Exhibition, 1869.
THE GOLD MEDAL AND DIPLOMA OF MERIT, South Africa, 1877, &c.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS'
PERFECT CHECK REPEATER ACTION PIANOS,
Patented 1862, 1868, 1871, and 1875, in

GREAT BRITAIN,	AUSTRIA,
PRUSSIA,	ITALY, BELGIUM, and
FRANCE	AMERICA.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS'
GOLD MEDAL PIANOS,
With the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action.
"This most ingenious and valuable invention cannot fail to meet with success."—Sir Julius Benedict.
"The touch is absolute perfection."—Sydney Smith.
"A very clever and useful invention, and likely to be extensively adopted."—Brinley Richards.

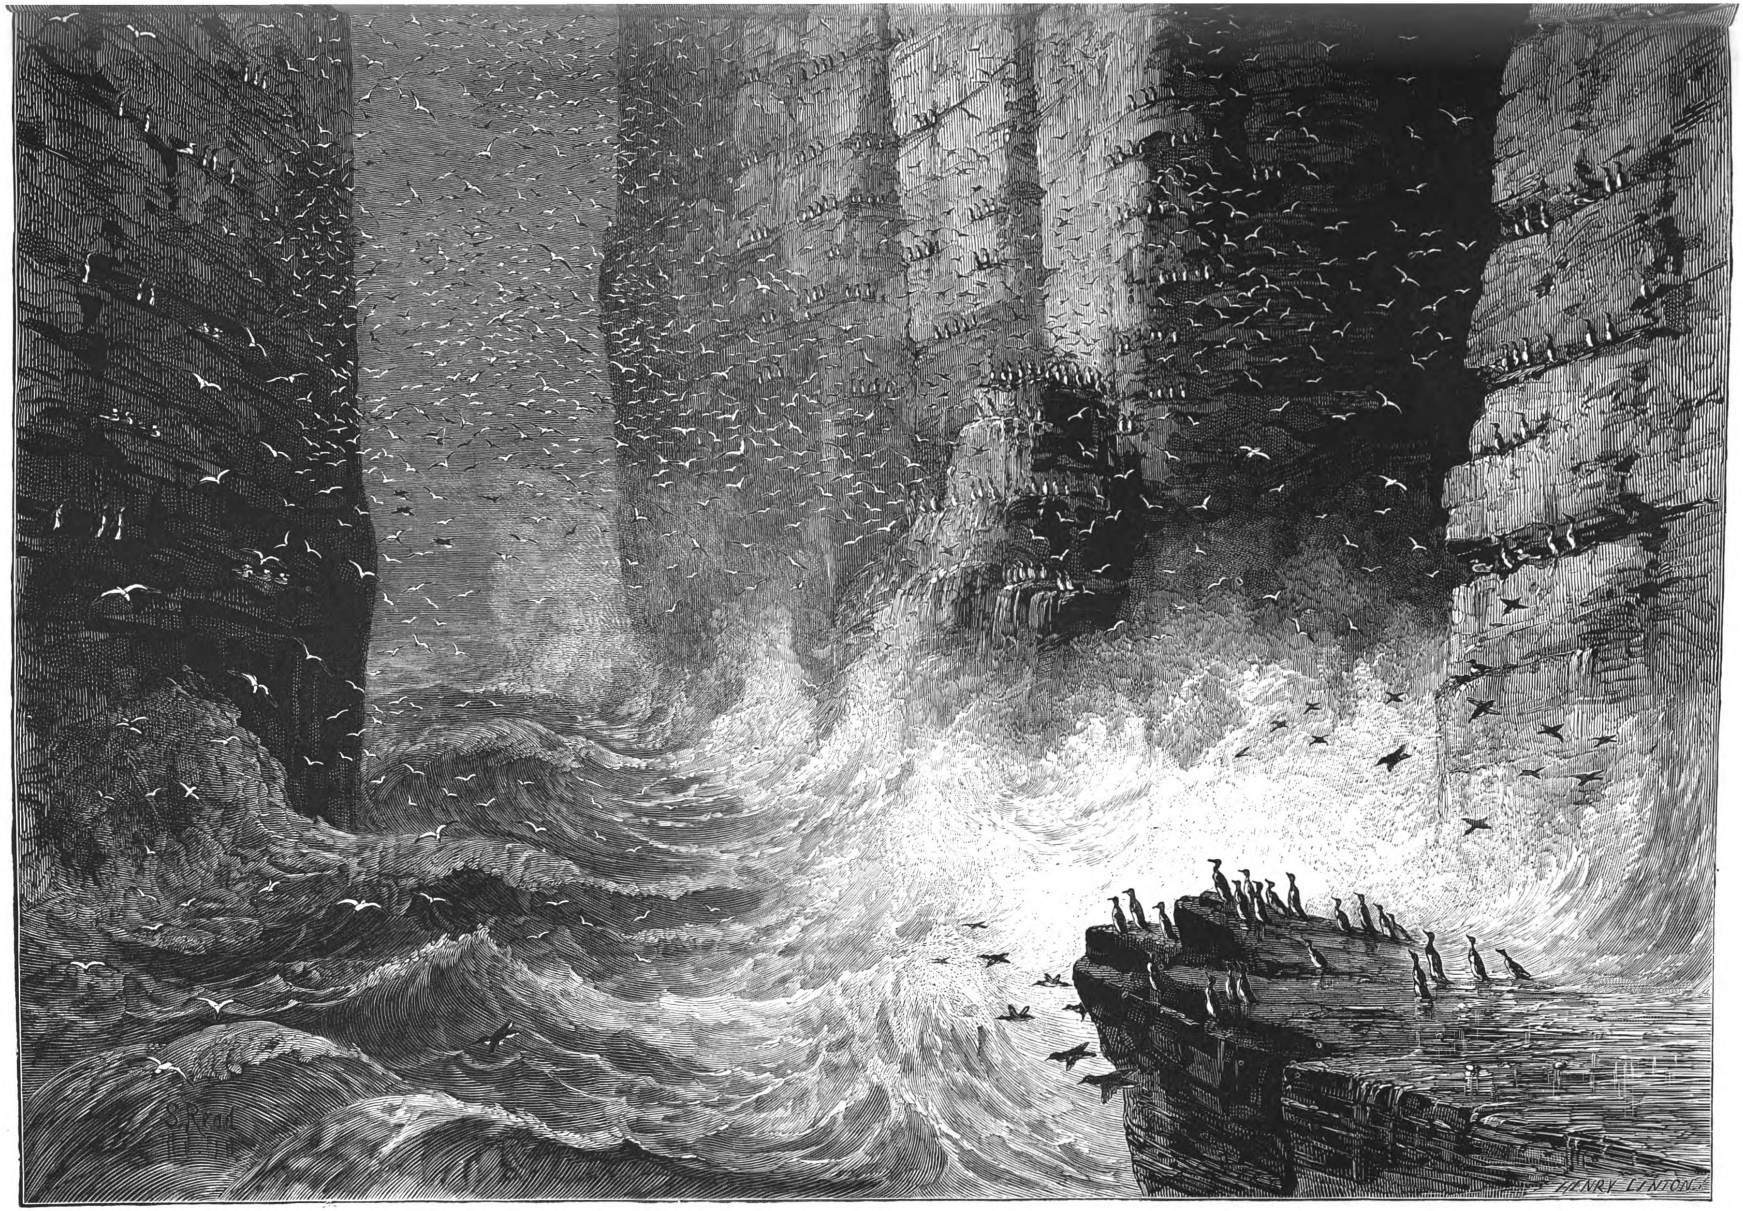
JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS'
GOLD MEDAL PIANOS.
"The tone is full, melodious, and of extraordinary power. The touch is extremely delicate, and the repetition is excellent."—The Chevalier Antoine de Kontski, Court Pianist to the Emperor of Germany.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS'
GOLD MEDAL PIANOS,
with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action.
"The nearest approach to perfection of 'manual expression' yet attained."—Examiner.
"The tone of the grand now referred to possessed all the qualities that a good piano ought to have, and in touch and action was perfect. The sweet and silvery quality of the upper octaves was worthy of special admiration."—The Era.
"Sir Julius Benedict played on one of Messrs. John Brinsmead and Sons' grand pianos, with the recently patented improvements, which enabled him to produce sustained tones with great variety of effect in the light and shade of tones, especially so when extreme delicacy of touch was required."—Court Journal.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS'
SHORT IRON GRAND PIANOS,
with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action.
"An immense improvement in arpeggios. The rapid passages in the upper register, the beautiful Bubelke tone, and quick and perfect repetition were very effective."—Figaro.
"Sir Julius Benedict, now seldom heard as a soloist, delighted the public once more. He played upon a new Patent Grand by Brinsmead, possessing a remarkably loud and clear tone."—Echo.
"The upright Iron Grand Piano, with sostenente sounding-board, produces the obvious result of a fuller and richer tone."—Morning Advertiser.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS'
SHORT IRON GRAND PIANOS.
"The improvements made in English pianos have caused this trade rapidly to increase, until one pianoforte manufactory after another has been built to supply the growing demand. One of the largest of these, lately erected by Messrs. John Brinsmead and Sons, of Wigmore-street, covers nearly an acre of ground in the Grafton-road, Kentish Town, and is intended to accommodate 350 workmen. These works alone can supply 3000 pianos annually. The French papers have been unanimous in their expressions of admiration of these splendid instruments. The two Grands especially have enchanted the Parisian professors and amateurs of music by their noble sonorousness, their enormous power, and the sympathetically voicelike quality of tone. The touch, also, is beautifully light, elastic, and certain, so that many pianists of every nation, from the Abbé Liszt downwards, who have tried these instruments, have highly complimented the enterprising manufacturers on their success. The improvements are too numerous to describe in detail, but it has been necessary to embody them in several patents recognised throughout Europe and America. Vigorous attempts have been made to perfect every portion of these instruments, and the whole has been constructed on entirely new principles throughout. The 'perfect check repeater action' renders the mechanism durable and perfect; 'the new complete metal framing' ensures the durability and strength of the case, in spite of a great increase in the length of the strings; 'the new sostenente sounding-board' produces a lovely 'singing' and grandly powerful quality of tone; while 'the sympathetic bridge of reverberation' assists in the sustaining power; and 'the sustaining pedal' enables the performer to produce beautifully-sustained effects, without the confused roar that has hitherto been attendant on the employment of the forte pedal."—Illustrated London News.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS'
GOLD MEDAL PIANOS,
with the Patent Perfect Check Repeater Action.
"A metal bridge of a peculiar form is used to produce the treble, and a much finer tone is elicited than if a wooden bridge were used."—Morning Post.
"Beautifully light and elastic touch, and an instant repetition."—Globe.
"This invention is simplicity itself."—The Queen.
"Receive the greatest approbation everywhere of musicians and manufacturers."—The Standard.



JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS'
PATENT "PERFECT CHECK REPEATER ACTION" PIANOFORTES OF EVERY DESCRIPTION.
AT ALL THE PRINCIPAL MUSIC WAREHOUSES.
Prices from 35 Guineas to 330 Guineas.

GILBERT L. BAUER'S PRIZE MEDAL ORGAN-VOICED ENGLISH HARMONIUMS on the Three-Years' System.

JOHN BRINSMEAD and SONS'
PIANOFORTES.
FOR INDIA AND EXTREME CLIMATES.
Illustrated Price-Lists and Descriptions, with opinions of the London Press and Musical Profession, forwarded, post-free, upon application.
18, WIGMORE-STREET, LONDON, W.
MANUFACTORY,
THE "BRINSMEAD WORKS," GRAFTON-ROAD,
KENTISH TOWN, N.W.

LONDON: Printed and Published at the Office, 198, Strand, in the Parish of St. Clement Danes, in the County of Middlesex, by GEORGE C. LEIGHTON, 198, Strand, aforesaid.—SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 21, 1878.

ON THE SUTHERLAND COAST—THE HEIGHT OF THE SEASON.

BY S. READ.

THE GREAT COLLIERY EXPLOSION IN MONMOUTHSHIRE: SKETCHES AT ABERCARNE.

THE MONMOUTHSHIRE COLLIERY DISASTER.

The great loss of life and consequent distress of families at Abercarne, near Newport, from the explosion on Wednesday week in the Colliery there, has excited general sympathy. We gave some account of this disaster in our last. A view of the Colliery is now presented, with a few sketches, taken by one of our Artists, showing the scenes he witnessed soon after this sad occurrence. The Abercarne Colliery is situated in the Ebbw Vale, ten or twelve miles north of Newport. It lies between two well-wooded mountains—the Cwmcarne on the east and the Mynyddislwyn on the west, which rise almost perpendicularly to about 1000 feet. At the foot of the Cwmcarne, and adjoining the Abercarne and Cwmcarne Colliery, runs the Monmouthshire Canal, and around the pit-shaft are the usual coke-ovens and rubbish heaps, forming miniature mountains. To the west the Ebbw river flows at the base of the Mynyddislwyn. The Abercarne Colliery is the largest of the pits owned by the Ebbw Vale Company; it has an output of about 1000 tons of coal per day, and employs about 600 men and boys to get them. Their other collieries, fourteen in all, lie further up the Ebbw Vale and in the adjoining valley, just over the top of the Mynyddislwyn. Their annual output of coal is over 2,000,000 tons. The Ebbw Vale Company has been remarkably free from accidents, and its own officials consider that, in the present case, no human foresight could have prevented the catastrophe. The company took over the Abercarne Colliery in 1859, after it had proved a failure in various hands from the time that the first shaft was made, in 1837. After working it for some time with improved machinery they, in 1863, struck the nine feet black vein, which proved fatal last week to 267 of their workmen. The pit was worked on the pillar and stall system, and it was only four months since that the company completed a down-cast air-shaft, the Cwmcarne, at a cost of £60,000, which has increased the volume of fresh air through the working from 90,000 cubic feet to 150,000 cubic feet per minute. The Cwmcarne shaft was driven to a depth of 268 yards, and then a drift was made of about a thousand yards in length to communicate to the old workings. The men go down the shaft at Abercarne, and then ride on an engine for about a mile in an easterly direction, where they get into the black vein seam, and this seam is in communication with the Cwmcarne air-shaft, which lies about a mile south in a straight line. It was in this seam that the explosion is supposed to have occurred. The men were, therefore, about a mile off both the Cwmcarne shaft and the Abercarne shaft, and not one man, from that part of the pit, is left to tell the tale. There were about 350 men below, of whom nearly one hundred came up alive.

In documents carefully compiled under the direction of the managers of the colliery the exact number of persons lost in the mine is given at 257. Of these 131 were married men, sixty-seven were single men, fifty-five were boys under eighteen years of age, and four were widowers. An approximate list of persons dependent upon those who are lost shows 131 widows, 363 children, eight parents, and seventeen brothers, making a total of 519 persons. Estimating the cost of subsistence at the moderate rate of 5s. per head per week, the weekly sum required for their maintenance would be £129 15s., or £6747 per annum. For some considerable time past the colliery has been slack of work; the wages earned were consequently low, and very little indeed could be saved. A public subscription has been opened for the relief of the distressed families; and the London Mansion House Fund for that purpose, up to last Tuesday evening, was £4000. It is a case, probably, of still greater need than that of the sufferers by the steam-boat collision at Woolwich.

The conference of the mining authorities and engineers resulted in the decision to flood the mine. This step was taken as early as possible. The extent of the workings is over fifteen miles, and it is difficult to estimate the time that must elapse before the fire now raging can be extinguished. Months will elapse before the colliery can again be in working order. Water must be poured in by riversful for some days before the flooded mine is submerged and all the fires are quenched. It must then be drawn and pumped out again at the Abercarne shaft and poured into the stream of Ebbw. Not until this work is accomplished can the 250 bodies be brought up for Christian burial. The Nonconformist ministers of the district have been not less diligent than the Church clergy in visiting the desolated homes.

The Coroner for the district (Mr. W. H. Brewer) formally opened an inquest on the body of one man which had been brought up, and then adjourned the inquiry to the 19th inst.

The Sketches presented in a page of this Supplement show parts of the surface premises of the Abercarne Colliery, the entrance to the Prince of Wales's shaft, with the approach to it through the village street, and the place where the canal was tapped, with the aid of wooden conduits and iron tubes of 15 in. diameter, to flood the shaft and quench the subterranean fires. Portraits are given, also, of several of the bravest and best men of the exploring parties, Miles Mosely, Harris, and Simmons, with the scene at the pit-head when a party returned from their ineffectual attempt to traverse the passages below. The medical gentlemen, of whom Dr. Rowbotham and his sons deserve especial mention, appear in another Sketch, diligently and tenderly caring for one of the living sufferers from this deplorable disaster.

Lady Wrottesley opened the Staffordshire County Refuge for discharged female prisoners on Tuesday. The building has been erected at Stafford at a considerable cost, the money having been obtained by subscriptions through the efforts of the Earl of Lichfield and other noblemen. Amongst those who assisted at the opening were Lord Wrottesley, Lord Lieutenant of the county, the Earl of Harrowby, and the Earl of Lichfield.

A labourer named Hicks, employed recently at Windsor Castle, was brought before the magistrates at Windsor last Saturday, charged with breaking into the servants' lobby at the castle and stealing some clothing. It appeared that the prisoner had effected an entrance to the lobby by a window over the leads; and on his being apprehended keys were found in his possession which opened thirteen drawers in which the servants' clothing was kept. The clothing had been pledged with various pawnbrokers. He was committed for trial.

The business of the Trades Union Congress at Bristol was concluded last Saturday. At the opening of the proceedings a letter was read from S. Morley, M.P., regretting that he had been unable to attend the meetings of the Congress, and adding, "My hearty wish is that the result of your recent meetings may be to knit together the two great classes of employers and employed." Mr. H. Broadhurst was elected secretary of the Parliamentary Committee, and Edinburgh was chosen as the next place of meeting. Resolutions were passed in favour of co-operation and labour representation in Parliament, and against the twenty-third clause of the Poor-law Amendment Act; and the Parliamentary Committee was instructed to prepare a list of test questions, to be submitted to candidates at the next general election.

THE DISASTER ON THE RIVER.

There is at length some abatement of the stress of painful feeling that has prevailed in London during the past three weeks. The dreadful task of collecting, numbering, identifying, and burying the dead has been completed. The Coroner's inquest has begun a regular investigation of the evidence relating to the collision between the two vessels, and the official inquiry appointed by the Board of Trade will be opened next week. Our Illustrations in this number, following those published in our last, which were numerous, represent but a few of the later incidents. The scene at the cemetery belonging to the town of Woolwich, at East Wickham, near Plumstead-common, when many of the unknown dead were together interred there on Monday week, is the subject of our two-page Engraving. Portions of the divided wreck of the Princess Alice, the after-part of the vessel lying on shore below Woolwich Arsenal, having been raised by three lighters moored above its sunken position, and removed by a steam-tug into shallow water at high tide, are shown in other Illustrations. The interior of the saloon, with its floor still submerged and partly blocked up with floating furniture, amidst which the divers groped for more dead bodies, was a dismal place to peep into. The visit of the Coroner, Mr. C. J. Carttar, with his jury, in a boat, to examine the wreck of the ill-fated steam-boat, was sketched by our Artist from the engine-room. We also give an Illustration of a sitting of the inquest at the Woolwich Townhall, with a female witness giving information of the identity of some relative or friend she had lost. The exhibition, at Woolwich Dockyard, of a quantity of clothes, shoes, hats, bonnets, and caps, bags and baskets, umbrellas and parasols, cases of musical instruments of the band, and various other articles picked up about the wreck, was inspected by many who were in search of some trace of their missing friends. The watches, rings, and brooches, and other jewellery, were placed in cigar-boxes, fitted with glass lids, on the table, to be viewed with more safety; the shawls, coats, and different garments hung on a clothes-line aloft. Some things were claimed by survivors of the disaster.

THE LATE CAPTAIN GRINSTEAD, COMMANDER OF THE PRINCESS ALICE.

The stern part of the wreck was lifted from the bottom on Monday week, by the labours of the watermen in the lighters under the direction of Mr. Wood, Surveyor of Moorings, and other officers of the Thames Conservancy Board; and in the night, at low water, the wreck was left high and dry upon the river bank. At four o'clock next morning the searching operations recommenced. Two young men named Shephard and Kelsey volunteered to go into the cabin, which was half full of mud. Everything was in the utmost confusion, broken tables, chairs, cushions, and other things lying in heaps in the mud, which was about four feet in depth. The first body found was that of a man who had evidently been carried by the water into the ladies' cabin. Next came the body of a woman which the searchers found under a broken table, and then another woman was taken from below the cabin oil-cloth, which had covered her. The wreck itself it would be almost impossible to describe. The engine-room is full of twisted rods and pipes knocked out of their original form, and as red with rust as though they had been under water for a twelve-month. The paddle-floats are torn and turned up as if they had been made of paper, and the iron casing of the vessel is cut through and splintered in almost as bad a fashion as any of the most modern forms of steam-rams could effect. The searchers were successful in bringing to light many remnants and articles of various descriptions, such as bags, umbrellas, and cloaks; but only the three dead bodies before mentioned were found in the cabin or saloon.

The burial of the unclaimed dead collected at Woolwich Dockyard could not be deferred longer than Monday week, most of the bodies having become so decomposed as to be beyond recognition. Early that morning nearly 150 corpses were ranged across the immense shed, but before night not less than eighty-three had been consigned to their graves in East Wickham Cemetery—namely, forty-seven women, eighteen men, and eighteen children. Coffins having been provided at the expense of the local authorities, sixteen bodies were first selected for burial; but three of them were identified by means of the clothes exposed to view in another shed. The first funeral was announced to leave the dockyard at ten o'clock, and punctually at that hour the procession started. A mounted constable or two cleared the way. At the head of the procession, in the capacity of chief mourners, were the Churchwardens and Overseers of Woolwich, Messrs. John Taylor and H. Howes, and Messrs. J. Edwards, R. J. Naylor, and A. W. Lockyer. Messrs. Paine and Tuffield, as a deputation from the Local Board of Health, were also in the procession. Next to these came four ambulance waggons, containing thirteen of the unidentified bodies, some of which had been laid out for identification so long that all hope of their ever being claimed was to be abandoned. Following the ambulances were a few cabs and other vehicles. The procession passed along Edward-street, Powis-street, and the Plumstead-road to the cemetery, which stands on elevated ground on the south side of Plumstead-common. All along the route the streets were lined with people. At the cemetery gates the cortége was met by the Hon. and Rev. A. Anson, Rector of Woolwich, who, reading the processional sentences, preceded the bodies to the graves. These are placed at the brow of the hill, and two hundred had been prepared. The coffins, which were covered with black cloth, and severally bore a plate giving the number of the body in the police books, were then lowered into thirteen of the graves. Meanwhile the Rector read portions of the funeral service as the laborious work was proceeding. All the bodies having been lowered, the service was concluded; the clear, sonorous voice of the Rector could be heard for some distance. There was an immense crowd of persons at the grave. The greatest order, however, prevailed, and, with the exception of the trampling on a few graves, little or no damage was done. After the interment the Rector addressed the congregation with some impressive remarks upon this solemn occasion.

The largest funeral, or rather series of funerals, took place in the afternoon, when seventy bodies were interred at the cemetery. The first instalment of twenty-eight left the dockyard at four o'clock, in seven transport-waggons. The procession was headed, as before, by a mounted policeman, a churchwarden, and an overseer, as representing the parish. It was followed by several thousand persons of all ages, some of them in vehicles, but the great majority on foot. After more than an hour the cemetery was reached. Here the vast multitude was met by the Rev. T. Love, Curate of St. Mary's, Woolwich. He conducted the procession, not into the church, but to a spot at the top of the hill, where a hundred graves had been prepared. He read the solemn sentences of the burial service on the way. The waggons ascended the path, and their contents were removed and deposited in the earth; not less than 6000 or 7000 persons witnessed the distressing scene. Before the service, in which the Rector subsequently assisted, had been completed, twelve waggons, bearing forty-five additional corpses, arrived at the cemetery, and forty-two of them were buried in the same way as the others had been. Of the remaining three one coffin had been taken by mistake, as it contained a body which had really been recognised. At the last moment messengers hurriedly came with the statement that the other two corpses had been identified in the dockyard by relatives through seeing the clothes. The right of the relatives to bury their own dead was, of course, at once allowed. A lady belonging to the congregation of St. Mary's, Woolwich, strewed flowers upon the coffins in each of the graves. The melancholy ceremony did not terminate until nearly dark. A large number of the spectators stayed to the close. Since these funerals applications have been made in several cases to have particular graves reopened, the bodies, which were distinguished by numbering, having been claimed by friends who read the descriptions and saw the clothes or relics at the dockyard. Mr. Anson has applied to the Home Office and to the Bishop of the diocese for the necessary permission.

On the Friday after, one of the victims of this calamity, Mr. Frederick Whomes, the organist of the Dockyard Church, was interred in the East Wickham Cemetery. There was a large number of mourners, and great sympathy was felt for the family of the deceased. The service was performed by the Hon. and Rev. A. Anson, the Rector, assisted by the Rev. E. Rust, of the Dockyard Church; and the choristers of St. George's Garrison Church, St. Mary's, Woolwich, the Dockyard, the Royal Arsenal Chapel, and St. Michael's and All Angels, attended and sang a processional hymn as the body was lifted from the hearse and carried up the steep hill. Mr. Whomes, father of the late organist, was chief mourner. At Limehouse there was an entire family, Mr. George Davis, with his wife and four children, all drowned in the Princess Alice. The funeral took place in the East London Cemetery at Plaistow, but the procession thither included forty carriages, with deputations from the Freemasons' and Druids' Lodges, and a great concourse of people.

The total number of bodies received at Woolwich Dockyard to the end of last week was 567, besides about forty at Barking, thirteen at Poplar, and a dozen at Rainham and elsewhere. Several cases are known in which persons got out of the water alive, but died from exhaustion; one is that of a young American lady, Miss Ella Hambury, who swam two miles, was picked up by a boat, and survived a week, but died at last at her brother's house at Mildmay Park, Islington. Her intended husband, Mr. Harrison, was drowned in the Princess Alice.

The Woolwich inquest, on Monday and Tuesday last, its tenth and eleventh days, examined some of the most important witnesses; Mr. G. T. Long, chief mate of the Princess Alice; John Eyers, a seaman casually employed, with his half-brother Creed, to steer the vessel; J. R. Rand, one of the look-out men; Mr. Ralph Wilkinson, the second mate; Henry Young, another look-out man; and Thomas Longhurst, head engineer. Mr. Edwin Hughes, solicitor, of Woolwich, attended for the London Steam-Boat Company; Mr. Myburgh, barrister, for the owners of the Bywell Castle; Captain Bedford Pim, M.P., who is a barrister, and two or three other gentlemen, appeared for relatives of persons lost in the Princess Alice. An inquest was also held last week, at Poplar, by the East Middlesex Coroner, but only a formal verdict was returned.

The Mansion House Fund, for the relief of distressed families of any of those drowned by this misfortune, amounted to £20,000 on Tuesday evening, which we should think more than sufficient for the need, as two thirds of those lost were women and children, and many of the others young men with nobody dependent upon them. It has been suggested that the surplus, after relieving all the actual destitution, should be given to the widows and orphans of the 257 working colliers killed at Abercarne, in Monmouthshire. We should like to see a permanent trust fund created, for the whole of England and Wales, to receive and invest all unexpended balances of these charitable subscriptions raised upon different occasions; and the trustees empowered to make grants of money, at their discretion, for any fresh emergency. There are many large sums at the bankers, freely given by public liberality upon such occurrences as wrecks, fires, colliery explosions, and other accidents causing much loss of life, but of which, after the bestowal of such temporary relief as is wanted, the public never hears any more. It is much to be desired that the remaining balances should be collected, and the aggregate fund secured for future use, with the consent of its principal contributors or of their representatives at this time.

We present a portrait of the late Captain William Grinstead, commander of the London Steam-Boat Company's saloon steam-boat Princess Alice. He remained at his post on the bridge of that vessel, refusing to leave it, as he was entreated to do, after the collision, when he could no doubt have escaped either by climbing the bows of the Bywell Castle, or by jumping overboard. He had with him the little children of Mr. Towse, superintendent of the company's fleet. Captain Grinstead had been about two years in command of the Princess Alice. All who knew Captain Grinstead speak in high terms both of his character and his skill. Captain V. L. Cameron, R.N., the African traveller, has written a letter in which he says, "It may be some slight solace to the friends of the Captain of the Princess Alice that I should bear testimony to his skill and unremitting carefulness. Some years ago I was stationed at Sheerness, and the manner in which he used to handle his steamer was a common topic of praise among naval officers. I then occasionally went to Southend on board his steamer, and his unremitting care and knowledge of how to handle a long, unhandy vessel were beyond all praise. Last June I was one of a party invited by Mr. J. O. Lever to take a trip down the Thames on board the Princess Alice, and I took the opportunity of renewing my acquaintance with her captain. His care was the same as I had known of old, and the same, as I doubt not, was exhibited in the last moments of his life. I hope that some testimony to the memory of one who for twenty years has ministered to the pleasure of the people of London may be raised, and the best form such a testimony could take would be placing his wife and family beyond want."

A sister of Captain William Grinstead, Mrs. Elizabeth Hoffmeister, relict of the late George Bernard Hoffmeister, Commander Royal Navy, resides in Shakespeare-road, Sittingbourne. Her brother, Mr. Charles Thomas Grinstead, of Swale-street, Poplar, and his wife had been staying with her, and left on Tuesday, the 3rd, for Sheerness, to proceed thence in the ill-fated Princess Alice with their brother, the captain. They are both drowned. Mr. Charles Thomas Grinstead rendered very active assistance on the previous Saturday in getting the passengers out of the train which met with the accident at Sittingbourne, helping to raise the overturned carriages by means of jacks. Another brother, Mr. George Grinstead, of 10, North Kent-terrace, Woolwich, was captain of the Sea Swallow, but is now on the sick list, having burst two blood-vessels. Mrs. Hoffmeister fears that this sad news will retard his progress. A third brother, Mr. Frank Grinstead, resides with Mrs. Hoffmeister.

MUSIC.

THE WORCESTER MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

Our last week's record of this celebration necessarily closed with a brief reference to the first of the miscellaneous concerts, in the College Hall, on the Wednesday evening, when Sir W. S. Bennett's cantata, "The May Queen," was very effectively rendered. The important overture was finely played by the band, and the vocal solos were well sung by Misses Mary Davies, Bertha Griffiths, Mr. Guy, and Mr. Wadmore. Several of the pieces produced much effect, particularly the solo and chorus, "With a laugh as we go round" (the solo by Miss Davies); and the favourite trio, "The hawthorn in the glade," in which that lady was associated with Mr. Guy and Mr. Wadmore. After the cantata, Miss Anna Williams sang with good dramatic feeling and expression, the scena ("Softly sighs") from "Der Freischütz," and this was followed by M. Sainton's brilliant execution of the first movement of Beethoven's violin concerto, in which the excellent violinist produced a marked impression. The second part of the concert was miscellaneous, and included admirable orchestral performances of Mozart's symphony in G minor, and Rossini's overture to "Guillaume Tell," and a selection of vocal pieces, the prominent effect in which was produced by the brilliant singing of Madame Albani in the aria "Qui la voce," from "I Puritani."

On the Thursday morning Dr. Armes's "short oratorio," "Hezekiah," was given in the cathedral. This work, the production of the organist of Durham Cathedral, was first performed at Newcastle-on-Tyne last year. The text is compiled by himself, and consists of passages, taken from the Book of Isaiah, referring to the invasion of Judea by Sennacherib, the destruction of the Assyrian army, and the sickness and miraculous recovery of Hezekiah. The vocal music is preceded by a spirited orchestral introduction in the martial style, supposed to accompany the advance of Sennacherib's army upon Jerusalem. The choral writing is the best portion of the work, and proves that Dr. Armes has studied well the productions of our older cathedral composers. A predilection for the style of Mendelssohn is also frequently observable in the music of "Hezekiah." The choruses that proved most effective in performance were "Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace," "O Lord, I will praise Thee," and the concluding "Sing unto the Lord." The solo pieces are somewhat forced and strained in style. The most elaborate of these is a bravura air, "Therefore with joy," which was extremely well sung by Miss Anna Williams. The contralto air, "Enter into the Rock," is flowing in its vocal melody, but possesses no distinctive character It proved, however, effective, chiefly owing to the fine singing of Madame Patey, the ladies just named having given every advantage to the rather pretty, but too volatile, duet, "The Virgin, the Daughter of Zion;" as did Mr. Wadmore to the bass song, "I have blotted out as a thick cloud," and Mr. E. Lloyd to some incidental tenor passages—the four vocalists having co-operated in the quartet, "Seek ye the Lord," a smooth and unpretentious piece of part-writing. Dr. Armes conducted the performance of his work, after which the conductor of the festival, Mr. Done, took the bâton, and the first part of the programme closed with Mendelssohn's sublime hymn, "Hear my prayer," for soprano solo, chorus, and orchestra. The solo part was sung by Madame Albani with exquisite purity of voice and style and unaffected devotional feeling. The Thursday morning's performance closed with a very satisfactory rendering of Spohr's "Last Judgment," the solo music of which was assigned to Misses Davies and Griffiths, Mr. Guy, and Mr. Santley. The overture which opens the oratorio, and the symphony with which the second part begins, afforded fresh evidence of the excellence of the orchestra.

The Thursday night's concert, which was entirely miscellaneous, included the overtures to "Euryanthe" (Weber), "Egmont" (Beethoven), and "The Merry Wives of Windsor" (Nicolai), and Sir W. S. Bennett's pianoforte concerto in F minor. In this last-named piece Miss Done (daughter of the organist of Worcester Cathedral and conductor of the festival) made a genuine impression by her excellent performance. The young lady possesses a touch both powerful and delicate, and a thorough command of bravura execution; and her phrasing is admirable for clearness of emphasis and rhythm. Miss Done should be heard in London. Special among the vocal music on this occasion was Madame Albani's brilliant singing of the arias "Ah fors' è lui" (from "La Traviata") and "O luce di quest' anima" (from "Linda di Chamouni"); other well-known pieces having been contributed by some of the principal vocalists, besides some effective chorus-singing in Beethoven's "A calm sea and a prosperous voyage;" a clever part-song, composed by the Rev. E. V. Hall, and well sung by the cathedral choir; and part-songs by Pinsuti and Leslie, powerfully rendered by the Yorkshire choristers, who had to repeat the first one.

Of the concluding Oratorio performance yesterday (Friday) week it is unnecessary to say more than that it consisted of the usual festival climax, "The Messiah," the vocal solo music having been distributed between Madame Albani, Misses A. Williams and Griffiths, Madame Patey, Mr. E. Lloyd, Mr. Santley, and Mr. Wadmore. Madame Albani's share included the airs "Rejoice greatly" and "I know that my Redeemer liveth;" the first of which was given with fine bravura execution, and the other with affecting pathos.

The special evening service which closed the Festival brought forward a "Magnificat" and "Nunc Dimittis," by Sir F. G. Ouseley, and a sacred cantata, "The Daughter of Jairus," by Dr. Stainer—all composed specially for the occasion. The cantata, which was given as the anthem, and was conducted by the composer, is written for solo voices (soprano, tenor, and bass), chorus, and orchestra. It contains much effective and masterly writing, and produced so highly favourable an impression that it can scarcely fail to be soon heard in London. The cantata opens with an orchestral introduction of some length, in which are some good effects of combination and contrast, and many skilful harmonic progressions and modulations. The solo vocal music is full of melodious grace, while the choral writing is always effective, and in one instance of special mastery and power. In the first-named respect, we may refer to the tenor air, "My hope is in the Everlasting," and the duet, for soprano and tenor, "Love divine," the first of which was well sung by Mr. Guy, who was associated in the other with Miss A. Williams; Mr. Wadmore having efficiently rendered some incidental bass solos in other portions of the cantata. All the choruses told well, particularly that for female voices, "Sweet tender flower," and, above all, that for full choir, "Awake, thou that sleepest," the movement above alluded to. This chorus is remarkable for its vigorous treatment, its amplitude of development and well-sustained interest. Excellently rendered, it produced a very marked impression, and the close of the cantata left a strong desire for an early re-hearing.

Sir F. G. Ouseley's two pieces of service music are fully worthy of the reputation of the learned Oxford professor. They are written with a fluent command of counterpoint, and contain many phrases of melodious beauty. The orchestra and chorus were employed in both, and there are incidental passages for solo vocal quartet, which were well sung by Misses A. Williams and B. Griffiths, Mr. Guy, and Mr. Wadmore.

The altered position of the orchestra from the west end of the cathedral (as at the festival of 1872) to the centre of the building, was not an improvement, as it tended to considerable dispersion of sound; and the slighter elevation of the platform on this occasion rendered the performers invisible to all but the comparative few who were placed in immediate neighbourhood thereto. Possibly at the next festival (in 1881) this experience may tend to a resumption of the former arrangements.

Mr. Done has conducted the performances with care and judgment; and his coadjutors, Mr. Lloyd, organist of Gloucester Cathedral, and Mr. Colborne, organist of Hereford Cathedral, have done good service in presiding, respectively, at the organ and the pianoforte.

Allusion has already been made to the suppression of oratorio performances and miscellaneous evening concerts in 1875, and to the virtual triumph just gained by the advocates of the festivals in their extended form—the new arrangement of opening and closing with a grand special service, and preceding and following the oratorios with a short form of prayer—being a slight and by no means unreasonable concession to the cathedral authorities. The success of the festival has been complete, the collections and donations having amounted to nearly £1400.

The many attractions at the Covent-Garden Promenade Concerts have just been heightened by the engagement of Mr. Santley and Mr. Charles Hallé. Our excellent baritone has sung several of those favourite pieces which have so often been associated with his name, and Mr. Hallé has displayed his well-known skill and taste in classical and brilliant compositions. The performance of eight of Beethoven's nine symphonies, in regular order, on Monday evenings, is nearly completed, No. 7 (in A) having been given this week. Wednesday was another "Classical Night," and for this (Friday) evening an "English Night" is announced. This series of concerts, under the management of Messrs. Gatti, is now almost completed, and is to be succeeded by another series, directed by M. Rivière, beginning on Oct. 5.

The performances of operas in English, at the Alexandra Palace, have proved specially successful, and are still continuing on Saturday evenings, the announcement for this week being "Il Trovatore," with Madame Blanche Cole as Leonora.

The twenty-third series of Crystal Palace Saturday Afternoon Concerts will begin on Oct. 5, when the programme will include Brahms's second symphony (in D), this being its first performance in England. M. Brassin, the Belgian pianist, is to make his first appearance in England, and play Beethoven's concerto in E flat (the "Emperor") and Liszt's Hungarian Fantasia. Among the forthcoming specialties will be a Mendelssohn commemoration concert, on Nov. 2, when a manuscript symphony in F minor (for stringed instruments) will be performed for the first time. Among other interesting announcements is the promised performance (in November) of Berlioz's great symphonic work, entitled "Harold en Italie."

The last of the four classical chamber concerts by the London Conservatoire of Music will be given at Langham Hall next Monday evening, under the direction of Messrs. H. C. Cooper and Lansdowne Cottell.

A grand concert is announced to be given in Exeter Hall next Saturday evening, the 28th inst., in aid of the fund for the relief of the sufferers by the wreck of the Princess Alice.

The Norfolk and Norwich nineteenth triennial musical festival will be held in St. Andrew's Hall, Norwich, on Oct. 15 and three following days. From the programme we learn that Sir Julius Benedict will conduct, and that the principal vocalists will be Madame Albani, Miss Catherine Penna, Miss Anna Williams, Madame Antoinette Sterling, and Madame Trebelli; and Messrs. Edward Lloyd, H. J. Minns, W. Shakespeare, R. Hilton, and Mr. Santley. Dr. Burnett will be the organist, and Mr. J. Harcourt the chorus master; the chorus will number 273, consisting of 77 sopranos, 40 contraltos, 21 altos, 67 tenors, and 68 basses.

The Shakers in Hampshire have removed their goods from the roadside at Hordle to an adjoining field, and the summons on which Mrs. Girling was to appear before the magistrates on Saturday morning for causing an obstruction was accordingly withdrawn. Mrs. Girling and her "family" are about to remove from Lymington to the racecourse at Kingsbury, near London, where they will be lodged in the grand stand.

THEATRES.

HAYMARKET.

Mr. H. J. Byron may congratulate himself on his success on Monday with his new comedy-drama, "Conscience Money." It is in three acts, neatly constructed, simple in story, and abundant in character, each distinguished by nice shades, indicating a skilled artist. The manipulation of the dialogue is perfect. First in the development of the plot are Sir Archibald Crane (Mr. R. Pateman) and Mrs. Calverly (Miss E. Thorne). In the drawing-room of the former certain friends assemble, who are interested in Mrs. Calverly's daughter Helen (Miss Bella Pateman). The young lady has the fortune, bad or good, to have three lovers, Frederick Damer (Mr. Charles Kelly), William Tapery (Mr. D. Fisher, jun.), and Sydney Sefton (Mr. W. Terriss). These differ much in disposition and character. The first is morose but honest, the second sheepish, and the third clever but slippery. The lady's instincts lead her to prefer the solid virtues of Damer, the supposed owner also of a country seat; wherefore his rivals have to surrender their claims. A change comes over the picture in the second act. To the surprise of all, the marriage is not a happy one. Some dreadful secret occasions the husband to be absent from home, and thereby to supply his wife with motives for jealousy. The fact is, that Damer's elder brother, reported dead, has returned alive, and the country seat belongs to him. Willingly would Damer have surrendered it at once; but the brother, under suspicion of murder, is a fugitive from justice, and therefore depends on Frederick for the income derivable from the estate. Under these circumstances, Damer refuses to take possession of the family mansion, and his wife is disappointed of a social position to which she had aspired. Helen, when married, finds herself neglected by her apparently wayward husband, and assailed by her two remaining lovers. She nearly yields to the temptation; but Damer has a sincere friend in a schoolfellow, Dick Simpson (Mr. H. J. Byron), who protects him from his false ones, and guides him in a judicious course of conduct. Sydney Sefton overhears a conversation between the two friends, and discovers that Damer is not entitled to the country seat to which he has all along laid claim. Armed with this information, he retaliates upon Damer in presence of his wife, accusing him of having married under false pretences. The effect produced by this revelation is different from what Sefton had expected. Finding that her husband had not been unfaithful, but merely perplexed, Helen throws herself into his arms, a happy wife. The third act needs no detail, it merely gathers up the fragments of the story and points its moral. The acting is admirable, all round. Mr. Byron had reserved the few puns it included for his own delivery. The performance throughout was received with applause.

The opéra-bouffe, "Geneviève de Brabant," with Miss Emily Soldene in the part of Drogan, has been revived at the Alhambra.

A revival of an American adaptation of "La Grâce de Dieu" was attempted at the Court on Saturday, but, as we hear, without success. It is played in five acts, under the title of "Marie, the Pearl of Savoy," and the subject may be known from Donizetti's ballad-opera, "Linda di Chamouni." As we were not invited to the performance, we cannot describe its merits, or those of Miss Agnes Leonard, in the character of Marie; of both the current reports are unfavourable. The theatre is under the temporary management of Mr. W. H. Stephens.

Relative to the performance at the Duke's of "The Barricade," we may mention that the double rôle of Fantine and Cosette was played by Mrs. Digby Willoughby.

The Gaiety benefit for the Hospital for Sick Children last Saturday produced (including the Toy Fund) about £150 for this excellent charity. The toys were the largest present of the kind ever made to the hospital.

The benefit performance at Astley's Theatre on Saturday in aid of the Princess Alice Relief Fund resulted in an addition of more than £60 to the fund.

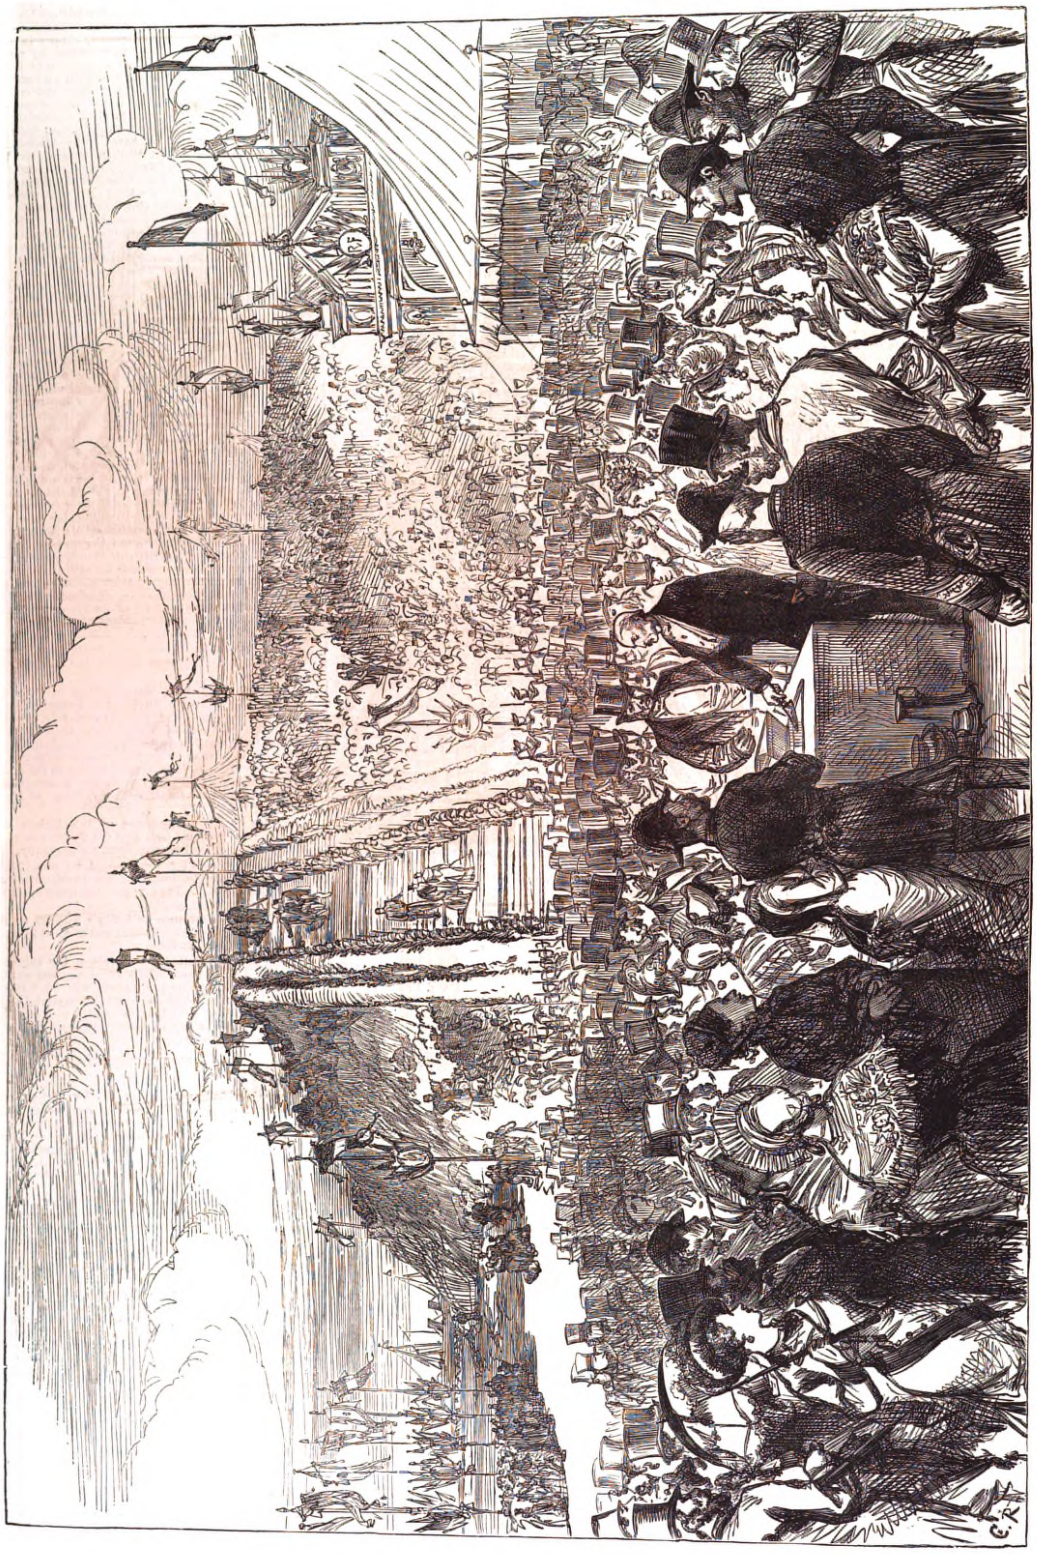
At St. George's Hall, Langham-place, the autumn season of Mr. and Mrs. German Reed's Entertainment will begin on Monday, Sept. 30. The programme will be "Doubleday's Will," "The Paris Exhibition," and "An Artful Automaton." A new first part by F. C. Burnand and a new musical sketch by Mr. Corney Grain are in active preparation, and will be produced without delay.

ART.

We are glad to learn that Mr. Gullick, the art-critic, has completely recovered from his long and severe illness, and that he will shortly return to London from Italy.

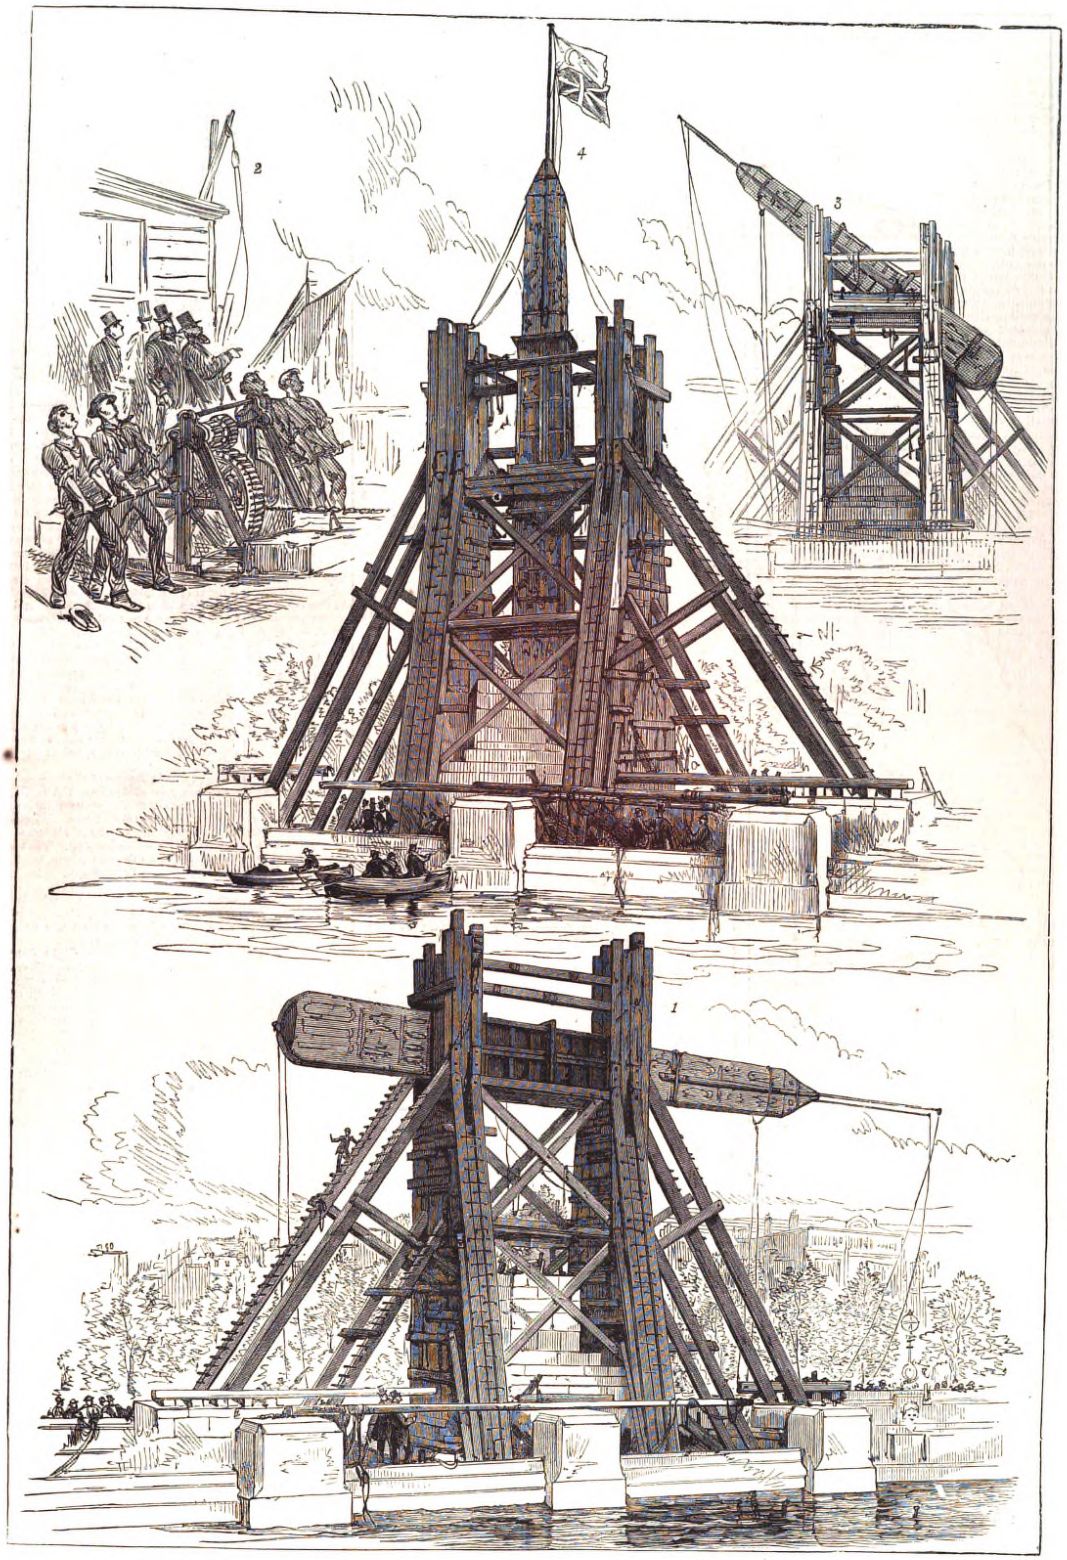
The annual exhibition of modern pictures at Manchester, which is now open, is described as being superior in every respect to its predecessors for many years past. Among the exhibitors are Millais, Aumonier, Watts, Israels, Legros, Herkomer, and J. D. Watson.

A committee of the Aldermen, Councillors, and leading inhabitants of the borough of Crewe have commissioned Mr. Hooke, of Manchester, to paint two lifesize portraits of Dr. Atkinson, first Mayor of Crewe, one for the Corporation and the other for presentation to Mrs. Atkinson.



The Berks Archæological and Architectural Society visited Bray church, Ockwells, Shottesbrook, and Maidenhead on the 21st inst., and inspected the antiquities of the district.

A largely attended meeting of mechanics and artisans was held in the Hastings School of Science and Art Institution on the 12th inst., under the presidency of the Deputy Mayor. Addresses were given by Mr. T. Brassey, M.P., and other gentlemen, in which the speakers pointed out that mechanics who had a taste and could draw could command better wages than those who could not.



A monument to the late Mr. John Platt, M.P. for Oldham, was unveiled last Saturday by his widow in front of the Town-hall, Oldham. Mr. Platt was member for Oldham from 1865 to 1872, the time of his death. The day of the unveiling was celebrated with great rejoicing. A procession was formed of upwards of 10,000 people, the streets were decorated with flags, and at night the town was illuminated. The monument, which is a statue in bronze, is the work of Mr. D. W. Stevenson, Edinburgh, and cost 3000 guineas.

The Secretary of State for India, through Sir Louis Mallet, has allowed the marble bust of the late Mr. Henry Woodrow, subscribed for by the natives of Bengal and others, to be placed in one of the committee-rooms at the India Office for a short time before it is sent to Calcutta. In addition to the bust, the natives of Bengal have subscribed funds sufficient to found at the University of Calcutta a scholarship in commemoration of Mr. Woodrow's services, and to be called "the Woodrow Scholarship."

A fine-art exhibition has been opened at Poonah, in which some pictures by the Governor, Sir Richard Temple, are exhibited. The prize given by his Excellency was carried off by a well-known amateur artist, Mrs. Gillespie, for the "Head of a Kabyle Woman, Algeria."

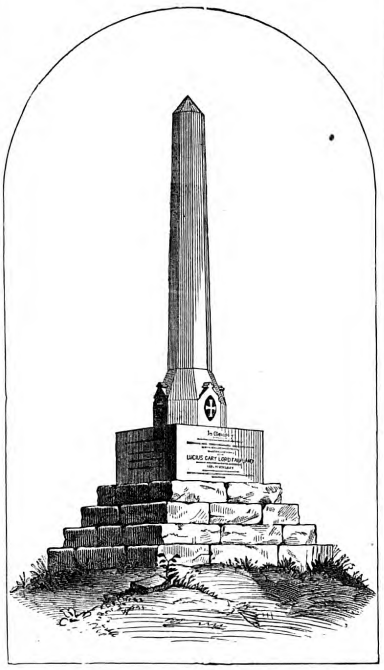
FRENCH MINISTERS OF STATE LAYING THE FOUNDATION-STONE OF NEW HARBOUR WORKS AT BOULOGNE.

1. The Obelisk on Sept. 11.
2. Windlass to lower the bottom end of Obelisk.
3. Obelisk descending to vertical position, Sept. 12.
4. Obelisk erect on its pedestal.

CLEOPATRA'S NEEDLE, ON THE VICTORIA THAMES EMBANKMENT.

THE NEW HARBOUR AT BOULOGNE.

The Government of the French Republic has begun the construction of a deep and capacious harbour at Boulogne-sur-Mer, to be formed by sea-walls inclosing a large space, which will comprise 340 acres of good anchorage outside the present shore-line, so as to advance the steam-boat wharf to a new basin that will have, when dredged, a depth of five mètres, or nearly sixteen and a half feet, at low tide. The railway trains will run out to this wharf; and the surrounding harbour, beyond it, will be protected by long jetties and breakwaters on three sides; these sea-walls having an aggregate length of one mile and a half. There is to be a passage, between two jetties, to enter the inner harbour of the town. It is further proposed to form docks in part of the space reclaimed by the sea-wall, and a small harbour for the Boulogne fishing-boats. Vessels drawing 26 ft. water will enter the harbour at lowest tide. The ceremony of laying the foundation-stone of a monument, to commemorate the beginning of this great and useful work was performed on Monday week by M. de Freycinet, the Minister of Public Works, accompanied by M. Léon Say, the Minister of Finance, in the presence of a large number of spectators. Among the company specially invited were Alderman and Sheriff Staples (representing the Lord Mayor of London), Sir Edward Watkin (chairman of the South-Eastern Railway), the Mayors of Folkestone and Hythe, and several English engineers. There were also present all the French authorities from the neighbouring departments. The streets of Boulogne were decorated in a festive manner; and the Ministers of State, on their arrival from Paris, were met by a procession of the municipal bodies, the bands of the regiments in garrison, the fire brigade, and hundreds of fisher-women in their quaint white shell-shaped caps. In addition to the numerous English visitors who were staying in the town, a thousand excursionists arrived for the day in three of the steamers belonging to the South-Eastern Company from Folkestone. They were welcomed with great cordiality, the bands stationed on the pier playing "God Save the Queen." The procession having escorted the Ministers to the appointed spot, the stone was duly laid, after which brief speeches were made by the Mayor of Boulogne and by the Ministers. M. de Freycinet made especial reference to the near proximity of the greatest mercantile nation, and expressed a hope that the new undertaking would afford encouragement to increased commercial transactions with England. In the evening a grand banquet was given in a marquee erected behind the Etablissement des Bains, and facing the sea. It was attended by 400 guests. M. de Freycinet, in his speech, said this year had been fruitful of great works in France. The Exhibition, which was one of its achievements, had been augmented in importance by the assistance and co-operation of England; and they were now about to build a harbour to facilitate their communications with that generous country. The presence of several members of the English Parliament afforded them great pleasure. In conclusion, M. de Freycinet proposed the healths of Marshal MacMahon and the Queen together. The other Minister, M. Léon Say, in his speech, referred to the state of the national finances, and expressed his gratification that France, for the first time in her history, now occupies nearly the same position in the money market as wealthy England. Mr. Alderman Staples, as representative of the City of London, spoke in English and afterwards in French, and dwelt strongly on the deep interest taken by many persons in the City in the construction of the new harbour. He was very heartily cheered. The banquet having terminated, the guests entered the saloons, where a splendid ball to close the fête was given. Sixteen hundred persons were present, and the whole of the day's proceedings may be declared to have been brilliantly successful. The theatres were opened, and torchlight processions, and public balls in the Tintelleries, and other places, provided ample entertainment for all classes.



CLEOPATRA'S NEEDLE.

The Egyptian obelisk from Alexandria, which was lately to be seen hoisted aloft in a horizontal position at the river-stairs of the Victoria Thames Embankment opposite Adelphi-terrace, was on Thursday week placed in its due perpendicular attitude, directly over the pedestal, which will now be completed by adding the upper course of masonry. The mechanical arrangements for swinging this huge monolith, which measures 68 ft 3 in. in length, 5 ft. 10 in. by 4 ft. 10 in. in breadth at one end, and 7 ft. 10 in. by 7 ft. 8 in. at the other, weighing 193 tons, have been described in our Journal. It had been fitted with an iron jacket round the middle, and with a wrought-iron girder by way of a stirrup, to support the heavier and lower end of the stone, when it was gradually let down, and so to prevent its slipping out of the iron jacket by which its centre was held suspended. The obelisk had been lifted to the height of 50 ft. above the pedestal, through the elevation, by hydraulic jacks, of a pair of iron girders working upwards in grooves left in the main angles of the scaffolding. Upon these girders rested a pair of peculiarly-formed trunnions projecting from the iron jacket, and supported the obelisk in a horizontal position during the time it was being raised. The monolith having attained the necessary altitude, it was only necessary to swing it on the trunnions, or, in other words, to let down the butt or thick end, so as to get the stone into a vertical position, but still held up, with its bottom a few inches above the top of the pedestal. The total weight, including the iron girders, was 216 tons. The operation of "swinging" was completed in about three quarters of an hour, and by lowering the girders the obelisk was allowed to descend to the pedestal and the "Union Jack" and Turkish ensign were run up in token of the success of the work. The obelisk was still kept a little held up, in order that its exact perpendicularity to the surface of the pedestal might be tested with mathematical precision. It had a partial support from the wooden packing laid underneath. On Friday morning this was removed, the weight having first been eased by the action of the hydraulic jacks. The obelisk was then let down the remaining four inches, till it finally rested on its pedestal. The iron jacket and strap will now be stripped off and the scaffolding removed. The operation of Thursday week took place between three and four o'clock in the afternoon. For the accommodation of those who have taken a special interest in the progress of the work, Professor Erasmus Wilson and Mr. John Dixon had chartered a steamer, which was moored abreast of the works. Sir J. W. Bazalgette, C.B., chief engineer to the Metropolitan Board of Works, and several gentlemen of the engineering profession, were present; also Major-General Sir James Alexander, C.B., Admiral S. E. Ommaney, C.B., Sir Charles Read, Professor Owen, Alderman Sir C. Whetham, Sir G. Elliott, M.P., and Mr. Grantham, M.P. It is stated that Mr. John Dixon, C.E., has expended £5000 over and above the £10,000 liberally bestowed by Mr. Erasmus Wilson, for the cost of bringing Cleopatra's Needle from Egypt, with its detention by the accident in the Bay of Biscay, and finally erecting the obelisk in London. The Hon. C. Vivian, Consul-General in Egypt, was present on the Friday.

Telegrams were received by Mr. Dixon from her Majesty the Queen at Balmoral, and from the Khedive of Egypt, to congratulate him and Mr. Erasmus Wilson upon the completion of their undertaking. The following is an authentic list of objects deposited in the two large earthenware jars inclosed in the core of the obelisk's pedestal and supports, and now at length covered by the monolith's base:—Standard foot and pound, presented by the standard department of the Board of Trade; bronze model of the obelisk, ½ in. scale to the foot, cast and presented by Mr. Joseph Whitley, of Leeds; copies of "Engineering," printed on vellum, with plans of the various arrangements and details employed in erecting and transporting the obelisk, together with its complete history, presented by the proprietors of the publication; jars of Doulton ware, presented by Doulton and Co.; a piece of the obelisk stone; complete set of British coinage, including an Empress of India rupee; parchment copy of Dr. Birch's translation of the obelisk's hieroglyphics; standard gauge to 1000th part of an inch as sample of accurate workmanship, presented by J. Holtzapffel; portrait of her Majesty the Queen; bibles in various languages, presented by the British and Foreign Bible Society; Bradshaw's railway guide, Mappin's shilling razor, case of cigars, pipes, box of hairpins and sundry articles of female adornment; Alexandra feeding-bottle and children's toys, presented by a lady; a Tangye's hydraulic jack as used in raising the obelisk, presented by Tangye Brothers; wire ropes and specimens of submarine cables, presented by Mr. R. S. Newall; map of London, copies of the daily and illustrated papers; photographs of a dozen pretty Englishwomen, presented by Captain Henry Carter; a 2-ft. rule, a London Directory; Whitaker's Almanack, the last copy of the impression for the year, presented by the publishers.

A full-sized plaster cast of the obelisk is to be made for the South Kensington Museum.

THE FALKLAND MEMORIAL.

We reported last week the proceedings at Newbury, on the Monday, when the Earl of Carnarvon bore the chief part in dedicating to the memory of Lucius Cary, Lord Falkland, a monument of the battle fought in 1643, between the army of Charles I. and that of the Parliament commanded by the Earl of Essex, on Wash Common, a mile and a half south of the town. It is there, within a few yards of the spot where Falkland is believed to have been slain, that the monument is erected of which we give an Illustration. It is a plain and massive obelisk of grey granite placed upon a pedestal, elevated upon four courses of granite. The shaft is a monolith, 17 ft. high; the total height is 33 ft. On the north side of the pedestal, facing the road, is chiselled the following inscription:—"In memory of those who on the 20th of September, 1643, fell fighting in the army of Charles I. on the field of Newbury, and especially of Lucius Cary, Viscount Falkland, who died here in the thirty-fourth year of his age, this monument is set up by those to whom the majesty of the Crown and the liberties of their country are dear." The other sides bear inscribed upon them, respectively, a sentence in Greek, quoted from Thucydides, a Latin sentence from Livy, and an English one from Burke. The sentence from Burke runs thus:—"The blood of man is well shed for our family, for our friends, for our God, for our country, for our kind; the rest is vanity, the rest is crime." At the base of the octagonal shaft are gablets, having sunk panels filled in with a cross and ciphers of Lord Falkland, as well as of Lords Carnarvon and Sunderland, who also lost their lives at the battle of Newbury. The effect of the whole design is that of extreme simplicity and solidity combined. It is the joint work of Mr. James H. Money, a local architect, who furnished the design, and Messrs. W. and J. R. Freeman, of Millbank, Westminster. The granite, about forty tons, is from the quarries of Messrs John Freeman and Sons, of Penryn, Penzance, and Cheesewring, Cornwall.

Mr. George Palmer, M.P., laid the memorial-stone of a new Foresters' Hall on Tuesday at Reading, where the society is very strong. At the close of the stone-laying ceremony there was a procession of Foresters, and a public dinner was held in the evening at the Townhall.

THE CABUL MISSION.

The Calcutta correspondent of the Times telegraphed on Sunday as follows:—

The Cabul mission remains the one topic of universal interest. All other subjects have become dwarfed into complete insignificance in comparison with the paramount importance attached in India to the present momentous departure from the long-established principles of Indian foreign policy. The key note to the whole policy of abstention from interference with Central Asian politics existed in the absence of any idea that Russian influence could ever be established at Cabul otherwise than by conquest. It was believed that Afghanistan, if left alone, would constitute for all practical purposes a barrier completely impassable between the two Powers, and that strong feeling of national independence, supported by the natural features of their country, would render the conquest of the Afghans by Russia a task of insuperable difficulty, considering the distance of the Russian base of operations and the consequent danger of interruption to her communications. It was felt, moreover, that in the event of Afghanistan not being able unaided to resist Russian aggression, it would be open to the British Power to accord her succour and assistance, subject to such conditions and terms as might seem desirable whenever the necessity for energetic action should arise, the Government being completely unfettered by treaty stipulations.

Present events, however, have wholly cut the ground from under our feet, and a policy has now to be initiated which may be calculated to deal successfully with a very different set of possibilities. Every conceivable device of Indian diplomacy, supported by the all-cogent argument of immediate resort to military compulsion if the occasion demand it, will have to be exerted now and henceforth to prevent Afghanistan from becoming converted into a Russian camp. The Ameer has distinctly shown his hand, and, unless he entirely withdraws from his present attitude of hostility, it will be deemed indispensable for the protection of India to adopt in self-defence an infinitely more active foreign policy than that previously accepted. One of our great military authorities has lately stated, as the result of his deliberate and well-considered opinion, that our present frontier line is indefensible; that a mountain chain that can be pierced at many points is no protection; and that if we desire the Himalayas to serve as a natural barrier for the protection of India we must, as a mere defensive measure, insist on holding the outlets of the passes.

Preparations are being vigorously pushed forward at Peshawur for the dispatch of the mission. The latest information states that the number of the mission will amount to about 1000, including camp followers. Every effort is being made to keep the number within reasonable bounds; but it is necessary to carry supplies for the road. The escort will be increased by an infantry detachment, and possibly by a troop of the 10th Hussars. Arrangements have been effected with the Khyberees for a safe conduct through the Khyber Pass, and we have received hostages for the due performance of this undertaking. The Commissioner will accompany the mission as far as Pakha, on the other side of the Khyber Pass, where a strong body of the Ameer's troops is stationed. The Nawab Ghulam Hussein Khan, the bearer of the Viceroy's letter, is said to be popular with the Ameer and his nobles, to whom he is well known in consequence of having acted as our agent at Cabul for many years.

Shere Ali is reported to be in favour of the succession of his grandson, Ahmed Ali Jan, son of Mahomed Ali Khan, who was killed in 1865 near Khilat Ghilsi while fighting for his father's throne against Sirdar Azim Khan. Ahmed Ali is described as an intelligent youth of about eighteen, with a pleasing demeanour, and fairly well educated. The mother of Abdulla Jan is said to have still another son living, but incapacitated for rule by being totally deaf and dumb. The report of Yakoob's escape is still unconfirmed.

The Viceroy entertained Sir Neville Chamberlain at a banquet given in his honour prior to his departure for Peshawur. Lord Lytton made an impressive speech on the occasion, to which Sir Neville returned a fitting reply.

It is universally felt that a task of no slight danger and difficulty has been imposed upon him, and he will carry with him the sympathy and good wishes of all. As a measure of the passionate animosity towards the British which it will be his duty to endeavour to convert to feelings of goodwill, it may be sufficient to quote the following extract from the Ameer's speech publicly uttered in open Durbar:—"I have seven crores of rupees by me, every rupee of which I will hurl at the head of the British Government, and I will roll the border tribes against them like blasts of fire." It is quite true that this beneficent intention was expressed some time ago, but we have no reason for believing that the Ameer's feelings have in the slightest degree been mollified since these words were uttered—unless, indeed, this has formed one of the results of the visit of the Russian Envoy, a supposition possible, but hardly probable, and one on which it would hardly be wise for General Chamberlain to rely for the protection of his mission without taking other precautions.

The frontier is reported quite tranquil. The left wing of Jacob's Rifles and a detachment, 250 strong, of Scinde Horse are ordered to proceed to Quettah.

There was a violent volcanic eruption of Hecla on Aug. 22.

Mr. George Smith, of Coalville, has received a free grant of several hundred volumes from the Religious Tract Society, for distribution among the canal boatmen.

Russian officers have taken soundings in the Siberian lake Baikal, which show a depth of 2940 mètres, with a southward sinking indicating a probable depth of 3700 mètres, whereas the deepest sounding in the Mediterranean is only 2158 mètres

A great fire occurred at Zante on Friday night, the 13th inst., by which seventeen houses and a large quantity of other property were destroyed. There was much robbery in the panic which ensued while the fire was raging.

Messrs. Devitt and Moore's sailing-ship Rodney, 1447 tons, Captain Alexander Louttit, chartered by Sir Arthur Blyth, K.C.M.G., Agent-General for South Australia, left Plymouth on the 13th inst. for Port Adelaide, with 505 emigrants, among whom were 105 single female domestic servants.

Her Majesty's troop-ship Euphrates left Portsmouth on Tuesday for Bombay, conveying several military officers, twelve officers' wives, 999 non-commissioned officers and privates, twenty-one soldiers' wives, and twenty-eight children, to join different regiments in India.

A band of 600 Mormon converts en route for Utah sailed in the Guion steamer Wyoming, from Liverpool for New York, on Saturday. Of these, 205 were collected in Scandinavian countries and sixty from Switzerland and Germany. Ireland did not contribute a single proselyte; but there were forty from Scotland, fifty from Wales, and about 200 from England. There were also on board seventeen Mormon elders, besides a principal agent who has been in Europe two years on a Mormon propaganda.

OBITUARY.

LADY EGERTON OF TATTON.

The Right Hon. Charlotte Elizabeth Baroness Egerton of Tatton died on the 11th inst. at Homburg. Her Ladyship was born April 22, 1811, the eldest daughter of John, second Marquis of Ely, K.P., by Anna Maria, his wife, daughter of Sir Henry Watkin Dashwood, third Baronet, of Kirtlington Park, and was consequently sister of John Henry, third Marquis of Ely (father of the present Marquis) and of Lord Augustus Loftus, Ambassador at St. Petersburg. She was married, Dec. 18, 1830, to William Tatton Egerton, Esq., of Tatton, M.P. for Cheshire (created Baron Egerton of Tatton April 15, 1859), and leaves two surviving sons, the Hon. Wilbraham Egerton, M.P. for Mid Cheshire, and Alan de Tatton Egerton; and three surviving daughters, the Hon. Elizabeth Anna Maria Barbara Egerton, the Hon. Emily Marianne, Mrs. Percy Mitford, and the Hon. Beatrix Catherine Lucia, Mrs. Tollemache. Lady Egerton's second daughter, the Hon. Alice Mary, Mrs. Cholmondeley, of Condover Hall, Shropshire, died in 1868.

GENERAL HILL.

General Edward Rowley Hill, Colonel of the 5th Fusiliers, died on the 10th inst. at Montpelier Villas, Brighton, at an advanced age. General Hill served in the Peninsula from September, 1812, to 1814, being present at Vittoria, the passage of the Bidassoa, and the battles of Nivelle and Toulouse, and had received the war medal with four clasps. In the Crimea he commanded the 63rd Regiment from the fall of Sebastopol till the end of the war.

MR. NEVILL, OF DANGSTEIN.

Reginald Henry Nevill, Esq., of Dangstein, Petersfield, J.P. and D.L. for Sussex, died there on the 11th inst. He was born Sept. 14, 1807, the third son of the Hon. and Rev. George Henry Nevill, of Flower Place, Surrey, second son of George, fifteenth Lord and first Earl of Abergavenny, the ancestor of the Marquis of Abergavenny; and married, Dec. 2, 1847, Lady Dorothy Fanny Walpole, daughter of Horatio, third Earl of Orford, and leaves three sons and one daughter.

MR. JOHN HILTON, F.R.S.

This distinguished surgeon died on the 14th inst. at his residence, Hedingham House, Clapham, in the seventy-fourth year of his age. He had deservedly obtained several of the high appointments and offices open to members of the profession, having been appointed Surgeon Extraordinary to the Queen, President of the Royal College of Surgeons, and Consulting Surgeon to Guy's Hospital, at which institution he received his professional education. In 1854 he was chosen by the Fellows to represent them in the Council, of which at the time of his death he was the senior member. In 1859 he was appointed Professor of Human Anatomy and Surgery, in 1865 he became a member of the Court of Examiners of the College, and in 1867 he was elected Hunterian Orator and President of the College, in the affairs of which institution he ever took the deepest interest, and displayed great administrative ability. Mr. Hilton had been a valuable contributor to the advancement of surgical science, not only by his published works, but in the Transactions of the Royal Medical and Chirurgical Society, the Guy's Hospital Reports, the Lancet, &c. He leaves a widow and several children.

The deaths have also been announced of—

John Jeffcock, Esq., on the 7th inst., at Cowley Manor, Yorkshire, aged seventy-five.

Charles Greenwood, Esq., on the 6th inst., at The Croft, Wallingford, aged eighty-five.

Rev. Robert Henry Fowler, M.A., late Rector of Colmer and Prior's Dean, Hants, on the 5th inst., aged eighty-one.

Charles Currie, Esq., Bengal Civil Service, fourth son of the late Sir Frederick Currie, Bart., on the 3rd inst., at Agra.

The Rev. John Richard Frederick Billingsley, M.A., Rector of Wormington, Gloucestershire, on the 9th, aged seventy-three.

William Hinde, Esq., for eighteen years Master of the Supreme Court, Adelaide, South Australia, on the 11th inst., at Newlands, Lansdown, Bath.

George Roche Smith, Esq., M.D., late Surgeon to the 7th Hussars and 2nd Queen's Royals, on the 7th inst., at Brondesbury-road, Kilburn, aged seventy-five.

Colonel Arthur Leslie, C.B., on the 12th inst., at Half-moon-street, aged fifty-six. He was formerly Lieutenant-Colonel in the 40th Regiment, with which he served in various actions in New Zealand in 1860-1 and 1863-4.

Atwood Dalton Wigsell, Esq., Colonel 2nd Surrey Volunteers, formerly Captain Queen's Bays, on the 7th inst., at Sanderstead Court, Surrey, aged fifty-seven. Colonel Wigsell was the only surviving son of the Rev. Atwood Wigsell, of Sanderstead, and was formerly Captain 2nd Dragoon Guards.

Martyn John Roberts, Esq., F.R.S., late of Pendarren, Breconshire, J.P. and D.L., on the 8th inst., at Bath, aged seventy-two. He was the only son of the late John Roberts, Esq., of Bryn Caeran, in the county of Carmarthen, by Caroline, his wife, daughter of William Yalden, Esq., of Lovington, Hants, Rector of Winchester.

Mr. John Bradshaw, J.P., of Knowle, on the 11th inst., at Boulogne, in his seventy-fifth year. He was one of the oldest magistrates sitting on the Guildford bench, having been appointed on Oct. 20, 1850. In 1865 Mr. Bradshaw served the office of High Sheriff for Surrey. He married, in 1838, Jane Mary, daughter of Mr. George Hole, of Broomfield, Lancashire, who survives him, as do also two sons.

The Rev. Dr. Jackson, Provost of Queen's College, Oxford, at Askham Hall, Penrith, on the 13th inst. He was successively Fellow, Tutor, and Bursar of his college, and succeeded to the Provostship in 1862, upon the elevation of Dr. Thomson to the Bishopric of Gloucester and Bristol. He was formerly Domestic Chaplain to the Earl of Lonsdale; was appointed Whitehall Preacher in 1827; was Chancellor of the Diocese of Carlisle from 1846 to 1855; Rector of Cliburn, Westmorland, from 1841 to 1858; Archdeacon and Canon of Carlisle from 1856 to 1862; and was afterwards appointed Rector of Lowther, near Penrith.

The memorial-stone of the building in which the Burns statue at Kilmarnock is to be placed was laid last Saturday with full Masonic honours. A procession, of which the Ayrshire volunteers, Good Templars, Foresters, and Freemasons formed part, proceeded to Ray Park, where the memorial-stone was laid by Mr. Cochran Patrick, of Woodside, the Depute Provincial Grand Master of Ayrshire. The ceremony was witnessed by about 16,000 spectators.

At Dorchester on Saturday Emma Levi was charged on remand with aiding her husband, who had been confined as a criminal lunatic, to escape from the Dorset County Lunatic Asylum. The evidence of the medical officers of the asylum showed that during an interview with her husband alone Mrs. Levi gave him a suit of clothes, by means of which he escaped. He hid the asylum dress up the chimney. He has not since been heard of. The prisoner was committed for trial.

CHESS.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

All communications relating to this department of the Paper should be addressed to the Editor, and have the word "Chess" written on the envelope.

H G (Cork).—Problems in six moves are unsuitable. There are not twenty chess players in the world who could be induced to examine positions of that kind. We are obliged for your courtesy, nevertheless.

Tyro (Halifax).—All the technical terms used in the practice of chess will be found in Staunton's "Handbook;" and if you require a later work, procure Mr. Gossip's "Chess Openings," published by Longmans. There are still later works on the subject of the openings, but these do not give the information you ask for.

C E Mabe (Kensington).—In the first step of your proposed solution of Problem No. 1800 you overlook that Black's move, 1. B takes Q, discovers check to the White King! The problem cannot be solved in any other way than that published.

P W (Bedford).—We have sent you a diagram of the position as published.

J G A (Montreal).—We are greatly obliged for your letter and the inclosures, and shall be glad to hear from you frequently.

H M P (Plymouth).—Thanks for the problem. It shall have early attention.

T P W (Lincoln).—When you require information about the forty-eighth move of a game, you should send a diagram of the position. To play over forty-eight moves of a game of chess is a tax upon time, and to find that time wasted is a tax upon patience. In the cases mentioned in your letter you have, evidently enough, made some mistake in playing the moves from the printed record.

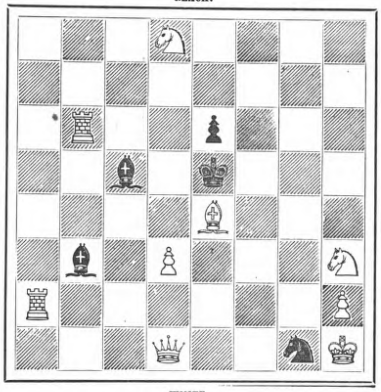
Franklin Institute.—We are greatly surprised to find you tripping. In Problem No. 1802 the answer to 1. R to B 3rd is 1. P to Q 4th, &c.

Hereward (Oxford).—We see no defect in your analysis; it is perfectly sound, as your problem solutions always are.

Correct Solutions of Problem No. 1801 received from S D Bessell, W Nicholls, Cant, Hereward, Rycroft, and Ned Nurca.

Correct Solutions of Problem No. 1802 received from P Wr Kamer, E H H V, Emile Frau, Dr Ditchling Rise, Waldenberg, Tonks, Cheo, S Suggett, Hereward, W H O, Rycroft, and Adams (Eastbourne).

Correct Solutions of Problem No. 1803 received from H Benthall, H Smith, Painter (Shepherd's-bush), The Prophet, East Marden, P le Page, J de Honstoyn, Cant, N Rumbelow, Alpha, Dr F St, R H Brooks, J K, Sema, W M Curtis, S Adams, M Thayer, T Edgar, W Lee, L of Tuby, J S Wontone, N Brock, D Leslie, Black Knight, S R (Leeds), T Greenbank, C Darrach, Dorothy, C S Coxe, W Franklin, E Worsley, Hal, St J E, H Brewster, E Lewis, J W Cooper, L Sharswood, Americaine, F W S, P Hampton, M Meredith, O Johnson, M and N, S Ingersoll, Hereward, Eriis, T P F, Mrs Clark, W H O, Rycroft, Joseph B, R Roughead, S Western, W F Pettit, N Powell C J G, B Champneys, N Dimmick, G C Elmore, L Burnett, A Scot, G Reeves, R T K, W C Dutton, M Whiteley, H Burgher, Liz, B Parkinson, G Wright, Leonora and Leon, Mechanic, A Mackenzie, T Young, and A Hofman (Berlin).



Solution of Problem No. 1802.

WHITE.	BLACK.
1. Kt to Kt 8th	P to Q 4th *
2. R to B 7th	Any move
3. R mates accordingly.

* If Black play 1. K to Q 4th, White continues with 2. R to B 3rd and 3. Kt mates.

PROBLEM No. 1805.
By J. G. Finch.

BLACK.

WHITE.

White to play, and mate in three moves.

CHESS IN LONDON.

In the following amusing affair Mr. Mackenzie, the American Champion, gives the odds of a Pawn and two moves to a London Amateur.

(Remove Black's K B P from the board.)

WHITE (Amateur).	BLACK (Mr. Mackenzie).
1. { P to K 4th / P to K B 4th	P to K 3rd
2. Kt to K B 3rd	P to Q 4th
3. P to K 5th	P to B 4th
4. P to B 4th	P to Q 5th
5. P to Q 3rd	Kt to Q B 3rd
6. P to Q R 3rd	Kt to K R 3rd
7. P to K R 3rd

White appears resolved to shut out the adverse Knights, but he loses time in the process.

7.	B to K 2nd
8. Kt to Kt 5th	Castles
9. Kt to K 4th	Kt to B 4th
10. Q to B 3rd	B to R 5th (ch)

WHITE (Amateur).	BLACK (Mr. Mackenzie).
11. P to K Kt 3rd	Kt takes K P

A very pretty as well as forcible move.

12. P takes Kt	Kt takes Kt P
13. Kt to B 6th (ch)	B takes Kt
14. P takes B	Kt takes R
15. Q takes Kt	Q takes P
16. Q to Kt 2nd	Q to R 5th (ch)
17. K to Q sq	B to Q 2nd
18. B to Q 2nd	R to B 7th
19. B to K sq

His game is past surgery, but this affords Black an opportunity for a good finish.

19.	B to R 5th (ch)
20. K to B sq	R to B 7th (ch), and White resigned.

CHESS IN CANADA.

A Game, played in the tournament of Canadian Amateurs now in progress, between Mr. White, of Quebec, and Mr. Ascher, of Montreal.

(K B Opening.)

WHITE (Mr. W.)	BLACK (Mr. A.)
1. P to K 4th	P to K 4th
2. B to B 4th	Kt to K B 3rd
3. P to Q 4th	Kt to Q B 3rd
4. P to Q 5th

We should prefer 4. Kt to K B 3rd.

4.	Kt to K 2nd
5. Kt to K B 3rd	Kt to Kt 3rd
6. Kt to B 3rd	B to Kt 5th
7. Q to Q 3rd

7. B to Kt 5th is a better way of defending the pawn.

7.	Castles
8. Castles	B takes Kt
9. P takes B	P to Q 3rd
10. P to K R 3rd

White has not time for this sort of manœuvre. All his efforts should now be directed to exclude the adverse Kt from his B 4th.

10.	Kt to R 4th
11. K to R 2nd	K Kt to B 5th
12. B takes Kt	Kt takes B
13. Q to Q 2nd	P to B 4th
14. P takes P	B takes P
15. Kt to Kt sq	B to Q 2nd
16. P to Kt 3rd	Kt to Kt 3rd
17. B to Q 3rd	Q to K sq

WHITE (Mr. W.)	BLACK (Mr. A.)
18. Q R to K sq	B to B 4th
19. Q to K 3rd	Q to Q 2nd
20. P to Q B 4th	P to Q Kt 3rd
21. B takes B	R takes B
22. Q to Q 3rd	Q R to K B sq
23. P to K B 3rd	Kt to R sq
24. P to Q R 3rd	Kt to B 2nd
25. R to K 4th

This is lost time, seeing that the Knight drives the Rook from the square at once. Perhaps his best move at this point is 25. P to K R 4th.

25.	Kt to Kt 4th
26. Q R to K sq	P to K 5th

Very well played, and much better than taking the h B P.

27. P takes P	R to B 7th (ch)
28. R takes R	R takes R (ch)
29. K to R sq	Kt to B 6th
30. Q takes Kt

The ending that follows is summary indeed; but White might have prolonged the game by playing now 30. R to K 2nd.

30.	R takes Q
31. Kt takes R	Q takes P (ch), and White resigns.

CHESS INTELLIGENCE.

The approaching departure from England of Mr. Mackenzie, the American chess champion, was marked on Saturday last by a dinner in his honour, given by Mr. H. F. Gastineau, of the City Chess Club. A number of the champion's friends were invited, including all the representative amateurs of the metropolitan chess world, and his reception on the occasion was of the most cordial character. During his visit to England Mr. Mackenzie has contrived to charm everyone with whom he has been associated, and his return to America is universally regretted in London chess circles.

The Globe of the 14th inst. contained a description of the Café de la Régence, the famous resort of Parisian chessplayers. The description is accurate as well as picturesque; but the writer appears to be unaware that the structure to which he attaches such historic interest possesses no claim to antiquity whatever. The Café de la Régence of the present day was erected, on a new site, about twenty-five years ago, when the municipal improvements effected by the late Emperor led to the destruction of the old one, and the ground where once stood the haunt of Voltaire, Philidor, Robespierre, Rousseau, and the great Napoleon is now an open thoroughfare.

WILLS AND BEQUESTS.

The will (dated Feb. 23, 1878) with a codicil (dated Aug. 1 following) of Mr. Alfred George, formerly of Bristol, porter brewer, and late of Downside, Stoke Bishop, Gloucestershire, who died on the 6th ult., was proved on the 21st ult. at the Bristol district registry by William Edwards George, the son, Edward Harley, and Edward James Swann, the executors, the personalty, including leaseholds, being sworn under £250,000. The testator bequeaths to his executor Mr. Harley £200; to John Lawrence Carige, in consideration of his long and faithful services as his clerk, £100; upon trust for his daughters, Mrs. Eliza Robinson, Mrs. Lydia Williams, Mrs. Emma Frances Hall, and Mrs. Lucy Parfitt Finzell, £20,000 each; £40,000 is left upon trust to pay the income of £8000 thereof to Mrs. Fanny George, the widow of his deceased son Philip, during widowhood, and then the capital sum, and also £32,000, the remaining part of the £40,000, as from his decease, for the children of his said deceased son. The residue of his real and personal estate the testator gives to his son William Edwards George.

The will (dated May 13, 1874) with a codicil (dated Jan. 8, 1878) of Mr. James Helme, late of Chestnut-walk, Walthamstow, Essex, who died on July 27 last, was proved on the 29th ult. by Richard Helme, the son, Burchall Helme, the nephew, and the Rev. Thomas Wetherhead Sharpe, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £200,000. The testator leaves to his wife, Mrs. Jane Sarah Helme, his household furniture and effects absolutely, and his town residence in Queen's-square, for life; and there are legacies to his daughter Mrs. Alice Ximenes, to Mrs. Jane Read, and other relatives, and to servants. As to the residue of the personalty, one fourth is to go to his wife for life, and then to his son; one fourth to his daughter Mrs. Ximenes for life, and then to his son; and the remaining two fourths to his son. All his real estate is devised to his said son Richard.

The will (dated Jan. 2, 1878) with two codicils (dated Jan. 9 and 13 of the same year) of Mr. Edward Valentine Pegge Burnell, late of Winkburn Hall, Notts, who died on June 15 last, was proved on the 4th inst. by Edward Strelley Pegge Burnell and Hugh D'Arcy Pegge Burnell, the sons, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £30,000. The testator leaves to his wife his furniture and household effects and the sum of £5000 for life; at her death the said sum is to be divided among his children, except his eldest son, as she shall appoint; he also gives her a rent charge of £420 per annum for life on the Winkburn estate; the said estate is also charged with legacies of £1000 to each of his five younger children, in addition to legacies out of his general estate; the Osmandthorpe estate, in which his wife takes a life interest, at her death is to go to his three younger sons, Hugh D'Arcy, William Acton, and Edward Anneseley. There are legacies to his agents and housekeeper; £200 to the Nottingham General Hospital and £100 to the Newark Hospital. The residue of his property is to be divided between his younger children, his eldest son being already amply provided for.

The will (dated May 30, 1878) of Captain Sir George Biddlecombe, R.N., C.B., late of No. 68, Granville Park, Lewisham, who died on July 19 last, was proved on the 5th inst. by George Ward, William Francis Kent, Samuel Scott Kent, and Edwin Low, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £7000. Among other bequests the testator gives £100 each to the Merchant Seamen's Orphan Asylum, Snaresbrook, and the Royal Naval School, New-cross; and £50 each to the Chichester Training-ship for poor boys, and the Royal Naval Female School at Isleworth.

The will (dated July 19, 1878) of Mr. Edward Chatterton Middleton, late of Loughborough, Leicestershire, banker, who died on July 19 last, was proved at the district registry, Leicester, on the 7th ult., by Edward William Craddock Middleton, the son, the acting executor, the personal estate being sworn under £14,000.

The will (dated Aug. 24, 1876) of the Rev. Robert Gibson, late of Chidcock, Dorset, who died on July 19 last, was proved on the 4th inst. by the Rev. Robert Henry Gibson, the son, the acting executor, the personal estate being sworn under £6000.

Captain R. D. Hay, Adjutant of the 3rd Essex Artillery Volunteers, has been appointed Chief Constable of Wolverhampton, in place of Captain Segrave, who has resigned. There were 106 candidates. The annual salary is £300.

The current number of the North American Review (now in its sixty-third year) contains an article by the Right Hon. W. E. Gladstone, entitled "Kin Beyond Sea," in which he discusses the condition and character of the United States of America, their people and Constitution.

A long list is published in the Gazette of War Office appointments and promotions, among them being the appointment of Lieutenant-General Sir Daniel Lysons, K.C.B., to be Colonel of the 45th Regiment of Foot, vice Lieutenant-General H. Cooper, deceased. Lieutenant-General C. A. Edwards, C.B., Colonel of the 18th Foot, is appointed General; and Major-General Sir John Josiah Hort., Bart., C.B., Lieutenant-General. By the appointment of Sir D. Lysons a second distinguished service pension is placed at the disposal of the Commander-in-Chief.

The returns prepared by the Government emigration officers at Liverpool show that during the month of August 9495 persons left the Mersey as emigrants, the largest number in any month this year, except May, when 9889 sailed. The largest proportion—viz., 7584, proceeded to the United States, while 1641 went to British North America, and sixty-eight to Australia; the remainder sailed to South America, the East and West Indies, China, and the West Coast of Africa. The nationalities of the emigrants were—English 5834; Scotch, 114; Irish, 786; and foreign, 2091. Of 670 the nationalities were not denoted. The returns show an increase of 2229 over those for August last year. The total number of emigrants from the Mersey during the present year, up to the end of last month, is 48,333.

An experiment of considerable interest in pisciculture is intended to be tried on one of the estates of the Marquis of Exeter—the naturalisation of the American black bass. A large number of this fish has been brought over from New York in the steamer Spain, of the National Line, and it is expected that they will take readily to their new home. They were placed on the passage in an improvised tank, the water of which was kept constantly fresh by the injection of air at intervals of ten minutes. The passengers and crew had an opportunity of witnessing an interesting exhibition of instinct on the part of the piscine emigrants. A large catfish having been caught was placed in the tank, whereupon the bass immediately combined their forces and attacked the intruder. They at first charged at his head, but, finding themselves becoming worsted, changed their tactics and took him in flank, and soon succeeded in vanquishing him, completing the victory by devouring him at leisure. The bass is considered by some as having the finest flavour of all the freshwater fish of America.

INTENDING VISITORS to PARIS should first inspect OETZMANN and CO.'S display of all the latest Parisian Novelties in Artistic Furniture, Carpets, Curtains, Tapestries, Cretonnes, Table Covers, Pictures, Clocks, Bronzes, Statuettes, Vases, China, Glass, and every kind of Artistic Furnishing Items, arranged in spacious Show-Rooms. The prices will be found considerably lower than charged for the same in Paris, besides saving the expense and annoyance of Custom House.—OETZMANN and CO., COMPLETE HOUSE FURNISHERS, 67 to 79, HAMPSTEAD-ROAD (near Tottenham-court-road).

FURNISH THROUGHOUT.

SUBSTANTIAL ARTISTIC FURNITURE.

OETZMANN & CO.,

HAMPSTEAD-ROAD,

NEAR TOTTENHAM-COURT-ROAD.

FURNISH THROUGHOUT.—OETZMANN and CO., 67, 69, 71, 73, 77 and 79, HAMPSTEAD-ROAD, near Tottenham-court-road. Cabinet Factory, Albion Works, Drummond-street; Bedding Factory, Eagle-place, London, N.W. CARPETS, Furniture, Bedding, Drapery, Furnishing Ironmongery, China, Glass, Paper Hangings, Pictures, Bronzes, Clocks, &c., and every other requisite for completely furnishing a house throughout.

BESIDES THE RECENT ADDITION of the immense range of Premises previously known as the Eagle Brewery, which have been rebuilt and added to the Show-Rooms,

EIGHT LARGE SHOW-ROOMS

HAVE JUST BEEN ADDED

TO THE DISPLAY OF

ARTISTIC FURNITURE, &c.

IT IS NOW ONE OF THE LARGEST FURNISHING ESTABLISHMENTS in the World. Comparison of price and quality respectfully solicited before deciding elsewhere. OETZMANN and CO. are enabled to offer special advantages to country customers in delivery of goods by their own large PANTECHNICON VANS, and fixing in position by competent persons. Descriptive Catalogue, the best furnishing guide extant, post-free.

BEDDING DEPARTMENT.—Strong Iron Bedsteads, from 6s. 6d. each; superior Iron French ditto, 15s. 9d.; handsome Arabian Bedsteads, from 27s. 6d. upwards; excellent Mattresses, full size, 12s. 6d.; good Feather Beds, full size, 30s.; ditto Bolsters, 7s. 6d.; ditto Pillows, 3s. 9d. each; handsome 3-ft. Mahogany Washstands, with marble top, 18s. 6d.; Mahogany Toilet-Glass (best plate glass, size of plate 16 inches by 13 inches), 6s. 6d.—OETZMANN and CO.

EVERYONE SHOULD SEE the large, handsome AXMINSTER HEARTH RUGS that OETZMANN and CO. are now selling at 9s. 11d. each; usual price 15s. 6d. There is nothing sold that can be compared with these for quality and cheapness. An immense variety of Designs and Colours to suit every pattern in Carpets. A visit of inspection solicited.—OETZMANN and CO.

LINOLEUM. — OETZMANN and CO. LINOLEUM.—Warm, soft, carpet-like in appearance, and very durable. All the New PRIZE DESIGNS are now in Stock. A visit of inspection solicited. Prices below those usually charged for this favourite floor covering. The Trade supplied.

CHINA and GLASS DEPARTMENT. Ironstone China Dinner Services, various neat and elegant designs, from 15s. 9d. the set; handsome ditto, at 25s. and 30s. per set—a large assortment of superb patterns for selection; Dessert Services complete, 17 pieces, 13s. 9d.; best French China ditto, 35 pieces, very chaste, with burnished gold edges, 18s. 9d.; China Tea Services, complete, 29 pieces, 5s. 9d.; elegant ditto, burnished gold and enamelled, 15s. 9d.—OETZMANN and CO.

POSTAL ORDER DEPARTMENT. OETZMANN and CO.—Orders sent per post, whether large or small, receive prompt and careful attention. Those residing at a distance, or any to whom a personal visit would be inconvenient, desirous of leaving the selection to the firm, may rely upon a faithful attention to their wishes and interest in the selection. This department is personally supervised by a member of the firm. For further particulars please see page 287 in Catalogue, sent free on application.
OETZMANN and CO.

OETZMANN and CO., COMPLETE HOUSE FURNISHERS, 67, 69, 71, 73, 77 and 79, Hampstead-road (three minutes' walk from Tottenham-court-road and Gower-street Station, Metropolitan Railway). Lowest prices consistent with guaranteed quality. Close at Seven, and on Saturdays at Four. Descriptive Catalogue post-free.

DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE, post-free.

OETZMANN & CO.,

HAMPSTEAD-ROAD.

NOTICE.—SPOONS and FORKS, in SILVER and in ELECTRO-PLATE, ELKINGTON and CO., as the result of important improvements in the above manufactures, are able to offer their guaranteed qualities at such prices as, while fully maintaining their acknowledged superiority, place them within the reach of all classes. Revised Illustrated Price-Lists free by post on application. Purchasers of Silver Spoons and Forks obtain the advantage of any fluctuations in the silver market.
Address—ELKINGTON and CO., 22, Regent-street, London, or 42, Moorgate-street, City.

GARDNERS' NEW DINNER and TABLE GLASS SERVICES are original in design, effective in appearance, and unequalled in price. Dinner Services from £3 3s. the Set for twelve persons, complete, with 15 per cent discount for cash on or before delivery. Table Glass Services from £3 5s. 6d. the Set for twelve persons complete.

DINNER SERVICES.
Coloured Lithographs post-free.

In Deep Blue.		In Blue and White.
The Lansdowne ..	£3 3 0	The Lansdowne ..	£3 3 0
The Laurel ..	3 13 6	The Indiana ..	4 4 0
		The Danish ..	5 5 0

Discount 15 per cent.

In Enamelled Patterns.		In their unequalled Crown Ware.
The 250 Thousand and Two (A) ..	5 5 0	In Ruby	£5 5 0
The Japanese Bamboo ..	6 6 0	In Pink	5 5 0
The Humming-Bird ..	7 7 0	In Black	5 5 0
The Sèvres	7 7 0

Discount 15 per cent.

TABLE GLASS SERVICES.

Plain light stem glass	£3 5 6	Light engraved glass ..	£3 15 6
Richly cut glass ..	5 5 0	Richly engraved glass	5 19 6

Discount 15 per cent.

Illustrated Glass Catalogue, which must be returned, sent post-free on application.

Gardners', Lamp, Glass, and China Manufacturers, 458 and 454, West Strand, Charing-cross.

MORTLOCK'S CHINA.

MORTLOCK'S ART POTTERY.

MORTLOCK'S NEW GLASS.

MORTLOCK'S LAMPS.

JOHN MORTLOCK and CO., THE OLD POTTERY GALLERIES, 202, 203, 204, Oxford-street; 30, 31, 32, Orchard-street, W. Established 1746.

GASELIERS, in Crystal, Glass, Ormoulu, or Bronze, Medieval Fittings, &c. A large assortment always on view. Every article marked with plain figures. D. HULETT and CO., Manufacturers, 55 and 56, High Holborn.

JOSEPH GILLOTT'S

STEEL PENS.

Sold by all Stationers throughout the World.

MOURNING ORDERS SENT AT ONCE UPON RECEIPT OF LETTER OR TELEGRAM.

A large Staff of very competent Dressmakers and ASSISTANTS are kept purposely to TRAVEL to all parts of the country—no matter the distance— (free of any extra charge whatever to the Customer) with a full assortment of Made-up Goods of the most fashionable and suitable description.

FOR A FAMILY MOURNING, and also Mourning for Servants.

Orders, however large, can be completed at very short notice by Dressmakers of the greatest proficiency. (either French, German, or English).

Observe the only one Address—
PETER ROBINSON'S,
COURT AND GENERAL MOURNING WAREHOUSE,
256 to 262, REGENT-STREET, LONDON.

One of the most important Houses of its kind in England. Established as a Mourning Warehouse Thirty Years.

AT PETER ROBINSON'S, of REGENT-STREET.

BLACK DRESS SATINS, all pure Silk, at 5s. 9d., 5s. 6d., 7s. 6d., 8s. 9d., and 10s. 6d., made by Messrs. Bonnet.

The DUCHESSE SATIN, at 12s. 9d. (26 inches wide), a magnificent quality, for richness and durability cannot be surpassed.

BLACK SATINS, for Trimming purposes, at 2s. 6d., 2s. 11d., 3s. 6d., and 4s. 6d. per yard.

BLACK SILKS—Specially Cheap,

Manufactured by Messrs. Bonnet et Cie, at	.. 5s. 6d.
Manufactured by Messrs. Tapissier et Cie, at	5s. 9d.
Manufactured by Messrs. Jaubert et Cie	.. 4s. 6d.
Manufactured by Messrs. Degove et Cie, at	.. 4s. 11d.

Also, BLACK SILKS, in very serviceable qualities, at 2s. 6d., 2s. 11½d., 3s. 6d., 4s. 6d., and 4s. 9d.

CHINA WASHING SILKS, 21s. the Piece of 20 yards.,

PETER ROBINSON is a Wholesale as well as a Retail Dealer in Black Silks.
As he buys direct from the Manufacturer, all intermediate profits are saved.
Address SOLELY for Patterns as follows:—
PETER ROBINSON, 256 to 262, REGENT-STREET.
THE COURT AND GENERAL MOURNING WAREHOUSE.

BLACK SILK COSTUMES.

From pure and good-wearing Silks, at 5½, 6, 6½, and 8 guineas.
Copies of expensive French Models.

THE MYRA SILK COSTUME complete, for 3 guineas.

"Photographs of the Costumes" sent on application to PETER ROBINSON'S, 256 to 262, REGENT-STREET.

EVENING DRESSES at One Guinea.
Black Brussels Net, at 29s. 6d.
Tulle (condition keeping), 30s.
Grenadine, 29s. 6d.
New Styles, well cut, and elegantly trimmed.
Illustrations free.

COSTUMES.—Richly Embroidered.
THE FASHION FOR THE AUTUMN.
In Black, Navy, and neutral shades, from 5 to 10 guineas complete.
Our Buyers have returned from Paris with great novelties in all departments.
For Samples please address only to PETER ROBINSON, Regent-street, Nos. 256 to 262.

FURS at SUMMER PRICES.
REAL RUSSIAN SEAL PALETOTS.

33 inches long	::	::	::	::	9½ guineas.
36 inches long	::	::	::	::	11½ guineas.
39 inches long	::	::	::	::	13 guineas.

New and Perfect Shapes,
and of the most enduring qualities.

FUR-LINED CLOAKS,
Lined Real Russian Squirrel, 45 inches long, 34s., 42s., 55s. 6d., and 3 guineas.
Also a special lot,
Lined with Plain Grey Squirrel, 47 inches long, at 6 guineas.
For Samples—Address ONLY as follows:—
PETER ROBINSON, REGENT-STREET,
Nos. 256 to 262.

NOTICE.—In reference to the above advertisements, it is important that letters should be clearly addressed to 256 to 262, REGENT-STREET.

THE LOUIS VELVETEEN.
The "Morning Post" of Aug. 15, 1878, says:—
Probably in no city in the world is all that pertains to dress and personal adornment submitted to so severe criticism than in Paris, which has long enjoyed the reputation of being the centre of fashion. One of the most recent examples of articles of attire of English manufacture satisfactorily passing such an ordeal is afforded by the favour with which the introduction of
THE LOUIS VELVETEEN
has been received in that city. This BEAUTIFUL FABRIC, which, in texture, appearance, and durability, bears the closest possible resemblance to the best Lyons Silk Velvet, has completely won the suffrages of the most severe PARISIAN critics, and deservedly so too. The Louis Velveteen, which is now universally sold, possesses several advantages over other Velveteens, amongst which may be specially noticed that it neither changes colour, fades, cockles, nor spots with rain, one and all considerations of great importance. It is, moreover, dyed by a new process in the FASHIONABLE PERMANENT ORIENTAL BLUE-BLACK, and made in various qualities and thicknesses suitable for either Millinery, Dressmaking, or Trimming purposes. With so many good points to recommend it, it is not surprising that the LOUIS VELVETEEN should have been largely imitated, a fact which has rendered it necessary to stamp it on the reverse side every seven yards with a Trade-Mark representing a Griffin's Head, and the motto, "Nos sapere juvant."
THE LOUIS VELVETEEN IS NOT DEARER THAN INFERIOR DYES AND MAKES.
CAUTION.—SEE THE VELVETEENS ARE STAMPED AT THE BACK IN PLAIN LETTERS "THE LOUIS VELVETEEN," WITH TRADE-MARK AND MOTTO AS ABOVE.
Agents for Wholesale only:—J. H. FULLER, 92, Watling-street, London; WM. FIFE, 52, Glassford-street, Glasgow; JOHN FREEMAN, 20, Wicklow-street, Dublin.

SWAN and EDGAR.
AUTUMN SHOW OF NOVELTIES AT ALL PRICES.

Black Silks made to Wear.	Dress Materials.	Lace.
Velvets and Satins.	Gloves.	Sealskins.
Millinery.	Costumes.	Wool Wraps.
Mantles.	Dinner Dresses.	Fancy Hosiery.
Ulsters.	Ball Dresses.	Shawls.

Patterns free on application,
Piccadilly and Regent-street.

MANUFACTURER'S STOCK of LADIES' AUTUMN DRESSES Selling Off at Half the Cost. Consisting of Moss Cachemires in the new dark plain colours. Price 42d. per yard.—JOHN HOOPER, 52, Oxford-street W. Patterns free.

TO LADIES.—THE SHREWSBURY WATERPROOF TWEED CLOAKS, SKIRTS, and JACKETS, in every variety of shape and colour, are supplied by the original Makers, E. W. and W. PHILLIPS, 27, High-street, Shrewsbury. Patterns and Prices on application.

NEW AUTUMN COSTUMES, CLOAKS, &c.—T. LITTLE and SON beg to announce that their buyers and dressmakers have returned from Paris with the latest NOVELTIES for the AUTUMN SEASON. During the weaving of Oxford-street carriages can set down in Newman-street, two doors from Oxford-street.
42 to 44, Oxford-street.

NEW AUTUMN SILKS, 1878.
SPECIAL NEW SHADES.
110 New Tints, at 3s. 6d. per yard.
Coloured Satins to match, at 3s. 6d. per yard.
Richer qualities, Coloured Silks, 4s. 6d., 5s. 3d., and 6s. 9d. per yard, all specially manufactured for this season.
360 Pieces extra rich Brocaded Silks, at 4s. 6d. and 5s. 6d.
These prices are the lowest ever known for such qualities.
600 Pieces of China Washing Silks, 12s. 9d. for 20 yards.
A special purchase of Grisaille and Quadrille Silks, 23s. 6d. the Dress.
PETER ROBINSON, 103 to 108, OXFORD-STREET.
Established at this address in 1833.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.—BLACK SILKS.
One Thousand Pieces of the best manufacture at 2s. 11½d. and 3s. 11d. per yard.
A special purchase of Bonnet's Black Silks, commencing at 2s. 11d. per yard.
276 Pieces Black Satins of extreme brightness, 2s. 6d. and 3s. 6d. per yard.
For Patterns please address only
PETER ROBINSON, OXFORD-STREET, W.

RICH SILK AUTUMN COSTUMES.
One Thousand Coloured Silk Costumes at 6½ gs.
BLACK SILK COSTUMES at 5½ gs.
Black Silk Skirts, one guinea.
BLACK BRAIDINE COSTUMES, including five yards for Bodice, suitable for Dinner or Evening wear, at One Guinea each.
Rich Black Velvet Velveteen Costumes, Black Cashmere ditto, all Wool, And Black Serge Costumes, all Wool, } all 2½ gs.
The above are all in the latest Style of Fashion and Ready for Wear.
For Illustrations please address only
PETER ROBINSON, OXFORD-STREET, W.

VERY FASHIONABLE THIS SEASON.
RICH BLACK VELVET VELVETEENS.
300 pieces fast Black, very wide, 2s. 6d. to 3s. 6d. per yard.
All the New Rich Shades of Colour, 2s. 6d. to 4s. 6d. per yard.
Black Cashmeres and Cashmere Merinos FOR AUTUMN DRESSES.
A Special Purchase in Black and all the New Colours, amounting to several thousand pieces, very wide, at 1s. 11d. to 3s. 6d. per yard.
TRAVELLING AND SEASIDE DRESSES, Witney, Estamene, and Angola Serges, Fancy Casimires, Rich Poplins,
New Autumn Mixed Cloths, and other Novelties, in endless variety, 10s. 6d. to 31s. 6d. the Dress.
A New Fabric in Brass.
CREPE CASHMERE (REGISTERED), A most useful Material, in six designs, specially adapted for this season's Costumes, full width, 1s. 9d. per yard.
New Fabrics for Paletots, &c.
Black Beaver Cloth Matelassé,
Poil de Chameau, Diagonals, &c.
These elegant Fabrics can also be had in Choice Shades of Fawn, Grey, Cuir, Mode, &c.
From 5s. 6d. to 12s. 9d. the Yard, 54 in. wide.
For Patterns address only
PETER ROBINSON, OXFORD-STREET, W.

MADE BALL and WEDDING DRESSES, in Tulle, Tarlatan, and Muslin.
THE MAUDE,
a charming Dress in Black Tarlatan, profusely Trimmed with Bouillonné and Pleatings.
This Dress can be had in White and all the New Colours, price 21s., a substantial Box included.
A Pretty Dress in Black Brussels Net, price 25s.;
or Non-Crushing Silk Net, 42s.
The New Sheet of Engravings can be had, post-free, from PETER ROBINSON, OXFORD-STREET, LONDON.

MANTLES and JACKETS for AUTUMN and WINTER.
NOVELTIES FROM PARIS AND BERLIN DAILY, in Beaver Cloth, Diagonal Cloth, Mille-rayé Cloth, and Drap Brute; also, in Velvet, Face, Sicilian, and Gros Grain, lined and quilted.
Several New Shapes in Ulster Mantles.
The New Waterproof Tartan Mantles.
For Illustrations apply to
PETER ROBINSON, OXFORD-STREET.
The only address.

REAL RUSSIAN SEAL FUR PALETOTS (half fitting).
33 in. deep, from 7 gs.
36 in. deep, from 8 gs.
Several New Shapes in Seal Mantles, in the finest quality.
GREY SQUIRREL PALETOTS (a great novelty).
Sable, Seal, Fox, Racoon, Skunk, Beaver, Otter, Russian Hare, Chinchilla, Ermine, and every other description of Muff, Necktie, &c.
A large Stock of
RUSSIAN SEAL FUR JACKETS,
24 to 27 in. deep, from 4 guineas upwards.
Imitation Seal Fur Jackets, 42s. each, 28 to 29 in. deep.
Cashmere Circulars, with Hood, and lined Russian Squirrel, 45 in. deep, from 21s. upwards.
Cashmere Circulars, with Hood, and lined fawn Russian Squirrel, 48 in. deep, 56s. 6d. upwards.
A great variety of New Shapes in Silk Mantles, lined with the finest quality of Russian Squirrel.
Fur Carriage and Travelling Rugs, from 30s. upwards.

PETER ROBINSON, SILKMERCER and DRAPER,
103 to 108, OXFORD-STREET, LONDON,
INFORMS THE PUBLIC
that his business has been carried on at these premises since its establishment in 1833, and respectfully requests his Customers to address orders to this address only.

WIDOWS' MILLINERY.—Mrs. Creaton begs to inform widow ladies that she has her usual select assortment of WIDOWS' CAPS of the first designs, for First and Second Mourning, in the materials and shapes now in present fashions. Also Collarettes, Cuffs, and Collars for evening and morning wear. A superior class of Widows' Bonnets, and every description of Widows' Millinery.—Show-Rooms, No. 296, Regent-street, W. Pattern Sheets post-free. Established thirty-one years.

WAYRE'S SEAL PALETOTS at SUMMER PRICES.†

33 inches,	36 inches,	40 inches,	45 inches,
9½ gs.	10½ gs.	12½ gs.	16½ gs.

These Paletots can be sent on approval to any part of the country by giving a reference, and sending the following measurements:—Width of back between shoulders, across chest, round waist, length of Paletot.

WAYRE'S FUR-LINED CLOAKS, 2½ gs. Summer price. French Cashmere, Real Squirrel Linings, 50 inches long.

WAYRE'S SKUNK PALETOT SETS complete, 4 gs. Summer price. Length of fronts, 36 in.; depth of flounce, 11 in. Dark natural colour.

WAYRE'S REAL SABLE-TAIL PALETOT SETS complete, 20 gs. Summer price. Natural colour. Length of front, 36 in.; depth of flounce, 9 in.

WAYRE'S REAL MARTEN-TAIL PALETOT SETS complete, 8 gs. Summer price. Dark natural colour. Length of front, 36 in.; depth of flounce, 12 in.

WAYRE, FUR MANUFACTURER, Importer of Foreign Skins direct, 96, Oxford-street, and 232, Oxford-street (corner of Regent-circus). Furs of every description sent for selection to all parts of the Kingdom. Ladies' own Seal Jackets re-dyed, re-lined, repaired, altered, and lengthened to present fashion.

FOR ALL SEASONS AND ALL CLIMATES.
UNDER THE PATRONAGE OF THE
ENGLISH AND FOREIGN COURTS.
EGERTON BURNETT'S
WELLINGTON SERGES,
AND VARIOUS OTHER APPROVED WOOLLEN FABRICS.
EGERTON BURNETT has repeatedly had the honour of supplying "three admirable Serges" to the ROYAL FAMILY, and executes Orders daily FROM ALL PARTS.
Neither rain nor salt water can affect their permanent dye. Prices from 1s. 2½d. to the finest at 4s. 6d. per yard. PATTERN-BOOKS sent free by post and carriage paid to Bristol or London on parcels over £2. GOODS PACKED FOR EXPORTATION.
A Special Strong Make for BOYS' and GENTLEMEN'S SUITS, 54 inches, from 3s. 6d. per yard.
EGERTON BURNETT,
SERGE WAREHOUSES,
WELLINGTON, SOMERSET.

INDIGESTION.
It is conclusively ascertained that LACTOPEPTINE will bring about the Digestion of Food in a manner perfectly identical to that obtained under the influence of the natural gastric juice. "A glance at the Formula of LACTOPEPTINE would convince even the most sceptical of the valuable results that must ensue through its administration. Composed of ptyalin, pepsine, pancreatine, hydrochloric and lactic acids, it is a combination of all the digestive agents; consequently, can never be administered without giving the utmost satisfaction; for if there is a deficiency in the system of all or any of these agents, LACTOPEPTINE will supply it, and thus assist in digesting the food, enabling the organsthat produce these principles of digestion to rest and recuperate their relaxed energies."—From "Practical Medicine and Surgery," July, 1877. LACTOPEPTINE being presented in saccharated form, is most agreeable to the taste, and can be administered even to the youngest child. The price of the LACTOPEPTINE is 4s. 6d. per one oz. bottle. (An ounce bottle contains forty-eight ten-grain doses.) If any difficulty is experienced in obtaining LACTOPEPTINE from your Chemist, communicate direct, sending P.O.O. for 4s. 6d. Address—DANSEREAU, KIDDER, and CO., Gt. Russell-st., corner of Charlotte-st., London, W.C. Pamphlet to any address

HOW TO AVOID THE INJURIOUS EFFECTS OF STIMULANTS.—The present system of living—partaking of too rich foods, as pastry, saccharine and fatty substances, alcoholic drinks, and an insufficient amount of exercise—frequently deranges the liver. I would advise all bilious people, unless they are careful to keep the liver acting freely, to exercise great care in the use of alcoholic drinks, avoid sugar, and always dilute largely with water. Experience shows that porter, mild ales, port wine, dark sherries, sweet champagne, liqueurs, and brandy are all very apt to disagree; while light white wines, and gin or whisky largely diluted with soda-water, will be found the least objectionable. ENO'S FRUIT SALT is peculiarly adapted for any constitutional weakness of the liver; it possesses the power of reparation when digestion has been disturbed or bad, and places the invalid on the right road to health. A world of woes is avoided by all who keep and use ENO'S FRUIT SALT; therefore no family should ever be without it. All my customers for ENO'S FRUIT SALT would not be without it upon any consideration, they having received so much benefit from it.—Wood Brothers, Chemists, Jersey." Sold by all Chemists at 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d. Examine each bottle and see the capsule is marked "ENO'S FRUIT SALT." Without it you have been imposed on by a worthless imitation.

CHOCOLAT MENIER, in ½ lb. and ¼ lb. Packets.
For BREAKFAST and SUPPER.

CHOCOLAT MENIER.—Awarded Twenty-Three PRIZE MEDALS.
Consumption annually exceeds 17,000,000 lbs.

CHOCOLAT MENIER. Paris, London, New York.
Sold Everywhere.

DINNEFORD'S MAGNESIA.
The best remedy for acidity of the Stomach, Heartburn, Headache, Gout, and Indigestion.

DINNEFORD'S MAGNESIA.
The safest and most gentle Aperient for delicate constitutions, Ladies, Children, and Infants.
OF ALL CHEMISTS.

DR. RIDGE'S FOOD { Gives Health, Strength, Comfort, and Quiet Nights to Mothers, Nurses, Infants, and Invalids.
Sold by all Chemists and Grocers.

"FOR THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE."
CLARKE'S WORLD-FAMED BLOOD MIXTURE is warranted to cleanse the Blood from all impurities, from whatever cause arising. For Scrofula, Scurvy, Skin and Blood Diseases its effects are marvellous. In Bottles, 2s. 6d. each, and in Cases containing six times the quantity, 11s. each, of all Chemists. Sent to any address for 30 or 132 stamps, of the Proprietor, F. J. CLARKE, Chemist, Lincoln.

BLAIR'S GOUT PILLS,
The Great English Remedy for Gout and Rheumatism. Sure, safe, and effectual. No restraint of diet required during their use, and are certain to prevent the disease attacking any vital part. Sold by all Chemists at 1s. 1½d. and 2s. 9d. per Box.

LAXORA MEDICATED FRUIT LOZENGES for CONSTIPATION, SLUGGISHNESS OF THE STOMACH, BILE, HEADACHE.
The "Lancet:"—"It is a great improvement on the preparations in common use for the same purpose."
"Medical Times":—"Laxora Lozenges can be safely recommended."
C. B. C. Tichborne, Ph.D.:—"Laxora Lozenges are efficacious, and nicely made."
Sold in 1½d. by all Chemists and Druggists; Wholesale, 22, South-wark-street.

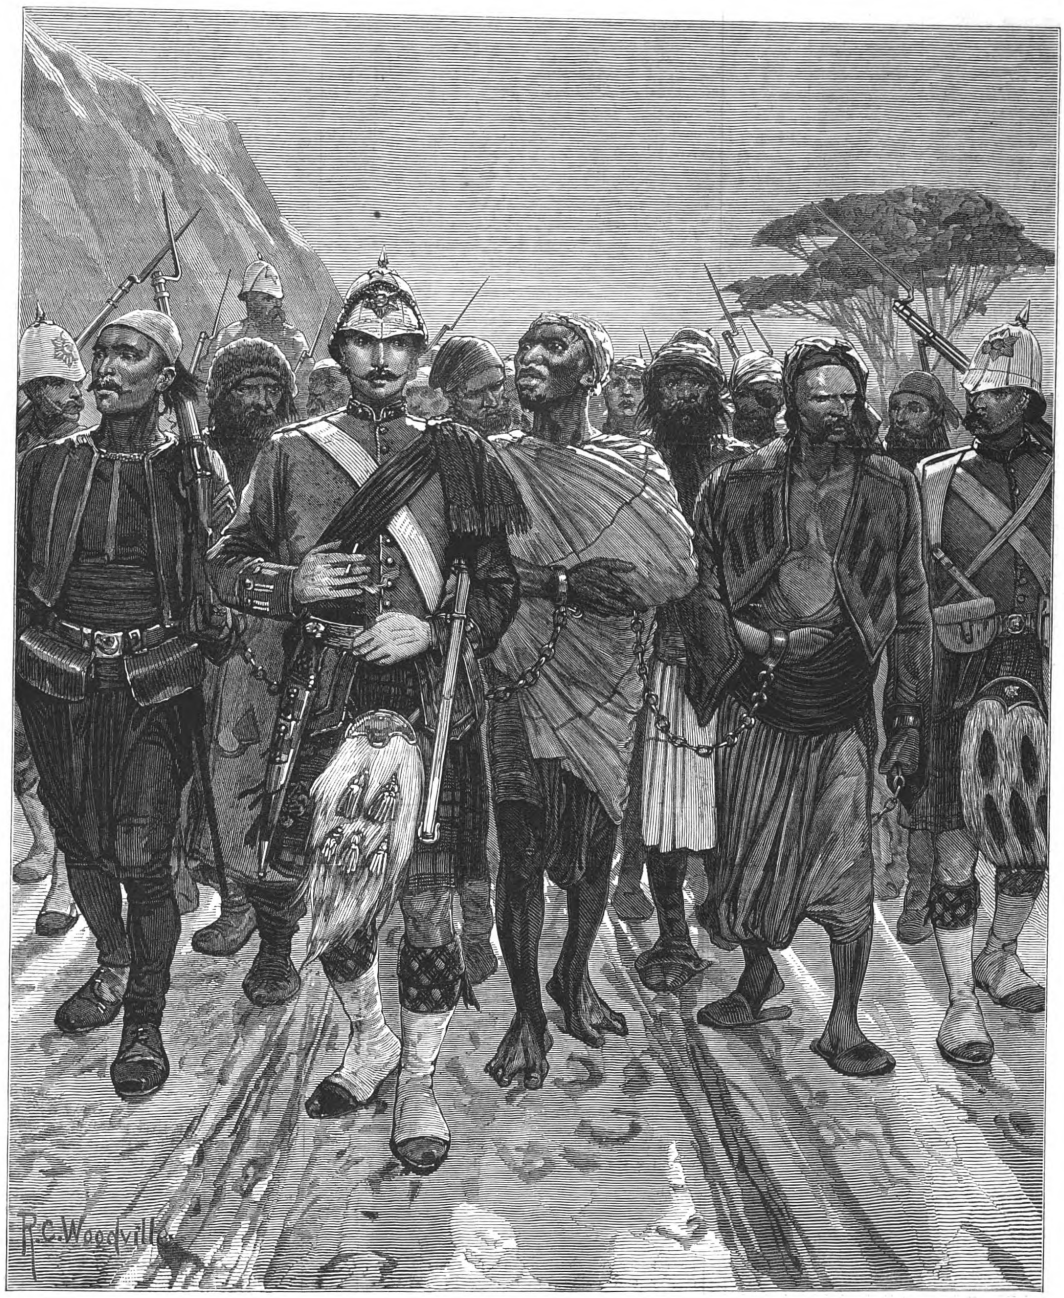
CORPULENCE.—YATE HOLLAND'S POWDERS (or Pills) speedily and safely absorbs superfluous fat and reduce corpulency, however long standing. Price 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. per Box.—MARTIN and CO., 3, Paradise-road, London, S.W.; or through any Chemist.

THROAT IRRITATION.—EPPS'S GLYCERINE JUJUBES. Soreness and dryness, tickling and irritation, inducing cough and affecting the voice. Sold only in Boxes, 6d. and 1s., which must be labelled thus:—
JAMES EPPS and CO., Homœopathic Chemists, London.

PILLS
WORSDELL'S
KAYE'S PURIFY THE BLOOD, CLEANSE FROM DISEASE, IMPROVE DIGESTION, ESTABLISH THE HEALTH.
Sold everywhere.

TOOTH-ACHE.
INSTANT CURE.
FORMS A STOPPING.
SAVES THE TOOTH.
J. Hounsell, Esq., Surgeon, Bridport, writes:—"I consider HUNTER'S NERVINE a specific for Toothache. Very severe cases under my care have found instantaneous and permanent relief."
Of all Chemists, at 1s. 1½d. per Packet.

ELECTRICITY IS LIFE.
PULVERMACHER'S "GALVANISM," NATURE'S CHIEF RESTORER OF EXHAUSTED VITAL ENERGY."
In this Pamphlet the most reliable proofs are given of the vast and wonderful curative powers of Pulvermacher's Patent Galvanic Chain-Bands, Belts, &c., in Rheumatic, Nervous, and Functional Disorders. Sent post-free for three stamps, on application to
J. L. PULVERMACHER'S GALVANIC ESTABLISHMENT, 194, REGENT-STREET, LONDON, W.; AND 39, RUE ST. MARC, PARIS.



TO PERSONS AFFLICTED WITH RUPTURE.—PRATT'S WATER-PAD TRUSSES are the most effectual Cure.—Apply to J. F. Pratt, Surgical Mechanician to St. Bartholomew's Hospital, 430, Oxford-street, London.

LONDON: Printed and Published at the Office, 198, Strand, in the Parish of St. Clement Danes, in the County of Middlesex, by GEORGE C. LEIGHTON, 198, Strand, aforesaid.—SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 21, 1878.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

REGISTERED AT THE GENERAL POST-OFFICE FOR TRANSMISSION ABROAD.

No. 2048.—VOL. LXXIII. SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 28, 1878. WITH TWO SUPPLEMENTS } SIXPENCE. By Post, 6½D.

THE OCCUPATION OF CYPRUS: PRISONERS FROM THE GAOL AT NICOSIA ESCORTED TO KYRENIA BY BRITISH AND TURKISH TROOPS.

BIRTHS.

On the 25th inst., at Stoke House, Nantwich, Cheshire, Mrs. C. H. Hornby, of a daughter.

On the 25th inst., at Woodfield Frenchay, near Bristol, the wife of George Tinn, of a son.

On the 19th inst., at Manor House, Durrington, Lady Champion de Crespigny, of a son.

On the 21st inst., at Bossall Hall, York, the Lady Adelaide Dawnay, of a son.

MARRIAGES.

On the 19th inst., at St. Michael's Church, Chester-square, Captain J. Strachan Bridges to Lady Grace Harriet Stopford, fourth daughter of the Earl and Countess of Courtown.

On the 21st inst., Carl Ernst Gotthard, Freiherr von Richthofen, eldest son of Bolko, Baron von Richthofen, of Gross Rosen, Silesia, to Anna, eldest daughter of the late Sir George J. R. Hewett, Bart.

On the 7th ult., at St. James's Church, Sydney, Alexander Kirkman, younger son of Alexander S. Finlay, Esq., of Castle Toward, Argyleshire, to Nora Augusta Maud, second daughter of the Governor of New South Wales, his Excellency Sir Hercules Robinson, G.C.M.G., and the Hon. Lady Robinson.

DEATHS.

On the 24th inst., early, at Beach Cottage, Fowey, Cornwall, Miss Christianna Jaques, in the 87th year of her age. This lady was a lineal descendant from the family of Sir Roger Jaques, knighted by Richard Cœur de Leon on the field of Askalon.

On the 22rd inst., at 34, Norfolk-street, the Earl of Dysart, aged 83.

On the 12th inst., at 17, Ainslie-place, Edinburgh, Louisa Forbes, wife of Sir James R. Fergusson, Bart., of Spitalhaugh, Peebleshire, aged 32.

On the 22nd inst., at 2, Fitzwilliam-place, Dublin, Sir Richard John Griffith, Bart., aged 94.

 The charge for the insertion of Births, Marriages, or Deaths is Five Shillings for each announcement.

CALENDAR FOR THE WEEK ENDING OCT. 5.

SUNDAY, Sept. 29.

Fifteenth Sunday after Trinity. St. Michael and All Angels. Morning Lessons: 2 Kings xviii. or Gen. xxxii., Acts xii. 5-18. Evening Lessons: 2 Kings xix. or xxiii. to 31, or Dan. x. 4, Rev. xiv. 14.
St. James's, 10 a.m., Rev. A. H. Stiwell; noon, Rev. H. A. Cotton. Whitehall, 11 a.m. and 3 p.m., Rev. William Hulton.
St. Paul's Cathedral, 10.30 a.m., Rev. Prebendary Dr. Kynaston; 3.15 p.m., Ven. J. Baly, Archdeacon of Calcutta; 7 p.m., Rev. Prebendary Dr. T. F. Crosse, Vicar of Holy Trinity, Hastings.
Westminster Abbey, 10 a.m. and 3 p.m., Rev. Canon Duckworth.
Savoy, closed.

MONDAY, Sept. 30.

St. Jerome, Father of the Church, Doctor and Confessor, died, 420.
Half the roadway of London Bridge closed till Nov. 2.

TUESDAY, Oct. 1.

Cambridge Michaelmas Term begins.
Pheasant-shooting begins.
National Gallery, closed.
British Museum, closed for a week.
Church Congress at Sheffield (president the Archbishop of York): Albert Hall, 2 p.m., the president's address; 2.30 p.m., papers and discussions on Colonial Missions; 7 p.m., Modern Doubts and Difficulties in Relation to Revealed Religion. Cutlers' Hall, 7 p.m., on Free and Open Churches.
Library Association of the United Kingdom, annual meeting at the Union Rooms, Oxford (three days).
University College: Introductory Lectures—Professor H. Morley, 3 p.m. (on University College, 1828 to 1878); Professor R. R. Lankester, 3 p.m.
Nottingham Races.
London Hospital Medical Schools reopened; addresses:—St. Thomas's, 4 p.m. (Mr. Nettleship); Middlesex, 3 p.m. (Dr. A. W. Ellis); St. George's, 4 p.m. (Dr. Whipham); St. Mary's, 3 p.m. (Dr. Farquharson); Charing-cross, 4 p.m. (Dr. J. Pearson Irvine); Westminster, 3 p.m. (Mr. Macnamara); King's College, 4 p.m. (Professor Garrod). St. Bartholomew's, Guy's, and London Hospital Schools, no addresses.
Veterinary College: Lecture by Professor Brown, 1 p.m.
Owens College, Manchester, 11.30 a.m. (Professor A. W. Ward, on University Experiences of the Renaissance and Reformage in Germany.)
Royal Alfred Yacht Club, closing cruise.

WEDNESDAY, Oct. 2.

Church Congress at Sheffield, Albert Hall, 10 a.m., papers and discussions on Comprehensiveness in the National Church; 2.30 p.m., the Church's Work; 7 p.m., the Duty of the Church in Regard to Intemperance. Cutlers' Hall, 10 a.m., the Church in Relation to the State; 2.30 p.m., Ecclesiastical Patronage; 7 p.m., Marriage Law.
Sanitary Institute, congress at Stafford, general meeting, address by Mr. E. Chadwick, the president of the congress. Exhibition of Sanitary Appliances, open till the 19th.
Entomological Society, 7 p.m.
Pharmaceutical Society, 8 p.m. (Distribution of prizes and certificates to students; address by Mr. Octavius Corder, of Norwich).

THURSDAY, Oct. 3.

Moon's first quarter, 7.1 a.m.
Sanitary Institute at Stafford, reading and discussion of papers, conversazione and reception in the Borough Hall.
Abergavenny Horse Show and Agricultural Association, exhibition of hunters, &c.
Church Congress at Sheffield: Albert Hall, 10 a.m., papers and discussions on the Attitude of the Church towards Popular Literature, &c.; 2.30 p.m., on Woman's Work in the Church; 7 p.m., meeting of working men. Cutlers' Hall, 10 a.m., on Parochial Church Councils; 2.30 p.m., Cathedrals, &c.; 7 p.m., Sunday Schools.

FRIDAY, Oct. 4.

Sanitary Institute at Stafford, reading and discussion of papers, public dinner.
Church Congress at Sheffield, Albert Hall, 10 a.m., papers and discussions on Spiritual Life; 2.30 p.m., Supply, Training, and Examination of Candidates for Holy Orders; 7 p.m., Church Music. Cutlers' Hall, 10 a.m. and 2.30 p.m., on Results of Discoveries in Egypt, Nineveh, Palestine, and Rome as to Interpretation of Scripture; 8 p.m., conversazione.
Races: Kempton Park Autumn Meeting (two days).

SATURDAY, Oct. 5.

Sanitary Institute at Stafford; visits to public works and manufactories.
Horticultural Society, promenade, 4.
Grafton Club Athletic Sports, Stamford-bridge; and Leicester Ground, Aylestone-road.

THE WEATHER.

RESULTS OF METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS AT THE KEW OBSERVATORY OF THE ROYAL SOCIETY.

Lat. 51° 28′ 6″ N.; Long. 0° 10′ 47″ W.; Height above Sea, 34 feet.

Day.	Daily means of: Barometer Corrected.	Temperature of the Air.	Dew Point.	Relative Humidity.	Amount of Cloud.	Thermom. Maximum, read at 9 p.m.	Thermom. Minimum, read at 9 p.m.	Wind. General Direction.	Movement in 24 hours, read at 9 a.m. this morning.	Rain in 24 hours, read at 9 a.m. this morning.
	Inches	°	°		0-10	°	°		Miles.	In.
September 18	29·682	55·9	50·2	·84	7	61·7	49·7	SW. W.	348	0·050
19	29·859	52·4	43·9	·75	6	59·5	45·3	SW. WSW.	288	0·000
20	29·937	50·6	43·2	·77	5	58·0	44·7	WSW. NW. N.	132	0·010
21	30·148	49·1	41·5	·77	7	58·6	40·2	N. NW.	74	0·000
22	29·761	52·7	47·5	·84	—	57·3	45·8	NW. S. ESE.	212	0·125
23	29·449	48·5	43·4	·84	6	59·1	42·8	SSW. WSW.	85	0·010
24	29·659	47·9	43·3	·85	4	59·8	37·0	WNW. NW.	83	0·000

The following are the readings of the meteorological instruments for the above days, in order, at ten o'clock a.m.:—

Barometer (in inches) corrected ..	29·634	29·910	29·863	30·171	29·905	29·463	29·621
Temperature of Air	64·4°	55·2°	53·1°	51·4°	56·2°	50·7°	49·6°
Temperature of Evaporation ..	61·7°	48·8°	48·7°	50·5°	51·1°	48·8°	45·5°
Direction of Wind	WSW.	WSW.	WSW.	SW.	NW.	SW.	WNW.

TIMES OF HIGH WATER AT LONDON BRIDGE

FOR THE WEEK ENDING OCTOBER 5.

Sunday.		Monday.		Tuesday.		Wednesday.		Thursday.		Friday.		Saturday.
M	A	M	A	M	A	M	A	M	A	M	A	M	A
h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m
3 17	3 36	3 57	4 20	4 42	5 2	5 25	5 49	6 15	6 45	7 20	8 0	8 42	9 32

PROFESSOR TENNANT'S LECTURES on MINERALOGY, APPLIED TO GEOLOGY AND THE ARTS, at KING'S COLLEGE. Two Courses are given, one on Wednesday and Friday Mornings, from Nine to Ten, and the other on Thursday Evenings, from Eight to Nine. The public are admitted on paying the College fees. The Lectures begin Friday, Oct. 4, and terminate at Easter. They are illustrated by a large series of specimens, chiefly from his private collection. Persons unable to attend public lectures can have private instruction in Mineralogy and Geology at Professor Tennant's residence, 149, Strand, W.C.

WILL BE PUBLISHED, OCTOBER 7,
PRICE ONE SHILLING,
THE
ILLUSTRATED LONDON ALMANACK FOR 1879, CONTAINING TWELVE COLOURED PICTURES,
PRINTED BY LEIGHTON BROTHERS' CHROMATIC PROCESS,
FROM ORIGINALS BY EMINENT ARTISTS;
TWELVE SKETCHES ILLUSTRATING THE SEASONS,
AS HEADINGS TO THE CALENDAR;
TWELVE FINE-ART ENGRAVINGS;
ASTRONOMICAL DIAGRAMS OF REMARKABLE PHENOMENA, WITH EXPLANATORY NOTES;
The Royal Family of Great Britain; the Queen's Household; her Majesty's Ministers; Lists of Public Offices and Officers; Bankers, Law and University Terms; Fixed and Movable Festivals; Anniversaries; Acts of Parliament passed during the Session of 1878; Revenue and Expenditure; Obituary of Eminent Persons; Christian, Jewish, and Mahomedan Calendars; Tables of Stamps, Taxes, and Government Duties; Times of High Water; Post-Office Regulations; together with a large amount of useful and valuable information, which has during the past thirty-three years made the Illustrated London Almanack the most acceptable and elegant companion to the library; whilst it is universally acknowledged to be by far the cheapest Almanack ever published.
The unprecedented demand for the Illustrated London Almanack year after year stimulates the Proprietor to still greater exertions to secure for this Almanack a reception as favourable as that which has hitherto placed its circulation second only to that of the Illustrated London News.
The Illustrated Almanack is inclosed in an elegant cover, printed in colours by the same process as the Coloured Plates, and forms a useful and pleasing ornament to the drawing-room table.
The Shilling Illustrated London Almanack is published at the Office of the Illustrated London News, 198, Strand, and sold by all Booksellers and Newsvenders.

THE ILLUSTRATED
PARIS UNIVERSAL EXHIBITION.
An English Edition of
L'EXPOSITION UNIVERSELLE DE 1878 ILLUSTRÉE,
in continuation of the Illustrated Journal issued in 1867 under the authority of the Imperial Commission, is issued every Tuesday,
PRICE THREEPENCE.
PUBLISHED AT THE OFFICE OF
THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS,
198, STRAND, LONDON.
All Country Orders to be supplied through the London Agents.

CRYSTAL PALACE PICTURE-GALLERY. The GALLERY is now REOPENED for the Season with a NEW COLLECTION of BRITISH and FOREIGN PICTURES for SALE.—For Particulars, apply to Mr. C. W. Wass, Crystal Palace.

DORÉ'S GREAT WORK, "THE BRAZEN SERPENT," "CHRIST LEAVING THE PRAETORIUM," and "CHRIST ENTERING THE TEMPLE," each 30 ft. by 22 ft.; with "Dream of Pilate's Wife," "Soldiers of the Cross," &c., at the DORÉ GALLERY, 35, New Bond-street, W. Daily, 10 to 6. 1s.

WILL CLOSE ON MONDAY NEXT.
ELIJAH WALTON.—EXHIBITION of ISLE OF WIGHT and other WATER-COLOUR DRAWINGS, chiefly Alpine and Eastern, NOW OPEN at BURLINGTON GALLERY, 191, Piccadilly. Ten till Six. Admission, including Catalogue, 1s.

MR. and Mrs. GERMAN REED'S ENTERTAINMENT will REOPEN on MONDAY NEXT with DOUBLEDAY'S WILL, THE PARIS EXHIBITION, and AN ARTFUL AUTOMATON. Every Evening except Thursday and Saturday, at Eight; Every Thursday and Saturday at Three. Admission, 1s., 2s., 3s., and 5s.—ST. GEORGE'S HALL, Langham-place.

MASKELYNE and COOKE, EGYPTIAN HALL, EVERY EVENING at Eight; TUESDAY, THURSDAY, and SATURDAY AFTERNOONS at Three. A Programme of Inexplicable Illusions and Mechanical Wonders. Music by Mechanism is Mr. Maskelyne's latest and greatest achievement. To perform Solos of Fantasy, the Cornet-Player, and Lablal on the Euphonium, are just now the attraction and talk of the entire kingdom, the Press having spoken in terms of unqualified praise. Private Boxes, from 21s. to 2½ guineas; Stalls, 5s. and 3s.; Admission, 2s. and 1s.—W. MORTON, Manager.

FOURTEENTH CONSECUTIVE YEAR IN ONE UNBROKEN SEASON.
THE
ST. JAMES'S HALL, PICCADILLY.
MOORE and BURGESS MINSTRELS.
All the year round.
Every Night at Eight, and on every Monday, Wednesday, and Saturday at Three and Eight also.
THIS COMPANY NOW BEARS THE PROUD DISTINCTION OF BEING THE OLDEST ESTABLISHED AND MOST SUCCESSFUL UPON THE EARTH.
It is also the source whence all imitators obtain the salient features of the charming and popular Entertainment now universally associated with the names of Moore and Burgess.
THE NEW AND EXCELLENT PROGRAMME performed for the first time last week will be repeated until notification of another change is given.
Fauteuils, 5s.; Sofa Stalls, 3s.; Area, 2s.; Gallery, 1s. No fees. Places can be secured at Austin's Office, St. James's Hall, daily, from Nine a.m., without extra charge.

THEATRE ROYAL, DRURY-LANE.—Sole Lessee and Manager, F. B. Chatterton.—This Theatre, redecorated, OPEN for the SEASON SATURDAY, SEPT. 28; and Every Evening at Eight o'Clock will be presented Shakespeare's romantic Play A WINTER'S TALE. Scenery by William Beverley. Leontes, Mr. Charles Dillon; Hermione, Miss Wallis; Perdita, Miss Fowler; and Paulina, Mrs. Hermann Vezin. Preceded, at Seven o'Clock, by Lecocq's Operetta ANGELIA; or, A Woman's Wit. Concludes with the Comic Ballet LORD DUNDREARY. Box-Office open Ten till Five daily.

THE TWO ORPHANS, with all the Original Effects and Powerful Cast, on MONDAY NEXT, SEPT. 23, and Every Evening at 7.30. Box-office open daily from Eleven to Five. No booking fee.—OLYMPIC THEATRE.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

LONDON: SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 28, 1878.

The projected Mission to Cabul has been dissolved. Sir Neville Chamberlain, who was to have conducted it, has been recalled. The Ameer of Afghanistan, Shere Ali, has declined to receive it, and the commandant who represents his authority at Ali Musjid, in the Khyber Pass, in response to an application by Major Cavagnari for a safe passage, abruptly refused it with threats and armed demonstration. The question now presents itself, what are the next steps to be taken by the Viceregal Government of India. There seems to be no doubt that the Ameer's officer in charge of the Frontier relations was fully instructed from Cabul as to the course he should pursue. It may, therefore, be taken for granted that the rude and even fierce repulse of the British Envoy is an act for which Shere Ali has made himself personally and politically responsible. The public is informed, upon authority which there is no great reason to suspect, that, in consequence of the foregoing events, the garrison at Quettah is to be reinforced by 3000 more troops; that a mixed European and Native Force of 4000 men is ordered to assemble immediately at Thull, a town at the entrance to the Khooram Valley; and that a reserve force of 6000 men will be formed at Sukkur early in November. It is intimated that no attack on Cabul is intended; that the armed demonstration resolved upon by the Viceroy has for its chief object to show the Ameer how utterly helpless he would be if prompt hostilities on the part of the Indian Government were to be brought to bear upon him; and that no design to abridge his independence as a Sovereign will be entertained, on the condition, however, that it shall not be pledged to Russia. The Russian Mission still remains at Cabul, and continues to be treated with special favour. But it is declared at St. Petersburg that the assumption of an understanding having been established between Russia and Afghanistan is purely imaginary, and that there are no known grounds to justify any such imputations and conjectures.

The state of affairs thus slightly sketched is grave enough in regard to its possible consequences. It may pass off like a flash in the pan, but it may also lead on to a struggle which might shake the very foundations of our Indian Empire. Be it remembered, we have to take into the account that when once the ball has been set rolling across the North-Western frontier of India its motion will, to a certain extent, become uncontrollable. It is likely enough that nothing at present is to be apprehended from Russian military aggression; but it would be rash to enter upon a conflict even with Shere Ali without having provided against the chance of being more sorely pressed, or, perhaps we might better say, of being more obstinately resisted, than our calculations had allowed for. If, as some military authorities have given the public to understand, an army of 40,000 men should be required to occupy Afghanistan as an advanced Frontier of the Empire, it has to be taken into serious consideration whether, looking at the Armies maintained by Native Sovereigns, India can safely bear so great a draught upon her defensive resources. If not, the case would be hardly mended, inasmuch as the United Kingdom would have to furnish the necessary addition to the armed Forces of India, and ultimately, it is to be feared, to share the expense of maintaining them. The question, therefore, is no remote one, without making much practical difference to ourselves at home, we may view with favour, or with disfavour, as the case may be; but it is one which will assuredly touch English interests, English taxation, and English commerce (to say nothing of English securities) before its final settlement.

The phase of events which now confronts the Indian Government cannot, it is true, be ignored as if it did not exist. The problem first started by the Viceroy at Calcutta more than twelve months ago must now be solved, and in all probability solved by force. Circumstances may so far change as to lead to a fortunate conclusion without the application of warlike means. The Ameer may think better as to the line of conduct which it will be wise for him to pursue. The influence brought to bear upon him with a view to conciliation may operate with greater power than just now there seems reason to anticipate; and it may turn out, after all, that nothing very serious will result from that complication of causes to which the disagreeable relations of Cabul to Simla may, without much chance of error, be attributed. But the challenge which the Ameer has discourteously launched at us cannot well be allowed to remain without reply. It had been better, perhaps, never to have provoked it. It was an unwise departure from precedent of some standing. It would even seem to us that the Viceroy himself looks upon it as a possible mistake, and is inclined, in as far as he has the power, to modify the character of its results. But there can be no doubt, we apprehend, that a step has been taken admitting of no retrocession. That it was thoughtlessly taken we have no right to venture even to suggest. But when the normal tone of British foreign policy (including that of India) is about to undergo essential change it is but fair, we think, to ascertain by the usual methods what is the deliberate judgment of the Parliament and people of this country.

Lord Carnarvon, if we correctly catch his meaning, has suggested that we had better, if we intend to baffle Russia, adjourn the conflict to some more accessible region than that of Central Asia. The suggestion does not exhibit, we venture to think, his usual wisdom; and, indeed, we are not sure that there is any solid ground for troubling the relations between Great Britain and Russia—at least, so far as Afghanistan is concerned. It is surely not any part of our National Mission or "manifest destiny"—much less a chief part of it—to meet and, if possible, obstruct the imperfect phase of civilisation adopted by Russia wherever it may chance to make itself visible. The form of government to which she resorts may be extremely distasteful to us and largely oppressive to the millions subject to her authority; but we can hardly undertake to prevent its extension by force of arms, save as it may threaten interests which we are bound to care for and protect. We must beware of tempting Shere Ali into a political position which would enable him to hold the balance between two great Empires, so as that, now inclining to one, then to another, he might improve his own circumstances by placing their international relations in danger. It will not do to put into the hands of barbarous kinglets the possibility of stirring up war whenever they please. We cannot but hope that the present complicated knot of perils may be quietly unravelled, and that what is in itself of comparatively trivial import will not be exaggerated into something approaching a disaster. There still remains discord enough in Europe to keep alive our solicitudes. One Eastern Question is quite enough for a single generation. If another supervenes, surely our statesmanship must be at fault.

THE COURT.

The Queen, with several members of the Royal family, continues at Balmoral Castle. Her Majesty, Princess Beatrice, and Prince Leopold attended Divine service on Sunday at Crathie church. The Rev. A. K. H. Boyd, of St. Andrew's, officiated. The Prince of Wales visited the Queen and remained to luncheon. Her Majesty and Princess Beatrice visited the Hon. Lady Biddulph in the afternoon at Abergeldie Mains. Prince Frederick William of Prussia arrived at the castle on Monday on a visit to the Queen, attended by Major Von Liebenau. Her Majesty, accompanied by Princess Beatrice has taken daily walks and drives in the vicinity of the Royal demesne. The Prince of Wales and Major Von Liebenau have dined with the Queen. Viscount Cranbrook, who is Minister in attendance, has dined generally with the Royal family.

The Duke of Connaught and Prince William of Prussia have had good sport deer-stalking. The Duke left Balmoral on Wednesday. Prince Leopold has driven out daily.

Lieutenant-Colonel Prickard, V.C., has arrived at, and Lieutenant-General Ponsonby has left, Balmoral.

THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES.

The Prince of Wales left Abergeldie on Sunday afternoon for Invercauld on a visit to Lieutenant-Colonel Farquharson. A grand deer drive took place on Monday, at which his Royal Highness was present, and had excellent sport. On Tuesday the Prince and Colonel Farquharson were in Invercauld Forest, and again had good sport. A grouse drive was arranged for the remainder of the party staying at Invercauld. The Prince returned to Abergeldie in the evening. His Royal Highness has enjoyed good sport in the Royal forests.

The Princess of Wales, accompanied by Princesses Louise Victoria and Maud of Wales, returned to England on Tuesday from Rumpenheim. Their Royal Highnesses crossed from Calais in the special mail-steamer Maid of Kent to Dover. The Princess was received upon landing by the principal naval and military officials; a guard of honour was drawn up upon the Admiralty Pier, and Royal salutes were fired from the castle. Her Royal Highness, with her daughters, travelled from Dover in a special train, which was under the charge of Mr. John Shaw, to Charing-cross, whence the Royal party drove to Marlborough House. The Princess, accompanied by her daughters, left Marlborough House on Wednesday, en route for Abergeldie Castle, to join the Prince of Wales.

The Prince has sent a cheque for fifty guineas to the Lord Mayor as a donation to the Mansion House Fund for the relief of the sufferers by the Ebbw Vale Colliery explosion.

The Duke of Cambridge arrived at Gloucester House yesterday week from Paris, where he stayed a week on his way home from Kissingen and Switzerland.

The Duke de Nemours has arrived at the Pulteney Hotel.

The Maharajah of Johore, after a stay of three months in this country, has left for France, en route to Singapore.

His Excellency Count Münster has arrived at the German Embassy, Carlton House-terrace, from Berlin.

His Excellency Viscount de Rio Branco has arrived in London.

The Duke of Westminster has left town for the North of France.

The Earl and Countess of Dudley have arrived at Blackmount, N.B.

Viscount and Viscountess Cardwell have arrived at Ellerbeck, Chorley, from Scotland.

The Duchess of Norfolk opened St. Edmund's Roman Catholic Schools in Queen's-road, Sheffield, on Monday. The Duke and Duchess afterwards received an address from the Roman Catholics and the Roman Catholic Association of Sheffield. A brooch set in brilliants, of the value of 150 guineas, was presented to the Duchess. The Duke entertained a dinner party at The Farm. At his Sheffield residence on Tuesday he entertained 600 of the townspeople and tenantry; and on Wednesday the Duchess laid the foundation-stone of a new drill-hall, to be called the Norfolk Drill-Hall, for the use of the Sheffield Artillery Volunteers, of whom the Duke is the honorary Colonel. The volunteers were afterwards entertained at a dinner given by his Grace at The Farm.

Lord and Lady Carington arrived at Gunton Park on Saturday last on a visit to Lord and Lady Suffield. They were received with the utmost enthusiasm by the residents of the district, and a congratulatory address was read. Lord and Lady Suffield afterwards entertained the tenantry at luncheon in the park pavilion.

FASHIONABLE MARRIAGES.

The marriage of Earl Beauchamp, Lord Steward of her Majesty's Household, and Lady Emily Annora Charlotte Pierrepont, eldest daughter of Earl Manvers, was solemnised on Tuesday at Perlethorpe village church, adjacent to Thoresby Park. The bride, accompanied by Countess Manvers, on her arrival at the church was received by her father, who gave her away, and her bridesmaids—namely, Lady Mary Pierrepont, her sister; Lady Jane Dalrymple, Miss Emily Egerton, Miss Mary Wynn, Miss Evans Freke, and Miss Madeline Seymour. Earl Beauchamp was accompanied by his nephew, the Hon. George Fitzroy Somerset. The bride's dress was of white satin, trimmed with Brussels lace, and over a wreath of orange-blossoms a veil of the same lace. The jewels were pearls and diamonds. The bridesmaids' toilettes were of white muslin, trimmed with blue, blue silk fichus, and blue bonnets to match; dresses relieved with bunches of lilies of the valley. Each wore a locket the gift of Earl Beauchamp, set with pearls and pink coral. The marriage rite was performed by the Rev. Evelyn H. Harcourt Vernon, B.A., Prebendary of Lincoln, Rector of Grove and of Headon, Notts; assisted by the Rev. Thomas J. Luard, B.A., Incumbent of Perlethorpe, and the Rev. Henry Seymour, B.A., Rector of Holme-Pierrepont, Notts. Earl and Countess Manvers received their relatives and friends at breakfast, after which Earl Beauchamp and his bride left Thoresby for Madresfield Court, Earl Beauchamp's seat near Great Malvern. The bride's travelling-dress was of dark blue velvet, trimmed with satin, bonnet to match, trimmed with Brussels lace. The wedding presents were very numerous.

The marriage of Captain John Strachan Bridges, R.A., and Lady Grace Harriet Stopford, fourth daughter of the Earl of Courtown, was solemnised on Thursday week at St. Michael's Church, Chester-square. The bridesmaids were the Ladies Charlotte, Eleanor, and Lily Stopford, her sisters; Miss Ernestine Shelley, her cousin; Miss C. Bridges and Miss C. Way, nieces of the bridegroom. The bride's dress was of rich white satin brocade, handsomely trimmed with Brussels lace, orange-blossoms, and tuberoses; and over a wreath of orange-blossoms was a Brussels lace veil, fastened to the hair by pearl stars, the gift of her father. Her other ornaments were a pearl necklace and earrings, also the gift of her father, and a diamond pendant set with pink pearls, the gift of the bridegroom. The bridesmaids wore dresses of ivory foulard de laine, trimmed with satin of the same colour and wide Valenciennes lace, and Du Barry hats with feathers to match. The bridegroom was attended by Captain Gerald C. H. Parlby, R.A., as best man.

The marriage of Sir Lambton Loraine with Miss Frederica Broke is arranged to take place in London on Tuesday, Oct. 22.

Marriages are arranged between the Hon. and Rev. Henry Augustus Stanhope, Rector of Gawsworth, Cheshire, third son of the late Earl Stanhope, and the Hon. Mildred Vernon, second daughter of Lord Vernon; and between Captain William Codrington, R.N., private Secretary to the First Lord of the Admiralty, and Miss Leach, stepdaughter of the Right Hon. W. H. Smith.

METROPOLITAN NEWS.

On Wednesday the Lord Mayor remitted to Admiral Fanshawe £5496, being the amount collected at the Mansion House in aid of the sufferers by the Eurydice disaster.

Mr. Thomas William Saunders, recently Recorder of Bath, officiated at the Thames Police Court on Monday for the first time as magistrate, in the place of Mr. De Rutzen, now at Marylebone Police Court.

It is announced that, in consequence of the Premier having expressed to the Chief Commissioner of Police his disapproval of the scheme for the registration of public-houses, no further steps will be taken in the matter.

The teams of horses which have run in the Tantivy coach from London to Watford were sold on Monday at Tattersall's, and realised an average of 58 guineas. The horses were the property of Mr. F. Sedgwick.

In consequence of the Lady Mayoress's indisposition, and of the confusion that would arise by the holding on the same day the dinner to the Lord Mayor elect and the inauguration dinner of the new Sheriffs, the Lord Mayor has postpon ed the banquet at the Mansion House from to-day (Saturday) until next Tuesday, Oct. 1.

Last Saturday being St. Matthew's Day, the Lord Mayor and the Sheriffs, according to custom, went in state to Divine service at Christ Church, Newgate-street, which adjoins Christ's Hospital, and afterwards formally received from the treasurer of the hospital the list of governors and other information, for preservation in the Corporation records at Guildhall.

The weekly return of metropolitan pauperism shows that the total number of paupers at the end of the third week in September was 76,295, of whom 38,903 were in workhouses and 37,392 received outdoor relief. Compared with the corresponding weeks in 1877, 1876, and 1875, these figures show a decrease of 258, 1315, and 5544 respectively. The number of vagrants relieved on the last day of the week was 423, of whom 309 were men, 99 women, and 15 children under sixteen.

The Thames Steam-Ferry Company have given notice of the closing of the ferry from Wapping to Rotherhithe on Saturday (to-day), in order to make the necessary preparations for the increased traffic resulting from the partial closing of London Bridge on the 30th inst. The ferry will be reopened next Monday, at six a.m.—One half of the roadway of London Bridge will be closed for repaving from Monday next until Nov. 2, during which period one line of traffic only each way can pass over the bridge.

The annual Fruit Show of the Crystal Palace was held on Tuesday and Wednesday. The International Potato Exhibition, under the auspices of a society of which Alderman Hadley is president, was held at the same time. Except at great shows in Edinburgh, no such collection of grapes had been seen as that now at Sydenham. The north nave was redolent of peaches, fragrant apples, nectarines, and other fruits. In the south nave the round and kidney potatoes succeeded each other in piles upon long tables. The potato exhibition was probably the best of the kind ever witnessed. There was an enormous aggregate and a great variety of sorts, some of these being very remarkable. Messrs. Sutton, of Reading, exhibited very extensively, though not for competition.

The opening of the Metropolitan and Provincial Medical Schools will take place as usual next Tuesday, Oct. 1, and at most of them introductory addresses will be given—by Dr. J. P. Irvine, at the Charing-cross Hospital; by Dr. Whipham, at St. George's; by Professor Garrod, F.R.S., at King's College; by Dr. Farquharson, at St. Mary's; by Dr. A. W. Edis, at the Middlesex; by Mr. Nettleship, at St. Thomas's; by Mr. Lankester, F.R.S., at University College; and by Mr. Macnamara, F.R.S., at the Westminster. At St. Bartholomew's, the London, and Guy's Hospitals no introductory addresses will be given; but at the first-named a dinner in the hall to old students and distinguished visitors; at Guy's and the London the distribution of prizes and conversaziones will be given.—The provincial schools will also inaugurate the opening of the session by addresses at Queen's College, Birmingham, by Professor W. Thomas; at Leeds, by Dr. J. E. Eddison; Liverpool Royal Infirmary, by Dr. Shearer; Newcastle College of Medicine, by Mr. S. M'Bean; the Sheffield, by Dr. W. Dyson.

There were 2491 births and 1259 deaths (including 16 caused by the late collision in the Thames) registered in London last week. The deaths included 4 from smallpox, 2 from measles, 24 from scarlet fever, 10 from diphtheria, 43 from whooping-cough, 30 from different forms of fever, and 80 from diarrhœa. The 43 fatal cases of whooping-cough exceeded the corrected average by 14, and included 16 in South London. The 24 deaths from scarlet fever were 54 below the average. The fatal cases of fever, which had been 16, 23, 25, and 32 in the four preceding weeks, were 30 last week, of which 25 were certified as enteric or typhoid, and 5 as simple continued fever. No deaths were referred to typhus. The fatal cases of smallpox, which had been 3 and 7 in the two previous weeks, were 4 last week. The deaths referred to diarrhœa and simple cholera, which had steadily declined from 494 to 90 in the seven preceding weeks, further fell to 81 last week, and were 23 below the corrected average. In the Greater London 3022 births and 1521 deaths (including 48 caused by the sinking of the Princess Alice) were registered, equal to annual rates of 35·4 and 17·8 per 1000 of the population. The mean temperature of the air was 54·4 deg., being 1·9 deg. below the average in the corresponding week of the sixty years 1814—73. The duration of registered bright sunshine in the week was 34·6 hours, the sun being above the horizon during 86·9 hours.

THE CHURCH.

PREFERMENTS AND APPOINTMENTS.

Allan, George Alexander, to be Rector of Puckington.
Barlow, John James; Rural Dean of Fairford.
Bather, Henry F.; Prebendary of E. Withington in Hereford Cathedral.
Ben Oliel, Maxwell M.; Perpetual Curate of St. Patrick's, Earl's Court.
Bucknell, Samuel; Rector of Howick.
Bulkley, James Rice; Vicar of Llandaff, Glamorganshire.
Clunn, William D.; Curate of Manorbier, Pembrokeshire, during vacancy.
Cumby, William; Perpetual Curate of Whorlton.
De Lusignan, Constantine Adolphus; Vicar of Caton, near Lancaster.
Dighton, C. E., Rector of Mitcheldean; Vicar of Maisemore.
Downer, Arthur Cleveland; Vicar of Ilkley.
Douglas-Hamilton, Hamilton A.; Vicar of East Witton, Yorks.
Featherstone, Samuel; Vicar of Whitchurch.
Harkness, George Law; Vicar of Purton, Wilts.
Jones, Hugh; Curate of St. David's, Pembroke.
Lee, Henry; Rector of Sheinton, Salop.
Lewis, Joseph Pollard, Vicar of Wiston, Pembrokeshire; Curate of Clarbiston in same county during vacancy.
Macphail, E. W. St. Maur; Vicar of Balking-with-Woolstone, Berks.
Mathias, Thomas; Curate of Newmoat during vacancy.
Packer, Arthur; Rector of Hartest-with-Boxted, Suffolk.
Pilcher, Francis; Rector of St. Clement's, Oxford.
Richardson, Thomas; Vicar of Rhyl.
Smith, John; Vicar of Thorney.
Stanton, J. John; Vicar of South Barrow, Somerset.—Guardian.

A harvest festival will be held in St. Paul's Cathedral on Sunday, Oct. 6.

The Archbishop of Canterbury laid the foundation-stone of the new Folkestone vicarage on Tuesday afternoon.

A church at Studley, the gift of the Marchioness of Ripon, was consecrated on Monday by the Bishop of the diocese.

St. Nicholas, Grosmont, which is said to be one of the most interesting churches in South Wales, from the beauty of its architecture, has been reopened after restoration.

The Bishop of Lichfield on Monday consecrated a new burial-ground in connection with All Saints' Church, West Bromwich. The ground, which forms part of the Sandwell estate, was presented by the Earl of Dartmouth.

The memorial of the late Lord Lyttelton, which has been placed in Worcester Cathedral, was on Saturday last formally handed over to the Dean and Chapter by Lord Hampton, the chairman of the memorial committee.

The Birmingham Gazette is informed that Miss Ryland has added to her other benefactions to Birmingham and the neighbourhood by the generous offer of land for a new church in Balsall-heath district.

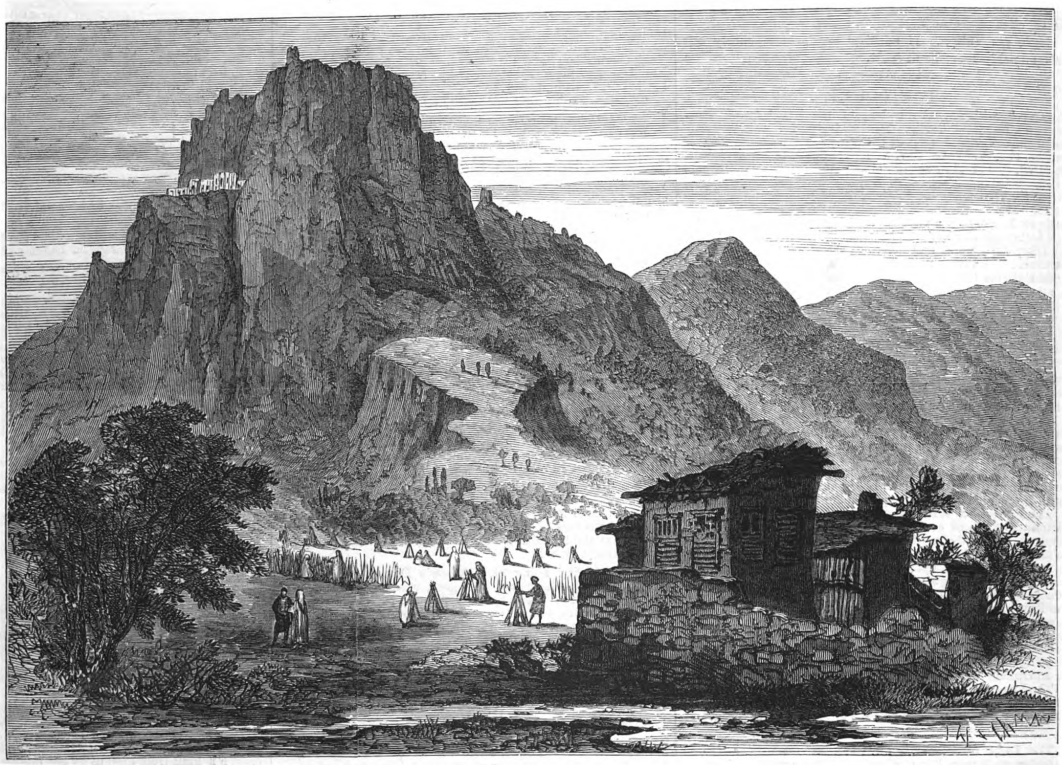
The parish church of Hampton-in-Arden, which has been restored at a cost of over £3000, was reopened on Tuesday by the Bishop of Worcester. About £600 remains to be collected towards the cost of the work.

The Rural Deanery of Liverpool South, at a conference held on Tuesday night, passed a resolution declaring it to be undesirable to frame a canon recognising brotherhoods and sisterhoods as a part of the system of the Church of England.

The Rev. J. Erskine Clarke, Vicar of Battersea and honorary Canon of Winchester, has presented a stained-glass window to the Church of St. Andrew, Derby. This window, the subject of which is Nicodemus, was inaugurated at the harvest thanksgiving service this week.

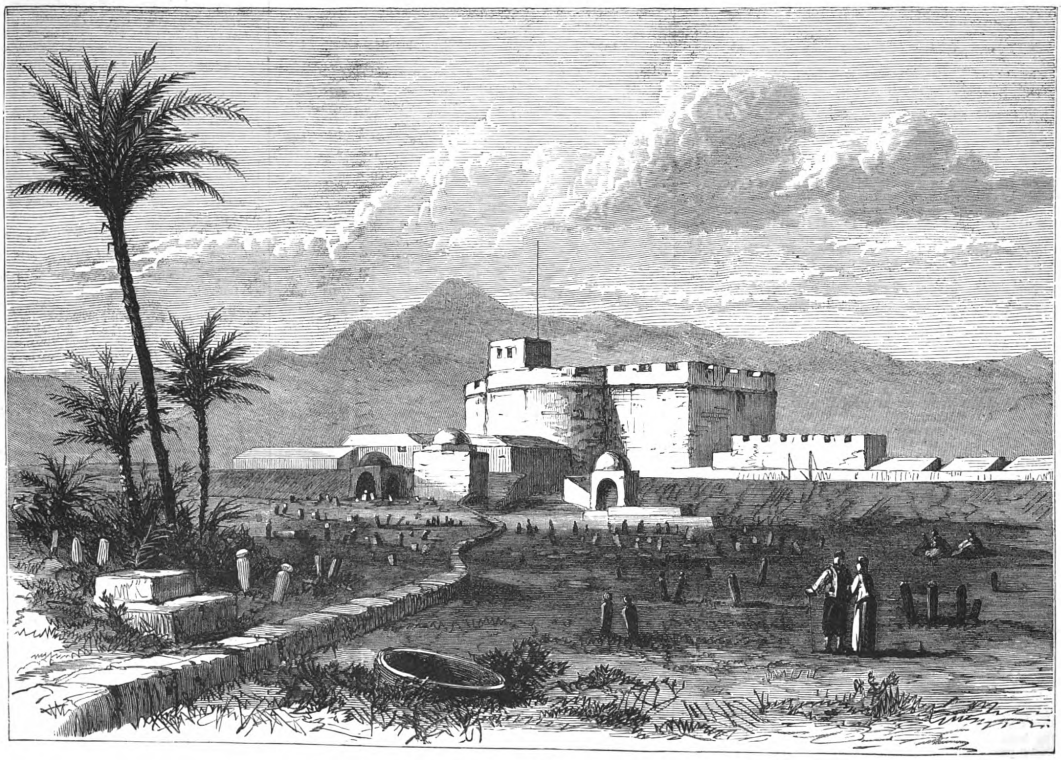
On Tuesday the Bishop of Ely consecrated a new church in the parish of Guyhirne, near Wisbech, the erection of which is due to the munificence of the Dean of Edinburgh, Dr. Montgomery, who has given £1500 to the building fund. The church is built from designs by the late Sir Gilbert Scott.

The Bishop of Oxford on Tuesday consecrated the enlarged parish church of Upton-cum-Chalvey, better known as Slough. The old church was built about forty years ago, and its foundation-stone was laid by the present Duke of Cambridge. Great interest has been taken in the work of enlargement, the Queen heading the subscription-list with a donation of £100; Mr. Charsley gave 1000 guineas, Mr. Algernon Gillat £600, and Mrs. Nixey £500, and a further sum of £2000 remains to be raised. If funds can be obtained it is proposed to build a memorial spire to the memory of Sir W. Herschell, whose telescope stood on the spot occupied by the present tower.



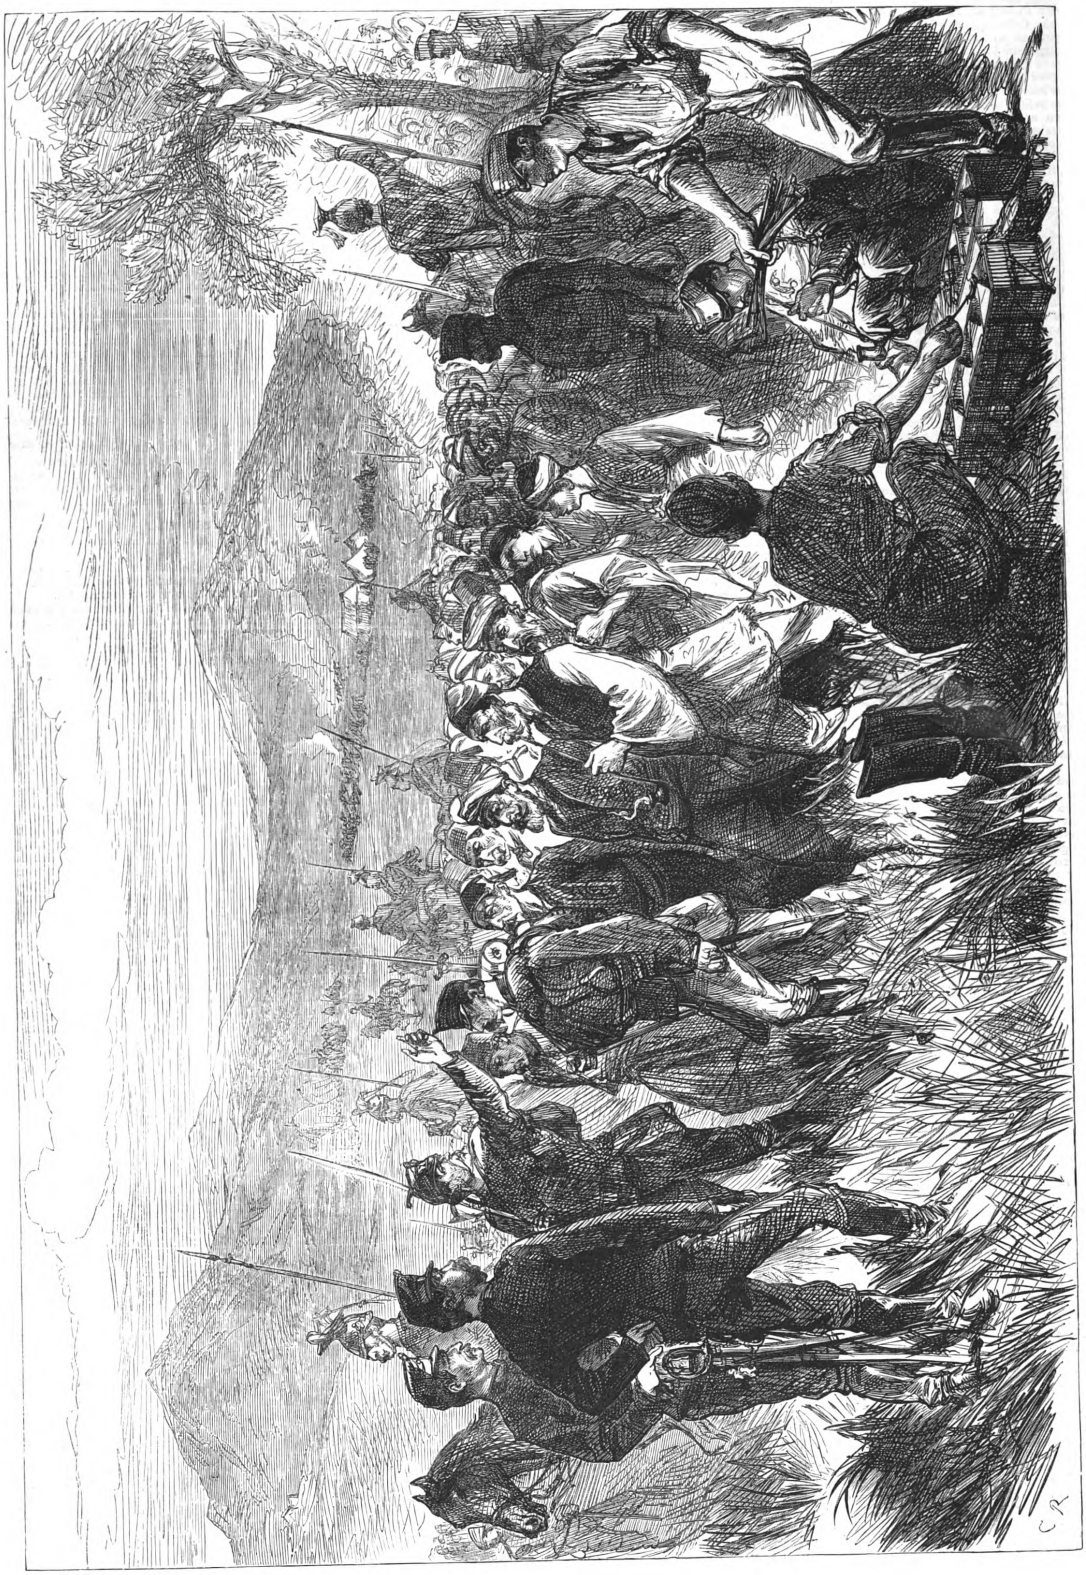
The Bishop of Durham began his visitation in the chapel of Auckland Castle on Saturday last. In his charge the Bishop dealt with the questions of the increase of the Episcopate, the Burials Bill, Rationalism, and Ritualism. He would view favourably the demand of the Nonconformists with regard to the burials question if it were not avowed to be part of a scheme for the disestablishment of the Church. Clergymen, he said, ought to specially prepare themselves to meet the opposition of the Rationalists, who were multiplying with rapidity. He concluded by strongly condemning what he considered the dishonesty and rapacity of the Ritualists in setting the laws of the Church at defiance, but yet retaining their benefices.

THE OCCUPATION OF CYPRUS.



We have engraved for this Number our Special Artist's Sketch of the south-west city gate of Famagusta, and shall give a few more Sketches of that place, with his letter describing a trip to the east coast of Cyprus. Famagusta was the principal seaport and fortress of the Venetians, who ruled Cyprus nearly a hundred years after the fall of the Lusignan kingdom. The siege of Famagusta by the Turks in 1571, and the fate of the Governor, Marcantonio Bragadino, who was skinned alive by his captors to revenge his heroic defence of the city, will be remembered by readers of history. Othello is an unhistorical personage, but Famagusta is the city where he was supposed to have been persuaded by Iago to take the life of innocent Desdemona. Our large Engraving is a Sketch, by the same Artist, of the landing-place at Baffo (the Greek Paphos), at the western extremity of the island, with British and Indian soldiers, a few sailors, Greeks, Maltese, and donkeys, apparently in some confusion. We are indebted to Captain R. Coveney, of the 42nd Regiment, for the sketch of a large batch of criminal prisoners, removed from the Turkish gaol at Nicosia, under guard of a detachment of the 42nd, with some Turkish troops, arriving at Kyrenia to be there embarked for transportation to Asia Minor. The number thus transported was altogether 266, and it is stated that they were not natives of Cyprus, but Turks from Asia. The officers in charge were Colonel Baker Russell, Major Lorne Macdonald, Captain Lord Gifford, Major Wood, and Captain De Lancey. We also give a view of the castle of St. Hilarion, near Tembros, on the north coast of Cyprus.

Mr. Mapleson and his opera company sailed from Queenstown for America on Wednesday in the Inman steam-ship City of Chester. The party numbered together 104 persons, and included Mesdames Gerster, Lablache, Parodi, Pisani, Robiati, and Sinico; Mdlles. Cavalazzi, Hauk, and Parodi; and Signori Arditi, Bolli, Campanini, Foli, Gardini, Galassi, Del Puente, and Rosetti. Mr. Mapleson has entered into an engagement to give representations of Italian opera in New York during the winter season for seven years.



THE BRITISH OCCUPATION OF CYPRUS.

CHÂTEAU OF ST. HILARION, FROM THE VILLAGE OF TEMBROS, NORTH COAST.
FROM A SKETCH BY OUR SPECIAL ARTIST.

SOUTH-WEST GATE OF FAMAGUSTA, THE OLD VENETIAN SEAPORT.
FROM A SKETCH BY OUR SPECIAL ARTIST.

THE AUSTRIANS IN BOSNIA: BRINGING IN INSURGENT PRISONERS.
FROM A SKETCH BY OUR SPECIAL ARTIST.

FOREIGN AND COLONIAL NEWS.

FRANCE.

Marshal MacMahon and his family left Paris for La Forêt on Monday. The Grand Duke Constantine Constantinovich went to the Elysée on Thursday week to take leave of the Marshal. His Excellency, accompanied by General d'Abzac, returned the Grand Duke's visit shortly afterwards. In the evening the Grand Duke left Paris. Colonel Lamorelle went to the Northern Railway station to present to the Grand Duke the Marshal's best wishes for a prosperous journey.

The Grand Duke of Sachsen-Weimar, accompanied by the Grand Duchess, arrived at Paris on Sunday.

The Government has decided to open a subscription in aid of the victims of the yellow fever in Louisiana.

M. Gambetta, on account of persistent hoarseness, had been obliged to abandon his purpose of going to Grenoble, and has gone to the Château des Crêtes at Clarens for a few days' rest. M. Gambetta's speech at Romans is regarded in Paris as containing the programme of the Republican party. Republican papers generally refer to it with mixed approbation, while the non-Republican journals criticise it keenly. The Catholic press regards it as a declaration of war against Catholicism, and the Bonapartist papers condemn it strongly. The Journal des Débats agrees with M. Gambetta as to the object of his political programme, but is not entirely at one with him in regard to the means. After the speech 10,000 people escorted M. Gambetta to his hotel, singing the "Marseillaise." Children dressed in white strewed flowers before him, and a little girl read a complimentary address. The recent speech of M. Gambetta has been sharply replied to in a letter, which some of the Paris newspapers published, from the pen of the Bishop of Angers, who, in answer to the charges against the clergy, reminds M. Gambetta that he himself was educated at a religious school. The Bishop, however, hopes that M. Gambetta's aggression will lead to the reconstruction of an alliance amongst those who regard religion as the basis of social order.

Banquets were held on Sunday, in Paris and in the provinces, to celebrate the proclamation of the First Republic in 1792.

It is stated by some of the Paris papers that the Exhibition will remain open until Nov. 20. Exhibitors will, it is added, be permitted to sell their goods after Nov. 1.

The Peace Congress was opened on Wednesday with a speech by M. A. Franck, member of the Institute and president of the French society.

The death is announced of General de la Hitte at Bessières, Haute-Garonne. He was born in 1789, and served in the Spanish war during the First Empire. He took part in the Morea Expedition, and commanded the artillery at the taking of Algiers. In 1849 he was appointed Minister of Foreign Affairs. Under the Second Empire he sat in the Senate. Since the war he has lived in complete retirement.

The whole gang of French bank-note forgers have been convicted; the principal, Joseph Barreau, being sentenced to penal servitude for life, and the others to lesser terms of imprisonment.

ITALY.

Yesterday week, being the anniversary of the entry of the Italian troops into Rome, laurel crowns were placed by the Syndic and Municipal Council upon the tomb of the late Victor Emmanuel and upon the monument erected at the Porta Pia to the soldiers killed near the spot. Congratulatory telegrams on the occasion were sent by the Syndic to the King and to General Garibaldi.

Cardinal Nina has sent a circular note to the Papal Nuncios at the foreign Courts stating that the Vatican may possibly be obliged to take measures for preserving the authority of the Pope, in view of the hostile attitude adopted by the Italian Government, observable chiefly in the exercise of the prerogative by the King in the nomination of Bishops whom the Pope would never recognise. The Nuncios are instructed to sound the Governments to which they are accredited, and especially to ascertain their views in the event of the Pope taking extreme measures. It is stated that the Pope has addressed a second letter to the Emperor of Germany, congratulating his Majesty on his restoration to health, and wishing him a long and happy life. The letter makes no reference to ecclesiastical questions. On Monday the Pope received a band of pilgrims from Piedmont, and, in addressing them, said he knew that efforts were being made to root out the faith in Italy, but the Italian people were not disposed to allow it to be taken from them. He was confident that the Catholics of Italy would continue their allegiance to the Church, the more because the difficult position in which the Pontiff was placed tended to become more serious.

The eighth annual congress of the Italian Medical Association began at Pisa on Sunday. The medical profession was represented by over 500 members.

With the exception of seven, all the brigands arraigned at the Court of Assizes at Palermo have been convicted. The three who escaped while being taken to the place of trial have been sentenced in default, and active endeavours are being made to recapture them.

Vesuvius is in a state of partial and intermittent eruption; at the base of the cone are immense fissures, from which flames and lava are issuing. On Tuesday part of the crest of the cone gave way. The volcanic activity is on the increase.

SPAIN.

The King arrived at the Escurial on Monday night, where the Duke de Montpensier, the Duchess, and family also arrived next morning. Mass in memory of Queen Mercedes was said on Tuesday, in the presence of the King and Royal family. The King went to Madrid on Wednesday morning to preside at the Council of Ministers, at which the date and route of his journey were fixed. He will leave Madrid on Oct. 2 for a three-weeks' journey. He will attend the manœuvres in the Ebro Valley, near Vittoria.

BELGIUM.

The fêtes and ceremonies in celebration of the forty-eighth anniversary of Belgian national independence began on Monday, and were continued until Thursday. A solemn funeral service to the memory of those who fell whilst fighting for their country in 1830 was performed at the Church of Ste. Gudule, and was attended by several members of the Government, the Presidents and several members of the Chambers, the Judges of the superior courts, in official costumes, and numerous officers of rank, and of the Garde Civique. The choir of the church was draped in black for the occasion, and a catafalque specially prepared was lighted with candles. Their Majesties were represented by several members of the Royal household. On Monday morning the Brussels Linnæan Society opened their annual exhibition, consisting chiefly of agricultural instruments and farming machinery. The King and Queen of the Belgians honoured the exhibition by their presence, and they were also present at the races which took place in the afternoon. The tower of the well-known Hôtel de Ville was splendidly illuminated in the evening, and there was a display of fireworks. All the leading thoroughfares, as also all the Government and public buildings, were profusely decorated with the national flag in honour of the event. During the ensuing three days Brussels was en fête, and there was a continued series of popular rejoicings of various sorts, comprising concerts, gratuitous theatrical performances, regattas, balloon ascents, and racing.

The Brussels Court of Assizes has passed a sentence of five years' imprisonment and a fine of 2000f. upon M. Claudel, the author of a pamphlet libelling the Emperor of Germany, and also of another treatise described as of Socialist tendencies, and one in which the obligatory power of the law is contested. M. Carlier, the printer of these papers, was sentenced to eighteen months' imprisonment and a fine of 500f. M. Claudel was not present at the trial, and judgment was passed in contumaciam.

HOLLAND.

In bringing forward yesterday week the Budget for 1879, the Finance Minister said after 1879 it would be necessary to find means of increasing the annual public revenue by 4,000,000 fl., and the Minister intended to propose with that object income and property taxes. The state of affairs was "not alarming, but required the exercise of care, foresight, and economy."

The Second Chamber of the States General on Tuesday adopted, by 47 votes to 13, the Address in reply to the Speech from the Throne, almost paraphrasing the Royal Speech. M. Vanhouten, an advanced Liberal, delivered a speech in the course of the debate, in which he energetically advocated a general reform of the system of taxation. The members of the Catholic party also took part in the discussion, warmly condemning the report presented to the King by the Government against the petitions asking the King to refuse his sanction to the law on elementary instruction. The Minister for the Colonies, in reply to some objections expressed by M. Cascmbroot, stated that, according to advices from the Dutch Commandant in Acheen, twelve complete battalions of troops were at present engaged, forming a force amply sufficient to terminate the war.

A rumour of a contemplated marriage of the King with Princess Emma of Waldeck-Pyrmont is contradicted.

GERMANY.

The Emperor of Germany was yesterday week present at a grand military parade held at Cassel, and rode on his charger down the lines to inspect the troops. He no longer carried his right arm in a sling. The Empress followed in a carriage drawn by six horses. His Majesty was enthusiastically greeted by a large crowd of spectators.

Prince Bismarck was able to transact Government business on Friday last. Following the advice of his physicians, he left Berlin on Monday for Varzin, to spend a few days with his two sons. His only daughter, the Countess Mary, is betrothed to Count Rantzau, a rising diplomatist, of the ancient Schleswig-Holstein family of the same name.

Lord Augustus Loftus, the British Ambassador to Russia, left Berlin last Tuesday night on his return to St. Petersburg.

The Official Gazette announces the appointment of Count Statzfeld as Ambassador Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to the Sublime Porte.

The Parliamentary Committee on the Socialist Bill does not make much progress.

The Times hears from Berlin that, notwithstanding the strictest investigation of the Hödel and the Nobiling cases, no trace of conspiracy has been discovered.

The North German Gazette of Tuesday evening, referring to the German Circular upon the dilatoriness of the Porte in carrying out the Berlin Treaty, says that Germany's only motive in urging dispatch was to contribute towards the preservation of peace. Moreover, as the Power who presided at the Congress, her issue of the circular was a duty imposed by her position, notwithstanding the probable rejection of her proposals by the other Powers. Germany, having acquitted herself of this duty, will not revert to the subject; the less so as the murder of Mehemet Ali renders it doubtful whether the Porte does not lack the power rather than the will to fulfil her obligations.

AUSTRIA-HUNGARY.

The Emperor, accompanied by the Crown Prince Rudolph, left Vienna on Wednesday to attend the military manœuvres in the Tyrol.

A telegram from Prague states that the Czechian Deputies, who have hitherto abstained from attending any of the sittings of the Legislature, on Tuesday appeared in the Diet and made a statement, in which they declared that, while remaining true to their former protests, they had entered the House in order to prove whether they would attain their end by a conciliatory attitude.

Official despatches published at Vienna state that the occupation of Bosnia has been proceeding rapidly the last few days, and that the pacification of Herzegovina is virtually concluded.

DENMARK.

The King arrived at Copenhagen from England at ten o'clock on Thursday morning, the 19th inst. His Majesty was received at the railway station by the Crown Prince and Princess, Prince Waldemar, the Ministers, the members of the foreign diplomatic body, and the principal civil and military authorities. The King proceeded to his summer residence.

RUSSIA AND TURKEY.

The Emperor paid a visit on Tuesday to Sebastopol, where he reviewed the troops who have returned from Turkey.

The Russian troops, it is stated, have now completely evacuated San Stefano, but will remain a week or two longer at Rodosto. The Russian head-quarters are removed to Adrianople. General Todleben has sent to the Czar a telegraphic report of his enthusiastic reception at Adrianople. He was welcomed by the Mussulman, Greek, Bulgarian, Armenian, and Jewish clergy, who requested him to express their unbounded gratitude for the protection afforded by the Russian authorities, and to state the opinion of the inhabitants that no such order and justice had ever prevailed in the city as during the Russian occupation.

The draught of a definitive treaty has been submitted by the Russian Ambassador to the Porte, and is now under consideration by the Ottoman Government.

The Turkish scheme for a new loan has proved fruitless, owing to the want of English co-operation, and the Porte, it is now stated in a telegram from Constantinople, relies upon England to exert a moral influence upon capitalists by making an official declaration respecting the resources of Turkey.

Ahmed Mukhtar Pasha has telegraphed to the Porte that the pacification of Crete will shortly be effected.

Safvet Pasha is stated to be willing to cede eventually to Greece several islands of the Archipelago, but no territory on the Turkish mainland.

It is stated in telegrams from Constantinople that the Envoy of the Ameer of Afghanistan is endeavouring to induce the Porte to conclude an alliance with Russia.

Official despatches received by the Porte state that the Turkish troops under Moussa Pasha entered Erzeroum on the 20th.

All responsibility has been repudiated by the Porte for the events which have occurred in Bosnia; and it has addressed a circular to that effect to its representatives abroad.

The Pera correspondent of the Daily Telegraph says that Admiral Hornby has received telegraphic instructions directing him to leave Prinkipo and at once proceed with the fleet to Artaki, in the Sea of Marmora. The Admiral had, however, telegraphed for permission to remain in his present anchorage until Saturday.

EGYPT.

Mr. Rivers Wilson's appointment to the post of Egyptian Minister of Finance was announced on the 20th inst. in the Official Journal, in which also it was stated that the cession of lands by the Khedive for the benefit of the State has been duly effected by the Commission. The Ministry of Commerce and Agriculture has been suppressed from economical motives. The Customs are to be under the control of the Finance Ministry, and the Post Office under the Ministry of the Interior. Prisoners for debts to the Daira are released by order of Nubar Pasha.

CANADA.

A telegram from Toronto, dated Sept. 24, says that the Earl of Dufferin, in an address delivered at the opening of the Provincial Exhibition in that city, eulogised the people and institutions of Canada, and predicted a brilliant future for the Dominion under the auspices of the Marquis of Lorne and the Princess Louise. His Lordship urged the Canadians to cultivate the most friendly relations with the Americans, whom he characterised as a noble, generous, and hospitable people, and animated by the kindliest feelings towards the Dominion. His Lordship concluded by expressing his confident opinion that both countries were destined to be united in the bonds of an unbroken friendship.

We reported last week that the general elections to the Dominion Parliament resulted in the complete defeat of the supporters of the Mackenzie Administration, the Opposition having a majority in each of the leading provinces. The Ministers of Finance and Militia were defeated, as was also Sir John Macdonald, leader of the Opposition, but a constituency (that of Manitoba) for the latter has been found since. The victors are pledged to a Protection policy, and owe their success largely, it is thought, to the late depression of business.

We hear from Montreal that six Orangemen have been committed by the police magistrate for trial before the Court of Queen's Bench on a charge of belonging to an illegal society. The action is brought as a test case in connection with the disturbances on the occasion of the Orange celebration of July 12 last.

AMERICA.

President Hayes has met with an enthusiastic popular reception at Pittsburg.

The American correspondent of the Times telegraphs that Sitting Bull has sent six Sioux emissaries to Port Keogh, Montana, to ascertain the terms on which he could surrender.

A demonstration of a threatening character was made at Washington last Saturday by 400 men on strike. They were dispersed without difficulty by the police. Two companies of regulars have been ordered from Baltimore.

From New Orleans we have intelligence that the yellow fever is rapidly decreasing, except in the country districts.

AUSTRALIA.

The following telegram has been received by the Agent-General for Queensland from Brisbane:—"Parliament prorogued. General election takes place in November and December. Prospects of season good. Rainfall general."

MEXICO.

Congress was opened on the 18th inst. In his message President Diaz declared that the Government had performed its duties towards the United States in good faith and to the full extent of its power. The negotiations entered into between the two Governments for the joint military protection of the Rio Grande frontier had failed, because the United States Government had declined to countermand its instructions to General Ord. The President concluded by stating that Mexico desired to maintain peace with all nations, and especially with the United States.

INDIA.

Shere Ali has given a very decided negative to the overtures of the Indian Government by refusing to admit Sir Neville Chamberlain's mission into Afghan territory. The mission, advancing from Peshawur, has been stopped in the Khyber Pass by troops that were no doubt acting under instructions from the Ameer. Details respecting the stoppage of the mission, and the proceedings of our Indian Government consequent thereon, are given in another column.

The Times' correspondent at Calcutta telegraphs that floods have caused great damage in the Indus Valley. The Kusmore Bund has been breached, and the railway line near Phulji station endangered. It is hoped, however, that the Indus Valley Railway will be opened for through traffic from Mooltan to Kotree before the end of October. The Government have resolved to complete the Punjaub Northern State Railway to Rawul Pindee with the utmost energy. All leave has been stopped, and employés on leave recalled.

Telegrams from Rangoon state that the report of the death of the King of Burmah was unfounded.

Khudojar Khan, the ex-ruler of Khokand, has, according to the Turkestan Gazette, fled to Afghanistan, and is at Cabul.

The prisoners charged with being concerned in the riots at Surat in April last, on the occasion of the imposition of the license tax, have been honourably acquitted.

The death of Orélie Antoine, formerly known as the King of Araucania, is announced from Périgueux.

Mr. John Carr, jun., barrister-at-law, has been appointed Chief Magistrate of the Gambia Settlements.

The Spanish frigate Pizarro has foundered at sea, but the whole of the officers and crew have been saved.

The three principal hotels on the Righi—the Scheideck, the Fürst, and the Kulm—have been declared bankrupt.

The Invalide Russe has received intelligence from Central Asia that 20,000 Chinese troops have arrived at Manas on their way to join the army of Tso-Koun-Tsan at Kashgar.

A terrible accident has occurred in the St. Gothard tunnel, where three cases of blasting-powder exploded, causing the death of ten workmen and injuries to many others.

Despatches from Belgrade report the death of the newly-born son of Prince Milan, also the serious illness of Princess Natalie in consequence of her premature accouchement.

Under the presidency of Herr Brachelli, of Vienna, the International Railway Congress, for the discussion of railway statistics and the means of facilitating railway communication, was opened on Monday at Berne.

Commissioners from the Government of Japan have been visiting Victoria and New South Wales, for the purpose of obtaining information as to the products and manufactures of the country. The principal member of the party, Mr. M. Yokoyama, is an experienced traveller, and speaks and writes English as well as a native-born British subject. He will go home viâ the United States and Europe. The others return direct to Japan. The commission went to Australia on a strictly business mission, to ascertain what can be done to open up trade between Japan and the colonies.

The German barque Elise, from Bremen, arrived in the Tyne on Monday evening with the crew of the brig Ohio, of North Shields, whom she picked up in an exhausted condition after they had abandoned their vessel. The Ohio foundered during a gale off Souter Point about a week since.

The Postmaster-General announces that the steam-ship Cuzco will leave Plymouth on the 30th inst. for Adelaide, Melbourne, and Sydney, and will take letters and newspapers for all the Australian and New Zealand colonies, if specially addressed "per s.s. Cuzco, viâ Plymouth," and posted in London on or before the evening of to-day (Saturday).

A telegram has been received from Shanghae, dated the 18th inst, intimating that a good harvest has been reaped in Northern China, and that it is, therefore, no longer necessary to go on collecting money in this country for the relief of the sufferers by famine. Under these circumstances, it is intended to close the subscription list in London as soon as possible.

Galignani states that the President of the Republic has awarded a gold medal to Lieutenant William Leare, of the English steamer H. D. Pochin, for saving the crew of the French vessel Marie-Alexandrine, abandoned at sea; and others of silver to the sailors William Humphrey, William Edward Green, Christopher Marriott, Andrew Gibson, Bernard Elliott, and Lona Yolla for their co-operation.

Sir William Northcott, K.C.B., Lieutenant-Governor of Jersey, who is on the eve of retiring from official duties, has issued a farewell address to the island militia force, which he compliments in the most gratifying manner for its efficiency in every respect, and expresses his satisfaction at leaving behind him a loyal, ready, and well-formed body, capable of fulfilling all the purposes for which it may be required.

Two emigrant-ships sailed on Friday, Sept. 1. The ship Clara, of 938 tons, Captain Cutler, sailed from the Clyde, having on board the following number of emigrants, bound for Brisbane—viz., 52 married men, 52 married women, 105 single men, 54 single women, 50 children between the ages of twelve and one, and nine infants: making a total of 322 souls. The ship Hereford, 1440 tons, Captain McCarthy, chartered by the Agent-General for New South Wales, sailed from Plymouth for Sydney, with 463 emigrants.—The Agent-General has been informed by telegram of the arrival in Sydney of the ship Hawkesbury, which sailed from Plymouth in June last.

The Postmaster-General gives notice that, on Oct. 1, the Republic of Peru will be admitted into the General Postal Union, and thenceforth the rates of postage chargeable on correspondence addressed to that country, by whatever route it may be forwarded, will be as follow:—Letters, 6d. per half-ounce; post-cards, 3d. each; newspapers, 1d. per four ounces; other printed papers, legal and commercial documents and patterns, 2d. per two ounces. Unpaid letters from Peru will be charged 9d. per half-ounce on delivery. Letters, post-cards, newspapers, legal and commercial documents and patterns, addressed to Peru, may be registered, the registration fee being in all cases 2d., which, in addition to the postage, must be prepaid. As no post-cards bearing impressed stamps of the value of 3d. have been issued, the ordinary or the foreign post-cards now in use must be employed when it is desired to send a post-card to Peru, adhesive stamps being affixed to the cards to make up the amount of postage required.

It is officially announced that the next examination of candidates for admission to the Royal Military Academy, Woolwich, will begin at the South Exhibition Galleries, South Kensington, on Nov. 29, the medical examinations taking place on the previous day at the Royal Military Academy.—Prince Ibrahim Pasha, son of the Pasha of Egypt, who recently passed successfully the examination for admission to this institution, joined it yesterday week.

The Duke of Cambridge made his half-yearly inspection of the troops in camp at Aldershott. After the inspection the horse artillery and cavalry went through a sham fight, manœuvring against an enemy supposed to be in position on Cæsar's Camp. On Wednesday the summer and autumn drills in which the Aldershott forces have been engaged for three months were brought to a close with a sham fight on the common east of the staff college, Sandhurst, about eight miles from the camp, in the presence of the Duke of Cambridge. The troops were divided into two opposing forces; they marched from the camp at an early hour, and arrived at their allotted positions about ten o'clock. General Peyton commanded the southern force, consisting of about 5000 of all arms, and General Pakenham, with about 4000, commanded the northern force, which was to cover Wokingham against the force advancing from Woking.

The lectures founded by Sir Thomas Gresham will be read to the public on the following days in the months of October and November, 1878, in English, at six o'clock p.m., in the theatre of Gresham College, Basinghall-street, in the following order:—Physic, Mr. Symes Thompson, M.D., Tuesday, Oct. 8, Wednesday, 9, Thursday, 10, and Friday, 11; Rhetoric, Mr. Thomas F. Dallin, M.A., Tuesday, Oct. 15, Wednesday, 16, Thursday, 17, and Friday, 18; Law, Mr. J. T. Abdy, LL.D., Tuesday, Oct. 22, Wednesday, 23, Thursday, 24, and Friday, 25; Astronomy, Rev. E. Ledger, M.A., F.R.A.S., Tuesday, Oct. 29, Wednesday, 30, Thursday, 31, and Friday, Nov. 1; Geometry, the Very Rev. B. M. Cowie, B.D., Dean of Manchester, Tuesday, Nov. 5, Wednesday, 6, Thursday, 7, and Friday, 8; Divinity, the Very Rev. J. W. Burgon, B.D., Dean of Chichester, Tuesday, Nov. 12, Wednesday, 13, Thursday, 14, and Friday, 15; Music, Mr. Henry Wylde, Mus. D., Tuesday, Nov. 19, Wednesday, 20, Thursday, 21, and Friday, 22.

Mr. W. E. Forster gave an address on the 19th in Marischal College to the students of the Aberdeen University, who presented him with an address of thanks and congratulations for the manner in which he had performed the duties attached to the rectorial chair. Principal Pirie presided. Mr. Forster declined to enter on a comparison between the English and Scotch University systems; but this he would say, that he hoped the special features of the Scotch system would never depart from Scotland. One great feature which struck an outsider more than any other was the fact that a University education in Scotland was open to all classes; and, after having had some practical experience of the work in the Universities, he could now realise in some measure the importance and advantage of all classes being able to receive the higher culture. He approved the Scotch system of giving degrees early in life, so as to allow young men to begin as early as possible to earn their own livelihood. He was of opinion that the experience obtained at work and business at the age of twenty-two was far more valuable than college training. He referred to the recommendations of the University Commission, and spoke with approval of the suggestion that there should be a preliminary examination, and that classics should not be so entirely the conditions of a University degree as they had been.

REJECTION OF OUR MISSION TO CABUL.

The news from India on Monday morning was of a very serious character. Sir Neville Chamberlain's mission left Peshawur on Saturday and proceeded towards Jumrood, a point in British territory close to the Afghan frontier. Major Cavagnari had ridden forward to Ali Musjid, a station in Afghan territory, in order to ask for a safe passage from the Ameer's officer, but was met at once by a decided and unhesitating refusal, accompanied by threats of resistance and by a display of armed force on the surrounding heights. After three hours had been spent in fruitless attempts at negotiation, Major Cavagnari returned to Jumrood, and the mission withdrew to Peshawur in obedience to direct instructions telegraphed from the Viceroy at Simla. At the same time news comes from Constantinople that the Envoy from the Ameer of Afghanistan, who recently arrived in the Turkish capital, is endeavouring to induce the Porte to conclude an alliance with Russia.

The Times correspondent at Calcutta, telegraphing on Sunday night, gives the following details respecting the stoppage of the British mission to Cabul:—

Our relations with the Ameer have assumed a very critical character. The Cabul ruler has at last thrown off every semblance even of outward friendliness and courtesy, and has chosen to adopt, in preference, an attitude of marked and open hostility. Your special correspondent with the mission telegraphs that it left Peshawur yesterday and proceeded as far as Jumrood, a place on the actual frontier, though within British territory. Thence it was recalled by a telegram from the Viceroy, and accordingly it marched back to Peshawur. This morning private advices from Simla, upon which absolute reliance can be placed, state that on the mission being ordered to march to Jumrood Major Cavagnari rode forward to Ali Musjid, escorted by Khyberries, in order to ask for a safe passage. The Ameer's officer, however, at Ali Musjid positively refused to permit the mission to advance. He then offered resistance, and crowned the surrounding heights commanding the route with armed men in order to dispute the passage. The interview between the chief and Major Cavagnari lasted three hours, and though the former was warned over and over again that the Ameer would be deemed responsible for his conduct, he expressed an unflinching determination to resist the passage of the mission by force. Not the faintest shadow of a doubt is entertained that this officer was acting under full instructions from the Ameer, inasmuch as Mufti Shah and Akhor, two responsible officers of the Ameer, have been dispatched from Cabul to Ali Musjid within the last few days. Both of these officers have been mentioned in Cabul newsletters as favourably disposed towards and engaged in direct communication with the Russian Embassy. Two important facts require to be noted—the first that this insolent rebuff occurred in presence of the two Indian Princes attached to the mission, who were personal witnesses of the interview between Major Cavagnari and the Ameer's officer; the second is that the Russian Envoy is still residing at Cabul. The mission will be now withdrawn. In view of the long-continued ungracious and hostile conduct of the existing ruler of Afghanistan, aggravated as it is by the present contemptuous slight offered to our national dignity, all possibility of renewing friendly relations with this uncompromising and morose barbarian is utterly hopeless; and, even if the prospects were still hopeful, their realisation could only be accomplished at the complete sacrifice of proper self-respect and at the grave risk of very considerable loss of prestige in the eyes of our Indian subjects and of our feudatory Princes. In consequence, therefore, of the present conduct of Russia, and the future policy for us which this conduct now decisively indicates, and against which, fortunately for India, the Government and the English people are most fully and completely warned, this important question of frontier policy will henceforward cease to be treated from a merely Indian standpoint. It at once travels out of the domain of provincial into that of Imperial considerations, and those of the very highest magnitude. No one is more keenly alive than the Viceroy to this new development of the question, and he clearly discerns that it is only by the united efforts and energetic co-operation of the English and Indian Foreign Offices that this dangerously complex state of matters can be finally brought to a satisfactory conclusion. The Indian Government are backed by ample military resources to enable them promptly and severely to punish the Ameer for his insulting attitude of disrespect, but the significant fact is fully recognised that the Ameer is but the puppet, while Russia stands behind as the deus ex machinâ. The measures, therefore, to be adopted in view of the Ameer's conduct cease to be a question of Indian policy, but are at once resolved into a serious problem of English foreign politics, which can only be dealt with in strict accordance with the settled principles of the English Cabinet. Meanwhile, the immediate object of the Viceroy is to endeavour to make it clearly understood that we have no cause of quarrel with the Afghan people, and to endeavour to win over and secure all the border tribes. The Khyberries have on the present occasion behaved well, and have shown every disposition to remain friendly.

The Daily News' Special Correspondent at Simla telegraphs to the like effect with reference to the rejection of the British mission to Cabul; and in a subsequent telegram he states that the mission has been dissolved, and the Viceroy's emissary to Cabul has been recalled. The garrison of Quettah is to be reinforced by 3000 additional troops, and a mixed European and native force of 4000 men is to assemble immediately at Thull, at the entrance to the Khooram valley. A reserve force of 6000 will be formed at Sukkur early in November. The route by the Khooram valley is, the correspondent states, through an open country to Cabul, and a force might advance to within seventy miles of that town, entirely avoiding the Khyber Pass. The intention of this demonstration is not, the correspondent adds, an attack on Cabul, but to show the Ameer his helplessness. At the same time, by friendly treatment, an attempt will be made to conciliate the frontier tribes, who are weary of his oppression.

The Standard publishes a telegram from Bombay of Monday's date which says that a special meeting of the Viceroy's Council was held at Simla, and General Roberts, the commandant of the frontier forces, has started for Peshawur with secret orders. A large force is ordered to be in readiness on the frontier, where 12,000 men are already massed. The Indian newspapers (the telegram says) universally consider that the affront to the mission demands an apology or the occupation of Afghanistan. A war feeling is prevalent among the Europeans, trade is disturbed, and Government securities have fallen.

The Telegraph has a despatch from Simla, dated Tuesday, as follows:—Orders have been issued for the concentration of troops at the Thull entrance to the Kurrum Valley, and also at Quettah above the Bolan Pass. The Commissioner at Peshawur is engaged in negotiations which have for their object to detach the Khyberees from the Ameer; and the authorities are hopeful that the end will be attained, as the Khyberees, by their friendly bearing to the mission, have incurred the severe displeasure of Shere Ali. The mission itself is now broken up, and Sir Neville Chamberlain returns at once to Simla.

